FORMER LUBBOCK SHERIFF HAD THE "NERVE"

(Canadian Record)

Bill Flynn was one of the coolest and steadiest peace officers in West Texas, and the termination of the shooting affair is no surprise to his many friends in this section. His steady nerve, his ability to read character at a glance, and his masterly way of handling men under arrest made of him an officer who was truly the ideal of Western men.

At one time he was called on to take charge of a man in Lubbock who was crazy drunk. The man was on the second floor of the hotel, just at the stairs landing, armed with a forty-five and raising considerable of a furor. He was a good citizen when sober but "pizen" when drunk. He said he would shoot the first man who put a foot on the stairs, and everybody knew that he would because he was crazy. They sent for Flynn and explained the situation. Flynn started for the stairs and told the fellow he was coming after him. The fellow yelled at him that if he came another step he would kill him. Flynn just laughed and kept climbing the stairs at a run and talking to the fellow all the time; the fellow telling him at every step that he was going to kill him. Flynn reached the man, and said, "Bill, hand me your gun." That is what the editor of the Canadian Record calls nerve. The man handed over his gun just as docile as would a little child.

If Flynn had so much as batted an eye in the wrong way the man would have filled him full of lead. He knew his man just as an animal trainer knows his animal, and he outgassed him.

At another time when a woman and husband were having trouble and everything seemingly had been adjusted and they were reunited, Flynn said to the editor: Did you see the look in that woman's eye? She hates that man. There will be a killing over this little affair inside of ten days. The woman is playing god but she is watching like a mad beast for a chance to strike." Flynn was exactly right. He knew character as well as any man we ever knew.

500 HEAD CATTLE STOLEN FROM L. F. D.'s.

Littlefield, Texas, July 19.—The olden days of cattle rustling according to stories we have read about the West pale into insignificance when compared with some actual facts as reported by J. P. White, manager of the Yellow House Ranch near here. Mr. White has just reported 271 and 214 calves said to have been stolen from his ranch during the year or two. There is another bunch yet out which will bring the total to considerably more than 300 cows and the same number of calves. After this matter was first discovered the parties interested killed some of the cows it is alleged in order to destroy them and their brands and marks. The carcasses were discovered. Some rather prominent ranchmen have been charged with taking these cattle and are out under bond.

PANHANDLE BAPTIST ASSEMBLY AUG. 2-11

The Panhandle Baptist Assembly will be held this year on the Ceta Canyon, near Happy, Texas, from August 2nd to 11th inclusive. Programs of the assembly have been received in Tahoka.

The grounds in Ceta Canyon are in the southwest part of Randall county, a whole section of land having been purchased for the permanent ground of the assembly.

A. G. Burton, painter and paper hanger, who recently moved to Tahoka to follow his trade, favored the News job department with a nice order for stationery the past week. Mr. Burton stated that he was securing all the work he could take care of since locating in our little city and expected to make Tahoka his permanent home.

The South Plains is experiencing some warm dry weather the past several days. But we are enabled to stand them fine—for the nights are always cool.

Bert Williams, of Amarillo, spent several days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Williams, at the St. Clair Hotel, since our last issue.

Mr. and Mrs. Lois Bray have moved to town from the farm east of the city, and have rooms on the second floor of the Reeves building.

Tom Lemond left Friday morning for Amarillo to accept a position with the Bryant Candy Company. Mrs. Lemond will remain in Tahoka for a few weeks before going to Amarillo.

Mr. and Mrs. Tull Adams are occupying the Lonnie Bigham Residence two blocks west of the square, since Mr. Bigham's removal to Lorenzo.

W. D. Nevels and family, accompanied by Mrs. Hansford Tunnell and baby, departed Saturday for Lampasas. Mrs. Tunnell will go on to Gonzales for an extended visit with her parents.

L. B. Willoughby, wife and baby, of New London, Conn., and Mrs. Floyd Donaldson, of San Angelo, are guests of J. B. Willoughby and family.

Mrs. Ben T. Brown and little son, Ben T. Jr., of O'Donnell, are visiting with relatives here this week.

Mrs. John W. Nix and little daughter, Mildred, of Ft. Worth, were guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Haynes Tuesday. They were enroute to Post to attend the Hedgecock reunion being held near that place this week.

Messrs. Marshall and Buford Swan, Hansford and Charley Fannell and W. E. (Happy) Smith are down on the Concho this week taking their vacation.

Charley Donaldson and family left for the Concho river this week on a few days fishing.

Mrs. M. A. Stroud is visiting her brothers at Byers, Texas.

G. W. Small and family have gone to the state of Colorado on a vacation.

R. J. Lowrie, the druggist, returned the latter part of last week from Dallas, where he purchased his stock of drugs, drug sundries and fixtures for his store, which he expects to open here by the first of August.

BAPTIST REVIVAL GROWING IN INTEREST

The Baptist revival at the city tabernacle is growing in interest daily. The preaching by Rev. R. E. Smith, of Waco, is of the highest order and is being highly praised by those in attendance. Already some great themes have been ably discussed and a great array of Bible truth packed into each discourse. It is expected that these messages will grow in strength and interest from day to day.

The singing is being led by Rev. Cowles, of Waco, and seconded by a large local choir, which is also attracting much interest and is being greatly enjoyed. The two pianos are being presided over by Miss Smith, daughter of the evangelist, and Mrs. Sam Reid, of Tahoka.

The business houses have agreed to close their places of business one hour each day next week, except Saturday, in order to give the fullest possible endorsement of the meeting.

It is believed that a great religious quickening is in store for Tahoka, and every one is urged to join in to make the meeting the largest possible success and also to get a personal blessing out of it.

Hedgecock Reunion

The annual reunion of the Hedgecock family was held this week at Lubbock and Post, near the famous lake near that town. The Hedgecock family is composed of Messrs. J. M. Hedgecock, of Ende, N. M., W. P. and S. M. Hedgecock of Plemmons, Texas, Mesdames J. B. Cole of El Paso, Texas and E. R. Haynes, of Lubbock. The reunions are held each year at different points in the state, and are always well attended by the immediate kinspeople of the brothers and sisters. The News editor and family were absent from home two or three days this week attending this event.

RABBIT DRIVE STAGED IN TERRY COUNTY

We learn that 583 rabbits bit the dust in the drive north of town on the Fourth of July and 725 in the west part of the county, making a grand total of 1298 rabbits in the two drives, and it was not much of a rabbit day either.

No accidents reported to mar the pleasure of the hunters was reported. Such drives every once in awhile will greatly lessen the offspring of Brother Rabbit in old Terry.—Terry County Herald.

DENTON OUTPOINTS OKLAHOMA CHAMPION

Shamrock, Texas, July 18.—The American Legion athletic show went over big here aturday night when Joe Denton, the Tahoka Terror, boxed Tom Story, welterweight champion of Oklahoma, in eight rounds of fra fighting. Denton started the battle like a whirlwind and easily outpointed his heavier opponent for six rounds, Story taking the last two. Referee Turner cautioned Story twice about fouling. Denton showed superior speed to Story and clearly outfought his opponent until Denton was weakened by Story's two fouls, although he did not complain to the referee. The victory for the Tahoka Terror places him on easy street in Oklahoma City fight circles and Denton will fight Country Boy Lance there the latter part of this month. Joe's brother, Jack will likely appear on the same scene.

SCHOLARSHIPS TO BE GRANTED BY NORMAL

Canyon, Texas, July 25.—According to President J. A. Hill, the State Board of Regents at its recent meeting in Austin authorized the West Texas State Normal College to grant three annual scholarships, carrying exemptions from all fees, to young women in the seventh district of the Federated Clubs of Texas.

These scholarships will be awarded by a committee, from the Federated Clubs, of which committee Mrs. Arthur Ware, of Amarillo, is chairman.

J. E. Applewhite, of Brownwood, arrived in Tahoka the first of the week and will be associated with the G. W. Small Hardware and Furniture store. Mr. Applewhite and family formerly resided in Tahoka four years ago. They have many friends here who are glad to have them return to our town and county to make their permanent home.

BROWNFIELD MAY SECURE SUNDAY MAIL

Notice for bids has been posted at the local postoffice for bids to carry the mail to Lubbock, leaving here on Sunday morning at 9 A. M. and returning after all the noonday trains have run in that city.

Several of the car men are bidding on the job, including a few business and professional men.

This will mean much to the business interest of our little city as well as the convenience of the citizenship. The contract calls for the service to begin on August 23rd.—Brownfield Herald.

MOONLIGHT SUPPER

A number of the Baptist people of Tahoka, some fifty in number, gave a moonlight supper near Guthrie Lake last Friday evening, honoring Rev. and Mrs. L. L. F. Parker, of Spur, former citizens of our town. A splendid repast with iced drinks was enjoyed to the utmost by those in attendance. The party formed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Weaver before proceeding to the beautiful lake just southwest of the city.

Mrs. Larkin Weathers is visiting with relatives in Abilene.

Glenn Brashear, returned home the latter part of last week from Clarendon, where he attended the summer session of the Clarendon Normal.

Albert Curry and mother, of Lynn County, were over this week visiting friends in town, and Mrs. Curry's mother and nephew is the Union community.—Terry County Herald.

J. H. King, of Wilson renewed his subscription for the News Friday. Mr. King is a regular reader and always keeps his date paid well in advance. We wish for many more of Mr. King's kind.

William J. Duncan, head mechanic at the Connolly Motor Company, returned the first of the week from a business mission to Dallas.

Attorney Phillip Yonge of the firm of Yonge & Yonge, Post, Texas, was in Tahoka on official business Monday.

Throngs of people lined the downtown district Saturday afternoon and evening. It was election day.

Tourists traffic over the highways in Lynn county is rather heavy now and local dealers report business good in the tire, gas and oil lines. Tahoka's excellent free camp grounds has something to do with the increased traffic; also the best highways in West Texas is a big item.

Band Concert

The Tahoka Chamber of Commerce band gave a concert on main street Saturday night and several hundred people were present to hear the music. The band has only been organized about three weeks and our citizens were agreeably surprised at the progress they have made. The band is under the leadership of Carl King, formerly with the Abilene band. The selections were good and it was real entertainment for those present. Mr. King is a first class musical instructor and his supervision we can see in the making one of the best bands in West Texas for Tahoka within the next few months. The Tahoka Chamber of Commerce should back the boys to the limit and never lose sight of the fact that this is essential if the band is successful.

NOTICE!!!

A meeting of the Democratic Executive committee will be held at the county courthouse, Saturday, July 29, for the purpose of canvassing the returns of the primary election. All members of this committee will please take notice and be on hand to assist in this work.

C. H. CAIN, County Chairman, Lynn County Executive Committee.

BARBECUE AND REUNION

Last Sunday was an enjoyable day to those who were fortunate enough to attend the barbecue given by Clifford Young on his ranch north of Wilson.

On Saturday a fine beef steer was killed and the night was spent in preparing it for eating. A big pot of "Son-of-a-Gun" and another one of stew was also prepared. The ladies all brought with them, cakes, pies, pickles and other good things to eat, too numerous to mention. A big tub of ice tea was prepared to add to the feast. Dinner was served under an arbor made of posts and covered with wagon sheets. Those enjoying the pleasant day and the many good eats were:

Frank Young and family and Alvin White and family, of Slaton, John Standifer and family, Ben Milliken and family and Canley Milliken, of Wilson, Charles Logan and family of El Paso, Fern and Maurine Davis of Ballinger, Ed Milliken and family of Southland, and J. S. Wells, S. J. Smith, H. M. Larkin and G. R. Milliken and families of Tahoka.

AUTOMATIC BRAKE AND IGNITION CONTROL TO PREVENT ACCIDENTS

The illustration shows the flexibility of contact and bow-shaped cushioning protection afforded driver and object hit.

A new accident preventive for automobiles, which protects car, driver, pedestrian, and the other fellow's car as well, is now being manufactured after two years of experiments with the original patents. It is an automatic brake and ignition control, and its purpose is the minimizing of traffic accidents; the prevention of accidents while cars are parked, and the reduction of injury to cars or to pedestrians when accidents occur at high speeds. The vast majority of automotive accidents, however, occur at speeds below 15 miles an hour. Little short of a miracle can avert disastrous results in accidents when the automobiles are traveling at high speeds, so that the developers of this device have devoted their attention to the production of an attachment which will prevent, and, where impossible to prevent, minimize, the results of collisions and other accidents at lower rates of speed, notably in traffic in cities, in which the majority of automotive accidents occur.

Same Place as Bumper.
The new device is carried in the same place as a bumper, but is not a bumper. It is a simple mechanism consisting of flexible contact bars or cables fastened by goosenecks to the front and to the rear of the car, being equally applicable to passenger cars or to motortrucks. These contact bars, yielding to a pressure of only 15 pounds, make contacts with electrically-wired contact points, in turn connected with a brake and ignition control contained in a small cylinder which rides freely with the brake rod so as not to interfere with the foot or hand braking of the car under ordinary conditions. The slight pressure on the contact bars makes connection in a fraction of a second, setting the brakes, cutting off the ignition and thereby adding compression to the braking force and blowing the horn.

FIND BEST OILS ARE ECONOMICAL

Manufacturers for Years Have Called Attention to Importance of Lubrication.

OWNERS DEPEND ON DEALERS

Inferior Article Decomposes Easily and Forms Large Quantities of Sediment and Carbon Residue—Wear is Result.

Automobile manufacturers for years have been impressing on motorists the vast importance of correct lubrication for the maintenance of the internal combustion engine. Their stand has been taken from an economical standpoint and in order to insure the long life of the motor.

A recent investigation in the oil market showed that a large percentage of automobile owners do not specify a particular brand when purchasing a lubricating oil, but depend entirely on the judgment and preference of the dealer. This fact makes possible the harmful practice of substitution of an inferior grade at the price of a quality oil.

Educational Campaign.
Feeling that there are definite steps which can be taken to eliminate this fact, the producers have inaugurated an educational advertising campaign by means of which the importance of correct lubrication is taken up step by step in a language which any layman can thoroughly understand.

Lubrication has become recognized as such an important factor that engineers have spent years of intensive research to produce a lubricant which will maintain its body under the extreme heat generated in the motor, which varies from 150 to 1,000 degrees Fahrenheit, and to function properly under every possible condition.

Inferior Oil Wasteful.
It has been found that an inferior lubricating oil very easily decomposes and forms large quantities of sediment and carbon residue which has no lubricating value and is therefore waste material. This sediment and carbon residue clogs up the good oil from the bearings and rapidly moving parts of the machine. Friction

A Little Thing Like Clothes

By JESSIE DOUGLAS

© 1922, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

"That," said Tom Winship, knocking the ash from his cigarette, "is the primmest girl in this town."
They both looked after the retreating figure of Daisy Miller, dressed so neatly in her blue serge that concealed her ankles, with a black hat that was meant to cover, not adorn, the red-brown hair tucked out of sight.
"If you give me a month I could have that girl so dead in love with me that any one could see it!" Arthur Baldwin offered.
"You've lost already, and I'll put ten on it, Art."
Daisy Miller's heart beat very fast as she washed the dinner dishes. She had really not seen anything of Arthur Baldwin since they were in high school together; she had thought less of him, and yet tonight he had telephoned to ask if he could come to see her.

She heard the complaining voice of her father as he hunted for the evening paper, and hurrying into the other room she cried, "I'll find it for you, dad!"
Daisy settled the old man in the chair by the fire, slipped to her knees and put on his house slippers, retrieved his lost glasses and retreated again to her waiting dishes.
"I don't see why he should want to see me," she thought. "I can't understand—" and yet her heart fluttered strangely and she felt a new glow in the dullness of her gray days and a new romance spring out of monotony.

In her own room she surveyed her wardrobe critically. The gray challie was past redemption and her best

It must have been the hair that did it, but Daisy was unable to resist a hat that looked altogether unusual in one of the smartest shops on Fifth avenue.

But the hat made her suit look even older than ever, and Daisy plunged. She gasped when she saw herself in the new suit with its long, slim lines and its delicious golden brown color; with the hat with the pheasant's wing it was bewitching. But how snabby her shoes looked; besides every one was wearing strapped pumps!

As a very last touch she bought herself a new veil, and trembling with excitement she adjusted it carefully to her hat.

"It'll take me years to save it all again," Daisy thought shamefacedly. "All the money that I put by for a rainy day!"

She settled herself down by the window in the train, feeling in her new clothes that she was too noticeable. She prayed that she would meet no one she knew. She moved over to the very margin of her seat as a big man sat down beside her; he looked at her casually and then cried, "Why, if it isn't Daisy Miller!"

"Mr. Armstrong!"

"It used to be Bill when we were in school together," he laughed.
Daisy looked up at him, perhaps it was the new hat with the daring wing, perhaps it was the consciousness of that smart veil, yet there was a charm about that shy, bird-like glance that touched William Armstrong.

"Just come back to civilization," he explained. "I'm going to surprise my people. It's a long run from Arizona to New York!"

"How wonderful!" Daisy exclaimed softly. "I've always thought that was about the most interesting place to live—" then for some unaccountable reason she blushed.

"Not for your kind!" Armstrong said gruffly.

He touched tentatively the rich fur on her cuff.

"Oh this!" said Daisy with disdain, "as if clothes matter!"

"When a girl's as pretty as you are, Daisy, I guess you're right!" he said.

If she had looked sweet before, she looked downright pretty now; and it was this very knowledge that made Daisy say, "I'd love to hear about Arizona; perhaps—"

"I would like to drop in and talk with you about God's country!" he said as he wrung her hand in farewell.

That was why two days later Daisy Miller, answering the telephone, said softly:

"I'm sorry, Mr. Baldwin, but I have another engagement tonight!"

"Congratulations!" Tom Winship cried, holding out his hand to his betting partner. "When it comes to a lady-killer, Art, I must admit you never fail," he pointed with a jeering finger to the notice in the evening paper.

"The engagement of Miss Daisy Miller is announced to Mr. William Armstrong of Tucson, Ariz."

THINGS THAT NEVER SATISFY

Wrist Watch, or Automobile, or Other Luxuries Do Not Give Peace and Strength and Joy.

I wanted a wrist watch. I thought I couldn't live without a wrist watch. I could see nothing but wrist watches when I passed the shops. I hinted wrist watches daily to my family. And then, at last, I got that wrist watch. Just like I wanted. And for a week I was the proudest skirt in town. Then . . .

The wrist watch broke. I took it to the jeweler to be mended. That was six weeks ago. The wrist watch is there yet, for I can never remember to go after it.

Life's like that. We're always wanting something and thinking that that thing will cure the itch in our souls, writes Elsie Robinson in the Milwaukee Journal. We're always blaming our discontents and failures on the lack of that thing. A wrist watch or an automobile, a more stylish set of clothes or a more expensive house.

Then, provided we fish hard enough and aim straight enough and work long enough, we usually get that thing. And at once we find that the soul itch goes on just the same! For the truth is that things never satisfy.

No matter how costly or long desired or wonderful, a thing is only a thing. It may interest and amuse for a while, but it will not, cannot feed our spirits. The only thing that can feed a spirit hunger is a spirit product—the reactions and concentrates we manufacture within our own personalities. Not something you can strap on your wrist, but something you grow in your heart—that alone will give you peace and strength and joy.

Criticism.
There are two modes of judging of anything; one, by the test of what has actually been done in the same way before; the other, by what we can conceive may be done in that way. Now this latter method of mere imaginary excellence can hardly be a just criticism, because it may be impossible to reduce to practice what is perfectly easy to conceive. Fastidious men are always judging by the former standard; and as the rest of the understanding cannot fill up in a century what the imagination can sketch out in a moment, they are in a state of perpetual disappointment, and their conversation is one uniform tenor of blame. At the same time that I say this, I lift up both my hands against that pernicious faculty of temper, in the estimation of which everything is charming and delightful. Among the smaller duties of life, I hardly know any one more important than that of not praising where praise is not due.—Sydney Smith.

"You've Lost Already, and I'll Put Ten on It, Art."

only needed a patch under the arm; the only thing left was what she had on, the blue serge dress that had never been anything but useful.

She turned away from the vision of herself in the mirror.

"You're hopeless! There's no use. Of course he's come to see you on business."

Yet again she felt that strange new excitement when the bell wheezed and she opened the door to Arthur Baldwin. He stood a moment in the hall under the tiny blue flame of gas, retaining her hand.

"I am glad to see you, Daisy!" he said, scrutinizing her white face.

There was an awkward silence for a moment after he had seated himself in the comfortable living room in the big chair across from Mr. Miller.

"How're you getting on with your law?" old Mr. Miller gasped.

Arthur Baldwin found himself in the clutches of that inveterate old talker, and he listened to drowsy reminiscences of the '40's while he fidgeted in his chair.

When at last he said good night he admitted it was one of the dullest evenings he had ever spent and quite unsuccessful except for his last remark to Daisy.

"You certainly have wonderful hair, Daisy," he said as he took her hand under the whimpering gas flame in the hall.

He smirked to himself as he remembered the slow, almost painful flush that touched her cheeks.

But when she was all alone, she stood for a moment in the hall, with her hands pressed to her hot cheeks. She heard her father lumbering up the stairs to his room and she followed noiselessly and swiftly.

When she had lighted the candles on either side of her dressing table she peered in at the "wonderful hair." She unbound the great red-brown twist and began to arrange it with delicate care. With great waves over her forehead it seemed to transform her—almost—she fancied so in the uncertain light of her candles.

"I'm old enough to know better," Daisy thought next morning as she scanned the paper; but a new infection in the air had caught her and she explained to her father briefly that she was going to the city.

YOU CAN'T TRUST CALOMEL AT ALL

It's Quicksilver, Salivates, Causes Rheumatism and Bone Decay.

The next dose of calomel you take may salivate you. It may shock your liver or start bone necrosis. Calomel is dangerous. It is mercury, quicksilver. It crashes into sour bile like dynamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system.

If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone for a few cents which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.

Don't take calomel! It can not be trusted any more than a leopard or a wild-cat. Take Dodson's Liver Tone which straightens you right up and makes you feel fine. No salts necessary. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and can not salivate.—Advertisement.

A Thousand a Day Now Buy Chevrolet

The New Superior Chevrolet is the most satisfactory low priced, fully equipped, most economically operated automobile in the world today.

This year's motor car buyers have recognized this fact to such an extent that 1922 has seen Chevrolet become the largest producer of high-grade automobiles in the world.

The New Superior Chevrolet has many improved features. It has a new front axle assembly, a new rear axle assembly including spiraling ring and pinion gears. The clutch has been improved. In addition to its service brake, a hand-lever emergency brake has been provided. The front and rear springs have been re-graded to give easier riding.

With such improvements the New Chevrolet is indeed superior—superior in first price because no car of similar equipment and quality can be bought for less—superior in maintenance cost because it has the lowest cost of operation of any car built.

This fall and winter West Texas is going to witness the arrival of the largest number of homeseekers that has been noted in many years. The West has long since proved that it could make good, while conditions in East and Central Texas have been going from bad to worse and many land owners are going to invest in the West.—Exchange.

Some individual is passing up a good investment by not opening up a swimming pool in Tahoka. It would be quite an attraction to the younger people—older ones too—and would prove a profitable investment we believe.

Don't advise the preacher how to preach—help him and he will preach better. Don't tell the lawyer how to plead, pay him and he will plead better. Don't tell the physician how he should do—pay fees and you will get better treatment. Don't tell the editor how to get out a better paper—patronize and pay for the paper and make it better each week.

The weekly newspaper is the property of the community and not the personal organ of the editor. Every person should have a personal interest in the welfare of the home paper. Where people do this the paper and community will profit. It is said that you can judge any community by the appearance of its paper, and this is true, in the main. In view of all this, isn't it strange that a business man will send printing orders out of town on the plea that the home paper is too high on its prices? Yet this is sometimes done by fellows who are the very ones to run to the editor for a free boost for themselves, or something they are interested in. Any man who has not had printing experiences has no right to say anything about printing prices. Suppose the editor should walk into a store and say the prices were too high; what would the merchant think of him? —McLean News.

The advertiser in the News deserve the first consideration and patronage of the home people since it is a fact that his dollar is doing double and full part in the co-operation and support of home business enterprises, so decidedly constructive and valuable assets to our community, also as our customers, who make it possible by their co-operation, for us to publish this paper, which goes from week to week as a representative of Lynn county, in which a message of facts and figures of the home life and progress in the town and country is recorded. It is not only reasonable and right to spend your money with home enterprises, but a dollar kept in circulation at home helps every business here and may meet and cheer you again any day, while the dollar sent away is gone to stay.—Crawford Advance.

HE KILLED THE RATS

Fred Hawkey has been much troubled with rats on the farm. These expensive luxuries have made so free with Fred's chickens that he feared a chickenless winter. Then he acted. He got a piece of rubber hose, put it on the exhaust of his car, plugged up all the rat holes he could find but one; into that hole he stuck the hose, cranked up the car—and the gas did the rest. The chicken house on the Hawkey farm is now ratless, and the chickens go about their business of laying eggs in peace and safety. Mr. Hawkey seems to be of the opinion that gas is good medicine for the rats—what the chickens may think does not appear. If you are troubled with rats on the farm try this efficacious remedy. It will do the work, if you give it half a show. And then, you know, rats are expensive guests to have as regular boarders.—Ex.

—lowest cost mileage ever known

Effective July 20th, Goodrich establishes a revised price list that is a base line of tire value. It gives the motorist the buying advantage of knowing that whatever size tire he selects is of the same quality—the Goodrich one-quality standard. It gives him the longest mileage, the most satisfactory service and the highest quality his money can buy. Results will prove that it is impossible to buy tire mileage at lower cost.

Think of being able to buy

White Has Call for the Season

Every one has a natural leaning toward white when summer comes on. But the vogue, asserts a fashion writer in the New York Times, for that color this year is much more than a natural tendency. It is a passion. It is a fad. It is a necessity. Indeed, if you wish to be classed at all in the circles of smartly dressed women. And who does not, pray tell?

This summer the evening dresses are white, the afternoon dresses are white, the morning dresses are white, the suits are white, the coats are white, the capes are white. There is no article of attire that escapes the general mode. And really there are more stunning things being done in white than have been made in all the other colors put together.

Travelers returning from Paris bring back the news that everything is white there, too. One society woman drew from her trunk of Parisian White Suit of Homespun, Marmot Trimming on Collar and Cuffs.

"Dresses no less than four dresses of white. 'Well,' she said, 'what else did I do? They had nothing but white, and the French designers were out to despise you if you dared to choose anything else in the way of color.'

When you are stricken with the prevailing tendency of white you will find all sorts of compensation, for there are beautiful things to be had in that medium. And it seems, that the color, if it may be called a color, has stepped away from the field of suitability only for certain types. Indeed, there is about it an adaptability to all types of which you would hardly have suspected it.

The Color Problem.

There is much value in the way that white is handled and the question is whether to relieve it with a touch of black or color or whether to leave it with nothing but its own blank surface to make it notable. Then there is the problem of the quality of material, for there is all the difference in the world between the thick, woolly white and the thin, silky white. One type can stand one and another type looks well in nothing but the other. It is on this ground that you must make your decision, and to that end it is necessary to study yourself from an entirely new angle and learn just what you can stand in the way of white and just what will throw you into the background, as it were.

An evening dress of white which, though this particular model came from Paris, illustrates a fashion which is most successful and popular right here. It is made of white moire and this particular model has its edges and its bouffant side drapery faced with cloth of silver. There are a stiffness and a pertness about the draping of this heavy silk which are entirely new and which have reached a rare degree of smartness. And when it is done in white it is most particularly effective. One cannot make a mistake by choosing a dress of this character. And, if one should live to regret the day of purchase, there is always the dye shop, which will transform it for you in the twinkling of an eye, or perhaps it would be more accurate to say, at the end of six weeks.

The Thing of the Moment.

The white suit has reached the acme of its expression and, for city or country wear, it is the thing of the moment. The thrilling thing is to see how many different styles are applicable to white and how many varying materials adapt themselves to the new idea. There is one, for instance, an outfit made of a white homespun woolen material with the roughest sort of surface. Then the trimming is done with bands of marmot fur, making a delicious contrast and a most effective spotting of decoration.

The coat of this suit is one of the newer ones with its bloused long waist and its open sleeves. Nothing about its line is exaggerated, and yet it conforms entirely to all the demands of the new silhouette. You will find that, more and more, suits will be made with coats or jackets cut after this style and that women will be liking to wear them for the reason that they indicate so pleasantly all of the smartest lines established by the fashion of the season.

The hat worn with this suit is made of a soft white felt that is so shaped that it flops picturesquely about the face. Then it is trimmed with a thick roll of dull brown velvet that chimes in with the color in the suit's trimming of fur.

All Sorts of White Suits.

There are all sorts of white suits to be found in the shops, and many of them carry a large degree of smartness. There are those made of Jersey, those constructed out of the heavier varieties of white silk, those made from tweeds and twills and flannels. Then there are other white suits made after the popular idea of a combination of materials. There will be a homespun jacket, for example, and that will be worn with a platted silk skirt. Or you will find a white flannel sleeveless jacket combined with a one-piece silk dress made from that crisp variety of shantung silk that makes such interesting summer frocks. Again there will be a flannel skirt and a silk coat. The fact is that there is no end to the combinations which have been achieved by using white materials with a view to making smart-looking summer costumes. We have broken away entirely from the old conception of girlish, youthful white as the only expression of that color, and we have come to using it in a much more mature manner with very much more background to make it notable.

There are myriads of one-piece dresses made in white. Especially the linen ones are good and, as the season advances, surely more and more of them will be seen. There are coat dresses made of heavy white linen with rolling revers collars and large pearl buttons to set off the smartness of their lines. There are others made of this same material which are supplemented by soft little collars of tucked organdie and net, with frilled and lacy trimmings kept always very narrow and unpretentious in style. Sometimes there will be a little color introduced into the belt, though not always. There are dashing little red patent leather belts and black ones that are very interesting. And then there are narrow girdles made of fascinating combinations of steel buckles with colorful grosgrain ribbons strung through them. They make a jangling sort of waistline string which, at the present moment, is extremely smart and good looking—especially so when it is worn in a brilliant hue along with a tailored white dress.

Cling to Fluffy Ruffles.

Then there are the white frocks which in no way pretend to be tailored but which cling desperately to the old-fashioned ideas of fluffy ruffles. But they are a new sort of ruffle. They are narrow and plaited and massed together, making a neat sort of frilliness rather than a careless sort, if you understand the distinction. The organdies that are coming from Paris are lovelier than they ever have been, for they are redolent of new touches that make for charm piled upon charm. There is one which has a rather narrow skirt for its foundation, but the nature of the materials keeps it held out in a stiffness that can only be had by using organdie. Then the skirt is trimmed with seven rows of tiny frills in groups of three. Not only that, but the frills are made by shaping them into petals that fall along one right after the other. Above the groups of ruffling there are groups of handmade tucks, of course. Then on the bodice the same idea of trimming is carried out and the armholes are left plain with no sleeves to carry on their interests.

There are such legions and armies of knitted garments that if one were asked "what they are wearing," the answer might be "everything."

PRACTICAL COATS FOR FALL; LATEST IN KNITTED GARMENTS

COATS for fall make an early entry and late-summer tourists at least give them a welcome. Every woman who finds a new wrap a necessity would like to peep into the future, long enough to make sure that her present choice will prove a lucky one. In suits and wraps she need not take a long chance, even though she must buy ahead of the season, for variety is the keynote in coming styles and and be truthful. But interest is still centered on sweaters and scarfs and there are some refreshing novelties to report in these two most important items that will interest every woman.

Sweaters or scarfs, with hats to match, made of wool or silk yarns are worn with plain and inconspicuous skirts. These skirts are mostly white or white with a pin stripe or small cross-bar in black. Any color in the coat silhouettes are already determined. Materials also insure the early buyer's safety, for they are in the hands of manufacturers and are being made up into coats.

Scheduled for success in winter wraps are cloths like those used last winter, as bolivia cloth, marvellas and similar weaves, supplemented by wool matelasse, which is being featured for making entire wraps and in combination with other materials. Brown appears as the most sought for color, in warm tones that are very rich in the soft coatings, but other colors and black dispute its dominance.

As to the silhouette there is nothing to indicate that we shall depart from the straight-line figure that has won the devotion of fashionables, but it is not to be a hard straight line. The Russian influence is felt in coats, as in everything else, and a long, straight coat with a soft blouse, at a low waistline, is the most promising variation shown of the straight-line wraps. The uneven hemline is an-matched set looks well with them and the ensemble has no rival that is prettier for out-dooring. Many of the hats are crocheted, others made of the knitted silk fabric used for the scarf as in the pretty set shown here.

Just now, white sweaters are in favor, knitted with lacy stitches. Iceland wool or silk and wool combined, resembling Iceland, are used for them and they are made in both the Tuxedo and slip-on styles. Names conveying an idea of their sheer and delicate quality have been discovered for them and we find such terms as "organdie wool" and "grenadine knit" in the parlance of the sweater manufacturers.

Fine yarn knitted in close sweater-stitch, is varied by horizontal, figured stripes in slip-on sport sweaters, that have proved popular. One of them is pictured here. They usually display a white, tan or beige background with stripes in two or more colors. Very handsome sweaters of this kind are decorated with cross-stitch embroidery massed in one place, as on a broad hip band. Knitted dresses and suits other style point worth looking for in new coats, and large novelty fastenings placed at one side, on the bloused models, are among the things that identify new coats as the last word in style.

Sleeves are still ample, some of them cut in one with the garment, and coats remain long with eight inches from the floor about the regulation length. The two coats pictured are making their initial bow and they are conservative styles in which the new season's ideas reveal themselves in details of finish and trimming.

There are such legions and armies of knitted garments that if one were asked "what they are wearing," the answer might be "everything."

cannot be overlooked. One suit of navy wool with plain skirt and slip-on jacket has a wide, standing collar of looped silk, which also makes the cuffs and bands on the bottom of the jacket and skirt. Very practical wool sweaters for little folks are knitted of bright colored yarns in weights varying to suit the time of the year. They are usually plain and closely knit, in either slip-on or open styles, and they form a part of every little girl's belongings from those of the little two-year-old to "flapperettes."

Barefoot Memories.

"A laborer fell 11 stories and fell onto a pile of sand unhurt." He may have landed without any serious injuries, but if the reporter thinks it doesn't hurt to fall on sand he has never put in his boyhood vacations jumping from the top of box cars into cars filled with sand. It's fun once or twice, and then the novelty wears off. The ideal jumping material is scarce and the season is short—flax seed. To jump from a box car into a wagon-load of flax seed is a privilege known to comparatively few. It gives all the early pleasant sensations of landing in quicksand, without the dangers. -Kansas City Star.

TO THE VOTERS

I desire to express my thanks to every man and woman in Lynn County who contributed in any manner to my support in securing for me the substantial plurality in the primary election on last Saturday, and I assure you that I fully appreciate all that my friends did for me. I am, also, glad that my friends have conducted my campaign thus far upon a high plain and without unpleasant personal antagonisms against anyone.

We are now approaching the run-off primary to be held on August 26, and it is my purpose and desire to see all the voters between now and that time, but I fear the duties of my office may prevent my being able to do so, and I take this means of soliciting a continuation of your loyal support on August 26th, and I specially solicit the support of those, and their friends, who were not fortunate in being in the run-off, and I assure them that I feel no animosity toward them for not having seen proper to give me their support in the first primary.

I earnestly invite all to make a thorough investigation, from unbiased sources, of the manner in which I have discharged the duties of the office of Sheriff and Tax Collector, and then, if you can give me your support, I shall greatly appreciate it.

Yours sincerely,
S. W. SANFORD.

A Correction

There seems to be prevalent among the people of the town the idea that I have not bought the Parkhurst Insurance Agency, owned and operated by D. A. Parkhurst and wife, but that I am just working for them. Now this is a mistake. I have purchased the business on definite terms and they are in no way connected with the business. To those who would like proof of this, ask Judge C. H. Cain, who attended to the legal part of the deal.

With this question settled will you not let me serve you.
