W. E. STOKES PASSES TO HER REWARD

William and community was last Sunday, shortly after the death of Mrs. J. E. Stokes was dead, she suffered a stroke of paralysis, and died within a few minutes. Mr. Stokes was absent at the time she was taken ill, he having been in the city at the commencement exercises being held at the court house. Physicians were hastily summoned upon his return home, but life was extinct before medical aid could be administered.

William I. Stokes, nee Penny, was born in Euharlee, Ga., Nov. 18, 1857, and was at the time of her death 64 years, 5 months and 26 days. Mr. and Mrs. Stokes were married in Independence, Texas, Nov. 16, 1880. This couple had walked happily together for nearly 43 years. To this union were born two children: Mrs. O. W. Cook of this city, and Joe L. Stokes, the latter preceding her to the better world more than three years ago.

Mrs. Stokes was converted to the Baptist church at the residence of Major Penn, a noted preacher. She loved the Lord of her youth so much that she never moved her membership, and was living a consistent Christian. Her home life was beautiful; she loved her husband and children with a devotion that was steadfast and true. She was respected and loved by all who came in contact with her. She was always almost idolized by her husband and children. She was a true and faithful in the discharge of every duty. She will be greatly missed and truly mourned.

Following an illness extending over several months, Mrs. Stokes always retained a cheerful heart with a fullness of life; her buoyant spirit shined in the sunshine and reflected the shade. Life was beautiful to her. In spite of affliction her life was a benediction to her family. In her home she reigned as queen of the household.

Her calm, quiet manner and unselfish service, commanded the respect and homage of all who came within the precincts of her home. The husband and children felt a heavenly radiance from her devoted presence. The home has lost its brightest star. Yet, naught can deprive the memory of her child, the brother and sisters of the aroma of the virtues. These will remain to cherish forever.

At 10:30 p. m., May 15, 1922, at the residence which she loved so tenderly, funeral services in the presence of a large concourse of sorrowing friends, were conducted by the Rev. J. M. Doshier, pastor of the First Baptist church, Tahoka, after which the remains were laid to rest in the Tahoka cemetery. The floral offerings from friends were numerous.

Having labored faithfully for her Master she now rests and enjoys all the good that the heavenly home has for the faithful. Our hearts go out to the aged mother, husband, daughter, brothers and sisters, and we offer deepest sympathy to these dear friends who are so grieved, but who are so beautifully reconciled to await the brief time when these ties may all be restored.

Those attending the burial from outside points were as follows: The aged mother, Mrs. W. E. Penny of Lubbock; sisters, Mesdames Kid Powell and Cash Royalty of Lubbock; brothers, Messrs. Jinks Penny of Roaring Springs, Joe, Barrett, Bob and John Penny of Lubbock; they being accompanied by their husbands and wives.

Chamber Will Employ Jazz Band for Convention

A colored jazz band will be one of the attractions employed by the local chamber of commerce during the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention at Plainview next Monday and Tuesday. The band was secured out of Fort Worth, at an expense of several hundred dollars, and will be at the exclusive command of the Tahoka delegation who will attend the convention in a body, leaving here at 6 a. m., Monday.

Another heavy rain visited this section Tuesday afternoon, amounting to .40 inches. Some hail fell in the northwest, east and southeast, which did some damage to growing crops.

Tahoka Schools Forging to the Front

The News is informed by Superintendent H. P. Caveness, of the Tahoka schools, that he had just been advised by the State Board of Education that one-half unit had been granted in solid geometry taught in Tahoka High School. This progress forward in our school is something to be proud of, indeed, and speaks volumes for our splendid corps of teachers. There are a number of towns over the state that are not affiliated in any way with the State University, and this feature alone, places the Tahoka schools near the top among Texas' public schools. WATCH YOUR CHICKENS.

Don't let them destroy your neighbor's garden or flower beds. You have no more right to turn your chickens loose to forage a living off the neighborhood than you have to turn your stock out to graze on your neighbor's lawn or corn patch.

It is a question of the application of the Golden Rule. You have the right to raise chickens—your neighbor has a right to grow a garden. Your chickens should be penned on home premises when the neighbor has a garden. Let us have both chickens and gardens in Tahoka, but keep both penned. (Published by request).

COMMITTEE

CLIFFORD DICKSON HAS CAR STOLEN

Clifford Dickson, local insurance agent, had his Ford car stolen while in Lubbock last Thursday. Dickson parked his car in front of the Merrill Hotel, and had not been absent but a very few minutes when he missed the jitney, whereupon he immediately notified the Lubbock officers. They at once instituted a diligent search and wired all nearby towns to be on the lookout. The car was located the next day between Lubbock and Tahoka on the main highway, where the thieves had abandoned it. No damage was done, and everything was intact just as it was when Dickson left it. He went up Friday morning and brought the car home. Evidently the thieves did not know the vehicle was a Tahoka car, or else they would have headed in another direction. Mr. Dickson was indeed fortunate in finding his Ford so soon and at the same time practically undamaged.

SAYS CALOMEL SALIVATES AND LOOSENS TEETH

The Very Next Dose of This Treacherous Drug May Start Trouble.

You know what calomel is. It's mercury; quicksilver. Calomel is dangerous. It crushes into sour bile like dynamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system.

If you feel bilious, headache, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tonic for a few cents which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.

Don't take calomel! It makes you sick the next day; it loses you a day's work. Dodson's Liver Tonic straightens you right up and you feel great. No salts necessary. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and can not salivate.—Advertisement.

Next Day, All Right.

She (during spat)—It's a story for you to say I grabbed you up quick. You know very well that when you proposed I didn't say "yes" until the next day.

He—That's right, you didn't. I proposed at 11:59 p. m. and you accepted me at 12:01 the next morning.—Boston Transcript.

Doctor Advised Use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Happy Results in Both Cases

St. Joseph, Missouri.—"Both of my sides swelled and hurt me so that I could not move or do any of my work. There was heavy pressure and pains through my lower organs and the doctor told me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for these troubles. He said I had this one chance, and if the Vegetable Compound did not help me nothing but an operation would. After taking several bottles I felt it was helping me and now I am able to do my own work. If my testimonial will help others I shall be glad for them to read it and hope your Vegetable Compound will do them as much good as it did me."—Mrs. WM. LOCKMAN, 513 N. 4th St., St. Joseph, Mo.

White Plains, N. Y.—"I had such a pain that I could hardly walk and the doctor said that I needed an operation. I was sick for a year before I started taking your medicine and I could not work. I saw your advertisement in a little book and that is how I came to take Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine. I have been taking the Vegetable Compound and Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine, also Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills and used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash and the capsules and prescription recommended. I am doing all my work and have gained twenty pounds. I am taking the medicines still, but I feel fine. You have my permission to use this letter for the good of others."—Mrs. MARY MARK, 37 Hamilton Ave., White Plains, N. Y.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! WOMEN NEED SWAMP-ROOT

Thousands of women have kidney and bladder trouble and never suspect it. Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease. If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

Pain in the back, headache, loss of ambition, nervousness, are often times symptoms of kidney trouble. Don't delay starting treatment. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a physician's prescription, obtained at any drug store, may be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Get a medium or large size bottle immediately from any drug store. However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Advertisement.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL Sunday School Lesson

LESSON FOR MAY 21
HILKIAH'S GREAT DISCOVERY

LESSON TEXT.—II Chron. 34:14-21.
GOLDEN TEXT.—Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path.—Ps. 119:105.
REFERENCE MATERIAL.—Deut. 6:6-9; Josh. 1:8; Col. 3:16; II Tim. 2:15; 2:14-16.
PRIMARY TOPIC.—How the Lost Bible Was Found.
JUNIOR TOPIC.—Hilkiah Discovers the Lost Bible.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC.—How to Make the Bible Our Own.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC.—The Authority and Influence of the Bible.

About a hundred years elapsed between the reformation under Hezekiah and that of Josiah. Some time during this time the book of God's law had been lost. Two wicked kings had reigned in this interval. The Lord had given Hezekiah much wealth. His son Manasseh, coming into possession of his father's property, and being ungodly, would naturally neglect the Bible, if not purposely try to put it from sight. Those who do not obey the law of God, are usually interested in putting it out of sight.

1. The Book of the Law Found (vv. 14-17).

1. The Occasion (v. 14). It was while repairing the temple during Josiah's reformation that the law was discovered.

2. The Book Delivered to the King (vv. 15-17). Upon making a report to the king of work done, the king was told of the finding of the book of the law by Hilkiah, and the book delivered to him.

II. The Effect of the Reading of the Law (vv. 18-28).

Shaphan the Scribe read the law before the king.

1. The King Read His Clothes (v. 19). As the law was read before him he was led to realize more seriously the awful extent of the nation's departure from God. He knew that sin merited punishment. The function of the law is to reveal sin. The man who will honestly hear the demands of God's law will fall upon his knees before God and cry for mercy. The reading of the royal robes indicated that the king was penitently sorrowful.

2. The King Sent a Deputation to Make Inquiry of the Lord (vv. 20, 21). The king included himself in the guilt before God. "Go inquire for me and for them that are left, for great is the wrath of the Lord that is poured out upon us." His sense of sin was so keen that he sent them to inquire as to whether there was any means of averting the judgments of the Lord. Instinctively the human heart turns from God's threatening judgments to a means of escape. The soul that sorrows for sin inquires for a way of escape. The law prepares for the gospel. The law is our schoolmaster to bring us to Christ. The soul under condemnation inquires, "What must I do to be saved?"

3. The Message of Huldah, the Prophetess (vv. 22-28). (1) Confirmation of what the law said (vv. 22-25). She said that all the curses written in the law must fall, for the sins had been so flagrant that God's wrath could not be restrained. Destruction was hanging over Jerusalem and it was too late to avert it. It was not too late to repent to obtain mercy from God, but the outward consequence of sin must be realized. This finds fulfillment on every hand today. The murderer must hang. His soul may go directly to heaven, provided he has accepted Jesus Christ. (2) Acceptance of Josiah's repentance (vv. 26-28). Because of his tenderness of heart and deep penitence, the Lord said he should be gathered to his grave in peace, and should not see all the evil to be brought on Jerusalem and its people. What Huldah said was true even though Josiah died in battle (25: 23-25). When God accepts a man and forgives him, his death is a peaceful one even though it may be on the battlefield. God's presence is with him and he thus will go straight to the heavenly home.

III. The Law Obeyed (vv. 29-33).

1. The King Read the Law (v. 29, 30). He gathered together the inhabitants of Jerusalem, including the priests, Levites and elders, and read unto them the law.

2. The King Made a Covenant Before the Lord to Keep His Commandments and Testimonies (vv. 31, 32). This was done sincerely—with all his heart and soul. He caused all that were present to stand to it.

3. The king took away all the oblations out of all the countries that pertained to Israel (v. 33). All the days of the king they departed not from following after the Lord.

He Will Save You. When you feel as if things were dragging you down into the depths will you remember that the Lord Jesus Christ is at your side? All human help may seem very far away; but He is not far away. Even through the noise of the storm He can hear the faintest cry. "Lord save me, I perish," and He will save you to the uttermost.

King George Democratic. "When he is out of the public eye King George often sacrifices appearance for comfort—indeed, while in conversation with him not long ago I noticed that one of the shoes he wore was adorned with a patch!" This is one of many intimate anecdotes of his long connection with the royal family told by Ernest Brooks, O. B. E., the accredited royal photographer, in the Strand magazine. Queen Mary's favorite portrait of Princess Mary reveals something of the king's tastes in regard to feminine fashions. When Mr. Brooks showed the king the first print, his majesty raised an objection to the width of the panniers on either side of the princess' frock and ordered him to have them taken out of the negative.

Reversed. With very realistic sob's the weary tramp told the tale to the farmer's wife and she nearly believed him. "But, surely, if you have an aged mother to support," she said sympathetically, "you could find some better way of doing it than begging? You know 'necessity is the mother of invention.'"

"Not in my case, I assure you," said the tramp, earnestly. "With me, lady, mother is the invention of necessity."—Pearsons.

Evil One Declared to Have Assumed Monk to Perform Work for a Fearful Price.

One of the most famous copies of the Scriptures in existence is the one which bears the curious title, "The Devil's Bible." It is an exquisite piece of workmanship, inscribed on asses' skins, and was taken to Seholun at the conclusion of the Thirty Years' war.

According to tradition this Bible was the work of a poor monk who was condemned to death for some defection, but was told that the sentence would be commuted if he would copy out on asses' skins the entire Bible in a single night. He agreed to try to do it but, finding the task too great, made a compact with the devil to exchange his soul for the required transcript. The devil kept his part of the bargain, and the Bible was finished on time. The monk's life was spared by his cunning judges, but tradition is silent as to how he kept his end of the agreement.

The Thrifty Citizen Who Caught the Plugged Nickel

MR. BROWN had swallowed his lunch and had paid his bill. Cautiously he counted his change. "Here!" he said, sharply, "Take back this plugged nickel and give me a good one!"

Mr. Brown walked proudly out. They couldn't fool old Brown.

But old Brown had fooled himself.

Brown's day was heavy and dull. He lacked "pep." There was a mid-afternoon drowsy spell when he needed to be awake—the direct and natural result of heavy, starchy breakfasts and lunches, taken on faith and without question as to value—just because the food looked and tasted like food.

Thousands of shrewd business men who count their change, take their food for granted.

That's what builds up the sanitation business, and puts the tired "all-done" feeling into the mid-afternoon of a business day.

Grape-Nuts is a scientific food whose delicious, appetizing flavor and crispness are an introduction to well-balanced nourishment—a nourishment easily and quickly assimilated, so that body, brain and nerves are well fed and kept free of the stored up poisons left by so many ill-selected foods.

Served with cream or good milk, Grape-Nuts is a complete food, always ready, always a delight to the taste—and always a safe selection for the man who thinks his stomach is entitled to some of the same protection he gives to his pocket.

HAS FIRST WELL DAY IN 6 YEARS

Huntington Citizen Could Neither Sleep Nor Eat With Any Satisfaction Before He Got Tanlac.

"Before taking Tanlac I had not had a well day in six years," said W. R. Peoples, 328 22nd St., Huntington, W. Va. "It seemed like I had lost my health for good. I could neither sleep nor eat with satisfaction. I was badly run down, nervous, had no appetite and had to force down every mouthful of food. Even then my food soured. I would fill up with gas until I had intense pains in my stomach and chest. Headache almost drove me mad, rheumatism in my arms, shoulder and hips kept me in pain all the time, and I had to force myself to work. "Tanalac went right after my troubles. On four bottles I gained ten pounds and the rheumatism and stomach trouble soon left me. My wife has given a statement about the good Tanlac did her, and I am glad to add my endorsement of this wonderful medicine." Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

Remarkable English.
The following is a specimen of English as it is printed in a Brazilian newspaper:

Here is the translation: "Furnished rooms—A high and respectable family house has to let two large apartments; one of them possesses a magnificent view. Meals of the first order."

YOUTHFUL RADIO WIZARD EQUIPS FLIVVER WITH WIRELESS OUTFIT

George Frost, seventeen-year-old president of Lane Technical High School Radio club, has equipped his flivver with a radio phone. The antenna is carried on the top of the coupe body on four sticks, placed at each corner. Young Frost uses a loud speaker with the set and in the tests the music and other radio messages could be heard at some distance from the car. Frost is a senior. He already has been called upon to do several complicated jobs of radio installation.

GARAGE OWNERS DISREGARD LAW

Secretary Emmerson Says Cars Brought in for Repairs Are Not Registered.

INCREASING NUMBER OF CARS

Legislature Finds It Difficult to Keep Pace With Conditions—Bulletin Would Assist in Finding Stolen Autos.
Few public garages are complying with the law requiring the registration of all automobiles brought in for storage or repairs, Secretary of State Emmerson (Illinois) declares. The legislature, Secretary Emmerson asserted, is finding difficulty in keeping pace with conditions brought about by the increasing number of automobiles and the garage registration law was passed as an intended aid to the recovery of stolen cars. Twenty-five years ago, the secretary pointed out, there were four automobiles in the United States. Today the number is something like 10,500,000.

Pass Mark Last Year.
"In Illinois," he said, "our hard road system is predicated upon the expectation of a continued prosperity for the automobile trade. In 1917, when the $90,000,000 bond issue was adopted, careful estimates were made of a probable automotive future. It was estimated that the saturation point would be 600,000 cars and that this point would be reached in 1924. We passed this mark last year and will exceed it by 100,000 this year."
"Of all the automobile laws the one most generally ignored is that requiring garage owners to keep a register of the numbers of all automobiles brought into the garage."
"If it is a good law it should be observed and if it is not a good law it should be repealed."
"The purpose of the law was to assist in finding stolen automobiles."
"I am required, under an act of the last general assembly, to issue a weekly bulletin, giving the numbers of all stolen automobiles which are reported to me by the police officers and sheriffs in various sections of the state. These bulletins are sent to all police officers and sheriffs and if each garage kept a register of cars brought in for repairs or storage it would greatly aid in finding the missing automobiles."
Protects Garage Man.
"In many instances it would be a protection to the garage owner. Not long ago a garage owner wrote in and asked to have a special number given to an engine of an automobile which he had in storage in his shop, in order that he might sell the car to pay for storage and repairs. Investigation showed that the car had been brought in, a number of accessories ordered put on it, and the owner had never called for it. The engine number had been effaced. Evidently the car had been stolen. We refused to issue the special number because it would be aiding in the disposal of a stolen automobile."
"If the garage owner had obeyed the law and looked for the number when the car was brought in he would have discovered the deception and prevented the running up of a bill for storage and accessories."

Clean Distributor Head.
Do not overlook the distributor head in your spring cleaning. Remove it carefully and clean out the dust and around the segments with gasoline and a cloth, if the segments are very black use fine sandpaper and wipe off carefully afterward. Finish with a little oil or kerosene.

SECURE MOST SPEED OUT OF AUTOMOBILE

Motor Pulls Best When Throttle is Partly Open.

Adjustment Depends on Carburetor and Particular Make of Car—Perfect Mixture Will Always Make Strongest Explosion.

The purpose of a throttle in an automobile is to control the speed and power output of the motor. Under usual conditions the wider the throttle is opened the greater the speed of the car and the more horse power the engine will develop. In theory this should always be so, but in practice it is not, writes G. W. Iverson in the Orange Judd Farmer. Every experienced driver knows that under certain conditions the greatest speed and the most power is not developed when the throttle is fully opened but when it is only partially opened.

In a slow heavy pull up a hill or in the mud the motor will pull better and hang on longer if the throttle is partly closed. The same thing is true in speeding. Just how much to open the throttle under these conditions depends upon the adjustment of the carburetor and the make of the car. Usually it is about half the maximum opening. The driver should experiment with his own car and find out which opening will be the best for his own particular car.

The reason for this is that carburetors are not perfect. If properly adjusted for one speed, they will not be right for another speed. Unless the motor gets a perfect mixture it will not get the strongest explosion. A given volume of air will absorb only a certain amount of gasoline vapor. A mixture containing less vapor than this will have excess which does not burn during the explosion. If it has excess vapor some of the vapor does not burn. In either case the explosion is weaker than it should be. Keeping the throttle only partly open tends to correct some of the faults of the carburetor and gives a more perfect mixture. Try it the next time you climb a long hill on high.

HOLDER FOR STARTING CRANK

Arrangement Outlined for Keeping Device in Place Will Be Found Very Effective.

On some older types of automobiles no provision was made for securing the starting crank when it was disengaged. The arrangement shown here with for holding the starting crank is easy to make and apply and will be found very effective. The sketch shows

The Pin on the Jaw-Clutch that Slips Into a Notch for Holding Crank in an Upright Position.

The usual jaw-clutch shaft held in bearing fastened to the underside of the radiator channel.

The crank-holding device consists of a hardened steel pin driven in the large part of the clutch shaft so that it will engage the slot plate when the spring forces the shaft outward. When cranking the motor the pin clears the slot plate. The pin is either a drive fit in the clutch shaft or is threaded. If the shaft is hardened it will be necessary to anneal it before trying to drill the holes.—W. Burr Bennett, in Popular Science Monthly.

Why Castoria?

YEARS ago Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups were the remedies in common use for Infants and Children; Castor Oil so nauseating as to be almost impossible and the others all containing Opium in one form or another, but so disguised as to make them pleasant to the taste, yet really to stupefy the child and give the appearance of relief from pain.

It required years of research to find a purely vegetable combination that would take the place of these disagreeable, unpleasant and vicious remedies that from habit had become almost universal. This was the inception of, and the reason for, the introduction of Fletcher's Castoria, and for over 30 years it has proven its worth, received the praise of Physicians everywhere and become a household word among mothers.

A remedy ESPECIALLY prepared for Infants and Children and no mother would think of giving to her baby a remedy that she would use for herself, without consulting a physician.

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

Have You Tried It?

Everybody has read the above headline; how many believe it? Have you a little one in the home, and has that dear little mite when its stomach was not just right felt the comforts that come with the use of Fletcher's Castoria? You have heard the cry of pain. Have you heard them cry for Fletcher's Castoria? Try it.

Just help baby out of its trouble tomorrow with a taste of Castoria. Watch the difference in the tone of the cry, the look in the eye, the wiggle in the tiny fingers. The transformation is complete—from pain to pleasure. Try it.

You'll find a wonderful lot of information about Baby in the booklet that is wrapped around every bottle of Fletcher's Castoria.

A REWARD OF $5,000.00

Men who make good use of their time have none to spare.
Would be a small amount to pay for saving a man's life. If you could save your life for a dollar bill would you hesitate to spend it? You risk your life every time you drive your car in the rain because you can't see through your windshield. A dollar bill sent to the Baltimore Sea-Thru Corporation, Baltimore, Maryland, will ensure you having a clear windshield for the next three years, as their preparation is guaranteed to keep your glass as clear as a summer's day. Nothing like it on the market. One application will last as long as a rain storm even if it lasts a month. It is absolutely guaranteed to give satisfaction or money refunded. Send for it today and be prepared for the next rain storm.—Advertisement.

And the Discussion Ended.

Two little boys, living in different towns, one day were visiting an aunt in a distant city. A discussion arose between them as to the merits of their home towns. The heights of their respective churches became a part of the discussions.
"Our church reaches above the tree-tops," said one.
"Our church reaches to the sky," retorted the other.
"Oh, but the steeple of our church reached clear above the sky and punched a hole through heaven," exclaimed the first boy, and this closed the argument.

Often the careworn man looks so because he isn't properly fed.

The man who has more than the other fellow should do more.

Letting Him In.
"Well, well, young gentleman!" exclaimed the affable old person. "I'd give a great deal to be able to join in your sport."
"Stick around, grandpaw," said one sturdy youngster. "If we knock this ball through somebody's window we'll let you go for it."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Cotton is going to be a very profitable crop for the Plains this year, and thousands of acres will be planted. Last year's crop was the shortest in decades, and the surplus has been reduced to such an extent that many factories have closed. English and other foreign mills are wanting American cotton, and as their credit is being restored they will be able to buy the fleecy staple, to make up the cloth for the clothing of their millions of people. The great floods that have inundated the Mississippi valley, and nearly all other rivers throughout the Southern States, have destroyed millions of acres of cotton which was already planted. When these waters subside and the ground gets dry enough for planting, the season will be too far advanced for cotton planting, as such cotton as might be planted will fall victim to the boll weevils, which deplete the late cotton.—Lockney Beacon.

We wish to advise the public that we have opened a new and complete abstract plant in the City of Tahoka, Lynn County, Texas, and are prepared to give the best of service in this line of work—abstracting, conveyancing, curing defective titles, etc.

Due to the fact that there has been no competition in the abstract business in Lynn County for the last three years the people have been charged extortionate fees. Here-fore the people of Lynn county have been charged $1.00 per page, or fraction thereof, for their abstracts.

We are prepared to give prompt and active service and wish to advise that we have decided to make abstracts at the above mentioned fee. We have made it possible for you to save approximately 50% on all abstract work, and will appreciate your business.

Now Mr. Public, please allow us the privilege to ask you just one little question. Do you think the fee for abstract work would have been reduced had there been no competition as it has been for the past three years?

The price of building material is in line with the price of the commodities you sell. If you are a farmer see how the price of a two hundred pound hog will compare in purchasing lumber with a two hundred pound hog in 1918, when the price of everything was up.

Don't contemplate Building,—Just build!—Never before was the time better for the builder. Our fine materials priced within the reach of all, makes building costs mighty low, and really for fine building and economical building, our materials cannot be beaten. Figure with us.

YOUR HEALTH GRADUALLY SLIPPING?

Amazing Experience of a Texas Lady Who Declares That if More Women Knew About Cardui They Would Be Spared Much Sickness and Worry.

Brooks, Texas.—Mrs. W. M. Peden, who relates the following interesting account of how she recovered her health, having realized that she was gradually losing her health: "Health is the greatest thing in the world, and when you feel that gradually slipping away from you, you certainly sit up and take notice. That is what I did some time ago when I found myself in a nervous, run-down condition of health. I was so tired and felt so lifeless that I hardly go at all. I don't just account for work. I would get a bucket of water and would be so weak I would have to set it down and let it like I could lift it to the shelf. In this condition, of course, to do even housework was a task almost impossible to accomplish. I was so nervous and easily upset. I couldn't rest well at night and was just lifeless. "I heard of Cardui and after reading I decided I had some female trouble that was pulling me down. I sent for Cardui and began it. "In a very short while after I began the Cardui Home Treatment I saw an improvement and it wasn't long until I was all right—good appetite, splendid rest, and much stronger so that I easily did my house work. "Later I took a bottle of Cardui as a tonic. I can recommend Cardui and gladly do so, for if more women knew, it would save a great deal of worry and sickness." The enthusiastic praise of thousands of other women who have found Cardui helpful should convince you that it is worth trying. All druggists sell it.

We meet competition regardless of price; as to service, will let the past speak for itself. It is true that the public have been charged extortionate prices for the past 3 years for their abstract work.

Please stop and see what prices were being charged when we had what was known as the West Texas and Lynn County Abstract firms operating in our County. When these plants were purchased by B. H. Robinson they were operated under the name of the Lynn County Abstract Co., with the same fees that were charged, when both plants were being operated.

As to who operated them it is hardly worth while to mention.

The Lynn County Abstract Company is the oldest and only complete abstract Company in the County, having been doing business here for the past 17 years.

As to the qualifications, as abstractor's will refer you to any business firm or bank in the county, and our work and service speaks for itself. The price which has been charged is the customary price all over the West. However, we remain to meet all competition, regardless of price with the same service and accuracy, as you have received in the past.

Frocks for the Summer Season

It is hardly a slip from spring things into summer things. And the French couturiers have a way of slipping both of the seasons at once upon our bewildered senses, observes a fashion writer in the New York Times. Of course, there are many of their designs which can be applied to either season, but when we begin to separate the summer things—those for early summer most particularly—we find fascinating models worthy of our most careful consideration.

The French cleave always to simple designs. Nothing else has the least interest for the Parisian dressmaker. So that, naturally, we expect to find more or less plainness of design among their summer dresses; which type of frock lends itself most conspicuously to the unpretentious methods of treatment. But the way they have of varying simplicity is a matter of constant astonishment even to expectant on-lookers. They will conceive a new way of handling gingham which is so ultra plain that the only remark we can think of to make is, "Why didn't I think of that first?" But that is the whole point. It takes the French to think of it first. That is the way their originality makes itself felt.

In the shops all sorts of new gingham and organdies and cottons of varying sorts are making their appearance and these, mixed with the silk dresses and coats which will be such conspicuous portions of the summer wardrobes, are succeeding in making the dressmaking salons look like so many bright garden spots.

It seems as though there is far more leaning toward the wearing of real summer clothes than there has been for some years. The fact is that they are made in so tailored a manner that they can be worn either in the country or in town, and for the hot days they are very much in demand by all women, no matter where they reside.

Fashioned From Two Materials.

So many of the warm weather frocks, whether they are made of silk or of cotton, are fashioned from two materials. That is, they will have either their upper half or their lower half made of one sort of fabric and the other portion made of some contrasting weave and color. These are among the most attractive of the new summer things.

Then there is one very new and popular dress that is made of either twill or silk, with the skirt and coat of matching material. Then the bodice section, which is made on extremely long-waisted lines, has a row of large buttons ranged round its lower edge and to these the skirt buttons with big buttonholes. Between the buttonholes there are loose portions of the skirt allowed to bulge out and supply the necessary fullness to the skirt. Sometimes these bodices are made of a fine quality of white pique which is stiff enough to form the necessary body to which the skirt is attached. Others of them have pongee used for the waist purpose, and either the one or the other of these materials looks very well indeed.

Taffeta is one of the materials which is used for summer dresses this season. They are not only the evening frocks, but also those, in plain designs, for afternoon, and even for street wear. Of course, the darker colors of this silk are chosen for the two latter uses, and they are then made up most simply, but the crispness of the silk and the charm of the designs of the new frocks make them positively irresistible. Crepe dresses, of course, still hold good in a perfectly remarkable degree, but there are many places and occasions where the taffeta ones will be the very best things to be found. One always looks fresh and snappy in a frock of stiff taffeta, and if one has the figure to stand the puffiness of the designs of these dresses, then one can hardly keep from having at least one of them.

Short and Tight Sleeves.
The French designers are still—or again—using short and tight sleeves for their summer frocks. They seem to know that there is no other portion of a gown that looks so cool as the one that clasps tightly about the arm and allows those long, white, bare arms to show and to be really cool. So, if you are at all inclined to want to wear short, little, close-fitting sleeves, why, then, you are privileged to go as far as you like and to design your own dresses according to your own tastes. You have the sanction of the French couturier behind you.

An excellent type of gingham dress was made from a red and white Rodier fabric in a soft, thin woolen material, but it is peculiarly well adapted to the use of gingham or chintz or ratine or any of those heavier cotton materials.

The little Bramleigh collar is somewhat in this design, changed so that it hugs more closely about the throat and then the little edging of linen, from which material the collar and cuffs are made, is carried in a strip down the entire length of the skirt. There was a black ribbon bow under the chin, and the girl wore a drooping black straw hat with red dahlias massed about the base of the crown.

The waistline of this plain little frock is placed at an entirely normal angle and the belt which holds it in place there is made of white kid to repeat the other white touches on the frock. The bodice is but slightly bloused and the sleeves are gathered a trifle at the place where they meet the flaring and turned-back cuffs.

The summer suit or the suit for early spring is a portion of women's attire which must be considered all by itself. It is something which is so necessary, but if it is too thick or even too thin, why then it fails entirely to serve the very purpose for which it was meant. It must be weighty enough to serve for the cooler days and thin enough to make it possible for wear on days which become pretty well heated, and before it is time to change to the real thin summer frocks.

Will Use Heavier Silks.

This season many of these suits will be made of the heavier silks. Some of them will be made of the cotton ratines. Others of them, of course, will be made from the lighter weight serges and varieties of cashmere which are now upon the market. But as for the designs of the suits they will vie with the dresses for utter simplicity. Some of the coats are boxed. Some of them are made on cape lines without any linings and some of them are little short-belted jackets with rather full pleatins that flare out above the hips. There will be linen suits, of course, and some made of those cotton materials which are a combination of cotton and linen and which do not muss with nearly so much ease as those which are made from pure linen.

There is one of the belted suits made of white linen which shows a very faint dark blue stripe. There is a crossed waistcoat of printed linen or blocked linen, as they call it, and this shows both the blue and white with sprinklings of vivid orange in the design. The coat is an excellent illustration of those little ones that are belted low about the hips, and the skirt is made with just a little extra fullness at the side, where it is made to close under two or three flatly pressed plaits.

There are other suits made of ratine which show the whole bodice constructed of a piece of brightly toned chintz in the zayest of patterns. Of course this brilliant piece of pattern only shows as the coat falls apart at front, but there it does full justice to itself in creating, really, the whole decoration of the suit. This is a costume suit in its best sense, and one that will be able to serve more than one purpose through the hot summer.

CAPE AND CAPE WRAPS; HAT BRIMS ARE WIDENING

ON MANY a sunny day gentle spring suddenly turns the cold shoulder to confiding mortals. But we have long ago learned to expect it, and thereby hangs the tale of wraps for spring. Every year we must prepare ourselves for emergencies of chilly weather that drops in on a winter-weary world just when the calendar is holding out every promise of balmy days. Since we must have wraps we demand that they interpret spring and be smart and even swaggy.

After a review of the styles it is evident that the smart set among hat brims grow wider; for the short skirt is not a natural ally of picturesque hats. Skirts are longer and brims are widening. Encouraged by the mounting summer sun there is no telling just how far they will go, but they will not eclipse the small hat. It rules a realm of its own and is secure in it.

The group of new millinery shown here leads off with a small tailored hat having an upturned brim, faced with tacked taffeta and trimmed with two quills thrust through the silk. It is covered with a highly lustrous millery fabric and is one of the most successful of the spring's tailored models. Next to it appears a pretty brimmed hat in white with a silk crown and braid brim. It is finished with a wide collar of ribbon, made by weaving two narrow ribbons together.

A handsome, early arrival among the new wide-brimmed hats, as pictured, is covered with black taffeta and faced with braid. A wreath of simulated foliage made of taffeta folds is a clever bit of artistry that distinguishes this all-black model. Placed last, but in the lead so far as popularity is concerned, appears a straw shape with wide, lacey brim. It has a sash of ribbon, ending in three loops at each side and a generous half-wreath of blossoms across the front.

As a rival to this substantial and beautiful garment the picture presents a dressy wrap made of a soft coating. It has a yoke and dolman sleeves and appears to be a member of the cape family that has made departures from family traditions. But it achieves a cape effect by means of a deep silk fringe across the back, falling from the yoke.

"THAT'S ALL!"

SYNOPSIS.—In a preface Mary Marie explains her apparent "double personality" and just why it is a "cross-current and a contradiction"; she also tells her reasons for writing the diary—later to be a novel. The diary is commenced at Andersonville. Mary begins with a description of her father, who is a famous astronomer, less than a new star which was discovered the same night. Her name is a compromise: her mother wanted to call her Viola and her father insisted on Abigail Jane. The child quickly learned that her home was in some way different from those of her many friends, and was puzzled thereat. Nurse Sarah tells her of her mother's arrival at Andersonville as a bride and how astonished they all were at the sight of the thirty-eight-year-old girl whom the sedate professor had chosen for a wife. Nurse Sarah makes it plain why the household seemed a strange one to the child and how her father and mother drifted apart through misunderstanding, each too proud in any way to attempt to smooth over the situation. Mary Marie of the time spent "out west" where the "perfectly all right and genteel and respectable" divorce was being arranged for, and her mother's (to her unaccountable behavior. By the court's decree the child is to spend six months of the year with her mother and six months with her father. Boston is Marie's home. Mary describes her life as Marie with her mother in Boston.

Well, to resume and go on. There's no violinist. I mustn't forget him. Then, nobody could forget him. He's lovely; so handsome and distinguished-looking with his perfectly beautiful dark eyes and white teeth, and he plays—well, I'm simply crazy over his playing. I only wish Carrie Greenwood could hear him. She thinks her brother can play. He's a traveling violinist with a show; and he came once to Andersonville. And I heard him. But he's not the real thing at all. Not a bit. Why, he might be anybody, our grocer, or the butcher, or the little blue, and his hair is red and very short. I wish she could hear our violinist play!

And there's another man that comes to the parties and tents;—oh, of course there are others, lots of them, married men with wives, and unmarried men with and without sisters. But I mean another man specially. His name is Marlow. He's a little man with a brown pointed beard and big soft brown eyes. He's really awfully good-looking, too. I don't know what he does; but he's married. I know that. He never brings his wife, though; but Mother's always asking for her, and she's distinct, and she always gives, and her voice kind of tinkles like little silver bells. But just the same she never brings her.

He never takes her anywhere. I heard Aunt Hattie tell Mother so at the very first, when he came. She said they weren't a bit happy together, and that there'd probably be a divorce some long. But Mother asked for just the same the very next time. And she's done it ever since.

I think I know now why she does. It was so exciting! You see, they were lovers once themselves—Mother and Mr. Marlow. Then something happened and they quarreled. That was just before Father came.

Of course Mother didn't tell me this, and Aunt Hattie. It was two ladies, and they were talking at a tea one day, and I was right behind them, and I couldn't get away, so I just couldn't help hearing what they said.

I'm not sure, anyway, that Mother'll want to get married again. From little things she says I rather guess she doesn't think much of marriage, any more.

One day I heard her say to Aunt Hattie that it was a very pretty thing that marriages were made in heaven, but that the real facts of the matter were that they were made on earth. And another day I heard her say that one trouble with marriage was that the husband and wife didn't know how to play together and to rest together. And lots of times I've heard her say little things to Aunt Hattie which showed how unhappy her marriage had been.

Last night a funny thing happened. We were all in the library after dinner, and Grandpa was looking up from his paper and said something about a woman that was supposed to be hanged and how a lot of men were writing letters protesting against having a woman hanged; but there were only one or two letters from women. And Grandpa said that only went to prove how much more lacking in a sense of fit things women were than men.

And Aunt Hattie bristled up and said to her chin, and said, real indig-

ing life for some other woman so absolutely miserable that she'd think hanging would be a lucky escape from something worse."

"Harriet!" exclaimed Grandpa in a shocked voice.

"Well, I mean it!" declared Aunt Hattie emphatically. "Look at poor Madge here, and that wretch of a husband of hers!"

And just here is where the funny thing happened. Mother bristled up—Mother!—and even more than Aunt Hattie had. She turned red and then white, and her eyes blazed.

"That will do, Hattie, please, in my presence," she said, very cold, like ice. "Dr. Anderson is not a wretch at all. He is an honorable, scholarly gentleman. Without doubt he meant to be kind and considerate. He simply did not understand me. We weren't suited to each other. That's all."

And she got up and swept out of the room.

Now, wasn't that funny? But I just loved it, all the same. I always love Mother when she's superb and haughty and disdainful.

Well, after she had gone Aunt Hattie looked at Grandpa and Grandpa looked at Aunt Hattie. Grandpa shrugged his shoulders, and gave his hands a funny little flourish; and Aunt Hattie lifted her eyebrows and said: "Well, what do you know about that?" (Aunt Hattie forgot I was in the room, I know, or she'd never in the world have used slang like that!) "And after all the things she's said about how unhappy she was!" finished Aunt Hattie.

"That Will Do, Hattie, Please, in My Presence," She Said, Very Cold, Like Ice.

Grandpa didn't say anything, but just gave his funny little shrug again.

And it was kind of queer, when you come to think of it—about Mother, I mean, wasn't it?

ONE MONTH LATER

Well, I've been here another whole month, and it's growing nicer all the time. I just love it here.

And Mother is happy, I'm sure she is. Somebody is doing something for her every moment—seems so. They are so glad to get her back again. I know they are. I heard two ladies talking one day, and they said they were. They called her "Poor Madge," and "Dear Madge," and they said it was a shame that she should have had such a wretched experience, and that they for one should try to do everything they could to make her forget.

And that's what they all seem to be trying to do—to make her forget. There isn't a day goes by but that somebody sends flowers or books or candy, or invites her somewhere, or takes her to ride or to the theater, or comes to see her, so that Mother is in just one whirl of good times from morning till night. Why, she'd just have to forget. She doesn't have any time to remember. I think she is forgetting, too. Oh, of course she gets tired, and sometimes rainy days or twilights I find her on the sofa in her room not reading or anything, and her face looks "most as it used to sometimes after they'd been having one of their incompatibility times. But I don't find her that way very often, and it doesn't last long. So I really think she is forgetting.

About the prospective suitors—I found that "prospective suitor" in a story a week ago, and I just love it. It means you probably will want to marry her, you know. I use it all the time now—in my mind—when I'm thinking about those gentlemen that thinking about the unmarried ones). I come here (the unmarried ones). I forgot and used it out loud one day to Aunt Hattie; but I shan't again. She said, "Mercy!" and threw up her hands and looked over at Grandpa the way she does when I've said something she thinks is perfectly awful.

There it is again! I'm not old enough. When will I be allowed to take my proper place in life? Echo answers when.

Well, to resume and go on.

What was I talking about? Oh, I know—the prospective suitors. (Aunt Hattie can't hear me when I just write it, anyway.) Well, they all come just as they used to, only there are more of them now—two fat men, one slim one, and a man with a halo of hair round a bald spot. Oh, I don't mean that any of them are really suitors yet. They just come to call and to tea and send her flowers and candy. And Mother isn't a mite nicer to one than she is to any of the others. Anybody can see that. And she shows very plainly she's no notion of picking anybody out yet. But of course I can't help being interested and watching.

As I said before, I don't believe Mother'll choose Mr. Marlow, anyway, even when the time comes. As for any of the others—I can't tell. She treats them all just exactly alike, as far as I can see. Polite and pleasant, but not at all loverlike. I was talking to Peter one day about it, and I asked him, but he didn't seem to know, either, which one she will be likely to take, if any.

Peter's about the only one I can ask. Of course I couldn't ask Mother, or Aunt Hattie. And Grandfather—well, I should never think of asking Grandpa a question like that. But Peter—Peter's a real comfort. I'm sure I don't know what I should do for somebody to talk to and ask questions about things down here, if it wasn't for him. He takes me to school and back again every day; so of course I see him quite a lot.

Speaking of school, it's all right, and of course I like it, though not quite so well as I did. There are some of the girls—well, they act queer. I don't know what is the matter with them. They stop talking—some of them—when I come up, and they make me feel, sometimes, as if I didn't belong. Maybe it's because I came from a little country town like Andersonville. But they've known that all along, from the very first. And they didn't act at all like that at the beginning. Maybe it's just their way down here. If I think of it I'll ask Peter tomorrow.

Well, I guess that's all I can think of this time.

MOST FOUR MONTHS LATER

It's been ages since I've written here, I know. But there's nothing special happened. Everything has been going along just about as it did at the first. Oh, there is one thing different—Peter's gone. He went two months ago. We've got an awfully old chauffeur now. One with gray hair and glasses, and homely, too. His name is Charles. The very first day he came, Aunt Hattie told me never to talk to Charles, or bother him with questions; that it was better he should keep his mind entirely on his driving. She needn't have worried. I should never dream of asking him the things I did Peter. He's too stupid. Now Peter and I got to be real good friends—until all of a sudden Grandpa told him he might go. I don't know why.

I don't see as I'm any nearer finding out who Mother's lover will be than I was four months ago. I suppose it's still too soon. Peter said one day he thought widows ought to wait at least a year, and he guessed grass-widows were just the same. My, how mad I was at him for using that name about my mother! Oh, I knew what he meant. I'd heard it at school. (I know now what it was that made those girls act so queer and horrid.) There was a girl—I never liked her, and I suspect she didn't like me, either. Well, she found out Mother had a divorce. (You see, I hadn't told it. I remembered how those girls out West bragged.) And she told a lot of the others. But it didn't work at all as it had in the West. None of the girls in this school here had a divorce in their families; and, if you'll believe it, they acted—some of them—as if it was a disgrace, even after I told them good and plain that ours was a perfectly respectable and genteel divorce. Nothing I could say made a mite of difference, with some of the girls, and then is when I first heard that perfectly horrid word, "grass-widow." So I knew what Peter meant, though I was furious at him for using it. And I let him see it good and plain.

"There it is again! I'm not old enough!"

Self-Penalized.

One day in school I had been whispering to the boy behind me. The principal looked over my way and said: "You two boys come up here in these two front seats." I picked up a book and walked up to the front and sat down. Two boys from the back of the room came up also. The principal looked at me rather curiously and then said: "I didn't catch you."—Chicago Journal.

Something to Think About

By F. A. WALKER

THE WRONG KEY

OF THE hapless earthlings who call themselves men and women, thousands are wandering hither and thither in life, trying with the wrong key, to unlock the door of fame, success and honor.

If you will observe closely, you will see them every hour endeavoring to force a key into a lock which stubbornly refuses to respond to the violent twists and turns of nervous fingers.

The man who carries the key which will open the door to minor places, where he is sure of earning an independent competence, persists in tampering with locks behind whose paneled door there reposes the coveted chair of manager or president, too big for his occupancy.

Instead of reshaping his key by hard work and high thinking, flinging away the roughness to make it smooth, he continues foolishly to waste his time and energy, quite oblivious all the while to what he is really doing.

And so it is frequently with men of talent, too indifferent or indolent to do anything but routine work, when instead they should make use of the key given them by an all-wise Providence, unlock the right door, and rise to greatness.

If persuaded by reason to do this, they would find opportunity waiting with open arms to receive them, glad to round out their lives with happiness and prosperity.

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE

YOUR WORK

BY LAZINESS, procrastination, or by pretending to be stupider than you are, you can get quite a good deal of your work done for you—for a while.

If the man above you is quick and competent, he will frequently get so disgusted with you that he will snatch a job out of your hands, and do it himself.

No competent executive will do that, but you can count all the competent executives of your acquaintance on the fingers of one hand.

It will save you a good deal of trouble to have the hard job taken away from you. You can devote your time to doing the easy jobs at your leisure, and in your own way.

You will probably congratulate yourself on having a boss that is so skillful—so much abler than you—that he can do all the hard work.

But the congratulation will be short-lived. In about a year's time you will discover that you can't do anything but the easy jobs—which are the poorly paid ones, because you never gave your mind any exercise doing the hard ones.

All the opportunities for growth and for progress were in those jobs that were taken out of your hands. Maybe the boss who took 'em away from you didn't need the mental exercise, but the point is that he got it, and you didn't. By letting him take it away you got just as much out of the game as a ball player would whose captain played his position every time there was a critical stage in the game.

No matter what kind of work you have, a time is coming when it is going to become suddenly difficult. The importance of a certain task will increase tremendously owing to unexpected circumstances.

GOOD THINGS FOR THE FAMILY

EVERYBODY in the household likes cinnamon rolls or cinnamon buns. The following is a reliable recipe:

Take one cupful each of milk, water and sugar, two eggs, three-fourths of a cupful of shortening, one yeast cake and a teaspoonful of salt. Scald the milk and while it is still hot pour it over the shortening and add the sugar and hot water; when cool add the yeast cake which has been softened in one-half cupful of water, add the salt and enough flour to make a batter which drops from the spoon. Beat it thoroughly and let stand in a warm place over night. In the morning add the well beaten eggs and flour to make a dough which can be kneaded; knead lightly and well, put back into a well buttered bowl and let rise until double its bulk. Separate into two parts and roll out into a sheet. Spread this with soft butter, brown sugar, cinnamon and well washed and dried currants. Roll in a long roll and cut the buns in inch slices. Place them

Not to all is given supreme wisdom in these matters, but such as is bestowed, is generally hidden away in a napkin and ignored or forgotten.

Thus, when a young man or woman in a burst of passion unlocks the door to enmity, instead of friendship, to evil, instead of good, it becomes at once apparent that use has been made of the wrong key.

Proper judgment and action, all the exalted things in life, including faithfulness, honor and virtue, decline to show their shining faces to the carriers of the improper key.

What the foolish do with keys entrusted to them to open the world of life, makes wise men and women shudder.

And yet, when all has been said, when the story of life has been revealed from the morn of the toddling infant to the night of tottering age, who shall say that he or she has not at some time or another in his or her folly, used the wrong key?

THE HAND OF AN ACTOR

IN THE first place, to recognize whether a person, male or female, is or will be successful on the stage in playing dramatic or tragic parts, note whether the fingers are long and crooked. That is a good sign. Long fingers denote careful attention to details, and if the hand is wide and open, with the fingers widely separated, freedom of thought and independent action are indicated.

The mount of Venus (ball of the thumb) should be well criss-crossed or grilled, to denote inspiration and assumed passion. Next, note whether the second phalanx of the thumb is long, to show intellectual power. The mount of Luna should be unusually long, reaching well up on the outside of the palm toward the line of the heart, to show great imagination and eloquence, so essential to the actor of dramatic or tragic parts. Courage also is shown by a strong mount of Luna.

TAHOKA 5, LAMESA 14.

Tahoka went down in defeat at the hands of the Lamesa aggregation of ball tossers last Saturday afternoon on the home grounds, the score board showing them winners by 14 to 5. Tahoka did not seem to get in the game from the start. Many costly errors were made. Lamesa had a left handed twirler, which also added to their defeat; his wicked delivery was hard to place with safety. Paul Miller, the local manager, is planning on a general strengthening of his lineup in the future and fans will enjoy seeing many clean exhibitions of the national pastime during the summer months.
