MIND YOUR P'S.

Those who patronize papers as promptly for the pecuniary interests of the press have a power in pushing forward publicity. If the printer is paid by his pocket-book kept by prompt paying patrons, he opens to his paper in peace. Photographs are more pointed, he the picture of passing events pleasing colors, and the perusal of this paper is a pleasure to the past. ## Grassland Notes

Brother Johnson of the Methodist church, who has charge of the Wilson Circuit, filled his first appointment here Sunday.

There has been 28 bales of the Baptist church crop gathered and it is thought the crop will make 40 bales, the proceeds from this would have been a nice start toward building a church, if cotton had remained around 20c.

Mr. C. H. Stanley of Shelby County is here the guest of J. C. Walkers and W. R. Thomas.

Mr. Stanley is prospecting and will probably locate here.

The Grassland gin has been running day and night for six weeks without an interruption of more than half an hour at any one time.

There has frequently been 100 bales on the yard at one time, the yard was cleared Saturday night at 12 o'clock for the first time in over a month. At that time there was 2906 bales ginned.

There is still lots of cotton to be gathered, but the rush is over and many of the pickers who were here from other places have gone home.

A number in the county are preparing to make use of this bountiful feed crops by feeding cattle and hogs.

Messrs Jones & Mullins of Tahoka, have been drilling a well at the school house the past week.

Young Jimmy a Philosopher.

Just now Jimmy, seven years old, is about the most interesting person around the Swedish hospital, according to nurses. Jimmy was taken there several days ago for an infection in his hand. The nurses tried to keep him in bed, but as soon as they left the room Jimmy was out and investigating the mysteries of other wards. The other day a nurse was astonished when she entered Jimmy's room and was greeted with:

"Say, do you know a man died in that room down there last night?"

"Yes, I knew it. But how did you?" the nurse replied.

"Oh, I read it on the report sheets," said Jimmy. "And say, do you know there was a baby born in the room next to mine?"

"Well, for heaven's sake, how did you know that?" demanded the nurse.

"I read it on the report sheets," Jimmy replied. Then he mused:

"I guess there is some truth in the saying, 'The Lord giveth and the Lord taketh away.'"

But the nurse was too astonished to reply to that.—Kansas City Star.

UNKNOWN DEAD HERO FEELINGLY HONORED

BODY LIES IN STATE UNDER CAPITOL DOME—FLOWERS FROM ALL PARTS OF GLOBE.

TRIBUTE PAID U. S. WARRIOR

Wreaths From Both Great and Small, With Words of Homage, Are Left By Visitors.

Washington.—A plain soldier, unknown, but weighted with honors as perhaps no American before him because he died for the flag in France...

A river of humanity, American men, women and children, Americans by heritage, Americans by election, flowed all day part the bier of the dead soldier under the great dome of the Capitol.

From early day until long after darkness had shrouded the city, the great stream surged up the eastern front of the rotunda, four abreast, up the granite stairway, in through the huge doorway, to pass solemnly, reverently by the casket and its five guards...

Out through that doorway the stream passed, through the stately corridor and its marble stairway, and down over the wide terraces of the western front to the homes in the city below.

That was the overshadowing element in the cycle of honors heaped upon this nameless soldier, this son of the people come home to claim the great reward his valiant heart had earned.

Walter Reed Hospital veterans of the world war, who placed a large wreath of chrysanthemums as a mark of their regard for their unknown buddy.

A group of Knights of Columbus in regalia clustered around the bier and recited their ritual for the dead.

The Loyal Legion, headed by Lieutenant General Nelson A. Miles, U. S. A., retired, with American and legion flags, held short services at the bier and was followed by representatives of the Grand Army of the Republic.

Mrs. Adelaide W. Bagley, mother of Mrs. Josephus Daniels, placed a cluster of palm leaves and roses at the bier.

Russia was represented in the tributes to the dead, a delegation from the old Russian Embassy placing a gift of flowers at the bier.

Representatives of the American Federation of Labor placed a floral wreath upon the bier with the following inscription: "Live on, thou spirit of justice, freedom, democracy and humanity. A grateful tribute to our unknown soldier, form the American Federation of Labor."

A wreath from King George was among them. Lord Cavan acting for the King. It bore the legend: "As unknown, and yet well known; as dying and, behold, we live."

There was a wreath from Canada, its inscription saying, "But that which put the glory of grace into all that he did was that he did of pure love to his country."

That from Premier Lloyd George said: "Nameless, yet his name liveth evermore."

And that from India said: "They never die who die to make life worth living."

There were wreaths also from Australia and New Zealand and all of these except that from India were made of flowers grown in English soil, brought over as living plants.

From the Grand Army of United Veterans of Canada came a wreath placed by Senator Richardson, oldest wearer of the Victoria Cross. There were flowers from Newfoundland, and from the Army and Navy War Veterans of Canada came a memorial woven of poppies that bloom in Flanders fields.

MARINES WILL BE PLACED ON TRAINS

MUST STOP THEFTS—RESERVE BANK DISTRICTS ARE TO BE PROTECTED.

Washington.—A thousand marines have been ordered to man mail trains and trucks in an effort to check the epidemic of robberies and holdups that have been sweeping the country.

The marines will be heavily armed, under orders to shoot to kill if necessary to protect the mails.

Decision to use the marines was made at a Cabinet meeting Tuesday. It was decided the robberies should be stopped at all costs. Meantime, a corps of guards will be organized for permanent duty.

"We're at war with crooks and bandits of the country," said Postmaster General Hays. "The United States mails will be protected at all costs."

Cities where the marines will first go on duty are those in which Federal Reserve Banks are located from which come large shipments of currency. The cities include Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Richmond, Atlanta, Chicago, St. Louis, Minneapolis, Kansas City, Dallas and Los Angeles.

Most of the marines will come from Quantico, Virginia, but those for Western duty will be from Mare Island, Cal.

"The marines will be detailed to ride with the mail trucks and the mail coaches in which the valuable mail is conveyed, and will be stationed at those points in postoffices and stations where protection is essential," said Hays.

Hays blames dereliction of duty for the New York robbery. The loot was about $2,000,000.

The robbery of the Illinois Central mail train at Paxton, Ill., the most carefully planned and executed mail raid in the memory of postal inspectors, netted the bandits just $400.

The bandits left in a ditch a mail pouch containing $100,000 in cash, which they had knowledge was on the train, according to the inspectors.

TAX REVISION BILL PASSED IN SENATE

VOTES FOR MANY REPEALS AND REDUCTION AT LONG SESSION MONDAY NIGHT.

Washington.—The much revised tax revision bill finally was passed by the Senate at 1:35 a. m. Tuesday after a session lasting more than fifteen hours. It still must run the gauntlet of the Senate and House conferees before it reaches the President.

The vote was 38 to 25, three Republicans—La Follette, Moses and Norris voting against the bill, and one Democrat, Broussard, supporting it.

As now drawn the bill is estimated by Treasury experts to yield approximately $3,250,000 for the fiscal year ending next June 30, or $20,000,000 less than the existing law. If all the changes proposed become effective, however, the measure ultimately will reduce the Nation's tax bill by approximately $750,000,000.

Senate conferees on the bill were named as follows: Penrose, McCumber and Smoot, Republicans; Simmons and Williams, Democrats. The bill is to be reported to the House at once.

Outstanding features of the tax revision bill as passed by the Senate provide for repeal of the excess profits tax and all the transportation taxes on next Jan. 1 and a reduction of the surtax rates all along the line, with the maximum rate reduced from 65 per cent to 50 per cent. Taxes proposed to be reduced include those on: Individual incomes of $5,000 or less through increased exemptions of $500 to heads of families and $200 for each dependent; candy from 5 per cent to 3 per cent; works of art from 10 to 5 per cent; capital stock issues having a par value of less than $100 a share (stamp taxes); cereal beverages from 15 per cent of the sale price to 2 cents a gallon; unfermented fruit juices from 10 per cent of the sale price to 2 cents a gallon; carbonated beverages from 10 per cent of the sale price to 2 cents a gallon plus 3 cents a gallon on the syrups used in their manufacture.

Taxes proposed to be increased include those on: Corporation income from 10 to 15 per cent; corporations through the repeal of the $2,000 normal exemption on those having a capital stock in excess of $25,000; estates taxes where the total sum exceeds $10,000,000; medicinal beer, wine (except champagne) and whisky; alcohol when diverted unlawfully for beverage purposes, from $2.20 a gallon to $6.40 a gallon.

Taxes proposed to be changed in form include: Stamp levies on perfumes, essences, toilet waters, extracts, hair oils, etc.; to manufacturers' levies at 4 per cent; retail taxes on fountain drinks to manufacturers' levies of 7 1/2 cents a gallon on finished fountain syrups for such drinks; retail luxury taxes on carpets, rugs, trunks, valises, traveling bags, suit cases, hat boxes, fitted toilet cases, purses, pocket-books, shopping and handbags, portable lighting fixtures, including lamps of all kinds and lamp shades, and fans costing in excess of certain amounts, to manufacturers' taxes of 5 per cent.

HAPSBURGS ARE EXILED TO MADEIRA ISLAND

Lisbon.—Portugal has granted permission for the deportation of Emperor Charles of Austria, the former Empress and their children to Funchal, Madeira Island, where they will take up their residence. Their home hereafter will probably be in the wing of an enormous building at Funchal, which was intended as a sanitarium when it was constructed some years ago by a group of German financiers. The building never was finished, because of a disagreement between the Portuguese Government and the Germans, and the place has been without occupants.

DOZEN BANDITS ROB NEW ORLEANS LIMITED

Paxton, Ill.—A dozen bandits armed with pistols, shotguns and bombs, which they used freely, wounding several trainmen and mail clerks, Monday night held up the New Orleans Limited train on the Illinois Central Railroad and with true wild West tactics looted the mail car of all the registered mail and the valuables in the safe and then escaped in waiting automobiles, which were stationed two miles south of Paxton.

Bankers Oppose Postal Savings

Washington.—Representative of the American Bankers' Association have protested before the House Postoffice Committee against passage of either the bill proposed by Postmaster General Hays or introduced by Representative Parrish of Texas to extend the facilities of the postal savings system. Instead of extending the system, the bankers favor a repeal of the law, on the ground that they are opposed to the Government going into the banking business.

AFTER THE FOOTBALL GAMES Man Who Had Been There Knew There Would Be Only One Distinctive College Color.

They were talking of their absent joys, and the fact that each of the fathers had a boy in a different college did not prevent them from amicably discussing their prospects.

"It won't be long," said one of the fathers, "before the athletic season opens, and then I think we'll hear something from the Orange and Blue."

"Yes," said another, "and there'll be some shouting done by the Blue and Gray."

"Of course," said the third father, "and as my boy has gone to Princeton, I'll have to put in a word for the Black and Orange; but it doesn't make such a great deal of difference. The boys are bound to come under the same colors in the end."

"No," said one. "Can't be arranged," said the other. "Oh, yes, it can!" "To which colors do you refer?" "Black and Blue."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Per Acre, $30.00

We still have about 8,000 acres of land out of 17,712 acres known as the Thomas F. Moody sub-division of Baylor county lands, cut into 177.12 acre tracts. We also have exclusive agency for county seat town site and 11, 22 and 44 acre tracts joining the town site, which is owned and located on the C. W. Post Estate lands. This county joins Lubbock county on the west and was organized last February. We have just got a new court house built, also school house. We have also just completed a new school building on the south part of this land.

The purchaser assumes $14.07 per acre due to Baylor county, drawing 5 per cent interest and payable thirty-seven years after date, but can be paid at any time after seven years, at purchasers option. When you buy this land, we deliver you a warranty deed and abstract.

Balance $16 per acre, $3 cash, remainder divided into 6 annual payments drawing 6 per cent Interest, Pay $2.16 each year and the interest, making very liberal terms.

This makes it possible for a man to handle one or more of these tracts. There has been so much demand for these lands for actual settlement that the owners have consented to let it go that the people may have homes.

State Survey Gives this 98.04 Tillable Land.

Make Oil From Rubber Seeds.
It will doubtless come as a surprise to many persons that an oil approximating linseed in its qualities can be made by crushing the seeds of rubber trees, as will the further fact that, once the oil is extracted the remaining cake may be used for cattle fodder.

These discoveries were made a long time ago by the Dutch Imperial institute, but it has only been in the last year or two that the use of this oil has passed the experimental stage. Now, however, at least one mill has been established in Malaya for crushing the seeds, and small commercial consignments of the oil have been sold in Europe at good prices.

Whether it will pay the planter to supply the seeds to an oil mill depends very largely on the cost of their collection, a point on which experts differ.

There are, however, large quantities of the seeds to be had in the Dutch East Indies, and in view of the present need of exercising strict economy in connection with rubber plantations and the big demand for oils and food-stuffs, serious efforts will be made to utilize the seeds in the way mentioned.

Not a Rival.

Among the few royal pilgrimages recently reported from the presently depleted royal circles of Europe is a visit of the king and queen of Denmark to their expansive dependency of Greenland.

Greenland is the closest connecting insular link between the new continent and the old, and has a definite geographical interest for the people of America. The king of Denmark also happens to be a monarch of commendably democratic qualities.

Greenland has an area of over 800,000 square miles, five times that of California. But providence in its wisdom has seen fit to superimpose glaciers over 700,000 of those square miles. Therefore it endures none of those menaces in respect of undesirable immigration that occasionally fret the citizens of this and other states.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Was That the Reason?

We all know that this is the age of socks for the little girls and of rolled stockings for the "dapper."

The boys and girls of the neighborhood were all congregated on Susie's front porch. Susie was a "dapper" and was recounting to her delighted hearers the story of how she had gone downtown a night or two before with her parents to take in a show, and with giggles and titters was explaining how she had managed, very adroitly, to squeeze herself in between mamma and dad when boarding the street car so she would be as inconspicuous, and (dare I say it?) as unexpedient as possible.

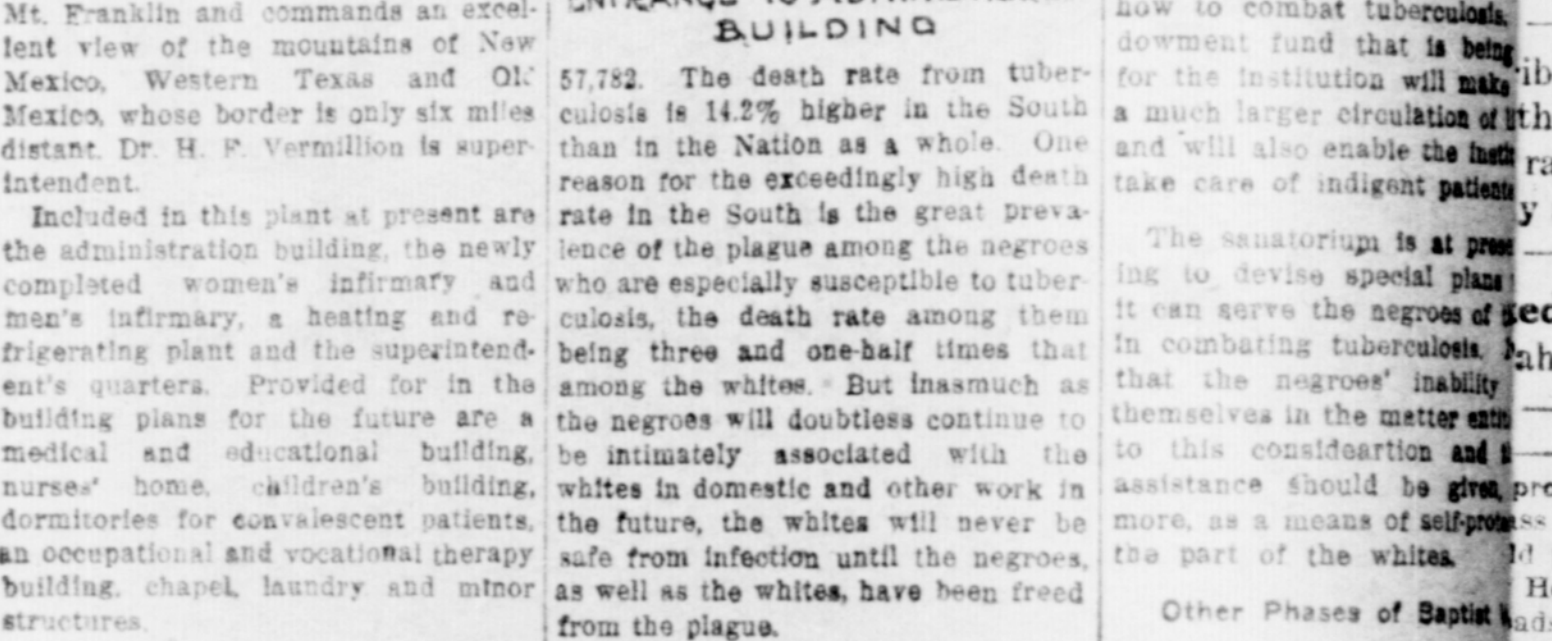

Little Betty, who had been an attentive listener up to this time, suddenly exploded:

"What was the matter, Susie? Was your knees dirty?"—Indianapolis News.

Wild Flowers.

Wild flowers are coming to the fore as the medium for wedding bouquets. At a recent wedding small orange trees glowing with bright-colored fruit were used with flame azaleas as church decoration.

FOUNTAIN PLAYS IN CENTER OF COURT BETWEEN TWO INFIRMARIES

WOMAN'S INFIRMARY BAPTIST SANATORIUM

A RECREATION PATIO BETWEEN MEN'S AND WOMAN'S BLDG.

ENTRANCE TO ADMINISTRATION BUILDING

In one of the most extensive fights that has ever been made by any religious body in America for the eradication of disease, Southern Baptists, through their Home Mission Board, have undertaken the task of combating tuberculosis in the 18 states comprising the territory of the Southern Baptist Convention. The first step in this direction was the recent establishment on a tract of 143 acres at El Paso, Texas, of the Southern Baptist Sanatorium, where $500,000 from the 75 Million Campaign has been invested and where $500,000 more will be placed by the end of the Campaign period. The institution is located at an altitude of 4,500 feet on the side of Mt. Franklin and commands an excellent view of the mountains of New Mexico, Western Texas and Old Mexico, whose border is only six miles distant. Dr. H. P. Vermillion is superintendent.

Included in this plant at present are the administration building, the newly completed women's infirmary and men's infirmary, a heating and refrigerating plant and the superintendent's quarters. Provided for in the building plans for the future are a medical and educational building, nurses' home, children's building, dormitories for convalescent patients, an occupational and vocational therapy building, chapel, laundry and minor structures.

150 People Die Daily. Indicating the need of additional effort looking to the elimination of tuberculosis in the South, reliable figures gathered by the public health agencies of the South and the Nation show that there are 150 deaths daily from tuberculosis in the 18 states comprising the territory of the Southern Baptist Convention, making the annual death toll of the white plague for this section of the country alone

57,752. The death rate from tuberculosis is 14.2% higher in the South than in the Nation as a whole. One reason for the exceedingly high death rate in the South is the great prevalence of the plague among the negroes who are especially susceptible to tuberculosis, the death rate among them being three and one-half times that among the whites. But inasmuch as the negroes will doubtless continue to be intimately associated with the whites in domestic and other work in the future, the whites will never be safe from infection until the negroes, as well as the whites, have been freed from the plague.

It has been estimated that the total economic loss from the ravages of tuberculosis in the South is $175,000,000 a year, and in projecting their warfare against the plague the Baptists hope to greatly reduce this loss, as well as to save the life and promote the health and general efficiency of the whole people.

Would Educate the People. In addition to providing treatment for persons who have already contracted tuberculosis, the sanatorium seeks to inform the public through the printed page, the danger of tuberculosis, how to avoid it and how, once it is contracted, its progress can be checked through proper sanitary measures. Other phases of the national program include the training of workers inside the sanatorium, occupational and vocational patients. The extension of this widely disseminating literature to combat tuberculosis, a movement fund that is being for the institution will make a much larger circulation of the leaflets and will also enable the institution to take care of indigent patients.

Indian Rites Dying Out.
The Hopi Indians, more than any other tribe, have long-cherished forms, says a correspondent. Still here in the isolation of the gleaming desert and mesa country one may witness still the corn dance, the snake dance and other picturesque ceremonials which the influence of the white man has as yet little changed. Among all of the Pueblo people there has been preserved much of the old Indian culture. This is easily understood when one considers the character of the Pueblos. Dwelling in ancestral villages century after century, avoiding war when possible, and in their remote mesa homes resisting even the disintegrating influence of the white men, these interesting tribes have preserved some magnificent art, poetry and religious sentiments which are now in danger of extinction, just as the white student of Indian life is beginning to appreciate their value.

Growth of Christian Endeavor.
The Christian Endeavor, a young people's society, was originated by Rev. Francis E. Clark, pastor of the Williston Congregational church in Portland, Me. On February 2, 1881, about 50 boys and girls met in the pastor's study and pledged themselves to attend and take some part in a weekly prayer meeting and once a month to hold a consecration meeting. Other duties, social, religious, literary, and of various kinds, were assigned to different members. They met with instant acceptance, and today there are more than 75,000 societies in the United States and Canada and in other lands.

Long Train.
There were 678,211,904 tons of coal mined in the United States in 1920, says a correspondent. If all this coal were put into one train of 50-ton cars, this train would consist of 13,562,238 cars, and it would take 271,284 engines to pull it. This is based on the hauling capacity of the average American engine. This train would be 342,722 miles long, and would encircle the earth over 19 times at the equator.

American life is realistic, utilitarian, epicurean, more inclined toward comedy than tragedy, rational and, above all, a life of common sense. Japanese life, on the contrary, is eccentric, sentimental and essentially pessimistic.

Japanese life is local, provincial, insular. It is in no way international. One proof of this is that when the country people come to town it is usually possible to tell from the patterns of their clothes, the stripes in them and from their methods of speaking just what particular part of the country they come from. In America no one can tell a country person from anyone else.

The fourfold division of society—samurai, farmer, artisan and merchant—which prevailed from early days in Japan has so stamped the members of each group with class individualities that even today it is very easy to tell to which hereditary rank a person belongs.—Atsushi Matsuzawa, in the Japan Advertiser.

Sunflower Silage.
Sunflower silage, in places where large tonnage of corn for silage cannot be produced, is reported by the United States Department of Agriculture to have given varying results. In some sections it seems to compare favorably in palatability and feeding value with corn silage, but in certain districts of the Northern Great Plains, where the growth of sunflowers is rank and succulent, the resulting silage is often not very palatable. Reports from the Huntley experiment farm in Montana show that, while 25 to 30 tons of sunflowers per acre may be produced, the silage is not as much relished by live stock as that from corn, which yields less than half as much per acre.

Starved.
The other day I was called from home suddenly about 11 o'clock. I took daughter Jane to the library and gave her some picture books with which to amuse herself until my return, which I expected would be in time for lunch. Not having time to give her luncheon first, I gave her three cookies as I was leaving. I was detained and when I entered the library it was almost two. Regardless of all rules of silence, Jane greeted me loudly with: "I'm just starved to death. Do you speculate to make a living off of free cookies?" We fled amidst the laughter.

Doubted if She Could Make It.

At a recent gathering of musicians Lieut. John Philip Sousa told the following story:

"We musicians have one thing, we give solace or joy to those who listen," he said. "Sometimes, possibly, we take ourselves too seriously. I recall giving some concerts in St. Louis some years ago, and every morning I went down to my breakfast at the hotel I saw a woman scrubbing the steps and working away very hard. Finally, thinking that possibly a concert would be very enlightening and elevating for her, I stopped her on the stairs one morning and said, 'By the way, would you like to go to a concert tomorrow night?' thinking, of course, she knew me. However, she did not know me. She looked up at me and said: 'Is that your only night off?'"—Musical Courier.

Can Curve Torpedoes.

A new system of torpedo fire control by which the firing of torpedoes in a curved course is automatically controlled has been perfected by John Hays Hammond, Jr., he announced.

By means of this system, he said, a battleship or submarine could fire a torpedo at a target in any direction without changing the course of the vessel. Submarines equipped with the system could attack two targets at the same time.

Among other inventions of Mr. Hammond are the wireless controlled torpedo, a projectile that scatters molten steel, a radio-controlled warship and a radio airplane control.

Significant Storm Warning.

Below the 35th parallel of latitude in North America, a fire-colored sunset in the hurricane season may be a storm warning to be heeded. The United States weather bureau finds that, even without any particular fall in pressure, such a sunset may precede 24 or 48 hours such signs as the sea swell and the moving of the upper clouds in unusual directions, and may be the only early indication of dangerous tropical storms of small diameter forming over the Gulf stream, or as offshoots of larger hurricanes. The fire-colored sunset is quite different from the ordinary. It is an awe-inspiring spectacle, and is apparent to the most untrained in weather signs. An approaching hurricane may affect the atmosphere, and the light rays passing through it, for more than 1,000 miles.

Duralumin Motor Boats.

Motor boats constructed of duralumin are claimed to combine extraordinary lightness with great strength. This aluminum alloy is little heavier than aluminum itself and a third as heavy as brass; it resists corrosion and temperature changes. The new boats are designed especially for life boats. Small power is required, and a 4-cylinder, 14-horse power engine drives at 11 knots, on 9.1-4 pounds of gasoline per hour, a cabin cruiser 33 feet long and 7 1/2 feet beam, with a draught of 2 1/2 feet.

Historic DeWitt Clinton Train of 1831

TRAIN AND COSTUMES OF 90 YEARS AGO

By JOHN DICKINSON SHERMAN.
THE historic DeWitt Clinton train of 1831 is an object lesson of American railroading. It is doubly an object lesson. It shows how far we have gone in railroad construction and development. It shows how great is the interest of the American people in their railroads.

When the farmer's boy hears the whistle of the local freight what does it do to him? Why, the chances are that it sets him dreaming of the day when he'll be grown up enough to be a brakeman—or even a conductor or an engineer.

What do the people of the country town do at train time? Why, they go down to the station to see the train arrive and depart, of course.

Why does Chicago boast of being the railroad center of the United States? Because no city can make a prouder boast.

What occupies the attention of congress quite as much as peace treaties, disarmament and taxes? Why, the railroad problem.

In short, the railroads are just as much a part of the national life as baseball, the corn crop and the Fourth of July.

And no wonder! One hundred years ago the United States did not have a mile of steam railroad (neither did any other country, for that matter). Now the United States has 296,381 miles, while all the rest of the world has only 732,800 miles. Canada has 38,694 miles; France, 31,958; the British Isles 23,709.

In 1830 there were but 23 miles of railroad in operation in the United States. By 1840 the mileage had increased to 2,818 and by 1850 to 9,021. In the decade between 1850 and 1860 the mileage increased to 30,626. This was a time of swift expansion and of grants of land and money. In fact, one of the causes of the panic of 1857 was the overcapitalization and overbuilding of railroads. It was in 1857 that a line was completed from the Atlantic to the Mississippi, linking Baltimore and St. Louis.

Another period of great expansion began in 1867, after the practical standstill caused by the Civil war. This expansion period lasted till the panic of 1873. The mileage increased at the rate of 4,400 miles a year; in 1870 no less than 6,078 miles of new track were built. It was May 10, 1869, that the first line across the continent was completed by the meeting of the Union Pacific and Central Pacific at Salt Lake City and the driving of the famous "Golden Spike."

But the biggest expansion period of all was the decade beginning with 1880, in which 70,000 miles were built; in the years 1880-82 no less than 29,000 miles were built, principally in the Central and Western states. This was a time of railroad speculation; railroads were frequently built in advance of the demand and even preceded the settlers. Since 1884 railroad building has been more conservative and much of the construction has gone into second and third tracks and improvements.

Thousands of Americans, still hale and hearty, have seen the oil lamp replaced on the railroads by compressed gas and by electric lights; the advent of the Pullman and the dining car; the growth of the mail and express service; the building of palatial terminal depots in cities like New York, Chicago, Washington and Kansas City. They well remember the establishment of the "fast trains"—which called forth Vanderbilt's famous, "The public be damned!" Many of them hope to see the era of electrification, which is just beginning, well under way.

The truth is that the railroads built large on our national horizon. There are now about 75 big systems. Some of them are very large, operating from 5,000 to 10,000 miles. The class A railroads operate 233,145 miles. They have a capital stock of about $9,000,000,000, funded debts of about $11,500,000,000, property investments of about $18,250,000,000 and annual operating revenues of about $5,000,000,000. They have more than 1,800,000 employees, whose compensation totals more than $2,000,000,000 a year. They have about 64,000 locomotives, 54,000 passenger cars and 2,350,000 freight cars. They transport more than 2,300,000,000 tons of freight a year.

TYPICAL CROWD AT ERIE, PA.

PAST AND PRESENT

Moreover, few public questions have played a greater role in American politics in the last 20 years than the regulation, either state or federal, of the railroads. And perhaps they have never been a bigger question than right now. As everyone knows, the railroads went under the operation and control of the federal government during the World war; wages of employees were increased; freight and passenger rates were increased. The railroads were returned to their owners March 1, 1920. The government's loss in the operation of the railroads while under federal control was over $900,000,000. May 1, 1920, the railroad labor board granted wage increases to about 1,800,000 employees, aggregating $600,000,000. August 27, 1920, the interstate commerce commission granted to the railroads increases in freight and passenger rates to enable them to meet the increased cost of operation caused by the war, to rehabilitate and expand the equipment and to meet the advance in wages granted by the railroad labor board. Nineteen hundred twenty-one saw the public demanding lower freight rates and the railroads and their employees considering the reduction of wages.

No wonder, then, that the historic DeWitt Clinton train of 1831 is a double object lesson in American railroads. It dates back to the railroad beginnings of this country—and of the world. Crowds go to see it whenever opportunity offers. A recent trip from New York to Chicago was a sort of railroad royal progress.

This granddaddy of locomotives, partly rebuilt, was put under steam and was run over a mile on the west side tracks of the New York Central on Manhattan island, attaining a speed of 12 miles an hour. To turn back the pages to 1831 and complete the picture, a group of railroad office girls, gowned in pinafors, hoopskirts and poke bonnets, such as were worn by their great-grandmothers, rode on the coaches in the presence of the big crowds of people, who laughed and cheered.

The train was then loaded on two specially designed flat cars, drawn by the famous high-speed locomotive 909, which in 1883 made the run between Rochester and Buffalo at the rate of 112.5 miles an hour, a record which still stands. A modern private car at the rear completed the train.

Crowds flocked to see the train all along the thousand miles. The public demand was so great that ten days were taken up on the trip.

The DeWitt Clinton locomotive, named for the seventh governor of New York, was built for the Mohawk & Hudson railroad by the West Point foundry, New York city, in 1831. It drew its first passengers August 9. It made regular trips between Albany and Schenectady, a distance of seventeen miles. The Mohawk & Hudson was the original unit of the New York Central system, which now aggregates 6,075 miles. The cars were built on the lines of stage coaches. The inside and outside seats of each coach accommodated from 15 to 18 persons. A contract awarded to James Gould of Albany for the construction of six coaches provided that each coach was to be built and mounted on the railroad company's carriage frame for $310. A single steel day coach at present prices costs $34,000. The rails were of wood, with strap-iron stringers nailed to them. The train made from 12 to 30 miles an hour. The fuel was wood.

The DeWitt Clinton, as first built, weighed only 6,758 pounds, but as remodeled weighs 9,420 pounds. The weight of its tender is 5,840 pounds and each coach weighs 3,430 pounds, making the total weight of the train 25,020 pounds.

The standard Pacific type locomotive, used to haul the New York Central's fast passenger trains, weighs 276,000 pounds, and its loaded tender 158,000 pounds, making the weight of the engine and tender 434,000 pounds, a little more than 17½ times the weight of the whole DeWitt Clinton train.

The DeWitt Clinton engine is 12 feet 10 inches long; the length of the tender is 10 feet 11 inches, and each coach is 14 feet long, making the length of the train 65 feet 9 inches. The length of a Pacific type locomotive, including its tender, is 78 feet 2½ inches, or 12 feet 5½ inches more than the length of the DeWitt Clinton train. The latest type steel passenger coach measures 79 feet.

From such insignificant beginnings has grown America's world preeminence in railroading in less than one hundred years.

Origin of Buttons.

The Elizabethan era gave vogue to the button and buttonhole, two inventions which may be regarded as important, since they did much to revolutionize dress. The original button was wholly a product of needlework, which was soon improved by the use of a wooden mold. The brass button is said to have been introduced by a Birmingham merchant, in 1588. It took 200 years to improve on the method of sewing the cloth upon the covered button. The ingenious Dane hit upon the idea of making the button in two parts and clamping them together, with the cloth between.

Morals in Government.
My own deliberate opinion is, that the more of pure moral principle is carried into the policy and conduct of a government, the wiser and more profound will that policy be. If it is not the uniform course of human events that virtue should be crowned with success, it is at least the uniform will of Heaven that virtue should be the duty of man. The path of virtue is, indeed, not always clear, and in the complication of human affairs artifice and simulation itself must occasionally be practiced. But it may, I believe, be laid down as a universal maxim that fraud is never justifiable to effect the same object. Fraud is, therefore, a weapon essentially belonging to the relations of war.—John Quincy Adams.

Ex-Sheriff of Dallas County Strongly Endorses Ware's Black Powder

Dallas, Texas, November 29, 1919.

The Ware Chemical Company, Dallas, Texas. Gentlemen:

In 1906 my mother was suffering with a bad case of stomach and bowel trouble and could not eat or retain any kind of food in her stomach.

Some of the best doctors in this country were called in and diagnosed her affliction as incurable, and told me that my mother would live but a short time, and that they could do nothing for her. She was then 75 years old.

About this time someone suggested that we try Ware's Black Powder. We did so, and soon she began to improve and finally got in good health for a lady of her age. She lived until she was 85 years old.

Since that time I have been strong in my commendation of Ware's Black Powder; I am convinced that there is no better remedy for stomach and bowel trouble.

Yours very truly,
(Signed) B. F. Brandenburg, Formerly Sheriff Dallas County
