Have You Bought a V Bond?

Lynn County Cannot Raise Her Quota Unless You Will Help. Saturday is the Last Day

Have you bought a Victory Loan Bond? Tomorrow, Saturday, May 10th, is the last day of the loan drive, which was started three weeks ago. Will Lynn County fail to raise her quota in this last Liberty Loan drive? Heretofore these loans launched by our Government have not been overlooked by the citizens of our county, but it seems that with the Victory Liberty Loan it has been different, and that little interest has been manifested by our people. Even those who have heretofore bought liberally of the bonds, have failed to respond this time.

Our Government is asking for aid, and must have the money, if not by a loan with big interest, then by taxation. The campaign will close Saturday and Tahoka and Lynn County is far behind. Only $6,750 has been subscribed up till Thursday noon.

No man will lose money by subscribing to this loan, but on the other hand will save money. If you have not bought a bond, do so now.

Be a patriot. If Lynn County will not go over, let's make it all we possibly can.

The local banks are ready and willing to wait on you. Call on them today. The boys have done their part. Let's do ours.

J. W. Scivally, of Plainview, spent the first part of the week in Tahoka. Mr. Scivally is interested in the oil developments in Lynn county and holds quite a few leases in this territory.

I. S. Doak and family made a pleasure trip to the country west of Tahoka Sunday, visiting at the Singleton ranch, Loop, Seagraves and Brownfield before returning home in the afternoon.

Clyde F. Elkins, of Haskel, Texas, was in Tahoka Tuesday looking after the sale of a piece of Lynn county land under litigation.

Henry McDaniel came in Tuesday afternoon from the training camps. Henry says he has received his discharge and is home for keeps.

The South bound Lamesa Limited Santa Fe passenger was unusually late Monday, arriving in Tahoka about 7:40 p. m.

To the Pastor's of Tahokr Churches

We are requested by the officials of the Texas Equal Suffrage Association to ask the pastor of every church in Tahoka to make mention in his sermon on next Sunday—Mother's Day—of the suffrage amendment to be voted on at a special election on May 24. We are sure that much good will be accomplished through so splendid a medium of publicity as this.

MRS. J. B. WALKER, Chairman Lynn County Equal Suffrage Association.

Wind, Hail and Rain Storm Tuesday Night

Lynn County and surrounding country was visited by quite a rain and hail storm late Tuesday afternoon and night, the hail doing considerable damage to growing vegetation, according to reports that have come in from different sections of the county, with the exception of the eastern part of the county. Many gardens were stripped and beaten down entirely, also much fruit was knocked from the trees. The rainfall amounted to one and forty-six hundredths of an inch, or practically one and one-half inches. A high wind accompanied the storm which blew down several outhouses and barns, broke many window lights and uprooted a few trees over town. One of the fine trees on the street leading out west from the square was blown down, but a number of public spirited citizens succeeded in uprighting it by cleaning out the hole and it will probably be none the worse from having blown over. The recent work done on the streets by the city came in good play in carrying off the water from the main part of town. Bumper crops are assured and aside from the damage done by hail to wheat and oats, good yields are expected to be made all over Lynn County.

W. C. Cowan had the misfortune to lose a good cow a few days ago by being run over by a Santa Fe train. Mr. Cowan has lost several head in this manner and it should be a lesson to thoughtless people who leave gates open, to learn to take time to close them, no matter how big the hurry.

Boys' Pig Club to be Organized

Believing that the boys of Lynn County are industrious and as intelligent as the average boy of our state, and realizing the great need of the development of our county, a Boys' Pig Club will be organized.

Boys over the state are making big money growing pigs, which is a credit to them, and also the community and state. The greatest benefit to the county, state and boy, is that the boys are developing into business men.

We want one boy from each School District in the County to enlist in this Club.

There will be a committee of three citizens to select the boys from those who apply for membership.

Get busy boy and make application to D. T. Rogers and he will tell you how to get your pig.

Watch the News for further developments.

Maddox delivered a splendid address to the graduating class, touching on the higher plane of life, and was very instructive to all who heard it. Dunn in a few well chosen words awarded the diploma's to the two graduates.

W. S. Swan Sells Residence Property

This week a deal was made through land agent, Boyce Hatchett, whereby Messrs. Ed and D. C. Davis, of Desmonia, Texas, become the owners of the W. S. Swan residence property in the northwest part of Tahoka. These gentlemen also purchased two sections of land through Mr. Hatchett from Ed Baldrige near O'Donnell. We are informed that these gentlemen will move their families here and occupy the property purchased. Mr. Swan has not fully decided just what he will do at the present time, but it is hoped he and family will remain in Tahoka.

Gas Encountered at Oil Well

Drillers Give Out Information Monday that Gas Was Encountered in Cowan Well Here.

There was quite a little excitement in Tahoka last Monday when the drillers gave out the information that gas had been encountered in Cowan well, No. One, three miles south of town. Many rumors have gone out about finding gas and oil and other things in this well, but this is the first information coming from the proper authorities, and the News is glad to print such items when we can do so on reliable information.

There is much speculation as to when the big oil will be encountered, but from the best information that can be had, everything indicates that we ought to have paying oil in Lynn County at a depth of 2,000 feet or less. People who are in position to know, and have been in oil fields with similar formation as this one, state that oil is generally found around a depth of 2,000 feet or less. A big gaser was found in the Amarillo field at a depth of about 1950 feet; their altitude is about six or seven hundred feet higher than in Lynn County. If that had anything to do with the depth of oil, Lynn County might expect a gusher any day.

Hundreds of people have been watching developments in Lynn County for a number of months with longing expectations, wondering whether or not they should invest. We feel sure they will wake up some morning telling their friends of what they might have made had they only taken advantage of the opportunities offered.

Oil wells and big crops for Lynn County will surely place her on top this year.

Sumner Clayton is out working on his farm west of town. Sumner has followed his trade as a tonsorial artist at the Sanitary Barber shop the past several months, and will continue his duties at the shop on Saturdays.

Charley Brown left Monday for Brownwood, Stephenville and Wichita Falls, Texas, in the interest of his oil holdings in that territory.

Rev. R. F. Dunn, pastor of the M. E. Church, made a business trip to Post the first of the week.

Dr. E. E. Callaway Ships in Car Heifers

Dr. E. E. Callaway received a shipment of fifteen heifer jerseys over the Santa Fe Wednesday, which he bought at Fort Worth a few days ago. They are blooded stock and the doctor will keep them on his ranch and sell them later to Lynn county farmers for A1 milch cows. Dr. Callaway stated that he had been offered a handsome profit on the bunch, but refused to sell at this time. He regrets now that he did not purchase a full car load of the heifers. Lynn County will be supplied with full blooded jersey milch cows.

LIFT OFF CORNS!

Freezone is magic! Corns lift off with fingers without pain

Hurt? No, not one bit! Just drop a little Freezone on that touchy corn, instantly it stops aching, then you lift that bothersome corn right off. Yes, magic! Costs only a few cents.

Try Freezone! Your druggist sells a tiny bottle, sufficient to rid your feet of every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and calluses, without one particle of pain, soreness or irritation. Freezone is the mysterious ether discovery of a Cincinnati genius.

All-American Telescope.

Before the war, although America led the world in the size and excellence of its telescope, it had to import the optical glass for making them from Europe. The necessities of the war led to so rapid a development of optical glass manufacture in this country that the next giant telescope may be all-American in material and workmanship.

FROM THE LOW FEVER COUNTRY

Cheering Message From South Georgia to People Subject to Fevers and Other Ills. Try Black-Draught Liver Medicine.

Ocala, Ga.—Mr. J. H. McNeill, a resident of this place, says: "I and my family have been users of Theford's Black-Draught for years and never yet found its equal for liver and stomach troubles. It is without doubt the best medicine for headache, indigestion and such ills on the market. I firmly believe if a family would use it regularly they would never have any fever, as it keeps the liver active and is so easy to take. We have never had any fever in our family since we began its use, although we live in low country in southern Georgia.

I use it in broken doses for indigestion, gas or sour stomach, but for colds I use a full dose."

When you feel bad all over, stomach not right, bad taste in your mouth, head aches, bilious, etc., try that old, reliable vegetable liver medicine you have heard so much about—Theford's Black-Draught.

You have read over and over again the statements from users who found it of great relief to them in their suffering. Try Black-Draught for yourself. Why should it not bring you relief, too? At all druggists.—Adv.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It

Applicants for Insurance Often Rejected.

Judging from reports from druggists who are constantly in direct touch with the public, there is one preparation that has been very successful in overcoming these conditions. The mild and healing influence of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its remarkable record of success.

An examining physician for one of the prominent Life Insurance Companies, in an interview of the subject, made the astonishing statement that one reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people, and the large majority of those whose applications are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease. It is on sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Adv.

MR. BURLESON SAYS PLANS ARE BLOCKED

IMPOSSIBLE TO TEST FEDERAL OWNERSHIP OF WIRES UNDER REPUBLICANS, HE SAYS.

Washington.—The burden of failure to prove the value of government ownership of the telephone and telegraph wires, and their operation as a part of the postal system, was placed at the door of the new congress, which is republican, in a statement issued by Postmaster General Burleson. The postmaster general reiterates his faith in the idea of government ownership of the wires, but says that it was an impossibility to give it a rational test under war conditions. Further, he declares that for some time it has been apparent that the new congress was not favorable to the plan, and only one course remained open, that being to return the properties to their owners as soon as appropriate legislation protecting the interests and insuring proper service to the public is enacted.

The public has been no little confused by the statement of the postmaster general that conditions made it necessary to advance the rates for wire service, and the counter-statement of the former head of the Postal company that the increases were not necessary. Mr. Burleson claims that the advance in the price of everything ranging from 25 to 100 per cent, and an advance of the wages, made the increase for service imperative. Labor has accused the department of misrepresenting the extent of the wage advance, strikes have been threatened and called, and the public has bitterly complained about bad service. There can be no doubt, however, about the value of the postmaster general's position with reference to the increased cost of operation, both as to material and labor, but it remains to be shown whether any part of the increase has been due of itself to government control.

The statement is made at the department that the new policy would not affect the contemplated phone rate increases, which it has maintained were to meet the cost of government operation, due in a measure to the rentals which the government stipulated to pay the owners, and the conditions under which the rate increases were deemed necessary.

NATIONAL BOMB PLOT BELIEVED UNEARTHED

SIXTEEN INFERNAL MACHINES ARE DISCOVERED IN NEW YORK POSTOFFICE.

New York.—With the discovery in the New York postoffice of sixteen infernal machines, in addition to six more that have been delivered to prominent men in various parts of the country, federal detectives have started a search for the senders of the dangerous bombs which are believed to be part of nation-wide plot.

The bombs undelivered were addressed to prominent men, including judges and cabinet members, while the six thus far delivered to addresses through the mail, reached the offices or homes of the following:

Former Senator Thomas Hardwick of Georgia, Congressman John L. Burnett of Alabama, Federal Judge K. M. Landis of Chicago, Mayor Ole Hanson of Seattle, United States District Attorney Charles M. Fickert and his assistant, Edward M. Cunha, of San Francisco.

None of these men has been injured by the bombs, but Mrs. Hardwick and a maid were severely hurt. The parcels bore similar mechanisms, arranged to explode on opening, and were sent as "novelty samples" from New York, with a fictitious tag, indicating that they came from the store of Gimbel Brothers.

The packages found in the New York postoffice were discovered by a mail clerk after reading of the bomb which exploded at the Hardwick home. They had all been held for lack of first class postage.

Largest Texas Treasury Warrant.

Austin, Texas.—The largest treasury warrant ever issued in Texas was issued recently by State Treasurer John W. Baker. It was for $1,000,000, being a transfer from the general revenue fund to the available school funds, and authorized under act of the regular session of the thirty-sixth legislature, providing for transfer of funds to supplement the available school fund to insure the payment of the apportionment of $7.50 per capita in support of the public schools of the state.

Washington.—Two officers and fourteen men of the crew of the naval tug Gypsum Queen were drowned recently when that vessel struck a rock and sank near Armen Light, off the coast of France.

Expanding Intangible Asset Tax.

Austin, Texas.—A comprehensive bill has been drawn by James A. King, state tax commissioner, placing under the intangible asset tax system all express companies, telegraph companies, oil refineries, packing houses, interurbans, electric railways, railway terminal companies, pipe lines, telephone companies, whose gross annual receipts exceed $10,000, and every oil company producing petroleum whose gross receipts exceed $50,000 per annum.

COVENANT MADE PART OF THE PEACE TREATY

SIR ERIC DRUMMOND IS NAMED SECRETARY GENERAL AND COMMITTEE APPOINTED.

ACCEPTANCE IS UNANIMOUS

Japanese and French Representatives Express Regret, but Do Not Press Amendments.

Paris.—The covenant of the league of nations in revised form, moved by President Wilson, was adopted by the peace conference in plenary session without a dissenting vote. The president's motion also named Sir Eric Drummond as secretary general of the league and provided for a committee to inaugurate the league.

Thus one of the notable works of the conference passes its final stage and is incorporated in the peace treaty.

The French and Japanese amendments, after a brief discussion, were not pressed and the way was then cleared for unanimous acceptance of the league.

Italy was not represented at the session, but the name of Italy appears as one of the members of the league in the covenant as finally adopted. Nine-labor principles were adopted for insertion in the treaty.

President Wilson was recognized at the outset for a detailed explanation of the new covenant of the league. His speech was without oratorical effect and confirmed the explanation of the textual changes, most of which have already been noted, and named Belgium, Brazil, Greece and Spain on the league council.

Baron Makino, head of the Japanese delegation, in a brief speech, called renewed attention to the Japanese amendment on racial equality.

Paul Hymans, representing Belgium, expressed regret of the Belgian people at the selection of Geneva as the seat of the league of nations, while approving the high aims of the league. However, he did not offer an amendment changing the seat of the league from Geneva to the Belgian capital.

Chairman Acevedo of the Uruguayan delegation said he saw in the league a great aid to the realization of Latin-American industrial and commercial prosperity.

Leon Bourgeois, former premier, spoke for France. He said that the French amendments to the league including a demand for a national army and police force, and the limitation of verification of armaments of all nations had not been adopted. France, however, would sign the pact, M. Bourgeois declared.

The South American representatives expressed approval at great length before the covenant was adopted. During this part of the afternoon a distinct restlessness was noticeable. President Wilson walking over to a friend and Premier Lloyd George disappearing from the room.

When the decision was taken, President Wilson was surrounded by delegates and friends, who congratulated him on the constitution of the league, which he had steered past many quick-sands.

SPECIAL SESSION WILL CONVENE NEXT MONDAY

GOVERNOR WILL CALL LEGISLATURE TO ENACT LAW TO LET SOLDIERS VOTE.

Austin, Texas.—Governor Hobby has announced that he will call the thirty-sixth legislature to convene in special session in Austin next Monday, May 5. This announcement came in the form of a statement from the governor's office to the effect that the special session will be called to enact a law that will permit discharged soldiers and sailors to vote in the election on May 24.

When asked if he would tender a bill to the legislature embodying his ideas of legislation needed to permit discharged soldiers to vote, Governor Hobby said he preferred that the legislature write its own bill. It is known that a bill has been prepared by Senator J. C. McNealus of Dallas. This bill, it is said, has been submitted to Attorney General Cureton and has been approved by him.

In the statement issued Governor Hobby not only expresses the desire that soldiers and sailors be permitted to vote, but wants the franchise given them in time to vote on the four constitutional amendments to be submitted May 24. These are prohibition, woman suffrage, state credit for rural home purchase and improvement and increase in the governor's salary.

Oklahoma Supreme Court Judge Quits.

Washington.—The government is preparing to relinquish control next month of American cable lines and to restore the telegraph and telephone systems to private ownership immediately after enactment by congress of laws necessary to safeguard the properties. Postmaster General Burleson, head of the extensive wire communication service, announced he had sent to President Wilson a recommendation that the cables be turned back forthwith.

MAKE PUBLIC REVISED COVENANT OF LEAGUE

FINAL DRAFT TO BE PRESENTED MONDAY AT PLENARY SESSION OF CONFERENCE.

Washington.—The revised covenant of the league of nations as it will be presented to the peace conference in plenary session has been made public by the state department.

Attached to the text is the hitherto unpublished "annex" referred to in the covenant, in which are named the 31 states, including the self-governing British dominions, which are to be the original members are all the nations which declared war on Germany and, in addition, the new states of Czechoslovakia and Poland. Those invited to become members by acceding to the covenant are the three Scandinavian countries, the Netherlands, Switzerland, Spain and Persia, and the American republics of Argentine, Chile, Columbia, Paraguay, Salvador and Venezuela.

Mexico was not represented in the conference of neutrals at Paris, and, as was expected, does not appear in the list. Provision is made in the covenant, however, for the admission to the league of any self-governing country which will give the required guarantees, upon a two-thirds vote of the assembly, composed of representatives of the member nations.

The covenant provides that the league shall act through an assembly, in which each state shall have one vote and not more than three delegates, and a council, comprising the present one representative of each of the five great powers and each of the four other powers to be selected from time to time by the assembly. Members of each class represented on the council may be increased by unanimous consent of the council and a majority of the assembly.

Publication of the text discloses that the official summary quoted verbatim the new article recognizing the Monroe doctrine. It provides that nothing in the covenant shall be deemed "to affect the validity of international engagements such as treaties of arbitration or regional understandings like the Monroe doctrine for securing the maintenance of peace."

Former Kaiser Will Be Tried.

Washington.—Trial of the former German emperor for "a supreme offense against international morality and the sanctity of treaties" has been determined upon by the allied and associated powers. Holland will be requested to surrender the royal refugee for arraignment before a court composed of five judges named by the United States, Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan. Thus the peace conference commission on responsibility for the war has solved its most weighty problem.

Gompers Seriously Hurt in Collision.

New York.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American federation of labor, was seriously injured recently when a taxicab in which he was riding was struck by a Broadway surface car and hurled 20 feet to the curb. Surgeons who were summoned reported that two of Mr. Gompers' ribs had been fractured, his right hip sprained and that he had suffered severe body contusions. The surgeons declare his condition is not critical.

The third county prize was won by Ellis county, fourth by Williamson and fifth by Tarrant.

The program also includes a complete plan for securing and distributing food to allied, liberated, neutral and enemy countries until the next harvest. One object of the program is to determine the available food supply.

HOLD FIRST SESSION OF PEACE CONGRESS

PALE AND SHOWING DEEP EMOTION, GERMANS PRESENT THEIR PAPERS.

M. CAMBON RECEIVED THEM

Precedent is Not Followed in That Germans Did Not Walk to Meeting Place, but Rode in Auto.

Versailles.—The German plenipotentiaries of the peace congress have presented their credentials at the first session, which lasted barely five minutes. It was the first step in the peace negotiations. The German credentials were presented to representatives of the allies and the United States.

Pale and almost fainting from emotion, Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau, the German foreign secretary and the head of the delegation, passed through what evidently was one of the bitterest moments of his life. He was barely able to sustain himself through the brief ceremony and reach the waiting automobile which had brought him to the gathering.

The meeting took place in the room of the Trianon Hotel, previously used for the sessions of the supreme military council. Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau, on entering was accompanied by Herr Landsberg, Professor Schuecking and two secretaries, and waiting for him the allied representatives were grouped around Jules Cambon, the former French ambassador to Berlin, who is chairman of the commission.

Other members of the allied party included Henry White of the United States, Lord Harding, Great Britain, and Ambassador Matsui, Japan.

M. Cambon immediately addressed Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau, saying that he was chairman of the commission entrusted by the allied powers to receive and examine the credentials of the German delegates as the first step in a conference which, it was hoped, would lead to peace.

"Here are ours," continued M. Cambon, extending as he spoke the formal credentials of the allied commission as plenipotentiaries to the congress.

Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau surrendered the German credentials with even a less formal address, his emotion being too great to enable him to deliver an extended discourse.

MAY DAY RIOTING AT CLEVELAND, OHIO

ONE MAN IS KILLED, ELEVEN POLICEMEN SHOT OR BEATEN AND MANY PERSONS HURT.

Cleveland, Ohio.—An unidentified man was killed by a detective's bullet, 11 policemen were shot or badly beaten and about 100 persons wounded, many seriously, in general rioting which brought a dramatic finale to a socialist May day demonstration here. About 30 persons, seriously injured, are in hospitals while scores of others including women, were trampled by rioters and clubbed by police.

Socialist headquarters was totally wrecked by angry civilians, bent on putting an end to the demonstration. The rioting was general in the public square and several prominent thoroughfares. Socialists and sympathizers at the public square were ridden down by mounted policemen and soldiers in army tanks and trucks aided in dispersing them.

Sixty of the rioters were arrested. A score were found to be armed, the police say.

Several hundred rioters threatened police headquarters when C. E. Ruthenberg, socialist candidate for mayor, was arrested and for more than an hour the entire downtown section of the city was a seething mass of socialist demonstrators, police, civilians and soldiers.

Dozens of shots were fired in the public square, where more than 20,000 socialists and sympathizers assembled for a May day rally and to protest against the conviction of Eugene V. Debs and Thomas J. Mooney.

The stamp tax on perfumes and patent medicines must be paid by the consumer the dealer being required to make report on sales.

WOLVES OF THE SEA

By RANDALL PARRISH

Copyright, by A. C. McClurg & Co.

Foreword.

Anson Carlyle, aged twenty-three, the ninth in descent from Capt. Geoffrey Carlyle of Glasgow, Scotland, was among the heroic Canadian dead at Vimy ridge. Unmarried, and the last of his line, what few treasures he possessed fell into alien hands. Among these was a manuscript, apparently written in the year 1687, and which, through nine generations, had been carefully preserved, yet never made public. The paper was yellowed and discolored by years; occasionally a page was missing, and the writing itself had become almost indecipherable. Much indeed had to be traced by use of a microscope. The writer was evidently a man of some education, and clear thought, but exceeding diffuse, in accordance with the style of his time, and possessing small conception of literary form. In editing this manuscript for modern readers I have therefore been compelled to practically re-write it entirely, retaining merely the essential facts, with an occasional descriptive passage, although I have conscientiously followed the original development of the tale. In this reconstruction much quaintness of language as well as appeal to probability, may have been lost, and for this my only excuse is the necessity of thus making the story readable. I have no doubt as to its essential truth, nor do I question the purpose which dominated this rover of the sea in his effort to record the adventures of his younger life. As a picture of those days of blood and courage, as well as a story of love and devotion, I deem it worthy preservation, regretting only the impossibility of now presenting it in print exactly as written by Geoffrey Carlyle.

CHAPTER I.

Sent Into Servitude.

Knowing this to be a narrative of unusual adventure, and one which may never even be read until long after I have departed from this world, when it will be difficult to convince readers that such times as are herein depicted could ever have been reality, I shall endeavor to narrate each incident in the simplest manner possible. My only purpose is truth, and my only witness history. Yet, even now lately as this all happened, it is more like the recollections of a dream, dimly remembered at awakening, and, perchance, might remain so, but for the scars upon my body, and the constant memory of a woman's face. These alone combine to bring back in vividness those days that were—days of youth and daring, of desperate, lawless war, of wide ocean peril, and the outstretched hands of love. So that here, where I am writing it all down, here amid quietness and peace, and forgetful of the past, I wander again along a deserted shore, and sail among those isles of a southern sea, the home for many a century of crime and unspeakable cruelty. I will recall the truth, and can do no more.

It was still early morning when we were brought out under heavy guard and marched somberly forth through the opened gates of the jail. Ahead we could perceive a forest of masts, and what seemed like a vast crowd of waiting people. That we had been sentenced to exile, to prolonged servitude in some foreign land, was all that any of us knew.

The guards prodded the crowd savagely with the butts of their musketoons, thus making scant room for us to shuffle through, out upon the far end of the wharf, where we were finally halted abreast of a lumping brig, apparently nearly ready for sea. There were more than forty of us. I gained glimpse of the hooker's name—Romping Betsy of Plymouth. A moment later a sailor passed along the edge of the dock and instantly a whisper passed swiftly from man to man. "It's Virginia, mate; we're bound for Virginia."

The eyes of a prisoner met mine. "Virginia, hey?" he grunted. "Ye're a sailorman, ain't ye, mate? Well, then, whar is this yere Virginia?"

"That's all right, mates," I returned cheerily. "We'll fall into the hands of Englishmen out there. In America, where all the tobacco comes from, I've been there twice—and to a land beyond they call Maryland. 'Tis a country not so unlike England."

"Ye better stow that, my man," growled someone above me, and I looked up into the stern eyes of the captain of the guard, "or it may be the 'cat' for ye. So ye've been ter the Virginia plantation, hev ye? Then ye must be Master Carlyle, I take it."

I heard tell about ye at the trial, but supposed ye ter be an older man."

"I am twenty-six."

"Ye don't look even thet. Ay, they're ready for ye now. Fall in there—all of yer. Step along, yer d—d rebel scum."

I stared aft at the poop deck. There were a number of persons gathered along the low rail, probably all passengers. Then my eyes encountered a strange group foregathered beside the lee rail.

There were four in the little party, one of them a negress. Another was clearly enough a colonial proprietor, a heavily built man of middle age, purple faced. I passed these by with a glance, my attention concentrating upon the other two—a middle-aged man and a young woman standing side by side. The former was a dashing looking blade, of not more than forty, attired in blue slashed coat, ornamented with gilt buttons, and bedecked at collar and cuffs with a profusion of lace. A saffron colored waistcoat failed to conceal his richly befruffled shirt, and the hilt of a rapier was rather prominently displayed. Such dandies were frequently enough seen, but it was this man's face which made marked contrast with his gay attire. He was dark and hook-nosed, apparently of foreign birth, with black mustache tightly clipped, so as to reveal the thin firmness of his lips, and even at that distance I could perceive the lines of a scar across his chin. Altogether there was an audacity to his face, a daring, convincing me he was no mere lady's knight but one to whom fighting was a trade. He was pointing us out to his companion, apparently in a joking over our appearance, in an endeavor to amuse. Seemingly she gave small heed to his words, for although her eyes followed where he pointed they never once lighted with a smile, nor did I see her answer his sallies. She was scarcely more than a girl, dressed very simply in some clinging dark stuff, with a loose gray cloak draping her shoulders and a small, neat bonnet of straw perched upon a mass of coiled hair. The face beneath was sweetly piquant, with dark eyes and rounded cheeks flushed with health. She stood, both hands clasping the rail, watching us intently. I somehow felt as though her eyes were upon me, and within their depths, even at that distance, I seemed to read a message of sympathy and kindness. The one lasting impression her face left on my memory was that of innocent girlhood, dignified by a womanly tenderness.

What were those two to each other? I could not guess, for they seemed from two utterly different worlds. Not brother and sister surely; and not lovers. The last was unthinkable. Instinctively I disliked the man, aware of an instant antagonism, realizing that he was evil; while his companion came to me as revelation of all that was true and worthy, in a degree I had never known before. From the instant I looked upon these two I felt convinced that, through some strange vagary of fate, we were destined to know more of each other; that our life lines were ordained to touch and become entangled, somewhere in that mystery of the western world to which I had been condemned.

What Were Those Two to Each Other?

Then the guards came to me, and, with my limbs freed of fetters, I was passed down the steep ladder into the semidarkness between decks, where we were to be confined. It proved a dismal, crowded hole in which we were quartered like so many cattle, the only ventilation and light furnished by the open hatch above. The ticket given me called by number for a certain berth, and I found this, throwing within the small bundle I bore. Almost immediately there was a sound of tramping feet on the deck above, and the creaking of blocks. Then a sudden movement of the hull told all we were under way.

CHAPTER II.

The Prison Ship.

The greater portion of that voyage of 53 days I would blot entirely from memory if possible. I cannot hope to describe it in any detail—the foul smells, the discomfort, the ceaseless horror of food, the close companionship of men turned into mere animals by suffering and distress, the wearisome days, the black, sleepless nights, the poisonous air, and the brutality of guards. I can never forget these things, for they have scarred my soul.

The hatch above remained open, but carefully guarded night and day, while we were permitted on deck for air and exercise only in squads of ten, two hours out of every twenty-four. This alone served to break the dread monotony of the voyage. From our exercise on deck we generally returned below drenched to the skin, but glad to even pay that price for two hours of fresh air, and an opportunity to gaze about at sea and sky. We were herded well forward, a rope dividing us from the main deck, which space the passengers aft used as a promenade. There were only three women aboard, a fat dowager, the young lady I had noticed at embarkation, and her colored maid. I gained but one glimpse of the young lady in the first two weeks at sea, and then only as we were being ordered down to our quarters for the night. Just as I was approaching the hatch to descend our eyes met fairly, and I instantly knew she saw and recognized me. For a single second our glances clung, as though some mysterious influence held us to each other—then the angry guard struck me with the stock of his pike.

"What'er ye standin' thar fer?" he demanded savagely. "Go on down—lively now."

I saw her clasping fingers convulsively grip the rail, and, even at that distance, marked a sudden flame of color in her cheeks. That was all her message to me, yet quite enough. Although we had never spoken, although our names were yet unknown, I was no criminal to her mind, no unrecognized prisoner beneath contempt, but a human being in whom she already felt a personal interest, and to whom she extended thought and sympathy. I continued entirely ignorant of the identity of the young woman. She remained in my memory, in my thoughts nameless, a dream rather than a reality. I did learn that the gay gallant was a wealthy Spaniard, supposedly of high birth, by name Sanchez, and at one time in the naval service, and likewise ascertained that the rotund planter was a certain Roger Fairfax of Saint Mary's in Maryland, homeward bound after a successful sale of his tobacco crop in London. It was during his visit to the great city that he had met Sanchez, and his praise of the colonies had induced the latter to essay a voyage in his company to America. But strange enough no one so much as mentioned the girl in connection with either man.

CHAPTER III.

Dorothy Fairfax.

We were not far from two hundred miles east of the Capes. I had been closely confined to my bunk for two days with illness, but now, somewhat stronger, had been ordered to deck by the surgeon. The last batch of prisoners, after their short hour of recreation, had been returned to the quarters below, but I was permitted to remain alone undisturbed.

I was still standing there absorbed when a voice, soft-spoken and feminine, broke the silence.

"May I speak with you?"

I turned instantly, so thoroughly surprised my voice faltered as I gazed into the upturned face of the questioner. She stood directly beside me, her head uncovered. Instantly my cap was off, and I was bowing courteously. "Most certainly," with a quick side glance toward the guard, "but I am a prisoner."

"Of course I know that," in smiling confidence. "Only you see I am rather a privileged character on board. Perhaps you may be punished if you talk with me—is that what you meant?"

"I am more than willing to assume the risk. I have made few friends forward, and am even bold enough to say that I have longed for a word with you ever since I first saw you aboard."

Captain Carlyle finds a friend but at the same time he finds that he has an enemy on board the Romping Betty. His enemy warns that he will get revenge, but why? Geoffrey racks his brain in vain for the answer.

Too Generous.

The trouble with the fellow who borrows trouble is that he wants to lose some of it to everyone he meets.

Vests in Fashion's Limelight

Vests, as a part of new spring tailored suits, could not be more universal if wearing them were a matter of patriotism instead of a matter of fashion. In fact, a spring suit without a vest, more or less essential and conspicuous, is hardly to be found and one might write a small volume about them by undertaking to describe the various styles in which they are made, the kinds of material used and the endless variety of adornment on them. There may be some uncertainty as to the fashionable length of skirt and some difference of opinion as to the correct width of them, but womanhood is of one mind on the subject of vests, or waistcoats; they hold the center of the stage in the drama of spring fashions.

The most popular fabrics for these vests are the various new supple, heavy fiber silks. They match in character the cloths popular for tailored suits, have brilliant luster and color and are made in a variety of interesting and beautiful weaves. Very wide, splendid ribbons claim much attention in the selection of vesttees and recently organdie has entered the race for a place in the midsummer sun. One of the attractions of the suit with a waistcoat, or vest, is that the vest may be changed in many of them, so that the wearer may have the benefit of variety in color and character in them. Many a bit of old, handsomely embroidered silk or rich brocade ought to see the light of day once more now that vests are fashionable.

A great favorite among the many styles in vests appears in the picture above. It is of beige colored tricolette and is braided with dark blue soutache braid in an all-over pattern. Even more popular are vests of this material with an embroidered pattern across the bottom, repeated in a narrower band at the neck. Embroidered and plain pongee make elegant vests with the embroidery in self or in contrasting colors. In many suits there is quite an expanse of vest displayed at the front, but there are others in which this detail is less conspicuous, and in some it dwindles to a mere border of color which one glimpses under the coat.

Charm of Spring in Millinery

Four hats that are nothing less than four spring songs, each as different from the others as it can be, intrigue the buyers of new millinery to consider their merits. They are totally different, each from the others, in character and bespeak a little thought on the part of the fair one who is about to make a selection; for they are suited to differing types of women. It is the woman who understands her own style that will make the most careful study of them.

The large hat at the top of the group will look well on a great number of heads, especially if its wearers have something of youthfulness in figure and carriage, or something of stateliness in its place. The big hat is for whoever can carry it off and it is quite generally becoming. This model is a wide-brimmed Milan faced with georgette crepe, and has high velvet daisies applied flat to the crown, and long stitches of chenille to give unity to this trimming. There is a pretty feather ornament at the left side. Flowing lines in these large hats make them the delight of tall women, and especially in a season when long skirts are worn.

At the left of the group there is an adorable poke bonnet. Right away it brings to mind a petite figure, and quite likely a taffeta frock or one of voile, and a gentle face. Its crown is covered with ribbon put on in correctly even rows and held in place by silk stitches. The brim is covered with georgette and bound with ribbon, also fastened down with stitches. For trimming it has a sash of the ribbon tied about the crown and fruit across the front. One would expect to find the wearer of the smart hat shown at the right in a trim but not simple tailored dress or suit and very up-to-date. The square-cornered shape is covered with georgette crepe and has a protecting brim that droops a little, and is bound with a soft, brilliant braid. The same braid makes a band about the side crown, that has narrow picot-edged ribbon laced through it. A flat bow with ends, of this ribbon, is fastened against the crown and brim and a small rose is settled with some fruit at the base of the crown.

The last hat is a crisp little affair in brilliant black braid that one would expect to find covering the head of a well-groomed, tailor-made type of woman. Its lines proclaim it a fine hat for matronly wearers and the only concession it makes, in the way of trimming, is a flat, wired loop of rather narrow ribbon posed on the top. It is a businesslike and vivacious-looking hat, as original as it is simple.

To Iron Scrim Curtains.

Have them sprinkled at least six hours before ironing. Then take cotton blankets and a bedsheet, put over kitchen table, spread curtains as evenly as possible. Iron the hem first. Go lightly over center part, then once more. When folding fold lengthwise each curtain twice. They are easier to handle. Will look like new curtains.

Work Too Hard?

This time of the year finds everyone hurrying to get the home cleaned up for summer. It's a pleasure, too, when you're well, but no man or woman with a "bad back" enjoys doing anything. If your back is lame, if sharp twinges catch you when lifting and you feel tired and worn out, kidney weakness is likely causing your trouble. Don't wait! Delay may cause gravel, dropsy or Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills have helped people the world over.

A Texas Case

John Perry, farmer, Columbus, Texas, says: "My limbs and feet commenced to swell. I was under a doctor's care for some time and my case was pronounced dropsy. I finally procured Doan's Kidney Pills and after taking a number of boxes, was able to get around. I can truthfully say that I owe my life to Doan's Kidney Pills."

MY HEAD!

When the head feels thick or aches, when one feels all out-of-sorts—perhaps a coated tongue—it is the signal that poisons are accumulating in the system, and should be cleaned out at once.

Auto-intoxication can be best ascribed to our own neglect or carelessness. When the organs fail in the discharge of their duties, the putrefactive germs set in and generate toxins—actual poisons, which fill one's own body.

Sleepiness after meals, flushing of the face, extreme lassitude, biliousness, dizziness, sick headache, acidity of the stomach, heartburn, offensive breath, anemia, loss of weight and muscular power, decrease of vitality or lowering of resistance to infectious diseases, disturbance of the eye, dyspepsia, indigestion, gastritis, many forms of catarrh, asthma, ear affections and allied ailments result from auto-intoxication or self-poisoning.

Take castor oil, or procure at the drug store, a pleasant vegetable laxative, called Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, composed of May-apple, aloes and jalap.

LETTERS FROM SOLDIERS

Rucheroth Westerwald, Germany, A. P. O. 734, March 17, 1919.
Dear Father, Mother and Brothers:
All is well along the watch on the Rhine. I have several bruises and am a bit stiff from a big ball game and then a basket ball game afterwards. Of course I was on the winning team. Our ball team is champion of the 127th Inf. We go Wednesday to brigade headquarters to play the 128th Inf. for the championship of the division, the 128th having defeated the 125th and 126th Inf.

I'm truly glad, dear parents, thru your wisdom and guidance that I have been spared the effects of the drink and cigarette habit. I attribute my endurance to good habits of physical care taught me by you. I have certainly seen the effects of wines and intoxicants. I'm the only boy in my company, commissioned officers and all, that is a total abstainer.

Guy asked me in one of his back letters if I was corporal or sergeant. I'm nothing but a buck private, and what's more I'm glad of it. With all due respect to Guy and the two ranks he mentioned. We boys over here consider and it's true, that anything above buck private (or Pvt. first class) is extra duty, and brings more bawling out than it's worth.

We had our last parade and inspection Saturday by Pershing. Well, he is certainly some portly soldier. The wheel division was present. Some thirty-three thousand soldiers. He inspected the whole division personally. Our company marched into their assigned place in a column of platoons. The front ranks did an about face and then we opened ranks. (Guy can explain). He marched with his staff in pursuit between each platoon's ranks. He stopped to ask one poor fellow where he was wounded, meaning in what battle. The poor fellow made a slip of what he meant and answered: "Sir, I was wounded in the leg." He stopped by my left to question a comrade in regards to his wounds. He had two stripes. He told the fellow that we all sympathized with him and that he should be proud to show his stripes. After the inspection, we made a squad right and doubled time off the field to a spot some miles to the east. We then watched wave after wave of infantry come up over the hill, then the artillery. We then were hurded in to one mass to hear a few words from Pershing. All of the boys were in good spirits for they knew that this was their last big parade before leaving. And sure enough he told us that we would soon start. I think now we will leave near the 10th of April, as we are some two or three weeks ahead of our former schedule. On account of the Dutch transports received recently.

Dear Claude and Roy, you boys I'm sure are quite young men. I have received two letters from Guy and one real long letter from my girl of late. Never have received a paper from home, and no letters for the past two or three weeks. But I'm keeping up good spirits until I hear of something to the contrary.

Guy, I'll try to bring each of you some little souvenir. But you know what an army pack is, and we have three blankets instead of two to carry. I can't take anything that I possibly can leave behind. Guy, I write you in this letter as you say write you at home. I'm glad to hear from you. I only wish I could be as faithful and forgiving as you are. Guy I can bring nothing home but a wider experience and a clean record. There is not a blotch on my service record and no one can complain. I've done all that any soldier can do. That is, what duty calls him to do. I have lost quite a bit of my roving, careless disposition and I presume I'll never be a boy again.

I don't know just what I'll do when I return. But hope to slip right in and help turn the wheel and do my share. I just want to work and forget all about this army. The army is OK but not for me.

Work hard to help mother and dad. They are the ones that deserve the best a child can do for them. Lots of boys, I see, do not have the father and mother to raise them that you boys and we older boys have had. Write me any time you can and be good boys.

I received a letter from (Mike) O. E. Humphrey. He had been at St. Nazaire eight day waiting for the boat. Carrington had sailed.

Good night, love to all of you.
Your son and brother,
Tom L. LeMond.

Croi, Germany, March 8, 1919
Dear Homefolks:

Have just received a good letter from you. It is impossible to express in words how I appreciate your letters now. Before hostilities ceased we were always so busy that the time passed off much faster and it did not seem so long between letters, but now we are all anxiously waiting for our time to come and if we get a letter one day by the next day we are anxious for another.

I am still well and enjoying the best of health. We all complain about having to stay over here so long some times, but when you take the second thought you see a different picture. Any man who has been in action should be very thankful that he is alive. And those boys who were wounded and those who came over first should be the first to go home. Of course it seems to us that they are sending the boys back rather slow but I guess that's what the French thought when we were coming over, and the Germans were threatening Paris. Taking everything into consideration I don't see how anyone over here is faring better than I am. We have plenty to eat and I eat plenty, too. I have a good bed, sleep by myself on one of these good German featherbeds. Our bath house is located in a school building here. A better one could not be found and we have both cold and hot water. And work, well I do very little. I stay in the office nearly all the time. I have to make inspections occasionally, to see if the civilians are complying with the orders we put out. We have not had much trouble so far. Have fined a few for some minor offenses, in most cases it was for not keeping the streets in and around their premises properly cleaned up.

Well, mother I was fortunate enough to get to go on a leave to Paris. It was a splendid trip and I enjoyed every minute I was in Paris. It took a week to make the trip, but I only had three days in Paris. The trains were congested so badly in France on account of their soldiers being demobilized and so many Americans on leave that it was disagreeable in going and coming. The Y.M.C. has guides who are in charge of the various trips. We went to Versailles our first day. This is about twenty kilo. from Paris. Here we visited the $75,000,000 castle of Louis XIV. I have some post cards of some of the scenes here I am sending you. I saw a clock here that it took one man 19 years to complete. It run all the time before the war, but has not been wound up since, but will probably be wound up again after peace is signed. We also went in the room where the peace treaty will probably be signed and I got to put my hands on the table that it will be signed on. I too knotes on all that I saw here so I will be able to tell you lots more when I get back. It took all one afternoon to make this trip. The next day we took a trip through the city. We saw Notre Dame Cathedral, the largest church in Paris and the greatest in historical note. I also saw the church that the long range gun of the Germans fired into last year on Good Friday. We went in the Court of Justice where the French high courts are held. Saw some French lawyers here dressed in their peculiar costumes. We passe dalong where the peace conference was in session. I saw the Eifel Tower, which is 300 meters or about 1000 feet high. This is the highest tower in the world. We also visited Napoleon's tomb and the war Pantheon. I saw the little French plane that Capt. Guynemeyer brought down 19 Boche planes with. He is officially credited with bringing down 53 boche planes. We rode down the famous shopping street in Paris. On this street are located most of the firms that American buyers come over here and get their styles from.

They don't have many street cars in Paris, but they have a wonderful subway system. The taxicab takes care of so much of the traffic. I would not take anything for this trip. I have wanted to see Paris every since we came over here. Only one man got to go from our company and on account of the Sgt. being sick who had a brother-in-law in Paris, I was permitted to take his place. This makes two trips for me. I wrote you about going to Coblenz.

I sent Uncle Bob $100 the other day. I want to save up all I can now, because I certainly will need it when I get back to the States and get my discharge.

I had two letters from Bess yesterday also. I am glad you all are hearing from me more frequently now. Hoping this finds you all well and enjoying good health. We still think we will leave in June. Write me when you can.

Love to all, your obedient son,
Sgt. W. C. Rymona,
Co. D, 359 Inf., A. E. F., via N. Y.

What constitutes a day's work? We figure it out that it depends altogether on your occupation. If you lay brick; eight hours; if you keep house; sixteen hours; if you preach the gospel, tow hours; if you are a porter in a sleeping car, twenty hours if you serve the government, one hour; and if you are a newspaper man, twenty-four hours.

RAINFALL FOR MONTH OF APRIL 5.41 IN. RECORDS SHOW

Rainfall for the month of April was 5.41 inches, records kept by the Government weather station here show. This amount fell in nine days of rainfall, bringing the total moisture for the year thus far up to 10.21 inches. This breaks all records for the same period of the past four years, as 1918 had rainfall amounting to 2.30 in. to the end of April; 1917 had 1.07 in. in the same period; 1916 had 3.57 in., and 1915 had 8.67 inches.

May, too, with only two days gone, has had rain amounting to 1.73 inch. as a heavy rain fell over the county last night. Some hail accompanied the downpour. A rather heavy hail is reported to have fallen near halfway. Other points too, report hail.

The maximum temperature for April was 70.5 degrees; the minimum 44 degrees, and the average for the month, 57.2 degrees. The warmest day of the month was April 19, when the thermometer registered 90; the lowest registration for the month was on April 9, 27 degrees. There were nineteen clear days, six partly cloudy, and five cloudy.—Plainview Herald.

SOME THINGS HEARD AND SEEN ON THE STREET

While down town I saw—
A nicely dressed girl greet a friend with a flourishing wave and a loud "Hello, Kid"! A pleasant nod and "Good evening" would have been much more lady-like.

A man enter an office and spit—actually spit—on the floor. He had been out of doors for some time but did not remember to spit until upon the office floor. A sidewalk would have been about as bad, but either was far from suited to such purposes.

A lady enter a store, and go behind the counter to look for what she wanted. Clerks are employed for certain duties, and are often much annoyed by such thoughtless customers. Unless invited to do so, shoppers should not go behind counters.

Three men in passing down the street stop in a store, price a few articles, and then "sample" some nuts which were for sale. Suppose every man in town should do so. The merchant smiled and asked them to "come again." He had to.

A little girl stop and entertain a fretful baby while a mother did a little shopping. Sweet and thoughtful.

An aged man stop a school boy and ask direction to a certain place. "Don't know," answered the boy. Another boy being asked, replied: "Don't know, but if you'll wait a minute I'll see." He stepped into a store and brought out someone who was able to give the information desired. How different.

Some people who would have looked much nicer if they would have been a little more generous in the use of dry goods.

On a chilly day, a lady wearing a heavy, long coat, and with head well protected, walking down the street holding by the hand a pretty baby girl whose curls were too nice to be hidden by cap, whose little legs were half bare, and blue with cold. Beautiful child! But uncomfortable! Great Scott! Poor little creature! Silly mother.

Just Once! Try Dodson's Liver Tone! Take No Calomel! Listen To Me!

If bilious, constipated, headachy or sick, I guarantee relief without taking dangerous calomel which sickens and salivates.

Stop using calomel! It makes you sick. Don't lose a day's work. If you feel lazy, sluggish, bilious or constipated, listen to me!

Calomel is mercury or quicksilver, which causes necrosis of the bones. Calomel, when it comes into contact with sour bile, crashes into it, breaking it up. This is when you feel that awful nausea and cramping. If you are "all knocked out," if your liver is torpid and bowels constipated or you have headache, dizziness, coated tongue, if breath is bad or stomach sour, just try a spoonful of harmless Dodson's Liver Tone.

Here's my guarantee—Go to any drug store and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone for a few cents. Take a spoonful tonight, and if it doesn't straighten you right up and make you feel fine and vigorous by morning, I want you to go back to the store and get your money. Dodson's Liver Tone is destroying the sale of calomel because it is real liver medicine; entirely vegetable, therefore it can not salivate or make you sick.

I guarantee that one spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tone will put your sluggish liver to work and clean your bowels of that sour bile and constipated waste which is clogging your system and making you feel miserable. I guarantee that a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone will keep the entire family feeling fine for months. Give it to your children. It is harmless; doesn't gripe and they like its pleasant taste. —Adv.

MOTORISTS FACE PROBLEM OF GAS

Automobile and Petroleum Men Must Get Together in Close Harmonious Co-operation.

INCREASE IN MOTOR CARS

Said to Be Possible to Construct Internal Combustion Engines Which Will Consume Much Less Fuel of Inferior Kind.

"The perennial fuel problem will never be solved until the automobile industry and the petroleum industry get together in close and harmonious co-operation," says Mark L. Requa, general director of the oil division of the United States fuel administration. In an interview, which appears in Motor, the national magazine of motoring.

"The motor fuel problem is not only a possibility of the future," continues Mr. Requa, "but even an actuality of the present, as will be understood by anyone who takes the trouble to make even the most cursory examination of the situation. In 1912 our production of petroleum was 222,935,044 barrels of 42 gallons. In 1916 the output of this basic producer of motor fuel was 300,767,158 barrels, an increase in four years of less than 30 per cent. On the other hand, in 1912 there were about 1,000,000 motor vehicles in the country, while in 1916 the motor population of the United States had risen to 3,541,738. This represents an increase of over 300 per cent in four years. With one side of an equation growing less than 30 per cent and the other side increasing more than 300 per cent, the ultimate situation is not hard to foreshadow.

Engine Uses Less Oil.
"I am not an automobile engineer, so I cannot speak from personal knowledge, but I have been informed that it is possible to design internal combustion engines which will consume much less fuel per mile than is now being consumed, and of a much inferior quality. If this is a fact and the automobile industry faces the situation in co-operation with the oil men to effect this saving, while these latter are devoting their best effort to increasing production, it would seem that we might cut enough off each end of our problem to solve it.

"We seem to be only at the beginning of the gasoline era; a few years ago gasoline was a wasted by-product; today it is the most important product of petroleum, amounting to almost 50 per cent of the total value of petroleum products. With the record of the past as a guide, it would seem that the two great industries so interdependent upon each other should co-operate in bringing about the most efficient consumption of gasoline and the most intelligent understanding of each other's problems."

CARE OF WINDSHIELD GLASS

Application of Strong Soapsuds Will Prevent Fog or Rain From Obscuring Vision.

Strong soapsuds made from automobile soap and rubbed on the glass of the windshield and allowed to dry will prevent fog or rain from obscuring the vision through the glass. Kerosene is sometimes used for this purpose, but it does not last as long as the above, and glycerin is also recommended.

AVOID FORMATION OF RUST

If Car Is Used in Bad Weather Tires and Rims Should Be Wiped Clean With Sponge.

If the car owner, after being out in bad weather, will take the trouble to wipe the tires and rims clean with a sponge and then wipe them dry, especially along the beads, he will do much to prevent the formation of rust.

HANDLE BATTERY WITH CARE

Motorist Should Economize on Current and Keep Engine Tuned to Start on Second Turn.

The man who has trouble keeping his battery charged will find that difficulty largely can be overcome by careful handling. In other words, he should economize on current. He should keep his engine tuned up so that it starts on the second or third turn. Thus he can minimize the amount of current used in starting, and, remember, this is very large. The current required is 200 to 600 times as much as required by an ordinary 16-candle power house light.

He should also be economical with his lights. He should use his headlights only when absolutely necessary.

He should determine the car speed at which his cutoff relay makes connection with the battery and operate the car as much as possible above this speed.

If he drives much in a congested city district and stops his engine many times he will find that his battery can be kept more nearly charged by changing gears in traffic whenever necessary instead of trying to do it all on high gear, the reason being that by changing gears he boosts his engine speed so that his battery is charged, while if he tried to pull slowly on high he gets down to a speed at which charging stops due to the opening of the cut out.

NEW HEADLIGHT FOR MOTORS

Nevada Inventor Provides Mechanism for Operating Lights Around Curves in Road.

The Scientific American, in illustrating and describing a dirigible headlight operating mechanism, the invention of E. C. Smith of Fallon, Nev., says:

This inventor provides a mechanism for operating the headlights of motor vehicles whereby they may follow the curves and turns in the road in illuminating the same. Incorporating means whereby the headlight operating mechanism may be thrown into and out of operation at will. He provides a mechanism coupled with the steering gear and movable into and out of operable relation therewith, in order that if desired the light may be kept stationary while the vehicle is traveling.

DELICATE CAR DOOR POCKETS

Wooden Strips May Be Securely Fastened by Using Blue, Round-headed Screws.

Many cars are afflicted with "delicate" door pockets, those which are made of inferior material or are improperly fastened. These are apt to tear loose at the corners since they are merely tacked on wooden strips attached to the door. When this happens they may be securely fastened by using round-headed screws, which should have blued heads when the material is black. These same screws can be used to advantage in fastening the linoleum flooring to the boards, especially at the corners.

FIND LUBRICATING FAILURE

Car Owner Should Emulate Example of Locomotive Engineer by Using Hand to Find Trouble.

The locomotive engineer frequently uses his hand to determine lubrication failure, and this is a hint that the car owner can put to good use. Failure of lubrication permits excessive friction, and friction generates heat. Any part which is discovered to be too hot to the hand held near it is probably suffering from faulty lubrication.

WHEEL USED BY GERMANS TO SAVE RUBBER

The photograph shows a wheel that was much used on German trucks in order to conserve rubber. The rim is made of steel and the pads between the steel rim and the wheel are made of rubber. The picture was taken at Spetcher, Germany.

Sturdy Womanhood is the demand of to-day

In the Health and Strength of the Wives and Mothers Rests the Future Integrity of the Nation.

We must preserve our womanhood. There is need, greater ever for strong women. Apparently, the race is not as sturdy formerly or our women are victims of an over-civilization unable to resist disease.

Thousands suffer and thousands more are destined to suffer from that most insidious of diseases, catarrh. Ninety-seven per cent of the people have catarrh. It is not confined to the head, nose and throat as many suppose. Catarrhal inflammation may attack the stomach, bowels or any portion of the body where there are mucous linings. It is no respecter of persons or position. Everyone is liable to attack.

Mrs. Mary Fricke, 507 Bornman St., Belleville, Ill., was one of its victims. She says: "I have weighed as little as 100 pounds. For years I suffered with my stomach, cramps and severe headaches. After reading Dr. Hartman's Health Book, I decided to try Peruna. The first bottle brought good results, and I was bound to get well, in twelve.

Fifteen years ago, I started to Peruna and I wouldn't be without it. My weight is now around 150 pounds and I am hale and hearty at the age of 63. I can do all the work as my daughter."

The use of Peruna for twenty years in the American family proved its worth. If you are not given up, try Peruna. The Peruna Company, Dept. A, Columbus, Ohio, for Dr. Hartman's Health Book. It is free. Peruna is sold everywhere in liquid and solid. Insist upon having Dr. Hartman's Famous Peruna. Contact your dealer for a Peruna Agent.

The Excuse.
"We must get acquainted with those people across the way."
Why?

Oddity of it.

But the other day he found a new abiding place for them. Grandfather had just come down the alley from the square above after a wheelbarrow. Robert eyed him with horror. "You can't go back home that way," he ordered. "Don't you know that alley's just full of germs!"

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles, as Othine—double strength—is guaranteed to remove these homely spots. Simply get an ounce of Othine—double strength—from your druggist, and apply a little of it at night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than one ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful clear complexion. Be sure to ask for the double strength Othine, as this is so! IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(By REV. P. R. FITZWATER, D. D., Teacher of English Bible in the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)

(Copyright, 1919, by Western Newspaper Union.)

LESSON FOR MAY 11.

SIN AND ITS CONSEQUENCES.

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 3:1-24.
GOLDEN TEXT—The wages of sin is death; but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord.—Rom. 6:23.

DEVOTIONAL READING—Psalms 61:1-13.

ADDITIONAL MATERIAL—Rom. 1:18-23; James 1:15.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Disobeying Our Heavenly Father.

JUNIOR TOPIC—How Disobedience Separates Us From God.

INTERMEDIATE TOPIC—Destructive Power of Sin.

SENIOR AND ADULT TOPIC—The Nature and Results of Sin.

An outlook upon the world proves that man is not what he should be. Then, too, apart from gospel influence there is no sign of improvement. The only way of accounting for the discrepancy between what man is and what he should be is by the Fall. This is the way that the Bible accounts for it. The introduction of sin is the answer.

I. The Temptation (Gen 3:1-6).

Man possessed a free will, in the exercise of which he turned away from God and his commandment. This was done at the instance of the devil working through the serpent. He did not appear as he really was, but in disguise. The method employed was (1) finding the woman while alone; (2) insinuating doubt into her mind as to God's word and love. At his suggestion she began to believe that God did not mean what he said, and that he was unkind in placing restrictions upon them. In this the devil slandered God, even accusing the Almighty of jealousy and fraud. (3) Appeal to innocent appetite. (4) She gazed upon the fruit which God had forbidden. Looking soon began lust. (5) She lusted after that which God had forbidden. That which God has forbidden should not be looked at lest the flesh should lust for it.

II. The Fall (3:6-8).

From lusting to indulgence was a short step. This act of disobedience has brought on all the world's woe and misery. Eve not only disobeyed, but involved Adam in her sin. Aspiring to be gods, they became the slaves of sin. They came to know good and evil, but by sad experience. They knew sin without the power to free themselves from it.

III. The Consequences of the Fall (3:9-24).

1. The disturbed relationship with God (vv. 9, 10). The familiar intercourse which man enjoyed with the Almighty was marred and broken by sin. Sin makes life intolerable in the divine presence. Adam and Eve not only hid from God's presence, but Adam began to make excuses and even laid the blame on God.

2. The serpent was degraded and henceforth became a type of sin and Satan (v. 14; cf. Num. 21:9; John 8:14; Rev. 12:9). This doom was pronounced without trial. In the case of man it was not so.

3. The undying enmity between the two seeds (v. 15; cf. John 8:40-45; Matt. 23:33). The antagonism thus begun reached its climax in the crucifixion of Christ. Satan's seed has been ever since endeavoring to destroy the Lord's work and his workers.

4. The ultimate victory of the woman's seed (v. 15). Satan harassed the woman's seed; bruised his heel, but finally the stroke was made which crushed the serpent's head (John 12:31; Heb. 2:14; 1 John 3:8). This was the first gleam of the glorious light of the gospel of Christ. The victory was marvelous, but the cost was infinite (Isa. 53; 2 Cor. 5:21).

5. Judgment upon the woman (v. 16). This relates to her as a wife and mother; also to her subordination to man. This is God's decree, and all efforts of freeing one's self from it are fightings against God.

6. Man's new relationship to the earth (vv. 17-19). The earth was cursed on his account. Because of the rank growth of thorns and thistles man must make an increased effort to exist. Man with his sinful nature would be in a bad state without the necessity of toil (Rom. 8:19-22).

7. Death (v. 19). This includes physical and spiritual death—both the result of sin.

8. Expulsion from the garden (v. 24). This was an act of great mercy. To have partaken of the tree of life and live forever in a sinful state would have been intolerable.

Exercise Is Necessary.

If a man does not exercise his arm he develops no biceps muscle; and if a man does not exercise his soul he acquires no muscle in his soul, no strength of character, no vigor of moral fiber, no beauty of spiritual growth.—Henry Drummond.

Sermon Crowded Out.

Go to that little church of yours and quit your hankering for the fine music and singing and pomp and splendor of the large churches in the city. By the time they get through with their preludes and interludes and delectables there won't be much time for a sermon.

Joy Is to Obey the Law.

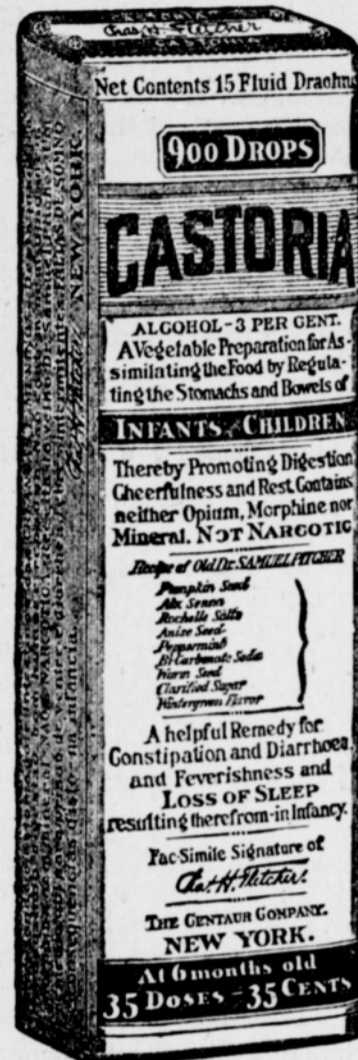

The stars of heaven are free because, in amplitude of liberty, their joy is to obey the laws.—William Watson.

Physicians Recommend Castoria

YOU know the real human doctors right around in your neighborhood: the doctors made of flesh and blood just like you: the doctors with souls and hearts: those men who are responding to your call in the dead of night as readily as in the broad daylight; they are ready to tell you the good that Fletcher's Castoria has done, is doing and will do, from their experience and their love for children.

Fletcher's Castoria is nothing new. We are not asking you to try an experiment. We just want to impress upon you the importance of buying Fletcher's.

Your physician will tell you this, as he knows there are a number of imitations on the market, and he is particularly interested in the welfare of your baby.

Children Cry For

Fletcher's CASTORIA

Do the People Know?

Do you know why you are asked to call for Fletcher's Castoria when you want a child's remedy: why you must insist on Fletcher's? For years we have been explaining how the popularity of Fletcher's Castoria has brought out innumerable imitations, substitutes and counterfeits.

To protect the babies: to shield the homes and in defense of generations to come we appeal to the better judgment of parents to insist on having Fletcher's Castoria when in need of a child's medicine. And remember above all things that a child's medicine is made for children—a medicine prepared for grown-ups is not interchangeable. A baby's food for a baby. And a baby's medicine is just as essential for the baby.

The Castoria Recipe (it's on every wrapper) has been prepared by the same hands in the same manner for so many years that the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher and perfection in the product are synonymous.

Hawaiian Stuff.

The little three-year-old Indianapolis miss was interested in dogs, and, being a lady, she was also interested in clothes. It was a cold day, one of the few of this year, and the family on its shopping expedition passed a shivering bulldog, waiting patiently in an open motorcar. The next fact that impressed the little girl shivering, was that he bore a big collar, the recognized mark of a bulldog, with huge brass knobs sticking out all over it.

She paused for a moment and pondered. "Poor, poor cold dog," she lamented. "No shoes, no clothes. Him wear beads, though!"

ITCH!

A WAR-TIME ILL THAT'S SPREADING HUNT'S SALVE CURES IT!

BRED in the war trenches of Europe, a wave of ordinary ITCH is spreading over the country. This skin disease, history shows, has always prevailed, following wars and the concentration of armies. It was common during the Civil War and following that conflict. There was an epidemic of the Itch after the Spanish-American War. Now history is repeating itself after the great European struggle.

Returned soldiers and those with whom they come in contact will find a recognized remedy for the Itch in Hunt's Salve, commonly known as "Hunt's Itch Cure." Many a veteran of the late '90's will testify to its merits. If directions are followed HUNT'S SALVE will prove a never failing cure for all forms of the Itch, and your druggist will tell you so. He sells HUNT'S SALVE under a strict guarantee to refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied user.

A Medford, Oklahoma man, among thousands who praise HUNT'S SALVE, says:

"Some people dislike to call it the Itch, but candor compels me to admit I had it badly. Your Hunt's Salve, however, cured me after many other remedies had totally failed. One box completed the cure—the first application afforded wonderful relief. My advice to those who have to scratch, is to use Hunt's Salve."

Hunt's Salve is especially compounded for the treatment of Itch, Eczema, Ringworm, Tetter and other itching skin diseases and is sold on our guarantee by all reliable drug stores, or it will be sent direct by mail if your local druggist cannot supply. Price 75c per box.
