What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Did For Ohio Woman.

Portsmouth, Ohio.—"I suffered from irregularities, pains in my side and was so weak at times I could hardly get around to do my work, and as I had four in my family and three boarders it made it very hard for me. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended to me. I took it and it has restored my health. It is certainly the best medicine for woman's ailments I ever saw."—Mrs. SARA SHAW, R. Wanted in Montana: Public Health Nurse

MISS ELLA R. CRANDALL, EXECUTIVE SECRETARY, W. N. U.

CHILDREN MEET THE NURSE AT THE STATION

If you want to see a dug-out, don't go to France, go to Montana.

Scores of Montana families, father, mother, and sometimes wee babies, live in dugouts very similar to those which sheltered our soldiers in the thick of the fighting in France. And the life of these families here in America, especially of mothers and children, is almost as difficult and dangerous as that of the soldier boys. These facts and stories of the life of these present-day pioneers out West, have just been made public by the children's bureau. Homes seventy to one hundred miles from a railroad, without telephones, where trails are difficult and good roads almost unknown, are described in the report, which tells of the mothers and babies who suffer unnecessarily and sometimes die because the nearest doctor may be fifty or more miles away and there is no public health nurse.

Many things are needed to bring comfort and even safety to these families. The first of these, according to the children's bureau, is the public health nurse. And the people of the county studied agree with this recommendation. Since the visit of the agents of the children's bureau they have sent this petition to their board of county commissioners:

"We earnestly petition the board that they appoint a county nurse whose services shall be given to the western half of — county. The legislature of 1917, by the enactment of the child-welfare law, empowered you to make this appointment. Because of the war, physicians were called to the service of their country and large sections of the county are left without medical attention, which will render the services of a nurse more necessary than before in giving health supervision to school children, and protecting the health of the community from infectious diseases."

With such a nurse, who could make her rounds by automobile, the lives of the people of the district would be much safer.

Isolated Homes in Montana. So isolated are many of the settlers at present that illness and even death may find them alone and without the possibility of securing help. Especially dangerous is the occupation of mother-out in this pioneer country. At present, because of the bad roads and great distances and also because of the expense, mother after mother has no doctor and no nurse at the time when her babies are born. She goes through her fight for life—a fight as big and as important as that of a soldier on the battlefield—in the crude surroundings of her dugout of mud and wood, or her "tarpaper" shack, sod or gumbo-clay house, without help or only with the help of an untrained member of the family or of a neighbor.

For a doctor is a luxury to the pioneers of Montana and almost impossible to get. In all the district of 5,500 square miles studied by the bureau there was not a single hospital, only three registered physicians, and not one public health or "traveling" nurse.

"My husband rode horseback 12 miles in a bad snowstorm for the doctor, but he was away," says one mother.

Another husband left at noon to get a physician, but was lost in a storm and did not get back until six o'clock the next morning.

Mail is no more certain than the roads or the weather. One mother wrote three months in advance to engage a physician who did not receive her letter until a week after the baby was born. Mail in this region is delivered to a few central post offices only two or three times a week, and then it is often delayed for weeks or months. It is a common complaint that winter underwear ordered in the fall doesn't arrive till spring.

As might be expected from this lack of health protection for her mothers, Montana has a bad list of casualties. More mothers in proportion to the entire number of women die in Montana than in any other state in the Union.

Children are less safe, too, in this part of Montana than in other western states.

"Winter weather," said one mother who lived 45 miles from a doctor, "makes us prisoners. I can't tell you how I am worrying about the winter, for if my baby should get sick I'd be helpless."

Another mother had to take a child who had appendicitis more than 125 miles to the nearest hospital for an operation.

One five-day-old baby became ill at a time when the big dry creek had overflowed its banks and there was no way to cross it. Therefore, no physician could be sent for.

In another case, the nearest physician, who lives eight miles from the family, was away when his eighteen-day-old baby fell ill, and when the next doctor, who lived 25 miles away, was sent for he did not arrive until after the baby's death.

OLD AGE STARTS WITH YOUR KIDNEYS

Science says that old age begins with weakened kidneys and digestive organs. This being true, it is easy to believe that by keeping the kidneys and digestive organs cleansed and in proper working order old age can be deferred and life prolonged far beyond that enjoyed by the average person.

For over 200 years GOLD MEDAL Hair Oil has been relieving the weakness and disability due to advancing years. It is a standard old-time home remedy and needs no introduction. GOLD MEDAL Hair Oil is enclosed in odorless, tasteless capsules containing about 5 drops each. Take them as you would a pill, with a swallow of water. The oil stimulates the kidney action and enables the organs to throw off the poisons which cause premature old age. New life and strength increase as you continue the treatment. When completely restored continue taking a capsule or two each day. GOLD MEDAL Hair Oil Capsules will keep you in health and vigor and prevent a return of the disease.

Do not wait until old age or disease have settled down for good. At the first sign that your kidneys are not working properly, go to your druggist and get a box of GOLD MEDAL Hair Oil Capsules. Money refunded if they do not help you. Three sizes. But remember, ask for the original imported GOLD MEDAL brand. In sealed packages.

When the Well Comes In

I've sold my mules and my brindle cow
And my Georgia stock and my turnin' plow,
And my old brood-sow that I bought last spring.
And I've bought some stock in a well, by jing;
They're going to bore somewhere, and when
They fetch her in just watch me then
As I'm shovelin' in my piles of tin
An' alivin' high—when the well comes in.

'Twas the finest feller you ever see
That sold me stock, an' he says, sezee.
That a feller's a fool to sweat and toil
Instead of puttin' his money in oil
That'll make him rich in a little while,
So his folks can live in the latest style
An' move to town and dress like sin,
With nothing to do—when the well comes in.

When I told Poteet, who runs the bank,
That I'd bought the stock, why the blamed old crank
Said a fellow was just a plain darn fool
To sell his stock and all his farmia' tools
And the other things that he's got to sell
And put his money in a wildcat well;
But you just wait and watch me grin
At old Poteet—when the well comes in.

When the well comes in I'm agoin' to buy
A great big car that's geared up high,
And then doll-up from head to feet
And drive to the bank to see Mr. Poteet;
And I'll make him feel like a ten-cent fool
For advisin' me not to sell my mules
And my farmin' tools and the corn in the bin
And buy oil stock—when the well comes in.

J. R. Ramsey Writes From Libau, Russia

Libau, Russia, June 18, 1919.
Dear Home Folks:

I have written several letters the past two or three weeks and they may be enroute. or in England, I do not know which. Since writing you last, however, have been sailing around some seeing the cost line of northern Russia. A week ago today we sailed for Revel Russia, arrived there on Friday night; it is about 300 miles from here north; remained there two days and nights, and sailed from there to Helsingfoes, Russia, remained there one day then back to Revel again, then back to Libau, from Libau we went to Memel, Russia. At Revel we had our first liberty, and believe me this was a happy bunch too, as we had been cooped up for more than two weeks on board of ship and everyone was tired.

The city of Revel has 200,000 people and I presume it is an usual Russian city. The streets and sidewalks are all very narrow. Cobble stone pavements and rough. They are dirty and crooked, laid out by some drunken guy who could not walk straight; poorly lighted, and all shops are stores I think the funniest thing I ever saw was the men. The middle and upper class of people are very well dressed and look clean and neat, but the poorer classes are awful. Men and women both going barefooted and in rags. I presume that the most of this was caused by the war. The better class of women are very nice, have beautiful complexions and are very fair. Their clothes compare more favorably with our women than the women of England. Their hats are evidently from Paris and they seem more modest than the women of other places I have been, as England Belgium, Denmark and Germany. The men tip their hats to the men and the women do the work and give the sidewalk to the men. The men do not show the women any consideration whatsoever, and like England, the men keep their hats on while eating in the cafe's and hotels and naturally I suppose they do at home. In Revel there is absolutely no form of amusement to be had. They have wonderful natural parks all over the city and you find a tea room in each park; you can get wretched coffee, horrid tea, impossible chocolate and rotten lemonade, cakes of sawdust and for a wonder very good ice cream. There is nothing in the form of liquor to drink at all. They have what they call Rhine wine but is nothing more than diluted turpentine so no one cares for that.

We established a soup kitchen at Revel, I say we, our food commission did, and instead of feeding the people we are only feeding the babies and children, they have to bring them to the kitchen three times per day where they are fed milk, white bread, meat and such things as required prepared under the direction of an American doctor who also treats any sick babies or children free of charge. The adults receive half a pound of bread per day and whatever they can get, soup.

horse meat and some fresh stuff. I had a stake of horse meat and it was pretty good. The people absolutely have no "pep" and do not seem to care what becomes of them; they seem to have just given up all hope and are doing the best they can. They have about quit fighting and the Bolshevik are about all gone and they expect to have everything under control as soon as Petersburg falls which they are expecting every day. The British and French have many war ships up here in the Baltic and are having more or less trouble all the time but we go and come as we please and they greet us with open arms and are always glad to see us. Revel is the Esthonian Russia, Libau the so called Lets and Helsingfoes the Finland. We have about fifteen food ships under our wing to look after and to take care of and they carry no doctors or medicine to amount to anything. I make quite a few trips every day to first one and another and as long as I am around they call for me but seem to get along all right when I am not on hand. Our ship is some sprinter, can make 30 knots per hour against the George Washington's 16 knots. I am getting very anxious to hear from you all again and hope I may get home before we are frozen in over here. At Revel it gets dark at 12 o'clock at night and daylight at 1 A. M.; just one hour of darkness.
