CROP CONDITIONS

Although the dry weather continues, feed and cotton crops are reported to be holding up well in Lynn county, especially is this true of the cotton crop. It is estimated by reliable farmers from different communities that the yield will be anywhere from one-third to one-half bale to the acre and this without any more moisture.

Foster's Weather Bureau predicts rain for the western portion of Texas, the latter part of the present month.

It is estimated that Lynn county has planted a larger cotton acreage this year than ever before and the yield will be bigger than ever before in its history.

Jno. J. Stokes, of O'Donnell, passed through town Wednesday enroute to Lubbock on a business trip. While here he placed an order for candidate cards in his race for Public Weigher of the O'Donnell precinct. Mr. Stokes received a nice plurality over the other candidates for this office in the first primary, but liked a few votes of getting a two-thirds majority which compelled him to run it off in the second primary, August 26th.

Elder Kirckville, of Coleman, was here the past week and delivered a series of sermons at the Church of Christ. It is likely that he will be called by the church here.

Rev. S. J. Upton, pastor of the M. E. Church, was called to Lubbock Wednesday to hold the funeral services for Mrs. D. C. Ross, who died in that city Tuesday. Mrs. Ross is the wife of Rev. D. C. Ross, Methodist minister, well known to many Tahoka people. The passing away of this good christian lady will be learned with deep regret by our people. It will be remembered that a liberal donation was made by the local Methodist people to erect a home in Lubbock for this aged couple.

Big business men are always on the lookout for young men who have the qualifications for big positions. The main thing they want to know is: "has he MONEY SENSE?" That question can only be answered in one way: by a Pass Book showing REGULAR deposits. NEW LIGHT WOOL Material of Crepe Weave Used for Hand-Made Dresses.

Novelty Is Lighter in Weight Than Many Crepe De Chines and Suitable for Gowns.

The styles brought out at this time of the year in a very large measure predate the fashions of the coming autumn. Women have proved that their tastes in dress are simple, for out of the multitude of ideas constantly launched, and many of them pushed to the utmost, those embodying simplicity invariably take a firm hold. The greatest successes known in the history of dressmaking have been made in recent years by designers who worked along these lines. Those who have eschewed complication and held to an almost stern simplicity have been the ones whose models have had the greatest vitality and endurance.

No stronger current has run through the stream of fashions during the last few years than the Vionnet genre or type of dress, asserts a writer in the New York Tribune. It never can be said of Vionnet's models that they definitely date themselves, as do most fashions that rage for a time. They are beautiful, artistic and becoming, and no one can deny that they are enduring. Women who have become accustomed to this type of dress continue from season to season to have a similar thing, and often, in ordering a model, have the same style copied two or three times, the only difference being in the color.

In materials, crepe de chine and crepe romaine are still favorites, but they have a new ally in a very light-weight wool material of crepe weave, which is now being used for hand-made dresses of the sort that have been so popular in crepe de chine, voile and handkerchief linen. These

BLACK CREPE FOR DRESSES

All-Around Satisfactory Color Holds Favor With Many Women for Luncheon Time.

Many of the dresses seen at luncheon time are made of black crepe, for there is a certain portion of the population which never seems to care to desert that all-around and satisfactory color. These frocks are invariably long, and almost always they have some sort of draping at one side of the skirt, which has a way of hanging much below the hem of the dress which, to begin with, is long enough to strike the ankles. Then this sort of frock you will find being worn with hats that are extremely large of brim, with little trimming, but with a great deal of line, which helps them to add materially to the grace of the costume as it originally existed.

Some frocks of foulard stand very high among those that are fashionable. They are especially those made of black and white or dark blue and white prints when they are made along formal lines. They, too, are draped, with the exception of a few little bits of lace used just as edging that are left to show their patterns quite uninterrupted. One of these was of a black and white print, the design being of conventional roses in white that twined over the fabric in sprays. The skirt was so intricately draped that it was hard to tell exactly what the scheme of its design was founded upon, and the bodice, quite tightly fitted, had a square neck to carry out the lines upon which the frock was founded. With this was worn a white transparent straw hat show drawn work and Venetian ladder embroidery.

It seems a contrariety that dress-makers should manifest so strong an interest in woolen materials at a season of the year when the mercury stands at its highest, but this novelty woolen is lighter in weight than many crepe de chines and is particularly suitable for dresses being made up at this time. It makes delightful frocks for the mountains or seashore, and models made from this fine wool crepe need not be packed away for another season when one comes back to town, but will be found very serviceable throughout the autumn and winter.

GOWNS FOR THE STOUT BRIDE

Care Should Be Taken to Avoid Boldly Overdressing; Long, Unbroken Lines Suitable.

There are stout brides to be dressed as well as slim ones and for them are suggested panels, long, unbroken lines or fine draperies that fall with a certain weight, but never should a plump figure call attention to itself by overdressing or by trying to follow some fashion, charming in itself, perhaps, but only adapted to the unusually tall and thin.

Sometimes, by boldly exaggerating curves, one can make them appear actually less as, for example, in the full petticoats of the time of Louis XVI, when a full hip was well disguised and a waist, however ample, appeared small in comparison.

Not in many a season has the white frilled blouse enjoyed such favor as now. Fillet and Irish lace are the accepted trimmings.

Black velvet worked in white with a white tub flannel skirt are a chic combination for sports and country wear.

Home Town Helps

LOOK TO COMMUNITY'S NEEDS

What Has Been Accomplished at Fort Scott, Kansas, May Be Cited as Case in Point.

Half a dozen years ago there were two years when the wheat around Fort Scott did not come to harvest and, as wheat was the only product of the community the town was left flat. Even the merchants closed their stores and moved away.

The chamber of commerce decided that the community needed more diversity of production. It studied the situation and decided that the dairy industry would fit logically into its scheme. The farmers owned only scrub cattle, but despite this the chamber went down to Kansas City and induced the big milk users to establish three shipping stations in the Fort territory. The farmers were much surprised to find that they could get money for milk which formerly had been used only as swill for hogs.

Then the chamber of commerce took its second step. It organized an excursion and took forty of its most progressive farmers to that part of Wisconsin where the dairy industry is most highly developed. It showed them just what first-class dairy farms and first-class dairy cattle were and how such an enterprise is properly operated.

But the chamber did not stop here. It raised enough money to buy a train-load of the best milk cows it could find in the United States, had them shipped to Fort Scott and sold to the farmers at cost, which was less than the price they would have had to pay if they had bought individually. Last year this community sold half a million dollars' worth of milk alone. That wealth would not have come to Fort Scott but for the sale of milk. It will be spent among the business people who make up its chamber of commerce. The country roundabout has just completed the laying of 225 miles of improved roads, a thing that the farmers had formerly refused to finance. The whole community is transforming itself. All of which comes of taking thought of community needs and proceeding to supply them.

KEEP THE CITY BEAUTIFUL

Annual Clean-Ups All Right in Their Way, but There is a Very Much Better Method.

The annual spring clean-up in Kansas City has become a well known event. But why should it be an event? Why not a continuous process?

Recently an excellent method of keeping the streets always in repair has been put into operation. Why can't something of this kind be made to apply to the cleaning not only of streets but of yards, lots and other places that demand attention? There is provision for street cleaning, of course. But the street-cleaning forces do not receive the encouragement and help they ought to have. Their work often is nullified or made difficult by the carelessness of individuals who throw papers and various kinds of refuse where they will be most unsightly and generally objectionable.

Keeping a city beautiful and clean all the year around does not stop with the operation of any city department. It becomes a part of the civic duty of every individual; it must be checked up to every home as well as to a health or street cleaning department. It may become a matter of habit with the people. It should be prompted by pride; a regard for the rights of neighbors; for what visitors may think of the city; for the best things in respect to appearance and public health.—Kansas City Star.

Stimulating Home Ownership

One of the chief ways in which home ownership can be stimulated is through the education of the general public. Of late years it has become apparent to the leaders in the real estate profession that many people have not purchased their homes, not through inability or unwillingness, but simply because of their lack of knowledge. They fear that perhaps they might find themselves engaged in a venture about which they know nothing, and hence it does not appeal to their conservatism. The one best method of educating the public is by visualizing the processes involved in the acquisition of a home and home site. This is best done by having representative men in the industries allied to home construction brought together at an exposition to show people at first hand what has been done and what may be accomplished in the future and to give them authoritative information and definite costs.

“Don't talk to me about colleges!” scoffed the self-made man. “Look at me! Do you suppose I would have been any more successful than I am if I'd had a college education?” “No,” admitted the professor, “but you might have been less inclined to brag about it.”—Judge.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL Sunday School Lesson

By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D. D., Teacher of English Bible in the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago. Copyright, 1922, Western Newspaper Union.

LESSON FOR AUGUST 20.

SECOND RETURN FROM EXILE

LESSON TEXT—Ezra 7:1-5:26. GOLDEN TEXT—The hand of our God is upon all them that seek him, for good.—Ezra 8:22. REFERENCE MATERIAL—Ezra 9:1-10:17.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Ezra's Prayer for Help.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Ezra's Prayer for Help on a Journey.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Ezra: Teacher and Leader.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Religious Teachers: A Need and an Opportunity.

1. The Leader—Ezra (7:1-10). 1. Who he was (vv. 1-6). (1) A priest (vv. 1-5). The leader of the first company was Zerubbabel, a sort of military governor. The great need now was for a religious leader, for the people had gone far from God, as we see from the noble reforms which Ezra effected. (2) A ready scribe (v. 6). He was a teacher of the law of God.

2. His high ambition (vv. 7-10). (1) “He set his heart to seek the law of the Lord” (v. 10). He definitely set out with the noble purpose to know God's Word. To be successful in anything one must set out with a purpose. Daniel was a success because he “purposed in his heart.” Ministers and Sunday-school teachers should have this set purpose. (2) He set his heart to obey the Lord (v. 10). He was not only concerned with knowing God's Word, but to obey it. God's Word cannot fully be known by the intellect; it must be experienced. The essential qualification for a teacher of the Bible, a preacher or Sunday-school teacher, is obedience to God's Word. (3) He set his heart to teach Israel God's statutes and judgments (v. 10). He not only had a love for God's Word, but a desire to implant it in the hearts of others. When one has an experiential knowledge of God's Word he longs to teach it to others.

3. His commission (7:11-26). The king Artaxerxes gave him a copy of the decree authorizing him to lead a company back to Jerusalem. He was empowered (1) to collect funds (vv. 15, 16); (2) to levy tribute (vv. 21, 22); (3) to appoint magistrates and judges (v. 25); (4) to execute penalties (v. 26). So great was the king's confidence in Ezra that he gave all these powers into his hand. For this great honor Ezra lifted his heart to God in thanksgiving. He was mainly concerned with the fact that he was to beautify the Lord's house and acknowledge that God had put this purpose into the king's heart.

II. The Company (8:1-20).

The company was small—only 1,754 males, but including women, children and servants, there were perhaps 6,000 to 7,000 people in this caravan. III. Ezra's Prayer and Fasting (8:21-23). The first thing he did was to seek God's guidance. Not only God's leaders, but all Christians should seek divine guidance and help in every undertaking—every new journey, every piece of new work, every business adventure, every relationship. That which we cannot invoke God's blessing upon should not be undertaken. Further, success can only be realized when God's blessing is upon us. He did not minimize the dangers attending such a journey, but he had told the king that the hand of the Lord would be upon all for good who sought him, and now he was ashamed to ask the king for a military escort to protect them from the marauding Arabs.

IV. The Successful Journey (8:24-32).

God heard their prayer. The treasure entrusted to them was great. Perhaps the entire value of all the money, etc., was $5,000,000. For a weak caravan to go on a journey requiring four months through a country infested by these robber bands, carrying such an amount of money was most perilous; but Ezra knew that God was able and would protect them. Note: 1. The care and honesty (vv. 24-30). The money was weighed into them at the start and was to be weighed when turned over to the authorities at Jerusalem. The incentive to honesty and strict accounting of the trust was that they were holy men and were entrusted with that which was holy because it belonged to God. Most exacting care should be exercised in handling the Lord's money. We should guard sacredly our trust. 2. Their safe arrival (vv. 31, 32). Some four and one-half months were required to make the journey. God proved himself to be faithful, having protected them and brought them safely to their destination.

“IT SAVED MY LIFE”

The Feeling Tribute of a Woman to PE-RU-NA

READ HER LETTER—IT WILL DO YOU GOOD

“Pe-ru-na has been a Godsend to me. I feel safe in saying that it saved my life. I was all run down and miserable when I commenced taking Pe-ru-na, but am on the road to recovery now. I cannot thank you too much.”

MRS. CHARLES ANSPAUGH, R. F. D. No. 7, Lagrange, Indiana.

A letter like this brings hope and the promise of health to every sick and suffering woman. Perhaps you know what it means to have your daily duties a misery, every movement an effort, stomach deranged, pains in the head, back and joints most of the time, nerves raw and quivering—not a moment day or night free from suffering. Do as Mrs. Anspaugh did. Take Pe-ru-na. Don't wait but start right away.

TABLETS OR LIQUID SOLD EVERYWHERE

Qualified Criticism.

Betty is a little southern beauty in spirit as well as in body. Always she finds things lovable in everything and everybody, and if she cannot say kind things she speaks not at all. It was cold and raw when she visited Chicago recently. With her aunt and mother she sat at a luncheon table in the loop.

“My hands are terribly cold,” said mother.

“It's too bad the weather should be so chilly,” the aunt agreed.

Betty, with even a good word for a bad Chicago day, held up her hands. “Mine didn't get cold,” she said with a smile. Then honesty compelled her to add—“except a little around the edges.”—Chicago Tribune.

CALOMEL IS A DANGEROUS DRUG

Next Dose May Salivate You, Loosen Teeth or Start Rheumatism.

Calomel is mercury; quicksilver. It trashes into sour bile like dynamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system.

If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone for a few cents which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.

Don't take calomel! It makes you sick the next day; it loses you a day's work. Dodson's Liver Tone straightens you right up and you feel great. No salts necessary. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and can not salivate.—Advertisement.

Roll Butter.

The young housekeeper who told the fishman that she wanted some eels and when he asked her how much, replied, “About two yards and a half.” has a rival in a Baltimore woman.

“I wish to get some butter, please,” she said to the dealer.

“Roll butter, ma'am?” he asked, politely.

“No; we wish to eat it on toast. We seldom have rolls.”

No ugly, grimy streaks on the clothes when Red Cross Ball Blue is used. Good bluing gets good results. All grocers carry it.—Advertisement.

The Salary of M. P.'s.

The salary of an M. P. is $400 (nominally $2,000) a year, on which he has hitherto paid income tax. As an income this is inadequate, but in the days of anti-waste campaigns both ministry and house of commons shrink from increasing it. But the law officers of the crown suddenly discovered that an M. P.'s expenses may legitimately be reckoned against his income, so that the poorer of them will now pay no tax at all. A happy issue, relieving the poor M. P., encouraging the government to his grateful heart and throwing no odium on parliament ministry, since it seems that this is the ordinary law and always was, although no one suspected it till a few weeks ago.—New Republic.

Profiteering by a Doctor.

A medical man in Nagykoros, near Budapest, recently charged 5,000 crowns (present value £2, but purchasing value in a village about $5) for a single visit to a patient who lived not far from the doctor's residence. This patient sued the doctor for “profiteering,” but the court dismissed the case. The plaintiff appealed, however, to a higher court, which gave judgment against the doctor, on the ground that the demanding of an exorbitant fee for professional services was to be regarded as profiteering, and was therefore illegal. It was decided that mental workers could fairly be considered as profiteers in such cases; no exception could be made concerning doctors, for although the latter did not technically receive “wages,” their services came within the accepted meaning of “work.”

I went back to Mother then. The it was almost empty, and she wasn't where in sight at all; but I found just outside the door. I knew then Father's face showed that he didn't find her. She wasn't there to be regarded as I was therefore illegal. Aunt Hattie said no, she wasn't at, but that she was sure she didn't go where she was. She must be somewhere in the house.

I went upstairs then, another flight. There wasn't anywhere else to go, and Mother must be somewhere, of course, ad it seemed suddenly to me as if I'd just got to find her. I wanted her so.

And I found her. In the little back room where Aunt Hattie keeps her trunks and mothball bags, Mother was on the floor in the corner crying. And when I exclaimed out and ran over to her, I found she was sitting beside an old trunk that was open; and across her lap was a perfectly lovely pale-blue satin dress all trimmed with silver lace that had grown black. And Mother was crying and crying as if her heart would break.

Of course, I tried and tried to stop her, and I begged her to tell me what was the matter. But I couldn't do a thing, not a thing, not for a long time. Then I happened to say what a lovely dress, only what a pity it was that the lace was all black.

She said yes, it was all black—tarn- ished; and that it was just like every- thing that she had had anything to do with—tarnished; her life and her mar- riage, and Father's life, and mine— everything was tarnished, just like that silver lace on that dress. And she had done it by her thoughtless selfishness and lack of self discipline.

And when I tried and tried to tell her so, it wasn't, and that I didn't feel tarnished a bit, and that she wasn't see Father either, she only cried all the more, and shook her head and began again, all choked up.

She said this little dress was the one she wore at the big reception where she first met Father. And she was so proud and happy when Father—and he was fine and splendid and handsome then, too, she said—singled her out, and just couldn't seem to stay away from her a minute all the even- ing. And then four days later he asked her to marry him; and she was still more proud and happy.

And she said their married life, when they started out, was just like that beautiful dress, all shining and spot- less and perfect; but that it wasn't two months before a little bit of tar- nish appeared, and then another and another.

She said things went on worse and worse—and it was all her fault. She grew sour and cross and disagreeable. She could see now that she did. But she did not realize at all then what she was doing. She was just thinking of herself—always herself; her rights, her wrongs, her hurt feelings, her wants and wishes. She never once thought that he had rights and wrongs and hurt feelings, maybe.

She said a lot more—oh, ever so much more; but I can't remember it all. I know that she went on to say that by and by the tarnish began to dim the brightness of my life, too; and that was the worst of all, she said—that innocent children should suffer, and their young lives be spoiled by the kind of living I'd had to have. With this wretched makeshift of a di- vided home, she began to cry again then, and begged me to forgive her; and I cried and tried to tell her I didn't mind it; but, of course, I'm older now, and I know I do mind it, though I'm try- ing just as hard as I can not to be Mary when I ought to be Marie, or Marie when I ought to be Mary. Only I get all mixed up so, lately, and I said so, and I guess I cried some more.

Mother jumped up then, and said, "But, tut," what was she thinking of to talk like this when it couldn't do a bit of good, but only made matters worse. And she said that only went to prove how she was still keeping on tarnishing my happiness and bringing tears to my bright eyes, when certainly nothing of the whole wretched busi- ness was my fault.

She thrust the dress back into the trunk then, and shut the lid. And she began to talk and laugh and tell stories, and he gayer and jollier than I'd seen her for ever so long. And that was that way at dinner, too, until Grandfather happened to mention the reception tomorrow night, and ask if she was going.

She flushed up red then, oh, so red! and said, "Certainly not." Then she added quick, with a funny little draw- ing-in of her breath, that she should tell Marie go, though, with her Aunt Hattie. It was the only chance Father would have to see me, and she didn't feel that she had any right to deprive him of that privilege, and she didn't think it would do me any harm to be out this one late in the evening. And she intended to let me go.

TWO DAYS LATER

Well, now I guess something's doing all right! And my hand is shaking so I can hardly write—it wants to get ahead so fast and tell. But I'm going to keep it sternly back and tell it just as it happened, and not begin at the ice cream instead of the soup.

At the reception I saw Father right away, but he didn't see me for a long time. He stood in a corner, and lots of folks came up and spoke to him and shook hands; and he bowed and smiled—but in between, when there wasn't anybody noticing, he looked so tired and bored. After a time he stirred and changed his position, and I think he was hunting for a chance to get away, when all of a sudden his eyes, roving around the room, lighted on me.

My! but just didn't I love the way he came through that crowd, straight toward me, without paying one bit of attention to the folks that tried to stop him on the way. And when he got to me, he looked so glad to see me, he looked so the same quick search- ing with his eyes, beyond and around me, as if he was looking for somebody else, just as he had done the morning else, just as he had done the morning else. And I knew it was Mother, of course, so I said:

"No, she didn't come." "So I see," he answered. And there was such a hurt, sorry look away back in his eyes. But right away he smiled, and said: "But you came! I've got you."

Then he began to talk and tell stories, just as if I was a young lady to be entertained. And he took me over to where they had things to eat, and just heaped my plate with chicken patties and sandwiches and olives and pink-and-white frosted cake and ice cream (not all at once, of course, but in order.) And I had a perfectly beau- tiful time. And Father seemed to like it pretty well. But after a while he grew sober again, and his eyes began to rove all around the room.

He took me to a little seat in the corner afterward, and we sat down and began to talk—only Father didn't talk much. He just listened to what I said, and his eyes grew deeper and darker and sadder, and they didn't rove around so much, after a time, but just stared fixedly at nothing, away out across the room. By and by he stirred and drew a long sigh, and said, almost under his breath:

"It was just such another night as this."

And of course, I asked what was—and then I knew, almost before he had told me.

"That I first saw your mother, my dear."

"Oh, yes, I know!" I cried, eager to tell him that I did know. "And she must have looked lovely in that perfectly beautiful blue silk dress all sil- ver lace."

He turned and stared at me. "How did you know that?" he de- manded.

"I saw it." "You saw it?" "Yesterday, yes—the dress," I nodded.

"But how could you?" he asked, frowning, and looking so surprised. "Why, that dress must be—seventeen years old, or more."

I nodded again, and I suppose I did look pleased; it's such fun to have a secret, you know, and watch folks guess and wonder. And I kept him guessing and wondering for quite a while. Then, of course, I told him that it was upstairs in Grandfather's trunk room; that Mother had got it out, and I saw it.

"But, what—was your mother doing with that dress?" he asked then, look- ing even more puzzled and mystified.

And then suddenly I thought and remembered that Mother was crying. And, of course, she wouldn't want Father to know she was crying over it—that dress she had worn when he first met her long ago! (I don't think women ever want men to know such things, do you? I know I shouldn't!) So I didn't tell. Father had begun to talk again, softly, as if to himself:

"I suppose tonight, seeing you, and all this, brought it back to me so vivid- ly." Then he turned and looked at me. "You are very like your mother tonight, dear."

"I suppose I am, maybe, when I'm Marie," I nodded.

He laughed with his lips, but his eyes didn't laugh one bit as he said: "What a quaint little fancy of yours that is, child—as if you were two in one."

"But I am two in one," I declared. "That's why I'm a cross-current and a contradiction, you know," I explained. "A what?" he demanded. "A cross-current and a contradic- tion," I explained once more. "Child- ren of unlikes, you know. Nurse Sa- rah told me that long ago. Didn't you ever hear that—that a child of unlikes was a cross-current and a contradic- tion?"

"Well, no—I hadn't," answered Fa- ther, in a queer, half-smothered voice. "I suppose, Mary, we were—unlikes your mother and I. That's just anybody we were; though I never thought of it before. In just that way."

He waited, then went on, still half to himself, his eyes on the dancers: "She loved things like this—mistle- laughter, gaiety. I abhorred them. I remember how bored I was that night here—Hill I saw her?"

DEMAND STYLE IN LINGERIE; COTTON MORNING FROCKS

NEW lingerie indicates that wom- en have come to a place where they demand style, comfort and beauty in their undergarments, and that they favor simple decorations—or none at all. Styles are more varied and not as stable as they were, chang- ing to suit the changing modes in outer garments. There has been a steady drifting toward silk fabrics and away from all-white into light colors, for no use for the cotton morning frock, but the big majority of women are busy and spend their morning hours, at least, in the company of a utility dress. They are keenly interested in the cotton morning frock and have come to expect many good things of it. It must be comfortable, durable, presentable (or even pretty) and able to come up as good as new from many a tubbing. It must be simple, both silk and cotton lingerie. Crepe de chine, crepe-back satin, and radium silk have a grasp on popular favor for silk underwear; batiste and nainsook, among cotton weaves, with fine cotton crepes holding their own among them. Just now there is a demand for sets of step-in drawers with chemise to match. The step-ins are wide and usually draped at the sides and the chemise short and scant. In plainer, tailored styles, bloomers replace the step-ins and cotton crepes, simply made up, are often chosen for these very practical pieces. In the finer silks or batiste garments much restraint in the matter of trimming is one of the outstanding features of the styles. Val or Calais lace are often used in place of filet and Irish. not without style and varied to suit the seasons. But these frocks change less in style than any others, and one starts the day right clad in them. Gingham and chambray are the reliable and staple materials that are always in style and always most popular for these dresses, and the present demand is for check and cross-bar patterns. Some of the new checked gingham dresses for fall are made up with knickers to match, and one can imagine times when this combination will be very convenient, as for work in the garden, berry picking and the like, when the skirt can be turned up and pinned out of the way. This Happened in Kansas

In appreciation of the work of a Kansas editor for their community a bunch of citizens recently presented him with a bouquet. On the same occasion a quartet from a local church sang a few sweet songs and a minister made a little talk. After the minister's talk six husky men carried the popular editor from the house and placed him tenderly in a model 1921 plumed sedan, and the whole town formed in parade behind the editor's expensive car. After the parade the appreciative crowd returned to their homes serene in thought of having provided one bright day in the life of their local newspaper purveyor, even if they did wait until he was dead to do it.—Fourth Estate.

Sweetwater citizens recently voted down the proposition to increase the school tax rate from 50c to $1.00 on the one hundred dollars. This additional tax is necessary to carry on the schools properly. Tahoka citizens recently showed their progressiveness by increasing the school tax.

The News was among many papers over Texas that predicted that Joems Ferguson would be at the tail end of the ticket when the votes were counted. The result shows how badly a bunch of us were fooled, and those who think Earle B. Mayfield will have a walk over in the run-off primary, August 26 are also going to be badly fooled. If Mayfield gets the nomination in the August primary his friends are going to have to get busy. Not in the way of changing anyone's vote, but in getting those who will support Mayfield to take enough interest to come to the polls and vote on election day. Many people have the idea that because the candidates for whom they voted are out of the running, that they have no further duty to perform. The News appeals to the women and men voters of Lynn county to make a united effort to uphold the dignity of the state by voting right in the primary election August 26.

Lynn County Singing Convention—Tahoka, Sunday, August 27th.

Tahoka, like many other progressive western towns, is badly in need of more rent houses. There have been many new houses erected in Tahoka within the past several months, but few rent houses to speak of. The public schools commence next month and there will be many families move here for the purpose of sending their children to school. This they cannot do very well without a house to move into. Lets arrange some way to erect more rent houses. If the town grows and prospers it is imperative that we have them.

A good soaking rain within the next two weeks would insure bumper crops all over Lynn county, whereas only portions have received moisture of any consequence.

The grass, weeds, flowers and gardens over town are looking rather "sick" for want of real rain in spite of the liberal applications of wind-mill and city water.

We notice nearby towns on the main line of the Santa Fe are securing wild animal road shows. Tahoka is fortunate in this case in being located on a branch line of railroad where these money grafters seldom pay a visit. They take many dollars out of the country that never come back. Those who just have to see the circus can very easily travel to a nearby town.

Every community has a liar, a smart alec, a weather prophet, a girl who giggles, a woman who tattles, a man who knows it all, more loafers than it needs, a boy who cuts up in church, too many meddlesome old women, a few who know how to run the affairs of the country, a grown young man who laughs every time he says anything. A man who has taken the local paper for years and thinks the editor can live on wind, so saith an exchange.

The News is in receipt of the Hale Center American, published at Hale Center. The Hale Center Record suspended publication several months ago. Long live the American and we welcome it on our exchange table.

HER AILMENTS ALL GONE NOW

Mrs. Sherman Helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Lake, Michigan.—"About one year ago I suffered with irregularities and a weakness and at times was obliged to stay off my feet. I doctored with our family physician and he finally said he could not understand my case, so I decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. After I had taken the first bottle I could see that I was getting better. I took several bottles of the Vegetable Compound and used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash and I am entirely cured of my ailments. You may publish this letter if you wish."—Mrs. MARY SHERMAN, Route 2, Lake, Mich.

There is one fact women should consider and that is this. Women suffer from irregularities and various forms of weakness. They try this and that doctor, as well as different medicines. Finally they take Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound, and Mrs. Sherman's experience is simply another case showing the merit of this well-known medicine.

If your family physician fails to help you and the same old troubles persist, why isn't it reasonable to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?

Mitchell Eye Salve For SORE EYES A TRUE RAT STORY

Auburntown, Tenn., June 22, 1922. Stearns Electric Paste Co., Chicago, Ill. Dears Sirs: Mr. Robert T. Donnell of Auburntown, Tenn., came in our store the other day and wanted something to kill rats, so I sold him a box Stearns' Rat Paste. And he put some paste on six biscuits that night and the next morning he found fifty-four big rats. And the second night he put out four more biscuits with paste on them, and the second morning he found seventeen more rats, making a total of seventy-one rats in two nights, and there were lots more that he did not find. This is some big rat tale, but nevertheless, it is so. Just thought I would write to let you know that your rat paste is good. Respectfully yours, KENNEDY BROTHERS.

"Did you find out what it was all about?" "No, I didn't, but I got so interested I don't believe I could tell you, to save my life, how any woman present was dressed."—Birmingham Age Herald. Paradoxical. "Who is that little man?" "One of the biggest merchants in the town."

Something to Think About

By F. A. WALKER

ARE YOU WORTHY?

A COMMON and frequent complaint nowadays among self-esteeming young men and women is that they are not making satisfactory progress. With more or less petulance they declare that their incomes are not sufficient to keep them in the style in which they want to live. Instead of being compelled to depend on popular shops for their clothes, they yearn to be in position to patronize high-priced tailors and dressmakers, and thus in their false estimation keep step with the rich by making repeated shows of fine feathers.

The plebian atmosphere in which these hapless mortals are surrounded is most displeasing. Any real effort to improve their mental qualifications is apart from the question, and contrary to their inmost wishes. Though apostles of laxity, devotees of empty pleasures and devout disciples at the shrine of prodigality, these disgruntled young men and women openly blame the world for their imagined plight, often condemning their employers for holding them down, when as a matter of fact their employers have nothing whatever to do with it.

The man or woman who is really desirous of rising to the surface where he or she can swim with head above water must pull a hard, continuous stroke, quite regardless of what others are doing. It is the only way to keep at the top and keep moving ahead. Drifting is perilous to everybody who indulges in it, certain in the end to lead to disaster by wrecking the fondest hopes and highest aspirations. In spite of our vaunted pride of progress, drifting is becoming a national habit, particularly among the puny-minded who bend their knee to the god of gold rather than to the god of wisdom. Every good thing in life is measured by such persons with the tape bearing the dollar mark and its decimal.

Uncommon Sense BY JOHN BLAKE

BE A GOOD LOSER

IF WE all liked to lose, this would be a shiftless and an ambitionless life. It is natural to want to win in any competition, business or athletic. Any self-respecting man would like to feel that he can outstrip the other fellow in any race he enters. He feels chagrined when he loses. But if he amounts to anything he does not show it. To whine, to lose your temper, to invent excuses, to show jealousy if you lose, is poor sportsmanship and poor judgment. You may feel badly because you have lost, and you ought to, but remember that you, and no one else, are responsible. For if the competition was one in which you had no chance of winning you shouldn't have entered it. If you did have a chance, it was your fault that you did not improve it. Be a good loser, therefore, and generous to your opponent. But don't lose too often. Don't be so little concerned about losing that you never try to win. Don't feel that it makes no difference how the race goes. When it is over have a quiet little conversation with yourself, and give general instructions not to let the same thing happen again. There is such a thing as being so good a loser that you like to lose. And there are no competitions run off in this world which you can afford to enter merely for the pleasure of letting some other man win. You are perfectly justified in feeling bad when you have lost. You are justified in taking yourself into a corner for a lecture on the folly of losing. The continual loser will in the end have to part with his self-respect and his courage, and become a mere lumberer of the earth. Try to win as hard as you can. If you lose next time make up your mind that you will win the next. Determine that you will win oftener than you lose and that you will win as nearly 100 per cent as possible. Then when you do lose, you can bear it with a better grace, for you will know that such a thing is not going to happen very frequently. (Copyright by John Blake.)

Mother's Cook Book

This world's need is men and women great enough to be small enough to be used. REFRESHMENTS DURING the mid-summer sultry days a cool drink, ice, or frozen cream is always acceptable. Date Sandwich Cookies. Take one package of dates, stone and chop; mix with one cupful of orange marmalade, one cupful of chopped nuts. Prepare a white cookie mixture, roll out very thin, place a spoonful of the mixture in the center and cover with another cookie; sprinkle with sugar and bake in a moderate oven. These cookies may be cut in fancy shapes, baked and then be put together with the filling, if one so desires. Green Peas Francaise. Wash the peas before shelling, then shell the peas and put the pods on to cook for fifteen minutes or longer in enough cold water to just keep from scorching. Use this water, hot, to put the freshly shelled peas on to cook, add two green onions, a sprig of parsley, and a head of lettuce well washed and dry; there should be added two tablespoonfuls of butter and cover the kettle closely. Cook slowly one hour. This is a delicious dish which will be often served. Pineapple Nectar. To one pint of pineapple juice add one-half cupful of orange juice, four tablespoonfuls of lemon juice, sugar to taste and a slice of orange and a cherry for each glass. Combine the juices, add the sugar and stir until dissolved. Fill the glasses with finely chipped ice, pour over the fruit juice and top with a slice of orange into which a cherry has been pressed. Lemon Cake. Take three-fourths of a cupful of butter, cream it, adding two cupfuls of sugar gradually. Beat the whites of seven eggs and add to the creamed butter and sugar a spoonful of milk. Beat well, add three cupfuls of sifted flour, four tablespoonfuls of baking powder, the grated peel of one lemon alternately with one cupful of milk. Fold in the whites at the last. Bake in three layer pans. Nellie Maxwell (©, 1922, by Western Newspaper Union.)

KIDDIES SIX

By Will M. Maupin

AFTERWHILE WE ARE going to "cut the mustard." Afterwhile, Likewise he "all to the custard." Afterwhile. But today we're in poor fettle. So we'll let our feelings settle; But we're going to show our mettle Afterwhile. We will wipe out all injustice Afterwhile. We'll do lots of big things—trust us— Afterwhile. But today is full of pleasure And its golden hours we'll treasure; But we'll start on some great measure Afterwhile. It's the greatest country ever— Afterwhile. And to reach it's our endeavor. Afterwhile. But today we'll spend in dreaming, Wasting hours of rodden gleaming; And await a glad dawn's beaming Afterwhile. (Copyright by Will M. Maupin.)

WHY? DOES SALT MAKE US THIRSTY

ANYONE who has suffered from nose-bleed or who has tasted human blood knows that it contains a considerable proportion of salt—approximately the same amount as is present in sea water. This is only natural, because salt is one of the essentials of the body and is carried through it by means of the veins and arteries which feed the different parts of this intricate mechanism. When an unusual amount of salt is taken into the stomach, it reacts in two ways. In the first place, the blood, being already supplied with all the salt that it cares to handle, declines to take on any more and the saline solution remains in the stomach—"uncalled for," as it were. Then, too, salt rapidly absorbs water and its presence in the stomach causes that organ to send out a hurry call for some means of flushing out the excess which cannot be utilized by the body. The sensation of being "thirsty" is therefore, merely the manifestation that the stomach needs something with which to dilute the unusual amount of salt—just as when we feel thirsty from other causes it is a sign that the body needs some kind of a liquid to assist it in its usual functions. What Is It Worth to Change a Tire?

On the road changing a tire is not an especially pleasant task. The dust or mud, the grease and grime, the tedious delay—all are things we like to avoid. But the time to think about these things is when you buy the tire—not after the blow-out occurs. For some tires blow out much more easily than others. Outward appearance counts for little. It is the material in the tire and the construction of it that determines its strength. Goodyear recognizes these facts and all Goodyear Tires are made of long staple cotton. Take the 30 x 3 1/2 Cross Rib Clincher Tire here illustrated, for example. It is made of Egyptian and Arizona cotton, the fibres of which average 1 1/2 inches long. Many 30 x 3 1/2 clincher tires are made of short staple cotton from 1/2 inch to 1 1/4 inches long. This means less strength and greater danger of blow-outs—more tire troubles. Yet this high grade guaranteed Goodyear Tire costs only $10.95. You can buy some tires for even less than this but none with the fine materials and construction of this one. Can you afford to take a chance on more frequent tire troubles for the sake of the slightly lower price of cheaper tires?

In Generous Mood. First Workingman—What sort of a job have you got now? Second Workingman—Oh, I collect alms on the Putreux bridge between midnight and 1 o'clock in the morning. First Workingman—Are the people particularly generous there at that hour? Second Workingman—Yes. They generally give me everything they have on them.—Paris Le Balonnette. Art is the power of man's soul working outward. The Dress is the Thing. A writer in the Dallas News said that people will soon have to agree with him on the subject of dress. "The dress is the thing," he asserts, "either it be undress, full dress, or dress." Taking life too seriously is a belief that others shouldn't be allowed to guide their own souls. A young man can feel as vain because he has a good brain as he would if he had created it.

Strong Rear Axle Gears of the New Superior

One of the many reasons why the New Superior Chevrolet is outselling all other makes of standard automobiles is the high-grade equipment it offers in a low-priced car. A leading feature of this equipment is the spiral bevel rear axle gears. They represent the best modern automobile engineering practice. The gears are so designed that two teeth of the pinion gear are always engaged with the ring gear, greatly increasing the strength of the set, and eliminating the noise common to the old type of straight tooth gear. The New Superior Model Chevrolet has so many superior features that we invite comparisons, because comparisons sell Chevrolets. Ask any dealer to tell you why.

LUBBOCK PLUMBER LANDS TAHOKA SCHOOL JOB

E. L. Law, local plumber and wind-miller, went to Tahoka Wednesday to figure with the school board of that city to do the plumbing work on the new school building at that place.

Needless to say, E. L. was successful in landing the job, as he went after it with the same enthusiasm with which he devours the menu at the weekly Kiwanis luncheon, in which he is one of the most willing attendants each week, and the contract called for seventeen hundred and eighty-five dollars is a pretty good one to land at this time.

We assure the school trustees of Tahoka that they have secured the services of a real mechanic in hiring Mr. Law to do that work, and are proud to know that Lubbock will be represented by such able workman in making the Tahoka school a good one insofar as conveniences are concerned.—Lubbock Avalanche.

FLOYD COUNTY YOUTH GIVEN LIFE SENTENCE

Fort Worth, Texas, August 11.—Houston Upton, 17 years old, was given a life sentence by a jury at Clarendon this morning for killing his school room sweetheart, Gladys Solomon, as she slept in her bed at the Solomon ranch home in Floyd county. The killing occurred February 27. The case was transferred to Clarendon on a change of venue.

At the time of the tragedy, three girls were sleeping in the same bed. Young Upton, who is the son of a wealthy ranchman of Floyd county, had accompanied them home from church. After they were asleep, someone crept into the room and shot and killed two of the girls. The third escaped as the intruder fled. A short time later Upton was found in a school house badly wounded and for a time it was thought he would die also. He has not been arraigned on the second murder charge. The plea of the youth was insanity. The jury was out fourteen hours.
