

Methodist Revival Began Sunday; F. M. Neal Preaching

Revival services began at the Methodist Church Sunday morning with Frank M. Neal of Fayetteville, Arkansas, as the evangelist and Fred Poulter as choir leader. Services are being held twice each day, at 10 o'clock in the morning and at 8:30 in the evening. Good-sized crowds are attending the evening services, and those who go never fail to find plenty to please and entertain unless the keen thrusts which the revivalist makes at each service happen to cut too deeply. The preacher makes use of enough current slang and homely wit to make his messages intensely interesting even to those who usually find little pleasure in attending church services.

Sunday morning the evangelist took as the basis of his discourse the story of the rich young fellow who came to Christ and asked: "Good master, what shall I do to inherit eternal life?" His theme was Self Righteousness. He figuratively took the hide from the fellow who expect to get to Heaven by reason of his good morals. "You fellows that boast about your morals, what one of you would be willing for a picture of your life, your secret thoughts, your lusts, to be cast on that screen before this audience so that all could see?" he asked with dramatic effect, and then he proceeded to make every fellow present feel about as little and mean as a human can feel.

Sunday night, after leading out in a few of the later songs, Fred Poulter directed the choir and the congregation in the singing of a medley of fine old hymns, and the congregation seemed to thoroughly enjoy it. The preacher's theme was Service. He read the story of the mother of James and John approaching Jesus and asking that her sons be allowed to sit, one on his right side and the other on his left in the kingdom of Heaven. In his discourse he took occasion to score the parents who are unable to control their children, and he made monkeys out of the fellows who permit their boys and girls to run hog-wild and then come to the minister to get him to try to lead them aright.

"The Unfinished Task of the Great World War" was the theme Monday night. The discourse, however, had no reference to the war between the nations recently fought out on the soil of Europe. It related to the Christian warfare. He showed that the Christian life should be militant for Christ.

Tuesday night the evangelist took a whack at Evolution. He rapped the scientists who subscribe to the theory and showed how their views even on scientific questions are constantly and radically changing. He pleaded for a deeper and more general study and acceptance of the Bible, condemned Russellism, New Thought, Mormonism, and other isms that have gained some popularity within the recent past.

The meeting will continue through out next week, and the indications and probabilities are, so far as the human mind can judge, that there will be many reclamations and professions of faith before the revival closes.

METHODIST PASTOR GETS POUNDED

The Methodist folks gave their pastor a good pounding last Friday night. Brother Howell reports that they even pounded his cow, bringing her a bale of fine alfalfa hay, and Daisy has been living in clover, as it were, ever since. It does the "inner man" good to be treated thus by his congregation, and Brother Howell greatly appreciates the kindness and generosity of his people.

FRANK HODGES CRITICALLY ILL

Frank Hodges, who has not been in good health for some time, lies critically ill at his home. He had a hemorrhage of the lungs Sunday evening, since which time the attending physician has not held out much hope for his recovery. His many friends deplore his serious illness and trust that God in his providence may yet spare his life awhile longer.

J. W. Small and family left Monday for a pleasure trip of two weeks in south Texas.

BROWN BISHOP ELECTED SECRETARY OF C. OF C.

Brown Bishop has been elected secretary of the Tahoka Chamber of Commerce, to devote his full time to the work.

Mr. Bishop has been in Lynn county and this section of the state for a number of years and is thoroughly conversant with the country and its resources. For a number of years he has been teaching, having been principal of the Redwine school the past year.

It is to be hoped that he will have the full co-operation of the citizenship in this important task.

Wilson School Bonds Were Voted Monday

The election held in the Wilson Independent School District on Monday to determine whether or not bonds in the sum of $10,000 should be issued for the purpose of completing and furnishing the splendid school building at that place resulted in favor of the bonds, the vote being 123 to 73. It is hoped to have the work begin soon, so as to have the building completed and furnished in time for the beginning of the next school term. Wilson has one of the best small town schools in the state and the people there are wide awake to the educational interests of the community. Had it not been for the fact that the weather is just a little dry and crop prospects somewhat uncertain, the bonds probably would have carried almost unanimously.

A. L. ROBERTSON'S FATHER DIES

County Agent A. L. Robertson returned Monday from Marietta, Oklahoma, to which place he had been called the preceding Tuesday by the serious condition of his father. His father died on Tuesday before Mr. Robertson's arrival. The elder Mr. Robertson had been a resident of Gainesville, Texas for many years but removed to Marietta, Oklahoma, a few years ago. He was 65 years of age at the time of his death, and had been a useful and highly respected citizen.

Mr. Robertson says that crops in Oklahoma and in Texas along his route are fine. There is going to be an immense cotton crop, he thinks.

FORMER TAHOKA PEOPLE RETURN

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Marr, after an absence of a year or more, have returned to Tahoka to make their home. They will reside in their residence situated near the High School Building. Mr. Marr has purchased an interest in the barber shop situated just south of Jack's Hamburger building on the corner, and will be glad to wait on his friends at his new place of business. During most of his absence from Tahoka Mr. Marr has been in the barber business at O'Donnell. For the past few weeks he and Mrs. Marr have been sojourning in New Mexico. Their many friends here are glad to see them return.

Sam Sanford's Father Killed

Lived on Ranch in Arizona; Was 72 Years of Age; Arrest is Made

Sheriff Sam Sanford received a telegram late Wednesday afternoon from Wilcox, Arizona, to the effect that his father had been murdered, and it was thought that the right man had been apprehended. No details as to how the homicide was committed were given. It is not known whether he was shot or killed in some other manner. The old gentleman was 72 years of age and was residing on a ranch near Aravaipa eighty miles northwest of Wilcox. Two sons, we understand, reside somewhere in that section of a state. Wilcox is situated in the southeast portion of the state on the S. P. Railroad. Mr. Sanford went to Big Spring early Thursday morning to catch the west-bound Texas & Pacific. In a telephone conversation with one of the officers Wednesday night, Mr. Sanford was unable to learn any of the details. No further message relating to the affair has been received at the time we go to press.

Judging Team Enters Contest

Accompanied By Farm and Demonstration Agents; To Advertise the County

County Agent A. L. Robertson and Home Demonstration Agent, Miss Millie M. Halsey, leave today (Thursday) with a number of the members of the boys' and girls' clubs of the county for College Station to attend the Farmers Short Course to be given by the A. & M. College, and where the boys and girls will participate in the state contests. These boys and girls won first prizes in the district contest recently held at Lubbock, and now they are going to try to bring back some honors from the state meet. They are taking with them a large number of the folders recently printed by the News for the Tahoka Chamber of Commerce, setting forth some of the resources and possibilities of Lynn county, and they will distribute these in the numerous cities, towns, and villages through which they will pass en route to College Station. The boys in the party are: Yates Key, Ford Huffman, and Walter Meecker of Wilson, Emmet McCord and Carl Jones of Grassland, and Alton Flemming, John Paul Ray, and Curtis Morgan of Magnolia. The girls are Ruby Ash of Draw and Lucy Manly of Gordon.

BEAN, WESTER, AND PARRISH ADDRESS TAHOKA VOTERS

Tahoka got her share of public speaking last Saturday afternoon. A good-sized crowd assembled in the district court room to hear Judge Geo. R. Bean, candidate for district judge, and Prof. J. K. Wester, candidate for the legislature. Before these gentlemen spoke, however, a few minutes were accorded to Judge Parrish of Lubbock who spoke in the interest of Parke Dalton of Quasaba, candidate for district attorney.

Judge Parrish called attention to the fact that the first district attorney of this district resided in Lubbock county, the second in Lynn county, the third and present one in Dawson county, and that no Crosby county man had ever held this position. He further cited the fact that both the candidates for district judge reside in Lubbock county, that Lubbock county has always had the state senator and the representative in the legislature, and he thought that some of the other counties in the district ought to be given consideration in the election of the officers. He presented the claims of Parke Dalton as one of the most brilliant and capable young attorneys on the plains, clean in life and character, standing for the enforcement of the law. His appeal for votes for Mr. Dalton seemed to meet with a sympathetic response on the part of his auditors.

Judge Bean speaks Judge Bean was then introduced and began by showing the importance of the office of district judge, to which he aspires. He spoke in part as follows:

"The office of district judge is one of the most important offices. The district court comes in close touch with the people. It adjudicates their rights. It is a part of the state government. The district judge is simply your hired hand to serve you. On next Saturday you are going to hire a man to work for you for four years. No man has a claim on the office. It belongs to you. You ought to hire the man who can serve you best."

"When the judgment in the case of Ketner vs. Slaughter was rendered a number of years ago, holding that the school lands were subject to settlement, settlers or 'nestors' began to settle on these lands. The cow man and the 'nestors' had many disputes about these lands resulting in much litigation, some of it being in the county courts. I was elected county judge of Lubbock about this time and tried many of these cases. Some of the most distinguished lawyers of Texas appeared in my courts. I was elected county judge of Lubbock county about this time and tried many of these cases. Some of the most distinguished lawyers of Texas appeared in my court in the trial of these cases, and without exception I have ever since enjoyed their confidence and friendship. After serving awhile as county judge, I entered the practice of the law in Lubbock. My opponent has stated that I have had no experience in the trial of criminal cases. I am sure he would not willfully misrepresent the facts, but he is mistaken. For a number of years I practiced both civil and criminal law, and I was retained in some very important criminal cases. As for that matter I can not see that Judge Mullican has much of a record in the practice of criminal law. He got several men in the pen, whom he represented, before he became district judge, and he has got none in the pen since except on pleas of guilty.

"I feel it my duty to refute some of the things that Judge Mullican has said about me. At Idalou, where we spoke several weeks ago, we were requested not to engage in anything like a debate; so I contented myself in merely making my announcement and stating a few things about my life and my experience, and sat down. Then Judge Mullican spoke, and he had not been speaking long until he began to attack me. He said that a petition had been circulated asking me to run and that the criminal element was backing me. I want to say that some of the very best citizens in Lubbock county and I (Crosby county) signed that petition (Cont'd on Last Page)

Kangaroo Kourt Tries An Important Case

The Kangaroo Kourt of Tahoka was in session again Tuesday afternoon. W. D. Nevels was the judge. Jake Leedy was the prosecuting attorney. A. L. Lockwood, G. W. Small and J. H. Edwards constituted the jury. Carl Griffling was the helpless victim. He didn't have the ghost of a show. As usual, the Judge was stern and unrelenting. The prosecuting attorney was vicious. The State witnesses were conscienceless. Even the defendant's attorney was treacherous; and the jury was merciless. Carl was charged with having knowingly, willingly, and deliberately committed the crime of matrimony. He pleaded guilty. He could do nothing else. But the prosecution put on witnesses to show the enormity of the crime. Carl had no witnesses. Every friend he had deserted him in this hour of need. The jury found him guilty. They assessed his punishment at a fine of five dollars worth of cigars and a free ride over the streets of the city. The peace officers, the court, the witnesses, the jury and the rabble all joined in administering the punishment. A trailer was hitched to the rear of an automobile. The culprit was placed in it, sitting in a rocker, and surrounded by bedsteads and other paraphernalia. They actually chained him to the vehicle in order to prevent his escape. A posse of officers armed to the teeth took their seats nearby so as to prevent any possible danger of escape. They wickedly tied a baby buggy on behind the trailer, and thus rigged up they paraded the streets of the city for an hour or more with their prisoner. Finally they took him to his home and chained him to a tree, and otherwise used him spitefully. After all this punishment and contumely had been heaped upon him, he promised not to be guilty of a second offence, whereupon he was allowed to go hence without day.

This court has functioned in Tahoka at least twice before in modern times, once when Happy Smith was the defendant and once when Marshall Stewart had offended against the peace and dignity of bachelorhood. The News failed to recognize the importance of the matter at the time, but the proceedings of Judge Nevels' court have grown to be so sensational that we expect to have a reporter present hereafter in order that we may give the public full information as to the doings of this august tribunal. Nevels and Leedy will be running for re-election some of these days, and when they do so we shall expect Carl Griffling to campaign the district against them. The District is composed of Lynn and Van Zandt counties, and Carl is going to make it hot for 'em down in old Van Zandt.

ALL CANDIDATES INVITED

PICNIC AT SOUTHLAND

A picnic has been announced for Southland Friday, and although it is over the line in Garza county, many Lynn county folks are expected to be there and many of the Lynn county candidates intend to be on the ground early. They are all now on the home stretch.

At a recent meeting of the school board, the faculty for the ensuing school year was completed. Nearly all the members of the faculty were chosen some time ago, but one or two were not selected until a few nights ago.

As stated in these columns several weeks ago, Superintendent H. P. Caveness was re-elected. The other members of the faculty, with some data respecting them follow: A. B. Sanders, Principal, who will teach Science. He holds an A. B. degree from Simmons College and was head of the Science department last year in the Cisco High School.

Mrs. R. O. Moore is an A. B. graduate of Texas Woman's College of Fort Worth. She will teach English in the Tahoka High School. She held a like position at Mosquero, New Mexico, last year.

Miss Ruby Windsor, A. B. of Baylor University, will teach Spanish and Mathematics, the same work she had last year.

Don A. Shiflett, A. B. of Simmons College, will teach History. He was in school last year.

Miss Lena Price, B. S. of the College of Industrial Arts of Denton will again teach Home Economics.

W. R. Lace, B. S. of the A. & M. College, will teach Agriculture. He was in college last year.

Mrs. Evans will have charge of the 6th grade; Mrs. Henderson of the 5th grade; Miss Agnes Morton of Wichita Falls will teach in the 4th and 5th grades; Mrs. H. P. Caveness, 4th grade; Miss Leta Carmack, 3rd grade; Miss Dovie Colleenback, 2nd grade; and Mrs. L. F. Craft, primary.

Miss Inez Wright of Fort Worth will again be teacher of piano, and Miss Mildred Shook of Waco will teach Expression. Miss Shook was principally reared here but took her Expression training in the Emerson School of Expression, Boston.

Harvey Blackstone will again be principal of the South Waco School, and Miss Lela Clemens will be the assistant.

Misses Carmack and Morton have spent the summer in the North Texas State Teachers' College at Denton. Miss Colleenback has been in the State University at Austin, and Miss Windsor and Mrs. Craft have been in Chicago University.

The faculty is regarded as a strong one, and there is every reason to believe that our school the coming year will be fully as efficient as it was last year. Tahoka is generally reputed to have one of the best schools on the south plains.

Superintendent Caveness informs us that school will probably begin on Monday, September 8.

The work of remodeling the roof of the High School building and in making an addition to the South Ward building is progressing rapidly and will probably be completed within the next two weeks.

GOOD SHOWERS VISIT MOST OF OLD TERRY

Last Thursday afternoon a good looking cloud came up from the west that gave us a precipitation of 43-100 of an inch rain according to the government gauge.

The western part of the country got the best end of the rain, as it did not extend very far east of Brownfield. Some places in western Terry got more than an inch. Good rains fell from here to Tatum N. M. West. —Terry County Herald.

LAMESA BALL TEAM WINS OVER TAHOKA SUNDAY

The Lamesa ball team came over Sunday and walloped the home team by a score of 7 to 5. Up till the eighth inning it looked as if the home boys would win, but the Lamesa boys bunched a number of hits and closed the ninth with the two more marks on their score card than was credited up to Tahoka.

"PHILADELPHIA LAWYER"

This saying had its origin in the famous Zenger case in New York. John Peter Zenger a native of Germany, was publishing the "New York Weekly Journal." William Crosby, the royalist governor, had Zenger arrested and thrown into prison on charges of libel for criticizing the administration. The case was tried in 1735. Andrew Hamilton of Philadelphia, a native of Scotland, and the most eminent lawyer in the colonies, was employed to defend Zenger. Hamilton appeared as the champion of the freedom of the press. With matchless logic and eloquence he foiled the sophistry of the royalist court and obtained a complete acquittal for Zenger on the ground that his criticisms were statements of fact and therefore justified. The crowded court room was resonant with applause and the venerable Philadelphia lawyer was borne from the city hall on the shoulders of the shouting multitude. Hamilton refused to accept a cent for the defense of Zenger. The city of New York voted him the freedom of the city "for his learned and generous defense of the rights of mankind and the liberty of the press." Governor Morris once said that "the trial of Zenger in 1735 was the germ of American freedom—the morning star of that liberty which subsequently revolutionized America." As a result of this famous case any shrewd and capable lawyer is now called a Philadelphia lawyer. It is said that three Philadelphia lawyers are a match for the very devil.—Exchange.

Judge and Mrs. G. E. Lockhart returned Saturday from a tour through New Mexico, where they went for a few days recreation and pleasure.

O. W. Moore reports that he and George Smith and their families had a most successful fishing trip down on the Colorado below Gail last week—caught all the fish they wanted, fine channel cat, and came back home feeling like they had had a real vacation.

H. M. Larkin and family and Miss Lola Lewis returned Friday from Ballenger, where they visited relatives and did some very successful fishing in Valley Creek. Caught some big'uns, and had a good time. Miss Winnie Freeman, who had been visiting here, accompanied them on the trip down as far as Abilene, and Miss Margaret Larkin, who has been visiting at Ballenger several weeks, returned home with the other members of the family.

LARGEST WHEAT FIELD IN THE PANHANDLE LOCATED IN DEAF SMITH COUNTY

How many people in Herford know that probably the largest wheat field in the Panhandle of Texas is located in Deaf Smith County?

So far local inquires have been unable to hear of anything approaching the wheat farm of John Heiselman thirty miles northwest of Herford, and ten miles south of Adrian. Mr. Heiselman has 1620 acres of wheat, or the best part of three adjoining sections, in a solid body of wheat, thick as hair on a dog's back, averaging twenty eight bushels to the acre, although a straight sod crop, waving in the wind with a rustle like so many greenbacks, and presenting a sight which almost stuns the imagination. The Saturday Evening Post has carried several stories in the past of huge areas of wheat in the Northwest and in Canada, but here is the actual thing right in the corner of Deaf Smith county.

Mr. Heiselman is an Ohioan and was always intrigued by the gamble and lure of wheat raising. In 1914 he moved to Crosby county, Texas, where he kept on raising wheat, always with fair success. Last year he traded in a section of land in Crosby county and purchased these three Deaf Smith county sections. He hired W. A. Knox to break and disc the land with power outfits, this work costing him around $7,000 it is reported, then purchased a whole carload of seed to plant the place. He sowed a small fortune in ready cash and credit before he ever saw a tangible cent of return. He managed to plant all but something less than 400 acres last fall, in spite of the rainy weather.

That season made an independent man of Mr. Heiselman. Last Sunday he had one big combine mowing down a swath sixteen and a half feet wide, two acres to the mile, thirty five or forty acres per day, 1,000 to 1,200 bushels during that time. Another crew was busy erecting a second big combine. Over forty thousand bushels of wheat in one pile, waiting for combines to cut it!

Mr. Heiselman was perched high in the air over the rear of the combine, on the elevated box that receives the grain from a spout, after it goes through the machine. When the reservoir in the air is full a Ford truck with wheat bed attached, runs under the overhead bin, a spout is pulled open, the bin emptied, and the combine proceeds on its way.

Power farming on a huge scale Horseless farming, too. There is not a horse of any kind on his place, Mr. Heiselman is operating the entire plant by machinery from start to finish.

The Heiselman wheat farm gets a man's breath. It's a stupendous thing. The nery proprietor sold his first five thousand bushels for ninety eight cents. This week the price went to $1.03. It's easy to make figures on such a place and to build air castles and stuff from which dreams are made.

The State of Texas, To The Sheriff or Any Constable of Lynn County Greeting:-

You are hereby commanded to summon Lelia Ramona Gagnat, by making publication of this citation once in each week for four consecutive weeks previous to the return day hereof in some newspaper published in your county, if there be a newspaper published therein; but if not, then in the nearest county where a newspaper is published, to appear at the next regular term of the District Court of Lynn County, to be held at the court house thereof, in Tahoka, on the second Monday in August, 1924 the same being the 11th day of August 1924, then and there to answer a petition filed in said court on the 19th day of June A. D. 1924, in which suit numbered on the docket of said court, No. 500 wherein D. W. Gagnat is plaintiff and Lelia Ramona Gagnat is defendant, and defendant was on or about the first day of July 1916, married and continued to live together as husband and wife until about the first day of January A. D. 1922, when by reason of the cruel and harsh treatment and improper conduct of the defendant toward plaintiff he was forced and compelled to abandon defendant, since which time they have not lived together as husband and wife; plaintiff alleges that during the time he and defendant lived together, he was kind and affectionate to her, and always provided for her support and maintenance, but defendant, unmindful of the duties and obligations of her marital vows, about one year prior to the time of their separation began a course of cruel, harsh and tyrannical treatment, which continued until plaintiff was forced to abandon defendant as aforesaid, that at least one year prior to their said separation, defendant lived in adultery with other men, that the defendant's actions and conduct toward plaintiff were of such a nature as to render their living together as husband and wife insupportable, and plaintiff prays for a dissolution of the marriage relation heretofore existing between him and the defendant.

Hein fail not, but have you before said court on the said first day of the next term thereof, this writ with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

TERRY COUNTY BOY STRUCK BY LIGHTNING

While at work in the field last Thursday afternoon, a rain and thunder storm came up, and a bolt of lightning struck the team and tongue of a double row go-devil Oliver Hooker was running, killing the two outside mules, and knocking him unconscious. It is thought that owing to the fact that Oliver was sitting on his coat he had carried to the field, saved his life. It looked rainy after dinner and he had carried the coat to the field with him. He finally came to enough to grope his way to the house, where medical attention was given as soon as a physician could be summoned. He is able to be about at present.

He is the son of Commissioner and Mrs. T. O. Hooker of the Johnson community. This calamity is added to the Hooker family on top of the loss of his barn recently, and earlier in the spring Com. Hooker had his arm broken from the kick of a mule.

ART TREASURES IN OLD BURIAL SPOT

Discoveries Date From English Pre-Christian Era.

At Bidford-on-Avon, a Saxon burial ground dating from the pre-Christian era of England has been discovered. The cemetery lies on the north bank of the Avon, and in this ground 214 burials are recorded. They include people of all ages and both sexes, principally young. The number of really old people is small. The bodies were extended, facing generally north; the interments were regular and methodical, and usually from two feet six inches to three feet from the surface.

Notwithstanding their burial of 1,400 years many of the skeletons are splendidly preserved. Henri Picard writes in the Cincinnati Enquirer. In two instances practically every bone is present. The skulls and teeth are remarkable—the former dolichocephalic in character, and the latter showing almost an entire absence of caries. The teeth usually closed edge to edge, and by the middle aged showed excessive signs of erosion from the coarse and gritty food which formed their diet. Often the tissues were worn down to the nerve chambers, where a dentine of repair as hard as enamel was formed simultaneously to protect the nutrient organ.

In almost every instance the arrangement of the teeth was perfectly symmetrical, without the crowding and the narrowing of the jaws, the product of our modern civilization. The chins and jaws were well developed, and the remains showed our ancestors to have been splendid specimens of manhood.

The men were buried with their spears, lances and long knives or daggers lying by their sides, and on the left breast was an iron umbo which originally protected the shield. With the woman was generally found her jewelry, bronze brooches, beautiful necklaces and a food pot on her right hand with a small food knife. The necklaces discovered were numerous, consisting of blue, red, white and green glass beads or pieces of amber, some of great size, with often a large crystal pendant, or a few Roman coins or paste beads with zoomorphic designs.

The bronze brooches, many of great size, were typical of pre-Christian Anglo-Saxon art; many were large and varied in shape, from the plain square-headed brooch, attributed to about the year A. D. 500, to the beautiful and highly ornamented heavily gilded saucer-shaped brooches, with a variety of designs, as the star and sun with rays patterns, and numerous complex zoomorphic forms, all showing a west Saxon origin. There are two perfect, large brooches with a Swastika pattern, evidently of Eastern origin. It is regarded as an emblem of the sun, sacred in many parts of the world from the earliest times.

There are pretty bronze and silver finger rings, polished jewels, quite modern in appearance, a pendant of a beaver's tooth, suggesting that the animal then frequented the River Avon. One glorious, massive square-headed brooch is a unique example of the art of this people, whom we have regarded as primitive. It is five and a quarter inches in length, ornamented with a maze of wonderful design and highly gilded, and is as bright and perfect as on the day it was buried 1,400 years ago.

Two extraordinary pendantlike ornaments of unusual pattern are of exceptional interest. One represents two intertwined snakes with open mouths; the other, circular in form, shows twenty snakes arranged within the circle, with open mouths pointing to the periphery, and bodies intertwined, with tails pointing to the center. It is most unusual to see the natural snake form represented, although the serpentine zoomorphic ornament is quite common.

Fons of Apple Pomace Wasted.
Thousands of tons of apple pomace are going to waste annually which might profitably be turned into food for wintering cattle. Studies to determine the food value and best methods of utilizing this by-product from commercial cider and vinegar mills have been made. When the moist apple pomace can be used fresh or ensiled it yields a succulent cattle food comparable with corn silage. The quantity that can be used in this way is limited, however, because of the relatively high cost of transportation for material having such a high water content. Its most profitable utilization depends upon its preservation by dehydration and producing it as a commercial food. In feeding trials with dairy cows dried-apple pomace proved to be a palatable feed and appeared to be equal pound for pound of dry matter to good corn silage. The material was fed wet and replaced the corn silage in a ration including grain and hay.

To Fit the Price

A Topeka physician prescribed orthoform for a patient. This is a powerful medicine in powdered form for use in serious throat infections. The physician didn't say how much to get or intimate what the cost might be. The man of the house walked into a drug store.

"Want some orthoform," he said.
"All right, how much of it?" asked the druggist.

"What does it cost?"
"Sixty-four dollars a pound."
"Gimme two drams."—Kansas City Star.

Volcano Worth Owning

Prince Ginori-Conti of Italy has on his estates an old volcano which no longer spouts lava but which does blow out a great deal of steam and hot water. By boring holes in the ground the prince collects this steam and makes it drive electric generators. He gets power totaling more than 3,000-horse power. Out of the steam, after it has condensed, he extracts valuable quantities of boric acid, the familiar drug used in eye drops.

Writings Children Like

Five thousand children of Texas were recently "questionnaired" as to their favorite books. The ten "top-picks" were "Little Women," "Treasure Island," "Tom Sawyer," "Robinson Crusoe," "Huckleberry Finn," "Robin Hood," "Little Men," "Black Beauty," "Pollyanna" and "The Call of the Wild."

BOY SMOTHERED IN ELEVATOR WHEAT

All Herford was shocked Tuesday night when, about seven o'clock in the evening, the news spread that little Wesley Eugene Harrison, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Harrison, had been smothered to death in the wheat dump of his father's elevator. Great crowds swiftly gathered at the Harrison home to express their sympathy to the grieving members of the family, dazed by the sudden tragedy.

Wesley, aged eight years, was playing with several other boys in the wheat dump on the ground floor of the elevator, where several hundred bushels of wheat happened to be at the time. The elevator crew did not know of their presence. The dump is operated on a gravity plan and when, in the run of the work, the gates were opened, the wheat in the dump began to run down into the discharge spout. Wheat in motion has much the same action as quicksand. All the other boys, older than Wesley, got out of the dump in safety but the little fellow was caught by the suction and dragged under. Members of the crew who jumped in after him had hold of him at times but could not pull him out. As a last resort it was decided to let him come through the discharge spout, but here his body stuck and before the grain could be run off life had passed from him. Physicians were waiting when his body was rescued, and every possible effort made to revive him, without avail.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC

Any erroneous reflection upon the reputation or standing of any individual, firm or corporation, that may appear in the columns of the News, will be gladly corrected when called

There are some people who seem to have an abnormal bump of destructiveness in their craniums. They are not happy unless they are destroying something. Several of the signs which the business men of Tahoka placed along the two main highways passing through Lynn county have been torn down. These signs cost money. They not only serve as advertisements for the merchant who had them erected, but they serve as distance markers for the benefit of the traveling public. Why any decent, sensible, white man should find any pleasure or satisfaction in tearing them down is more than we can comprehend. We do not believe that any person living in or near Tahoka is guilty. Some uncivilized vandal, living elsewhere, evidently did the work. The next grand jury will probably be called upon to investigate the matter and it is to be hoped that the guilty parties shall be made to suffer.

This week will see the close of the preliminary campaign. To many the verdict next Saturday will be final. For others, it will merely place them in the final campaign, which will probably be more snappy and exciting than the preliminaries have been. There will probably be a run-off for governor and some other state offices, while it is probable that there will be a county run-off for county judge, sheriff, and public weigher or the Tahoka precinct. In the excitement of the campaign let us not forget that we are all neighbors, and that the other fellow has the good of the country at heart perhaps as much as ourselves. We have got to be neighbors after this thing is over, and therefore let us be tolerant and generous one toward another. Let us say nothing that will leave a sting after the election is over.

LaFollette has prevailed upon Senator Wheeler of Montana to become his running mate. LaFollette has long been a mugwump Republican and Wheeler is a Democrat. Wheeler recently gained considerable notoriety for his prosecution of the Daugherty charges. We admire Wheeler for his progressiveness and fearlessness but can't understand how any decent American would want to hook up with the skulker and near-traitor LaFollette, who did this country more injury than Eugene Debs perhaps while we were at war with that monstrous proponent of the doctrine that "might makes right", the German Autocracy. America ought to swat LaFollette and all who would ride with him in his band wagon as it would swat any other public enemy.

Much is said in the pulpit and elsewhere in condemnation of the "cigarette-sucking boy." We fully agree with all that is said in denunciation of the vicious habit. But what about the "cigarette-sucking" man? If you will take note, you will see about as many men who have become slaves to the habit as boys. It is principally a man's own business, but for the life of us we never could understand why big, brainy, sensible men would thus endanger and impair their health and possibly the health of future generations. We never could understand why they would set the bad example for their own boys. The cigarette habit is a mighty good habit to cut out.

A gentleman called Monday and asked for some of the folders that we recently printed for the Chamber of Commerce, stating that he desired to send them to friends in Kansas who might be interested in this country. He was not a real estate man but thinks this a great country, and wants his friends to know about it. We have had several like calls for these folders. It would be a good thing for our business men and other citizens to enclose one with each letter sent out.

NINE PRESIDENTIAL TICKETS

Nine varying conceptions of what the United States needs—politically, economically, socially, and, perhaps, religiously—have received expression and been endowed with leadership within the last few months. Nine candidates mounted upon nine platforms will travel over the United States each expounding the views of himself or his group, and gathering what additional adherents he may. From the voters viewpoint, the variety of declarations offered should be comprehensive enough to afford almost anyone a satisfactory code. The Republican platform, calling for indorsement of the permanent World Court, for the enforcement of law, and for the conscription of wealth and man power alike, and the Democratic plank advocating referendum on the League of Nations, are well known. The other seven candidacies, however with the possible exception of the La-Follette platform, are not so generally familiar. The list follows: Republican, Calvin Coolidge; Democrat: John W. Davis; Progressive, Robert M. La Follette, People's progressive, Robert R. Pointer; American, Gilbert O. Nations; Socialist-Labor, Frank Johns; National Prohibition, Herman Faris Commonwealth Land, William J. Wallace; Farm-Labor, Duncan McDonald. The La-Follette group would abolish monopolies; would sources; maintain high surtaxes on incomes; re-establish public organization both the Federal Reserve and Farm Labor banks; revise the Versailles Treaty and take radical steps to aid the embarrassed farmer. The People's Progressive party is the one that gathered in Detroit last January for the purpose of nominating Henry Ford. When this ambition could not be realized the nomination was conferred upon Pointer, who stands for personal liberty, including the abolition of the income tax. Mr. Nations, editor of the Ku Klux Klan journal, The Protestant, represents a group that believes an advanced declaration is necessary on the subject of the melting pot. The Socialist-Laborite finds most of its adherents in the west, although it has many followers in the east. The Commonwealth Land Party is not much more than another name for the Communists, the most advanced radicals known, and has a Communist platform. That which was the Socialist Party will support Mr. La Follette.

ENDORSES NEWS EDITORIAL

The editor has received a letter from his old friend, J. B. Pickle, of Big Spring, a portion of which we take the liberty to publish: "In the last issue of the Big Spring Herald I read an editorial reprinted from the Tahoka News, concerning religious intolerance and hatred which seem to follow in the wake of a certain organization, and I take this opportunity to say that I most heartily endorse what was contained in this editorial. I wish that more newspapers in this country might have the courage to sound the warning against the growth of this doctrine of racial hatred and religious prejudice, which is causing so much strife over this country. I am glad that I was never swept off my feet by the superficial appeals to patriotism and religious prejudice as set out by the over-zealous organizers and members of this 'invisible empire'.

"Really I consider it a poor act in the passing show, headed for the recks, damned and doomed. God is just. Christ died for the Jew, Gentile Catholic, and all, all alike. His doctrine was one of love and not hate, and any man or set of men who seek by direction or indirection to teach any other kind of doctrine have builded on the sand and of course their house must fall.

The ship was settling down rapidly. The passengers and crew were rushing hither and thither. Again the answer came: "Yes." "Then who wants to buy a diamond ring for fourpence?"

A Yorkshire farmer was asked to the funeral of his neighbor's third wife, and as he had attended the funerals of the first two, his own wife was surprised when he informed her that he had declined the invitation. "Leftovers in Living"
That We All Collect

Among what a contributor to the Atlantic Monthly calls "Leftovers in Living," is "the collection of articles, or parts of articles, which gave the word 'miscellaneous' its name."
"You will find this collection," he writes, "in a drawer somewhere in the house. It has been years in the collecting. No human being has ever found a use for more than half of 1 per cent of the things in it. He never will. They are things too valuable to throw away—and of no use whatever to retain."
"Bits of old wire, a flatiron handle with a piece gone from one corner; a part of an imposing gashlight fixture; a once gorgeous pipe case which held a quaintly designed carved pipe, now broken; one end of a curtain rod; two padlocks, the keys of which are missing; a bit of what is supposed to be part of the good ship Cristobal Colon which came to an untimely end in the Spanish-American war; a souvenir showing how much art a penman could put on a bit of birch bark and dating back to the World's fair at Chicago; a china mug on which in old English is the sentimental phrase, 'To a Friend'; an eraser got up to resemble a bullet."
"To go on enumerating the articles in this collection would be a cataloguer's job. It is a staggering lot. Why such things are saved, nobody knows."

Relics Dug Up Prove China Had a Stone Age

Discoveries made in China by J. G. Anderson, a Swedish scientist, establish, in his belief, that China had a Stone age. At Fengtien the expedition headed by Professor Anderson excavated a cave about 8 by 18 feet. In it were found bones from about 40 human bodies and a large number of objects, none of which was of metal.
The objects included arrowheads, stone axes, bone awls, curious stone rings and a tiny piece of animal sculpture made of marble, fragments of remarkable vessels, some with pressed geometrical patterns and others with a polished red surface ornamented boldly in black. Professor Anderson dates the cave to the transition between the Stone age and the Bronze age, or about 2000-1500 B. C.
Large collections of remains also were found at Yang Shao, including specimens of red and black ceramic objects similar to those found at Fengtien. Heretofore leading experts on Chinese history have held that there was on evidence of a Stone age in China.

Dog's Value in Alaska

In Alaska, where the trackless wilderness and the gigantic snow fields are the general order for the greater part of the year, the principal means of conveyance is the snow sled which is drawn by the malamute, or the husky, as the Alaskan dog is commonly called, says the Detroit News.
Strong and apparently oblivious to the raging of the elements, these brave and hardy dogs are the pride of the Alaskans, who without them would be in even worse straits than we would be without railroads or automobiles. No matter how cold, these dogs are always ready and willing to obey their masters, and even after hundreds of miles of snow-covered waste have been traveled they are ever ready to be up and going at the beck of their two-legged companion, who is usually their friend as well as master.

New Blasting Record

What is believed to have been the biggest blast ever set off in the history of industry was recently fired near Ogden, Utah, to provide material for constructing the fills that are the approaches to the Great Salt Lake trestle of the Southern Pacific railroad. Earth and rock to an estimated volume of 550,000 cubic yards was raised and shattered by the explosion, which used 301,200 pounds of special-process powder, equivalent to 600,000 pounds of black powder. A hill 275 feet high and covering a face of approximately 1,000 feet in length was lifted up and separated into fragments. The placing of the explosives in tunnels, aggregating 4,100 feet in length, occupied 25 men for 45 days.

Not to Be Caught Twice

The clergyman, absorbed in thinking out a sermon, rounded a turn in the path and bumped into a cow. He swept off his hat with a flourish, exclaiming: "I beg your pardon, madam."
Then he observed his error and was annoyed. Soon, however, again engaged with thoughts of the sermon, he collided with a woman at another bend of the path.
"Get out of the way, you brute!" he said.

Heartless

"Ah," she sighed, "I shall never hear his footsteps again; the step I have longed for with eager ears as he came through the garden gate, the step that has so often thrilled my heart as I heard it on the front porch. Never, never again!"
"Has he left you?" asked the sympathetic friend.
"No, he has taken to wearing rubber soles!"—Good Hardware.

J. B. WALKER'S MESSAGE TO THE MEN AND WOMEN OF TAHOCA

To the Men and Women of Tahoka:
Owing to the stress of my campaign for county judge, I find it impossible to interview every one of you personally, hence I take this means of conveying my message to you.
Really I deem it unnecessary to talk to you for the purpose of convincing you of my qualifications and fitness for the office; having lived in your midst for nineteen years. I think you have had ample time to form an estimate of these. In August 1905, I with my wife and baby came to Tahoka to make our home. Tahoka is our home still. Through these years we have worked with you good men and women of Tahoka for the welfare of our town, which has grown from a crude little country village to a lovely, progressive, prosperous town. We have all striven to develop and build up our school and this has likewise evolved from a one-room, two-teacher school to a beautiful well equipped brick building with a corps of sixteen teachers. And thus with other enterprises of the town. In this work of construction our hopes and interests have been one. We have worked together, rejoiced together, suffered together, sorrowed together. This close relationship has enabled me to learn your faults and your foibles. You discovered mine. But I have learned that these human faults of yours are far outweighed by such cardinal virtues as truth, honesty, integrity, fairness and love for your fellow man. I trust that you have not found me entirely devoid of those principles which characterize an honest and upright man. On every moral issue, every question touching the welfare of our homes, our county, our state, and our nation I have, as you well know always taken a definite stand. I have personal, individual convictions and always stand for these convictions regardless of the cost. And now, at this critical time in our political life, when all minds are disturbed by so many questions and issues of more or less importance, I shall rejoice in the privilege of making clear my position on any question or issue of the day.

As I said in the beginning, I shall not try to convince you of my qualifications and worthiness. You who have been my associates and neighbors through these many years know me as well as I know myself. If you consider me qualified and worthy to fill the office which I seek, then cast your vote for me next Saturday, and this token of your confidence, this act of neighborliness, will be deeply and gratefully appreciated by myself and my wife.

Sincerely,
J. B. Walker

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO CONSTITUTION

Relating To Granting of Confederate Pensions
Senate Joint Resolution No 10

Proposing an amendment to Section 51 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State of Texas to provide that the Legislature may grant pensions to Confederate soldiers, sailors and their widows, who have been citizens of Texas since prior to January 1, 1910, providing that all soldiers, sailors and their widows eligible under the provisions hereof shall be entitled to be placed upon the rolls and participate in the pension fund created hereunder; levying a tax of seven (.07) cents on the one hundred ($100.00) dollars valuation of property in this State for the payment of such pension providing that the Legislature may reduce the rate of pension for such purposes, fixing a time for the election to be held on such amendment and making an appropriation to pay the expenses thereof.

Be it resolved by the Legislature of the State of Texas:

Section 1. Section 51 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State of Texas shall be amended so as to hereafter read as follows:

Section 51. The Legislature shall have no power to make any grant or authorize the making of any grant of public money to any individual, association of individuals, municipal or other corporations whatsoever, provided, however the Legislature may grant aid to indigent or disabled Confederate soldiers, and sailors who came to Texas prior to January 1, 1910, and to their widows, in indigent circumstances and who have been bona fide residents of this State since January 1, 1910, and who were married to such soldiers or sailors prior to January 1, 1910, and to indigent and disabled soldiers who under the special laws of the State of Texas during the war between the States served in organizations for the protection of the frontier against Indian raiders or Mexican marauders and to indigent and disabled soldiers of the militia of the State and to the widows of such soldiers who are in indigent circumstances and who were married to such soldiers prior to January 1, 1910, provided that the word "widow" in the preceding lines of this Section shall not apply to women born since the year 1861, and all soldiers and sailors and widows of soldiers and sailors eligible under the above conditions shall be entitled to be placed upon the pension rolls and participate in the distribution of the pension fund of this State under any existing law or laws hereafter passed by the Legislature, and also to grant aid for the establishment and maintenance of a home for said soldiers and sailors, their wives and widows and women who aided in the Confederacy under such regulations and limitations as may be provided by law, provided the Legislature may provide for husband and wife to remain together, in the home. There is hereby levied in addition to all other taxes heretofore permitted by the Constitution of Texas a State ad valorem tax on property of seven (.07) cents on the one hundred ($100) dollars valuation, for the purpose of creating a special fund for the payment of pensions for services in the Confederate army and navy, frontier organizations and the militia of the State of Texas, and for the widows of such soldiers serving in said armies, navies, organizations or militia; provided that the Legislature may reduce the tax rate herein levied, and provided further that the provisions of this Section shall not be construed so as to prevent the grant of aid in cases of public calamity.

Section 2. The foregoing Constitutional Amendment shall be submitted to a vote of the qualified voters of this State at an election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1924, at which all voters shall have printed or written on their ballots: "For amendment of Section 51 of Article 3 of the Constitution authorizing the Legislature to grant aid to Confederate soldiers and their widows who have been a resident of this State since January 1, 1910," and "Against amendment to Section 51 of Article 3 of the Constitution, authorizing the Legislature to grant aid to Confederate soldiers and their widows."
Section 3. The Governor is hereby directed to issue the proclamation for said election and have the same published as required by the Constitution and laws of this State, and the sum of five thousand ($5,000.00) dollars or so much thereof as may be necessary is hereby appropriated out of the general funds of this State not otherwise appropriated for expenses of publication and elections thereunder.
Approved, March 20, 1923.

How The Santa Fe dollar was spent in 1923
Taxes more than dividends. Rate reductions more than taxes
The measure of success in railroad business is the relation of costs to returns. If the dollar earned does not cover the cost of earning it, the business fails. If it covers the cost with a margin over, the business succeeds.

THE SANTA FE DOLLAR IN 1923 WENT AS FOLLOWS:
Maintenance of track, buildings, etc.		13.37 cents
Maintenance of locomotives, freight and passenger cars		19.36 "
Train, station and switching, and other transportation		19.88 "
Traffic agencies		11.59 "
Fuel		8.49 "
Salaries and expenses of clerks and other general office employes		.96 "
Legal, valuation, general officers, pensions and death benefits and miscellaneous		1.08 "
Depreciation and retirement, equipment and ice plants		3.59 "
Loss, damage and casualties		1.07 "
Rent of equipment, joint facilities, etc.		1.04 "
Interest on bonds and other interest charges		4.50 "
Dividends on capital stock		8.08 "
Taxes		8.14 "
Balance available for expanding facilities		8.79 "
		100.00 cents

Of the last item 3.02 cents came from sources other than rates so that a reduction of less than 6% in rates would have wiped out the entire margin of safety from earnings through rates.
Even a decline in gross business such as has occurred this year inevitably reduces this balance of 8.79 cents, because not many of the cost items can be cut down in proportion.
The adjustment between success and failure is a delicate one in the transportation industry. For the welfare of the country, it should not be lightly tampered with, either by laws or by the various commissions that control the main elements of railroad earnings and costs.
It is particularly notable in the above statement that taxes were more than dividends and only a little less than all the fuel used for the System. Taxes were $20,316,491.
Good service requires ample money for operation and maintenance. Even a rather substantial reduction in rates would benefit individuals so slightly as hardly to be known, while it might readily (because of poor service) cause them tremendous loss which would be quickly and keenly felt.
A railroad gets money from its rates and has no other large source of supply, even though attempts seem to be made to have the public believe otherwise. Since 1921 freight rates have been almost continuously in process of reduction. Santa Fe freight earnings were decreased $14,500,000 in 1922 and $23,945,000 in 1923 from what they would have been with 1921 rates.
The Santa Fe already has reduced freight rates many millions. But adequate service is vital for shippers. It can be furnished only when fair rates provide the money needed.

NEW YORK.—If John W. Davis is elected he will be the eighth Presbyterian President of the United States, and this will bring the number of such Presidents even with the number who have been communicants of the Protestant Episcopal Church, the latter at present holding the palm with eight Presidents.

Mrs. Davis is a communicant of the Protestant Episcopal Church, and Mr. Davis attends Sunday morning services with her in the Church of St. John of Lattington, at L'cous Valley, the rector of which is the Rev. Dr. Charles H. Hinton.

Few of the intimate friends of the Davises were happier yesterday at the outcome of the convention than Doctor Hinton. He sent this telegram:

"Sincere congratulations. I had faith that you would be nominated, and it is strong for your election."

Charles G. Dawes, Republican candidate for Vice President, attends the First Congregational Church at Evanston, Ill., of which the Rev. Dr. Hugh Elmer Brown is pastor. Mrs. Dawes is a member of this church.

President Coolidge united with the First Congregational Church in Washington last October. He is the first Congregationalist President.

Warren G. Harding was the first Baptist President.

Besides Grover Cleveland the Presbyterian Presidents were: Jackson Polk, Buchanan, Lincoln, Benjamin Harrison and Wilson. Abraham Lincoln did not unite with the church but during the years he was in Washington he was a regular attendant at the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church.

The Episcopal Presidents were: Washington Madison, Monroe, William Henry Harrison, Tyler, Taylor, Pierce and Arthur.

The Unitarians were John Adams, John Quincy Adams, Fillmore and Taft.

The Methodists Presidents were: Jackson, Grant, Hayes and McKinley, Van Buren and Roosevelt were members of the Dutch Reformed Church. Garfield was a member of the Church of Disciples of Christ.

JOHN DONALDSON AND FAMILY RETURN FROM LONG VACATION

John Donaldson and family and Charley Donaldson returned to Tahoka Sunday after spending a two months vacation in central and south Texas. Leaving Tahoka about two months ago, they visited relatives at Anson, Abilene, and Eastland, and then proceeded on to Moody, the Donaldson Brothers' former home.

Then they took a trip down into the Rio Grande Valley also visiting Kerrville, Junction, San Antonio, and Corpus Christi. They have many interesting things to relate about some of the country they saw. While at Brownville, they went across the river to old Mexican town of Matamoras, once a city of 60,000 population. It is now just an ordinary Mexican town. They were delighted with the territory under irrigation is planted to cotton, and that the crop promises to be fine, some of it reaching to a man's shoulders. He found a wonderful cotton country also in Nucoes county. At Robstown there are eleven gins. "The drive from Kerrville to Junction is the most scenic I ever saw", John declared. The mountain and river scenery is enchanting, but John says they had poor luck fishing. They tried it out near Junction. Crops in central Texas are very good. Mr. Donaldson reported, except corn. It was cut a little short by the drought. All in all, they had a most pleasant trip.

Warren G. Harding was the first Baptist President.

Besides Grover Cleveland the Presbyterian Presidents were: Jackson Polk, Buchanan, Lincoln, Benjamin Harrison and Wilson. Abraham Lincoln did not unite with the church but during the years he was in Washington he was a regular attendant at the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church.

New Dance Club Will Have an Ebony Floor

In a big dance club which is projected the dance floor is to be of ebony—the first of its kind. It will be amazingly decorative, but its qualities for dancing have yet to be tested.

The perfect dance floor is a problem. Engineers and timber experts have produced some curiously complex and original structures for ballrooms in Britain and the United States, according to the London Mail.

The nearest approach to the ideal is laid in a London hotel. It is made up of nearly 10,000 small pieces of Balkan oak, seasoned for ten years, and given resiliency, toughness and imperviousness to atmospheric changes by a lengthy baking process.

Smoothness of surface was attained by pressing with electric irons, and the necessary spring is imparted by a suspension system involving the use of thousands of steel springs and wires. Although strong enough to bear 250 tons, its resiliency is retained, and regular "tuning" keeps it sensitive.

Floors laid on rubber and felt are comparatively common; but they have many disadvantages. Thin floors laid on a yielding foundation are very pleasant to the dancers while they are new, but they soon become worn in patches and may even become splintery.

Parquet floors, highly polished and laid on a solid foundation, are very tiring after an hour's dancing, although they are not so hard on the feet and leg muscles as the marble floors on which one dances in some fashionable places along the Riviera coast.

Slang of Shakespeare Is Much Used Today

More slang from Shakespeare is being used the Toronto Globe asserts. The old complaint against the bard of Avon that his plays were "too full of quotations" will have to be amended to read "too full of slang," if our readers' investigations continue.

Henry T. Waller of Toronto sends a formidable list which recalls many expressions used by those said to be of short vocabulary. Hereafter they will cite Shakespeare as their authority. Here is the list:

"Will I live? (to Bardolph). Go with her, with her; look on, look on."—King Henry IV, part 2, act 2, scene 1.

"But let me tell the world."—King Henry IV, part 1, act 5, scene 2.

"Give the devil his due."—King Henry IV, part 1, act 1, scene 2.

"Our cake's dough on both sides."—The Taming of the Shrew, Act 1, scene 1.

"It is not square to take."—"Timon of Athens," act 5, scene 5.

"I cannot tell what the dickens his name is."—"Merry Wives of Windsor," act 3, scene 2.

"As a cat laps milk."—"The Tempest," act 2, scene 1.

"Trinculo is reeling ripe; how can'st thou in this pickle?"—"The Tempest," act 5, scene 1.

Not Unusual to Find Humor Among Thieves

Criminals have almost invariably a sense of humor that proves their humanity, says G. S. Dougherty in the Saturday Evening Post. They especially relish a laugh when it is on themselves.

A rope ladder thief had successfully finished one of his difficult jobs. Fastening a rope ladder to a chimney on a roof he had to climb down to a window below, force an entrance, climb up with his loot and make his getaway.

Coming out of the door he saw his shadow in the yard and was so nervous that he fired at it, thereby bringing about his arrest. A mishap of that kind will cause great mirth in criminal circles.

A pickpocket worked all summer without an accident. Every week he sent a good proportion of his money home to his sister and mother. Coming home himself, after warm greetings, he wanted to know what had been done with the money.

"Why, Jim, I'll tell you," said the sister, hesitating a little. "You're in such a dangerous business that we often feel worried about you, so we gave the money to buy a stained glass window in the church."

After his arrest, a skillful counterfeiter told me how his undoing came about. He had been a sign painter and was decidedly artistic and skillful. Coming to New York he took a downtown office, painted "Real Estate" on the door, and used it as a workshop for painting imitation banknotes.

He said that though it took no more time or work to imitate a $100 bill than a $20, he had to make five $20s to get change for $100, because the $20 bills were more easily passed.

It was a $100 counterfeit that led to his downfall. Finishing it late one afternoon, he started for home, but stopped in a lower West side saloon to buy a drink and a bottle of whisky. Laying his $100 imitation banknote on the bar, it came in contact with a little spilled whisky and the colors ran, leading to his arrest.

Some years later I saw him in a penitentiary and said, "Well, Emanuel, I see you're still working at the old line." He was plying a brush, white washing a prison wall.

Gilbert Stuart's Grave.

Although for three centuries Boston Common has been immune from homes or streets, a part of it was long ago given over to a graveyard. Here is buried the artist admittedly honored as the greatest of all American portrait painters—Gilbert Stuart.

He was the son of a snuff grinder. He was honored abroad as well as at home, and gave up a triumphant career in England to satisfy an intense desire to return to America to paint a portrait of Washington. The cemetery is almost forgotten and overlooked, and the exact burial spot of Stuart is not known. But there is a tablet to his memory on the outside of the cemetery fence.

Charley says he and his wife visited the spot in Erath county where he and his wife attended their first school but the building is gone. They visited 28 families on the trip. They encountered rain at Vernon Tuesday morning, and traveled quite a distance in the mud, only to find it dry at home. But it's going to rain, folks.

BEAN, WESTER, AND PARISH ADDRESS TAHOKA VOTERS

There are no better men anywhere. I have never been aligned with the criminal element. He also charged that I was being backed by a "clique" of criminal lawyers. In Lubbock there are four lawyers that do not practice criminal law. They are Wilson and Douglas and my firm of Bean and Klett. All three of these civil lawyers, Wilson, Douglas, and Klett are supporting me. There are sixteen or seventeen other lawyers in Lubbock. Three of them are supporting Judge Mullican and every one of them are criminal lawyers. Two or three years ago, when we had a big cotton crop, there were many cotton pickers here from other parts of the state, and violations of the law became frequent. Three young men of my town went down to the depot and murdered the agent. The sheriff called a council of some of the citizens, and asked that a detective be employed to assist him in enforcing the law. I was in that meeting. I helped raise the money with which to employ a detective. Mullican was not there and he did not contribute to the fund. A detective was produced and upon the evidence that he collected a number of indictments and prosecutions resulted. With the money which we contributed, lawyers were hired to assist in the prosecution, but Mullican defended some of these cases. In view of these facts he ought not to charge, as he has charged in effect, that I am at the head of the criminal element. For several years I have refused to represent criminals but have contributed to their prosecution. Judge Mullican has never refused to represent them, and if he should go out of office he would no doubt open up a law office and take every criminal case that should be offered him.

"Judge Mullican says that I have raised the religious issue. At Idalou he had a reporter there to take down his speech. It was his own reporter. I have never been able to get a reporter to go along with me or to have one paid by some organization to go along and take down my speech. Judge Mullican's own reporter stated that Judge Mullican said I was a very moral man and that I never indulged in any of those habits such as smoking, drinking and swearing that the ordinary man engaged in, that he could not say so much for his own morals, that all his life he had been a fighting, working, cussing man, that I would find that I could not run the district court with prayer, that it took a real he-man to run the courts. So, it is Judge Mullican's idea that a man must be this kind of a man to be a real "he-man". I do not want to be district judge if I have to be that kind of a "he-man". For fraternal reasons, I am a member of the Woodman of the World. For religious reasons I am a member of the Methodist church, and I am not going to quit the Methodist Church and become his sort of a "he-man" in order to become district judge. I do not think that the fact that a man belongs to the church and observes strict morals and believes in prayer disqualifies him from being district judge; and I do not think that it makes him a "she-man".

"My opponent accuses me of raising the Ku Klux issue. I did not raise the issue. But it has gotten into the campaign. My opponent says that he is not a member of the Ku Klux Klan. I never have been a member. I have never had my name dropped from the roll. I have no objection to the Ku Klux Klan as a fraternal order. I have always believed in some of the principles that they claim to stand for, as all of us do. We all believe in the protection of womanhood, in white supremacy, etc., but I do object to them as a secret political organization. Any secret political organization is dangerous and if allowed to grow it is liable to overthrow this government. I am opposed to any secret organization attempting to control this government. I would even be opposed to the Methodist church trying to do so. I do not hate the Ku Kluxes but I think any secret political organization is wrong and I do not belong to any of them. I belong to one religious organization and that is the Democratic party and to one delightful organization and that is the Methodist church."

Wester Favors Education

Promising, if elected, that he would give every man a fair trial in his court, and asserting that he was in no way responsible for any of the reports that were being circulated about Judge Mullican and knew nothing about them, the Judge yielded the floor to the next speaker and received a rousing of applause from his auditors.

In a speech of thirty or forty minutes, sparkling with wit, J. K. Wester highly entertained the audience as he gave his views about the state affairs. Mr. Wester stated that he had been a teacher about forty years and he strongly favored supporting our educational institutions from the smallest rural school to the State University. He deplored the fact that so many of the public school teachers are incompetent and favored raising the standard of teachers. He also believes in amending the rural aid law so that the rural schools which most need received a round of applause, from aid and which can not meet the present requirements may receive such aid. He thinks we need an educated citizenship and hence favors the improvements of all our schools. He favored the consolidation of some of the departments of Austin in order to cut expenses and reduce taxes. He believes that there is something wrong with the penitentiary system and that it should be investigated. In 1893 there were 5600 convicts, he declared, and the system was then self-supporting. Now there are only 3300 convicts and the penitentiary system costs more than a million dollars a year above running expenses. He suggested the sale of some of the state farms.

Mr. Wester spoke in no uncertain terms as to his position on the Ku Klux Klan, and it was while discussing this now absorbing topic that he drew several rounds of applause from the audience. "The Ku Klux Klan appeals to prejudice", he asserted. "They tell us that in a few years the Pope will control this country. Why, he can't control his own country. He has lost out in Italy right where he lives. Catholicism has never controlled except through ignorance, and the people of the world are becoming more and more intelligent. There is not as large a per cent of Catholics in the United States today as there was thirty years ago. The Methodist Church has built a big church right up against the Vatican. When the colonies declared their independence, the Baptists of Rhode Island, the Methodist of Georgia, and the Catholics of Maryland fought side by side for freedom. In the recent world war, Protestants, Catholics, Jews, all fought together for America and won the war. Why, Jesus Christ himself could not join the Klan, because he was a Jew. Paul could not join them, for he was a Jew. Peter, to whom it was said, 'Upon this rock I build my church and the gates of Hell shall not prevail against it' could not join the Klan, for he was a Jew. I think the best way is to teach our children to do right. I am opposed to the hooded, tar-and-feather, pillow-case method of making folks better. Of course we all believe in white supremacy. We have always believed in it. Over yonder in Mississippi the negroes had a hundred thousand majority. But the negro was shown his place and white man has been ruling and electing the officers all these years. There is no danger of negro supremacy anywhere in this country. Why, they talk about white supremacy, and now they have organized a negro Klan down here at Fort Worth. What they want is a majority, and they will be taking in Jews the first thing you know. What Simmons wanted was money. Evans wanted money. They made a millionaire of Simmons, and then when they tried to kick him out they had to pay him $45,000 more to get rid of him. I believe in the old-time religion, that makes us love everybody. I believe in old-time Democracy, where we nominate a ticket in the open".
