Lamesa Man Turns Over in Ford Sedan

Roy Hockleman, a citizen of Lamesa, while enroute home from Tahoka Sunday afternoon, had the misfortune to turn his bran new Ford Sedan over just south of town, near the residence of Mrs. M. I. Ray.

Hockleman was alone when the accident occurred. Fortunately no serious damage was done. The driver stated that he was in the act of catching a letter which was flying about in the car, when the machine got out of his control.

Mrs. Eva Petty left yesterday for Washington, D. C., where she will visit her sister Mrs.
Utz.

Miss Meda Clayton went to Lubbock yesterday to visit her sister Mrs. Hussie.

Mrs. W. B. Edwards went to Temple yesterday for medical treatment.

M. L. Jamison, who holds a position as mechanic with How-ell's Garage, left the first of the week for Milam county, in search of a help-mate. The newly-weds will possible return to Tahoka about Sunday to make their future home.

Lubbock Banker Elected to Important Position

Col. O. L. Slaton, president of the Lubbock State Bank, at Lubbock, has been elected Director in the Agricultural Livestock Finance Corporation, which is being organized in Fort Worth at the present time for purpose of financing a relief to distressed farmers and stockmen throughout the Southwest. The corporation will have a capital stock of one million five hundred thousand dollars and a loaning capacity of many millions.—Lubbock Avalanche.

All patriotic persons in Lynn county should set aside two minutes from 12:00 noon to 12:02, Friday, Nov. 11th., in silent prayer in honor of the burial of an unknown soldier in Arlington National Cemetery. The nation
by proclamation of President Harding, in honor of all soldiers will stand in silent prayer for two minutes on this date.

Mrs. M. M. Herring and daughter, Miss Eloise, left yesterday for Roswell, N. M.,
where they will join Mr. Herring.

Mrs. S. D. Sanders returned Wednesday from Waco, where she had been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Shook.

Mrs. Alec Riddle Passed Critical Stage

Mrs. H. A. Riddle was brought from her home in Tahoka last Tuesday to the Lubbock Sanitarium. She was operated on Thursday and her condition was so alarming that her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Crouch and three sisters, Mrs. Nevil and Mrs. Luallin, of Tahoka, also a sister, Mrs. Fred McDaniel of Phoenix Arizona, were wired for who arrived Wednesday to be with her. Her condition is still critical, but was resting better at this writing.—Lubbock Avals-anche.

Mr. Crouch returned Monday from Lubbock and reported Mrs.
Riddle had passed the critical stage.

Unloaded Gun Proves Fatal at Southland

The unloaded shot gun proved fatal again Saturday evening, when two negro boys about 12 years, living at Southland, were playing with a shot gun, supposed to be unloaded, when it was discharged, the load striking the other in the knee. The wounded boy was brought to the Lubbock Sanitarium. It was thought best to amutate his limb
but the boy died on the operating table.—Lubbock Avalsanche.

FIRST DISTRICT COURT HELD IN HOCKLEY COUNTY

Monday morning, October 24th, at 9:00 o'clock, Sheriff Jim Stroud called the first term of District Court held in Hockley county. The county seat of Hockley county, after many fruitless attempts at naming the same, or at least a name that was acceptable to Uncle Same, has recently been christened "Leveland," a very appropriate name we think.

Judge W. R. Spencer, Court Stenographer Franklin D. Brown, District Attorney Gordon B. McGuire and District Clerk Geo. P. Smith, were present when Sheriff Stroud made the declaration. The first hard work, was to empannel the grand jury
This was soon completed and they entered upon their duties. After diligent search and inquiry, returned
"no indictments found," and were discharged by the court. It was not necessary to empanel a petit jury, as no cases have yet been filed in the new county.

About two dozen people were present at this session of the court. This number included the officers of the court, and a few visitors. The court house was the only hotel, available in the new county seat, and the officers of the court spent the night there,
and all report "a splendid night's rest." Mr. Bowers, the store-keeper furnished the good chuck, served in the good old western way.

Hunters Are Asked to Look for Tagged Ducks

Letters of warning have been sent to game wardens and sportsmen through the north and south, advising duck hunters to examine all fowls shot during the present season and report their findings to the Chief Game Warden of Saskatchewan, Canada. Five hundred ducks have been released at that place as an experiment and each has leg bands and a wind band on the right side, close to the body.

The letter is as follows: "Five hundred Saskatchewan ducks have been tagged for the purpose of ascertaining their migration routes to their winter homes.
Bands bear the notations:
"Manitoba Trading Co." and are numbered. Kindly report date bird is killed, variety and

Pause 2 Minutes and Pray on Nov. 11th

The American people are called upon by President Harding in a proclamation issued to offer a silent two-minute prayer at noon on Armistice Day, Nov. 11th, when the body of an unknown
American soldier killed in France will be laid to rest in Arlington National Cemetery.

The proclamation calls upon
"all devout and patriotic citi-

supplication for his divine mercy and for his blessings upon our beloved country."

Directions are contained in the proclamation for the half masting of the flag on all public buildings, all stations of the army, navy and marine corps
and on all American embassies, legations and consulates throughout the world from sunrise to sunset on Armistice Day, when it is the hope of the President that the whole nation shall join in honoring America's dead of gently and quickly soothes and heals.

 For this reason it has been a favorite household remedy for colds, coughs, bronchitis and especially for lung troubles in millions of homes all over the world for the last fifty-five years, enabling the patient to obtain a good night's rest, free from coughing, with easy expectation in the morning. You

DISTRIBUTION OF NATION'S INCOME

Shown by Figures Made Public by Bureau of Economic Research.

WEALTH INCREASE NOT REAL

Country's Income in 1918 Almost Double That of 1913, but Actual
 Total of Commodities Produced
 Was Not Great.

New York, Oct. 27.—The total national income of the United States in 1918 was 61 billion dollars, as compared with 34.4 billions in 1913; but this increase in dollars does not represent a like increase in production. Most of it was due to the rise in prices, for the dollar of 1918 and 1919 was a much less efficient dollar than that of 1913. The actual total of commodities produced increased very little, if at all, and a large part of those which were produced were war materials, not of a kind really benefiting consumers.

Consequently, individual incomes, estimated on a per capita basis, rising from $349 in 1910 and $534 in 1913, to $586 in 1918, represent more dollars but little or no real increase, because the $586 of 1918 is equivalent to only $372 in terms of the purchasing power of 1913.

These are the most important findings of the National Bureau of Economic Research, made public today in advance of the formal publication of the results of a year's study of "Income in the United States." This study, the most exhaustive ever made of the income question in this country, has been conducted by Wesley Clair Mitchell, Wilford I. King, Frederick R. Macaulay and Oswald W. Kneuth, under the auspices and direction of a board of nineteen directors, including men prominent in many fields of business, education, labor, agriculture, economics and practical statistics, and representing many divergent points of view.

This table exhibits the main findings, including the equivalent value of per capita income in terms of the 1913 purchasing power:

Year	Total National Income (Billions)	Per Capita Income (Dollars)	Per Capita Income in 1913 Dollars
1909	28.8	319	321
1910	31.4	349	353
1911	31.2	333	338
1912	33.0	346	354
1913	34.4	354	354
1914	33.2	326	327
1915	36.9	378	376
1916	45.4	446	449
1917	52.9	523	525
1918	61.0	586	372

Distribution of Income.
 The report says that only one out of a hundred (1 per cent) income receivers in the United States in 1918 had incomes of $8,000 or more, and that this one per cent had 14 per cent of the national income. Five per cent, representing incomes above $3,200, had 26 per cent of the total. Ten per cent, including income above $2,300, had nearly 35 per cent of the total; the most prosperous 20 per cent, including income above $1,750, had about 47 per cent. Eighty per cent of the income receivers had incomes below $1,750, receiving about 53 per cent of the total income.

Shares of Labor and Capital.
 In most of the years since 1912, the bureau finds that in the principal organized industries, wages and salaries were about 70 per cent of the total income; while capital (including management) received about 30 per cent, out of which were paid rent, interest and profits; but these proportions varied materially with relative prosperity and depression. In 1916, for example, the share of capital increased to about 35 per cent, with 65 per cent to labor, while in 1919 capital's share fell to about 22 per cent, while labor got about 78. Of the total payments to employees in the highly organized industries, about 92 per cent goes to the manual workers and clerical staffs, while 8 per cent goes to officials.

Share of the Farmer.
 The farmers, who during the past decade have made up about 16 per cent of the total of gainfully employed, had from 12 to 13 per cent of the national income in the years between 1910 and 1916 inclusive; since 1917 they have been receiving 16 to 17 per cent, or a somewhat higher proportion, as the following figures from the report show:

Year	Per Cent
1910	12.5
1911	11.9
1912	12.3
1913	12.6
1914	12.9
1915	12.8
1916	12.8
1917	16.2
1918	17.0
1919	16.5

Sources of Production.
 As for the sources of national income, the bureau finds, taking a general average since 1910, that agriculture contributes about 17 per cent of the total, manufacturing about 30 per cent, transportation about 9 per cent, government about 5 per cent, mining a little more than 3 per cent, banking a little over 1 per cent. The many miscellaneous employments, professional men, retailers, jobbers, merchants, domestics, etc., too numerous to list specifically, contribute 33 per cent. In other words, our highly organized industries, even if we include all manufacturing, mining, transportation, banking, and government activities such as education and road-building, produce only about half of the national income. The rest is due to the efforts of small independent workers. Income Tax Discrepancies.

The report estimates that the number of persons in 1918 having incomes over $2,000, was 5,300,000, and that their total income was over $2 billion dollars. Income tax returns, however, showed only 2,988,000 persons having over $2,000, and their total reported income was less than 14 billion dollars. This discrepancy is due in part to technical evasions and straight legal withholdings, but also in part to the existence of tax-exempt income. What this means in terms of the income tax is that the government received in 1918 about half a billion dollars less than it would have, if all persons receiving $2,000 had paid their full amount.

Contribution of Housewives.
 The contribution of the 20,000,000 American housewives is not included by the bureau in the national income because they are not paid in money. But the report points out that if they were paid at the lowest possible figure (the average recompense of personal and domestic service) their addition to the total national income would be about one-third, or 18 billions. On that basis, the bureau gives the following conjectural figure as to the fluctuation of the housewife's contribution to the national income since 1909:

Year	Individual Contribution (in Dollars)	Total Contribution (in Billions of Dollars)
1909	450	9.0
1910	500	9.9
1911	540	10.8
1912	525	10.5
1913	535	10.7
1914	525	10.5
1915	550	11.0
1916	600	12.0
1917	650	13.0
1918	700	14.0
1919	800	16.0

Income in Other Countries.
 Both the total national income and the per capita income are larger in the United States than in any other country. The report estimates this as the relative standing of the four countries named at the outbreak of the war:

Country	Total Income (Billions of Dollars)	Per Capita Income (Dollars)
United States	61.0	586
United Kingdom	30.9	242
Germany	36.5	146
Austria	13	262

The report is in press, and will be published early in November.

How the Bureau is Constituted.
 The National Bureau of Economic Research was organized after the war by a group of persons who had come to realize the need for accurate and scientific collation of statistical information as a basis for intelligent solution of national problems. The directors of the bureau are T. S. Adams, advisor to the Treasury department; John R. Commons, of the University of Wisconsin; John P. Frey, editor of the International Molders' Journal; Edwin F. Gay, president of the New York Evening Post; Harry W. Laidler, secretary of the Intercollegiate Socialist society; Elwood Mend, professor of rural institutions, University of California; Wesley Clair Mitchell, New School for Social Research; J. E. Sterrett, of the firm of Price, Waterhouse and company, accountants; N. I. Stone, labor manager, Hickey-Freeman company; Allyn A. Young, professor of economics, Harvard university; also, the following appointed by the organizations named: F. P. Fish, of the National Industrial Conference board; Hugh Frayne, American Federation of Labor; David Friday, American Economic association; W. R. Ingalis, Engineering council; J. M. Larkin, Industrial Relations Association of America; George E. Roberts, American Bankers' association; Malcolm C. Rorty, American Statistical association; A. W. Shaw, Periodical Publishers' association; and Gray Silver, American Federation of Farm Bureau.

It is a rule of the bureau that each director must approve the findings of the research staff, or state his specific objections as part of the report. In this way, bias is eliminated, for methods and results are under constant supervision from men whose points of view are dissimilar.

SET TOPICS FOR DISCUSSION

Argentina Will Have Prominent Part in Coming Meeting of International Law Association.

Buenos Aires.—The Argentine branch of the International Law Association has prepared, at the request of the executive committee in London, a program for discussion at the conference of the association to be held in Buenos Aires in 1922.

The topics to be taken up and decided include:
 Inviolability of mails on land and sea in wartime; international organization of labor in sea and river navigation; international law on freight contracts; regulations for the use of submarines during war; rules for the recognition of a "de facto" government by foreign states, and international responsibility of the state for damages that may be suffered by foreigners during the progress of civil wars.

Williams Press Congress President.
 Honolulu, Hawaii Islands.—Walter Williams, University of Missouri School of Journalism was re-elected president of the Press Congress of the World by acclamation. The congress passed a resolution petitioning President Harding to admit representatives of the press to the disarmament conference deliberations.

LESSON FOR NOVEMBER 13
 PAUL BEFORE THE ROMAN GOVERNOR.

LESSON TEXT—Acts 24:1-27.
GOLDEN TEXT—Herein do I exercise myself, to have always a conscience void of offense toward God and man.—Acts 24:16.
REFERENCE MATERIAL—Luke 12:11-12.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Why Paul Was Not Ateist.
JUNIOR TOPIC—The Secret of Paul's Courage.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Defense Before a Roman Governor.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Paul's Defense Before Felix.

I. Paul Accused (vv. 1-9)
 Tertullus, perhaps a Roman barrister, formally made the accusation according to Roman law. He began with flattery. He gave Felix the fullest praise when he had all the people knew that he lied; for Felix was one of the worst governors—destitute of morals and justice. He brought a four-fold charge against Paul:
 1. "A pestilent fellow" (v. 5). This would indicate a fellow utterly base and corrupt—a plague.
 2. An inciter of rebellion, a mover of sedition (v. 5). This they hoped would bring him into conflict with the Roman power.
 3. That he was the ringleader of a sect—a schismatical party—a heretic (v. 5).
 4. That he had profaned the temple (v. 6).

II. Paul's Defense (vv. 10-21).
 In this defense note:
 1. Paul's frankness and courtesy (v. 10). Flattery is entirely wanting. He gives recognition of the fact that Felix had been ruler of this people long enough to be able to judge justly, as the habits and ways of the Jews were familiar to him; and then, in a dignified manner, assumes that Felix will render a just decision based upon the facts of the case.
 2. The charge of sedition denied (vv. 11, 12). He flatly and scornfully denied this charge, showing its utter falsity, since the time was too short, being but twelve days since he went to Jerusalem, and half of that time had been spent as a prisoner of the Romans. His conduct while there disproved it—he disputed with no man in the temple; neither did he make any attempt to incite the people in the city nor in the synagogue.
 3. The charge of heresy (vv. 14-16). This charge he met by a concession and a denial. He admitted that he was of the "Way" which they called heresy, but clearly showed that it was in keeping with the Hebrew religion; (1) he worshipped the same God (v. 14); (2) he fully believed in the same Scriptures (v. 14); (3) he had the same hope of a coming resurrection of the dead (v. 15). He declared that he made as the principle of life a conscience void of offense before God and man.

4. The charge of sacrilege, or profanation of the temple (vv. 17-21). This charge he refuted by showing (1) that he had come all the way from Greece (v. 17) to worship at the feast; (2) that he had not come up empty-handed, but had brought alms for his nation (v. 17); (3) that there were not competent witnesses present to testify as to his behavior in the temple (v. 19); by challenging his enemies to testify as to his conduct in the council (v. 20).

III. Paul Before Felix the Second Time (vv. 22-27).
 This is a sort of a sequel to the trial. Wicked as Felix was, Paul's manner somewhat won his favor, though he did not release him. His sentence was indefinite imprisonment, which kept him free from his enemies while under Roman protection. Felix sent for Paul that he might hear of Christ from him. Paul behaved himself aright before these sinners in high life. He reasoned of righteousness, self-control and judgment to come, before Felix and his sinful wife, with such power that Felix was terrified and declared that he would hear Paul further at a convenient time. This was a most flimsy excuse for not changing his life and granting justice to Paul. He was so in bondage to sin that he was unwilling to change. Also he hoped that by delaying matters he would receive a bribe.

The Lord Changelth Not.
 And I will come near to you to judgment; I will be a swift witness against false swearers, and against those that oppress the hireling in his wages, the widow and the fatherless, and that turn aside the stranger from his right, and fear not me, saith the Lord of Hosts. For I am the Lord; I change not.—Malachi 3:5, 6.

Worship.
 A main purpose of worship on earth on the part of Christians, who believe that they have to prepare for the sight of God in judgment, is that it is a preparation. Worship is an education for the inevitable future.—H. P. Liddon.

Who Shall Enter.
 Not every one that saith unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven; but he that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven.—Matthew 8:21.

Why should you follow a crooked path?

Often a cowpath has been allowed to become a village street, and as the village expanded, tradition has made the winding way an expression of a cow's will.
 Habit is always forging chains to enslave us, so that what has been found bearable by the fathers is accepted by the sons.
 Who cannot recall the coffee-pot Mother put on the stove early in the morning, warning us not to let it boil over?
 As children, we were not permitted to drink tea or coffee, because it would stunt our growth or make us nervous and irritable. When older, however, we craved a hot drink with meals, and custom gave us our tea or coffee.
 Finally upon the instructions of the doctor, Mother gave up her tea and coffee. But that meant nothing in our young lives. Our vitality was then strong enough to throw off any ill effects.
 But our time came, and we learned by experience that we could not drink tea or coffee. When we had it for breakfast it put our nerves on edge. When we drank it at the evening meal, we tossed about in wakefulness most of the night.
 And then we found Postum, a pure cereal beverage, free from the harmful drug, caffeine, tea and coffee. We liked the rich, satisfying flavor of Postum—and also the better health which resulted. And, too, we were surprised to find how many of our neighbors had made the same discovery—had learned the value of "health first."
 Postum comes in two forms: Instant Postum (in the Postum Cereal (in packages) of larger bulk, for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared, made by boiling for 20 minutes. Sold by all grocers.

Magnum looked more ill at an usual.

"You think of rowing the whole and the dingy chunk of rock?"

"I tried."

"I'm not," said Mr. Shaw in an impatient tone. "So the addition to his other unattractive qualities, was turning into a Hitherto, with his strength"

erish, if intermittent, energy, an almost unvarying skill with the had been of value. "Certainly not. We are going to make a survey of the cliffs, and ex-

every likely opening as thor-

as possible. It will be slow and hard. As to circumnavigating the island, I see no point in it. I don't believe the chest can have been carried any great distance from the island."

"I closed my eyes and tried to steady myself. I thought, 'I am seeing things. This is the mere projection of the vision which has been in my mind so long.'"

"I opened my eyes, and lo, the fantasy, if fantasy it were, remained. I smote with my fist upon the stone. The stone was solid—it bruised the flesh. And as I saw the blood run, I screamed aloud like a madman, 'It's real, real, real!'"

"Under the stone lay the guardian of the treasure of the Bonny Lass—And his secret was within my grasp."

"I don't know how long I crouched beside the stone, as drunk with joy as any bush-cropper with his drug. I roused at last to find Benjy at my shoulder, thrusting his cool nose against my feverish cheek. I suppose he didn't understand my ignorance, or thought I scorned him for losing out in his race with the pig. Yet when I think of what I owe that pig I could swear never to taste pork again."

"Brought back to earth and sanity, I rose and began to consider my surroundings. Somewhere close at hand was the mouth of the cave—but where? The cliffs, as I have already said, were too steep for descent. Nothing but a fly could have crawled down them. I turned to the craggy face of the mountain. There, surely, must be the entrance to the cave! For hours I clambered among the rocks, risking mangled limbs and sunstroke—and found no cave. I came back at last, wearily, to the grave. There lay the dust of the brain that had known all—and a wild impulse came to me to tear away the earth with my bare hands, to dig deep, deep—and then with listening ear wait for a whispered word."

"I put the delirious fancy from me and moved away to the edge of the cliffs. Looking down, I saw a narrow sloping shelf which dropped from the brink to a distance of ten or twelve feet below, where it met a slight projection of the rock. I had seen it before, of course, but it had carried no significance for my mind. Now I stepped down upon the ledge and followed it to its end in the angle of the rock."

"Snuggly hidden in the angle was a low doorway leading into blackness."

"Now, of course I ought in prudence to have gone back to the hut and got matches and a lantern and a rope before I set foot in the darkness of that unknown place. But what had I to do today with prudence—Fortune had me by the hand! In I went boldly, Benjy at my heels. The passage turned sharply, and for a little way we walked in blackness. Then it veered again, and a faint and far-off light seemed to filter its way to us through a web woven of the very stuff of night. The floor sloped a little downward. I felt my way with my feet, and came to a step—another. I was going along a descending passage, cut at its steepest into rough, irregular stairs. With either hand I could touch the walls. All the while the light grew clearer. Presently, by another sharp turn, I found myself in a cave, some thirty feet in depth by eighteen across, with an opening on the narrow strip of beach I had seen from the top of the cliffs.

"The roof is high, with an effect of Gothic arches. Near the mouth is a tiny spring of ice-cold water, which has worn a clean rock channel for itself to the sea. Otherwise the cave is perfectly dry. There is no doubt in my mind that in the great burgeoning days of the Seventeenth century, and probably much later, the place was the haunt of pirates. One fancy that Captain Sampson of the Bonny Lass may have known of it before he brought the treasure to the island. There were queer folk to be met with in those days in the western ocean. Yes, the cave has seen many a fierce, sea-tanned face and tarry pigtail, and echoed to strange oaths and wild sea-songs. Men had carved those steps in the passage—thirty-two of them. In the sand of the floor, as I kicked it up with my feet, hoping rather childishly to strike the corner of the chest, I found the hilt and part of the blade of a rusty cut-throat, and a chased silver shoe-buckle. I shall take the buckle home to Helen—and yet how trivial it will seem, with all else that I have to offer her! Nevertheless, she will prize it as my gift, and because it comes from the place to which some kind angel led me for her sake."

"I left the cave and hurried back to the cabin for a spade, walking on air, breaking with snatches of song the terrible stillness of the woods, where one hears only the high fiftful sighing of the wind, or the eternal mutter of the sea."

"Back in the cave, I set to work feverishly, making the light sand fly. At the end of half an hour, at a point close to the angle of the wall my spade struck a hard surface. It lay I should judge, under about two feet of sand. Soon I had laid bare a patch of dark wood which rang under my knuckles almost like iron. A little more, and I had cleared away the sand from the top of a large chest with a convex lid, heavily bound in brass."

"Furiously I flung the sand aside until the chest stood free for half its depth—which is roughly three feet. It has handles at the ends, great hand-wrought loops of metal. I tugged my hardest, but the chest seemed fast in its place as the native rock. I laughed exultantly. The weight meant gold—gold! I had hammer and chisel with me, and with these I forced the massive ancient locks. There were three of them, one for each strip of brass which bound the chest. Then I flung up the lid.

"No glittering treasure dazzled me. I saw only a surface of stained canvas, tucked in carefully around the edges. This I tore off and flung aside—eclipsing poor Benjy, who was a most interested spectator of my strange proceedings. Still no gleam of gold, merely denure rows of plump brown bags. With both hands I reached for them. Oh, to grasp their all! I had to be content with two, because they were so heavy, so blessedly heavy!"

"I spread the square of canvas on the sand, cut the strings from the bags and poured out—gold, gold! All fair shining golden coins they were, not a paltry silver piece among them! And they made a soft golden music as they fell in a glorious yellow heap."

"I don't know how long I sat there, playing with my gold, running it through my fingers, clicking the coins together in my palm. Benjy came and sniffed at them indifferently, unable to understand his master's preoccupation. He thrust his nose into my face and barked, and said as clearly as with words, 'Come, hunt pig!'"

"Benjy, I said, 'we'll leave the pork alone just now. We have work enough to count our money. We're rich, old boy, rich, rich!'"

"Of course, I don't yet know exactly what the value of the treasure is. I have counted the bags in the chest; there are one hundred and forty-eight. Each, so far as I have determined, contains one thousand doubloons, which makes a total of one hundred and forty-eight thousand. Estimating each coin, for the sake of even figures, at a value of seven dollars—a safe minimum—you get one million, thirty-six thousand dollars. And as many of the coins are ancient I ought to reap a harvest from collectors."

"Besides the coin, I found, rather surprisingly, laid between the upper layers of bags, a silver crucifix about nine inches long. It is of very quaint old workmanship, and badly tarnished. Its money value must be very trifling, compared to the same bulk of golden coins. I think it must have had some special character of sacredness which led to its preservation here. It is strange to find such a relic among a treasure so stained by blood and crime."

Pretty Things that are made at Home

Make Good Christmas Gifts.

EVERY-ONE loves a comfortable and pretty sofa pillow, and the shops are showing them in many attractive shapes and colors. The styles change in them, as in other things, and it is worth while to note those that are popular just now, because they are the pillows that will be used for holiday gifts, and many a pillow will be made between now and Christmas.

In shapes, the round pillow leads in popularity, followed by the square pillow and the roll pillow. There are some oval models and an occasional odd shape, like the small triangular pillow shown in the picture. Taffeta is the favored material for coverings, both in plain and changeable weaves. Brocade silk, in which a metallic glint appears, on a silk ground, is used for the sides of round and oblong pillows, having a puff of velvet, matching the silk in color, around the edges. Rose and gold brocade with rose velvet, and black and gold, with black velvet, make the handsomest of these pillows, but other colors are used.

Black satin is substituted for satin in square pillows, bound with black and gold, flat braid and decorated with applique flowers, cut from gay colored velvets. The flowers are outlined with small black and gold cord. In the small pillow pictured pine needles are used for stuffing, and yarn flowers, in bright colors, for decoration.

Corded taffeta is the favorite pillow covering and the cords are inserted in varied ways. The taffeta is gathered at the center of the pillow and a big, flat silk-covered button mold conceals the gathering, on round and square pillows. A round pillow, as pictured, is covered with plain blue taffeta, and a huge daisy, made of blue taffeta and having its petals lined with yellow taffeta is posed on it.

There are, of course, dainty bed-cord pillows with slips made of fine cotton fabrics and trimmed with embroidery and wash lines. These pillows are small and are covered with silk.

DIGNIFIED MILLINERY WITH DEFINITE LINES

Hats With Definite Lines.

IT IS hard to generalize about hats, since they are so endlessly varied. It appears that designers have aspirations that no two of their brain-children shall be alike; but they have no objection to certain family resemblances in them. In the group of four hats illustrated, we discover models that good taste and propriety dictate may be worn by matrons—older women, who have passed by the era of romantic millinery and reached that of brilliant and spirited head-wear. The hats pictured are both brilliant and spirited, yet they are all in black or quiet shades of color.

A little study of these models reveals that they have definite lines, which the mode sponsors, along with a much more numerous family of hats that are vague and soft in outline. These are becoming to nearly everyone, but not always the best choice for the matron, who finds more vivacity in shapes like the tricorne or Napoleon, or in the several styles in turbans. The Russian turban, at the top of the group, is brimming over with style, and is a special dispensation of this season for the benefit of matronly wearers. It is made of black velvet, and has a brilliant rhinestone ornament dangling from its pointed front. Glycerined ostrich flues spring up about the brim edge and droop over it. There seems to be no room for improvement in this design. Silver cloth and metallic silks have an unassailable prestige in the season's modes and silver tissue drapes the square crown of the hat at the left. The brim of black velvet shows itself clever enough for such fine company by being gracefully uneven in width and notched at the front. A spray of ostrich flues springs from the right side.

A very new turban of sand colored duvetyl has jet sequins set above its brim and contrives a crown that suggests the youthful lam. A wreath of monkey fur redeems this bit of frivolity. The black hat at the bottom of the group, caught by virtue of its name, to lead the rest, it is a Napoleon shape, covered with velvet and decorated with beads. These beads are of wood, as large as small peas, and are put on in loops. The trimming is wrapped by ornaments at each side.

MAN OF DAUNTLESS SPIRIT

Captain Arthur Phillip, First Governor of New South Wales, Made Light of Difficulties.

History teems with records of great enterprises carried through with courage and strong purpose. The early settlement of Australia provides a good example of this. Capt. Arthur Phillip, the first governor of New South Wales, unobtrusively set sail from the Isle of Wight, on a May morning in 1787, with 11 ships, mostly ill-equipped, and so started, inauspiciously, on his 12,000 miles voyage to the Antipodes.

It was not until eight months later, that is on January 26, 1788, that the expedition landed at Sydney cove, situated inside the world famous Sydney Harbor. The anniversary of this historic landing is punctiliously observed throughout the commonwealth as a public holiday.

Captain Phillip, with every conceivable difficulty to face, including unsuitable settlers, great shortage of food and every kind of equipment, yet weathered the storm. His every report home was couched in a cheery spirit. Most of the seed wheat and other grain had unfortunately become spoiled on the voyage out and things were looking bad. Anticipations of help were centered on the impending arrival of the relief ship which was due early in 1790, but the vessel struck an iceberg near the cape, and the cargo had to go overboard to save the ship, which was then compelled to return to port. This even necessitated the strict rationing of the settlers. In writing home, the governor referred to his desperate situation as "these little difficulties which we have encountered."

HAS TO LEARN HIS DUTIES

West African Monarch Is Not Born to Throne, as Are His More Fortunate Brothers.

If anyone wishes to see a real-for-sure king in this world, which is swiftly coming to democracy, perhaps the best place to go is the interior of the African west coast. For there, in the bush, dusky royalty is seen, at its most interesting best, writes Temple Manning in the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Each community of huts is ruled by a chief. This chief has powers which sometimes extend to life and death without the need of a court or a judge. In his own little village he is supreme. His lightest look, as well as his least word, is law.

These chiefs, for there is one for every village, have a chief over them. This paramount chief is king. He rules not only his own village, but the villages of all the chiefs in his particular tribe. When a paramount chief dies, the lesser chiefs begin to talk about electing a new paramount chief. But in west Africa it is one thing to talk and another thing to act. At last, however, a paramount chief is chosen. He is sent into the bush to prepare for his high calling. Sometimes months are consumed in this preparation. The lesser chiefs visit the future king and instruct him in his duties, and "teach him sense." As the future ruler is not yet king, his person is not sacred. So, if the future chief is slow in learning, the lesser chiefs thrash him, just as you might spank a backward schoolboy. It's painful learning to be a king in west Africa.

On a day appointed, the king is brought out of the bush and is introduced to his subjects. The plains are literally black with people. Not a sound is heard. They look upon their king in absolute silence.

One of the lesser chiefs, wearing a miter and waving a rod, walks up and down before the king, blessing the various villages in the realm. Then the king steps forward and bows, and the silence is rent by wild yells of fealty.

The remaining ceremonies are those of dancing and of rejoicing. The king usually is so tired he falls asleep while his subjects do him honor. You may be sure he is glad it's all over. For now no one may touch him under penalty of death and he is the favored king of all the land.

GERMAN WAR PLOT

Plan to Wreck Machinery in Chilean Nitrate Fields.

Had the Scheme Succeeded the Great War Might Have Had a Vastly Different Ending.

War depends upon explosive ammunition. Explosive ammunition depends absolutely upon nitric acid, and the huge supply of nitric acid which is necessary comes almost entirely from the nitrate fields of Chile. The sodium nitrate of the Chilean pampas makes it possible for the guns of the world to speak.

The most colossal war in the world's history depended upon a little strip of desert in northern Chile, writes Willard Price in the Christian Herald. Germany well understood this fact. For years before the war she purchased annually 42 per cent of Chile's total production of nitrate. This enormous quantity was bought ostensibly to be used as fertilizer, and, in fact, much of it was so used. But also much of it was systematically stored away for the manufacture of ammunition; so that, when the cloudburst came, Germany had on hand a vast supply of explosives and of nitrates from which explosives could be made.

With the beginning of war she was, of course, promptly cut off from communication with Chile. Since it was impossible for her to get more Chilean nitrate, she would make it also impossible for the allies to get it. The outcome of this reasoning was a plot, the story of which never got to most North Americans, but which I found to be widely known in South America. But for the telltale wagging of a drunken man's tongue, the war might have come to a conclusion of a sort far more pleasing to the Kaiser.

One day in February of 1917 a Chilean miner came down from the nitrate pampas to the coast town of Antofagasta. He had money. He visited a cantina and in time became drunkenly garrulous. His babblings made his listeners sit up sharply and exchange glances, and later report to the authorities.

An investigation followed and a stupendous German plot was revealed, having for its object nothing less than the destruction of the machinery in all the nitrate oficinas of Chile.

The plot was to be consummated on February 26 (the same date as that set for the attempt, which proved futile, to steal the Peruvian submarines). Charges well placed under boilers and at other vulnerable points would have wrecked machinery that it would have taken at least a year and a half to replace.

Of course, guards were immediately detailed and the plan was abandoned. But if the plot had succeeded—what then? In a few months the existing supply of nitrate in the hands of the allies would have been exhausted. The manufacture of ammunition, except in Germany, would have stopped.

Women on Juries Old Stuff.

While considerable ink is flowing relative to women serving as jurors, the theme is rather old in Chester, Pa. It has been proved that this city had the first jury of women empaneled in this country, and that was in 1689.

The history of the Carter family, one of the early settlers of Pennsylvania, has the following to say about the public service of one of its members:

"Mary Carter was one of a jury of women empaneled in Chester in 1689 to examine a female convict and report whether she should endure the punishment the court had ordered."

The appointment of this jury was made in conformance with a rule laid down by William Penn who, with his prejudice against capital punishment and undue penal servitude, gave his erring subjects much opportunity to escape the fruits of their misdeeds.

Two hundred and thirty-one years after Mary Carter served on a jury other Chester women's names have been placed in the jury wheel for service at the next term of court.

Good Record for Colleges.

Thirty-six per cent of the members of congress, 55 per cent of the Presidents of the United States, and 54 per cent of the vice Presidents have been college graduates, according to an announcement made by Dr. G. Borst, dean of education of the Valparaiso (Ind.) university.

Doctor Borst also made the statement that there is only 1 per cent of college graduates in our male population of graduate age.

"Nearly 55 per cent of all cabinet members, 69 per cent of the justices of the supreme court and 85 per cent of the chief justices have also been furnished from this 1 per cent," said Doctor Borst.

Chorus Girls' Wages.

The wages of chorus girls in New York range as high as $100 a week, according to their good looks. The average pay, however, is nearer $25 a week. The minimum wage for chorus girls in England, as fixed by the Actors' association, is $15 a week, although in a few cases, as high as $25 is given.

Situation Wanted.

"Mamma, what did you say papa did all day?" "Why, he samples coffee, dear—that is, tastes it." A pause. "Mamma, do they ever hire ice cream samplers?"—Chicago Tribune.

HARD TO EXPLAIN

Happenings in Life Stranger Than Fiction.

Odd Coincidences of Wrecks, and in the Careers of the Ex-Kaiser and Emperor Napoleon.

Coincidences in life are stranger than anything in fiction.

There used to be two steamers called the Remus and the Remus. A few years back the former was lost in the English channel. Within three weeks the Remus was wrecked a thousand miles away from the scene of her sister ship's disaster.

Many reliable authorities regard the following as the most amazing coincidence on record, says London Answers. More than 200 years ago, Dec. 5, 1664, a boat crossing the Menai straits with eighty-one passengers encountered a terrific gale and foundered. The only man to escape death was a Hugh Williams.

More than 100 years later, Dec. 5, 1780, another vessel, with a large number of passengers, sank in the same circumstances, and in the same spot. All the passengers were drowned except one. His name was Hugh Williams.

Again, Dec. 5, 1820, a boat carrying thirty people, sank in the same spot. The sole survivor was a Hugh Williams.

The figure 9 has a peculiar connection with the career of the ex-kaiser. He was born in the fifty-ninth year of the century, entered the army in 1839, and completed his university career in 1879. The dates of his birth and marriage—Jan. 27 and Feb. 27—both make nine, if two and seven are added together. And the same number figures in his defeat and exile. That occurred in 1918, which contains one figure "9" and two figures that added together make "9." Also, he was 59 years old when his career as ruler ended.

It has often been pointed out that the letter M, for better or worse, dogged the footsteps both of Napoleon the Great and Napoleon the Little. In the case of Napoleon I, it was Marboeuf who first recognized his genius at the military college, Marengo was his first great victory, Mortier was his best general, Moreau betrayed him, Murat died for him, Marie Louise shared his fortunes, Moscow marked the turn in those fortunes, Metternich beat him in diplomacy.

His first battle was Montenotte, his last Mont St. Jean. He stormed Montmartre, took Milano; Marmont deserted him. His right-hand man was Montesquieu, his last resting place in France, Malmaison. He surrendered to Captain Maitland, and his companions at St. Helena were Montholon and Marchand. His marshals were Massena, Mortier, Marmont, Macdonald, Murat and Moutcy, and no fewer than twenty-six of his generals had names beginning with M.

Napoleon III, married the countess of Montijo, and his most intimate friend was Morny, and his tutor Morelthe of Montelimar. His greatest military successes were the capture of the Malakoff and the Mauseion tower. His biggest battle was Montebello, and MacMahon won Magenta for him.

PLEA FOR EAGLES SAVED BY REPTILES

Trapper Denounces the Bounty Placed on Birds.

Incidentally He Criticizes the Present Tendency of Extirpation of Wild Creatures of Our Country.

Next to the American Indian, the most practical naturalist in the world is the modern packer. He lets nothing get away. After the packer we should place the prospector, hunter or trapper who makes his living among wild creatures and is obliged to know their habits. It chanced that there is just in hand a rugged and outspoken letter from one of these latter practical naturalists who never took a decalogue except in the school of out of doors, says a writer in the Saturday Evening Post. He writes from the heart of Alaska, far down the Yukon river, and makes outspoken comment on the present tendency to the extirpation of wild species by means of bounties and the like.

In his blunt speech he says that as for killing eagles at 50 cents a head he is of the belief it would be better to put the bounty on the men who made the law. This practical naturalist has counted the thirty-six dead caribou calves on his early spring bed grounds near his home. He works where thousands of caribou calves are born each spring, lives among them and watches them die. He says there were plenty of eagles about, but that he never saw them eat anything but the calves they found already dead. He says they may kill some weak calves or those about to die, but so far as he has learned in his travels in Alaska and Yukon territory he has never seen any harm the eagle has done, although he has lived in that region for twenty-five years and is familiar with it from the Mackenzie to the Bering sea and from the Arctic ocean to Lynn canal.

"I am not a salmon or roadhouse prospector," he says, "but am in the hills 330 days out of the 365. I am not a naturalist and have not much education, but if I couldn't make better conservation laws than some we have, I wouldn't quit. I would like to have some of our lawmakers out in the hills for a while and show them that since the killing off of the eagles there is nothing left to do the scavenger work. There is just as much sense in killing the scavengers in the cities."

There are getting to be a good many men in this country who are weary of the sweeping and ghastly results of hysteria and who begin to hope for some horse sense upstairs—a good many who would like to see this country left alone for a while the way Almighty Providence constructed it.

Mark Twain's Elephant.
Most of us receive white elephants at Christmas, minus trunks and tails, but Mark Twain, the American humorist, actually received an elephant one Yuletide. Just before the festive season a great friend wrote and told him if he was willing to accept an elephant as a token of his regard, it would arrive in due course. Whether Mark looked upon the whole thing as a joke or not one cannot say, but he answered the letter by return mail, thanking his friend for the offer, and agreeing to accept the animal. First, a huge supply of hay was delivered, then an elephant trainer was announced to inspect the premises, to see that there was proper accommodation for the beast, and finally, the animal itself appeared upon the scene. It was a very fine specimen, and, to the casual observer, it might have come straight from India. However, on its new master closely inspecting it, he found his Christmas present was most beautifully modeled of cardboard. An amusing practical joke, but somewhat expensive.

New Airplane.
Builders of the "bat-wing" airplane have designed the new craft to overcome the resistance of struts, wires and fuselage that in the usual type of machine consumes almost three quarters of the engine power. The new design, says Popular Mechanics Magazine, is a great double cambered airfoil that terminates at right and left in the conventional ailerons and that tapers in the rear to a tail that has the usual elevator and rudder. The aerofoil measures 100 feet from tip to tip and swells in the front to a thickness of seven feet. In that bulge is a cabin 30 feet long, eight feet wide and six feet in height. The new plane is an internally trussed cantilever structure covered with wood veneer so tough that the wing surfaces can be walked upon.

Faulty Diet.
In an investigation of 227 diets supposed to be typically American, Prof. H. C. Sherman of Columbia university has found that only one was deficient in protein, while 37 were lacking in calcium. If each of the low-energy diets was increased to 3,000 calories, none would lack protein, but seven per cent would still have too little calcium. The needed calcium carbonate or phosphate can best be supplied by foods rich in lime. Of these milk has the advantage of increasing the high-grade proteins and providing the essential fat-soluble vitamins.

...PED TO CREATE NATION

...of the Pony Express and the Overland Stage Deserve Place on History's Page
...here recently died in Los Angeles, the rabbin Gooding, reputed to be the last of the famous pony express riders.
...The present generation knows little about those pioneer times and the wonderful way news was carried across the continent during the ten years immediately prior to the building of the Union and Southern Pacific railroads which met at Promontory Point, Utah, in 1869. Mail and newspapers were carried from a month to fifty days to the continent prior to the establishment of the pony express, which began its service April 16, 1859, reducing the time to ten days. Relay stations with change of mounts were established at short distances, depending on the topography of the country and each rider would ride at top speed from one to the other, changing in a trice and go on. Human endurance was pressed to the limit.
...An illustration of the speed made the last message of President Buchanan to congress, in December, 1860, carried to San Francisco in eight days and two hours. In 1863 the transcontinental telegraph line was completed and all news thereafter went by except such as the papers on the coast clipped from eastern papers arrived by mail. When the railroads were completed both the pony express and the later overland stage were discarded, remaining, however, on short tributary routes for a number of years, some for many miles.
...There are many tales told of the courage and nerve of those hardy stage drivers of the stages, some as they did, fearlessly through the Indian country and not infrequently suffering death at the hands of the savages, in spite of the efforts of the government to give them military protection. These are of the character of tales which mark the progress of American civilization, from Plymouth Rock to Seal Rocks, in the wilderness and creating a nation.

Overheard at the Movies.

...wife had a severe headache, was sadly in need of quiet, so she said he would take their daughter to the movies, and for her to retire early.
...was all one to him, as he had not the first theater in their path, an unfortunate selection, for it was one of the sex-problem plays, the characters unconvincing and the dialogue with good grounds for disapproval because of incompatibility.

Provincialism.

"What kind of a place is this, anyhow?" said the stranger, as he ordered the porter to get him a berth on the 7:29, and to be sure that it was a lower berth, near the middle of the car.
"We kind of like it," the porter replied taking the stub of a pencil from behind his ear. "Ain't there anything doin' in your line here?"
"Oh, yes—as much as I could expect, I guess; but you're old-fashioned. You're away behind the procession. Right out on Main street there's a candy store that's not run by a Greek."
—Exchange.

Great Waterspout.

Particulars are published in the Meteorological Magazine of a great waterspout that a correspondent observed south of Cape Comorin on a day when the weather was fine and the sea smooth. The waterspout formed between a russet-gray cloud and the sea nearly five miles from the ship. At first the distance between the base of the cloud and the surface of the sea was 4,000 feet, and the width of the column tapered from 500 feet at its juncture with the cloud to 150 feet at the sea. The vortex appeared to be a tube with tapering sides and a central column. The walls seemed to consist of water moving downward and the central column of water ascending. The phenomenon lasted for 13 minutes; then the walls appeared to ascend into the cloud.

Increasing His Vocabulary.

Father recently came into possession of a new automobile and garage talk flew thick and fast between husband and wife with the result that son, called Wesley at the North Side school, where he is learning that words are composed of syllables, sometimes became mixed in his school and garage talk.
After showing his mother the knowledge that had been forced on him that day in the way of new words, Wesley came to one with three syllables that was not entirely familiar and called to his mother for help with:
"Mother, how many cylinders in this word?"—Indianapolis News.

Pessimistic.

A minister on the occasion of a marriage was at a loss in trying to discover the bridegroom among the company of young men present. Fixing on a young man with the biggest flower in his button-hole, he asked him quietly:
"Are you the happy man?"
"That remains to be seen," was the solemn answer.
"But are you the man who is to be married?"
"Oh, aye; but that's another matter."

Colossal Farms in Argentina.

Our American farms seem diminutive compared with those of Argentina. There the farm of two hundred thousand acres is common. Many are twice that size, and there is a record of at least one three times as large. It is not unusual for a whole day to be consumed on the train in crossing the land of a single proprietor.
The old cowpuncher days of our West are being repeated here. Looking from the window of the train one may often count twenty thousand cattle within an hour. Also he will see thousands of sheep and scores of ostriches. But one thing he will not see—barren. In a land where it is not too cold for animals to be out all the year round, and where there is no need to cut and store hay because hay grows 12 months in the year, barren are unnecessary.
At every station one will see corals and pens for convenience in loading the cattle cars. Every day trains from all parts of the republic arrive at the great packing plants near Buenos Aires with their burden of resilient animals.—Willard Price in the Christian Herald.

Alarm Clock as Egg Urge.

Councilman Lester Lutz is somewhat of a chicken fancier, writes a Berwick (Pa.) correspondent of the New York Tribune. Recently he tried the experiment of playing in his chicken pen electric lights that would switch on at four o'clock in the morning. He believed it would result in getting more eggs from the hens. That stunt didn't work, because the chickens failed to be aroused, even by the light in the pen, but Lutz thought further than that.
He got an alarm clock and put that in the pen, so it would ring every morning at four o'clock, the same time the lights were switched on.
"Formerly I was getting only six eggs a day from a pen of 20 Leghorns," said Lutz. "Now I am getting 12, 13 and 14 eggs a day from the same hens."
He invites visitors to come to his pen and see the electric lighting system and the alarm clock.

Joseph Oklahombi: Choctaw War Hero

The World War is not yet over—in the sense that the details of the history are not yet known. The details are being worked out by the historians. The details of the Choctaw War are being worked out by the Choctaw people.

Joseph Oklahombi was a Choctaw warrior who fought in the Choctaw War. He was a brave and noble man who died for his country.

He was a brave and noble man who died for his country. He was a Choctaw warrior who fought in the Choctaw War.

When we landed one of the streams the water ran into the camp of the war. At Little River we were to be carried across in an old-fashioned ferryboat. The hill was so steep on the opposite shore that the men had to get out and push the car up the muddy embankment.

After he was mustered out it is no wonder he chose to go back to the beautiful old Indian settlement where he was wont to hunt and fish when a boy. A little cottage has been built on a small tract of land which he owns and is cultivating.

Perhaps Oklahombi will get full recognition for his exploits in "The History of the American Indian in the World War," which is being written by Dr. Joseph K. Dixon, the leader of the Rodman Wainmaker historical expeditions to the North American Indians.

And now, as his final act of preparation for his historical work, Doctor Dixon has returned from an intimate four months' study of the entire western battlefronts of Belgium and France, in which he covered more than 3,500 miles of travel and took more than 1,100 photographs.

Oklahombi, it is reported, will be featured by Doctor Dixon in his book. Another of his Indian war heroes is Corporal Walter S. Sevilla, a Chipewa Indian of the Seventh engineers, Fifth division, upon whose breast Marshal Petain himself pinned the Croix de Guerre.

Such an environment was more appealing to him than the school room—consequently he has a very limited education. The only training he has was acquired at short intervals in old army camps and in the field.

Why Coins Are Milled. The milling round the edges of coins. B. E. (Woolwich), was introduced just over two centuries ago in this country. Previous to that time quite a number of people made a considerable income by filing a little piece off through their hands. Things became so bad that coins often lost a quarter of their weight within a few months of issue.

The Land of Wonders. Since coming California, it is the land of wonders. The latest is the dancing egg. It is said by an expert unadorned insect in the leaves of oak trees. Masses of these eggs cling to the inner side of the leaf and as they advance toward maturity they drop to the ground and dance about. By walking on one's feet a dancing sound may be heard.

He married a full-blooded Choctaw girl before he enlisted in the army. When he went over seas he left his wife and a baby girl a few months old.

After he was mustered out it is no wonder he chose to go back to the beautiful old Indian settlement where he was wont to hunt and fish when a boy.

And now that the strife and turmoil is over, writes Carina Conlan, "It is natural that he should want to return to the heart of nature, where he can look out in the cool of the evening and see the lengthening shadows of the old oak trees—trees that were old before his ancestors made the trail of tears when they came to the Indian territory in 1832."

You remember the story of the Pitcher— It made a good many trips to the well and came back in good order. "I can take care of myself," it said—don't need to talk about risks to me. But it went once too often. After that it was only part of a pitcher they didn't need to talk to about risks. A lot of people won't believe coffee until it does harm them. "Nonsense," they say, "I never drank coffee." When it does disturb them, then they often the disturbance which they experience is the result of irritation to the stomach which have been going on for a long time. If you have to be awake at night and the clock ticks, after an evening cup of coffee you know that it's better to be safe than sorry. The risk of coffee's harm is gone when you drink Postum. Here's a delightful and satisfying beverage, with charm for the taste and value for nerves or digestion. You know the right road with Postum; there's no other stability that you'll go once too often. Postum comes in two forms. It is made instantly in the cup by the addition of Postum Cream. Its packages of larger bulk are made by boiling for 30 minutes. BEAUTY IN OLD AMSTERDAM

Canals of Dutch City Have Caused It to Be Named the Venice of the North.

Amsterdam is notable for two possessions above all others: its old canals and its old pictures, writes E.
V. Lucas in "A Wanderer in Holland." Truly has it been called the Venice of the North; but very different is its somber quietude from the sunny Italian city among the waters.

There is a beauty of gaiety and a beauty of gravity; and Amsterdam in its older parts—on the Keizersgracht and the Heerengracht—has the beauty of gravity.

In Venice the canal is, of course,
also the street; gondolas and barges are continually gliding hither and thither; but in the Keizersgracht and the Heerengracht the water is little used.

One day, however, I watched a costumed stevedore steering a boatload of flowers under a bridge and no words of mine can describe the loveliness of their reflection. I remember the incident particularly because flowers are not much carried in Holland, and it is very pleasant to have this impression of them—this note of happy gaiety in so dark a setting.

In the main Amsterdam is a city of trade, of hurrying business men, of ceaseless clanging trams and crowded streets, but on the Keizersgracht and the Heerengracht you are always certain to find the old essential Dutch gravity and peace.

No tide moves the sullen waters of these canals, which are lined with trees that in spring form before the narrow, dark, discreet houses the most delicate green tracery imaginable; and in summer screen them altogether.
These houses are for the most part black and brown, with white window frames, and they rise to a great height, culminating in that curious stepped gable (with a crane and pulley in it) which is, to many eyes, the symbol of the city. I know no houses that so keep their secrets.

In every one, I doubt not, is furniture worthy of the exterior; old paintings of Dutch gentlemen and gentle-women, a landscape or two, a girl with a lute . . . old silver windmills; and plate upon plate of serene blue Delft.

Saw First Tobacco Smoke.
It was Christopher Columbus who discovered tobacco, and he did it on his first voyage in 1492, according to a little brochure which George C.
Dempsey of Boston, has prepared for distribution among the members of the Algonquian club. Mr. Dempsey's account says: "He was not only the first European to report tobacco, but he saw the natives smoking rolls of it —cigars—to light which they carried burning brands in their hands. Popular impression makes Sir Walter Raleigh, the discoverer. History dis-closes the fact that the distinguished nobleman was closely and unfortunately identified with the fragrant herb, but at the same time shows that he did not begin to play
his dramatic part on the world's stage 111 years after the great admiral had quit it.

"At all events the 'pipe' is inseparable from our vision of Raleigh, but we know Columbus saw 'cigar smoking' years before him. Unfortunate discoverer, indeed, Columbus found a new continent, and another gave it his name. He discovered smoking, and the name of another is linked to the romance of it."

IS BUDDHA'S HOLIEST SHRINE

Shwe Dagon Pagoda in Rangoon Attracts the Devout From All Parts of the World.

My Burmese friend Maung Hkin
and I visited together the Shwe Dagon pagoda in Rangoon, which springs like a golden flame to the height of 368 feet among its flame-bright trees, Holy and most holy, to it come all the Buddhist pilgrims of the world, for in its inmost heart lie hidden relics of the four earthly Buddhas—the staff of Kankathian, the water filter of Gawnagong, the robe of Kathapa and eight hairs of the Gautama Buddha.
Surely, the most gorgeous shrine of all the earth, covered with thin plates of gold up to the jeweled tree swimming in the blue air aloft! The original shrine is said to have been built in 385 B. C., but who can think of anything so cold as chronology amid such color and glory? We stood upon the noble platform before the towering golden pinnacles of the many shrines, each holding its calm image of the blessed one—images from China, from Tibet, from all the countries of the faithful, and the ardent green of the trees framed them with waving grace, and the happy people came and went and made their homage about us, and they and all the day overflowed with sunshine and joy.

"And now," said Maung Hkin, "it is fitting that we make an offering to the Lord Buddha. Thus is merit acquired and blessing gained. You think?"

I did not doubt, and we proceeded to buy some flowers from the heaped masses of fragrance sold on the steps ascending in flights and pauses from where the great teoglyphs 60 feet in height guard the portals with their noble grotesque. We bought also a bunch of tiny tapers and little green and gold sticks with which to light them, and with all these we approached the central Buddha, majestic in peace.
The attendant lit the tapers from the burning rows with our sticks and set them on the iron grille, white with the dripping of myriad candles. He took both my hands in his and softly repeated the invocation, and we laid down our flowers among the many that made the shrine glorious. And then, taking each of our right hands, he touched them with gold leaf on the back, and that was all. We had paid our homage. Gold leaf is always sold at the entrance, that merit may be ac-

IS YOUR HEALTH

GRADUALLY SLIPPING?

Interesting Experience of a Texas Lady Who Declares That if More Women Knew About Cardui They Would Be Spared
Much Sickness and Worry.

Navasota, Texas.—Mrs. W. M. Peden, of this place, relates the following interesting account of how she recovered her strength, having realized that she was actually losing her health:

"Health is the greatest thing in the world, and when you feel that gradually slipping away from you, you certainly sit up and take notice. That is what I did some time ago when I found myself in a very nervous, run-down condition of health. I was so tired and felt so lifeless
I could hardly go at all.

"I was just no account for work. I would get a bucket of water and would feel so weak I would have to set it down before I felt like I could lift it to the shelf.
In this condition, of course, to do even my housework was a task almost impossible to accomplish.

"I was . . . nervous and easily upset.

I couldn't rest well at night and was . . .
just lifeless.

"I heard of Cardui and after reading I decided I had some female trouble that was pulling me down. I sent for Cardui and began it . . .

"In a very short while after I began the Cardui Home Treatment I saw an improvement and it wasn't long until I was all right—good appetite, splendid rest, and much stronger so that I easily did my house work.

"Later I took a bottle of Cardui as a tonic. I can recommend Cardui and gladly do so, for if more women knew, it would save a great deal of worry and sickness."

The enthusiastic praise of thousands of other women who have found Cardui helpful should convince you that it is worth trying. All druggists sell it.

HEADACHE? BACKACHE?

A Beautiful Woman is Always a Well Woman

Bird Song, Ark.—"For nearly two years I suffered awfully with feminine trouble, which was caused by lifting heavy things, and seemingly I had five or six other complaints added to it. I suffered with the lower part of my back and had headache nearly all the time. I began to think there was nothing that would do me any good without an operation, but I thought I would try Dr. Pierce's remedies first. I took one bottle of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and one of 'Golden Medical Discovery', also used a box of Dr. Pierce's Purifying Lotion Tablets and one of the 'Healing Suppositories' and took the little 'Pleasant Pellets' to regulate my bowels and I felt like a new woman."—Mrs. Maggie D. White, Box 7.

Dr. Pierce's famous remedies can be procured from your druggist, tablets or liquid. Write Dr. Pierce, president Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., for free medical advice.

NEW SAFETY GATE FOR RAILROAD CROSSINGS DECLARED FOOL PROOF

Officials of the Chicago elevated railway lines have tested a new safety gate for railroad crossings which is said to be "fool-proof" against the careless automobile driver who now and then drives through the old-fashioned wooden gate and wakes up with a harp. The new gate will not allow an automobile to pass. If a car runs into it the gate gives several feet and then bounces the car back like a rubber ball.

CLEANING CAR NOW FINE ART

Using Modern Methods Owner May Keep His Machine Looking New all the Time.

WASHING NOT CASUAL JOB

Large Sponge Sopped Against Surface So That Water Trickles Down is Best Way—Use Chamois for Polishing.

The last two or three years have brought a very remarkable development in American body building. The mechanism of the modern motor car has reached an approximate degree of perfection, leaving the manufacturers free to devote more time to increasing the attractiveness of the vehicle. The present day American car as it leaves the factory is really a thing of beauty with the highly polished surfaces and shiny metal. Naturally this has induced the owner to take more pride in keeping up the appearance of the gasoline steel. The result is that cleaning methods and equipment have greatly advanced over those of a few years back.

The present day owner using modern methods may keep his car looking new all the time, nor will he have to spend more than a few moments a day to accomplish this end. For instance, there are now on the market a number of liquid and wax polishes which will give admirable results if they are used as directed.

In the use of wax polishes the first step is to clean the body of the car thoroughly. The polish is applied to the surface with a piece of cheese cloth and then another clean cloth is used to distribute the wax evenly all over the surface. Car owners commonly make the mistake of thinking that the more wax applied the better. As a matter of fact a very thin film is all that is needed.

Washing the car is not the casual job some owners seem to imagine. To begin with, the car should be washed immediately after it has been dirty. If mud is allowed to remain on the varnished surface more than a day it is difficult to eradicate it. For the washing plain water should be used, neither too hot nor too cold, about 50 degrees Fahrenheit being the proper temperature. A large sponge soaked in clear water and then sopped against the surface so that the water trickles down is best. Never turn a stream of water at high pressure on the body.

Use Chamois for Drying. In drying the body a clean chamois cloth should be used, rubbing being done in straight lines. If spots of tar or road oil are found on the body it is best to treat them with salt butter or kerosene. The butter softens the deposit so that it may be wiped off easily. Kerosene should be applied locally and wiped off within a minute. To keep pace with the improved appearance of the body it is necessary to give some attention to the top and the upholstery. A weekly brushing of the top, inside and out, will aid materially in its life. Fabric tops should never be cleaned with gasoline, kerosene, or other oils, as they tend to destroy the rubber in the top. Castile soap and water applied with a stiff brush is the best cleansing medium for the top.

HOW TO PRESERVE RUBBER

Saturated Solution of Turpentine in Alcohol Makes an Effective and Simple Dressing.

A saturated solution of turpentine in alcohol makes an effective preservative for rubber. The point of saturation is reached when a drop of undissolved turpentine remains suspended in the alcohol and a little more of the spirit should be added to dissolve the turpentine. Rubber articles should be painted with this solution occasionally.

NO TROUBLE TO KEEP CAR QUIET

Oil Can and Wrench Will Banish the Squeaks.

Necessary to See That All Parts Are Greased Regularly and That All Nuts Are Properly Tightened.

There is no excuse for a noisy automobile. Only carelessness and lack of attention can account for squeaks in any car. The automobile that passes you, carrying its own band is a reflection on the owner and he may be set down as thoughtless. "Sometimes it is hard to find a squeak, but that does not mean that it is hard to find the big ones," says a prominent dealer. "The one and only enemy of the squeak is the oil can and the single enemy of the rattle is the wrench. Keep the car tightened up and the parts greased sufficiently and your car will run as silently and smoothly after a year's use as the day you bought it."

"It is not necessary to be overfastidious at it. But it is necessary to see that all parts are greased regularly. If you have a driver see that he takes care of the car properly, that he goes over it carefully all the time and greases and oils it when he should. If you drive and care for your own car, you must grease it and oil it regularly. Take the oiling chain and make it a rule to do your work at stated intervals. "Keep the car lubricated. It will repay you in added car life, minimum mechanical trouble and greater satisfaction all round."

object is to provide a mud guard secured to the ordinary guards of the car and extending across the front of the car at the lower portion of the radiator.—Scientific American.

AUTOMOBILE PAINTS

When following another car closely on crowded roads be ready to turn out to one side or the other when using the brakes.

The United States government collected $148,720,840 from automobile owners last year, through the manufacturer's tax.

Charles J. Swain claims to have owned the first automobile in Philadelphia, in 1898, and since that time he has owned 24 different cars.

The Royal Danish Automobile club in Copenhagen, was founded in 1901. Prince Axel is president of the club which has a membership of 1,000.

Motor buses are used by 12,000 schools in the United States. The vehicles are operated in 16 states, and transport more than 200,000 pupils.

When a motor car, after being cranked, runs for a minute or two and then stops, the first place to look for the cause of the trouble is the gasoline feed line.

HOME TOWN HELPS

EVIL OF THE RENTING HABIT

Dependency on Other Hands for Homes Marks a Retrogression in Spirit.

When householders become renters by habit, that is, when they become willing to depend on other hands than their own to provide and maintain their homes for them, society loses much of that valuable individuality, that personal independence, initiative and self-reliance that distinguishes a great people from a mass of people.

For three hundred years the American people have led the world in individuality, initiative and personal independence. The fathers pulled out of the European huddle in order that they might stand on their own feet; and having reached America, they had to stand alone. Most born Americans were born of parents who owned their own homes.

Contentment with huddle, the willingness to live in some one else's warmed and cared-for loft rather than in one's own fought-for and paid-for home marks a retrogression in spirit from the American way to the European way of life.

However we may excuse ourselves for inclination toward the easy comfort of the choreless, commercial, rented compartment, and for shrinking from the harder demands of the detached, owned and paid-for home; and however respectable the renting habit may have become, it must be admitted that our inclination is a phase of social degeneracy, a drift toward the huddle, the beginning of the abandonment of that vitalizing independence of which the owned home is pre-eminently the symbol and support.—Portland (Ore.) Telegram.

TWO ORIGINAL BIRD BATHS

One is Made Entirely of Logs, the Other on Shingle-Covered Pedestal.

The photograph shows two original designs in bird-bath construction that can be adapted where it would not be possible to build a cement bath.

At the left is shown a bird bath made entirely from logs, a heavy cross section being used for the base, another for the top, and a few feet of a much smaller log forming the pedestal. The upper log section is hollowed out to receive a round pan which holds the water.

Novel Designs for Bird Baths.

The shingle-covered bath at the right has a base made from two-inch lumber, to which is fastened a tapered wooden frame, made of one-inch strips, each side being two inches smaller at the top than at the bottom. A two-inch cup, with a one-inch board support for the pan, is provided.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Hedge Solves Fencing Problems.

More and more Americans are appreciating the value of privacy in their gardens. It is a sane idea, this—that we plant lovely lawns and grow shrubs and trees, not to form a park for the admiring gaze of neighbors and neighbors, but to furnish us with a little kingdom of outdoors all our own, where we can live and breathe and have our being untroubled and unmolested.

Very frequently, of course, privacy and other hedge shrubs seem to be planted only for the sake of dividing one property from another or one section of the garden from another. Then there is reason in keeping the hedge clipped back. But the hedge that is built for the purpose of giving protection should be clipped only enough to give the roots strength and to give it a trim appearance.

Much is being done nowadays with firs and other evergreens for hedges. Nursery men have gone to the ends of the earth for trees and shrubs that would withstand the extremes of our climate. A recently introduced fir has come from the east coast of Asia, where they are accustomed to a better summer and colder winter than we have here, and are therefore sure to withstand our extremes. Great expense has also been taken to get shrubs and trees suitable for wind-breaks in the trying seashore climate.

Value of Community Play.

Community play is being promoted by local governments because it has been demonstrated to be a practical business proposition. City officials accept as an axiom the statement that the leisure hours of the city must be either an asset or a liability. The people of this county have about a billion hours a day to pass outside of work and sleep. In this leisure time most of the crime, vice and delinquency occur.

DARLING BABY BRIGHTENS

Children's Laughter a Pleasing

Mrs. Janssen's experience of interest to child medicine. Millston, Wis.—"I want to give you a word of praise for medicine. We are fond of children, and for a considerable time I feared I would not have any. I began taking Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it strengthened me so I had a strong, healthy baby girl. I suffered very little at childbirth the credit to your medicine, and shall always recommend it."—H. H. JANSEN, Millston, Wis.

Mrs. Held of Marinette, Wis., adds her testimonial to Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She says:

Marinette, Wis.—"I was in a nervous condition and very ill. My doctor advised an operation. My husband brought me one of Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I began taking it. I had a healthy baby girl after a hard and long nine months. I am glad to recommend your medicine, and I send it as a testimonial."—Mrs. H. B. HELD, 330 Jefferson St., Root.

There are many, many such homes that were once childless and blessed with healthy, happy children because Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound has restored the mother to a strong and healthy condition, as it acts as a natural restorative for ailments as indicated by its various displacements, weakness and nervousness.

Women everywhere should remember that most of the ailments of women are not the surgical ones—they are not caused by kidney, men's or growths, although the symptoms may be the same. So many apparently serious ailments readily yield to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it acts as a natural restorative, with perfect safety and often prevents serious troubles.

Therefore if you know of any woman who is suffering and who needs to secure relief, and is regretfully looking forward to a childless sale at her to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it has sizes, me and happiness into so many homes once darkened by illness upon wish 1

A Century to Santa Fe

Drawings by Ray Walters
Thomas Hornsby Ferril

"Porter! Some papers, please, and turn on the fan."
"Yass'm."
"Get me a paper, yes, and a timetable."
"Yass'r, jus' a minute, suh."
"Oh, Lord, I can't tell; let's see:
Vacuum bottle, both palm beaches, 'Age of Innocence.'
Three decks, my little organdy, kodak.
Even your old back-spin mashie.
Can't tell what I've forgotten till we've started.
Never can * * * if they don't treat Bourbon right!
Dear old pup! He knew we were going, didn't he?"
"Oh * * * these awful staterooms!"
"A-w-l-l 'board!"

Wagh! Tighten up yer fellows and fergit yer fawfaw.
Or yer wheels will chink with wedges fore ye hit the Arkansas.
Call yer wagons Coneslogas, Pittsburgs, Dearborns, if ye like.
But they'll all be thunderin' nameless past the Independence pike;
Cut new arzo-trees a-plenty, stretch yer canvas fills above,
Pick yer man ye want elected capitan at Council Grove;
Ev'ry coon's his wagon-master stretchin' out o' here today,
But the capitan is some from Council Grove to Santa Fe;
Fill up on Missouri punkins while there's punkins here to eat,
Fer yer teeth can fetch up sail-sore when yer out among the meat,
And it's tea of coffee, fifty flour, that ev'ry nigger's takin',
And it's twenty pounds of sugar and it's fifty more of bacon,
And calico and lead and drilinn' that he's cartin' through,
With beaver peltries bringin' upward six dollars a plew;
Catch up! All's set! Stretch out! An' hep the caravan away.
Eight hundred miles is layin' on the road to Santa Fe.

"Now I know. * * *
I forgot all my adorable pink silk ones, and my head bag,
And the opera glasses, I should have told Ingebord * * *"
"Never mind, dear; this isn't our honeymoon."
See those things out there?
They're silos * * * make cattle drunk,
Hot as the devil, isn't it? There, how's that?"
"Last call fo' dinnah in the dinin' cyah, Three cyahs fo'ward."
"Oo! Ice cream! I hope it's in those wet, cold slices, Sort of like cross-cuts of tan and strawberry marble, nice * * *"

Wagh! Made the bank hot-collared, slick as shootin' on the run,
An' we're miles from Independence and another day is done.
So lay down lazy on yer old apishamore mat,
And smell the cherries boilin' in the yellor buffler fat,
And cut yer fleecy-flaps with the grain and drink yer hot horns full;
Tonight we're munchin' boudins from the belly of a bull,
And there's hump-ribs past all shinin' and there's beaver tails to eat,
And the ruttin' herd is under and the madre's makin' meal,
Yer sayin' signs? Oatges? Kaws? Pannees? Arapahoes?
Wagh! That's the old muler * * * she's got cactus in her nose,
But if yer sure they're comin' some and all half-froze fer hair,
Fer comfort get yer lakin' with a scatter gun to spare,
And take an extry wipin' stick and flint * * * don't spill yer caps,
And lay along the stakin' ground and shoot a few, perhaps,
The rest of us ain't skinnin' eyes, we're ridin' tired a heap,
And if the devils drop around to rub us out asleep,
Just tug us up in buffler whang and cart us home and say
That we failed at quittin' arrows and fell short of Santa Fe.

"This terrible desert! What makes the air wabble that way?
Oh, I'm hot, dirty, sticky, groggy * * * I feel like Bourbon
When he tries to yawn and howl at the same time * * * no pep."
"You've been drinking too much ice water * * * see 'em Unloading all those dead hogs back there?"
If they'd let them rest, then put wet dirt in the cars * * *"
"Hogs! Look at me! See if you can't turn that fan!"
"No; it's screwed on."

Wagh! Fill yer wagon water kegs, five gallon to each one,
Fer here's a stretch of hell that God left blazin' in the sun.
From Arkansas to Cimarron is upward fifty mile,
And if ye hit a water scrape ye'll lay wolf meat a while,
Two days if ye are pullin' good, forever if yer not,
And once too weak to gear a dog, yer better off gul-shot,
Half over's stinkin' Sand creek, but it's always flamin' dry,
And yer tongue will get to swellin' on mirages in the sky;
There's hants o' men out there that died a-suckin' prickly roots,
And lickin' buffler bladders dry and chewin' parfleesh boots;
And they say there's phantom oxen, with their yoke-irons jinglin' on,
Appearin' white to pull yer through when all yer own are gone,
There's Blackfeet and Gros Ventres and Comanches, and there's Sioux,
All campin' by the Cimarron to meet when yer through,
So fill yer kegs and laugh it out, the stick floats either way,
Catch up! All's set! Stretch out! And hep! Hi-ya for Santa Fe!

"So this is Santa Fe!
Look at this skirt, my dear, look at it! * * *
Wonder what makes a train seem to slip backward
When it stops?"
"That brushing did you a lot of good, I'll say.
See all the fluffers!
The porter says some of the cowboys are coming back
Now that the movies are closing down."

Hep-a! Slick up yer possibles, and wash and comb yer hair,
And put a cracker on yer lash and snap it through the air;
Ye hear the stallions squealin' cause they know they're gettin' through,
And the oxen sniffin' water spoutin' at the rendezvous,
Hep-a! Tie up yer trap-sack and sing out a good hurrah,
Fer it's down the Alameda to the Plaza Publica!
There she is a-layin' yonder dreamin' lazy in the sun;
And we'll have a grand fandango when the custom house is done;
And the flirtin' señoritas will be welcomin' the chace
"er a sly buss in the prairie and a partner in the dance, nd we'll count coups together and be tellin' them the way
'ow we put a million under just to get to Santa Fe.

Buddhist Bible.

At Litang, about a hundred miles to the east of Batang, in Tibet, where there is a large lamnery, and in the lamnery of Derge, about 200 miles above Batang, in the Yangtze valley, the printing of religious books is an industry of importance. The Kanjur, which is the Buddhist bible, and the Tanjur, its commentary, each comprising 108 volumes, are printed in the two lamneries from blocks on which characters are carved. The blocks occupy many large rooms and the printing of one set requires the work of many men for many days. In Litang, until recently, there was a copy of the Tanjur which was written out by hand in gold and silver. The paper had first been acquired with Chinese ink. The gold and silver fluids in which the characters were written were made by rubbing the precious metals on a rough stone and mixing the powder with glue water. It was destroyed a few years ago by Chinese soldiers who understood nothing of its value.

Heated Winds.

An intensely dry, hot wind called the "zonda," which blows down from the Andes upon the plains of Argentina, was formerly thought to owe its heat to volcanoes. It is really a "foehn," such as occurs in Switzerland and many other mountainous countries, where winds, robbed of their moisture in crossing the mountain, are heated by compression during their descent.

PE-RU-NA

ANOTHER WOMAN WHO IS THANKFUL FOR

"I have taken several bottles of Pe-ru-na and find it a great benefit. I had pain in my stomach and bowels, but by the use of Pe-ru-na and Maltolinn, I am well and strong again. I always keep a few bottles in the house."
Mrs. OSCAR GRAY,

Nichols, Iowa

Mrs. Gray's experience is just more evidence that Pe-ru-na is quite as good a remedy for catarrh of the stomach, bowels or other organs as it is for coughs, colds and nasal catarrh. Pe-ru-na is a wonderfully fine medicine to have in the house for everyday ills.

Silverton Boy is Killed ---Head Crushed by Wagon

Silverton, Texas, Oct. 29.—Jasper Ray Stripling, age 14, a son of A. G. Stripling, of near Silverton, Briscoe County, was accidentally killed this morning about 8:30 o'clock. He was feeding cattle and had driven out to the cattle on a load of bundles, and in trying to get down on the wagon tongue, off of the front end of the load, he slipped and fell, the team starting up. One wheel of the wagon passed over his head, crushing the skull. Death was instant.
