1970 Feed Grain Program Outlined

Sweet sorghum and sorghum-grass crosses have been reviewed at the National level and it was determined that the planting of sweet or forage sorghums on diverted acres will not be authorized in Texas for 1970 and subsequent crops.

This review was considered necessary because:

1. New varieties of forage sorghum and sorghum-grass crosses have been developed which, when grazed or harvested for hay, are competitive with corn and grain sorghum in a livestock feeding operation.
 2. Of the difficulty in distinguishing between grain sorghum and a sweet or forage sorghum.
 3. The grazing of heavy producing varieties has a direct bearing on the amount of grain being fed to livestock.
- It has also been announced that Tritical and DeKalb Winter-Graze will be considered a feed grain not covered Attending the Tahoka council meeting Monday night were the following residents of the city: Dick Tricketts, ranging in age up to 80. As far as we know Halloween is for boys and not grown boys. It is just a little ridiculous when youngsters come to town with real mustaches and bags large enough to hold a week's supply of groceries. We are not against Halloween trick-or-treaters but this is a real problem in as well as most of surrounding towns. If you see a youngster you might call the police department.

Bill Griffin, County Agent, Says.....

While November isn't considered a top month for gardening, there are many jobs which need attention and will help insure success next spring.

Here are November suggestions: Review the home landscape and determine plant needs. It may be necessary to order the needed plants. Prepare beds where roses will be planted in December and January. Place orders now for the special varieties desired and specify December and January delivery.

Clean up, sharpen and oil garden tools and equipment for winter storage. Have power tools overhauled or repaired if needed before storing so they'll be ready for use next spring.

Finish planting all spring flowering bulbs except tulips. Set out pansy plants, sweet peas, calendulas if it hasn't already been done.

Remove leaves from the lawn to prevent them from smothering the grass.

Dig and store dahlia roots after the first heavy frost kills the foliage.

Clean annual and perennial flower beds. Rework and prepare for spring planting. Material removed from the beds should be burned or hauled away to reduce insect and disease problems next season.

Make cuttings from favorite houseplants and grow replacements for those which have become overgrown or are in poor condition.

The Planters Gin was completely destroyed by fire early Wednesday morning. At about 2 o'clock a. m. fire was discovered in the building by Mr. Parker, who immediately awoke the manager, C. L. Roquemore, who resides near by. Before Mr. Roquemore could get to the plant it was almost completely enveloped in flames. The fire alarm was sounded and the fire boys were promptly on the job, but it was too late to save anything.

Mr. Roquemore states that the fire seems to have originated at some point between the fourth gin and the condenser. How the fire originated is unknown. The loss was about $15,000 and partially covered by insurance. The plant had ginned 1378 bales this season.

The gin was owned by the Planters Gin Company of Sweetwater. The plans for the company for the future are not known at this time.

The residence of C. T. Tankersley, who lives in the West Point community about fourteen miles west of town, was completely destroyed by fire on Wednesday night of last week. All the contents except a piano was destroyed. Losses estimated at $2,000; no insurance. It seems that some of the children accidentally ignited some clothing hanging in one of the rooms, with a lamp, and in their fright they ran away instead of notifying the parents. The fire had gained such headway when discovered by the parents that they found it impossible to extinguish the flames. They succeeded in getting a piano in one of the front rooms out of the house but practically all other contents of the building were destroyed.

Rapid development is in evidence at Wilson. The Cobb Mercantile Company is soon to erect a brick building. Two or three other brick buildings will be built in the near future.

Mr. Green, the president of the Wilson State Bank and owner of much property in and around Wilson, expects to build a brick building soon. Mr. Green is indeed enthusiastic over Wilson's progress, and lends much of his time to its development.

The lumber yard can not supply the demands for lumber. Farm houses are being built and new farms going in, in every direction. The six thousand acre pasture owned by Mr. Dixon Green will have farm houses dotted here and there. Not all of it will be in cultivation but some.

Mr. W. H. May is putting in much land and has built several new farm houses on his place.

There are many others doing likewise, which means that the country is being substantially improved and peopled by good citizens. Wilson today welcomes the new comer and extends to him the confidence and support that goes with friendship.

Belton Howell is preparing to build a stone wrecking house on a lot just south of the Baptist Church. The building will be 40 by 100 feet in size. It will be constructed of stone taken from the lake south of town. A part of material is already on the ground. Mr. Howell also intends to construct a filling station in the near future on a lot just across the street east of the G. W. Small Hardware Company.

Linda Huffaker,
CHD Agent,

Consumers, confronted with more than 20 choices of margarine in a supermarket, are wrestling with the question: are higher-priced margarine better than those selling for half their price?

There is no yes or no. The more than 20 kinds of margarine fall into six types: regular, whipped, soft, premium, unsalted and low-calorie.

Each contains 80 percent fat blended with milk or cream. Each is fortified with Vitamin A and some with Vitamin D.

Other ingredients, such as salt, may be added to improve the product.

The most common type is regular margarine. Generally it is made from soybean and cottonseed oil and costs less than the other types. Prices range from 30 cents a pound for national brands to 18 cents a pound for the store's private label brand.

Regular margarine is all-purpose ... may be used in cooking, baking, frying, as a seasoning and for tablespread.

Inert gas is injected into whipped margarine to increase its volume. Six sticks are packed in the 1-pound package.

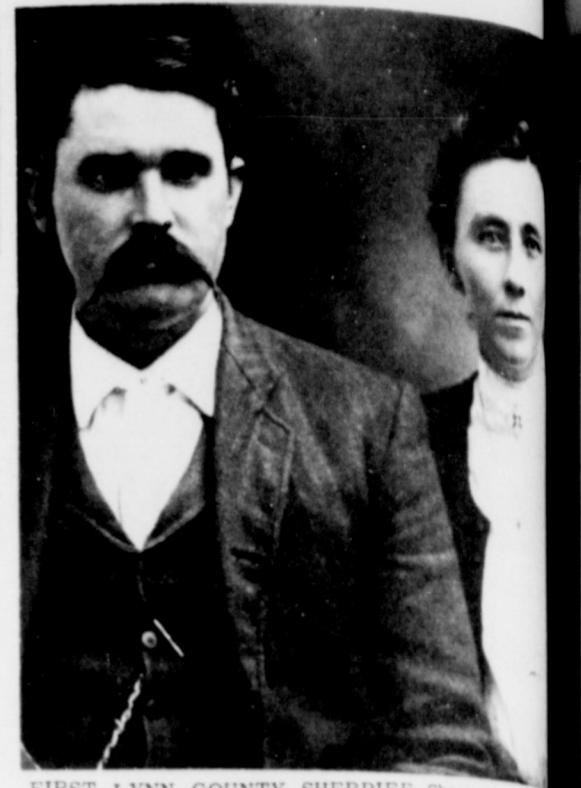

Pound for pound, whipped margarine has the same number of calories as non-whipped margarine. On a volume basis—say stick for stick—whipped margarine has about one-third less calories.

Soft margarine's consistency is due to its high liquid oil content. Because of its softness it is packaged in 1/2 pound tubs. Higher liquid oil content of soft margarine alters fat composition, giving it a higher proportion of polyunsaturated fat than regular margarine.

Premium margarines generally are made from more expensive oils and cost more than regular margarines. They always must be refrigerated to protect their delicate flavor; this adds to their distribution costs. Premium margarines have the small all-purpose uses, but many people feel they have a plus in flavor.

Unsalted margarines are made without salt for people on special restricted diets and for those who prefer unsalted tablespread.

Low-calorie or diet spreads

FIRST LYNN COUNTY SHERIFF—Shown here is Mr. Charley Doak, Sheriff of Lynn County. Mr. Doak is his wife Alice. This picture was taken in 1902. Doak later helped establish the towns of Wilson and ...

are labeled imitation margarines because they contain about half the 80 percent fat content of regular margarines. Therefore, imitation margarine has fewer calories than regular margarine. The ingredient listed first, and therefore present in the largest amount, is water. Imitation margarines are not recommended for baking or frying.

CUB SCOUT

HALLOWEEN

CARNIVAL

Under the 1...53....BINGO! The adults took time to play Bingo while the kids enjoyed themselves elsewhere during the Cub Scout Halloween Carnival. Prizes includes delicious pies, cakes and candy, all Mom made!

Spooks, Goblins and Witches got the jump on Halloween one night early last Thursday as the Cub Scout Pack 782 played host to countless town youngsters at the annual Cub Carnival.

The community center doors opened at 7:00 p.m. and several hundred youngsters from toddlers to teens were soon whirling around the room eager to try their skills at the many fun booths provided.

For the adults, there was Bingo, delicious refreshments and plenty of plain and fancy visiting.

For the younger, energetic set there was darts, stoppers, basketball throw, ring toss, peep show, fishing, nickle toss, a fortune teller and a most popular attraction, the spook house, complete with body.

Prizes were offered for the best dressed boy and girl spook. The Judges had a tough time on this one but finally came up with Gary White, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin White and Karen Stewart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Stewart as the spookiest couple of the night.

One of the highlights of the night was a puppy auction featuring real live puppies donated by the Harold Green's. The rules said no adults could bid so the kids had to do it themselves. The pups sold for slightly more than a dollar a piece.

A final accounting of the proceeds has not been made pending the payment of outstanding bills, but pack officials are enthusiastic over the preliminary figures. The proceeds from this affair go to the local pack and are in no way touched by outside sources.

"If I can only pop one...moooore..." There was always a waiting line at the darts booth. What else? Youngsters just naturally like to pop balloons.

"And this is your love line..." The gypsy fortune teller gained many fans before the night was over.... all fortunes turned out to be good ones.

"If you eat one more popcorn ball, you'll pop! Everyone enjoyed the home made goodies at the refreshment stand.

"Now let's see...how would Matt Dillon handle this one? Den 4's stopper game was a popular attraction with all the kids....young and old alike.

"Junior....Daddy sez their ain't no fish in this pond! Never the less, countless youngsters were awed at what 'caught' the end of their line at the fishing booth.

SOIL CONSERVATION NEWS

Many farmers in Lynn County have learned that they can help themselves with a Conservation Cropping System. Hubert L. Strickland is such a farmer. He planted two rows of sorghum in his blank rows between his cotton in August this last year. It made sufficient growth to produce needed residue and did not compete with cotton for moisture. This land owned by A. L. Spinner Estate has been under the Great Plains Conservation Program since October 13, 1967 and Parallel Terraces were built on the land in 1968 and completed this year.

Other management practices carried out by Strickland this last year were contour farming and crop residue use.

Strickland believes that most beneficial characteristics of a good conservation cropping system is to protect the soil during critical periods when erosion usually occurs. Research from the Texas Extension Service shows that cotton yields are improved by rotating cotton and sorghums.

Richard Christie of Soil Conservation Service says there are four major purposes of a conservation cropping system. It meets the needs of the soil for improvement or maintenance of good physical condition. A cropping system when carried out properly protects the land during critical blowing season. It also helps the operator to obtain an economic return. A conservation cropping system will aid in the control of weeds, insects and diseases. This systematic rotation of soil improving crops with cotton has helped farmers for years, even goes back to colonial plantation in the old Southern settlements.
