

File Injunction Proceedings

Has Secured Randolph & ... Attorneys of Plainview, Handle Injunction Proceeding To File Injunction Monday

Announcement by the executive committee is made that Messrs. Randolph & Randolph, of Plainview, have been employed to file the injunction proceeding against the Commissioners' Court of Floyd county, to test the validity of their recent action in issuing warrants to the amount of $78,000 to build a court house, with out the sanction of the people of Floyd county. The suit will probably be heard Monday and set down for hearing by Judge Kinder during that week or next. The fight is to be to the finish and no effort will be spared to defeat the action of the majority of the Commissioners' Court in thus attempting to evade the rights of the people of Floyd county to pay the indebtedness they owe.

WORK ON SCHOOL BUILDING COMPLETED

The brick work on Lockney's 2,000 school building has been completed and the bricklayers have returned to Plainview. Work is now progressing on the wood work of the building and in a short time Lockney will have completed and ready for occupancy one of the most modern and well equipped buildings in the Plains county. The building will be ready for the 1911-12 school term.—Lockney Beacon.

SHOUTING VS SILENCE

Things Come to Him Who "Hollers."

A gentleman traveling through the west was anxious to take a certain train to the next town. As he approached the depot he saw the train slowly pulling out. Not wishing to get left he let out a yell that almost loosened the rail flanges. The conductor, who was on a car platform, heard him and pulled the bell and stopped the train. As he helped the strong-lunged passenger aboard he remarked:

"Well, you'd never got it if you hadn't hollered."

And it is the same in business. It is in catching train. "Hollering" is the spark plug that keeps alive public interest in any undertaking. The merchant who advertises and advertises again, and keeps everlastingly hollering, is the man for whom the bell rope of attention will be pulled. He is the man who will never have to go behind his own counter to wait on customers. He will have his ads full directing. If an advertisement is constantly "hollering," these readers will sooner rather, sit up and take notice. The advertisement is truthful, meritorious and prices another substantial customer has been secured.

But don't have one set of prices and ones quality of goods advertised and a different set of prices and quality of goods in the store.

And again, advertise where

Good Roads

What We Are Doing To Make Wagon Transportation Light

In this issue of the Herald is shown a good representation of a typical good road scene near Waxahachie, Ellis county, Texas. Through the courtesy of the Texas Commercial Secretaries association, this cut is being reproduced in weekly newspapers all over Texas with the intention of converting as many people as possible to the "good roads habit." While it appears from the first consideration that the sole intent of the paper is to advertise this particular section of our State, it will be seen from a closer study that its real purpose is to work and talk good roads, no matter in what section of the State. This scene only goes to show what may be accomplished even by the people in the blackland regions, if they but will it.

Here in Terry county, we have only to scrape the loamy soil to the clay, and the wind does the rest. So we see that even nature itself aids us in making transportation easy.

We already have something like thirty miles of dirt road beyond the experimental stage in Terry county and road construction is yet in its infancy. The first five miles between this city and Gomez being constructed merely as an experiment, a little more than two years ago, and the Commission having found that the experiment hatched a huge success, contracts were let for the construction of roads to county lines east and west. The western division proved another success and was everything that could be expected of it, but it was found that places on the eastern division needed additional grading in some of the sandiest places to put it in good order, and accordingly the contract was let for the purpose and work is now under way. Contract has also been let for a new road beginning at the town section and extending five miles south.

We are now in a good way toward road building in Terry county, and as long as we have such a progressive citizenship, and as long as they elect a set of Commissioners who wish to advance Terry county, just so long will we continue to build good roads.

Happy are we that we have not issued a bond, nor given a penny's worth of script for road or any other improvement. We have money in the bank and every check is worth its face value. Script is an un known part of our county's currency as the cold cash is paid for everything.

Terry has advanced our sister counties all along in an educational, and road building line.—Terry County Herald.

Lynn County Has Fine Prospects

L. L. Johnson, Assistant Santa Fe Agricultural Demonstrator Says Lynn County in Fine Shape, Says Cotton will make 1-2 to 3-4 bales

L. L. Johnson, Assistant Agricultural Demonstrator for the Santa Fe Railway System, was in Tahoka and Lynn county this week. He went practically all over the county as he has his co-operators pretty well scattered over the county and he told us Thursday that he had seen them all.

Mr. Johnson made the statement to the News representative:

"If the cotton in Lynn county makes half of what it now has on it will make from 1/2 to 3/4 bale per acre." He further said: "The Plains will harvest as much feed stuff as the balance of the State of Texas."

Mr. Johnson informed us that the most of Dawson had good feed crops and good cotton prospects, but that Lynn county had an exceptionally good prospect for a bumper feed and cotton crop this year, and that the cotton worm scare was greatly magnified, in fact he said:

"The farmers of this section are more scared than hurt."

When asked if this hot dry weather was damaging the crops he said it was a great benefit, for where there had been light showers the crops were not looking so well as where it had been dry, as in some places the crops had been scalded by the hot sun on the wet ground. But that even this looked worse than it really was, as it affected the looks of the leaves more than it damaged the crops and that the crops would recover what little damage they had sustained in a few days.

Worms are doing considerable damage to the cotton crop and our farmers have begun a systematic war of extermination on the pests. Opinions differ as to what to call the worm, some claim it is the army worm, while others claim it is not. Be that as it may, the worm destroys the cotton fast enough where not checked. With the ravages of these pests stopped, cotton in this section of the country will from present indications yield from one-half to three-quarters of a bale per acre.—Dawson County News.

Hail Tuesday evening did considerable damage to crops on the farms to Sam, Frank and James Cauble. A heavy rain fall accompanied the hail. The hail covered a strip of country about one mile wide and four miles long. The crop of Mr. Gregory suffered the most damage.—Big Springs Herald.

The principal part of the expenses was incurred in paying expenses of sheakers and halls.—Post City Post.

A most destructive hail storm swept over a part of Dawson county east of Lamesa, late Tuesday evening, leaving ruin and desolation in its wake. Feed crops fared no better and fruit trees were stripped by the hail stones, some of which are said to have been as large as hen eggs. A vacant house on Mr.

Plow Now

Now Is the Time to Commence Your Plowing. Should Let Ground Wait

If we expect to profit by our past experiences, we are going to bet our farm conditions by plowing earlier, deeper and on a larger scale. To plow don mean to work the surface soil from two to four inches deep with a disc harrow. Tee disc harrow is one of our bes farm implements, but it is very much abused, on many of our farms, by being required to replace the plow in addition to its own work. One of our farmers recently made the statement: "I am now putting in my eighth crop without the use of a plow." His crops show the result.

Shallow work is very favorable to weed growth none is placed to deep to germinate, shallow tillage and weed-taken fields are usually found on the same farm.

From the appearance of many of our fields it seems that we have forgotten about toe weeds. Regardless of the recent rains many of our fields are getting to dry to plow well. Weeds take more moisture than our crops. Very little of our stubble has been disced and the result is we have lots of weeds and very little chance of saving our moisture.

Why plow now? To kill weeds to make plant food available and save moisture. At the same time, this early plowing about have time to settle before planting time and be in condition to hold hold late moisture. We must remember that our soils do not lack in fertility but rather in it is a question moisture. Our hardest work should be to till our land so it can properly receive and hold this moisture.

All early plowing should be packed immediately. If a sub-surface packer cannot be obtained the work can be done very satisfactorily as follows:

Draw a harrow immediately after the plow, then run the disc harrow over it with discs set straight and harrow again after the disc. Watch this plowed ground very closely, later, don't let grass or weeds get started and be sure that crusts are not allowed to form.

Wheat ground, especially, should be prepared as outlined, it should be plowed deep and well packed. The more of this that can be done for wheat between now and August 20th the better. We should be sure to get our wheat ground prepared first and then follow this with the other fall plowing.

Liar's or Physicist's?

By TIMOTHY WILFRED COAKLEY

THE SEER who wrote that "all men are liars" was not indicting humanity. He was speaking not generically, but specifically. He meant not mankind, but us, the men, in contradistinction to the women.

He was right. Lying, like the rapid-fire gun, the "Boston agreement," the tricks of trade, the battleship, is a weapon, and men are the wielders of weapons. Lying is, after all, only brutality refined. Falsehood is cruelty tempered by cowardice.

In the frank age of competitive force man was the strong-arm robber. He brought the spoil to his lady love, but liked to glaze over the bloody detail of acquisition. Many a respectable citizen in our era has qualms when his wife congratulates him on the business victory which he has achieved through the fraudulent finesse of commercial competition. He tells her he can't explain processes to her, that she has no head for business. He means she has no heart for it, and his reserve is eloquent of the fact that he has not, at bottom, either. But he is born into a condition and he accepts it. He wields the weapon and is naturally more expert in its use than the woman.

Not that women cannot pick up the tool when it serves their purpose. Their purpose is different—that's all.

Man's temptation is self-assertion, power. Woman's temptation is self-surrender, helpfulness. Both lie from self-interest, but the self-interest of man is possession, the imposition of his personality upon others; the self-interest of woman is the identification, the absorption of her being through sympathy into that of her environment.

It is a question of motives.

The standard of honor is no different in the soul of a woman from that which rules in a man. Each is tempted according to the temperament. So the question really comes down to this point—what are the psychical elements of differences as between man and woman?

We shall never get beyond the philosophy of Genesis. Out of the "sleeping" Adam was the woman formed. Forever man carries within him the soul element of the woman. Forever woman bears within her the soul element of man. It is in the proportions of the combination that the mystic secret lies. That secret is God's. But this much we may divine, that woman has the instinctive self, the "sleeping" self, the intuitive self, developed in a higher degree than man. The man has in his makeup more of the Ego, the "I," the active self. But each has both elements.

Twenty years of experience in court trials have convinced me that, other things being equal, the best witnesses are women and children. They excel in a vivid and accurate report of the physical fact as it is. That is because temperamentally they are more interested in and respond more readily to their environment of fact and event.

Women will lie unconsciously more readily than men. Men will and do lie consciously more readily than women. Woman, speaking generally, has the finer sense of honor.

Many Great Inventors Were Single

By Samuel A. Donnelly

Thomas A. Edison, the inventor, has just been celebrating his twenty-fifth wedding anniversary and has been advising young men to get married as soon as possible. He says that a man does not take his proper place in society until he is married. The responsibilities of a family steady him and tend to bring out the best there is in him.

All the great epoch-making inventions, with very few exceptions, have been made by bachelors.

Watts was a bachelor when he invented and perfected the modern reciprocating steam engine. Stephenson was a bachelor when he built his first locomotive.

So was Fulton when he started the first steamboat he invented up the Hudson.

So was Samuel Morse when he invented telegraphy.

The same can be said of Alexander Bell, who invented and produced the first practical telephone.

We all knew Marconi to be a bachelor when he invented wireless telegraphy.

The Wright brothers, who invented the first practical aeroplane, are unmarried.

Some of these men got married after their great inventions had been made.

What has any of them done since he got married? Very few of them got married early in life.

Where would civilization and society be except for the bachelors who have led in all other useful arts as well as invention?

I do not wish to discourage marriage. But facts are facts and the truth in regard to decent, useful bachelors should be allowed to crop out once in a while.

The Illinois law that forbids the marriage of cousins is not by any means universal, nor will it ever effectually "protect society against the possibility of burden by deformed children."

To assert that all deformed and mentally defective children are the offspring of married cousins is untrue, and to suggest that all the children of cousins are deformed and mentally defective is equally false.

Through a long lifetime's observation upon this subject I brand these detestable statements as cruel, insulting slurs flung in the faces of many good and intelligent men and women whose children are as healthy and bright as any in the world and better and brighter than some.

Moreover, the woman who marries her cousin has the advantage of knowing her husband's precedents, his manner of life before marriage and his hereditary disposition, none of which she ever will know until it is too late if she marries a stranger.

It is not married cousins that fill the divorce courts.

Show and Keep It Regular and Compact—Any Farmer Can Make One.

A Wool Box.

There are several kinds of wool boxes used by growers in tying up fleece wools, but the following shows a cheap, practical box that can be easily made by any farmer who can use a saw, square and screwdriver, writes Roscoe Wood in the Breeders' Gazette.

Take three 1-inch boards two feet long and one foot wide, clear pine, or what is better, oak or walnut; they should be planed and smoothed so that they are about seven-eighths inch thick and 11 inches wide. Saw one of these boards into three pieces, one, D, 12 1/2 inches long, the other two, C and E, 11 inches long. Fasten each of the shorter pieces to each end of the piece D with strong iron hinges, which should be set into the board so that when opened the boards lie close together. Then on the sides of the piece D fasten the 3-foot pieces, A and B, one on each side, in like manner, placing these hinges so that these four boards will raise and form a box, open on the top. Here one can tie the fleece, with the piece D forming the bottom and the others the sides. Notches can be cut in the outside edges of these boards to hold the strings.

Put on the fleece the shorn side on the open box, raise the sides A and B and hold together with pieces P, P, 1 by 2 inches, about 17 inches long, notched on each end so as to hold these sides, at a width equal to that of the end pieces C and E. Then raise the end pieces C and E to an upright position, and let them be held in place by a heavy steel spring set in on each side on A and B, at a place so that C and E will be held at a right angle to the bottom, D. These springs should be about 1 1/2 inches wide, and set into the board about 2 inches from the top edge, and set far enough into the board so that in shutting the ends these springs will press down level with the face of the board and after the ends have passed the springs they will spring out about three-fourths inch and thus hold the end. These springs can be secured at any blacksmith's and can be fastened into the board with screws.

With such a box fleeces can be done up so that practically no black ends of the fleece show, and at the same time the fleece is regular and compact. A little extra care used in thus tying fleece wools is time well spent, for such fleeces present an attractive appearance that appeals to the buyer.

Grapes for Table.

Most home grounds could supply all the grapes needed for the family table. Concord is best adapted to a wide range of conditions. Moore's early should be relied upon at high altitudes and where the season is too short for later varieties. Niagara is the standard white grape. There are a great many varieties of grapes. It is interesting to plant quite a list of grapes when the object is to produce fruit for home use.

To Pray for the Rich.

Two women prominent in St. Louis have started a movement to induce 300,000 of their sex in the south to pray every day for the rich. They explain they hope by organizing systematically groups of women who will pray often and well for the more affluent, wealthy persons will be led to contribute to a fund for the evangelization of the world. Belle H. Bennett, president of the woman's missionary council of the Methodist Episcopal church south, and Mrs. R. W. McDonnell are the originators of the plan.

There are as many kinds of Democrats in the Legislature as there are breakfast foods on the market and one hardly dare to get outside the Capitol building without a picture of Thos. Jefferson in hand lest, he become lost in the jungles.

The Governor has asked the Legislature to repeal the law creating an Automatic Tax Board which transfers from the Legislature to said Board the power of fixing the tax rate. The Governor intimates that this Board has been playing "ping pong" with our tax rates.

It has been a strenuous week in Austin. Many a little stream with a swollen torrent has emptied its burden into the whirlpool of dissatisfaction and a tidal wave of master thinkers has flooded the Legislature with advice, threats and offers to go on the pay roll.

The political map makers have been working overtime. Many members whose districts have never been dimmed by the some of a factory and who have constituents who never heard the shrill whistle of a locomotive are trying to embarrass fame by writing their names on a re-districting bill that will give one or the other of the numerous contending factions in Texas an advantage. Some men can't be great without being dangerous.

The introduction of an amendment to the Appropriation bill increasing the contingent expenses thirty thousand dollars was interpreted by the members to cover the expenses of a proposed investigation of the last election and precipitated a bitter fight in the Legislature and finally passed both houses on a majority vote, but in case it should not meet with the Governor's approval the measure will doubtless be lost, as the necessary two-thirds vote to offset a veto was not shown on the ballot. We investigate everything in Texas except our undeveloped resources.

The Governor submitted a message to the Legislature showing a deficit of a million dollars inherited from the Campbell Administration. A tax levy of one cent on the one hundred dollars will net the state, on the present basis of assessment, approximately $200,000 and it will, therefore require a tax levy of five cents on the one hundred dollars to take care of the deficit. The Waters-Pierce windfall will be absent this year and to absorb the deficit and take care of the necessary expenses of government, will require an estimated tax levy of sixteen cents for purposes of general revenue. Our revenue system is in rather a chaotic state and the Legislature may decide to investigate it.

And The South Plains

The News has received so many enquiries lately about Lynn county that we thought a general descriptive article would perhaps be acceptable at this time; so we will endeavor, for the benefit of those interested in this country, to set down here the facts as they do and have existed.

Lynn county is situated nearly in the center of the Great South Plains or as the geographers put it the Staked Plains—The Great Plains is much smaller than in the lower country where they are protected by timber and sheds, and it takes less than half the feed to winter stock here that it does in the lower country and the Plains stock more than holds its own in market. Being above the quarantine line, we have no trouble shipping our stock to the great markets of the country. Cholera is totally unknown to the native hog

American Desert. What a name to give to the largest single body of first class agricultural land in the United States—an agricultural nation. A body of land, in round numbers, 300 miles long, north and south, by 175 miles wide, east and west or 38,600,000 acres, every acre of which is tillable or makes good pasturage; statistics show that of this immense body of land 90 percent or 34,749,000 acres is tillable, and susceptible to the highest state of cultivation. The altitude of this vast tract of land ranges from 2,800 to 4,000 feet above sea level, therefore giving it an exceptionally healthy climate. The atmosphere is so light, clear and dry that the cold and after a hog has become acclimatized it is no longer susceptible to this dreaded disease. The tick that plays such havoc among the cattle of lower Texas and other states is entirely unknown on the Plains.

The health of the people of the Plains is exceptionally good; none of the malaria diseases of the lower country being prevalent here and even the common illnesses to be found everywhere are not as common or malignant here.

The Plains country is nearly perfectly level in the northern part and free from trees of native growth, the country becomes more rolling as you come south and the southern portion is covered with of winter and the heat of summer never become uncomfortable. With the thermometer at 90 degrees in Illinois, Missouri and Louisiana scores of people succumb to the heat while with the thermometer standing from 5 to 10 degrees higher on the Plains the heat is scarcely felt at all; besides no matter how high the temperature rises in the day time it drops to 68 or 65 at night and the temperature will be too cool for comfort by morning without a light covering. The average summer temperature of the Plains is about 70 degrees, the average winter temperature about 45 degrees. The percent of stock that die here in the winter of exmesquite brush. The whole of the Plains is covered with the curly mesquite and buffalo grass; this grass grows very thick and if not caught by frost will winter stock.

The soil of the plains varies from the dark chocolate loam of the North Plains to the deep sandy loam of the South Plains, the whole being underlaid with a clay subsoil at the depth of from 18 inches to three feet.

All kinds of crops are adapted to the Plains country and can be made to pay if properly handled. However of course some crops have given better results in different parts of the Plains, for instance wheat and oats have been more extensively cultivated on the North Plains and has yielded more bushels per acre than in the middle and southern part. Cotton, milo maize, kaffir corn, sorghum, millet, alfalfa, Indian and June corn and fruit and vegetables are especially adapted to the middle and southern portion of the Plains.

COTTON ON THE STREETS OF TAHOKA

The average yields of the above crops for this part of the Plains are: Cotton 1/2 to 3/4 bale per acre, maize a ton of heads per acre and a ton and a half for kaffir, sorghum three tons per acre of bundled fodder, millet about 40 crop to supply the market with. What do you think, you farmers of the lower country who have to haul water for your household purposes for from one to six months in the year and who have to drive your stock to water from one to ten miles in the dry season. What do you think of a country where every farmer has his own well and windmill and is never without good cool water for him self and stock all the year round except perhaps two or three days when the wind does not blow, even then he has plenty because the trifty set of farmers we have out here put up a storage tank large enough to last them through these calms when they install their windmill.

If the people of the lower country would just come out here and look around and see for themselves that the things that we claim for this country are more than so, they would cast their lot with us as the others have done who have come and seen for them selves.

"A word to the wise is sufficient," the old proverb says. You farmers of the lower country, all of you and especially thos of you who haven't made feed for your

SOME PEOPLE HAVE an idea that in order to have a Bank Account, they must have a large sum to deposit; that the bank does not care to be bothered with small accounts. This, however, is not true of The First National Bank. This bank welcomes new accounts, whether $1.00 or $1,000.00, and the same courtesy and service is accorded the small depositor as those in more fortunate circumstances.

It is our object and wish to serve the public in a manner that shall be satisfactory to all.

to the Plains where you can have all the clean, pure, cold water right in your yard; where you can work with your coat off in the winter and your shirt in the summer; a country where the man who holds the plow is the man that holds a bank deposit; a country where a farmer does not have to build his house down near the creek so he can have water handy or have to plant his orchard a half a mile from his house because the land is better there than nearer his house; but a country where he can build his house in place he chooses on his land whether 20 acres or four sections and the ground will be suitable for cultivation, he can get good water and in fact build a home according to his ideals and not have to contrive every way imaginable to be able to get his place arranged conveniently; inno waste land to grow up in weeds of native grasses make it an ideal stock country. It has a deep rich soil ranging from a loose sandy to a heavy loam, making it possible for every farmer to be satisfied with his location and diversify his crops to such an extent as he sees South Plains about 144 miles south fit.

BREAKING LAND IN LYNN COUNTY

land in the lower country is five or six years from now. You may well be astonished at this statement but past and present prices prove it beyond a doubt. Ten years ago you could buy any amount of land anywhere on the Plains for from 50 cents to $5.00 an acre or take up four sections and pay from a $1 to $2 an acre bonus to the state and have forty years time on it. Today on some of this land stand fact the Plains farmer can build his house, put down a well, put a mill over it, pipe the water into his house and barns, plants his orchard next to his yard, lays his farm off in a perfect square with of Amarillo and 80 miles north of Big Springs, about 253 mile west of Ft. Worth and 154 miles east of Roswell, N. M., and is in a direct line betwe the four points. Lynn county has a great variety

With the exception of three or four lakes and their brakes the entire county could be put under cultivation and the day is not very far distant when a good portion of it will be.

cities and the land is selling from one to ten times as much per foot now as was sold per acre then, the balance of this land is now cut up into comparatively small tracts and devoted to farming and stock raising. Then this whole territory was considered unfit for anything but large ranches now it is proved to be the best all-around farming district in the southwest. Then it was a days journey to town and longer to the railroad, today the Plains are dotted with towns and crossed in every way by railroads. We make big claims for the Plains, but we can show you: it makes no difference whether you are from Missouri or not. Come

Those who hunger and thi st af-political tom tom and sending shrieking vibration through the Legislative Halls, but it is a good experience for our solons, as it will fit their nerves for the strife below. In the Legislature it is just one thing after another. Our Legislators are a jolly lot of good fellows, and with the exception of the call "to arms" that occasion-
