Increased Tax Collections Would Pay Cost Of Advertising Campaign For Texas, Lieut-Governor Claims

HOUSTON, Sept. 25.—Lieutenant Governor Walter P. Woodul today issued the following statement relative to an advertising campaign for the state:

"Business Week, issue of August 29, shows the following percentage of gains in Texas the first six months of 1936 over 1935 as follows: passenger car sales 11 per cent; commercial car sales 25 per cent; household refrigerator sales 17 per cent; value of checks drawn 17 per cent; electric power output 14 per cent, and heavy construction 93 per cent. Texas is definitely on the upgrade.

"On two of the tax items that visitors from out of the state help us pay, the figures in the state comptroller's office show we collected $4,047,200 more on gasoline taxes for the 12 months ending September 1, 1936, over the same period ending 1935, and a like increase in cigarette taxes of $1,121,723.

"Better business helps the taxpayer to meet the burdens of taxes. It is estimated there is some $25,000,000 in delinquent taxes due over the state. Should Texas pursue a five-year advertising program men and money will come to Texas and create a market for real estate with increased prices, and when real estate trading again becomes a fact and not a recollection, one of the first and most natural results will be to clean up in a large measure this delinquent tax situation. I confidently expect that as a result of five years of advertising and publicizing Texas, we could in that time collect enough of these delinquent taxes to pay the costs of the campaign and wipe out the state deficit, not to mention the money benefits that would accrue directly and indirectly to every citizen of Texas.

"I am gratified at the many responses to my first statement on the proposed five year plan to continue to advertise and publicize Texas and its advantages with respect to agriculture, industry and its tourists possibilities.

"Texas Department Store

"Texas as one of the world's most powerful business institutions with an annual 2-3 billion dollar spendable income from sales of oil, cotton, lumber and other products, is like a giant department store with varied products for sale, and should advertise itself as such.

"Department stores spend an average of 3-12 to 4 per cent of their annual income for advertising to increase the sales of their merchandise. A cross-section of major companies which advertise nationally, will show they spend an average of 5 per cent of their income on advertising, with cosmetics and kindred items running 30 to 49.5 per cent.

Certainly Texas could wisely invest one twenty-fifth of one per cent of her annual spendable income to speed up her growth!

"I wish to stress the fact that other states are persistently advertising themselves, or are in process of getting legislation through to permit such state boosting. Advertising Texas is a self-liquidating procedure. From the business angle, it is fundamentally sound.

"Advertisements for the Centennial celebrations and the recent outbreak of advertisements aimed at interesting big capital in Texas as a land of unlimited agricultural and industrial opportunities has resulted in an avalanche of checkable, filled-out inquiries which show exactly how each advertisement 'pulled.'

Many inquiries

"Written inquiries from Texas advertisements have been coming in—in the form filled out coupons which very often have been relative to industrial development and have been passed on to the chambers of commerce of the specific regions inquired about—since January 1 at the rate of 1,000 a day. One advertisement which Texas ran in a publication nearly eight months ago is still bringing in inquiries at the rate of 100 a month! This same advertisement has brought inquiries from 60 different nations.

"Our per capita production of raw materials is 50 to 70 per cent above that of the whole United States while our per capita production of manufactured products is some 60 or 70 per cent below that of the entire nation. Advertising alone will hasten the colonization of our fertile acres and provide new industries to turn our raw materials into finished products. More industries mean more payrolls with which to purchase more products, for instance, from the farm.

"Advertising should triple the value of Texas industrially in five years, and the greatly increased population would better distribute taxation—consequently lowering cost to individuals for the maintenance of state, county and city government. It is safe to predict that a million dollars a year spent for advertising Texas the next five years would return to Texas a hundred dollars for each dollar spent, and prove a real benefit to every individual citizen."

"Reality" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist on Sunday, September 27.
The Golden Text is: "Eye, hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man, the things which God hath prepared for them that love him" (I Corinthians 2:9).
Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Lord, thou hast been our dwelling place in all generations. Before the mountains were brought forth, or ever thou hadst formed the earth and the world, even from everlasting to everlasting, thou art God" (Psalms 90:1, 2).
The lesson-sermon includes also the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health With Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "God creates all forms of reality. There is but one primal cause. Therefore there can be no effect from any other cause, and there can be no reality in aught which does not proceed from this great and only cause" (pages 513 and 207).

Baking Is Excellent Way To Pass Disagreeable Days; Here Are New Recipes For Rolls And Desserts

By MARTHA LOGAN
One occupation in which one can find much anxiety and ingenuity is that of being a housewife. Isn't Saturday morning the morning in which you can go into your kitchen and be a scientist by measuring as you make things, or an artist by creating as you bake something that is a little variation all your own? Did you ever realize that by making creations in your kitchen, you can make dreams come true as well as the man who builds a house or a bridge?

This Saturday morning would you like to make some tasty, delicious caramel rolls for Sunday breakfast? Here is the way we have made them in our test kitchen.

Instead of caramel rolls, here is a recipe we've found especially good.

Garden Of Eden Cake
Pars, core, and slices in thin slices 4 large apples. Sift together 2 cups flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, and 1 tablespoon sugar. Put in 3 tablespoons shortening. Add 3/4 cup milk and mix to a soft dough. Pat into greased oblong baking dish (about 8" x 12"). Place thinly sliced apples in overlapping rows completely covering top of dough. Sprinkle with brown sugar, cinnamon, and dot with bits of butter. Bake in a hot oven (400 degrees F) for about 25 minutes. Cut in squares for serving.

A great variety of simple desserts can be made by the housewife with little expenditure of either time or energy. Some can be prepared in advance. Others may be partly fixed with the basic materials, and later you can do wonders with them by adding sauces or fruit fillings.

Cherry and Pecan Torte
Prepare cup cakes, using whole egg cake batter. Cut off tops carefully so that the covers may be replaced. Hollow out centers somewhat and fill with a mixture of chopped pecans and marshmallows, cherries, or raisins may be substituted for cherries. Replace tops and decorate with whipped cream.

Fried Apples Slices
Wash and core apples. Do not peel. Cut across apple for half-inch slices. Put fat in iron skillet. Cover bottom generously. Fry slices, turn-over once when brown to fry on both sides. Sprinkle with sugar and serve on platter.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (UP)—Convicted that Texas would be able "to keep the lid on" the East Texas oil fields as a result of a two-day conference here with federal officials, Attorney General William McCraw of Texas was en route home today.

McCraw received assurances of cooperation from Interior, Justice and treasury department officials here that in enforcing federal laws involving oil, there would be efforts to prevent disruption of the Texas oil control program. McCraw had informed the federal officials there was danger of "hot oil" interests utilizing a treasury tax collection move to market their product. Should the efforts be continued, the government officials were told, it might make impossible effectiveness of Texas oil conservation and control laws.

BAD NAUHEIM, Sept. 25 (UP)—Germany's largest maneuvers since the world war neared their close today in an atmosphere strangely reminiscent of the western front combined with a county fair.

Physical demands on the men, however, are comparable with real war for the "fighting" continues day and night and food is served only when someone is able to warm up stew. One Westphalian Infantry regiment yesterday covered 75 kilometers afoot, hurrying to support the weakening "blue" defenders.

Civil And Military Plane Bases Increase By 50 Per Cent

LONDON, Sept. 25 (UP)—British naval construction is matching rapid expansion of its aerial forces, a survey reveals.

Rearmament of Britain's sea forces presumably will necessitate an additional supplementary navy estimate being presented to parliament.

A total of 45 ships of various categories under construction at the beginning of the present fiscal year is expected to be increased to 67 by the opening of the next fiscal year.

Air Bases Expanded
During the current year the Royal Air force has opened six new airbases, landing fields or seaplane bases, while another 33 are expected to be completed before the year ends. Civil and military airbases, landing fields or seaplane bases have increased in Great Britain and northern Ireland by 50 per cent during the past 18 months.

Ships now being built include, no battleships. Terms of the 1930 London naval treaty prohibit such construction until next year.

Although battleships are not being built, armor plate, gun mountings and large guns have been cast in sizeable quantities. Other equipment and supplies needed for modern battleships are being made and stored.

Four Cruisers Nearly Ready
During the current fiscal year four cruisers and eight destroyers will be commissioned. Under Britain's accelerated naval program this number is to be increased to six and 16 respectively next year.

Recently two cruisers, four submarines, nine destroyers and an aircraft carrier were added to the building program previously approved for the year.

Ships to be laid down during the coming year include two battleships, three aircraft carriers, 18 destroyers and 11 submarines.

While the work of building new powder. Work in 1-4 cup butter. Beat an egg and mix with 1-2 cup milk. Add egg-milk mix to dry ingredients. Turn on a slightly floured board and knead lightly. Divide dough into 6 long, narrow pieces. With the hands roll each piece on the board until 8 to 10 inches long. Pat out thin and spread with butter. Cut each piece in two and twist the two pieces together, bring ends around to form crescents. Put into greased pan. Sprinkle with chopped nuts. Bake in hot oven at 450 degrees F. for 15 to 20 minutes. While hot, brush over with thin icing made with 1-2 cup confectioner's sugar moistened with 1 tbs. lemon juice.

Almond Cookies
1 cup butter, 6 tbs. powdered sugar, 1-2 lb. almonds, 1 tsp. vanilla, 1 tsp. baking powder, 1-2 cups flour. Mix in the order given and with fingers roll into almond shape like a large peanut. Bake 10 minutes in a moderate oven. When slightly cool dust with powdered sugar. If the dough sticks to the fingers when the cookies are being shaped, a little more flour should be added.

Question About CARDUI

PERIODICALS
"Why do so many women take Cardui for functional pains of menstruation?"

Each dose of Cardui contains a purely vegetable sedative and antispasmodic—that is, a pain-relieving and cramp-relieving medicine that is especially effective at monthly periods.

This fact about Cardui (that it helps to relieve many of the ordinary functional pains of menstruation with a beneficial plant extract, not habit-forming, not objectionable to take) is greatly appreciated by thousands of women. They recommend it to others.

Cardui is purely vegetable, liquid in form, and comes in 9-ounce bottles, with full directions for use. Try it! Of course, if it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

Cereus Plant Blooms After Rainy Weather

Once in every flower lover's lifetime something happens that they always look for but never expect to see. For nine years Mrs. B. F. Willis has been watching a cereus plant, among other flowers, hoping for something different—and to behold the thing actually bloomed which is very unusual in this particular climate. This night blooming cereus, or saguaro, gave hope last June when a bud appeared only to disappear over night. But rainy weather furnished moisture not unlike that of the plants native tropics and brought out the best in it. Now Mrs. Willis has a bloom or she did have—these plants are tricky. Cereus plants are found in some parts of New Mexico but are generally grown in the tropical Americas. This particular species blooms after dark and closes when the sun rises. The blossoms endure for only one night then die. Yellow is the common color but the flower on the Willis plant is white with strains of pink throughout.

Rose Pattern For Table Center

By RUTH ORR
Pattern No. 395

If roses are your favorite, we offer this centerpiece for your nimble crochet, and if your hook is not so nimble, we offer it anyway. It is really all in filet crochet, but there is a simulated, inset, like a center panel, which is done in double squares, giving the effect of French val. This makes it more interesting than if it were all a plain filet mesh.

The size of the center depends upon the fineness of your cotton. If you like to work with a No. 20 mercerized crochet cotton, the piece will measure 20 inches across; by using No. 10 you get 25 inches. While the soft knitting and crochet cotton will produce a centerpiece of 23 or 33 inches.

The pattern envelope contains complete, easy-to-understand illustrated directions, with diagrams to aid you; also what crochet hook and what material and how much you will need.

To obtain this pattern, send for No. 395 and enclose 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to cover service and postage. Address: Big Spring Herald, Needlework Dept., P. O. Box 200, Station D, New York, N. Y. (Copyright, 1936, by the Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

FINGERPRINTS OF 12,000 TAKEN FOR STATE SAFETY DEPT.

AUSTIN, Sept. 25 (AP)—Approximately 12,000 persons have volunteered to have their fingerprints taken at the public safety department's booth on the Centennial grounds at Dallas, C. G. McGraw, chief of the department's bureau of identification, said today. McGraw predicted a larger number would avail themselves of the opportunity of being fingerprinted during the fiscal year opening this month.

meet at 7 p. m. A welcome awaits you at this church.

"The junior chamber of commerce," he said, "indorsed civil fingerprinting at its state convention at Corpus Christi a few days ago and voted to get behind it actively. People are awakening to the realization that universal fingerprinting would be a great aid in identifying accident victims, annual victims and others."

REORGANIZATION OF INSURANCE FIRM IS PROPOSED IN COURT

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 25 (UP)—A revised plan of reorganization for the multi-million dollar Pacific Mutual Life Insurance company was laid before Superior Judge Henry M. Willis today.

State Insurance Commissioner Samuel L. Carpenter, after numerous conferences with attorneys for various policy holder and stockholder groups, presented the plan, containing certain undisclosed revisions for the original plan that was approved and later set aside in court.

The new proposal was understood to prove more specific guarantees to holders of non-cancellable policies than those contained in the original plan.

CHICAGO, Sept. 25 (AP)—No matter which New York team wins the World Series—neither one has a chance to tie the one modern-day record held by the Chicago Cubs.

The Cubs have lost the last five World Series in which they have taken part—those of 1910, 1918, 1929, 1932 and 1935. The Cubs began their string of unsuccessful efforts under the ownership of C. Webb Murphy.

LESSON FROM FLOODS
Nature itself seems to have taken a hand in some of the arguments that have engaged the attention of economists and planners during several years, and is offering evidence that something must be done.
The flood in the Concho and Colorado rivers is one of the greatest arguments that could be made for a well-considered system of controlling and conserving water, with the dual purpose in view of preventing damage by floods and having the water to use when needed.

Whether such work should be done by federal agencies may be open to dispute, but there could be no argument against the doing of it by some sort of agency, for the cost could not possibly be so great as will be the periodic even if infrequent recurrence of floods and droughts.
Similarly the dust storms and erosion of land caused by improper use and neglect of the soil can be mitigated if not entirely ended. Stories of old settlers, some perhaps not old, that dust storms have always visited the West may be taken with the grain of salt that many reminiscences require.

★ Man About Manhattan ★
By George Tucker
There was a lecture by Jean LaVoure in the Village about some missing murals, and I drifted in to hear what that exciting adventurer had to say. But the lecture was in French, so I drifted right out again and went over to the Explorers' club, in 72nd street, where Paul L. Hoefer had just checked in after a year in India.
"How was Mother India?" I asked him.
"Great," he declared, "and not at all what one would suspect. We were fortunate in being the guests of India's most powerful Maharajahs, and they went out of their way to help us get what we wanted. You see, we were making pictures, and there are parts of Indian philosophy and life that white men have never been permitted to witness. For instance, we secured some excellent shots of the Faithful at Prayer in the sacred Hindu and Mohammedan mosques.
"The Maharajahs honored us with special military reviews of their private, and let me assure you, powerful armies. Each detachment of men was headed by an elephant, and the jewels adorning the beasts' heads were estimated at a value of a quarter of a million dollars.

"One of our most exciting experiences was negotiating Rajputana, which the natives call 'The Land of Princesses.' This is the barrier between the millions of South India and the fierce, warlike tribes of the north.
"Once met with a lot of violence and misery, of course, but the impression carried away by most observers is that India is the world's last great frontier of pageantry—gorgeous palaces and shrines, mystics and yogis, the calm tranquility of the religious sect, the turbulent, rowdy tribes of the Rajputi, the fighting and the dancing, the bright color and red dust.
"Once of the sights I'll never forget was the fanatical prayer to the Sun God in Jaipur. They let us film it. Then we saw the famous camel corps of Bikaner, a private battery of thousands of mounted camels which is retained especially for the will of one man, the Maharajah of Bikaner.
"Did you witness any actual fighting?"
"Listen—men may club one another, and a wild bull may gore a matador—but for sheer, magnetic horror, nothing can equal the death struggle between two enraged bull elephants. But each succeeding episode seemed to be more thrilling than the last. We persuaded His Highness the Nawab of Bhopal to overcome his prejudices against the camera and he permitted us to photograph him. One marvelous sequence shows him hanging down over a cliff taking a shot at a tiger."

"That must have been exciting," I agreed enviously. "After being in the wilds so long, I'll bet you are ready to settle down in old New York for a while, eh?"
Explorer Hoefer shook his head slowly. "Not for very long," he said. "You see, day after tomorrow I'm sailing for Africa.
Playwright George S. Kaufman, who has been in the news more or less of late, has built his new drama, in which Margaret Sullivan will star, around the life of one of Broadway's youngest and most widely discussed authors—Clifford Odets."

WASHINGTON—Ramblings of a foreign correspondent in this capital are to be substituted today for the famous column of the two "natives." I am afraid I shall disappoint you or at least shall not live up to the cliché-requirements which seem to be expected of columnists and other newspapermen by some publishers, chief-editors, "desk-dictators" and such.
I have no experience in cliché-writing, and cannot write about "suave" diplomats (poor fellows! they are working hard and should get our sympathy instead of cheap window-dressing; and they are most of them at least—not the few who are occasional cowboys) who have the dear "democratic" public think they are). Democratic: there I go and lay myself open to all kinds of biting retorts.
I hasten to assure you that I like America and the Americans very much, that I do not earn a cent in this country, but spend all my salary here (mostly on groceries and cigars and an occasional highball), that I have been a taxpayer of this commonwealth for over 10 years. So there! When I talk about "democracy" in connection with diplomats I refer to the amusing habit of some Americans either to read the society columns from stem to stern or to phone the poor society editor asking to be mentioned (the flowers were lastly arranged; Mrs. Smith of Chicago and Peoria assisted at the coffee-urn).
And why American newspapers in this land of liberty and democracy fall all over themselves in reporting that King Edward has received Genevieve Miller of Rockville among 200 other females at Buckingham Palace, is beyond me. I can't even spell the name of those "200" and an occasional "Miss" (the "queens" who married all kinds of Hollywood "queens," and I care less. Why anybody should care in this country, where you have to start as a newsboy in order to become a great man whom movie stars marry or divorce, is unknown to me.

Dogs and Democrats
I have heard it said that President F. D. Roosevelt was "no good" because he comes from a rich, old family and never earned his own living. And on the other hand: as soon as a man or woman with a title or with money comes to this country they stop the newspaper presses for a picture of her dog.
I do not understand why Mr. Roosevelt should be considered a villain, a loafer, etc., just because he happens to come from one of the oldest families in the U. S. A., and because his ancestors had been successful in their pioneering. I always thought that success is a good thing to have. Furthermore, if you want democratic government you should be glad to have men from all the decent strata of American life; and if a rich man volunteers to work for a political career, and to stand for all the torture and abuse that is the lot of every American statesman, that in my humble opinion shows he is sincere in trying to help improve conditions in his fatherland (republican papers: please do not use).

My assets are in a closed district bank, but I would not accept an offer (which I shall never get, let alone how to become a politician. I think the prisoners on Devil's Island have a snap compared to the worry and vilification an American president has to put up with.
Press Spotlight
I may be absolutely wrong in my conception of the attitude towards the tenant of the White House, be it Roosevelt or London, but I often wonder why my colleagues of the American press (for whom, with some exception, I have nothing but a feeling of sincere friendship) build up their own president and then, the minute he takes office (this happened to Coolidge, Hoover and Roosevelt) start to find fault with him, tear him down, again report every little detail of the poor man's daily life, let not one hour of his daily activities escape the "evil eye" of the press. (In this connection let me state that the worthy originators of this column were just as glibly as the rest in the beginning; but lately they have reformed and write about the affairs of the nation instead of the bed-spreads in Tugwelltown, or the which the candidates of the opposition can carry at the Patagonian Legation which was spiked with Bacardi by a "suave" practical joker; neither do they mention the fact, that is to be expected in any more that the reader of a campaign year. Even on foreign affairs certain officials was seen near the mansion of the de luxe mansion of Mrs. Leticia story about Portugal or Liberia).

When I tell these objections of mine to my colleagues of the News-paper (anti-Guilt papers, let me please do not use!) they invariably come back with the inane remark that "the public wants that stuff." I do not believe it. If you give the American public good reading matter they will be grateful and attentive.

Other features in the new edition with its new faces and new thrills are Paul Remos and his Wonder Midgets, from Radio City Music Hall, and Tom Patricia who, with Ann Pennington, appears in the skit in which they were starred in George White's "Scandals."

THE WORLD WITH A FENCE

A New Novel by Marian Sims

Chapter 30 IRMA COMES HOME

September, when the heat relaxed its grip each afternoon with the setting sun. When everyone came back to town. Rockbrook emptied as if by magic, and Irma packed her clothes with exquisite care and much tissue paper and went home to take possession of her house.

The warmth of Blake's welcome astonished her. He had driven to Rockbrook to bring her home, and during the drive to Atlanta he had talked with feverish eagerness of his plans for the fall. He had bought tickets for the community concert; he didn't see why they couldn't get up a dinner-and-bridge club; he intended to take an afternoon off for golf during the week, and he hoped she would play with him now and then.

Irma was vaguely flattered by his eagerness, but with the pervergency of her kind she retreated as Blake advanced. She didn't know. She hadn't been lately "well." In Irma's vocabulary, was always said in capitals. . . . She wanted to see Dr. Freeman before she made any plans; he might order her to Florida before Christmas. . . .

The core of Blake's being froze slowly. "Irma," his voice pleaded with her, "don't talk about Florida when you're not even home yet." He added bitterly: "Good God, I never get to see you!"

Irma smiled to herself. This, she reflected, was the secret of Blake's eagerness: he didn't see much of her. If she spent a whole winter at home he might be desperately glad to get rid of her, and she preferred having him miss her.

And then, too, there was the question of her health. She intended to see Dr. Freeman tomorrow afternoon. . . .

Her eyes darted about the house, searching, hoping for signs of wear. "This place is a sight," she said with emphatic eagerness.

The whole thing had gone sour on Blake. He hoped now that Dr. Freeman would order Irma to Florida—or to Mars. Irma's absence was the supreme luxury he would allow himself, even at the expense of his own necessity. He picked up two of her bags and followed her doggedly upstairs.

The next morning Irma went downtown to see what they were wearing this fall. Shopping was her passion, and she had her favorite salesgirls who greeted her with cordial smiles and sinking hearts.

But the fall lines were still incomplete, and dresses clinging stickily to her arms and shoulders when she tried them on. There was literally, Irma told the exhausted clerks, not a decent thing in town. She ate a peevish, expensive lunch and went to keep her appointment with Dr. Freeman.

Dr. Freeman had an emergency appendectomy, and he kept her waiting almost an hour. She walked into his office trembling with nervousness and anger.

It was almost five when she came out, and she called Blake preemptorily.

"I'm at Dr. Freeman's," she said, "and I'm completely exhausted. I wish you'd come for me right away."

"Why, of course." There was a dull concern in his voice. "Do you mind coming to the sidewalk in about ten minutes, so I won't have to park?"

She had to stand on the sidewalk almost three minutes, and that irritated her still more.

"It's next to impossible," she said when she was seated beside him, "to get along with one car."

His mouth was set. He wouldn't quarrel with her, he swore; it was too degrading. Irma seemed to relish a good rousing battle; it stimulated her like a drink of whiskey. But it left him sore and embarrassed and ashamed to meet her eyes. He said impatiently:

"You have to take your choice. Another car and no long vacations, or vacations and no car. It's the best I can do."

"I have to have the changes," she said plaintively. "Dr. Freeman says the sooner I can go to Florida the better it will be for me. He says I'm in a rather serious condition." Her voice shook.

Blake looked swiftly and soberly at her. "What do you mean?"

"Nothing organic," she said with unwonted reluctance, "but he says I'm terribly on edge."

Blake was ashamed of the way his heart lurched within him. "On edge" meant nothing, save that Irma was justifying her departure a few months hence. She didn't suspect that the departure needed no justification in his eyes.

And beside him Irma was silent; withdrawn into herself. When you were forty and your husband was thirty-three, it was impossible to confide in him until you had to.

Frills and hopelessness kept you from confessing the truth.

With the coming of fall Carol's leisure hours began to fill. Everyone was recovering from the inertia, of summer, and planning parties. Her friends were generous about including her in their evening activities, and the fact touched her immeasurably. She resented her inability to repay them, and said so, frankly.

Cornelia laughed at her. "We wouldn't ask you if you didn't contribute something; don't overlook that."

But she wanted to contribute more than her presence, and felt that she could not afford it. And then, as if he had guessed her need, Blake informed her one day that her salary, beginning October first, would be a hundred and twenty-five dollars a month.

She could hardly thank him. "Are you sure I'll earn it?" she asked dubiously.

His tone was dry. "I'm not in business for my health. You'll be worth more than that in time, and I'll pay you more just as soon as business warrants it." And then the veneer of impersonality cracked, and Blake's eyes were looking at her.

"Have you—been getting along all right?" he asked awkwardly.

"Quite." There was a vibrant pause. He had a trick, she noticed, of concentrating so intently that he looked first at one of your eyes and then at the other. "Have you?"

"Quite."

There were more questions, clamoring to be asked, but she stifled them. She gathered up her latest assignment and left his office.

Porter Murray had come back too, and to her astonishment had called her immediately.

"Did you miss me?" he demanded fondly.

"I've been wasting away. I thought you'd forgotten me."

"You liar. I couldn't."

"Well, you never even sent me a post card."

He chuckled. "Since that's the way you feel, when can I see you?"

"Never."

"I'll be around at seven tomorrow. We'll have dinner—first."

She gave up and laughed at him. "All right. I'll eat an expensive dinner, and take cabs along with me."

His pleasure at seeing her the next evening astonished and flattered her. When he had ordered a gourmet's meal she said frankly:

"All this attention is quite a boost to my ego, but with the town to choose from, why did you pick me?"

It wasn't a bid for compliments; it was honest curiosity, because the city was full of girls who had beauty and money and leisure. And Porter was quick enough to recognize it as such. He knit his regular brows.

"I'll be darned if I know. There at the beach you were the only girl I could remember. The thing I like best about you is the way you make me feel."

She knew what he meant. "I see. And how do I make you feel?"

"Oh . . . very witty and charming. And I'm not afraid you'll miss the point of my witticisms. True, you think I'm useless and frivolous, but you reconcile yourself to it."

"Nice of me," she said drily. "Now tell me about your trip. I know you're bustin' to go."

"I'm not either."

But he told her, frankly and rationally, during the rest of the meal. Stories culminating in an account of how someone named Whitefield had called Buckingham Palace and demanded the ear of King George himself. Whitefield had read in the newspaper that His Majesty was suffering from a severe cold, and he knew an infallible remedy.

It took four calls, but in the end he had actually secured the ear of the king himself, and been courteously thanked.

Driving home from the theater, Porter stopped the car in the shadow of the Sherwood. She looked inquiringly at him.

Science Chief Aid In Crime Detection

AUSTIN, Sept. 25. (CP)—Scientific methods are proving more effective than any "third degree," the annual report of the state scientific crime detection laboratory indicated today.

The report was filed by Col. H. H. Carmichael, director of the department of public safety, by M. T. Gonzales, laboratory chief and head of the intelligence.

For the year 142 cases were referred to the bureau and 140, including 56 murder investigations, completed.

Modern sound equipment helped solve eleven cases, electrical equipment four.

Other investigations from the laboratory were 23 explosives, 122 bullet examinations, 57 powder burn examinations, 9 ultra violet ray, 21 blood stains, 24 examinations of death weapons, other than firearms, 125 photographs, drawings and recordings of crime scenes.

A library of the tread impressions is being assembled along with a collection of thousands of types of cartridges and scores of different makes and models of firearms.

CO-STARRED

Joan Crawford and Robert Taylor in a scene from "The Gorgeous Hussy," a story of political events in the days of Andrew Jackson which plays at the Ritz Saturday midnight, Sunday and Monday. Lionel Barrymore and Franchot Tone are other featured players in the film.

Tim McCoy Is Featured In Western Play

Starred At Lyric Friday And Saturday In 'The Lion's Den'

The popular western player, Tim McCoy, in the cast of the Friday-Saturday picture at the Lyric, appearing as the staunch young cowboy who chases down the gang of crooks in "The Lion's Den." In the supporting cast are Joan Woodbury, Arthur Mellette, Dick Curtis, John Merton, Don Barclay and Frank Glendon.

McCoy appears first as a sharpshooter entertainer in a New York cabaret. There he befriends a visiting ranchman and his daughter, and is employed by the ranchman to do some gunning in defense of the latter's ranch in Texas.

On the range, the sharpshooter poses as a killer expected by the crooks, joins the gang and makes headway in his slighting until his identity is discovered. He escapes to give time to digging up the records of the members of the gang; and when the leader attempts to take the ranchman's property at a foreclosure sale, Tim outbids him, obtaining the money by the simple process of rounding up the crooks and paying off with the money obtained from rewards offered for their capture.

The picture provides McCoy ample opportunity to show his valets as a hard-riding, straight-shooting cowboy.

JOHNNY MACK BROWN IS STAK OF QUEEN FILM

Another outdoor melodrama, with Johnny Mack Brown in the starring role, is the Friday-Saturday feature at the Queen. The title is "Every Man's Law," and Brown is the western hero who sees to it that law prevails in the end.

Investigations ranged from murder to robbery, kidnaping, racketeering, dynamiting, bombing, arson, forgery, conspiracy, bribery, narcotic poisoning, pipe line tapping and unlawful killing of stock and game.

IN MUSICAL WESTERN AT RITZ

Frances Grant and Gene Autry, who head the cast of "Oh, Susanna!" a musical western picture which is offered at the Ritz Friday and Saturday. Autry introduces some new songs, and the Light Crust Doughboys, radio entertainers, appear in novelty numbers.

Gene Autry In Film At Ritz

Singing Cowboy Heads Cast For New Musical Western Play

Gene Autry, singing cowboy star, becomes involved in a new and exciting plot development in his latest production, "Oh, Susanna!" offered at the Ritz Friday and Saturday.

Instead of recuing fair heroines and galloping to the aid of others, Autry spends most of the film footage in trying to prove that he is not a killer and robber with a "dead or alive" price on his head. Nevertheless, his talents for song and music have full sway when he arrives incognito at an old friend's dude ranch. He aids his friend's daughter in ferreting out the real killer.

Smiley Burnette and Earl Hodgins, wandering troubadours, inject humor into the fast-moving musical drama.

Of special interest to film goers in this section is the appearance of the Light Crust Doughboys, a "six-piece fiddler band" which makes its debut in the films in this picture. The Doughboys are widely known in the southwest for their radio programs.

Frances Grant plays opposite Autry, providing the romantic interest. Others in the cast are Booth Howard, Roger Gray, Frankie Marvin and Clara Kimball.

Extension Sought On River Project

AUSTIN, Sept. 25 (UP)—Rep. Penrose Metcalfe, San Angelo, was here today to ask Gov. James V. Alford to open the way to a time extension on the upper Colorado river flood control project.

The Upper Colorado River Authority was created by act of the Texas legislature. Its time for obtaining a loan for a projected $6,000,000 dam expires January 1. Extension of this and other sections of the act were sought.

A conference with army engineers on the flood control and irrigation project has been scheduled for October 20.

The authority extended to control of the upper Colorado river and tributaries in Tom Green and Coke counties. This would include control of the Concho where the recent Colorado river flood originated.

An immediate survey of the flood damage in the Colorado, Concho and Guadalupe river areas was started today by the state planning board under the direction of its water resources committee.

SOIL CONSERVATION BENEFITS TO BEGIN MOVING NEXT MONTH

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25. (AP)—AAA officials said today that the flow of federal benefit payments to 4,000,000 farm owners, operators and tenants would begin early in October but that only about one farmer in 20 or 30 would receive his check before election day, November 3.

"We have had many appeals, especially from drought states, to expedite the payments and we are going to do everything we can to see that they are promptly paid," said H. R. Tolley, the farm administrator.

"We hope to be able to get somewhere between 2 and 3 per cent of the total payments out next month."

Other AAA spokesmen said the total to receive a share of the $100,000,000 to be paid out under the 1936 soil conservation subsidy program would be about 4,000,000 larger than the number who received benefits under the old AAA program.

They added that checks this year were expected to average less than $50 a farmer for the country as a whole, compared with an average of $100 under the former program.

The amount paid out under three previous farm programs—1935, '34 and '33—was estimated at $1,500,000,000.

The bulk of payments is expected to be made in the latter part of this year and early in 1937, the AAA executives asserted, because from one to two months is required to determine if the farmer has complied with regulations, and another month to write checks, audit them, and get them into the mails.

Officials Look Forward To Most Successful Show In History

LAMESA, Sept. 25.—Plans are in the making for the staging of the most successful fair in Dawson county's history October 15, 16, and 17, with nothing being left undone by fair officials to make the celebration a success.

With approximately 130 4-H club boys signifying their intention of entering some project, and about 200 4-H club girls of the county planning to enter different exhibits, an outstanding showing of farm products and projects is expected. Already 40 4-H club calves have been entered, in addition to pigs and poultry.

Fair officials have engaged the Western States shows to supply the enterprising feature of the affair, the show to run the entire week of October 12-17.

As no available building was large enough to house the exhibits to be entered, officials will erect three tents to house the various exhibits. The Western States shows will also erect their tents adjoining the fair exhibits.

Kansas gives its favorite son better than a 1 to 1 lead over Roosevelt in the initial tally of the Sunflower state.

The early ballots from Nebraska totaling more than 3,000 also give Landon a ratio of slightly less than 5 to 4.

North Dakota shows the republican candidate leading with a scant majority of the state's poll vote, receives more than 7 per cent of the first small batch of ballots.

In the three other states reporting first returns, Alabama, Florida and Georgia, Roosevelt leads by almost overwhelming pluralities.

Additional ballots from Indiana, Iowa, Louisiana, Maine, Minnesota, New York and Oklahoma show only slight changes from the previous week's tallying.

Arkansas, Mississippi, New Jersey, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Texas all register gains for Landon ranging from 0.5 per cent to over 2.0 per cent from last week's tally.

Lemke's percentage of the total vote continues to decline and is now under 4 per cent. The four other minor candidates, Thomas Browder, Colvin and Alken combined poll less than 1 per cent of the total.

Lemke continues to receive his largest state ratio in Minnesota which is still less than 10 per cent of the vote there. Lemke is weakest in the south and southwest.

Million Road Aid Approved
H'way Commission Votes $133,500 To Repair Flood Damage

AUSTIN, Sept. 25. (AP)—The state highway commission appropriated approximately $1,000,000 yesterday for road and bridge aid, including $133,500 to repair damage done by the recent floods.

Seventy thousand dollars of the flood allotment went to the San Angelo division, $30,000 to the Del Rio division, $20,000 to the San Antonio division, $7,000 to the Wichita Falls division and $5,500 to the Brownwood division. The money will be used to replace washed out bridges and bridge approaches and make repairs.

Commissioner John Wood said the commission hoped to act early next week on the federal aid program for the next three years.

Highway department official said completion of the $46,000,000 program would mean surfacing of 90 per cent of the federal aid system in Texas.

Australia To Take Own Machine Guns

SYDNEY (UP)—The Australian defense department will no longer be dependent on foreign munitions makers for its supply of machine guns, at least.

After definitely adopting the Bren light automatic machine gun as best adapted for the national defense, arrangements have been completed for its manufacture at the Lightfoot Small Arms factory, Australia.

The Bren, which is regarded by many competent authorities as the world's most efficient machine gun, was designed in Czechoslovakia. It has been adopted by the British army.

The gun can be adapted to any caliber of ammunition, is several pounds lighter than the Lewis gun, and has a high firing rate without danger of jamming.

The charge was made through an attorney in trying to establish she had a legitimate right to prevent the probate of the will excluding her from the inheritance.

AL SMITH TO YIELD ALL TIME TO FDR

NEW YORK, Sept. 25. (AP)—Former Governor Alfred E. Smith, in a telegram to President Roosevelt made public here today, stated he had changed the time for radio broadcast of the speech he will deliver here October 1 in order to prevent a conflict with broadcast of the president's speech at the same hour at Pittsburgh.

Smith said his action was taken "in deference to the high office of president which you hold," adding "I do not desire to interfere with you having a nationwide audience."

FLOOD THREAT PAST

WHAARTON, Sept. 25. (AP)—Danger of further flood in the Colorado river apparently had passed today.

Rain today had halted the laying of gas distribution lines to the Wright airport addition west of the city limits and adjacent to the airport.

James A. Davis, district manager of Empire Southern Service, said that two days of fair weather would see the completion of the job in that part of town.

Installation of lines to Coahoma has been completed and gas was turned on Tuesday. Davis said that 11 customers would be connected for service today. Approximately 50 have indicated a desire to secure gas service in that city.

LAMESA OFFICIALS IN CONFERENCE HERE

Members of the Lamesa city commission and A. G. Beardon, secretary of the chamber of commerce there, were in Big Spring Thursday conferring with municipal authorities here on installation of traffic lights and on milk ordinance problems.

Lamesa is considering installing traffic lights, and the officials viewed the system here. The city also contemplates a milk ordinance and authorities wanted information on the operation of this city's statute.

LAYING OF GAS MAIN HALTED BY WEATHER

Rain today had halted the laying of gas distribution lines to the Wright airport addition west of the city limits and adjacent to the airport.

James A. Davis, district manager of Empire Southern Service, said that two days of fair weather would see the completion of the job in that part of town.

Installation of lines to Coahoma has been completed and gas was turned on Tuesday. Davis said that 11 customers would be connected for service today. Approximately 50 have indicated a desire to secure gas service in that city.

STEERS, EASTLAND TANGLE TONIGHT

Around And About

The Sports Circuit

By Tom Beasley

R. W. OGDEN, a staunch supporter of the Big Spring football team, is passing out blotters with the Steer schedule and has guessed the score of each game. He's a very optimistic fellow to say the least, picking the Longhorns to win every game.

Big Spring 20, Eastland 6.
Big Spring 18, Brownwood 6.
Big Spring 19, Cisco 6.
Big Spring 14, Breckenridge 12.
Big Spring 27, Ranger 0.
Big Spring 21, Comanche 0.
Big Spring 20, San Angelo 18.
Big Spring 3, Abilene 0.
Big Spring 26, Sweetwater 6.

THE BRECKENRIDGE Buckaroo-Cisco Lobo game to be played tonight will draw the interest of many West Texas high school football fans. Rivalry is very keen, and has been for many years. It is used to be that the fans did more fighting down there than the players. Those days are gone, however, but the fans still get plenty "hot."

In the thirteen games the two teams have played, each has won six games and they have tied one.

(*)—Two games in 1930.

SHIRLEY ROBBINS and two or three other Big Spring golfers take off tomorrow for Texas to enter the Colina Altos tournament there. Shirley is defending champ.

TONIGHT'S GAME at Steer stadium may not have a great deal of interest for the fans if a report we have is true. One of our Oil Belt correspondents advises that Coach Kitchen of Eastland has a habit of switching numbers to confuse the opposition. It also confuses the spectators and scribbles. Who plays by numbers on a football team anyway? There are few items when anyone but the spectators pay any attention to the numerals, and then if a player has to block another he doesn't check up on the numbers first, but hits the first man who comes through the position he is supposed to protect, whether it is number 43 or double blank. We hope Kitchen won't resort to such tactics. After all, the spectators pay the freight, so why ruin the game for them.

OGDEN'S SCORE is good enough for us. The Steers should take the Mavericks by 20-5.

BOB COOKE of the Sweetwater Reporter picks the Steers to come through with an easy victory over the Eastland Mavericks.

THE FORD Motor Co., for the third successive year, will broadcast the 1936 world series baseball games over the outlets of three major chains. The broadcasts, beginning at 1:15 p. m. EST, will be carried over Columbia, National and Mutual systems, officials of the Motor Co. have announced. The series starts next Wednesday.

LAMESA MEETS SNYDER LAMESA, Sept. 25—The Lamesa Golden Tornadoes will play their second football game of the season here Friday night when they take on Coach Red Hill's Snyder high fighers.

Gold Lures Tennessee Stars KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 25 (AP)—A quartet of former University of Tennessee football stars will play with pro teams this fall—Gene Roe, Howard Bailey, Pug Vaughan and Seattle Feathers.

Locals In Good Shape For Battle With Mavs

Visiting Aggregation To Have Weight Advantage; Kickoff Is Slated For 8 P. M.

Big Spring high school's black and gold football team took a brief workout yesterday afternoon but the one-hour drill was packed with action. There were no idle moments as players and coaches studied ways and means of making touchdowns.

The only complaint coaches had to make was that Bigony would be on the sidelines tonight when the Longhorns take the field here at 8 o'clock against Johnnie Kitchen's Eastland Mavericks for their first conference game in the new Oil Belt—the largest and toughest district in Roy Henderson's interscholastic league pigskin setup.

Although a fine blocker and ball carrier, Bigony's loss for the Eastland game is not considered a serious blow to the team's chances. Bigony's knee injury is not serious, it's just that coaches are afraid of crippling him for the season.

In their windup yesterday, the Steers practiced kick-off, threw a few passes, brushed up on offense and then put in a little time at skill practice. They displayed a world of enthusiasm and coaches and players were confident of a perfect start in the district race.

Cliff T. Start
At fullback will be Cliff Trainer, 188 pounds of dynamite but one of the most erratic players on the team. At halves will be Woods and Henninger, and Madison, a heady field general, will be at quarterback. On the line will be Smith, McCullough, Harris, Kasch, Wilson, Hildreth and Rayburn.

Eastland's advantage will be in weight. Coach Kitchen has a beefy hard-charging forward wall. Seven of the probable starters against the Bovines tonight will be lettermen. They are Hill, 160, and Garrison, 155, ends; Trantham, 205, tackle; Roy Taylor, 170, center; Van Geem, 160, and Tim Taylor, 180, guards; and Harry Taylor, 165, halfback.

Other probable Eastland starters: Gilbreath, 180; tackle; Jones, 185, halfback; Daniels, 155; fullback; and Samuels, 158, quarterback and the team's star passer.

District 3 games today:
Lubbock at Abilene.
Eastland at Big Spring.
Brownwood at Sweetwater.
Cisco at Breckenridge.
North Side (Fort Worth) at San Angelo.
Strawn at Ranger.

WINGBACKS A PRIMER OF THE WARNER SYSTEM

by TINY THORNHILL

(Fifth of a series of 12 daily articles prepared by the coach of Stanford's Rose Bowl champions in collaboration with Russ Newland, Associated Press sports writer.)

From the Carlisle Indians' tandem of the early 1900's to the present day single wingback formation is a long jump but the two are related in a direct line of descent.

Glenn Scooby Warner probably didn't visualize the far-reaching effects when he broke away from the old T formation with three of the backs standing shoulder-to-shoulder, but see what we have today. Probably more coaches use the wingback lineup or variations of it than any other so-called system.

(Tomorrow: Evolution of the double wingback)

Dallas Plays Erratic Game

Steers Lose Opening Battle Of Shaughnessy Play-Off To Oilers

TULSA, Sept. 25—Erratic ball playing cost the Dallas Steers their game with the Oilers here Thursday night as the Oklahoma pounders, Curt Fullerton, Al Baker and Lena Stiles for a 9-5 victory in the opening round of the Shaughnessy play-off.

It will be Sal Glatto's job tonight as the Mavs attempt to get back on even terms as the two teams play their last game in Tulsa before switching to Dallas for three games. Fred Marberry and Vic Prasher will see plenty of service in the Texas city.

Newell Kimball may work for the Oilers tonight.

GIANTS CINCH NATIONAL TITLE

NEW YORK, Sept. 25—With the title safely stowed away until next year, the New York Giants have less than a week to prepare for the world series with their inter-city rivals, the fence-busting New York Yankees.

Although Boston shut them out in the second game and the St. Louis Cardinals took both ends of a twin bill from the Cincinnati Reds, the New Yorkers saved the race up by edging out the Reds and Danny MacFadden in 10 innings, 2-1.

The Red Birds practically clinched second place, however, when they pulled away as Chicago was being shut out by Cy Blanton in Pittsburgh.

Monte Pearson was deprived of his 20th victory when his mates failed to hit the offerings of John Rose and Lou Ginzler, 4-3.

However, Lou Gehrig belted his 49th home run to account for all three runs with a double and his circuit cut.

BROADCAST GAME

The first Southwest conference football game of the radio season will be brought to listeners Saturday night by the Humble Oil & Refining company. The occasion will be the renewal of the annual contest between Rice Institute and Louisiana State university, which will be broadcast direct from the playing field at Baton Rouge.

Due to prior commercial commitments by most Texas stations of the Humble network, KTRH, Houston, will be the only Texas station to carry the entire game. At 9 o'clock, however, stations KTRA, San Antonio, and KRLL, Dallas, will be tied into the group.

The game is scheduled to begin at 8:15 p. m. and the broadcast will take the air 15 minutes earlier at 8 p. m.

Bierman Was Montana Grid Mentor In '16

'Doc' Williams Started Bernie On Successful Coaching Career

(Third in a series by Bernie Bierman, coach of the Minnesota Gophers.)

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 25.—When I had completed my college education at the University of Minnesota, I was at a loss to know what I should do next.

I was on my own and had to plan for a livelihood.

Throughout my last year in school all I could think of was a coaching career. That was the only thing on my mind when I returned to Detroit Lakes, Minn., where my father was engaged in the grocery business. But coaching opportunities were few and far between. I marked time for a month or so, trying to make up my mind as to what my next move would be.

Then, in mid-summer of 1916, something happened to me that had much to do with shaping my career. I received an offer to take over the football coaching duties at Butte, Mont., high school. I also had to teach three subjects. I forgot what the salary was, but at the time it wouldn't have made any difference.

As coaching was something new to me, I required plenty of teaching. I decided to have a chat with my old coach, Dr. Henry L. Williams. "Doc" came to my rescue. He gave me my start in coaching—helped me in many other ways. Dr. Williams contributed much to football and I am especially indebted to him for the helping hand he gave me.

Some pretty fair material awaited me in Butte. Our team ran up 300 points in 6 for the opposition. We played Great Falls, Missoula, Billings, and other Montana squads. Our big battle was with Billings, which won the title in the eastern part of the state. We beat Billings 54-6, and generally were accepted as state champions. Two games had to be canceled because of heavy snow storms.

The success of my Butte high school team made the coaching profession even more fascinating than I had anticipated.

I was all set for a permanent coaching career when the United States entered the war. I enlisted in the Marine Corps.

But before going into my experience in the service and subsequent activities at the University of Montana, it might be well to first review my playing days at Minnesota.

I was physically sound in 1914 and because I had done pretty well in the sprints the previous spring, Dr. Williams gave me a lot of attention during my second season. I was a regular all that fall. We suffered setbacks at the hands of Illinois and Nebraska. Chicago gave us our only licking in my sophomore year.

I was the victim of another tough break in 1915. I missed several games as the result of having the muscles torn from my hip.

I'll never forget one of them. I was captain and, because Illinois had handed us our only reverse the previous autumn, I suffered my keenest disappointment when I couldn't play against Bob Zuppke's outfit at Urbana.

Veteran Minnesota fans remember that engagement. Joe Sprafka, taking my place, had one large afternoon. That is when he got the moniker of "Gallopin' Joe," because of his high knee action. He played a prominent part in our 6-6 tie, the only blot on our season's record.

We generally were accepted as Western conference champions that year despite the tie.

The game I remember best during my college career was the last one in which I played. It was against Wisconsin at Madison. I had a pretty fair afternoon, doing most of the ball carrying, intercepting a lot of passes, and doing many other things that any youngster will do when he has one of those "lucky" days. The Gophers won, 20-3.

It was something of a surprise, and clinched our claim to the championship. Wisconsin then, as now, was Minnesota's oldest and keenest rival.

By the way, I didn't do as much as see a Wisconsin-Minnesota contest from 1915 until I returned to my alma mater as head coach in 'the fall of 1932.

I won't forget that one, either. Dr. Clarence W. Spears and I were coaching at our respective institutions for the first time. Because "Doc" had coached at Minnesota, the meeting between our teams was the main topic of conversation from the start of the season until we got together.

We lost that one—a game I really had set my heart on winning as soon as I knew that I would be the Minnesota coach.

I won seven letters at Minnesota, three in football, three in track, and one in basketball. I confined my track activities to sprints on

HORNSBY RATED AS TOP BATTER BY ALEXANDER

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 25. (UP)—Grover Cleveland Alexander, former pitching star with the Philadelphia Phillies, the Chicago Cubs and the St. Louis Cardinals, says that Rogers Hornsby, manager of the St. Louis Browns, was the greatest batter he faced in his 20-year major league career.

Interviewed here when he returned to work in an exhibition game, "Old Pete" recalled that in the first game he ever pitched against Hornsby, the Rajah, then with the Cards, clouted one of his pitches for a double.

"And I don't think I ever got him out again for the rest of the 20 years I pitched to him," said the hero of the 1926 world series. "He had the greatest batting eye I ever saw."

The advice of my coach, Leonard Frank, after he had seen me in action as a freshman.

I took a fling at baseball, too, as an outsider, but this conflicted with track and I had to give up one of them when I became a sophomore. Len Frank sold me track in a big way because I liked baseball a little more.

I went out for basketball only one year—as a sophomore. I forsook basketball in order to keep up my scholastic standing.

I joined the Alpha Delta fraternity in my sophomore year.

I was enrolled in the college of arts and science, and graduated with the class of June, 1916, with the moniker "Bashful Bernie" pretty much of a fixture for years to come. A newspaperman named Andy Kees gave me that. I didn't have much to say every time he interviewed me.

Cornell Puts High Hopes On Untried Team

Snavelly, New Coach, Warns Fans That Squad Is Question Mark

ITHACA, N. Y., Sept. 25. (UP)—Under a new regime after several lean football years, Cornell university moves into 1936 with its hopes for a successful season hinging on the coaching wizardry of Carl G. Snavelly and a team of sophomores.

Victory-starved alumni of the central New York college are expecting great feats from this new deal team. Their optimism is based principally upon the form shown by the Big Red squad in its 3 to 4 victory over Colgate in a spring practice game.

Scooping Is Common Fault

Natural Loft of Club Is Sufficient To Get Ball Over Hazards

By LAWSON LITTLE
 NEW YORK, Sept. 25 (AP)—No matter how proficient one becomes in hitting a golf ball, not excluding the playing professional, there are certain common faults made during each round of golf. Of course, the poorer player is more frequently guilty of these errors, and it is to him that I will bend my efforts to help in this article.

First, I believe, we should consider topping. Two main causes for topping are: (1) Attempting to lift or scoop up the ball with the club, and (2) straightening the body just as the clubhead is about to make contact with the ball.

When the average 100 shooter finds a large trap or other undesirable hazard between his ball and the elusive putting carpet, his mind usually pictures his ball right in the center of spot to be avoided. If he has but a 25-yard pitch to escape the difficult area, he will frequently select his niblick and try to scoop the ball over trouble. The niblick or mashie-niblick is the correct club for him to use, but this attempt of lifting or scooping the ball is the error that causes most of the failures.

Loft of Club Will Raise Ball
 The natural loft on the club is sufficient to get the ball over all of the traps without any aid other than the proper swing of the club. When the player fails to make a successful shot it is usually because this fear of landing in the worst spot makes him try too hard to avoid it. The lifting that he does is always more hazardous although the player thinks that he is taking extra precautions.

The results of this lifting are three in number and all undesirable. There is a likelihood that the player will hit behind the ball and virtually explode the ball off the ground. This of course kills the force of the stroke by the cushioning effect the divot has between the clubface and the ball, and the ball will fall short of the intended mark and frequently right into the trouble.

The second possibility is that the ball is picked cleanly off the ground and the desired elevation is attained. But the drawback of this type of shot is that the ball has been in a sense lobbed up into the air and has not spin of any kind. This is the type ball that is hard to control when it hits the green; the ball will not stop soon after it lands and will not be controlled.

The last result is topping the ball. This is brought about by the club reaching the bottom of its arc before it contacts the ball. The player uses his right to lift or scoop the ball up. The bottom edge of the club hits the ball high enough to cut it and either half or completely top it. If the degree of the top is so great that the ball doesn't get off the ground, it is only luck that will prevent it from getting into the feared trouble. If it is only partially topped the flight will be very low and when it hits the green will surely bound over to whatever trouble is awaiting it on the other side.

The corrective: The player should be sure to hit slightly downward at the ball with the club contacting it just before it hits the ground. A small divot should be taken, but this divot should be taken under the ball or slightly in front of it along the intended direction of play. The loft of the club will lift the ball and the action of hitting down will give the shot plenty of backspin. There should be, at any time during the swing, no attempt to lift the ball up by scooping. Let the natural loft of the club lift the ball.

WHY PUT UP WITH PIMPLES, WRINKLES AND A SALLOW SKIN?

So many women throw their charms and beauty away—look years older than they are—because they neglect common constipation. They forget that badly balanced meals, over a period of years, can change how they look and feel.

Often their menus lack the "bulk" needed for regular habits. Then constipation, the beauty-killer, sets in. Other effects may be headaches, listlessness, sleeplessness.

Get "bulk" back into your meals with a delicious cereal: Kellogg's All-Bran. It absorbs moisture within the body, forms a soft mass, gently cleanses the system.

Just eat two tablespoons daily, either as a cereal or in cooked dishes. All-Bran is guaranteed. Try it a week. If not satisfactory, your money will be refunded by the Kellogg Company. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Many Special Events Carded At Centennial

Feature Programs Offered Each Day Throughout Exposition

DALLAS, Sept. 25—Every day from now until November 29, packed with attractions and special events, brilliant and outstanding, the Texas Centennial exposition at Dallas offers a record breaking program never equaled at any world's fair to date. Along with international college football classics, the National Dairy show and events of international proportions, each day will present features peculiar to Texas and the southwest.

Opening the schedule of October 3 comes the Pioneer Lancers from San Antonio, headed by the 78-year-old Edwin Chamberlain, who can step off more dances than any Texan cow hand ever dreamed existed. Here will be a historical group that will bring the hospitality and entertainment saga of a Texas that passed with the longhorn cattle, new system of check issuance will be used. Instead of mailing out all checks at the first of the month, they will be scattered out through the month. This will lighten the work of handling the checks in the state treasury and the comptroller's offices.

back from the shadows of fading memory. October 8 will be Athlete Day, Texas Artists Day, Children's Music Festival Day, Traveling Men's Day and on this same day the Dallas high school and junior school bands will begin a series of band contests to run until October 24.

San Jacinto Day
 Biggest of all events of the day will be the celebration of San Jacinto Day. Into this celebration will be gathered all sections of Texas. At that time the descendants of the heroes of that historic battle will be present to participate in the ceremonies which will pay homage to the handful of frontiersmen who wrested Texas from Santa Anna and his rule of terrorism. Here will be a celebration such as has never before been staged in Texas. The Sons and Daughters of the Republic of Texas, will have charge of celebration arrangements.

North Dallas high school and Sunset high school will wage their annual football battle in the Cotton Bowl this same day.

October 4 opens with Midwest Texas Day and delegations from Big Spring, Sweetwater, Colorado and Snyder. It has also been designated as Dallas Symphony Orchestra Day.

The big attraction of the day will be the gathering of 25,000 railroad employes from over the nation. Heading the invaders will be A. L. Whitney of Cleveland, Ohio. Whitney is president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. With President Whitney will be a large party of national and southwestern railroad officers and leaders of the many railroad groups.

Football Games
 The first of the intersectional football classics is scheduled for October 10 when the squads from the Universities of Texas and Oklahoma meet in the Cotton Bowl. This game will be followed by one between Vanderbilt and Southern Methodist university and another between Mississippi State and Texas Christian university at later dates within the month.

October 10 has also been designated as Lions International Club Day, Austin Day, Oklahoma City Day, Ponca City Day, Rock Island Lines 84th Anniversary Day. On this day the great National Dairy show opens, bringing to Texas for the first time the cream of the crop in dairy blue blood aristocracy. The show continues through October 18.

On October 11, Texas will witness the greatest religious celebration of all time. The exposition has designated this day as Catholic Day, Catholic Daughters of America Day, Mexican Day and Italian Day. The day opens with ceremonies in the Cotton Bowl, participated in by high dignitaries of the Catholic church from over the nation.

Church leaders are expecting not less than 100,000 communicants to participate in the celebration.

Predicts New Dust Storms

Soil Conservation Chief Says Winds Will Result From Drouth

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (UP)—Dust storms again next spring as an aftermath of the drouth were forecast today by Dr. H. H. Bennett, chief of the soil conservation service of the department of agriculture.

"Unless there is substantial rain and snowfall this autumn and winter, there is the likelihood that we shall have another series of dust storms in 1937," Dr. Bennett said. "In parts of the region, these may be as severe as in 1934 and 1935."

A $2,000,000 wind erosion control program sponsored in five Great Plains states this year has reduced the chances of 1937 dust storms in the southern Great Plains, he said. Northern sections of the plains area, however, may be troubled by the swirling clouds of dust.

It is impossible to predict the intensity or extent of future dust storms, Dr. Bennett said. Blistered fields that have been denuded of vegetation present conditions for possible dust storms.

"Furthermore, soil losses in many parts of the plains country will certainly be unusually heavy if rains Nolen has been selected as a staff member for La Ventana, student yearbook.

come suddenly and in torrential intensity, because the drouth has cut down the stabilizing vegetative cover of the land. The fine, dry soil is easily washed away just as it is easily blown away.

Soil experts of the department recommend a cover crop of grasses, feed crops or a heavy growth of weeds to prevent the soil from blowing. Substantial rains this fall would be necessary to make possible the growing of these cover crops. Sowing of winter wheat to make another cover crop has been made possible by recent rains in some areas.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Morris of San Angelo visited friends here today.
