Midland Chorus Of 100 To Be Heard In Program Tonight

Christmas Cantata Offered As One Of 'Auditorium Night' Features; Program Free, To Start At 8 o'Clock

Third of the series of "auditorium night" programs being presented here as a civic undertaking is slated for this evening, when a group of Midland singers—more than 100 in number—appear in a Christmas cantata. The program, as are all auditorium night events, is free, and the public is urged to attend.

Mishaps Take Twelve Lives Over Weekend

Three Killed, Another Injured When Truck Is Hit By Train

(By The Associated Press)

Twelve persons lost their lives in Texas highway accidents during the weekend.

Three men were killed and another injured last night when an eastbound Texas & Pacific passenger train demolished a light truck near Mineola.

Joe Sparks, 22, of Jamestown and Darrell Gandy, 18, died instantly. Price Hale, 19, died several hours after the accident. Herman Bailey, 19, was injured. All were from Sand Flat.

The youths had spent the day at Bailey's home and were en route to another farm when the truck was struck on a grade crossing.

Miss Vivian Johnson, 20, of Bee Cave was killed in a collision near Austin.

Coleman Victim

John Kossov, 75, died in a Galveston hospital of injuries suffered when struck by an automobile.

R. A. Walker, 66, was killed at Coleman when his car, jacked up to facilitate starting, backed over him.

An unidentified man about 30 years old was killed at Edinburg when struck by an automobile whose driver was blinded by lights of another car.

Ashley Jernigan, 32, died of injuries suffered in an accident near Fort Stockton. Medina Sloan was killed in the same accident.

Injuries received when a trailer loaded with wood crushed him Saturday proved fatal last night to Gilberto Montes, 6, Lavaca orphan.

The truck driver, Gabino Arriga, was charged with negligent homicide.

At Winsboro, Wood county Miss Naline Crump, 18, who lived three miles north of Como, Hopkins county, suffered fatal injuries when a disabled automobile in which she was sitting was struck by another machine.

MORE TOYS NEEDED FOR DISTRIBUTION TO NEEDY CHILDREN

Their supply replenished by the fall from a toy machine given at the Ritz theatre Saturday, city firemen today started their annual job of repairing old toys for gifts to poor children on Christmas day.

The amount of old toys received this year has been far below normal. Firemen were anxious to have people bring castoff playthings to the station at the earliest possible date so that they will have time to repair them before Christmas.

Any out-of-order or damaged toy, doll, wagon, or other playthings will be received by firemen.

SOCIAL SECURITY REGISTRATION GOES AT A GOOD RATE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14 (AP)—Officials expressed satisfaction today at the rate of registration for federal pension accounts after a check showed three-fifths of the eligible employers and more than two-fifths of the workers have signed.

There is no need, they said, for a second extension of the deadline for workers' applications which expires tomorrow.

The latest tabulation of forms returned to the social security board's Baltimore office showed about 2,200,000 from employers and 22,000,000 from employees, against original estimates of 3,800,000 and 26,000,000, respectively.

that city's church choirs and other musical organizations. The Christmas cantata has been presented annually by Midland singers for more than 10 years, and the event each year is an outstanding one.

Tonight's program—scheduled to start at 8 o'clock—will be Roy E. Nolte's "The Christmas Vision," which includes a profusion of fine Christmas music including anthems and hymns. Choir numbers are included, as well as solo and duet selections. The cantata was presented at the First Baptist church in Midland Sunday evening before a large crowd, and was received with high acclaim.

Midland representatives told The Herald this morning by telephone that that city will send at least 25 cars of people here for the program tonight. The group is leaving Midland at 6 p. m., and members will assemble at the Settles hotel here at 7 p. m. preparatory to the auditorium appearance.

The cantata is under direction of W. W. Lackey of the Midland schools, widely known in this section as a supervisor of choral events. Assisting him are Mrs. De Lo Douglas, D. D. Shifflet and M. A. Armstrong. Pianists are Miss Jessie Scott Price and Wallace Wimberley, and soloists will include Mrs. Douglas, Mrs. Foy Proctor and Mrs. Jack Hawkins. Some 13 selections will be heard in the cantata.

Colorado entertainers appeared in the first of the auditorium night series, and later younger folk of Big Spring presented a program. Both attracted good attendance, and local sponsors of the series are expecting a full house for the cantata tonight. Shine Phillips is supervising the series of programs.

SUIT ON NOTE SET FOR TOMORROW

Case of Joel H. Britton versus H. L. McCaugh, et al, suit on note and chattel mortgage and suit for writ of sequestration was set for trial in county court at 10 a. m. Tuesday.

Judge J. S. Garlington called the case in at a brief session Monday morning.

Other cases are due to be heard the latter part of the week.

To Ask Paving At State Park

Surfacing of four miles of drive ways through the Scenic Mountain state park will be sought by the state park board, J. H. Moore, head of the maintenance department for the board, said here in a conference with civic leaders Sunday.

Moore said that the project might be attempted in cooperation with either WPA or the state highway department. The board, he explained, is unable to do the work as a private contract job since it was limited to $3,500 for maintenance and construction by the legislature. The appropriation, he pointed out, had to suffice 74 state parks.

While here Moore talked with R. H. McNew, district WPA director, and W. T. Strange, manager of the chamber of commerce.

Originally surfaced roads through the park were provided by the national park service when it set the Scenic Mountain park up as a CCC project. Caliche base was placed over most of the drive except the rock cap portion on the north side of the mountain. At one time requisition was made for asphalt with which to do the topping.

Salvation Army Kettles Appear On Streets As Appeal For Aid To Needy

Christmas bells are ringing again on the street corners of Big Spring.

They are the sound signals for the familiar Salvation Army kettles, wherein public offerings are received for a fund that will bring Christmas cheer to those unfortunate who otherwise might find it a dreary day.

While the Army wants to reach all those in need with its Yuletide assistance, it wants to avoid duplications with other agencies and charity movements, Captain Clarice Gordon said Monday. She is asking that names of those who should receive Christmas baskets be reported to the Army Citadel at 122 Main street, during the next

PWA - Utility Case Ordered Back To The Lower Courts

The supreme court today sent back to lower courts for further action litigation challenging the constitutionality of public works administration loans and grants for publicly owned hydro-electric projects.

A seven-page order by the court said "we express no opinion on the relevancy or effect of the evidence, or otherwise upon the merits."

High Tribunal Gives No Opinion On Suit's Merits

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14 (AP)—The supreme court today ordered dismissal of litigation in which the Associated Press sought an injunction to restrain radio station KVOS of Bellingham, Wash., from broadcasting the press association's news.

In a unanimous decision delivered by Justice Roberts the court held that the bill of complaint should have been dismissed by the federal district court for Western Washington on the ground that the amount in controversy was insufficient.

"The decree of the circuit court of appeals is reversed," the court ordered "and the cause is remanded to the district court with directions to dismiss the bill of complaint for want of jurisdiction."

The ninth circuit court of appeals had granted an injunction enjoining broadcasting of the news until 18 hours after publication.

The Associated Press, which filed the original action, contended the station was "pirating" news dispatches from the Bellingham Herald, the Seattle Post-Intelligencer, and the Seattle Times, all members of the cooperative press association.

Dismissal of the complaint was ordered by the federal district court for Western Washington, but it was reversed by the circuit court.

John W. Davis, New York attorney, contended that the news was the property of the press association as long as it had commercial value. This was disputed by William H. Pemberton of Olympic, Washington, attorney for the radio station. He asserted his client had a right to broadcast the news as soon as it was published in a newspaper.

Police were investigating the discovery of a burning car on the cut-off road from E. 11th street to old highway No. 1 (Lovers Lane) Sunday night. When officers arrived on the scene, the car was demolished. Piles of cedar boughs had been placed upon it and fired, they said.

TEST WELL FOR CITY WATER IS SPUDED

First of a series of test wells to be sunk on a water lease on the J. M. and Bernard Fisher ranch southeast of town was spudded today on the southeast quarter of section 43-42-1s, T&P survey. Under an agreement approved last week by city commissioners, the city pays $80 for each test well in return for water rights on as many acres.

STRANGE TO SPEAK BEFORE SNYDER CLUB

W. T. Strange, Jr., manager of the chamber of commerce, will make the feature address before the Snyder Lions club in their ladies' night program this evening. It is to be the pre-Christmas function of the club which last week held a successful entertainment to raise funds for its welfare work.

George Sends Message To Parliament

Plunges Into Affairs Of State As Edward Rests In Austria

LONDON, Dec. 14 (AP)—George VI, Britain's new king, pledged to his parliament today "my constant endeavor, with God's help and supported by my dear wife, to uphold the honor of the realm and promote the happiness of the people."

His message was read to the house of lords, while Edward, Duke of Windsor, sought relaxation in the guarded grounds of an Austrian castle and, as a private citizen, arranged to consult a Vienna specialist for an old ear ailment.

CANNES, France, Dec. 14 (AP)—New guards watched Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson today as the result of abusive letters criticizing her relations with Edward, former king of England.

A detective from Surete Nationale was designated as a special guard for the American woman on all trips from the villa Lou Vie.

Into the new king's promise he injected the phrase, "at a moment of great personal distress." It was George VI's forty-first birthday, but in the grave aftermath of empire crisis created by his brother's love for a twice-married American he waived all anniversary ceremony.

His action was in keeping with a call from the Archbishop of Canterbury for a nation consecrated anew to christian sobriety.

At Cannes, Wallis Warfield Simpson, the woman for whom Edward renounced the throne and all that it is linked to, was guarded with new vigilance after the receipt of abusive letters. She did, however, spend a short time in the bright sunshine of the garden at Villa Lou Vie.

The country needs a renewal of its belief in the christian life, asserted the Archbishop of Canterbury in a castigation of former King Edward as a man who "disappointed hopes so high and abandoned a trust so great."

While Edward relaxed at Vöslau, Austria, where he retired to await his wedding with Mrs. Simpson, his brother George VI plunged into his state duties at Buckingham Palace.

Negro Church Is Destroyed

Blaze Caused By Oil Stove Explosion; Loss Set At $1,000

Explosion of an oil stove in the pastor's study Sunday morning resulted in the destruction of the Mount Bethel (colored) Baptist church in the northwestern part of the city.

Firemen, called to the scene, were helpless to fight the fire since the nearest plug was too far removed for a hose connection.

Church officials estimated the loss at $1,000 and said that a small portion of it might be covered by insurance.

The stove had been placed in Rev. J. Y. Dixon's study Sunday morning for the first time. While he was in the middle of his sermon, the stove exploded and bathed the room in flames.

The building, a large frame structure, was all but paid for by its membership. Less than $100 was owing on the property, members said.

10 Youths Under 21, Record Number Of Juveniles, Await Death In Chair

With ten youths under 21 years awaiting execution, the dreaded death house at Sing Sing prison is being called "the high school" today by the penitentiary's 2,450 prisoners.

The youngest is James Sullivan, the Brooklyn bulldozer, who at 17 years beat to death a store-keeper for a paltry nine dollars.

Warden Lewis E. Lawes said that never in the history of criminology in the United States had there been so many condemned youths awaiting execution.

The first of the youths to go will be Salvatore Scata, who with five others, dies during the week of January 4 for the robbery and murder of a Brooklyn subway employee. He is 15.

Three others die in the week of January 11. They are Lawrence Jackson, Wenforth Springer and Robert Taliaferro, all of whom killed during robberies.

Henry Stevens, Frederick Fowler and Charles Ham die during the week of January 18. Ham is called a particularly "vicious" youth in the prison probation report. In one robbery, a butcher was slow in opening a strong-box Ham was on, and chopped two fingers off.

No dates have been set for the executions of Sullivan, Alfred Volekman or Charles Waterbury, because their cases are awaiting affirmation of sentence by the court of appeals, which seldom reverses a jury decision.

Families of the condemned youths may visit three times a week until the week of execution. Then the other condemned men make the gallant gesture, as is customary in the death house. They give up their privileges so that sorrowing mothers and other close relatives may visit every day those who "are going" that week.

They've all changed from show-offs and wisecrackers in court-room and on street corners, and now they are frightened young men who realize that death is just around the corner, Lawes said.

Govt. Forces Move To Free Military Head

Reports That Kai-Shek Is Victor In Counter-Coup Are Unconfirmed

NANKING, Dec. 14 (AP)—China's national government military machine moved swiftly tonight on bleak Shenai Province, where government authorities were convinced, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek still was held prisoner by his rebellious "young marshal," Chang Hsueh-Liang.

Responsible circles said they had no confirmation of reports that the generalissimo had imprisoned his captor in a counter coup.

Thousands of national government soldiers in north and northwest China were reported on the march to surround the whole of Shenai Province, hoping to close every avenue of escape to the "young marshal."

In the last 24 hours, it was estimated, 25,000 soldiers had departed from Nanking toward the northwest, bound for the eastern and southern borders of Shenai.

The forces represented all branches of China's armed forces, all under the command of war.

China, many believed, faced a disastrous civil war.

The dictator-general, imprisoned Saturday with 20 of his subordinates in a sudden rebellion led by the youthful Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang, was definitely reported alive at Sian-Fu, capital of barren Shenai.

While troop trains rumbled westward over the Lungan railway, last-minute negotiations were opened to free the head of the Nanking government—if possible—by peaceful means.

Yu Yu-Jen, chairman of the national government, hastened to Loyang, 200 miles east of Sian, in north-west Honan Province, charged with the delicate task of securing Chiang's release from Marshal Chang, heretofore one of the dictator's trusted associates.

Indicating the critical nature of the situation, Yen Hsi-Shan, pacification commissioner of neighboring Shansi and Suiyuan Provinces, telegraphed Nanking, pleading that punitive measures against the mutinous Chang be withheld.

"Undertake every other means rescuing hostages," Yen's message urged.

He was said to have reported to the Nanking government that he had been informed from Sian that the generalissimo was safe and well, but that his liberty of movement was curtailed.

SOVIET PART DENIED

MOSCOW, Dec. 14 (AP)—The authoritative newspaper Pravda denied today Japanese charges the soviet was involved in Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang's revolt against the Chinese government.

The news of the Chinese crisis brought about by the capture of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek by Chang dominated all Moscow papers.

The situation was treated as gravely important.

GENERAL ALIVE

BERLIN, Dec. 14 (AP)—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, held by military rebels in north China, is positively alive, his 20-year-old son was informed officially today.

The military overlord's son—Chiang Wei-Ko—is a student at the University of Berlin.

Since first news of his father's "detention" he has received regular news from the German foreign office and the German foreign office concerning the situation in Shenai.

The Domei (Japanese) newspaper agency quoted responsible political observers in China as believing execution by a firing squad or life imprisonment, was the most likely order which Marshal Chang would write for his captured superior.

Nanking, said the agency, was believed to be attempting to buy off the young marshal. But the Chinese observers said they doubted whether the crafty Chang could be persuaded to free the generalissimo on Nanking's terms.

Domei also said it was feared now that anti-Japanese agents of the Chinese popular front would attempt to divide China into two hostile camps, the popular front and the national front—and bring about something of an oriental Spain.

Such a situation, the agency contended, would lead to intensified international turmoil.

Cunningham-Philips Store Robbed Of Cash, Merchandise

Burglars Saturday night pruned open the front door of Cunningham & Philips No. 1 store and made away with approximately $15 in cash and an undetermined amount of merchandise.

A check was being made today in an effort to ascertain how much merchandise was taken.

No attempt was made to rife the store safe, it was said. The burglary apparently occurred either midnight.

TREATED IN HOSPITAL

Charles Edwin Duckens, son of T. E. Duckens, was given emergency treatment at the Big Spring hospital Saturday evening for cuts and scratches received when thrown from a horse. He fell upon a barbed wire fence.

CHIANG KAI-SHEK

Japs Worried Over Russia's Part In Case

Tokyo Consults Germany On Extraordinary Turn Of Events In China

TOKYO, Dec. 14 (AP)—Tokyo consulted Germany, her anti-communist ally, today on reports the Komintern was behind the amazing seizure of Chiang Kai-Shek amid Chinese predictions that China's overlord may face a firing squad.

At the same time it was reported the vanguard of a Chinese rescue expedition, pressing toward rebel-held Sianfu, had clashed with the mutinous troops of young Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang, who has seized Generalissimo Kai-Shek.

Eight divisions of the Chinese central army, said Japanese dispatches from the mainland, were poised to assault Sianfu, capital of Shenai province, which is presumed to be the place where Chiang Kai-Shek is held.

Communists Blamed

Germany, to whom Japan is bound by a newly-announced anti-communist accord, was consulted quickly by the Tokyo regime.

The press said there was indubitable proof the communist international had instigated the seizure of Generalissimo Chiang and his generals.

Military observers said the coup d'etat would have been impossible unless Marshal Chang, hot-headed former warlord of Manchuria, had formed an alliance with the communist leaders he was supposed to have been fighting.

Such an alliance, these observers declared, opened up a "red route" from Moscow to North Central China.

Denied By Russia

(The official Soviet press denied flatly that the Soviet was in any way involved in the Chang rebellion. It hinted broadly that "Japanese provocateurs" and their "clumsy work" to further the dismemberment of China were behind the affair.)

The Domei (Japanese) newspaper agency quoted responsible political observers in China as believing execution by a firing squad or life imprisonment, was the most likely order which Marshal Chang would write for his captured superior.

Nanking, said the agency, was believed to be attempting to buy off the young marshal. But the Chinese observers said they doubted whether the crafty Chang could be persuaded to free the generalissimo on Nanking's terms.

Domei also said it was feared now that anti-Japanese agents of the Chinese popular front would attempt to divide China into two hostile camps, the popular front and the national front—and bring about something of an oriental Spain.

Such a situation, the agency contended, would lead to intensified international turmoil.

HUBBELL RUNNER-UP IN AP POLL

(Note: This is the first of a series of stories analyzing results of the sixth annual Associated Press sports poll.)

By ALAN GOULD
NEW YORK, Dec. 14 (AP)—To his collection of four Olympic gold medals, as many oak trees, and the profits of his big brood jump from amateur to professional ranks, Jesse Owens today can add the accolade of recognition as the outstanding athlete of 1936.

The sepa streak from Ohio State, crowned world champion sprinter and broad jumper in the Olympic games at Berlin, ran off with the ballots in the sixth annual poll conducted by the Associated Press to determine this year's leading performer among the men, amateur or pro, in any sport.

Owens is the second negro in succession to achieve this athletic distinction. Last year Joe Louis, the Brown Bomber of the ring, was voted the outstanding performer.

Forty-one of the 65 experts contributing to the 1936 poll put Owens at the top of the list. With a total of 170 points in the final tabulation, Jesse nearly trebled the count of his nearest rival, Carl Hubbell, southpaw ace of the New York Giants and hero of the years' longest winning streak. Hubbell, voted the outstanding athlete of 1933, posted 61 points.

- 1-Jesse Owens .....170
2-Carl Hubbell .....61
3-Larry Kelley .....33
4-Max Schmeling, conqueror of Joe Louis .....17
5-Glenn Morris, world champion champion Texas Christian's star quarterback; Don Budge, American tennis ace; Freddie Steele, new middleweight boxing champion; and Ellsworth Vines, pro tennis star.
One point each: Ab Jenkins, holder of automobile distance records; and Ralph Guldahl, professional golf star.
Previous poll winners: 1931, Pepper Martin, St. Louis Cardinals outfielder; 1932, Gene Sarzen, British and American open golf champion; 1933, Carl Hubbell, New York Giants' southpaw ace and world series hero; 1934, Dizzy Dean, Cardinals' pitching ace; and 1935, Joe Louis, heavyweight boxing sensation.

Cochran Holds Third World Billiard Title

CHICAGO, Dec. 14 (AP)—Walker Cochran of San Francisco held his third world's three cushion billiards championship today—and a lion's share of the starring honors of the 1936 angle tournament.

The West Coast expert clinched the title in the early morning hours yesterday by defeating Kinrey Matsuyama of Japan, 50 to 37 in 58 innings. Starting Friday afternoon, Cochran put on one of the most spectacular finishes ever seen in the sport. He defeated Johnny Layton of Sedalia, Mo., seven time titleholder, and then downed Matsuyama to send the tournament into a three way tie for first place.

In the tie playoff game Cochran downed Tiff Denton of Kansas City 50 to 33, in 49 innings. Taking the floor against Matsuyama a half hour later Cochran repeatedly made difficult shots to build up a lead. When the Japanese star threatened Cochran ran six and shortly afterward ran out with a brilliant cluster of five points.

Civil War Looms In Bunkerland Over Question Of Stymlie

By CHARLES GRUMICH
(Last in a series)
NEW YORK, Dec. 14 (AP)—Clinical examination of the stymlie through questionnaires circulated by the U. S. Golf association among the tractor craftsmen in the 1936 national amateur may remove the threat of a civil war in Bunkerland.

The U. S. G. A. asked for data as to the circumstances and ultimate effect of all stymlies laid in the tournament which produced the stymlie's cause celebre when Johnny Fischer uncoiled a great rally stemming from a stymlie at the 34th hole to defeat Jock MacLean of Scotland in the finals.

The answers are being assimilated by a body which holds in highest respect the traditions of the ancient game and which seldom meddles with the rules that are faithfully guarded by the Royal and Ancient of Great Britain. Only with the greatest travail is a golf law ever amended.

However, stymlie abolitionists are likely to force a showdown at the January meeting of the U. S. G. A., which must decide whether (1) the stymlie is essential to the continued well-being of golf or (2) it is an undesirable part of the game that should be removed or (3) corrective measures should be taken in the way of a compromise.

Local as well as sectional differences exist in golf's big controversy. The Pacific Northwest, a stronghold of stymlie partisans, has a dissenting element—the Oregon Senior Golf association. "Members of our association," writes the senior secretary, Roscoe P. Hurst, "are almost entirely opposed to keeping the stymlie in golf. . . . In all our tournament play, with the exception of championship matches, it is optional. Generally speaking, we are in favor of eliminating it from golf."

Changes Are Suggested For Muny Course

A. W. Tillinghast, widely known golf course architect, praised the layout of the new nine holes at the Muny course yesterday when he went over the course with Chas. Akey, Muny pro.

Tillinghast, who is covering the country doing consultation work under auspices of the Professional Golfers' Association, spent almost three hours going over the layout and suggested several changes. He said the course was one of the best he had seen in the state.

Simplicity of design, with a thought to the enjoyment of the average golfer, plus a well arranged plan for maintenance, was the outline of a plan submitted by the architect.

Dukes And Montgomery Ward Loopers Lead Bi-County Cage Circuit

"Milway" Baker's Big Spring Dukes, victors in their first start in the Bi-County basketball league, will invade Forsan tonight to meet Continental.

The Dukes and the Montgomery Ward loopers are leading the circuit. Each has won one game. Playing in the Coahouma gym last week the Dukes routed the Forsan Spudders, 24 to 19, with Charley Spikes supplying the victory punch. M-W nosed out the Garden City entry to start the schedule with a win.

Baker's regulars and reserves, in a double bill at Texas Tech last Friday night, came out on the short end of the score, the Matadors staged a thrilling fourth quarter rally to beat the visitors in the main event of the cage show, 40 to 29.

Two-Year Transfer Rule Is Sought By Angelo School Man

SAN ANGELO, Dec. 14 (AP)—Seeking further to curb the commercializing of high school football in Texas through the recruiting of players, Chester H. Kenley, principal of San Angelo senior high school, will propose to the university interscholastic league the extension of the one-year transfer rule to two years, he said today.

He is asking league headquarters to furnish him, and later publish in its monthly organ, the number of transferred and resident players on the football rosters of each of the 91 Class A schools in Texas during the season now ending.

King's dilator of job held reason for abdication.
 New monarch likely to be disinclined.
 Shake-up of White House secretariat in offing.
 War mobilization scheme draws protests.

Dry Gore—
 WASHINGTON, Dec. 24.—The London dispatches said: "The sovereign sacrificed his throne for love."

The official gossips here (that is the authorities who are in a position to know a little and guess a lot) said: "Foxy" Mr. Windsor decided he did not like his job many months ago. The tipoff came when little Princess Elizabeth was taken out of ordinary royal schooling shortly after her grandfather's death and placed in charge of special tutors to prepare her for queenhood.

"Premier Baldwin was not only shocked at the turn of events, but co-operated wholeheartedly with Mr. Windsor in his scheme to get out at the first opportunity. Mrs. Simpson merely furnished the opportunity."

Take your choice of these interpretations, but be assured, in either event, that a lot of staid British bosoms in the past week.

Note—George, Bernard Shaw called the turn on it.

Disintegration—

There is more than a suspicion in semi-official quarters here that the Duke of York will complete the disintegration of being a Victorian monarch. He is a splendid character, they say, but incapable of fulfilling the illusion that kings are necessarily a higher type of rulers.

The English are a resilient people. They can adjust themselves to nearly anything, but possibly not to the stammering Duke of York.

The current cycle of British events, some believe, began when Mussolini escaped unharmed with laughter at the British Lion by conquering Ethiopia. The British Empire has been maintained for centuries by the simple but effective method of conquering the seas. They built more and better ships than anyone else, and therefore ruled the waves which tied together their world dominions.

Since then, the airplane has been developed. Small nations with a few million dollars worth of air bombers can cut the British lifeline any time they choose.

Advisers—

A complete reorganization of the White House secretariat is supposed to be in the president's mind. The departure of Steve Early Jan. 1 to fill one of these several off-fer jobs will open the way for it. No matter how it finally is worked out officially, the real secretariat is composed of the following, who may or may not show their faces publicly:

Thomas Corcoran, RFC attorney, co-author with Ben Cohen of the holding companies act, etc., now in excellent standing as a result of his campaign help on speeches (Corcoran wisely will not take an official White House position because it would nullify his activities with an official stamp. He can work better unofficially).

Dr. Stanley High, the former radio preacher, who injected the religious touches in the president's campaign speeches with great success.

Charles O. West, the phantom liaison man with congress, who has been working lately on the Ohio delegation for Mr. Eayburn's election as floor leader and who is assistant secretary of the interior in name only. (He might get Louis Howe's desk.)

Norman Baxter, publicity man for Jesse Jones, who was rushed up to Maine to edit a newspaper which Mr. Farley bought in an effort to swing that state. The liberals do not like him because he is Jones's man.

Edward Rotcan, than whom there is no better newspaper man. He left Hearst to join the Roosevelt campaign crowd as assistant to Charles Michelson and really American Legion plan. It would not seize industry, but it has canvassed about 20,000 industrial plants, of which 12,600 have been obligated to cooperate on 24 hours' notice. Also, it has a plan to establish a war finance board which would finance plant changes. The plan covers everything from silk socks to big guns.

The department says if this country gets into another war, it will not have to go through a transition period as it did last time.

 The best tip on the current trend of affairs lies within the platform adopted by the National Association of Manufacturers at its annual convention. Fundamentally, it is an invitation to business leaders to make their own new deal before Mr. Roosevelt does it for them.

The significant thing about the report is the signatures to it. Members of the committee which drew it up include most of the prominent men who financed the Liberty League and the campaign against Mr. Roosevelt, including a Dr. Post.

RAYBURN'S THE MAN

Because Texas voters are smart enough to select good men for members of the national congress, and keep them there term after term, there is a likelihood (that ought to be turned into a certainty) that Sam Rayburn will be selected as the democratic leader in the lower house when the congress meets in January.

Not only by length of service but by ability to handle the job is Rayburn entitled to it. He has been in the very thick of fights that have occupied the congress from time to time. He knows politics like a college professor of mathematics knows sines and angles. He has the confidence of most of his fellow members, of the administration and of the people, because he has never trimmed or side-stepped or evaded an issue.

The plea that Rayburn should not be chosen because Texas already has the vice president and several chairmen of important committees, should have no weight. The position of leader of the party in the congress is one of honor, to be sure, but it is one of right also, and that right is gained by long and valuable service and by deep rather than superficial knowledge of affairs. Sam Rayburn has that service record and knowledge and has demonstrated the latter too many times to be open to question.

Man About Manhattan

NEW YORK—When Paul Whiteman's orchestra was combined with the Philadelphia Symphony at the Hippodrome, he introduced a new and hitherto unplayed manuscript by Lorenz Hart. This unexpected stroll in the blue was a startling innovation to many of Hart's old Tin Pan Alley colleagues. They know him best for his sentimental ballads and snappy Broadway revues.

There was the time he rode across Paris in a taxicab with a girl. Suddenly both were nearly thrown from the cab. Jamming on the brakes, the driver missed an accident by the narrowest of margins. "I just took one look," gasped the young woman, "and my heart stood still."

Larry went back to his hotel and wrote "My Heart Stood Still," a song you'll remember as going something like this, "I took one look at you... That's all I meant to do... And then my heart stood still."

You wouldn't think situations like this could inspire songs. But, they do.

Command Performance

Ruth Harrison and Alex Fisher explain the gamarole to which an artist submits before giving a command performance before royalty (Harrison and Fisher are the Follies dancers who have been invited to appear before Edward VIII in the London Palladium next May. They once danced before the late George V.)

Right off the bat comes an interview with the Lord Chancellor, who ascertains whether scandal of any sort has marred your reputation. Divorce is always sufficient reason to have you declared ineligible.

Then you must learn "God Save the King." Maximum time limit for an act is five minutes, although four is better. Miss Harrison recalls that she made a special obeisance to the king by placing the right leg in the groove behind the left knee. This permitted her to retain her balance while achieving an extremely low bow. Fisher had to hold his arms rigidly at the side, palms out, while bending regally from the hips.

After an entertainer had been declared eligible, the act is reviewed by a dozen observers who make certain it is in key with the court etiquette. Rehearsals frequently last for weeks, as much care being expended on this single performance as often is given to a Broadway production.

However, Harrison and Fisher aren't the least bit nervous. They're just pleased. Command performances have come to be routine stuff to this pair.

Wings For Sally

by BAILEY WOLFE

Chapter Five
"MARRY ME, SALLY!"
 Tonight when the plane left the ground, Sally could not see the earth drop beneath her and for that she was thankful. Terry wanted her to love to fly. He had even spoken of teaching her to fly. Under the goggles and helmet, Sally shuddered. She might rise now, with Terry's hand on the controls—Terry's steady, rough hand. But to go up alone into that vast space—Sally felt herself too small. Under the spell of the steady motion of the plane, Sally lost all count of time. When the plane dipped toward the landing lights, she was startled to realize they were in Greensboro.

Sally climbed stiffly from her seat and let Terry swing her to the ground. Several men came running up and Terry soon forgot her, talking to them excitedly. She was glad when he remembered her. Terry tucked her arm through

Crocheted Handkerchief Edges

By RUTH ORR
 Pattern No. 382
 For your best Sunday-go-to-meeting hankies, here are some little edges for you to crochet. But if you're not interested in hankies, you'll find endless other uses for these edgings, even though we have labeled them for hankies. They'll be sweet on baby things—bibs, and petticoats, and even on your dresses, etc.—on children's dresses own underwear and nighties.

The pattern envelope contains complete, easy-to-understand illustrated directions, with diagrams to aid you; also what crochet hook and what material and how much you will need.

To obtain this pattern, send for No. 382 and enclose 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to cover service and postage. Address Big Spring Herald, Needlework Dept., P. O. Box 200, Station D, New York, N. Y.

"Bring on the food, Caddy—I've made a hit!"

his and they walked toward one of the lighted buildings.

They stepped out of the darkness into a brightly lighted lunch room where Terry asked Sally to wait.

"Wish me luck," he said.

"I wish you the best luck in the world, Terry," said Sally. Terry suddenly looked very boyish to her and she felt as if she were wishing Ray luck in the tennis matches.

"Go in and win," she smiled at him. "That's what Tip would say."

Terry went off whistling and Sally sat down at one of the lunch tables. Caddy, the waitress, who had greeted Terry like an old friend, brought Sally coffee and chatted a bit.

Terry's World Changes

When Terry came back, victory was in his face and in his long, swift stride.

"Terry—you did it!" cried Sally. Terry put an arm about each of them and lifted them clear of the floor. "Ering on the food, Caddy," he said. "I've made a hit with old Willis Cates and this time next year, with luck, I'll be in South America."

Sally squirmed out of his embrace and looked about the lunch room to see if anyone had seen the spectacle of her and Caddy, lifted together above the floor. The place was still empty and she was relieved, but annoyed with Terry.

Terry put his big hand over Sally's, which rested on the table. "I couldn't have done it without you, old girl," he said. "You brought me luck, just as I said you would."

"I'm glad," said Sally. "Tell me about it—I can't wait to hear."

"He's going to be in this country six months. When he goes back to South America, he'll give me a trial on his passenger line, and that's all I want—just a chance."

"I'll mean everything to you."

"I hope its going to mean a lot to you, Sally."

Sally, conscious of Caddy's presence, drew her hand away and wiped with all her heart that Terry had waited.

"Of course," she said awkwardly, "anything that means good luck to you means it for me, too."

"Do you mean it, Sally?" Terry's blue eyes were shining with pleasure and excitement. As he tried to catch her hand again, Caddy set a platter of ham and hot coffee before them.

"I'm starved." He helped himself and Sally to ham, and ate eagerly, talking as he ate. Sally played with her fork and tried to realize how this night had changed Terry's world, and what that might mean to him—and to her.

"Something big has happened to me tonight," Terry was saying. "There isn't but one thing bigger that could happen."

Over A Plate of Ham

Sally's heart beat faster. The moment she had thought of for so long was at hand and all she could do was say to herself over and over, until it was like a sentence prayer running through her head: "Don't say it now, over a plate of ham."

But Terry did not sense her feeling. He was excited, and he was talking a great deal.

"God only knows how I've wanted to get out of Warrenton," said Terry. "My folks have had a pretty

Reading And Writing

By John Selby

It's very unlikely that anybody will seize "British Authors of the Nineteenth Century" and sit him down to read it through. Messrs. Stanley J. Kunitz and Howard Haycraft, the editors, have prepared a reference work and not a critical discussion of British writing.

It seems to me a very valuable book, although it contains very little that any diligent searcher could not find out for himself given the time. The editors have collected the biographical outlines of approximately 1,000 authors chiefly from the field of belles lettres, but not exclusively. It has not been possible to dress up the sketches elaborately, but within the limits set, they provide a generous amount of what we call "color." Such as, for example, the sources of Robert Browning's income. And the details of the scandal which so embittered Aubrey Beardsley. And so on.

The sketches run from a hundred or so words to a top limit of 2,500; there are nearly 700 pages in all, and a good number of illustrations spot these. Obviously, since literary men don't often die at the turn of a century, just to please future compilers of biographies, both the 18th and the 20th century are given some attention. The authors included are those who published the major part of their work in the 19th century.

Nor are writers from the dominions excluded. There are a few rather surprisingly few from Canada, Australia, South Africa and even New Zealand. The editors have concluded each sketch with a list of the subject's chief works, especially valuable in connection with the lesser known writers.

And they have, consciously or otherwise, provided another parlor game. Do you know, for instance, who wrote "Twinkle Twinkle, Little Star"? Or what novelist served a prison term in his youth? Or what popular Scottish novelist died in Iowa? Or what novelist sent 4,000 people to call on a certain lady in one day? Perhaps you don't know and don't care. But if you do, "British Authors" is your source book.

"British Authors of the Nineteenth Century," edited by Stanley J. Kunitz and Howard Haycraft (Wilson).

ANNOUNCE ENGAGEMENT
 TULSA, Okla., Dec. 14 (AP)—The engagement of Miss Joan Skelly, daughter of W. G. Skelly, president of the Skelly Oil company and republican national committeeman, to Allen Guberson, third son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Guberson, Jr., of Dallas, was announced by the parents of the bride-to-be today. The wedding will take place here sometime this winter.

Four Hyperion Club Members Appointed On Committees Of Eighth District Of State

Matters of business and announcement of appointments combined with the scheduled program were features of the Hyperion Club meeting Saturday when the group met in the home of Mrs. B. Reagan.

Mrs. Victor Flawellen, Mrs. E. T. Cardwell and Mrs. H. S. Faw were named on a committee to draw resolutions on the death of a member. Mrs. Will Fahrenkamp and Mrs. Albert M. Fisher expressed appreciation of courtesies for the Fahrenkamp family to the club.

Four women of this organization were announced as having been selected on standing committees of the new eighth district of Federated Women's Clubs of the state and appointments were as follows: Mrs. J. B. Young, official timekeeper; Mrs. H. S. Faw, chairman of drama committee; Mrs. E. T. Cardwell, chairman of club journalism courses in state universities and colleges, and Mrs. Shine Phillips who also received notice of selection.

The president, Mrs. Phillips, read the five aims of the organization taken from the club news, stressing this group's project for the year, co-operation with the Big Spring Library, after which Mrs. Turner Wynn, program leader, gave an excellent review of Elsie Sugimoto's "Daughter of the Samurai."

Attending were Mrs. J. D. Billas, Mrs. Cardwell, Mrs. Roy Carter, Mrs. H. S. Faw, Mrs. Albert M. Fisher, Mrs. Victor Flawellen, Mrs. D. F. McConnell, Mrs. R. Homer McNew, Mrs. Phillips, Mrs. Robert T. Piner, Mrs. B. Reagan, Mrs. V. Van Gieson and Mrs. Wynn.

In the Settles hotel suite of Miss Clara Secret.

Mrs. Charles Frost gave an interesting review of Teasdale's "Yang and Yen."

Present were Mrs. Pete Sellar, Mrs. Frost, Miss Secret, Mrs. Ira Thurman, Mrs. Robert Middleton, Mrs. J. C. Loper, Mrs. Horace Reagan, Mrs. Phillips Berry of Stanton, Mrs. Garland Woodward and Mrs. Ralph Houston.

Jennings Entertain Friends With Party

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Jennings were hosts Saturday evening to a group of friends at their home for a Christmas party.

The house was seasonally appointed with bells, icicles, flowers and other decorations suggestive of the holidays with a large Christmas tree as central attraction. Guests exchanged gifts which were presented from the tree.

Numerous games were played after which the evening was spent in dancing.

The yule theme was continued at the refreshment hour when a dainty plate was passed to the guests who included Mr. and Mrs. Ed Allen, Mr. and Mrs. William Dehlinger, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Richardson, Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Millon, Mr. and Mrs. Elvis McCrary and Mrs. Henry Hollinger.

Gold Takes Place of Blue in Decorations For 1936 Christmas

CHICAGO, Dec. 14 (AP)—Christmas has turned toward a gold standard this year.

Last year it was predominately a blue Christmas—blue snowballs, blue holly wreaths, even blue bewhiskered Santas.

Now—even though blue is still popular—there is a trend toward gold in holiday decorations.

Many of this season's Christmas cards are in a gold and brown motif, and they are considered smart.

Gold and white, gold and brown, gold and red or green are popular color combinations.
