Over 200 Persons Attend Lynn County Old Settlers Reunion

Over 200 persons returned and signed up for the annual Lynn County Old Settlers Reunion, held last Saturday. Registration began at 10:30 a. m., followed by the noon barbecue and program.

Calloway Huffaker was emcee for the program and in his usual humorous, witty manner, delighted the guests throughout the program. Prizes were awarded to persons traveling the greatest distance and the oldest person attending the reunion.

The guests were entertained throughout the program by a group of musicians that regularly perform at the monthly hootenanny. The music features a variety of country, western, and blue grass selections.

R. B. "Mac" McAlister, State Representative, was guest speaker for the reunion. His talk presented differences in our lives of yesterday and today. Mr. McAlister said, "it is wonderful to stop and look back over the years" and did just that by recalling his teaching days.

He also said, "We need to look at today's world, not thinking of the mess, but asking for God's guidance to help us love our fellowman. We need to ask God to take and use us, even in a little way."

Old timers and the young er generation were very well pleased with the day's activities, saying, "this was one of the best reunions ever held."

Clarence Eslep of Muncie, Indiana was awarded the prize for traveling the greatest distance and Mrs. Grace Clinton, 85, and Hall Robinson, 85, were awarded prizes for being the eldest persons attending.

A short business meeting was held and officers for next year's reunion were elected. John Ed Redwine stepped up in office to head the association next year and Maurice Huffaker was elected vice-president. Mrs. Lois Greathouse was elected as secretary-treasurer.

MRS. GRACE Clinton received the Oldest Woman Award at the Old Settlers Reunion. Hall Robinson won the Oldest Man Award and Clarence Eslep won the Greatest Distance Travel Award.

Once again The Scratch Pad is pulling up stakes, and moving to new adventures. This time, from all indications, the good folk of Tennessee will be reading the column, views, and opinions of editor, Mr. John Valentine. Mr. John Valentine will be writing and publishing the Lynn County News beginning June 30.

He spent the weekend at Nashville, Tenn. visiting a family owning several daily newspapers. This is quite in contrast with the plains of West Texas, where an abundant supply of water and the Cumberland Mountains. In fact, it is a vacation wonderland for fishing, hunting, and skiing.

The area shows a look of progress with new small industries locating between the Interstate and the New resort areas being planned and government funds are being allocated to help improve the economic structure.

Large and small cities are joining together to promote industry and tourism and let them hear about "Tennessee, U.S.A." They are proud of their state and want to share its opportunities with others.

I have enjoyed living in Texas, especially in Lynn County and Tahoka. The area has its problems, but the good, friendly people make living here worthwhile. I have made many friends, some very good, and it is a sad thing knowing that it will be some time before visiting them again.

My family will be living in Texas, making it their home for some time. They learned to love Tahoka and its citizens and wish to stay here for several years. So, all in all, Tahoka is my home, though I believe from those I love and who I cherish.

This is the final Scratch Pad for the News, I want to thank everyone that has supported me as editor of this paper and shown many acts of kindness toward me and my family. This acceptance has made the past 18 months pass very quickly. I have enjoyed being associated with the business of Tahoka.

I have tried, during my time with the newspaper to give you a good hometown paper, about the people, places, and news of Tahoka and Lynn County. This was accomplished through my efforts but only a dedicated staff of people have done a terrific job and my thanks to them.

Enough of this chatter, back to writing my final Scratch Pad for this issue of your hometown paper. Who knows, Lord willin', one of these days the Scratch Pad will be written someplace in West Texas.

Oldtime Baseball Recalled

By Charlie Holland

With the passing of the Old Settlers Reunion, many an old time ball player brought up tales of glory on the old ball field. Tales that would tell of games played when the only place to play was an open field to packs of greatness. And of trips to the border towns to New Mexico and Oklahoma, as far south as San Angelo and as far north as Amarillo.

The thing most interesting was the way people turned out to see the games. People could hardly be seen in town for goods flooded the street before the game that night. Businesses would stay open up until the game started and even sometimes after the game.

Cafes were the focal point after a game for something to eat, coffee, and talking about the ball game. This was not just only the local fans, but fans of the other teams. Transportation in those days are not that of today, but still a great number of people would come from all areas to watch the game, talk to friends, and shop.

The game was played with a flare not equaled today in any form or fashion. Such players as Wade Holland at short stop taking a hard hit ball and throwing the ball under his leg to first and getting the batter out, Carr Wells as a catcher would catch sitting down on his knees, daring anyone to try to steal on him, not many did.

It was not uncommon for at least two fights to break out among the fans during a game. Such a fight is brought to mind as was told to me by my grandmother. It seems as two men were watching a game in Lamesa and an argument broke out. One of the men gets up and leaves, leaving the other sitting there. In a few minutes another friend sees this man sitting there and sits down next to him and was about to say hello when the man turned and let go with a punch and the fight broke out.

All in all this was not it, for this goes back to a time before and during the depression, World War II and a few years after. A time during which people of all kinds could be seen at a ball game. But then it was the friends that were made during this time. Friends that were to last throughout a lifetime.

Even now one can remember the ones he played against. He can remember how to play against a certain batter, how to pitch against him, how to hit a pitcher, and can go as long as there is someone to remember and someone to do the listening. At the start of the fifties, ball began to die out in this area. The old players couldn't play anymore and the younger players were moving off to better jobs. It continued until there was nobody left to play.

In 1959 a bunch of kids got together and tried to play, but the glue was not there as it was before. During that season I had the opportunity that not too many sons of this day and time get. I got to play the season with my father, and at 52, I didn't think he could play at all.

Maybe he had slowed down more than three steps, maybe he couldn't move to the side as quick, or throw a ball under his leg, but his knowledge of the game, how to play it, and when to play it, I may never be the player my father was or even have knowledge of the game but the love of the game has passed on to me, and it couldn't be stronger.

Now as I play in the Tahoka Softball League I feel much the same toward my fellow players, to play the game for the love of it.

Tuesday evening the Orioles defeated the Astros in a close game. Final score was 13-12. Pitching for the Orioles were Ernest Bailey, Mark McNeil, J. Bo Chancy and Clifford Bailey. Joe Martinez and Bob Gunnells pitched for the Astros.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Booby Trap for Debtors

Applying for a personal loan, George was asked to write down all of his outstanding debts. Afraid he might not get the loan, he listed a total of only $1,500—even though he actually owed more than $3,500.

Not long afterward, his burden of debt became so heavy that he went into bankruptcy. This did wipe out much of his indebtedness. But to his dismay, he found that bankruptcy did not wipe out his obligation to repay the loan—because he had gotten the money by giving a false financial statement.

Bankruptcy discharges most of a person's debts. But it does not get rid of a debt incurred through fraud. Thus, by deceiving the lender, the debtor may be setting a booby trap for himself.

On the other hand, the law also recognizes that the loan company itself may be at fault. Some lenders actually encourage the debtor to make a false financial statement, so they can keep a grip on him in case he goes bankrupt. Take this case:

A man filling out a loan application paused when he came to the space where he was supposed to list all of his obligations. Re-assuringly, the manager said: "Just put down one or two. That's all we need."

This man too went bankrupt some time afterward. And the loan company insisted the loan was not wiped out by the bankruptcy "because he gave us a false financial statement."

But this time the court ruled that the debt was indeed cancelled, blaming the company's manager for inducing the debtor to fill out the form that way.

Furthermore, a loan company cannot point the finger at false information if it did not in fact rely on that information in making the loan.

In one case, a company gave a man a loan even though it knew—from data in its own files—that he was in worse shape than he admitted on the application.

Again, a court decided the debt to the loan company was cancelled by bankruptcy—despite the debtor's false financial statement. The judge said the company could not fairly complain about deception if it wasn't really deceived at all.

Bill Griffin,
County Agent, Says....

Insect stings can be deadly. Figures on a national basis show that more deaths result from bee stings than from bites of poisonous snakes.

The list of stinging insects, says County Agent Griffin, includes bees, wasps, hornets and yellow jackets.

While the reaction by most individuals is a sharp pain for a short time followed by swelling, the reaction by others may be an acute allergy, a serious illness or even death for some people. Yellow jackets, honeybees, bumblebees, and hornets are listed as the worst offenders.

Persons sensitive to insect stings must be extremely cautious when doing jobs which expose them to stinging insects, advises the county agent.

He suggests the use of a good insect repellent or the wearing of protective clothing when working outdoors. Light colored clothing is suggested.

Avoid sudden motion. Motion and air movement will attract a mad bee. Bees and wasps most often sting when they are touched or their nests disturbed.

Persons sensitive to insect stings are advised to see the advice of a physician on what to do in case of a sting. It could save a life.

The yoke and full sleeves of the gown were fashioned of misti chiffon. The cathedral length train had an inset of re-embroidered lace and was accented by an overlay of white tulle. The bridal bouquet was colonial in design and contained feathered mums, feathered carnations, baby's breath interspersed with pearls.

The bridal attendants were gowned in yellow Serrano A-line formal gowns. The short puffed sleeves were silk organza trimmed with embroidered daisies in a matching color. Their bouquets were of a similar design of the brides, featuring Killion daisies and baby's breath caught with white satin bows and streamers.

Mrs. James Calvin Womack, II of Del Rio, sister of the bride, was the matron of honor. Bridesmatron was Mrs. James Leonard Crawford Jr. of Lubbock. The bridesmaids were Miss Julie

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, James Stephen Stewart. She wore a white fitted brocade costume suit with white accessories. Her bouffant shoulder length veil of illusion was held by a tiara of seed pearls and five point crystals. She wore a crushed rose and crystal pin at her shoulder, which had belonged to her great-grandmother, the late Mrs. Zora Green. Her bouquet was an imported handmade bouquet of white roses, wall pearls and five point crystals with white satin streamers.

Miss Jan Stewart was the maid of honor. She wore pale green organza eyelet with a headpiece of green chiffon roses against satin leaves.

Clothing, from shirts to raincoats to pants, now are available in permanent press fabrics of man-made, cotton or blended fibers. The permanent press finishing process makes pleats and creases permanent and eliminates wrinkles for the normal life of a garment.

But selecting a permanent press garment may be a problem. The only way to know the garment or fabric has the finish is to read the hang tag or label.

The garment may be higher priced than a similar garment without the finish. However, extra cost may be offset by the need of fewer garments since they can be quickly and easily laundered.

When selecting a ready-made garment with a permanent press finish, ask yourself these questions:

Does the hangtag give fiber content? Brand name? Washing instructions?

Are the seams, pockets, plackets, and zippers flat and smooth? Puckers will not come out in laundering.

Are there any wrinkles in the garment?

Is the color even, with no streaks or mottling?

Does the garment fit? Alterations are different and difficult to make in permanent press garments.

THE PHILOSOPHER

More Problems!

(Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm this week is worrying about the big cities, but not enough to lose any sleep over.)

Dear editor:

According to a newspaper I was reading last night, 90 per cent of the big cities in the United States are just about broke, facing bankruptcy, the article said, although I've never heard of anybody's foreclosing on a city. Who'd want to take New York in on a debt? Or Chicago? Or Dallas?

As I understand it, it's the cities, not the city people, who are broke, as most of the latter seem to be doing fairly well, although occasionally some of them have to borrow on their boat to meet the payments on their color television set, and some get confused trying to remember whether they're paying for last year's or the year before last's vacation trip, both of which they took on credit.

However, the cities' plight is not a laughing matter, because it has just about wrecked the farm problem.

Back in the old days, 15 or 20 years ago, no politician would think of running for office unless he had a solution for the farm problem, and while none of the solutions ever worked, I had no idea what they meant was they were going to make the city problem so big everybody would forget the farm problem.

It's like stopping worrying about one son who dropped out of high school because another son is now in the penitentiary.

Personally, I don't have any answers. It used to be, when a man couldn't make it on the farm he was advised to give it up and get a job in town. You suppose they did and are now running cities by the same principles that failed them on the farm?

I hope not, because the last thing we want is somebody's advising big city mayors that if they can't make it in town they'd better give it up and get a job in the country.

As it is, most of them are saying they've got to look to Washington to help them get out of debt. I'm afraid they're on the wrong track. Washington is an expert on getting into debt, but as for getting out....I'm blamed if I know where they should look. Certainly not at me. Did I notice you dodging too?
Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Landscape Lovers

As soon as we met, I knew Rosie was special. She has an air that says she knows who she is and where she is going. I like the way she paints, too—she's quiet and businesslike.

Everything about her appeals to me. She dances like a dream, plays tennis well enough to keep me on my toes and loves painting as I do. She's my kind of girl.

In a world that seems mad, her outlook is refreshing. Maybe it's because her church and her God are important to her! And she isn't afraid to say so.

We'll be married next month—on a shoestring, but, whatever the future holds, we know God and His Church are the source of all goodness.

Your church has the key to real happiness. It is eager to help you.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Right to Quit

Quitting a job may be costly in two ways: not only in terms of wages, but also in terms of unemployment insurance.
For our system of unemployment insurance is designed primarily to help the man who is laid off, not the man who quits. In most cases, the man who quits is disqualified—for a certain period—from collecting any benefits.
But what if you quit not because you don't want to work but because conditions on the job have become intolerable?
That does make a difference. In such circumstances, the law recognizes a kind of "right to quit"—without affecting your claim to compensation. You are then entitled to the same benefits as the person who has been laid off.
Consider this situation:
A stenographer had an office manager who made her life miserable. Over a period of months, he lashed her with insults and bullied her with profanity.
When she finally quit and claimed unemployment benefits, the company demurred:
"Unemployment insurance doesn't cover a case like this. After all, the young lady wasn't fired."

She is unemployed only because she herself chose to be unemployed."

But the court held she was indeed entitled to collect, since her quitting was not—in any fair sense—a matter of choice at all.
In another case, a veteran employee's wages, already at a modest level, were suddenly slashed 40 per cent in a company reorganization. In these circumstances, too, the court held he had a right to quit without being disqualified for unemployment compensation.

On the other hand, you cannot collect benefits if the grievance that makes you quit is relatively minor. Thus:
Compensation was denied to a man who quit because he resented the friendly kidding he got from fellow workmen. The court decided he was out of work not because he was too badly treated but because he was too easily offended.

Once a near-sighted truck driver, after being involved in three accidents, was told by his employer to get glasses.
"I'd rather quit," he replied—and he did quit.

But here, too, unemployment benefits were denied. To compensate individuals who quit so frivolously, the court felt, would put a burden on the unemployment insurance system that it was never meant to carry.

NOTICE TO BIDDERS

Sealed proposals addressed to the Honorable Mayor and City Council of Tahoka, Texas will be received at the office of the City Administrator in Tahoka, Texas, until 3:00 P. M. C. D. T., July 21, 1969, for furnishing all necessary materials, machinery equipment, superintendence and labor for constructing and completing certain improvements to the sewage treatment plant. The principal items of work included in the project are a new bar screen, grit channel, Parshall flume and recorder, imhoff tank, sludge pit and pump, sludge drying beds, plant piping and two oxidation ponds.

Bidders shall submit their bid on the forms attached to the specifications and must submit therewith a Certified Check issued by a bank satisfactory to the Owner, or a Proposal Bond from a reliable Surety Company, payable without recourse to the order of the City of Tahoka, Texas, in an amount not less than five per cent (5%) of the largest possible bid submitted on the Project as a guaranty that the Bidder will enter into a contract and execute bond and guaranty in the forms provided within fifteen (15) days after notice of award of contract to him.

The successful Bidder must furnish bonds on the forms attached to the Specifications in the amount of 100% of the total contract price from a Surety Company holding a permit from the State of Texas to act as Surety, or their Surety or Sureties acceptable to the Owner.

All lump sum and unit prices must be stated in both script and figures. The Owner reserves the right to reject any or all bids and to waive formalities. In case of ambiguity or lack of clearness in stating the prices in the bids, the Owner reserves the right to consider the most advantageous construction thereof, or to reject the bid. Unreasonable (or "Unbalanced") unit prices will authorize the Owner to reject the bid.

Bidders are expected to inspect the site of the work and to inform themselves regarding all local conditions under which the work is to be done. Attention is called to the provisions of the Acts of the 43rd Legislature of the State of Texas, Page 91, Chapter 45, (Article No. 5159A Civil Statutes 1925) concerning the wage scale and payment of prevailing wage established by the Owner. There must be paid on this project not less than the following prevailing wage rates:

Mechanic, Workman or Type of Labor	General Prevailing per diem wage based on 8 hour working day	General Prevailing Hourly Wage
Skilled	$16.00 to 32.00	$2.00 to 4.00
Semi-skilled	12.80 to 16.00	1.60 to 2.00
Unskilled	12.80	1.60

(Detailed Labor Classifications and corresponding wage rates are set out in the specifications.)

NONDISCRIMINATION IN EMPLOYMENT: Bidders on this work will be required to comply with the President's Executive Order No. 11114 and the provision of Executive Order No. 10925 as included herein. The requirements for bidders and contractors under this order are explained in the specifications.

Information for bidders, proposal forms, specifications and plans are on file at the office of the City Secretary, Tahoka, Texas, and copies can be secured at the office of the Consulting Engineer, A. C. Bowden, 1414 Ave. J, Lubbock, Texas, upon deposit of $25.00 as a guarantee of the safe return of the plans and specifications. The full amount of the deposit will be returned to the Bidder on submission of a bonafide bid on the work, with such plans and specifications, or upon returning the plans and specifications immediately after examination of same but before the time of receiving bids and advising the Engineer that a bid will not be submitted, otherwise, the deposit shall be forfeited. Suppliers may secure copies of the plans and specifications as outlined above but will be given five (5) days after bids have been received to return said documents to the Engineer's office before the deposit shall be forfeited. No obligation is assumed to return the deposit under other conditions.
