Barnes went on to point out that sediment hurts the land where it comes from and hurts the water where it goes. It is all caused by soil erosion. They had waited for this real vacation — this long trip — for years. But this time it was different, this time he wouldn't be going back to his job.

At first, retirement seemed frightening, like being shut off from the mainstream of life. He had seen too many men age beyond their years, after their career ended. He had no wish to be on the sidelines. He and his wife could have moved to a warmer climate and just have taken it easy. He didn't want that. So, before he left home, he had a long talk with his minister.

He found that there was plenty a man his age could do. Financially secure, he could afford to volunteer for a job. In fact, through the Church there was work he could do that would spread to the farthest corners of the world. Right now, he is enjoying this vacation. He is savoring every moment of Sunday School9:45 a.m. it. Because, when he gets home, he's going to lead a full and useful life. And THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and sup-port the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Bottles That Melt?

(Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm applauds the possibility of a new invention.) I was riding my tractor down to the mail box the other day. Some people may think that's a sign of laziness, but they don't understand motors, it's not good for an engine to sit idle too long, it ought to be cranked up and run every once in a while to keep the cylinder walls from rusting. On the way back I ran over a glass bottle somebody had thrown from his car and cut a gash in my left rear tire.

It wasn't bad, but I figured I'd gotten all the rust out by then and parked the tractor on the hill where I keep it in case the battery is still low the next time I want to start it-some people with weak batteries are so short-sighted they park on level ground and invariably have to be pulled off. I pulled out a newspaper I'd been saving, and by one of those coincidental quirks, the first article I read was about glass bottles.

According to it, a university professor has received a $50,000 grant from the government to invent a bottle that dissolves. He claims he can make one that, when you're through with it, you break and it begins to melt and in 24 hours is gone. Nothing left but a wet puddle.

I recommend that he hurry up. Already, the article pointed out, Americans throw away 26 billion bottles a year.

In numerals, if you've got enough zeroes in your shop and you're bound to have if you want to function in a society with a national debt as big as ours, that's 26,000,000,000,-In ten years it's 260,000,000,000, in a hundred years 2,600,000,000,000, and in a thousand years well, that's asking too many zeroes of even the New York Times, not to mention the Leader-News.

A newspaper has other things to do besides stockpile zeroes, and besides if there are any spare ones around Washington will snap them up.

At any rate, I hope that professor succeeds, not only with bottles but with car windshields, plate glass windows, etc. If he does, that $50,000 will be the best money the government ever invested. Why it costs more than that to clean up the broken glass after one small riot in not big enough to make television.

It'll be real progress when you can have a riot on Saturday night and by Monday morning the glass has melted and disappeared into the storm sewers.

Yours faithfully,

LINDA CRIBBS CHD Agent Says:

Blouses are literally tops in fashien this season. Weather your taste runs to the Mao collared, the frill, the dickey the peasant or the body shirt you'll want to collect a ward rope of shirts to wear with stylish skirts, suit jackets, weskits or sleeveless tunics suggests Linda Cribbs. Home Demonstration Agent.

Keep ironing and launder ing at a minimum by watch ing the hand tags on your clothing purchase. Polyesteand cotton, acrylic blends and washable wool are easy care, easy-wear fabrics.

Sweatshirts are now being made from a knit polyester and cotton blend which makes them washable again and again without changing shape or color.

The traditional man's shirt is being replaced by fail shades of mandarin orange. raspberry pink, and hyacinth blue as well as bold plaids and striped shirts.
