The South Plains has experienced an unusual heat wave this summer, and for a much longer period. Together with the lack of moisture, has made it a most disagreeable for a few days at a time.

Methodist Revival Drawing Large Crowds

Rev. C. V. Williams, of Melrose, N.M. is Doing Fine Preaching of Old-Fashioned Gospel

The Methodist revival, which started at the City tabernacle last Sunday morning as previously announced in these columns is continuing with services both night and day and with an increasing interest being manifested.

Rev. C. V. Williams, of Melrose, N. M., is doing the preaching, and while not offering anything new, he is powerfully presenting the old-fashioned Gospel and presenting the simple and heart-reaching messages of the Bible in an interesting and inspiring manner.

The crowds are very encouraging, and the City tabernacle, which is arranged to seat hundreds of people, is comfortably filled at each service at night, and the day crowds are exceptionally good for the extremely hot weather being experienced on the South Plains.

Mr. Ernest Patterson is again in charge of the song service and he has gotten together a wonderful choir and a chorus of young people whom it is a delight to hear. Mr. Patterson is conceded to be one of the very best choir leaders in this section of the state. He is being ably assisted by pianists, Mrs. S. E. Reid and Miss Helen Brashear.

There can be no doubt that Tahoka is in need of a genuine revival. It cannot hurt but is sure to help our town, therefore the News is for it. We believe our people should cooperate in every effort for the betterment of our city in every way, and in no way can we help ourselves more than in the summer revivals held by the various churches.

It was announced from the pulpit Tuesday night that evangelist Williams could remain no longer in the city than Sunday night, as he had other meetings to hold during the summer, and it is not known at this time whether or not the revival will continue for another week. Definite announcements will be made later on in the meeting. It is hoped by number that it will continue for another full week.

GIRL NOW WELL AND STRONG

Daughter Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as Mother Advised

Wauseon, Ohio.—"My daughter always had backache and leg-ache at certain periods and could not be on her feet at those times. We read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound doing girls so much good so she began to take it. That is two years ago and she is a different girl since then able to do any work she wants to do—although she is still careful not to do heavy work—and so well and strong. We recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all mothers with ailing daughters, and I give you permission to publish this letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. A. M. BURKHOLDER, Route No. 2, Box 1, Wauseon, Ohio.

Something out of balance will affect the finest clock, causing it to gain or lose. The proper adjustment made, all is well. So it is with women. Some trouble may upset you completely. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will correct the cause of the trouble and disagreeable symptoms will disappear as they did in the case of Mrs. Burkholder's daughter.

NO MEDIUM ROAD

FROM the lives of great men, whose deeds are recorded in printed words, if we set ourselves seriously to the task we can glean the very flowers of wisdom. Their stories are told in friendliness for the encouragement of others. Their noblest sufferings and steadfast faith stand up like guide-posts to direct tired, disheartened travelers to a pleasant destination. Their experiences were the common experience of mortals, filled with hardships, chafing and galling when accepted, and when overcome as soothing to the burning flesh as oil. If you will read carefully you will not be long in finding that these men pursued no medium road. From the bottom to the top of their career they proceeded straight ahead, never feigning or falsifying their emotions, never deceiving themselves or others, which made confidence sure and success certain. They accepted life as a prose ideal and went gladly about making it a glorious bit of poetry, radiant with sentiment and love, leaving their achievements behind so that another generation might gather courage and inspiration. And thus they did by doing their full duty, never turning back or faltering. They developed the habit of looking up, thinking above the heads of others and holding all the while to their purpose. Conscious of human frailties they were ever humble, patient with others and severe with themselves, always exacting from their own brains and bodies every ounce of energy available and doing their utmost whether tongues wagged praise or condemnation. They prized self-respect above the

YOUR HAND How to Read Your Characteristics and Tendencies—the Capabilities or Weaknesses That Make for Success or Failure as Shown in Your Palm.

A BUSINESS PERSON'S HAND WOULD you succeed in business? Study your hand carefully, and note whether the palm, the fingers, the mounts, the lines, etc., bear the indications which have been found, through study, to make the hand of the successful man or woman of business.

In the first place, the hand should be of good size, and inclined toward squareness, as indicating practicality of mind. Next, the consistency of the hand should be firm, as showing energy. The top phalanx or division of the thumb should be large and well-shaped, for this indicates good will-power, which is so necessary if one is to win success in the world of affairs. Reason and logic, also necessary qualities in business, show themselves in a well-shaped second phalanx of the thumb. Then turn to the finger of Apollo, the third or ring finger, and note whether the middle phalanx is long and well-shaped. If so, it indicates a love of work, which leads, of course, to success. SCHOOL DAYS

Uncommon Sense... By JOHN BLAKE

EDUCATION get an education. The real education he gains by applying the rules that he learns in the class room and the lecture room. Some of the most brilliant men in America and in England have been self-educated. Such a man was Mark Twain. Such another was Charles Dickens. Mark Twain had little schooling. Dickens had little. Both, however, read all the books they could lay their hands on. Both asked multitudes of questions of everybody they thought could answer them. Both became very great men, very great writers, and of vast use in the world. Your education will cost you practically nothing if you really want it. Go to a library. Talk to the librarian about what you ought to read. Then read it, and keep on reading, and thinking about what you read. The only price you will have to pay is the time you spend, and the education you will receive will be worth many thousand times the price. (© by John Blake.)

SUMMER SALAD DRESSINGS

DURING the warm weather salads appeal to the appetite and furnish the right kind of warm weather food. One may vary the three standard salad dressings even beyond the fifty-seven varieties. French dressing, which is the simplest of all dressings, is prepared with oil, vinegar or lemon juice with seasonings. The proportion of oil varies with the taste, for the average taste four tablespoonfuls of oil to one of sharp vinegar is considered about right. Season with salt, cayenne, a pinch of powdered sugar; beat well with a Dover egg beater and serve chilled. Mayonnaise is prepared with the above ingredients in different measures with the addition of the yolk of an egg. Beat the egg yolk, add oil, a few drops at a time, beating until thick then add a cupful of oil four to five tablespoonfuls of vinegar, adding the vinegar a few drops at a time until the mixture is very thick, then oil and vinegar may be added a teaspoonful or more at a time. Seasonings of mustard, powdered sugar, salt and cayenne are added to taste. The well-known boiled dressing may be varied by adding oil or cream or simply cook the beaten eggs with vinegar diluted to make it less acid. Beat well while cooking and then when wanted the seasoning may be added with whipped cream or other ingredients. There are uncooked dressings galore which may be prepared from sour cream and are especially appetizing. Beat one-half cupful of cream until thick, add one-fourth teaspoonful of salt, and three tablespoonfuls of vinegar very slowly, beating constantly. Add cayenne and mustard if desired.

THE ROMANCE OF WORDS

"TUMBLER." MOST of us are familiar with the Chinese dolls or toys which, having a weight in their rounded base, stand upright no matter how often they may be knocked over, and it is from these same toys, very popular in Italy and other parts of Europe during the Fifteenth and Sixteenth centuries, that the word "tumbler" as a synonym for "drinking-glass" has come down to us—the toys being known as "tomboli."

The earliest tumblers of which there is any authentic record were made of wood or metal, rounded on the bottom and so weighted that when empty and placed upon their side they immediately sprang upward, as if asking to be filled. The weight of liquid in them, however, altered the center of gravity so that they remained bolt upright. Tumblers of this nature are still to be found in many parts of Germany, worn and blackened from use and with the ancient inscription carved deep in their sides: "Lay me down when empty, I'll stand again when full." WHY LIBRARIANS LIKE JOB Get Amusement Out of Singular Transformation of Book Titles in Memories of Readers. The scholastic hush of the public library is seldom broken by a titter, but the librariansettes in the central circulation department have a steady refuge from hard work in the compilation of the singular transformations of book titles that take place in the memories of seekers for literary sweetness and light. Herewith is the latest unofficial bulletin, according to a New York Sun writer: "Have you got Jack London's 'The Shout in the Woods?'" inquired a wistful young thing. "The Shout in the Woods?" echoed the experienced librariansette. "Let me see. I'm sure I can find out which of his novels you mean. Oh, yes—isn't it 'The Call of the Wild?'" "That's what I said," murmured the wistful young thing—"The Call of the Wild?" Of course it's a pardonable slip to ask for Galsworthy's "For Rent" when you really want his "To Let." The difference is hardly worth mentioning. But it's really almost profane to demand: "The Autograph on the Breakfast Table."

Canny Scot. An American, who has spent much of his time in Scotland, tells of a comical blunder which an eminent citizen of Glasgow was eager to perpetrate upon the city's statue of Nelson. Nothing florid in the way of an inscription was wanted, but something the merit of which would consist in its brevity and sincerity. "Glasgow to Nelson," was the advice given by the American when approached by the city fathers. "Aye, a very good suggestion," said one of the citizens. "And, as the town o' Nelson is close at hand, might we no' just say, 'Glasgow to Nelson, sax miles,' so that it might serve for a monument and milestone, too?"

MOBILES RUN INTO TRAIN

Safety Council is Striving to It That Accidents Are Not More Frequent Than in Other Sections.

Out of every ten motorists over railroad crossings without either way for the approach and one out of five railroad accidents is the result not in striking the automobile, but automobile running into the train. The foregoing is the statement contained in a pamphlet distributed to all children by the steam transportation committee of the Chicago council, which is functioning as a crossing campaign for the railroad association, says Chicago Daily News. Large posters showing an impending collision between a railroad train and automobile are also being placed at schools upon instruction of Superintendent Peter A. Mortenson.

Hope All Will Heed.

It is hoped," concludes the pamphlet, "that all children who hear or see a message will carry it home to their parents and do everything possible to prevent railway crossing accidents this summer. At the same time railroad employees will themselves every consistent action to minimize casualties from this cause."

A campaign of the railroads extending all over the United States and continuing to September 30, is exciting unusual interest on the part of motorists here and the Safety Council is striving to see to it that their record as to railway crossing accidents during this period is as favorable as that of other parts of the country.

All concerned will co-operate in efforts," said President William C. Coker of the Safety Council in discussing the situation, "we will substitute for the usual crossing sign, a sign which will warn motorists that such accidents during the summer months and thus save many from death or serious injury.

Public Interest Lax. It is obvious that up to this time general public is not paying due attention to the careful crossing campaign, for our reports show many of such accidents occurred over the week-end in Chicago and the surrounding territory. It is believed that in the face of campaign motorists persist in chances at railway crossings.

It is so bad for the man driving the car to fail to appreciate the danger himself involved in crossing by tracks, but surely he must appreciate the value upon the lives of those who ride with him. One is forced to think that sometimes we must all become aroused to situation and do our share in making it.

PAIR GASOLINE FEED LINE

Temporary repair of the gasoline line can be readily made. After turning off the gasoline at the tank, the broken line is cut out and replaced by two pieces of line, each about two inches long. A piece of fine copper or other wire is wound over the tape, making sure that the winding is tight, close together. Another layer of wire is then placed over the wire, which a few turns of wire are wound over the tape to prevent it unwrapping.

Clean the Screen.

A mesh of fine screening is used in the lubricating system to separate foreign material from the oil. Screens should be frequently inspected. Particles of metal or other foreign matter should be cleaned at frequent intervals, this foreign matter may impede the flow of lubricant, and cause bearings or a flooded condition as the direct result.

You Auto Know

That in the case of a skid—particularly one caused by the slipping of the rear wheels, rather than the front ones—the worst possible thing to do is to apply the brakes. The amateur driver's first impulse when anything unforeseen happens is to press down hard with both feet, disengaging the clutch and at the same time applying the full force of the foot-brake. This double action upon the rear wheel only accentuates the skid and causes him to have less control of his car than if he had kept his feet off either pedal.

The best course to take is to allow the car to coast, at the same time attempting to steer the car in the same direction in which the rear end of the car is skidding. Then, if it is imperative that the car be stopped to avoid a collision, press the foot-brake slowly and the car will respond almost instantly. The best possible preventive of skidding, however, is care in driving and a refusal to take chances on wet pavements, especially when turning a corner.

REMOVAL OF BROKEN FRONT-SPRING LEAF

One of Most Frequent Troubles With Light Car.

Method Illustrated for Replacing Damaged Part Without Clamping—Two Jacks Afford Satisfactory Means of Lifting.

One of the frequent troubles experienced with the light automobile is breaking of the front-spring leaves. The drawing illustrates methods that facilitate the replacing or removal of a broken leaf, and the assembly of the leaves without clamping. The leaves are assembled star-fashion, as shown, about the center bolt. The nut is easily screwed on a thread or two, after which the leaves are brought into their proper position and the nut tightened.

In lifting the car frame above the axle, to remove or replace a spring two jacks are placed, one on either side, with their bases resting against the axles, their heads resting under the lamp brackets on each side. The wheels are blocked so that they can not rock. This affords a quick method of lifting, and one that gives a clear working space. In cases where the center bolt of the spring does not align with the slot in the frame, by simply raising one jack and lowering the other, the body will shift enough to make them line up. The same method can be applied to lifting the rear axle, although the lift will necessarily be greater on account of the considerably greater deflection of the rear spring.—G. A. Luers, Washington, D. C., in Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Water Leaking Into Cylinders. Cooling water leaking into the cylinders of an engine may be the result of a crack in the cylinder wall or a poorly fitting plug between cylinder head and water jacket which some engine possess.

Stringing Cotter Pins. Cotter pins of assorted sizes can be conveniently kept by stringing them through the eyes onto a little string or wire. In this way, when the whole lot is picked up it is easy to select the size needed.

Sunday School Lesson

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D. D., Teacher of English Bible in the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)

LESSON FOR AUGUST 13

ESTHER SAVES HER PEOPLE

LESSON TEXT—Esther 3:1-9:32.

GOLDEN TEXT—The righteous cry, and the Lord heareth, and delivereth them out of all their trouble.—Psalm 34:17.

REFERENCE MATERIAL—Matt. 20:20-23; Rom. 5:6-10; 12:1, 2.

PRIMARY TOPIC—A Brave Young Queen.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Esther, the Brave Queen.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—A Heroine Worthy of Imitation.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Rendering Sacrificial Service.

I. Haman's Wicked Plot Against the Jews (3:1-4:3).

1. The occasion of (ch. 3). Mordecai refused to bow down to Haman whom the king had elevated to the place of prime minister and commanded that reverence should be shown him by all the princes and servants. In order to get rid of Mordecai Haman formulated a scheme and secured the king's endorsement to destroy all the Jews.

2. Fasting and mourning among the Jews (4:3-4). In their distress they sought the Lord. They did that which all those who believe in God had a right to do (Jas. 5:13).

II. Haman Checkmated (4:4-7:10).

1. Plot made known to Esther (vv. 4-8). Mordecai appeared before the king's gate clothed in sackcloth. This condition was reported to Esther by her maids and chamberlains. Upon her refusal to put away mourning Esther sent Hatach, her special attendant, to find out the cause of it.

2. Message to Esther (v. 8). This was in the form of a charge that she go into the king and make request for her people.

3. Esther's hesitancy (vv. 9-12). This was on the ground of a certain law which made it a capital offense for anyone to come into the king's presence unbidden unless the king should extend clemency by holding out the golden scepter. The fact that Esther had not been called to come in for thirty days would seem that the queen was in disfavor.

4. Mordecai presses her obligation (vv. 14, 15). (1) Her own life was involved (v. 13). She might meet death if she went to the king unbidden, but most certainly she would meet death if she made no effort to avert the danger. Being in the king's house would not save her, for the decree had been made against the race of which she was a part. Her silence on this occasion would mean death. (2) She was not God's last resort (v. 14). He argues that deliverance would come from another source. God's work goes on and His purposes are fulfilled regardless of the decisions of men. (3) Reminds her that she had probably been raised up for this very work (v. 14). Every one has been born and prepared for some definite work. God's providence brings us into the particular circumstances where we can most definitely do His will.

5. Esther meets the call of duty (4:15-5:3). (1) Preparation by fasting (v. 16). She instructed Mordecai to gather together all the Jews in Shushan and fast for her for three days and nights. She with her maids did the same. (2) Went into the presence of the king (5:1-3). Having made the decision to do her duty regardless of consequences, after due preparation by fasting and prayer, she presented herself in royal apparel in the presence of the king. She decided that the best thing she could do was to lay her life on the altar. "If I perish, I perish" ought to be our watchword when face to face with duty. (3) King's promise to Esther (v. 3). He assured her that her desire would be granted even to the half of his kingdom.

6. Haman hanged (5:4-7:10). Esther was shrewd as well as courageous. She invited the king and his prime minister to a banquet. At this banquet she proposed another for the following day, at which time she promised to make known to the king her request. Haman went home jubilant, but that night something occurred which turned the tide. The king discovered that no reward had been granted Mordecai for having saved his life. Haman is compelled to exact Mordecai, and at the second feast the queen revealed his wicked treachery and he is ordered hanged on the gallows which he had prepared for Mordecai.

III. The Jews Delivered (chs. 8, 9). Haman was dead, but the decree against the Jews still stood. Esther pleaded that it be reversed. While it could not be reversed, through her influence another decree was sent out which in a large measure counteracted the first. The Jews everywhere were granted the privilege to defend themselves and destroy their enemies.

When Baby Complains.

THERE ARE MANY WAYS a baby has of expressing any pain or irregularity or digression from its normal condition of health and happiness. A short sharp cry, a prolonged irritated cry. Restlessness, a constant turning of the head or of the whole body, fretful. In these and other ways a baby tells you there is something wrong. Most mothers know that a disordered stomach, or bowels that do not act naturally are the cause of most of baby's sufferings. A call for the doctor is the first thought, but in the event of any delay there should be ready at hand a safe remedy such as Fletcher's Castoria.

Castoria has been used for baby's ailments for over 30 years and has merited the good will of the family physician in a measure not equaled by any other baby's medicine because of its harmlessness and the good results achieved.

And remember this: Castoria is essentially a baby's remedy and not a cure-all for every member of the family. What might help you is too often dangerous when given to a babe.

Children Cry For

Let's Think It Over.

There is such a thing as saying too much on any subject, and the "grand-stand" talker sooner or later becomes a bore. The truth is always welcomed, and the truth reiterated and confirmed is more than welcome—it reaches your innermost soul.

Fletcher's Castoria is all its advertising has claimed for it. Scrutinized by the microscope of public opinion and used for over thirty years it stands without a peer in the hearts of thoughtful, cautious, discerning Mothers. And once used, mother love—there is no substitute for mother love—will scorn to try a "substitute" or a "just-as-good".

Masquerading under many names drugs that are injurious to the tender babe have found their way into some households, but the light of experience soon casts them out. Are they cast out before it is too late?

DELINQUENT TAXES

There is complaint being made that in some counties the delinquent tax lists have not been published for several years, yet the law says it must be done. Commissioners some times figure that they will not get back in taxes enough to pay for the printing, but that does not meet the letter of the law. If people who are delinquent are made to know that their property is about to be sold for taxes most of them will hurry around to the collectors office and pay up. If the stuff belongs to somebody who doesn't care enough for his title to keep the taxes paid, it ought to be sold to someone who will pay. It is not fair to collect the taxes every year on one man's lot and let the adjoining lot go tax free from year to year. Assessors and collectors should see that all property is listed and the taxes paid. —Panhandle Herald.

Lynn County is being visited at the present time by a large number of home seekers. A large number of these prospectors are being located here by our local land agents. The great South Plains, of which Lynn county is the very cream, is being settled up rapidly by our East Texas neighbors. Let 'em come, there is room for all.

The papers are lining up for Mayfield for Senator in the second primary. Regardless of who they were pushing before, there is only one choice now, and that is Mayfield. Nobody wants an impeached Governor for Senator. Jeems Ferguson is anti-prohibition and anti-everything if he thinks it will win votes for him. —Canadian Record.

Large Hats to Stay

Spreading Headgear Destined to Remain Another Season.

Favorite Models Droop on Sides and Almost Reach Shoulders, Giving Picturesque Addition.

The French, of course, are more willing to go to extremes than we, says a fashion correspondent in the New York Times, but with their lead we are following along into the realm of large and spreading hats. These, too, look as though they were destined to remain for another season.

The larger hats droop on the sides and almost reach the shoulders, giving that picturesque addition to the general mode.

For trimming the latest thing is to apply a roll of velvet about the crown, or a twisting or ribbon—these done in contrasting colors that carry out the idea of the dress which the hat is destined to accompany. The other style which has recommended itself is that which trims the hat with wide and stiff ribbon exactly matching the foundation material of the hat itself.

That bids fair to be a fall mode of the most accepted standard for, after all, it is only a development of the last days of summer, creatively considered.

THE NEW IDEA IN FAGOTING

Stitching May Be Used in Other Ways Than Attaching of Hems and the Sleeves.

Now that fagot stitching seems to be an important trimming for lingerie, it may be utilized in other ways, in addition to the attaching of the hems and sleeves to garments.

Thus dainty lace or embroidered motifs may be let in with this effective stitch, or, if it is desired to keep the design quite plain, the following idea will be found to be pretty and serviceable:

Draw circles on the garment the size of a penny. Cut the material away from the center, leaving just enough to turn in to make the edge neat. Turn in the edge of the piece cut away; place this within the circle again, and join the two with a fagot stitch.

The pieces cut away may be made into different shapes and attached to the circle. Squares, triangles, and oblongs form attractive trimmings and designs of this sort may be elaborated according to the wish of the owner, with a little ingenuity.

A further variation may be made by

NEW DRESSES TOUCH THE GROUND

Paris Length is of Extreme Limit; More Conservative Fashion Promises to Stay.

It seems that we have reached the long skirt stage of fashions once again, says a Paris fashion writer. The idea was fought in some circles and the "flappers" are still objecting by word and deed. But if they wish to adopt the knee-length skirt as their own uniform and regalia there seems to be no objection—only the smart thing is to drop skirts toward the ground.

Some of these longer skirts still retain the idea of having their hems uneven in line so that in some spots they look short and in others they seem to trail. Others are long and straight with only a semblance of draping at one side and still others, especially among the dancing frocks, are as full as they can be and still long enough to almost sweep the ground. But they are long. That fact, in spite of all objections, remains an established thing. And if you wish to create your newer frocks so that they will be in the forefront of fashion, then have them with skirts that clear the ground at a distance of six inches instead of the twelve and fifteen in which you have indulged for so long.

Dresses from Paris are touching the ground, some of them. But in all probability this will remain a length of extreme limits, while the more conservative ones will hold the stage for some time to come.

Ribbon, more than anything else, is the fashionable trimming. One sees it, tastefully gathered and rosetted, by the border for little summer filling in the space with a different colored material. In this way just the right distinctive feature is added to a severely plain set of lingerie. The set may be carried out in pink crepe de chine, and the circles filled in with the same material in a blue shade.

BEADED DESIGNS ON CHIFFON

Another design is made by drawing a cross within the circle, cutting away the triangular pieces of material, and filling in with the fagot stitch.

TAFETTA FOR DANCE FROCKS

Material May Be Worn by Women of Any Age; Particularly Suitable for Slender Type.

Taffeta is an ideal material for the dance frock, and while the material is worn by women of any age, it seems particularly suitable for the young slender woman. The material has a crispness and lends itself to a flare that is particularly becoming to a slim figure and that seems to express youth.

A taffeta dance dress seen featured a paneled skirt made over a two-layer skirt of chiffon in contrasting color, the lower one of these skirts being flower trimmed, while the upper skirt, or layer of chiffon, served to veil the flower trimming in a most effective and dainty way.

High and pastel shades share honors in summer evening and dance dresses of taffeta, the high shades such as a vivid green, rose or blue being smart when becoming.

Table Runner.

A handsome table runner is made long, oval shaped and edged with gilt braid and a tassel on each end. The material is satin of plain color, such as black or gold, while a diamond piece of oriental patterned fabric is applied flat to the center of the panel.

The Lace Mitt.

To be chic, the lace mitt of 1922 must be finished at the elbow with a coquettish fringe of ostrich tip, with a long, ragged ostrich fringe, or with quilted ribbon, metallic tulle, or a tiny armet of flowers.

coates or, waxed and lacquered, making a thin line of color up and down the panels of a frock.

SMALL FLOOR LAMPS LIKED

Tall Lamp With Slender Standard May Be Set on Floor Where Table Will Not Fit.

Now that nine out of every ten houses are fitted with electricity, small floor lamps are becoming increasingly popular. There are several reasons why they have become so popular.

To begin with, they fill a need for certain kinds of lighting—for use at the piano or for any purpose that requires an elevated light; to light a far corner when it is not practicable to stand a table there; to place near an armchair or a couch so that there will be a good reading light cast over it, and then for pure decorative effect. The most noteworthy use for a tall lamp with a slender standard is that it may be set on the floor where a table cannot possibly go, on which would be placed the usual lamp.

Clean Canvas Shoes.

To clean white canvas shoes place them on boot trees or stuff the shoes full of newspapers rubbed between the hands until they are soft. Next scrub the shoes with hard white soap and a little warm water. Then mix pipe clay with water to a stiff paste, apply with a clean white flannel cloth, and let dry. When dry rub slightly with clean white flannel.

TUB FROCKS AND OTHERS; SMART CROCHETED HATS

THE streets of the cities bear evidence that women have decided to wear clothes that look comfortable and are comfortable in the hottest days of summer. All those cool and colorful fabrics that are a joy in the country, and at summer resorts, have come to town and are making themselves very much at home on the streets and everywhere else. exit, but it is only "good-by till we meet again." "There is nothing new under the sun," but there are plenty of things that are relatively new and among them are those smart crocheted hats that are making their appearance in displays of headwear for sports and outdoor. One wonders that they were not thought out long ago, since caps for infants and children have been crocheted for years. But it remained for some one to figure out a way to support the crocheted hat and keep it in shape, and now this has been accomplished, and it is here. It is a beautiful and distinctly American creation, and aristocratic affair, with all the class and informality combined, that belong to the aristocrat.

These hats are made of several materials and supported by very fine, invisible silk wires. Wool yarns, chenille, silk fiber braids and specially made fabrics, are used for them and very often their decoration is crocheted in the body of the hat, or separately and sewed on. In the simple models pictured of wool yarns, the braided collars, balls and pompons are made separately. On two of these hats French draped affairs, ankle length and often of printed materials in lovely colors. In cotton materials, tub frocks for the street indicate that combinations of the stronger colors and white, made up with white organdie, have come to stay. Dotted swiss in the darker blues, brown, black or beige, with white dots, has few rivals in its refreshing crispness and coolness, and two pretty frocks made of it are shown above. Next in popularity stand checked and crossbar gingham, with a few quiet plaids in their company, also honoring the daintiness of organdie in their trimmings and accessories.

A new arrival among these cool cotton frocks is made of white batiste with trimming of gay cretonne and the combination is cheerful and promising. Usually the last of August finds these mid-summer frocks making their

Chevrolet Proves its Economy in Mail Delivery

J. F. Griffin carries mail on a Texas R. F. D. route. Read his letter.

Teel Garage, Devine, Texas April 26th, 1922

Gentlemen:

One dollar and eighteen cents per hundred miles is the amount my Superior Chevrolet touring car has cost me to deliver mail on a daily route of twenty-five miles, with an average of more than fifty stops per day.

20.98 miles per gallon of gasoline and 171 miles per quart of oil and 599 miles per pound of grease is the average of material used for the 7196 miles I have driven the car.

I have had only three punctures and my tires are good for at least 3000 miles more. I have had no repairs or labor and do not contemplate any in the near future.

As you well know I have to deliver the mails regardless of weather or road conditions and since October 17th, 1921, the day I purchased this, my second Chevrolet, the road has been torn up most of the time by road construction gangs and by many heavy rains, which has materially added to my fuel consumption.

My car runs as well today as it did the day I bought it and I am highly pleased with its performance.

Yours very truly,
(Signed) J. F. GRIFFIN

Again it evidences the reliability, economy and satisfaction that the New Superior Model Chevrolet affords.

This sturdy, flexible motor car will go anywhere. Its powerful, dependable valve-in-head engine requires a minimum of attention. Price, equipment and cost of operation considered, it is the lowest priced automobile you can buy. Chevrolet is all there when you buy it—nothing more to buy but the license. It has complete electrical equipment, demountable rims, strong spiral bevel rear axle gears, standard three speed transmission and other units found on high-grade modern cars.

The remarkable increase in sales of Chevrolet, giving it first place among standard automobiles, is the outstanding feature of 1922 motoring.

father of my little girl, and I think she should hear him speak. Therefore, Hattie, I intend to take her."

TWO WEEKS AND ONE DAY LATER

Father's here—right here in Boston. I don't know when he came. But the first day of the meeting was day before yesterday, and he was here then. The paper said he was, and his picture was there, too. There were a lot of pictures, but his was away ahead of the others. It was the very best one on the page. (I told you it would be that way.)

Mother saw it first. That is, I think she did. She had the paper in her hand, looking at it, when I came into the room; but as soon as she saw me she laid it right down quick on the table. If she hadn't been quite so quick about it, and if she hadn't looked quite so queer when she did it, I wouldn't have thought anything at all. But when I went over to the table after Father's picture right on the first page—and the biggest picture there—I knew then, of course, what she'd been looking at.

I looked at it then, and I read what it said, too. It was lovely. Why, I hadn't any idea Father was so big. I was prouder than ever of him. It told all about the stars and comets he'd discovered, and the books he'd written on astronomy, and how he was president of the college at Andersonville, and that he was going to give an address the next day. And I read it all—every word. And I made up my mind right there and then that I'd cut out that piece and save it.

But that night, when I went to the library cupboard to get the paper, I couldn't do it, after all. Oh, the paper was there, but that page was gone. There wasn't a bit of it left. Somebody had taken it right out. I never thought then of Mother, but I believe now that it was Mother, for—

But I mustn't tell you that part now. Stories are just like meals. You have to eat them—I mean tell them—in regular order, and not put the ice cream in where the soup ought to be. So I'm not going to tell you why I suspect it was Mother, that cut out that page of the paper with Father's picture in it.

Well, the next morning was Father's lecture, and I went with Mother. Of course Grandfather was there, too, but he was with the other astronomers. I guess, anyhow, he didn't sit with us. And Aunt Hattie didn't go at all. So Mother and I were alone.

We sat back—a long way back. I wanted to go up front, real far front—the front seat, if I could get it; and I told Mother so. But she said, "Mercy, no!" and shuddered, and went back two more rows from where she was, and got behind a big post.

I guess she was afraid Father would see us, but that's what I wanted. I wanted him to see us. I wanted him to be right in the middle of his lecture and look down and see right there before him his little girl Mary, and she that had been the wife of his bosom. Now that would have been what I called thrilling, real thrilling, especially if he jumped, or grew red, or white, or stammered, or stopped short, or anything to show that he'd seen us—and cared.

I'd have loved that. But we sat back where Mother wanted to, behind the post. And, of course, Father never saw us at all. It was a lovely lecture. Oh, of course, I don't mean to say that I understood it. I didn't. But his voice was fine, and he looked just too grand for anything, with the light on his noble brow, and he used the loveliest big words that I ever heard. And folks clapped, and looked at each other, and nodded, and once or twice they laughed. And when he was all through they clapped again, harder than ever.

Another man spoke then, a little (not near so good as Father), and then it was all over, and everybody got up to go; and I saw that a lot of folks were crowding down the aisle, and I looked and there was Father right in front of the platform shaking hands with folks.

I looked at Mother then. Her face was all pinky-white, and her eyes were shining. I guess she thought I spoke, for all of a sudden she shook her head and said: "No, no, I couldn't, I couldn't! But you may, dear. Run along and speak to him; but don't stay. Remember, Mother is waiting, and come right back."

I knew then that it must have been just my eyes that spoke, for I did want to go down there and speak to Father. Oh, I did want to go! And I went then, of course. (TO BE CONTINUED.)

First Known Use of Ink.

The bureau of standards says that the earliest use of liquid which can be described as ink is found in the remnants of ancient Egyptian civilizations, and the date was probably about 2500 B. C. Chinese or Indian ink is known to have been in existence about this time. These inks were black and their base was carbon. Probably gum, oil or varnish was mixed with it.

Mentioned in the Bible.

Biblical mention is made of nineteen different precious stones, six metals, one hundred and four trees and plants, thirty-five animals, thirty-nine birds, six fishes, eleven reptiles, twenty insects and other smaller creatures.

FEATURES OF FUTURE CITY

Chances for the Better That Are Assured Simply by the Ordinary March of Events.

Tomorrow you may not know your own city. They have probably begun altering it already, or are planning to do so. If not, it doesn't greatly matter, because certain forces at work will compel far-reaching changes automatically. Tomorrow your city will have wide boulevards cut through its narrow streets. These will accommodate four, six and eight lines of traffic. They will start at the center and run miles out into the country. Thousands of buildings will be torn down. Sharp street corners will be rounded off and the circle and crescent take the place of the checkerboard.

Did your city fathers, years ago, lay out a downtown boulevard or town with a strip of parkway in the center? That beauty spot will be needed for traffic. But better beauty spots will appear miles from the downtown section. Slums and tenements will disappear, too. There will be a general grading up of living standards, and an equalization of real estate values.

TREES IN BUSINESS STREET

Writer Combats the More or Less Accepted Idea That They Are Somehow Out of Place.

One of the characters in an early-day American romance of the time when the Stamp act was causing all kinds of trouble, is recorded as declaring that New York never would be a real business city because Broadway and Maiden lane were lined with trees, remarks the Indianapolis Star. The VanVrooms, the Stuyvesants, the Artavells, and other early settlers of the country saved fine trees about their homes, on the village greens, along the country roads, and in the fields. But one will see no trees nowadays on Broadway, and Maiden lane has been transformed from the pleasant, tree-bordered region of Dutch homes with flower gardens into the busiest wholesale jewelry district in America, if not in the world.

Beauty and comfort gave way to the inroads of commerce, not only in New York, but in most of America's great cities, so that today trees in a business street are a rare sight. There are elm-shaded villages in New England, maple-shaded towns in New York and the Ohio valley, and there are oak-tree streets to be seen in the southeastern states, but for the most part this refers only to small towns or cities—never to the congested centers of population where they should have been preserved.

City Streets Need Shade.

A Department of Agriculture bulletin insists that providing shade on city streets is as much a municipal function as providing lights or sidewalks and should be cared for by public officials. Probably the most effective way of arranging for proper supervision, it says, is through an unpaid commission of three or five members which in turn employs an executive officer. Methods of organization are described, and numerous illustrations show how trees should be planted. There are chapters also describing pruning, spraying, transplanting, and other subjects of importance to every town or city, whether it has trees or wishes to have them. The bulletin may be had free upon application to the division of publications, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington.

Danger in Inflammable Roofs.

The value of property destroyed by fires communicated through the roof is reported as $23,000,000. Fire-prevention campaigns are being launched in a number of cities as the result of these figures. Indianapolis, Ind., began such a campaign early last year, with the result of a reduction in 1921 of $550,000 in fire losses and 350 in the number of fires. During one period, out of 1,199 fires in Indianapolis, 850 were directly chargeable to inflammable roofs.

Affected by World War.

As a result of a physical examination of regular army officers recently army surgeons have found clear evidence by physical deterioration caused by strain incident to the prosecution of the World war. A large percentage of the officers show either excessive high or abnormal low blood pressure.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

THE KINGBIRDS

"We don't stay long with the summer people," said Mr. Kingbird, "but while we do we let folks know we're about."

"That is the way to do it," said Mrs. Kingbird. "That is most certainly the way to do it."

"I can't understand any reason which would make it sensible of us to do anything else."

"Just what do you mean by all of that?" asked Mr. Kingbird. "You know, I'm no scholar."

"Neither am I," said Mrs. Kingbird. "I wasn't very clear in what I was saying. You know there are some creatures who like to sound very wise and who really don't say much of anything of any importance."

"But because they would like to appear important they make speeches with great, long words in them, and they look down on any one who doesn't understand these words."

"Foolish and conceited, I call it. And those creatures usually know less than the ones who're not ashamed of not knowing everything in the world."

"I meant, Mr. Kingbird, that I have never seen any reason for coming around where people were and keeping quiet about it."

"We're sensible, though. We come where there is a lot of life and where there is a lot of going on, and where there are farmers and their families and friends."

"We only stay for a short time. We don't arrive until quite late in the spring and we leave in the middle of the summer, as a rule, or at the end of the summer at the very latest."

"We don't wait until late in the autumn to leave, nor do we wait until the weather is cold."

"It is better to make sure that we won't be around for any cold weather than to take any chances."

"The eggs were beautiful this year, weren't they?" Mrs. Kingbird continued.

"Yes," Mr. Kingbird answered, "they were very lovely. They were so creamy white and the little red spots on them were so gay and pretty."

"Then they hatched out into very fine young birds, too!" said Mrs. Kingbird.

SAYS CALOMEL SALIVATES AND LOOSENS TEETH

The Very Next Dose of This Treacherous Drug May Start Trouble.

You know what calomel is. It's mercury; quicksilver. Calomel is dangerous. It crashes into your system like dynamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system.

If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone for a few cents which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.

Don't take calomel! It makes you sick the next day; it loses you a day's work. Dodson's Liver Tone straightens you right up and you feel great. No salts necessary. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and can not salivate.—Advertisement.

Seals.

The big fur-seal herd, numbering in the millions, now is migrating from the South Pacific to the Pribilof islands, near Alaska. They make the trip each spring.

How do they know when to start and where to go? Man's belief that seals have no brains is based on his ability to conquer, kill and turn them into expensive fur coats. If an animal appeared that man could not conquer, it would speedily be credited with intelligence.

The intellect appears to be a matter of vanity, measured by the ability to destroy.

Cellar Is Safe.

Accident statistics show that the safest place to be to avoid the possibility of accident is in a bed in the cellar of your home. Next to that the safest place is a Pullman or other steel car on a railroad train. So say the accident insurance companies. A passenger in an ordinary railroad car is much safer than at home, because he is sitting still and few things can happen to him. If he is in a Pullman, and there is a collision, other cars may be smashed, but his own vehicle, being of steel and enormously heavy, will likely escape serious injury.

He came then, and he put his arms around me, and he kissed me again—expecting it this time, I felt that I was alone on the world. And I felt so sorry for him; and I went down to Boston I kept my eyes on him—what he said, and how fine and splendid—woman-would-be-proud-of—as he stood on the platform looking good-by.

I guess I was still thinking of being sorry for him when he was on the platform. That's why I couldn't be so hilariously glad when I met him, I suspect. Some day, a sudden, I found myself could be there, too.

I know that that was wicked and unkind to Mother, and she said some beautiful things about making other people happy, instead of looking to ourselves all the time. Just as she had talked once, before I went away. And I felt again that hushed, stained-window, soft-music, everybody-kneeling kind of a way; and I was so happy! And it lasted all the rest of that evening till I went to sleep.

And for the first time a beautiful idea came to me, when I thought how Mother was trying to please Father, and he was trying to please her. Wouldn't it be perfectly lovely and wonderful if Father and Mother should fall in love with each other all over again, and get married? I guess then this would be a love story all right, all right!

OCTOBER

Oh, how I wish that stained-window, everybody-kneeling feeling would last. But it never does. Just the next morning, when I woke up, it rained. And I didn't feel pleased a bit. Still I remembered what had happened the night before, and a real glow came over me at the beautiful idea I had gone to sleep with.

I wanted to tell Mother, and ask her if it couldn't be, and wouldn't she let it be, if Father would. So, without waiting to dress me, I hurried across the hall to her room and told her all about it—my idea, and everything.

But she said, "Nonsense," and, "Hush, hush," when I asked her if she and Father couldn't fall in love all over again and get married. And she over again and get silly notions into my head. And she wasn't a bit flushed and teary, as she had been the night before, and she didn't talk at all as she had then, either. Things have gone way ever since.

Along in just the usual humdrum way, and she's never been the same as she was that night I came. Something—a little different—did happen yesterday, though. There's going to be another big astronomy meeting here in Boston this month, just as there was when Father told Mother years ago; and Grandfather brought home word that Father was going to be one of the chief speakers. And he told Mother he supposed she'd go and hear him.

"Well, yes, I am thinking of going," she said, just as calm and cool as she could be. "When does he speak, Father?"

"And when Aunt Hattie pooh-pooched, and asked how could she do such a thing, Mother answered: "Because Charles Anderson is the father of my little girl, and I think she should hear him speak. Therefore, Hattie, I intend to take her."

The Train Came Then, and He Put Me on Board, and He Kissed Me Again—But I Was Expecting It This Time, of Course.

I began to cry again. She said there, there, once and she said me on my shoulder, and she said I needn't worry any more, that she understood it, if I could stand it. In fact, she was beginning to understand a lot of things that
