Population Trends

For some time the United States has been slowing down in its increase of population. Experts who work with figures and graphs in this field now predict that after a peak to be reached about 1975, with a population of about 160,000,000, the country will remain stationary in population or will show a slight decline.

The stabilizing of population in the United States results partly from the drastic curtailment of immigration and partly from an almost steadily declining birth rate. The effect of these factors would have been noticeable earlier except that temporarily they have been offset, to some degree, by increased longevity.

This national population trend does not yet give any cause for alarm, however. By remaining less crowded than many other countries, the United States can maintain a higher standard of living; and no additional man power will be needed for defense.

More important, perhaps, are some of the present regional population trends. The South with only 17 percent of the country's farm land—and not all of it the most fertile of the farm land, at that—has had until recently about 40 percent of the farm population.

NEW YORK—I can remember being mildly surprised at the storm of protest raised by the fans when word was given out that Norma Shearer had been selected to play Scarlett O'Hara.

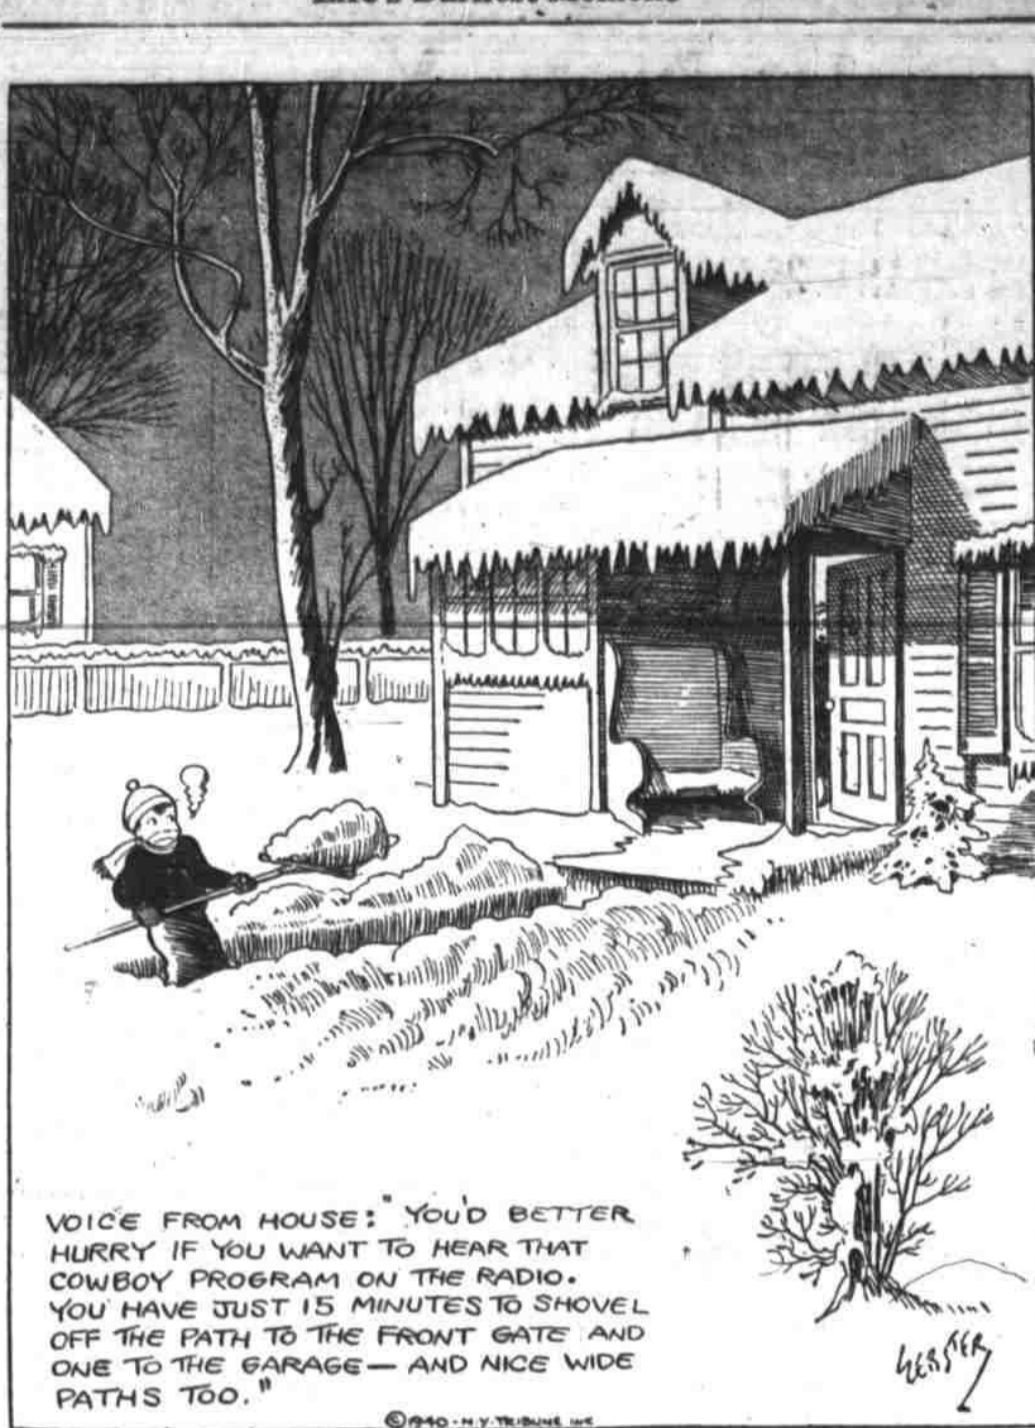

I got a flattering sack of "fan" mail after writing that, in the final analysis, the identity of the actress who was to play Scarlett would be of no consequence, and most of the letters began with "You Dope," "You Ignoramus," or "You Cheap Blighter."

Which was natural, of course, because you either like Mr. Roosevelt or you dislike him, and in this county of extremists, political, religious, or cinematic, one has one's ideals and one sticks by them.

I think the picture is heart-breakingly beautiful. I will say frankly that I went in with a chip on my shoulder, because Hollywood takes strange liberties with its material sometimes, and I did not see how it could justify the promise of "Gone With the Wind."

I have not brought out many points to the movies in the past, because in my opinion they haven't done many things to deserve praise. But in this instance I take off my hat. There was an occasion—and Hollywood owes me to it.

Chapter 22 SUE'S TEMPER "Well, don't let's think of Cecily tonight, dear. We're having such a lovely evening."

"You may be!" Bob's emphasis on the pronoun definitely accused her of lack of sympathy with him. "I can't go to the confounded state of affairs out of my mind. Sue, why do we stay on here anyway? Let's sell the house and go East. They've been wanting me at the home office, you know. Let's shake the dust of this place off our shoes and go find us another house some where on Long Island."

"Sue's heart gave a leap at this. Never to see Cecily again, never to hear that silvery voice! But a moment's thought—always—caused her to veto the move gently.

"You know as well as I do, Bob darling, she'd follow us. Her people are there, she's told everyone that she's going East when she gets tired of St. Joseph. Any day now she'll grow bored with us, she's bound to be! You know that."

"Yes, Bob knew that, and after a certain amount of exasperated argument he always agreed with Sue. But not before he had done his best to hurt her, she thought! Oh, not before he had unerringly said those things which set her heart beating with actual pain.

"If you loved me the way I love you a hundred Cecily's wouldn't bother me. I'd laugh in their faces! It's knowing that down in your heart you despise me for deceiving you."

"Bob, I don't despise you. Don't be silly!" "Well, you don't love me! Or, if you do, you're not in love with me, Sue—you never have been. You're fond of me, I'd laugh in their faces! It's knowing that down in your heart you despise me for deceiving you."

"I ought to be taken out and shot. You love me a thousand times more than I deserve. It's only—only that sometimes I feel that I don't really have you at all. Sue; that it's only your body, your affection I hold in my arms; that the real you is off somewhere I can't follow. It drives me mad—that feeling! He would have crushed close to him now, holding her so tightly she could scarcely breathe.

"Usually she poured out words of loving reassurance; but one sultry night in August when he had been more than ordinarily irritable, she said: "Do you think you're taking the best way to find the real me, as you call it? I know this summer has been a trying time for you, Bob, but I've been difficult for me, too. I've done my best to make things easy for you. I've gone out with you when I'd a million times rather have stayed at home, and I've cancelled engagements at the last minute when it meant embarrassing apologies and explanations which didn't explain. After all, why should I have to be the one to soothe, and be tactful, and suit my life to yours? I'm not responsible for Cecily's being here!"

"She kept that promise, consoling herself that Bob's faults were all surface ones, masculine ones which a woman who loved him—which the woman who loved him, she corrected herself—found it easy to forgive.

"As for Bob, he was still teased by the belief that there were depths and heights in Sue which he had never glimpsed. Despite her tenderness, her real concern for him, he believed her still to be an emotionally unawakened girl. What haunted him was the idea, growing stronger and stronger as the summer neared its close, was that the day might come when Sue would meet the man who held the key to her locked heart.

He knew she was faithful to him with every breath she drew; he even believed that if such a man should come Sue would resist him with every fibre of her being; but more than anything in the world he longed to be that man himself; to enter into the splendor and the glory of knowing his wife's passionate and entire devotion!

Washington Daybook

WASHINGTON—Washington chroniclers would give a mint for the compact card-index record that Leslie Biffie keeps of those dramatic little moments of Senate history which never see daylight.

Few senators know that he keeps it. Only one, to our knowledge, ever saw any part of it. He was the late Senator Joe Robinson of Arkansas. Biffie was one of his closest confidantes.

Biffie is secretary to the Democratic majority in the Senate. He has been secretary and assistant secretary for 15 years. You can imagine the nature of some of the things that come his way—stories of the pressure put on a wayward senator to get him to vote right; the painful, or pleasurable, little political deals that go on.

Like a senatorial Samuel Peppy, Biffie puts them all into his card index file in complete detail—for some future use he has not yet decided upon.

Magazines have offered him handsome sums for access to the material. Biffie rarely hears his first name—refuses. We managed to pry out of him one example of what it contained in the diary—provided no names were used.

On a certain day the Senate took a three hour afternoon recess. It was near dinner time. Most of the senators went out to eat. One went for a drink or two and in an hour was well on edge. He bought a paper and from its columns read a story that enraged him.

"Where is the _____ who wrote that?" he stormed. Back in the cloak room he came upon Biffie. "I'll get that man," he told Biffie.

Later, when the Senate resumed session, the senator again came upon Biffie. To Biffie's amazement he exhibited two pistols, one on each hip. He was determined to violate the freedom of the press in a big way.

Biffie promised to find the reporter and did. He didn't tell him all the gruesome details but emphasized what a nasty scene might break out in public. Biffie is a diplomat, and the newsman trust him, so the reporter obligingly holed up for the night. By morning all had blown over. Biffie says the senator isn't in office now.

Leslie Biffie is a slenderish, quietly-disposed fellow who has been working for the Senate in one capacity or another ever since he left high school in 1913. He began as clerk to the late Senator James P. Clarke of Arkansas. For a time he was superintendent of the folding room, where senatorial package mailing is put together. From there, in 1924, he went to the Senate floor as assistant secretary to what then was the Democratic minority.

Biffie is painstaking and methodical about compiling his quaint record. He doesn't make a daily account. He jots down a brief note, then, at night, types a summary on a stiff card. He keeps two copies, one at the Capitol and one at home—just in case.

As majority secretary he helps the majority leader round up votes on important legislation. There are many other duties as well. Of necessity, he is taken into the confidences of dozens of senators.

That is a major reason why Biffie keeps his diary so secret. Once, he showed a few cards to Senator Robinson. Robinson roared with glee at some of the entries.

Biffie says some day—a long time from now—he may try to do something with the stuff. If he cut loose at this time the senatorial peace would be shattered for a generation.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

HOLLYWOOD—Some learned medical man (if he had time for such foolery) should be able to write us an interesting tome about the effects of health on the success of movie stars.

We've heard the one about Frances Langford, who had her tonsils yanked—and turned up some time later with a deeper voice that lent itself to blues and swing, thus paving her path to vocal fame.

Now comes Margaret Sullivan, with a tale about laryngitis and its wonders. A sore throat has never been a foe I'd seek, but Maggie, now, she's different. She was going to read a scrip for the Schuberts and she had a cold. It was too much a good thing for a beginner to skip, so she read.

"That's an Ethel Barrymore voice," she was told. "Miss Sullivan, you're engaged!"

But...before the play opened Maggie lost her cool. Maybe because beginners in the theatre haven't good sense, Maggie decided she needed a cold again. I quote Maggie's press agent here, a gentleman who crossed his heart and hoped to die if he were a gay deceiver: "So the girl deliberately went out into fog and rain and succeeded in having laryngitis again—and her voice has remained the same ever since."

Still groggy from this one, I encountered a bright young medical chap (who is doing things far more important than studying the movies for toner-writing purposes) who seemed to divine my subconscious confusion. Unprompted, he launched upon a casual dissertation, over dinner, on that very theme—medicine and the movies.

"I wonder," he began, "how far Eddie Cantor would have gone had he not been an exophthalmus?" "Hub?" I blinked.

"And Joe E. Brown," he continued unflinchingly. "But for his macostomias, I wonder... The same, of course, would apply to Martha Raye."

I gaped, kept discreetly silent.

"Robert Donat," said the medical man, "is a superb actor. I know, from a friend of mine, that he suffers from asthma, or at one time did suffer. It is a nice subject for speculation—whether his effective dyspnea when making screen love is due to simulated emotion or merely to asthma..."

This time my friend was called out to determine whether a sick child had mumps or merely a sore throat. There was a dictionary handy. I learned, with rather a let-down feeling because the medical terms sounded so grandly exciting, that he had been referring merely to Cantor's pop-eyes, to the big mouths of Brown and Miss Raye. Dyspnea (in case you, too, wondered) is merely panting or shortness of breath.

Until he returned I ruminated upon the happy stroke of fortune—a millionaire's worth—that caused an abnormal growth on the vocal cords of one Harry Lillis Crosby, who without it might have been just like anybody else, but with it had developed into Bing the foremost bub-bub-bub-boy of the airways and screen.

My friend came back. It wasn't mumps.

URUGUAY KEEPS A CLOSE WATCH OVER INTERNED SHIP

MONTEVIDEO, Jan. 2 (AP)—With Uruguay's miniature navy on guard against any break for freedom by the interned German freighter Tacoma, Uruguayan officials today planned her "ultimate destination"—conceivably beaching of the 8,268-ton vessel.

Captain Hans Know submitted yesterday to internment of his ship as a condition of a Uruguayan ultimatum which had confronted the Tacoma with a choice of taking to sea in the face of British warships or becoming a prisoner for duration of the European war.

Foreign Minister Alfredo Guani said the Tacoma would be moved from her anchorage just inside the Montevideo breakwater to a dock within the next two days, pending a decision on what he characterized as her "ultimate destination." He did not elaborate on this point.

Without any show of resistance such as the self-destruction of the German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee on Dec. 17, the Tacoma was interned yesterday morning on the grounds that she acted as an auxiliary for the Graf Spee during an "act of war."

The Sports Parade

BY HANK HART

Having earned a football letter as a first season footballer, Big Spring's H. C. Burrus has set out to gain a basketball numeral at Hardin-Simmons, Abilene, passed up most of the Christmas holidays to practice with the Cowboys.

Apparently Frank Kimbrough, Waddie mentor, thinks of his ability. H. C. started the game against Arizona at night, ringing up two field goals as the Cowhands were cisioned, 40-31.

The two teams, incidentally, play again tonight. H. C. being counted on to develop into one of Hardin-Simmons' all-time greats as a footballer. He has two more of David crew so they must be plenty good. Burrus says the fens are plain poison when given scoring chances from the free toss line.

Ollie Cordill, the Big Spring grid star who scored a touchdown in the West's 28-11 victory over the East in the Shrine benefit game at San Francisco Monday, is still undecided about playing pro football next year but will probably desert the game to assume a position in Orange, where he worked last summer.

Ollie has expressed a desire to go into the play-for-pay ranks for at least one season but he has said the proffered terms would have to be mighty attractive.

If Cordill plays, he must sign with the Cleveland Rams, who landed him in the National League's draft last month.

Cleveland didn't do so badly last season, finishing in the upper division of the western sector's standings of the league.

Cordill should fit in well with the Rams' offensive scheme with Parker Hall, the former Ole Miss star, as a running mate.

Whichce, posting a time of 1:37 2-5, paid $13.20, $4.20 and $3.20 across the board. Kayak returned $3.20 and $2.60 and Heavily $4.

Timmons Ace In Clemson Triumph

Tigers Stave Off A Late Threat To Cop, 6 To 3

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF DALLAS, Jan. 2 (AP)—Clemson's Country Gentlemen rolled back to South Carolina today with the Cotton Bowl trophy in their possession and with prospects of another All-American during the next two years to replace the great Banks McFadden.

They beat Boston College's bruising Eagles 6-3 in a nerve-wracking game of long runs and sensational passes before 20,000 here yesterday with McFadden being forced to share the honors with a sophomore of pile-driving proclivities.

Charley Timmons, who beat out a senior for a place in the starting Clemson backfield, led the offense of Clemson's fighting Tigers. Timmons carried the ball 27 times for a gain of 127 yards and it was his slightly plunging that gave the gentlemen their touchdown in the second period.

McFadden stood out, however, as the mainspring of the team, his great punting, generalship, running and defense telling the experts the six-foot-three 180-pound young man was not overrated.

Chunkin' Charley O'Rourke gave Clemson heart-failure more than once with his sensational punting and it was O'Rourke's sizzling return of a punt down to Clemson's 15-yard line that paved the way for a field goal from the toe of Alex Lukachik, a substitute end. Lukachik kicked it on the 25-yard line.

But Clemson came storming back, McFadden weeding his way to the Cleon 43 on a punt return, working with Timmons to drive to the Boston College 30 and pitching a pass to Jackson on the 20.

Timmons in three of his battering plunges went over for the touchdown. Shad Bryant, another offensive star, missed the goal.

It was Bryant who batted down one pass labeled "touchdown" and McFadden who took care of the other as Boston College made it's final bids for a score in the last minutes of play. McFadden then zoomed a punt to the Clemson 48 and then Boston College came surging back as he turned to bat down O'Rourke's pass over the goal line to end the Eagles' threat.

It was the last Cotton Bowl game to be promoted individually by J. Curtis Sanford, young Dallas oil man who started the classic in 1936. He is stepping aside next season and handing the bowl to a group of Dallas business men who are seeking an agreement with Southwest conference schools to place their champion in the game each year.

CORDILL SCORES TOUCHDOWN AS WEST WHIPS EAST, 28-11

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 2 (AP)—A 28 to 11 west victory over the east went into the books today, and the boys who played in the 15th annual Shrine charity football contest were still digging the mud out of their ears.

A downpour, starting midway in the second period, turned the Kezar stadium gridiron into a sea of mud.

The ninth western victory in the 15-year history of the classic was an amazing display of brilliant kicking and passing.

The teams, hand-picked from all sections of the country, each scored in the opening period. The west tallied when Bill Anahu, Santa Clara end, grabbed a 50-yard pass from halfback Kay Eakin of Arkansas and ran 25 yards to the goal line. Then the east evened the count with a touchdown by George Strunweis, North Carolina halfback, who took a short pass from Ed Boell, New York University quarterback, and eluded five westerners en route to scoring ground. Each team converted.

Catches Pass In the second period the west tallied twice. Herb McCarthy, Denver fullback, tossed a short one to Ollie Cordill, Rice Institute halfback, who skirted end for the second west score. Soon after, Leroy Zimmerman, smooth-passing halfback from San Jose (Calif.) State, passed three times for 36 yards to the east one-yard line, from where Frank Emmons, Oregon fullback, plunged over.

The east picked up two points on a safety in the third period when Francis Stulgaitis, Columbia end, pounced on the ball after Eakin's punt from behind his own goal was blocked. The easterners got two more in the next period. The west was backed to its one-yard line after a 15-yard clipping penalty, and Zimmerman grounded the ball in the end zone rather than risk a weak kick.

The west scored its fourth touchdown in the final period when Lee Arico, California tackle, grabbed a bad eastern pass from center which sailed over the head of Dick Casiano, Pittsburgh half, and plopped into the end zone.

Sports Roundup

NEW YORK, Jan. 2 (AP)—Greetings, ladies and gents, and what's been going on around here?...Lou Nova, who went to Arizona to shake off a cold, now is in a coast hospital with a kidney ailment....The bowl aireraets were way over par with old red Barber at New Arico, setting a wicker pace for the other apiclers....Any minute we thought this big guy Kimbrough was going to charge through and trample the spectators in the end zone seats. What a football player!

Today's guest star: Bob Stedler, Buffalo Evening News: "Cincinnati is quite apt to have trouble signing the next hall player... Frank McCormick's contract was No. 12.... The next to affix his signature will be No. 13 and we'll see how many try to avoid this jinx number."

Lou Gehrig is getting to be a regular at the hockey matches.... First thing those Colorado basketball players wanted to do when they hit town was to go to one of those whirley, girley burlesque shows.... Lew Jenkins, the Texas lightweight, and his tonsils have parted company.

Another first ton: Still the open season for "first tons," it seems.... Fight maestro Mike Jacobs has joined in the fun.... Based entirely on box office values, Mike gives you these first tenners, with the amount each drew from him last year: Joe Louis, $850,000; Tony Galento, $385,000; Bob Pastor, $348,000; Billy Conn, $285,000; Henry Armstrong, $185,000; Lou Ambers, $155,000; Lou Nova, $151,000; Max Baletina, $137,000; Al Davis, $118,000; Fred Apostoli, $110,000.

Those smart pro coaches drafted nine guys off the Oklahoma City squad, and if any school can beat that we're willing to learn.... Anybody know which girl basketball team has the longest winning streak? The Baltimore (N.C.) High pretties have 52 in a row.

Today's true story: Those football-mad Texans can't be bothered with the game outside their own red-hot South-west conference.... So, when the Clemson (S.C.) Tigers were invited to the Cotton Bowl, you must excuse the chairman of the welcoming committee for starting to wire them at "Crimson, N. C."

ONE USES 'CHUTE, OTHER STAYS WITH PLANE; BOTH SAFE

NEW ALEXANDRIA, Pa., Jan. 2 (AP)—An army pilot skidded a small monoplane to an upside down landing in a snow-covered field near here early today after a fellow officer had "bailed out" of the ship.

Lieut. Dwight B. Johnson, 22, Chicago, leaped with a parachute after the plane's gasoline supply ran out shortly after midnight.

Lieut. Stanley Stewart, Kalamazoo, Mich., who had intended to jump changed his mind, brought the plane down belly-up in the dark. Both men escaped injury.

CARLOADINGS UP NEW YORK, Jan. 2 (AP)—Freight carloadings for the first 1940 quarter are expected to show a gain of about 12 1-10 per cent above actual loadings in the like period of last year according to estimates made public today by the 13 shippers advisory boards.

GRIDDERS HAVE HIGH REGARD FOR 'JAWN'

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 2 (AP)—Tulane University's football players think John Kimbrough, the fullback who led the Texas Aggies to a 14-13 triumph in the Sugar Bowl game, is a badly underrated all-American.

"Kimbrough," said Ralph Wenzel, Tulane's all-southeastern end, "is the most underrated all-American ever."

Bob (Jitterbug) Kellogg, Tulane's 165-pound halfback who almost led his team to victory told of his experiences tackling the Texas juggernaut and said Kimbrough remarked to him after one of them: "You're the cleanest little tackler I ever saw."

Kellogg added that he didn't reply because "any guy who tackles Kimbrough doesn't feel like talking for five or 10 minutes."

Sports writers and others almost unanimously labeled Kimbrough one of the great fullbacks of all-time.

Trojans Erase All Doubt As To Superiority

Ambrose Schindler Is Leading Factor In 14-0 Triumph

PASADENA, Calif., Jan. 2 (AP)—Football's Gibraltar was a mass of crumbled ruins today—the team that couldn't be beaten met up yesterday with the team that wouldn't be beaten.

Southern California was the toast of the Rose Bowl; Tennessee a new member of the losing team brigade and shorn of distinction that began accumulating back in the season of 1937.

The 14 to 0 score deciding the 25th Rose Bowl classic, witnessed by a jammed-in crowd of 82,000, was the most conclusive since Pittsburgh won from Washington here in 1937, 21 to 0.

Tennessee stacked one of the nation's greatest gridiron reputations in the game. Deftly called a halt to a consecutive victory record of 23 hooked together through two full seasons and part of a third. Until the Southern California Trojan power machine rolled to a touchdown in the second period, Tennessee's goal line had not been crossed in 15 encounters—10 last year and five in 1938.

The best backfield man in the Tennessee string played parts of the game handicapped by a knee injury. Whether or not a George "Bad News" Callege in top physical condition would have staved off the Trojan yard-gaining landslide was a matter of debate among grandstand master-minds.

Score In Second From start to finish Southern California left little doubt as to which side was superior. It out-downed and outgained Tennessee on the ground and when checked there took to the air.

Ambrose Schindler sparked the two scoring drives, late in the second quarter and again toward the tail end of the fourth.

The first touchdown march opened on the Tennessee 47-yard line. Schindler had returned a punt 90 yards to set the stage. He carried the ball in five of the six plays and tossed an 11-yard pass to a teammate in one of the other two gainers. Lou Ambers, went over from the one-foot line.

The last-period touchdown gave the assembled thousands a true picture of Trojan power. The team passed and smashed 85 yards after recovering a Tennessee fumble. Fred Newman, Volunteer's fullback, had dropped the ball and U. S. C.'s sub halfback Joe Engle had snaked it into his own arms as his 15.

Schindler was in the role of field marshal. He directed an attack that brought ready praise from his coach. Headman Jones is not renowned for lavishness in this respect.

Twice in the thrust, line battling or skirting failed, Schindler turned to the air. The second score. The ball was on the one-yard line. Tennessee players tightened for another plunge. Schindler passed over the goal line to his left to Al Krueger, sub left end. The Volunteers were caught flat-footed.

When Tennessee's Newman fumbled it ended the only scoring bid of the team from the old south—the only time it had been able to advance the oval past mid-field.

ORANGE BOWL VICTOR RANKS WITH BEST

Coach Bill Alexander ranked his 1940 Orange Bowl victors today with the great teams in Georgia Tech football history after watching the Engineers bewilder Missouri, 21 to 7.

"This Tech team hasn't as much power as our 1938 Rose Bowl squad, but it can do more things with the ball," the grizzled coach grinned.

Missouri never had a chance after the Tech magicians warmed up yesterday.

A crowd of 30,500 saw the Engineers, far from discouraged by an early Missouri touchdown fashioned by Paul Christman's passing arm, sweep straight back after the kickoff to tie the score and then add two more touchdowns on lightning plays.

Norton Considers A Plan To Meet USC In Los Angeles

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 2 (AP)—Rulers of college football after its bold Sugar Bowl triumph over Tulane, mighty Texas A. and M. today pondered the thought of playing Southern California, Rose Bowl kings, in a post-season game for the Finnish relief fund.

Over a banquet table celebration of the 14-13 defeat of Tulane's Green Wave, Coach Homer Norton, a mild man threatened only a season ago with dismissal in the middle of a disappointing year, shook off the back slaps, admitted he had heard talk of a post-season game with the Rose Bowl winners and commented: "what do we think of it? Well, we love to play football!"

Officials of A. and M., members of the athletic council and others were sounded out and all concurred in the belief that such a game was a rather remote possibility, but indicated that it would be considered.

Reports in this football mad city were that the game would be played in Los Angeles "about Jan. 15," with an expected million dollar gate to go to Finland for relief purposes.

To Norton, however, the most important thing was a meeting with the athletic council of Texas A. and M., scheduled in a few days. Then the man who was destined for the junk heap only a few months back is expected to demand a five-year contract with certain changes in the athletic setup.

It's no secret that Norton, riding a boom year, has been approached by several major colleges, including Stanford University.

Yesterday the Aggies' great fullback, John Alec Kimbrough, 210-pound all-American performer, stormed the Sugar Bowl with a classic running exhibition before 75,000 fans—largest sports crowd in the history of the southland—to crush a great Tulane team that couldn't hold the Haskell, Tex., hurricane.

Twice he scored and all afternoon he thundered up and down field in 60 minutes of the greatest one-man show ever staged in this part of the country. On 26 carries he crunched through for 183 yards, or a 6.7 yard average.

Deep in the fourth period, after Tulane had hurried across two rapid touchdowns that put the Aggies behind, 13-7, Kimbrough got his tiring mates together and put across the winning score on the seventh play of a dramatic, 70-yard drive.

Walemon (Cotton) Price, Aggie quarterback, booted both extra points, blocked in astounding fashion, shared in Kimbrough's running spree and passed the Tuleanians silly. On the honor roll also was little Herbie Smith, 160-pound end, who blocked the Tulane try for point that would have tied the game.

Defied once after reaching the one-foot line, the Aggies scored in the first period from the Tulane 32 on four plays.

Net until the third period did Tulane come out from under a thorough beating the Aggies were handing out. Kellogg took a quick kick on his own 25 and sprinted 75 yards down the sidelines for a touchdown behind marvelous blocking.

AN ANALYSIS OF THE WAR DEVELOPMENTS

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Prospects of peace, and the hazards of the fighting Finns, seem to hold America's chief interest in the Old World with the advent of the new year—which is quite natural, since these also are the paramount questions for Europe itself.

This interest will be spurred by the developments of the moment—today's report that Finnish ski patrols in the Salla sector are threatening to surround a Red division of 16,000 troops; Finnish President Kallio's appeal for active foreign assistance at the front; and the proclamation of King George of England, calling two million more youths to the colors, creating a potential army of 3,500,000.

Can peace come this year? It can, but observers having admitted this as a possibility, generally decline to prophesy. No man can foresee the events of the next twelve months, or the next two. The best anyone can do is record possibilities. Most observers incline to the belief that we have many dire days between us and peace.

One probably would be too optimistic to expect peace before Europe has felt the shock of heavy fighting and bloodshed, and the pinch of harsh privation. But those who are more conservative in their views when winter raises its barriers.

Already Germany is threatening a terrific air offensive against England, and it wouldn't be surprising if this were employed in an effort to smash the allied blockade, which has cut Germany's vital imports dangerously. Neutral observers say that unless the blockade is broken in one way or another, Germany's resources won't stand the strain. That would mean collapse, as in 1918.

However, it should be noted that Germany has reserve supplies. The real pressure won't be felt until hard fighting begins and rapidly exhausts those reserves.

Meantime how goes the fight with Finland? Well, the amazing Finns have pulled more rabbits out of the hat than any magician ever saw in his wildest dreams. However, it would be expecting too much to ask them to continue to do the hat trick indefinitely on their own slender resources, especially since the communists are sending 300,000 picked troops to try to turn the tide.

The Finns might stand the Reds off so long as winter fights vigorously for the defenders. The ultimate result, however, depends on how much outside help, both in materials and men, is rushed to the Finns.

Win or lose, the Finns have broken the mesmeric spell under which mysterious Moscow held most of the states of Europe. Russia is no longer so mysterious, and the vast army which sprang up overnight from dragon's teeth is less feared with each passing day.

A month ago Russia held the balance of power in Europe. Today it looks as though the whole set-up of nations is changing with the Finns' great stand.

Young Mothers! Do What Your Mother Did About COUGHING COLDS

3 Out of 5 Mothers Use This Home-Proved Treatment

You are right to worry when a cold strikes your family. You should take steps, at once, to relieve the misery and suffering. But you want to be sure that what you do is really helpful. You don't want to take needless risks. Now here is what most mothers do. They use Vicks VapoRub. Since 1895 Vicks and their doctors have studied ways to treat the distressing symptoms of colds. Today three out of five mothers are benefiting by this forty-four-year study of colds when they use VapoRub and let its amazing poultice-vapor action go to work. PROFIT BY THEIR EXPERIENCE. Do this. If it's a coughing cold, melt a spoonful of VapoRub in a pan of boiling water, and breathe in the soothing, medicated vapors. Then massage VapoRub on throat, chest, and back and go to bed.

DEGENERATE SOUGHT IN SLAYING OF GIRL

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 2 (AP)—Back-tracking through the affairs of comely Mary Vila, detective today sought a man motivated by jealousy or degeneracy or both as the stranger of the 23-year-old Argentinian.

They believed her slayer had perverted sexual tendencies; that he possessed some surgical skill, and that he possibly had been a close companion of the raven-tressed girl.

Police of nearby states were enlisted in the hunt for the perpetrator of the shocking crime—a person who entered Miss Vila's room before the Sunday dawn, beat and strangled her and then mutilated her body.

Detective Captain James Kelly, terming the case "the first of its kind in Philadelphia," said he and his aides were seeking a "Latin with a police record" who might fit in the category of "jealous author."

No Solution Seen In Oil Controversy

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 2 (AP)—The door to any compromise solution of the historic foreign oil expropriation controversy seemed firmly closed today by President Cardenas' new year message to the people of Mexico.

Observers declared the president's radio broadcast last night apparently meant only one thing: Cardenas was determined the $400,000,000 properties of the 17 American, British and Netherlands companies should be re-valued in the light of the 1935 seizure and then paid for the president does not contemplate any settlement that would return, or divide, control of the properties to the original owners.

In his speech from the national palace, Cardenas declared: "Now that the supreme court has approved the legality of the seizure, the presidential decree (of expropriation, March 18, 1938) is not under discussion nor any formula proposed by the companies requesting to intervene again in the administration of the industry. Once the evaluation has been completed, we shall proceed to payment of the properties in accordance with the law."

The trend of the president's message, in addition to the analysis of the petroleum situation, indicated that the chief executive desired to consolidate the revolutionary reforms his government has made in recent years rather than to undertake new reforms.

BOY STABBED, IS SAVED BY FRIEND

CLEVELAND, Jan. 2 (AP)—Samuel Rutter, 11, owes his life to a 17-year-old companion who carried him a mile through a blinding snowstorm to a hospital.

Blood spurted from the boy's neck after he was stabbed accidentally in a scuffle with playmates. Unable to find help, Leo Dawson placed the injured lad on the cushions of his bicycle and rode through drifted streets to the hospital. There doctors stopped the bleeding and said the boy would recover.

'39 A Record Year For U.S. Ship Building

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP)—The navy broke its peacetime records in warship building during 1939 and is preparing to step up the rate of riveting.

Officials listed today 30 cruisers, destroyers and submarines that were completed and put in commission during the last year, compared with 17 in 1938 and 24 the year before.

With 130 major fighting ships, auxiliaries and small "mosquito fleet" motor torpedo boats and submarine chasers already under construction or ordered, the high command has asked decided increases in the building estimates prepared for congress.

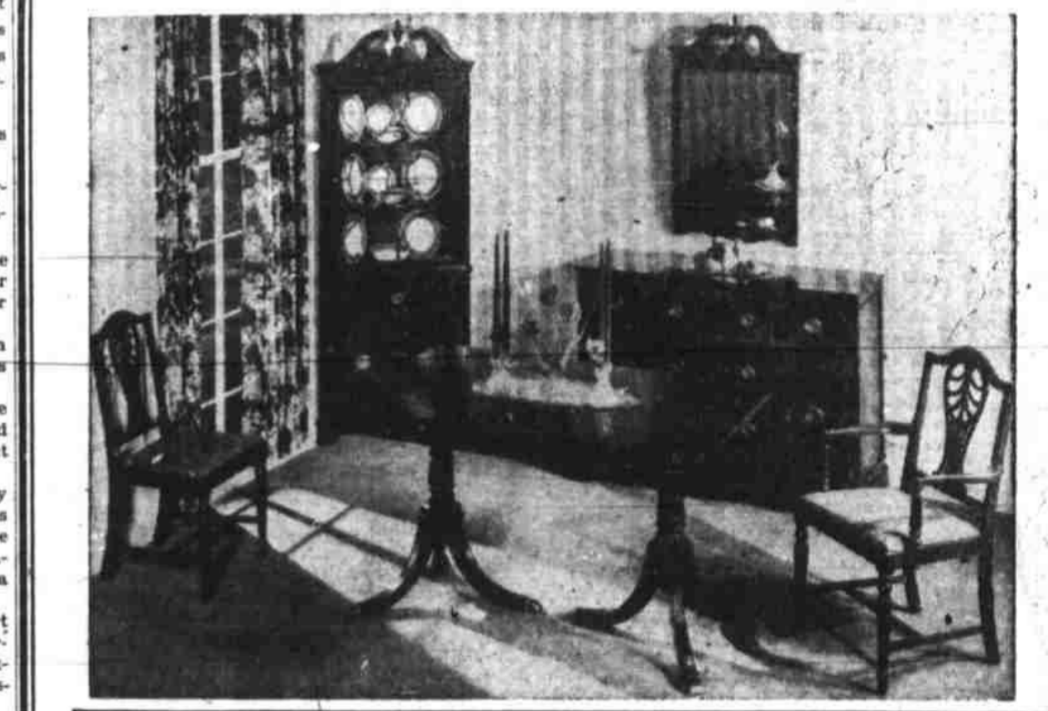

Well-informed administration quarters have heard that the navy's budget as approved by President Roosevelt includes a supplementary fund of some $160,000,000 largely to advance construction, aside from increased sums to carry on work already in progress.

Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) of the house naval committee has proposed authorization for 96 more warships, and others in congress have suggested that 65,000-ton battleships be undertaken. Without awaiting action on such proposals, the navy is going ahead with the two capital ships of 45,000 tons voted at the last session.

Government and commercial yards are jammed with maritime commission as well as pay ship-building. During 1939 navy yard employment increased gradually from 78,000 to nearly 100,000 men.

Regardless of the quickened pace, navy officials contend the fleet actually is falling behind temporarily in under-age tonnage because of the years during which there were no replacements of obsolescent craft.

It will not be until 1944 that the navy expects to reach its authorized strength.
