The New Deal has carried out many reforms which a resolutely liberal administration would have had to undertake—for example its Much has been written and said about the plight of the nation's railroads. The thinking person knows that this plight is truly a serious one; that declining revenues and mounting expenses and searing taxes have laid low one of the country's giant industries; and that the rehabilitation of this indi its administration, its attempt in the mount of the country's giant industries; and its administration, its attempt in the country's plant industries. and that the rehabilitation of this giant would mean improvement for many other lines of business.

The railroad picture, however, may seem a bit remote to the average West Texas "little man" concerned primarily about his own business. That picture is so big beal are to be found in the N.R.A. that it is difficult to get a fair perspective. Serving to demonstrate just how the status of the railroads affects all of us. is a re-

Railway purchases in Texas last year totaled $22,074,728, the report shows. Of this sum, $23,070,709 year spent for materials, supplies and fuel, while $3,969 went for new squipment (excluding that built in company shops). These purchases were made in 603 towns and cities occurred in 190 of the 254 counties of the state.

Wages paid to railway employes in Texas during 1937 amounted to 179,286,059.

The review discloses that, for the sation as a whole, the railroads as tyear paid, $1,133,361,488 for the more than 70,000 different items which they use. Materials, supdies and fuel cost $966,383,000 and he was a conventional party demonstration in the same of the cost $966,383,000 and he was a conventional party demonstration. which they use. Materials, supplies and fuel cost $996,883,000 and expenditures for all new equipment totaled $166,978,468. More than 12,000 towns and cities derived direct benefits from this large volume of railroad buying.

In 1937, the country's rail carriers also distributed $1,983,990,485 in wages to their employes, the report says.

Another Association finding is that the roads last year paid 7.85 cents in taxes out of each dollar in revenue received.

The expenditures of railroads for materials and labor should be of interest to Big Spring, where division headquarters of the T&P are maintained, and where the railroad payroll and other items of expenditures have direct affect.

This is no predicate for any argument that reducing such expenditures alone would cure the railroads' ills. But the figures do show that what the railroads spend has vital bearing on what happens to other businesses and industries.

The fire of the pioneer burns ever so brightly today—even in the soul of a 20-dollar-a-week typist who stows away nickels, dimes and quarters against the day when she can loll for four or five delicious days on the deck of a Bermuda boat. There's the New Orleans lad the Lyric theatre Sunday and Monperhaps for years. There's the Californian who dreams for one ship to come in so he can take another to Hawaii.
