Near-Record Snow Aids Farming Area

Area residents awoke Saturday morning to face the wrath of a winter storm, which dumped from 12 to 14 inches of wet snow in Tahoka. Lesser amounts were recorded in outlying areas and more in others.

Snow began falling around 10:00 p. m. Friday night and continued on through Saturday night, ending Sunday morning. Gusty winds accompanied the storm, swirling the snow into drifts measuring up to six feet or more.

Highways, farm roads and city streets were soon filled with drifts, making many of them impassable. Vehicles were stuck in drifts on several streets around town.

Limited travel inside the city limits was restored after city employees manned equipment, opening streets to at least one-way traffic. State highway crews worked thru the weekend, keeping the major traveled highways open.

Tahoka business was at a standstill, with only two or three open during Saturday. Traffic into Tahoka early Saturday was almost impossible, forcing the cancellation of scheduled events.

Most local churches cancelled Sunday services and classes were cancelled at Tahoka and all county schools. Students returned to school Tuesday morning, with limited travel by buses.

The only reported damage, as a result of the snow was to the Borden Davis Hardware. Heavy snow drifts formed on top of the metal awnings, causing the anchors to pull loose.

Damage was extensive, with the awnings considered a total loss. A section of the brick wall was felled as the anchors pulled loose and a plate glass window was shattered.

Children of all ages had a great time playing in the snow and huge drifts. Several snowmen, forts and such were evident as a result of their efforts.

Most snowbound vehicles were freed by late Sunday afternoon but some still had to be pulled through remaining drifts Monday morning. Warm temperatures Monday quickly began melting the snow, leaving some streets and intersections filled with water.

The snowfall recorded 1.48 of moisture, which area farmers were needing badly.

Biggest snow in Tahoka recorded by local U. S. Weather Bureau observer, 13.5 inches (1.66 inches moisture) on December 14, 15, and 16, 1959.

Also, there was a total of 13.5 inches total, 1.67 inches moisture, during month of December, 1960.

Worst snowstorm, high wind and drifting snow, was February 16, 1940, when all highways were blocked for two days, two men froze to death, and a house burned.

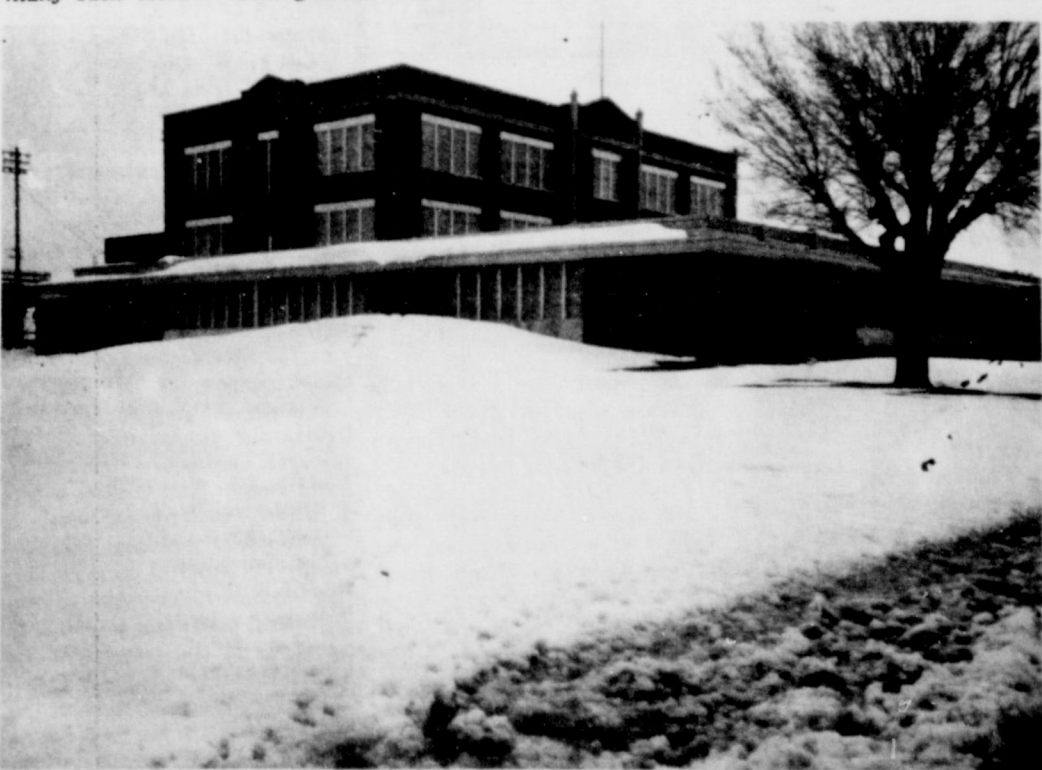

Coldest blizzard recorded here was February 8, 1933, when temperatures dropped to 15 degrees below zero.

MAJOR DAMAGE resulted to the southeast front of the Borden Davis building when weight of snow piled-up caused the awning to collapse and taking a part of the brick wall with it. Only other damage reported to The News included a few leaking roofs and chug-holes in city and farm-to-market road pavement.

SNOW DRIFT at southeast corner of Tahoka High building was at least six feet deep and covered a large area. School was dismissed Monday on account of impassable roads.

Car Inspection Deadline Near

Colonel Wilson E. Speir, director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, today reminded motorists that less than a month remains before the 1969 motor vehicle inspection deadline.

To date, an estimated 2.8 million vehicles have received the inspection required by state law. The Department of Public Safety said some 3.2 million additional vehicles remain to be inspected prior to midnight, April 15.

Speir said 42.2 percent of the vehicles inspected so far required mechanical adjustments prior to issuance of an inspection sticker. The defect found most often has been misalignment of headlights.

The Department of Public Safety urged motorists to get the inspection soon to avoid long lines which will develop at inspection stations as the April 15 deadline approaches.

Texas has 5,466 licensed inspection stations. The required inspection fee is $1.75.

SPORTS

BY ED REDWINE

Roller Derby - A Sport?

A little known sport to this area is the Roller Derby as seen on Channel 34 out of Lubbock. Although some may disagree that it is a sport in the true sense of the word, others will maintain that for fast action and thrills, the Roller Derby is hard to beat. It's like combining ice hockey, bullfighting and wrestling into one fast moving game.

In Saturday's game, the Oakland Bay Bombers were pitted against a Midwest team. Five players make up a team and the action takes place on an oval track. One player is designated as a "jammer" and the other four team members are called "blockers."

The "jammer" starts out behind the pack and the object is to pass the opposing team members at a premium of one point each. The "blockers" have a field day in trying to annihilate the other team. The game doesn't go very far before tempers flare and the slugfest begins. Usually each team has a member who is a trouble maker and seems to circle the track looking for someone to wipe out.

In Saturday's action it was two women, one a big blonde amazon, and the other a scrappy little lady (?) who had dyed her hair green. Their best attempts to put each other in the hospital failed however. When these fights break out the crowd goes wild and would remind one of films depicting Romans throwing Christians to the lions.

Since these people are professionals, I can't help but feel that some of this is simply theatrics similar to wrestling. However I can't see any theatrics in hitting the rail going 30 mph then being hauled off to the hospital to have some part of the anatomy sewed back together.

The Roller Derby is seen on Channel 34 at 6:00 p. m. on Saturday's. If you're tired of hockey, basketball, and golf, tune in, it just may be your cup of tea.

1. If all shareholders are actively engaged in the management of operation of the corporation and at least 80 percent of the gross income of the corporation comes from farming, livestock feeding, or ranching.

Bill Griffin, County Agent, Says.....
Organic matter is the storehouse of plant nutrients in the soil. It is often referred to as the "fat of the land." It results from the decomposition of plant and animal materials by soil organisms. On the average it contains about 56 percent carbon and 5 percent nitrogen. Organic matter improves soil structure and its ability to take in water and hold it in storage for later use by plants. It also improves soil aeration, loosens dense, compact soils and granulates loose, open sandy soils to give them a friable crumb structure. Too, organic matter exerts a strong influence on the exchange capacity of the soil, and also acts as a buffer to prevent rapid changes or fluctuations in soil acidity or alkalinity, explains the county agent.

During the decomposition process, a continuous supply of carbon dioxide, nitrogen in various forms, phosphorus and other nutrients so essential to plant growth are liberated. Organic matter serves as a storage facility for mineral nutrients such as calcium, magnesium, nitrogen, and many others making them less likely to be lost in drainage or water seepage. It also makes the soil more favorable for vigorous, rapidly developing root systems on young plants.

Continuous cultivation without giving attention to regular additions of residues gradually lowers the organic matter in the soil. The level may become so low that maximum cannot be obtained. Soil tests will show the organic level in the soil.

Junior College Is Proposed For Area

Representatives from a six-county area met Thursday at Idalou, for the first step toward establishment of a junior college in this area.

Dr. Robert Clinton, Austin, junior college specialist for the state coordinating board, presided over the meeting, giving information for steps necessary to begin such a project.

The six counties included in Region 10 are Lynn, Kent Garza, Dickens, Crosby and Lubbock. Representatives from Tahoka were Clint Walker, Garland Thorton, J. M. Small, Harold Roberts, Harold Reynolds and Jesse Cunningham. Other towns represented were O'Donnell, Wilson and New Home.

Members of the Lynn County study committee are Charlie Louder, chairman, Clint Walker and Wayland Taylor. These men will conduct a county survey concerning the junior college idea and report their findings at a later area meeting at Idalou, May 15.

The role of a junior college in this area is three-fold: Programs in general college education, vocational technical training and continuing education and public service programs geared to community interest and need.

Clinton advised that such a junior college should be located with accessibility to main highway routes and enough land for extensive parking areas. Since no dormitories would be involved, the students would be commuting. The six-county area has a potential student body strength of 4,412 students, based on public school enrollments. The college for the students would be established with local tax money for buildings and maintenance. The state would pay instructional costs.

The first step of organization has been completed. Others steps necessary are formation of a district after 10 percent of the voters in the district have petitioned commissioners courts or an election to set-up the district; election of trustees; setting the tax rate; and voting a bond issue to finance buildings.

Contest, but also an attempt to entertain at Rotary. Everyone is asked to support Tahoka's only Talent Contest Band.

Brush Control Attack Is Set

Texas landowners, in their battle against range-choking brush, are getting new support with the establishment of the Brush Control and Range Improvement Association.

The BCRIA was organized last November by a group of prominent Texas ranchers to provide funds for more basic research and education on brush control and range improvement.

John Matthews, Abilene area rancher and association chairman, said the immediate goal is to obtain 1 cent per acre from each cooperating landowner each year for five years.

"Brush control is a complex problem," Matthews said. "Surveys show that nearly 82 percent of Texas rangelands have been invaded by brush, reducing the animal carrying capacity by 50 percent or more."

He emphasized that brush also hinders the prosperity of many Texas communities that depend on agricultural income, as well as adversely affecting water supplies from brush invasion.

Directors will lead the drive in their districts. A leader in every county will be responsible for conducting the drive and collecting funds. Money collected will support research and educational projects on brush control and range improvement, Matthews explained.

Linda Huffaker, CHD Agent, Says.....

Food Takes 18% of Income
Each year, Americans spend less of their income on food. In 1960, the average spent was 21%. Today the average is 18% of disposable income. This varies, according to Labor and Agriculture Department studies, from 12% to families with incomes of $15,000 or more to at least 50% for families with incomes below $1,000.

The percent of income spent on food has gone down because disposable income has increased faster than food expenditures and prices, explains Linda. Nearly $1 billion worth of food was consumed on farms where it was produced. Farm families, according to 1960 survey, spent 26% of their income for food, including the value of home produced foods. This compares with slightly less than 21% for urban families.

The food dollar of a non-farm family is split up like this: 32 cents for meat, fish, and poultry; 16 cents for fruits and vegetables; 13 cents for dairy products; 15 cents for cereal and bakery products; 8 cents for fats and sugars; 5 cents on non-alcoholic beverages; and 11 cents for other foods.

Food Demands Change With Populations
Changes in demand for food are associated with growth in population, changes in process of substitutes and shifts in food preferences. In the United States, the most important reason for increase in quantity of food demanded from producers is rising population. U. S. population grows about one percent a year.

Since 1960, demand apparently has increased for beef, veal, poultry, processed fruits and vegetables, vegetable oil products and total sugar and other sweeteners.

The research points out that demand apparently has declined for pork, eggs, all...

Americans Eat More

Americans are using and eating more food, yet the number of pounds of food and calories has decreased. This is possible, chiefly because we eat fewer bulky items such as cereals and more refined products such as frozen orange concentrate and instant coffee.

Four Accidents During Month

The Texas Highway Patrol investigated four accidents on rural highways in Lynn County during the month of February according to Sergeant H. E. Pirtle, Highway Patrol Supervisor of this area.

The rural traffic accident summary for this county during the first two months of 1969 shows a total of six accidents resulting in one person killed, four persons injured, and an estimated property damage of $5,200.00.

"Windy" March is here. Pedestrians and drivers can be temporarily blinded by blowing dust or sand - long enough for a hazardous situation to develop and lead to an accident. The reduction of visibility can cause a head-on collision, a rear-end collision, or a run-off roadway type of accident.

If the acreage burned were reduced to a strip 50 feet wide it would extend a distance of 6,689 miles, more than sufficient to cross and recross the Continental United States.

Girlstown, U.S.A. is a home for deserving girls from throughout the United States. The Avenue of Opportunity project is a lane leading off the highway up to the campus. The trees are being planted as an inspiration to the girls arriving at Girlstown. Eighty trees were planted during the dedication.

Members attending the dedication were given a tour of the facilities and lunch was shared with the girls.

But to his dismay, the "fine" turned out to be $2,500. A pedestrian, forced to detour around his parked car, was knocked down by a passing truck—and George was held legally liable for the accident.

That is not an isolated case. Generally speaking, whenever you park your car illegally, you can be held responsible for all the foreseeable consequences. This may include not only injuries to pedestrians but even collisions between two other cars.

When two cars collided at an intersection, a court put the blame on a truck driver who had parked too close to the corner—blocking the STOP sign from view. An oncoming motorist, who had no reason to expect a stop street, had driven squarely into the path of another car.

In fact, you run the risk of liability whenever you stop your car in an improper manner, even if you are not violating a specific parking ordinance. Take this situation:

A motorist on the highway, catching sight of some deer in a meadow, stopped to watch. But he neglected to pull off the road first. As a result, there was a chain collision of cars behind him. Finding the man liable, the court said:

"The right of a motorist to enjoy the beauties of nature does not warrant stopping his automobile in the midst of traffic to satisfy his artistic and poetic proclivities."

On the other hand, the motorist who stops improperly is not responsible if there is no causal connection between his stopping and the accident that follows.

Thus, a driver who had parked in a no-parking zone was held not to blame when a second car ploughed into him from the rear. It seems the second man had been driving with his eyes cast downward, scanning the floor for a fallen cigarette.

WAYNE WATERS FORD SALES, Tahoka

The court pointed out that, even if the first car had stopped lawfully—say, because of traffic—the collision would have occurred just the same.

Lending Your Car

It is common courtesy, when you lend your car to a friend, to fill it up first with gas. But what about checking the brakes or inspecting the tires? If the car is defective and there is an accident, are you legally liable for the consequences? You may be indeed. Take this case:

A man allowed the woman next door—an inexperienced driver—to borrow his car. Although he knew it had a "grabby" clutch, he didn't tell her so. During the ride she lost control of the car, crashed into a tree, and suffered painful injuries.

She later sued him for damages, and the court decided he must pay for his negligence. The judge said that, under the circumstances, this was the kind of accident he could reasonably have foreseen and prevented.

What if there is an injury not to the borrower but to some third party whom you don't even know? Even then, you might incur liability.

Thus, a man who loaned a car with faulty brakes, without giving fair warning to the borrower, was held responsible for the resulting death of a schoolboy. The fatal accident occurred when, at a crucial moment, the brakes gave way.

That does not mean you have to make a thorough examination of your car before lending it, to discover defects you would not ordinarily know about. Accordingly, a car owner was held not to blame when the steering gear—seemingly all right until then—suddenly jammed while a friend was using the car.

Nor must you warn a borrower about things he can and should see for himself. A man who loaned a car with a dirty windshield was held not responsible for a later collision. The court said he had a right to assume that the borrower would have enough sense to clean the windshield on his own.

All the law demands is that you show, along with your generosity in lending the car, a decent concern for the safety of other people. As one court said:

"When a person lends, he ought to confer a benefit and not do a mischief."

Flimsy as a Kite

What is as wonderful as a spring day, with just enough breeze to fly a new kite? It soars higher and higher, a bright blotch of color in the sky. It is a rare individual who won't pause to watch it, and, to most of us, it is perhaps a symbol of unsurpassed freedom.

Yet, in flying a kite there is need for control, or it will soon crash. What was sheer loveliness will become a crumpled heap of sticks and torn paper. This is true of many things that catch our fancies—true also of many of our dreams.

In this life, we need to learn the difference between the things that endure and those that are as flimsy as a kite in the wind. We need to learn control, courage and faith. None of these comes easily, but the first step will be found in the teachings of your church. Have you been going to church lately?

METHODIST CHURCH, shown above, presented another beautiful scene as a result of the snow storm. This picture was taken from across the street to the southeast

MAIN STREET SNOW SCENE Sunday after City, County, and Highway Department maintainers had cleared paths for motor vehicle traffic on paved streets and highways.

STILL MELTING—Drifts such as that in the yard of County Agent Bill Griffin's home, above, were still melting this Wednesday morning.

DEEPEST DRIFT found Sunday by The News photographer was that shown above, eight or ten feet deep, adjacent to one of the warehouses at Tahoka Compress.

THE PHILOSOPHER

New Legislation

Dear editor:
 I was behind on my newspaper reading, tied up with getting a new farming year on this Johnson grass farm and a new administration in Washington underway both in the same month, so was pleased when I found a copy of The Avalanche-Journal lodged against a rear tire on my tractor yesterday, which I pulled off and took to the house and read.
 The tire was flat so there wasn't any chance of getting any work done that day. If it inflates itself overnight I'll resume work tomorrow.
 The paper reported on President Nixon's inaugural address and it read all right to me, except for one thing.
 Mr. Nixon said we probably have about all the legislation we can handle for a while, the thing to do is to bring some life to the programs we've already got, and that's mostly right.
 However, there's one piece of legislation I wish he'd undertake. I thought of it when I took my 1959 car into town to see why it was using a quart of oil a day, and was told it could be fixed, but while they were at it they said they might as well replace the muffler which broke when the wire I had it tied up with rusted in two, and ought to also put new sleeves in the cylinders, grind the valves, repair the radiator, eliminate a short in the wiring system, and a few other odds and ends that'd come to around $400, more or less, plus parts.

 I understand, when a mechanic or a doctor goes into a motor or a body he's not always sure what he'll find.
 I got to thinking. Look, we've got Social Security, Welfare, Medicaid, Medicare, etc., but man's greatest love, his car, has been shamefully neglected. What this country now needs, Mr. Nixon, if man is to be at peace with himself and realize his full potentialities, is National Car-Care.
 Keeping a car going is one of the heaviest burdens a man faces in this life, and the more complicated a car gets the heavier the burden.
 What this country needs, before we stop all new legislation, is government-sponsored Chevycare, Fordacare, Pontiacare, Mercurycare, Buicare, and, might as well go whole-hog, the Supreme Court would throw it out if we didn't, Chryslercare and Cadillacare. We can leave the matter of foreign cars to the next administration.
 I will leave the details to Congress, so long as the basic idea is covered and a man will know that when he buys a car he won't be running up bills for his grandchildren, a field which properly belongs to the government anyway.
 I like to put first things first, and if it works on cars, we could round out the package by adding tractor-care, Forget bike-care and trike-care. Let the youngsters learn something about the generation gap.
 Yours faithfully,
 J. A.

 NEW YORK (a) — Light-weight - forged aluminum wheels are being used in regular railroad operations to speed rapid transit passengers to their destinations.
 The aluminum wheels, equipped with steel rims, are expected to reduce total weight of each transit car, resulting in less power required to operate the cars and additional cost savings.

In Trouble

Dear editor:
 I noticed an article in the newspaper on top of a stack I'd been saving to sit on when I go fishing and the ground is damp to avoid getting a cold—astronauts are always coming down with a cold and you'd think the space program with its billions of dollars could afford to buy a few newspapers for them—that reported that the Russians are about to enter the automobile age.
 Up to now, most of the cars over there have been owned by the top politicians, well they don't really own them, the government furnishes them free, which is cheaper than owning one, but Russia has announced it's opening up a factory to turn out about 600,000 cars a year and the general public can now get in line to buy.
 Of course this is just a drop in the bucket compared with the 9 million cars produced in the U. S. each year, but the trend has set in and I'm afraid it proves Russia isn't as smart as she pretended.
 What I mean is, does she know she now has to convince her citizens that Russia invented the traffic jam, the super highway, the clover leaf, air pollution, the traffic accident and the junk pile?

 Does Russia know that the more cars the people get hold of the more roads they want, and the more roads they get the more cars they get? And the more cars they get the bigger the headache grows?
 Why just the single job of putting up filling stations in Moscow alone will set her space program back ten years. Does she know what it's going to cost to build 10 million miles of highway? What it'll cost to train a million car mechanics? Make that half a million. You can get by with only about half of them trained.
 And since most Russians getting cars will be grown, without any previous driving experience, not having had a chance to bump off the reckless ones while they were teen-agers, you can see what the accident rate will be.
 I suppose this is not very humanitarian, it may even be against the aims of peaceful co-existence, but frankly I hope the Russians turn out millions of cars clogging all their cities. They're not any better than we are.
 Yours faithfully,
 J. A.

Too Much TV

Dear editor:
 I don't know how he arrived at his figures unless maybe he clocked his own children but a child expert has reported in a newspaper I read a few weeks ago while waiting for Gunsmoke to come on that the average child in America, by the time he reaches 16, has spent 17,472 hours watching television and he wants something done about it.
 I have struggled with this problem while my tractor stood idle, while I was hunting for a newspaper to read, during commercials and once even into part of Gunsmoke itself before I realized what I was doing and came to at the clink of Festus' spurs on the board walk outside the Long Branch, but I can't think of a thing anybody can do about it, or even possibly why he should.
 What I mean is, I suppose by the time Daniel Boone was 16 he'd spent 17,000 hours hunting squirrels, and how many hours did Ted Kennedy spend sailing a boat, and has anybody done any research on the first 16 years of the president of General Motors or Charles DeGaulle or the editor of The Leader-News?
 As the twig is bent the tree is gnarled, or however that phrase goes, doesn't always work out that way.
 I know there's a lot to be said against television, but there's a lot to be said for it, particularly if you have a house full of kids and it's Saturday and it's raining.
 Of course one of the soundest objections to television-watching is that it results in kids' being able to explain to you, instead of the other way around, what's taking place these days. And as bad as the jokes are on television, they're even worse when the kids catch on to them before you do.
 I'll agree. Kids shouldn't be watching television so much. They ought to be out playing hop-scotch and marbles like all us responsible people did.
 Yours faithfully,
 J. A.
