DEVELOPMENT IN THIS SECTION

McDowell No. 4 Still in Progress—More Tests for Mitchell County

At McDowell Well No. 4 the crew at McDowell No. 4 has been getting things shaped up by another effort to set the pipe at the bottom of the well. The water to circulate is impossible to force the concrete to the bottom of the well when it was attempted recently. A person was secured to perforate the joint of casing and insure the government expert who came to inspect the work at the station of H. D. Conley, one of the trustees of the General Oil Co., that the work as being carried out was just as he would recommend.

for the second well on the A. L. Miller lease of the California Co. which is located A. L. Miller No. 1 of the company, a good well within proven territory and among the most valuable in the field.

At O'Neill One of S. A. et al are cleaning out following shot last week and the showing for production as the best in the field. The well is to be tubed and placed on production sold to pipe company.

Four of the Underwriters Refining Company will be the pump today. S. S. Owen, manager of the Underwriters, stated Thursday morning he believed this well would develop a daily production of at least barrels. The well was shot last and the crew completed Wednesday. Tubing was set Thursday.

One of Bill Thomason, a large extension of the field to the west, has also developed a good well, following a heavy shot Thursday of last week. The well is to be tubed and placed on production following the shot.

Miller No. 1 of S. A. Sloan is a territory of more than 3 of valuable acreage and which all men believe is due for large development within the next few days. A block of this acreage is owned by Chal Daniel and associates according to unconfirmed reports to drill within the near future.

Sloan Co. Company was drilled 750 feet at their Smartt No. 1. This test, located on the lease well within proven territory will be watched with interest by the oil fraternity.—Colorado

Wins from Ranger, 12-7

Probably the biggest upset for the HI eleven of the season since defeated by Strawn, was uncovered yesterday afternoon. The Rangers went down to a 12-7 defeat by Big Spring, 12 to 7. The visitors outplayed the Rangers in the first half, making 10 downs to Ranger's two. The aerial attack near the end of the second period was brilliant, carrying the eleven down the field a total of 45 yards in four plays completed forward passes were attempted in succession. The Ranger athletes could do nothing to down the man getting all, George Zarafonitis for the players shone at this trick. Capt. Zarafonitis was successful in breaking the pass up. But the line could not back the passes. George Zarafonitis has been dependable in breaking this phase of the open game. Yesterday he played back and down on the receiver.

Big Spring aerial trio, Nall, Huddleston did its best work in the second period and the march of the goal line was steady. The game was stopped by the referee's whistle. First marker made by the in was on a forward pass, Huddleston to Nall, six minutes after started. The Ranger eleven was rushed off its feet in five minutes of play. Ran off and T. B. Hoover, half back, received the ball and passed on his 34-yard line. His pass resulted in no gain. A parlay back of center was for three yards. Huddleston did through for eight yards.

He next circled left end for two yards, making first down. Wilson brought Wright down alone after he gained slightly. Then came a long heave, Wright to Captain Jack Nall. He sprinted down the field for a marker with a Ranger player at his heels. He was downed just inside the goal line. Pitman failed to kick goal.

Coach Sandlin got the regulars into the game, who were on the sideline and this encouraged the team. Before the end of the period, John Collins recovered a fumble on Big Spring's second down on Ranger's eight-yard line.

At the beginning of the second period, the Ranger backfield was gaining ground until a bad heave was uncorked by Ranger's center, Yonkers had called for a punt and when the ball went too high for his hands, he ran back after it, grabbed the ball but was downed on Ranger's three-yard line. On the first down, Big Spring made one yard and on the next down, Melvin Pitman, fullback, scooted over the forms of a dozen wriggling players for a touchdown. George Zarafonitis blocked his goal kick.

Shortly after the opening of the third period Ranger made her first and only marker. The ball rested on the 18-yard line following the kick-off. M. Frost, center for the visitors shot the ball back to the quarterback but it missed him wide and went on through the backs. Carl Althausen pounced on the ball in a jiffy with Ford Shell on top of Althausen. This gave Ranger six points and with a successful goal kick by George Zarafonitis totaled seven points.

In the fourth period, Pitman punted to Ranger's seven-yard line, but she was penalized for five yards. Ranger lost the ball when an incomplete pass rolled behind Ranger's line and was recovered by George Zarafonitis and then hurled beyond the line. It was Big Spring's ball but she got a double penalty and was set back. Two forward passes were incomplete by Big Spring and she punted to the 25-yard line. Ranger returned it on a punt to the 38-yard line and from this point the visitors worked the ball to Ranger's two-yard line when the whistle stopped play. The lineup:

THE GOVERNMENT FEEDING TESTS

Livestock Feeding Experimental Work to Start Here Under Auspices of A. & M. College

E. W. Parr of Washington, D. C. of the U. S. Animal Husbandry Department, and J. N. Jones of the Extension Department of the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas, spent Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday here completing arrangements for conducting livestock feeding experiments at the U. S. Experiment Station at Big Spring. These feeding experiments will be under the supervision of the A. & M. College with the U. S. Department of Agriculture furnishing the buildings and equipment and such surplus feed as is available at the government farm here. The livestock are to be furnished by local citizens and the additional feed needed will be purchased by the Chamber of Commerce and the banks of this city. At the close of the feeding period the livestock will be marketed and any profits made will go into a revolving fund to continue this experimental feeding work.

(Forty-five calves will be used in these tests—three pens of fifteen calves.)

Each pen will be fed a different ration and the animals will be weighed every thirty days to ascertain the gain in weight.

Messrs Parr and Jones, accompanied by Fred Keating, superintendent of the Big Spring Station and I. B. Cauble, who was appointed to secure the calves, have traveled over much territory to secure just the class or animals desired for the test. They are to be as near the same size, weight and build as possible. Owing to the fact that so many have marketed their calves it has been difficult to readily secure forty-five calves to meet the requirements.

The feeding experiments to be conducted will be of interest to all West Texas and will be the means of proving to the cattlemen of Texas that it is to their interest to fatten their cattle in Texas and get highest market prices instead of selling unconditioned cattle which go to Kansas, Iowa and Illinois to be fattened for market. When this day comes it will mean the forming of a good market for every ton of maize, kafir and other grain sorghums that can be raised. West Texas is an ideal feeding ground, as there is no severe weather to contend with such as they have in the states where the corn crop is turned into fat heaves.

The result of the experiments conducted here will be watched with interest throughout the entire section devoted to cattle raising and feeding. From year to year these tests will be increased as to number and age of animals. We feel that our section is indeed fortunate to have this great work started here.

O'Barr-Phillips

J. D. O'Barr and Miss Gladys Phillips stole a march on their friends when they motored to Sterling City last Sunday, where they were united in the holy bonds of matrimony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Phillips, is a most estimable young lady, loved and esteemed by a wide circle of friends in this county. The groom is one of our well-known and substantial young men who holds the respect of everyone with whom he has come in contact. He is now employed at the store of Gary & Son.

We join a host of friends in extending to this worthy couple best wishes for much happiness and prosperity.

Mrs. J. M. Heffernan Dead

It was with deep sorrow that friends in Big Spring received the announcement of the death of Mrs. Primmie Lane Heffernan, Tuesday. She passed away at her home in Hot Springs, N. M., at 9:10 o'clock Tuesday morning, November 20th. Death was due to intestinal cancer.

She recently underwent an operation in the hope of overcoming the malady but it proved unavailing. Mrs. Heffernan, prior to moving to Hot Springs, some eight years ago to make her home, resided in Howard County and has a host of friends here. She was a true Christian in every sense of the word, followed in the Master's footsteps during a long and useful life and was ready to meet the Heavenly Father when the summons came.

Mrs. Heffernan was aged sixty-three years, three months and six days. She is survived by five sons and three daughters; Jess Heffernan of this city, Arch Heffernan of Lamesa, Festus, Claud and Allie Heffernan of Hot Springs; Mrs. Bob Asbury of this county, Mrs. A. J. O'Conner of Wichita Falls and Miss Myrtle Heffernan of Hot Springs, N. M., and to these who mourn for a dearly beloved mother is tendered the heartfelt sympathy of our entire citizenship.

The City Has Sold $60,000.00 Bonds and Work on Sewer System to Start Soon

At a meeting of the City Council this week the sale of the $60,000 bonds, issued for the purpose of installing a sewer system in Big Spring was consummated and actual work on this needed civic improvement is expected to start shortly after January 1st. FOOTBALL

It would be hard to express our feeling that we had when we heard our boys had beaten Ranger 12 to 6. We knew they were fine but we were afraid they would not fight. The boys all report the best trip ever. Some of them said that if they hadn't seen the game of Abilene vs Cisco that they wouldn't have beaten. Mr. Burleson, one of the coaches, said he had never seen our boys play like they did at Ranger. He admitted that he was surprised. The Ranger people gave the boys a banquet after the game and treated them royally.

There will be a game with Tahoka here Friday (today). We want a big crowd to be there. Tahoka is sore at us anyway for trying to make them come Armistice day. So they are coming to win. Well, we'll show them who is going to win.

"Keeping Young on the Inside"
Father Time hangs his glasses on our nose, carves the wrinkles on our brow, hands to us the tell-tale gray hairs, and bye and bye this shack of clay begins to totter on its foundation. And at this turn in the road most of us get grouchy on the house-keeping job, stop and look back, and that's a sure sign of the saddest of all sad things, senility, the worm of decay. But away down there in this house not made with hands, is a little room that should be kept clean and in order, don't let the cobwebs get on the ceiling nor cling to the curtains, avoid the accumulation of the dust of discontent under the carpet, keep the shelves of youth dainty and clean, use the duster of joy quite often, be sure to keep the furniture varnished and polished with the elixir of laughter, keep the red brooks running, stirred with the paddle of action, snuff quite often and keep the candle of cheerfulness ever burning. Step on the gas, be a spendthrift, romp and play with the babes of your mind, be a self starter, keep the ignition clear of the carbon of old age—Do this, and the light in this divine chamber will leak out through the crevices of the house beautiful and your life will be like a running brook in a desert place—

DON'T KILL THE MOUSE IF OXEN DID IT.
RELIGIOUS POWER LASTS.
ARMY HAPPY—KING SAFE.

Mr. Zangwill telling Americans that their "pep" is lost motion, that they are undignified, unjust, lack shame, etc., will be useful to the wise and annoying only to the foolish.

It doesn't matter what Mr. Zangwill is—is there any truth in what he says?

If a humble mouse crawled from a sewer, looked at you with his long quivering nose and said, "You are a shameless creature and don't know anything," you should not try to kill that mouse.

You should ask yourself, "Is there truth in what the mouse says? If so, how can I correct my fault?"

The bad feature of Mr. Zangwill's talk is the harm it may do to his co-religionists among those already prejudiced. It cannot hurt him, for he will soon be back, safe in England, where they will approve quite generally his views on America.

But his inaccurate belittling of the Ku Klux Klan may cause trouble to better Jews than Zangwill. And his ridiculing of Christian Science does not come with good grace from one belonging to a race that has so long complained (and justly) of religious prejudice.

However, at his worst, Mr. Zangwill is to be thanked. The United States and its people have a thousand defects, many that Mr. Zangwill could not see or understand. To make us think about them is to render a service.

Correspondents report that Indiana is controlled politically by the Ku Klux Klan, with that control already strong in Texas, Oklahoma, and Arkansas, now spreading into Ohio and other States.

Everything depends on how control is acquired. If, through the ballot box, no one may complain. Vox populi, suprema lex esto holds good whether you like the vox of the moment or not.

In a Wild West exhibition a dozen cows are turned into the arena; "wild cows" they are called. Cowboys with lassos and empty beer bottles are turned loose with the cows. They lasso them, throw them down, sit on them, and the cowboy that manages to fill his beer bottle with milk, no matter how, as the cow pants and struggles, receives a special reward.

To many civilized beings that seems all right.

What should we say about a collection of oxen if they gave a similar exhibition, only turning nursing human mothers into the arena instead of cows. We might criticize them severely for lack of delicate feeling.

Religion is still powerful in national affairs. In Germany it plays a greater part than Socialism, bolshevism, or capitalism. The Wittelsbach, royal Catholic family of Bavaria, who furnished Kings to Germany long before Protestant Hohenzollerns were known, are again rivals of those Hohenzollerns for the rule of Germany, when she shall become too weak to rule herself.

Stresemann, managing the German republic, allows the Hohenzollern Crown Prince to return from Holland, that his royal Protestant influence might offset the revolutionary royal Catholic influence of the Wittelsbachs in Bavaria. To let one royal religion fight another is his plan.

TRADE MARK

Every bolt and bar made of the toughest steel that science can produce; every piece of metal put there for a special purpose with ample reserve strength to withstand the most unusual strain; and every drop of kerosene that goes into the tank transformed into power—that is the Fordson Tractor.

Whether it is required to drag the implements of agriculture across the fields or to turn the wheels of stationary machines, the Fordson will do all that is claimed for it and more.

We will gladly demonstrate to you this the most powerful tractor for its size on the market.

Frank Falos, a crippled laborer, takes his four young children to the State Workmen's Compensation Bureau and says, "You feed them, I can't."

Ten thousand voices will cry, "What, you can't feed them? You must feed them. It's your duty." To that everybody says, "Amen," yet the crippled father would get no reward, except a quiet conscience, for feeding these children, whereas the community in general would get the value of their work.

Parents are working for the nation, and supremely wise Providence makes them eager to do it, glad to sacrifice themselves for the coming generation.

Mussolini increases the pay of soldiers so that they are as well paid as civilian workers. That's an echo of old Rome. They took good care of soldiers in those ancient days that Mussolini admires and would bring back.

A contented army means a safe dictator.

The old plan was to give land to the old soldiers and whatever they could take to the young ones. Good pay probably will do as well.

"What ruined your business?"
"Advertising."
"How?"
"I let my competitor do it all."

Quite a few of us would feel better and be able to accomplish more if we took more exercise. Cleaning up around the home, planting trees, etc., would prove mighty fine exercise if we would only force ourselves to do a little outdoor work.

We would like to see a large, fire-proof warehouse erected here to be used for storing cotton, feed, and other products from our farms. Weather damage each year amounts to far more than the cost of such a structure. Cooperative storage would be right in line with cooperative marketing.

J. T. McNew who resides northwest of Big Spring, states that the rainy spells have certainly interfered with crop harvesting; and more so than anytime during the seventeen years he has made his home here. He said it kept a man worried to see cotton worth much money going to the bad in the field and feed—worth as much as cotton—being damaged by the rains.

It's a good thing the carnival didn't stay any longer or a good many of our folks would have gone broke. It's hard to understand why folks will "plump off" good hard earned dollars in an effort to win something they don't need. Judson had come to the United States with the firm resolve to make this his country; to study our talk and ways of doing things; and to become a real American as soon as possible. Smilingly he greeted a fellow worker one morning, asking how he felt. "Feel fine—outta sight," was the reply.

Next morning he met a fellow countryman on the street, who, in greeting, ask him how he felt. "Feel swell. You can't see me."

A New and Exclusive Optical Office

I have just opened an exclusive optical office in the West Texas Bank Building where I am prepared to do all kinds of refractive work. I have been in this work fifteen years, a graduate of two schools of Optometry, and hold a standard certificate, the highest grade issued by the State. Formerly the fitting of glasses was regarded merely as a side line, the work being done by jewelers, peddlers, and others; but in recent years it has rapidly advanced to the front as a distinct profession. Two years of nine months each are now required for graduation by all schools of Optometry and Columbia University requires four years. So that those who now enter the profession must indeed be prepared.

I am very well known in Big Spring, having had charge of the Latin department of the High School several years ago, am permanently located, and am very thoroughly qualified to give you first class service. No graft, no fraud, no deception, but you get a square deal when you come to me.

I successfully refract the most difficult cases, use nothing but the best tinted lenses, and have on hand the finest display of all the latest and most dressy frames.

Your patronage is respectfully solicited.

J. D. SHAW.

Other Investigations Needed

As the investigation of the Veterans' Bureau proceeds a worse and worse mess is revealed. Looting of the Government right and left seems to have been carried on under the directorship of Col. Charles R. Forbes. One witness testified to the sale of $3,000,000 worth of supplies for $600,000 to a Boston firm. Even pajamas made for our soldiers by their mothers were disposed of at 30 cents a pair.

The facts brought to light in the Teapot Dome inquiry and the Veterans' Bureau query ought to be an incentive to a demand for investigations in other departments and bureaus of the Government where charges have been made. It would be interesting for the public to know what has been going on in the Department of Agriculture, Dept. of Justice and the Shipping Board. They know to some extent what has taken place in the Bureau of Engraving and Printing in connection with the outrageous dismissal of 28 employees of that bureau, but it would be well if the public could know all that has taken place therein.

Interesting indeed are the possibilities of next year's presidential campaign.

Hiram Johnson of California, progressive republican, and William G. McAdoo of the same state, progressive democrat, are avowed candidates. If Johnson seeks the nomination on the republican ticket, and is turned down again, it will be more than he can stand a second time; he will run as a progressive. Then Henry Ford is apt to enter the race, and the country may have a four-cornered race in which neither republican nor democrat would have a decided edge. It would be anybody's race, with every chance that under the circumstances the regular G. O. P. nominee would get the plum.—Abilene Reporter.

From present indications, next year we are going to see the warmest times from a political standpoint we have experienced in many years. With Underwood's, Johnson's, McAdoo's, Pinchot's, and LaFollette's hats in the ring and with Henry Ford with hat ready to toss in the ring and gum up the works we are promised a run for our money. But we do not agree with the Reporter in regard to even chances being with the regular G. O. P. We are of the opinion that the progressive republicans will poll more votes than Roosevelt ran. But with three or perhaps four tickets in the field we would place our money on the Democratic Donkey. With four years of high taxes and high tariff, with the price of things we eat and wear going up while many farm products and labor going down the country is about ready for another change and we believe 1924 is to be a democratic year.

Home and School Club

The Home and School club met the usual hour Friday, Nov. 15, and as we were to elect new officers at this meeting it was very interesting to have so many mothers present.

Mrs. Chas Koberg was re-elected president; Mrs. Fox Stripling president and Mrs. Ollie Cordill, reporter. Mrs. Koberg is very efficient and we feel fortunate in securing her for our director this year.

Mrs. Leslie Thomas, Mrs. Shick and Mrs. Edwards were pointed to serve on the entertainment committee, so we are sure to have some very entertaining and helpful programs throughout the year.

The committee for the Teacher Reception given at the Friday, Nov. 9th, reported a very joyable affair. The committee also very sorry that three members take one of the very best numbers the program was omitted in the week's paper. It was the program given by little Stella Elliott and greatly enjoyed by all.

We are now in good working order and we plan to do much good this year, and it is our earnest hope that more mothers come to the We meet every third Friday at 8 o'clock. Come and be a member. Children and their teachers need hearty cooperation of every parent.

The House by the Side of the Road

There are hermit souls that live withdrawn
In the place of their self content;
There are souls like stars that dwell apart
In a fellowless firmament;
There are pioneer souls that blaze a path
Where highways never ran.
Let me live in a house by the side of the road
And be friend to man.

I see from my house by the side of the road,
By the side of the highway of life,
The men that press on with the ardor of hope.
And the men that faint with the strife,
And I turn not away from their smiles and their tears—
Both part of an infinite plan.
Let me live in a house by the side of the road
And be friend to man.

—Sam Walter Foss.

Methodist Sunday School Notes

We had a very good attendance at S. S. but not quite our three hundred—lacked four. Only two teachers absent, and both were out of town. We expect an one hundred per cent corps next Sunday.

Mrs. Stripling's class of Intermediates had attained so great a membership it had once more to be divided, Mrs. G. I. Phillips taking the overflow half. The boys are urged to join both classes, and when we grow a bit more, we'll divide again. It is the aim of our school to finally reach our exact grade in all classes, boys and girls of one grade only being together. The Supt. would greatly appreciate the cooperation and support of the home and the teachers as well as the student body, in measuring up to A1 standards. Our great Sunday school organization is for the good of the whole. Let us always remember that, and work together in whole-hearted sympathy in its permanent upbuilding.

We have ten teachers taking the Training course and hope to have others join. Our class, composed of Methodists, Episcopalians and Presbyterians, is now quite large, three members coming in from Coahoma on Thursday evenings to attend. This is an excellent course, conducted to suit real needs, and the Supt. would be only too glad to have her entire force take the study. The text books are furnished by the S. S.

On Sunday morning at the eleven o'clock hour Bro. Phelan, our new pastor, preached to a full house. It was a wonderful sermon on Peace of Mind and Rest of Soul, and was thoroughly enjoyed by all present. We realize we are a fortunate people in getting Bro. Phelan and his family for the coming year, which we hope will be extremely pleasant to both pastor and flock. Mrs. Phelan has kindly consented to take the Adult Student class and will be with them next Sunday. All absentee members are urged to be present. This is the time for our Sunday school special to be completed, so let us all bring our Thanksgiving offering to Sunday school. All over twelve bring fifty cents; all under, twenty-five cents, and we shall go over with flying colors.

Don't forget—this is important.

Methodist Sunday School Notes

We had a very good attendance at S. S. but not quite our three hundred—lacked four. Only two teachers absent, and both were out of town. We expect an one hundred per cent corps next Sunday.

Mrs. Stripling's class of Intermediates had attained so great a membership it had once more to be divided, Mrs. G. I. Phillips taking the overflow half. The boys are urged to join both classes, and when we grow a bit more, we'll divide again. It is the aim of our school to finally reach our exact grade in all classes, boys and girls of one grade only being together. The Supt. would greatly appreciate the cooperation and support of the home and the teachers as well as the student body, in measuring up to A1 standards. Our great Sunday school organization is for the good of the whole. Let us always remember that, and work together in whole-hearted sympathy in its permanent upbuilding.

We have ten teachers taking the Training course and hope to have others join. Our class, composed of Methodists, Episcopalians and Presbyterians, is now quite large, three members coming in from Coahoma on Thursday evenings to attend. This is an excellent course, conducted to suit real needs, and the Supt. would be only too glad to have her entire force take the study. The text books are furnished by the S. S.

On Sunday morning at the eleven o'clock hour Bro. Phelan, our new pastor, preached to a full house. It was a wonderful sermon on Peace of Mind and Rest of Soul, and was thoroughly enjoyed by all present. We realize we are a fortunate people in getting Bro. Phelan and his family for the coming year, which we hope will be extremely pleasant to both pastor and flock. Mrs. Phelan has kindly consented to take the Adult Student class and will be with them next Sunday. All absentee members are urged to be present. This is the time for our Sunday school special to be completed, so let us all bring our Thanksgiving offering to Sunday school. All over twelve bring fifty cents; all under, twenty-five cents, and we shall go over with flying colors.

Don't forget—this is important.

Jellybeans and Flappers

Amarillo officers last week arrested several "jellybeans" who made a practice of hanging around the school grounds at the noon hour for the purpose of making a "mash" on some of the young school girls. The Herald gives its full endorsement to Chief John Snyder and his force for their efforts to break up such practice, but what we are interested to know is what is a "jellybean?" Ben Smith of the Scurry County Times, or Jess Adams of the Plainview News or Sam Braswell, of the Clarendon News, or L. P. Loomis, of the Canadian Record, ought to be able to tell us, and while you are at it also tell us what a "flapper" is.—Panhandle Herald.

A jellybean is a boy in the middle of the worthless period of his career when he has no ambition nor any purpose in life. His backbone is composed of jellyfish and his brain is as clear as mud. He sucks cigarettes and has a breath as foul as the sewage from a packing plant. He goes to bed at eleven o'clock and thinks that he is confering an honor on his maw to ask her to bring his breakfast to him in his bed the next morning at nine. The jellybean can spend the dollar that dad worked so hard for the day before, like he was a million-dollar movie actor and it was a disgrace for him to keep coin out of circulation. Withal the jellybean has his virtues. He may be the homeliest, most repulsive creature in the community and yet he is so infatuated with his own personality that he thinks the girls will follow him when he walks down the street. He can never be depended on to do anything right nor to think consecutively because it is too much strain on his brain which is only a malignant growth at the top of his backbone. He never passes a mirror without complimenting it by admiring his own reflection. However he may have some real manhood in him and if he can be guided over the shoals of the jellybean period and kept from going crazy by being so sweet on himself, he will come out of it and grade up with the average by his first voting period.

The flapper. Bless your soul, they are nothing but harmless, foolish girls who think that the more attractive they are the more attractive the jellybean will have to become a real man some day. If it wasn't for the flappers the jellybeans would all go jump into the Gulf of Mexico. The flappers are the lone star of hope, the inspiration and stimulation of the jellybean. As the flapper grows into something to be worshipped at a respectful distance, the jellybean realizes his hopeless condition, and the muddying of the waters of his brain is but an indication that the leavening is beginning to work, and that he will be worth something after all.

The flapper confers on dad the honor of spending every last dime he has in keeping up to date. But she's worth it. She may be foolish at times and want to do things that are unwise because she is so innocent of the ways of the world, but given even a small chance she will grow into a useful woman.

As a magnet to draw the jellybean out of his muddled, self-hypnotized condition, she is worth her weight in gold.—Exchange.

Entertain With Bridge Luncheon

Mrs. Bernard and Mrs. Joye Fisher entertained about fifty guests with a Bridge Luncheon at the home of the former on Rannels street at one o'clock Wednesday. The tables were lovely with a miniature turkey as the centerpiece surrounded by lighted tapers.

The Thanksgiving motif was carried out in the decorations, score cards and refreshments. A four-course luncheon was served consisting of cream of tomato soup, turkey and dressing, cheese in pimento cups, candied yams, frozen cranberries, hot rolls, ice cream moulded to represent pumpkins and turkeys with nut cakes, coffee, nuts.

High score prize was awarded Mrs. Cunningham, second prize, Miss Wasson, and consolation prize, Mrs. Frank Pool.

The hostesses were assisted by their mother, Mrs. Eckhaus, Mrs. J. D. Biles and Mrs. Del Elliott. All voted this one of the most delightful functions of the season.

Yuell Robb, manager of the R. and R. Lyric, is going to make some big improvements at the Lyric Theatre in the near future. One of the improvements will be the erection of a stage thirty-four by twenty-two feet. This is for the purpose of planning for high class plays, and specialties from the Majestic Circuit. A regular circuit is being prepared and Big Spring is going to have an opportunity to secure extra high class attractions. "The Bat" one of the most talked of plays of the year will be the first of the series of big plays that will be brought here by Mr. Robb.

An Inquisitive Editor

Mike Mihalopolus, as a rule is not hard to get along with, but when a four-foot bull snake attempted to share his bed with him recently, Mike all but blew up. He discovered the reptile just as he threw back the covers to crawl into the "hay." Mike said he wasn't a bit sleepy the balance of the night; and if he did become the least bit drowsy he began to see snakes. The very next day every crack and chink in Mike's ranch home was made air tight; and a snake or even a mite would have a difficult time breaking into the shack now.—Big Spring Herald.

But you didn't tell us what became of the snake. Did he or Mike occupy the bed for the remainder of the night? What kind do they drink down at Big Spring now? — Lynn County News.

You will have to ask Mike. He was very much excited, and "spitting cotton" when telling us of his exciting experience.

Does Your Weight Fit Your Height?

The goal of the Health and Happiness League is that all Texas boys and girls may grow up to be happy and healthy. The plan of the Health League says first: Be weighed and learn if your weight is the same as the average weight of a good healthy person. Some children are tall, some short. Yet because the father and mother may be tall and thin, or fat and short, is no reason why the child should remain underweight for his or her height. The average weight for height has been found by the weighing and measuring of thousands of healthy children. Seven per cent below or twenty per cent above this average weight is an indication that the proper food needs to be selected for body building. This building material needs to be of the right kind in order to fortify the child. The first weight is only the foundation upon which to build.

Each classroom should have a weight chart hanging in the room upon which is recorded the monthly weights of the children in that grade. This gain in health can only be made by playing the HEALTH GAME. That means—start with the first rule "by drinking four cups of milk each day, but no tea or coffee." Milk is the master builder; the friend of growing children. Join the Health League and insure your health and happiness, with the many other schools and classes enlisting in this call for service to the children.

Let your certificate of membership, with its stars of achievement, tell where you stand in the HEALTH GAME.

Classes wishing to carry on the work this year must enroll not later than December 15.—By Miss E. Hershey, Acting-Head, Division of Nutrition and Health Education, Bureau of Extension.

Third Party to Have Candidate

The resolution also stated the third party supporters now in session favor United States Senator La-Follette.—Fort Worth Press.

Like Begets Like

The gospel of hatred never carries anyone very far towards a desired goal. Like begets like, and hatred begets more hatred, and one act of retaliation brings on a counter act, until a whole community is sometimes involved.

A story told of two farmers who went to law over a division fence some years ago, one of them acrimoniously contending that the fence of the other encroached about four feet upon his ground. After carrying this legal battle on for several years at great expense, the farmer who was accused of benefitting by the position of the fence avoided further fight before a final decision was rendered, by selling out and removing to another place, first telling the purchaser of the legal conflict, and of his prospects for a favorable decision in a higher court where the case was still pending.

The new owner immediately sought an interview with his neighbor and expressed a wish that he move the fence to what he contended was the real boundary line between the two properties, as he desired to live in peace and harmony with his neighbors and didn't propose to let a four-foot strip of land stand between his family and happiness. The generosity of this proposal so appealed to the other that he met it in the spirit in which it was offered, declined to benefit by his new neighbor's generous proffer and said he didn't care anything about the strip of land and never had—it was just the principle involved.

"Didn't see any use," he explained, "in lawin' any more about it." All of which proves that, if the other fellow is given the benefit of the doubt as to his motives, and is accredited with a desire to do the fair thing by his associates, an appeal is made to his honor which impels him to play the game fair.

Faith and sympathy will go a long way in bringing out the best traits of character in others. A fellow just naturally wants to live up to the standard set for him by his contemporaries.

Sympathy and faith are also incentives in the line of duty. How cheerfully we buck up to our tasks when it is known that such action is expected of us. And the glory of achievement is all the sweeter when the goal is reached amidst friendly environment.

The other fellow has seeds of good traits and lovable human qualities if tact is used to uncover them. In his makeup you will find what you are looking for—genial warmth or resentful retaliation—sometimes one, sometimes the other, depending much upon the manner of approach.

Intimate that you have faith in the other fellow's promise, that he has your sympathy in his difficulties, and the foundation for an enduring business friendship will have been laid, such as splendid trade organizations are built upon.

What the Presidents Have Said About Education

GEORGE WASHINGTON

Knowledge is in every country the surest basis of public happiness. In one in which the measures of government receive their impressions so immediately from the sense of the community as in ours it is proportionally essential. To the security of a free constitution it contributes in various ways: By convincing those who are intrusted with the public administration that every valuable end of government is best answered by the enlightened confidence of the people, and by teaching the people themselves to know and value their own rights; to discern and provide against invasions of them; to distinguish between oppression and the necessary exercise of lawful authority, between burdens proceeding from a disregard to their convenience and those resulting from the inevitable exigencies of society; to discriminate the spirit of liberty from that of licentiousness, cherishing the first, avoiding the last, and uniting a speedy but temperate vigilance against encroachments with an inviolable respect to law.

Shall Three Ward Politicians Name Our Next President?

By DANIEL F. COHALAN
 Justice of the Supreme Court
 State of New York

De Tocqueville, the great French political philosopher, has said that Democracy was applied common sense. I wonder if he would repeat that statement if he knew the way in which Presidents were made in this greatest of all republics.

Let us take a look at the prospects ahead of us in 1924 and see how, in spite of our vaunted liberty, our hands are to be tied in advance, and we shall probably be left to make a choice between two men who represent the financial groups rather than the people.

Fate has made the choice for us on the Republican side, for the death of President Harding pitchforked the Vice-President into the White House, and has made him the odds-on favorite for the nomination. Does any sensible man believe he would have been chosen to succeed Harding if he had not happened to be Vice-President; or that he would have been nominated for Vice-President in 1920 if it were not thought that Harding was a superlatively healthy man?

Fate plays strange tricks with nations as well as with men. The sound sense of the people may yet assert itself and force the choice of a statesman. Mr. Coolidge may astonish the world during the next few months and show himself to be a great man.

But barring these rather remote possibilities we have one of the two candidates for whom we can vote—already in the field—and he is neither a Jefferson nor a Lincoln.

Who is likely to be the other one? If you can make in your mind's eye a composite picture of Murphy, of New York, Brennan, of Illinois, and Taggart, of Indiana, you will have before you the force that maybe will relieve a majority of the American people of the trouble of choosing a candidate for President. These three worthies are preparing to make the choice. They are prepared to let the people take the consequences of such action. They are marshaling their forces to go through the form of holding a Convention—probably in New York City—that will simply register their will. They will pull strings and the delegates selected by them will do the rest. The atmosphere of respectability and the appearance of decency will, so far as possible, be thrown around the gathering, but from it will come as the nominee a man who will be subservient to this trio or it may be to one of them who can dominate or deceive the other two.

Murphy's satellites are already boasting that he is to make a President in order to satisfy his ambition. Brennan's henchmen see in him the Warwick of 1924—although most of them would not put it that way. Taggart is saying nothing but sawing wood. What travesty on self-government it will be if the plans of this crowd work out? Can they, with the aid of the unit rule and the two-thirds rule, set aside the character and intellect and courage of the historic party of Jefferson and Jackson?

If so, De Tocqueville was wrong, and it will take some cynic to write the story of the way in which democracy has gone out of fashion in America.

We are told that we cannot gather figs from thorns. As well might we expect to get character or courage from a President chosen by men with the background from which this trio has emerged.

No Carnivals

"One of the things that will make Fort Worth's Diamond Jubilee an unusual sort of celebration will be the absence of carnivals and their attendant concessions. The people of the Panther City have determined that they will contribute their funds direct for the payment of the expenses of the Jubilee, and will not seek to get the necessary money through "entertainment attractions." Fort Worth is to be congratulated by the remainder of the State.

"It is one of the mysteries of the age that people love to throw away their money on carnival shows, and that reputable organizations are willing to sponsor such attractions in consideration of a small percentage of their receipts. If there were no vice or suggestion of vice with the average carnival company, there still would be a lack of justification for its existence as an amusement enterprise. But there is always vice in some degree, either within the carnival organization or accompanying it, and communities in which carnivals operate suffer both morally and financially.

"Organizations which sponsor carnivals usually attempt to justify their action by pointing out their great need for funds for laudable work, and the failure of the community to provide such funds. But it would be better for the organizations to continue without funds than to secure money through carnival attractions however great may be their need. It has been the experience of most local organizations which have sponsored carnivals that as a means of raising money they are dismal failures; and in any case the local organization gets so small a percentage of the gross amount expended that it is unfair drain upon the community and an unfair claim upon the community support.

"Fort Worth's example should be emulated by other cities. Until carnivals improve so as to merit popular respect as amusement enterprises they have no valid claim upon popular support." — Brownwood Bulletin.

"Tea—With a Kick!" Made by People Who Know How

"Tea—with a kick!" is the feature attraction announced by Manager J. Y. Robb of the R. and R. Lyric Theatre, for Monday and Tuesday, November 26th and 27th.

"Tea—with a Kick!" as a photoplay is comparable to a musical comedy hit on the stage. It has a cast of 27 stars, assisted by 10 prize-winning beauties, and a ballet of 100 Hollywood Heartbreakers. It is a satire on movie melodrama, a burlesque on the Prohibition question, and a delightfully "different" motion picture.

The story and titles were written by Victor Hugo Halperin, a former literary associate of Elbert Hubbard. It was directed under his supervision by Erle C. Kenton who made Mack Sennett's outstanding hits, "A Small Town Idol" and "Down on the Farm." Its lavish settings were designed by Ralph Delacy, who was the art director of D. W. Griffith's "Intolerance," and Fox's "Connecticut Yankee."

Its gowns and costumes were exclusively designed by Peggy Hamilton, Fashion Editor of the Los Angeles Times and costume designer for Cecil B. DeMille, Thos. H. Ince and others.

It was photographed by William Marshall and Phillip Rand. Mr. Marshall did the photography for Rudolph Valentino in "The Sheik." Mr. Rand was Charlie Chaplin's personal cameraman for two years.

The extravagant ballet and dance creations were originated by Irene D'Annelle, a dancer of international reputation and fame.

Every angle of production in "Tea—with a Kick!" is said to have received the most careful attention, which is reflected by the brilliancy and high entertainment worth of the picture.

Prosecutor in Bitter Attack On Promoters

Evidence in the Cook case "overwhelmingly established the fact that the Petroleum Producers Assn. was not an oil company but a confidence game," Special Prosecutor John S. Pratt declared to the jury as Cook's fraud trial neared its end Monday.

Pratt reviewed the Cook-Cox stock-selling literature which had been offered in evidence, and charged that glowing statements made in it regarding desirability of Cook's stock as an investment were "absolute lies."

When "dividends" were paid by the PPA last fall the concern was "utterly insolvent," he asserted.

Pointing out that Cook employed young men largely, Pratt declared the promoter "operated a school for crime, teaching the gentle art of the bunco steerer and the confidence man."

Pratt recited the part which each of the 14 men on whose guilt the jury must pass played in the Cook-Cox promotions, according to his theory.

"Dr. Cook tried to steal the property of the Allied Oil Corporation," he charged. "That deal was the crookedest thing ever uncovered in a courtroom." He referred to Cook and W. P. Welty in this connection as "vicious and vindictive to the utmost degree—men without conscience."

Reading a letter which, he said, was written for Cook by Cox, announcing the PPA had raised the price of its stock to $2 a share, Pratt said: "That's an absolute lie."

He looked at Cox, and added: "Gentlemen of the jury, that man is a 'peach' when it comes to writing high-powered literature. He is a wonder."

Cook's policy, he said, was "anything to get the money—any means necessary, but get it."

Of Cook's hand in the PPA's career, Pratt said, at the close of his talk:

"He is in this evidence at every turn. He was the responsible head of the organization. As he himself testified, he is a man of international reputation. He is a man of brilliant attainments and mentality. He is more than an ordinary intelligent man."

"Yet he has the nerve to get on the witness stand and say 'I don't know, I don't know, I don't remember.'"

"There is no question but that everything done came to his knowledge and attention, at every stage of the game."

The PPA paid its "dividends," Pratt said, to stimulate stock sales. He called Cook a student of psychology.

"I say he is a psychologist," Pratt explained, "because of his ability to arouse interest among his 'suckers' with advance cards announcing that an important letter was coming from a 'long-silent friend.' Then would come the 'merger' circular. The curiosity of the prospective stock buyer would be so great that the second letter would do its work immediately."

Opening address to the jury for the defense was started at the afternoon session by Attorney Herbert C. Wade. The arguments will not be completed until late Tuesday. Judge Killits' charge will be read to the jurors Wednesday morning.

In an informal discussion between the judge and the lawyers, it was brought out the jury will be charged that unless Cook is found guilty, none of the other defendants can be.

Ant Control Now Possible

By R. R. Reppert, Entomologist

The house wife experiences a great deal of annoyance by ants of various species. There are among these a number of species of garden, or lawn ants, that enter the house and carry away food. They also cause annoyance at this season of the year, and in early spring, by nesting in boxes or pots containing flowers, setting outside the house, sometimes damaging the plants.

The fact that they so readily enter these containers suggests a method of control at this season, and during the late winter and early spring months. During the rainy period, ants seek a place from which the water will drain and that will be reasonably dry. They also seek a place that will furnish them heat. They can be readily trapped by providing boxes into which is packed something that will provide these conditions. Often fairly dry earth alone will be sufficient. However, substance such as cotton seed hulls, grass, leaves, and such other material, slightly moistened and packed so it will heat, will be best. Set the box near the house or other place which it is desired to protect, and leave it for a number of weeks. After the ants have moved into this home, the box can be covered with another box larger and practically air tight, and heavily fumigated with carbon bisulphide, or covered with canvas or cloth, sized with linseed oil, or covered heavily with blankets, and fumigated. In this fumigation, pour about a quarter of a pint of the liquid into a shallow pan, and place on top of the box, throwing the blanket over the whole, first putting sticks over the pan to keep the blanket raised above the liquid. Fumigate for thirty-six hours, preferably on warm days. Then remove the blankets, and the box is ready to be colonized by other ants that may remain in the vicinity.

Is Your Land "Posted"?

Now that the hunting season is here, let's give serious consideration to two facts. First, so long as land is not posted, the game belongs to anyone who will come and get it. Second, game birds and animals are rapidly disappearing and many of them will become extinct if farm owners do not take more interest in their protection and preservation.

The game on privately owned land is the property of the landowner and protected by State and Federal law provided he simply asserts his ownership. To post our farms all we have to do is to place in conspicuous places signs that hunting is not allowed. This applies to fishing, also. Especially large, big type signs may be had by your local printing shop at slight cost.

There are other reasons for having land posted besides the protection of game. Many so-called hunters are not only careless of the rights of others, but are awkward in the use of firearms and liable to injure stock or even persons.

When protected, game may become a profitable crop for home use, and often is when protection has lasted several years. Some farmers sell hunting privileges by the day, by the season, or for a term of years. Certainly we should not let our game be killed and our fields trodden down by strangers without some sort of reward.—The Progressive Farmer

Millions in Machinery Exposed to the Elements

In 1920, the Census Bureau reported $154,320,996 worth of implements and machinery on Texas farms. If a census could be taken today, the value would probably exceed that amount by several million dollars, and a great deal of it would be found standing unprotected in the barn yard, or out in the field where it was last used. Next spring the owners will spend hours in scraping the rust off the cutting parts, digging out dirt and hardened oil from the gears and in driving to town for new parts. Machines that were new in the spring of 1923 will look as though they had been in service three or four years in the spring of 1924, and will wobble like a duck making a run for the water hole.

Not every farmer neglects his machinery which has cost him many hundreds of dollars, but there are some who will pay $75 for an old car dragged off the junk pile and carefully house it, and leave a binder which cost twice as much out in the field.

Housing for machinery costs money, so does the machinery. Some, however, cannot spare the money to construct an adequate protection for binders, plows, mowers and harrows even though it would prove an economy in the end. Farmers who must leave their machinery exposed should at least draw it to some high place in the yard and let the wheels rest on blocks. Then the machine could be partially protected with boards, box covers or old pieces of canvas. Before doing this, the machine should be thoroughly cleaned, movable cutting parts taken off and stored and other cutting parts thoroughly greased. A pot of paint and an hour's time would add months to the life of each machine or implement.—Farm and Ranch.

Who Will Build National Highways?

Nine States in the East and North-eastern part of the Union, although they have but 5 per cent of the area of the United States, possess one-half the national wealth.

Some taxpayers in these States, New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, and Connecticut, sometimes argue against the idea of national highways to be built and forever maintained by the National Government, on the ground that they will have to pay half the cost of such roads.

Probably they will. But they have to pay half the cost of all the expensive hauling now done over all the bad roads of the nation. These nine States, paying half the taxes of the nation, have to pay half of all national works. They have to suffer half the ills of all national reverses. They have to pay half the cost of all the money lost by all the other States through having bad roads.

It is impossible to live outside the working of the laws of economics as it is to work outside the laws of nature. The apple falls, be it in Maine or California, and the tax paid, is half collected from half the wealth. The expense of poor roads is half paid by half the national wealth, which suffers half the loss. And while half the cost of the whole country-wide system of national highways will eventually be paid by the nine States in which half of the wealth of the nation is located, they will also reap half the benefits though they possess but a small part of half the mileage of the proposed system.

Santa Fe Suggests Name of Town

We have received the following letter from J. F. Jarrell, editor, The Earth, official publication of the Santa Fe Railway System, to-wit:

It may be of interest to you and your people to know that travelers on Santa Fe trains get a pretty fair idea of the country traversed by the view they get of the small town industries, such as mills, elevators, warehouses, etc., which stand near the railroad track.

Did it ever occur to you that many an imposing structure shows the name of the owner, but does not show the name of the town, and that the advertising value of this particular enterprise to the community is lost on the traveler because he does not know where the mill or other industry which impressed him is located?

I would like to suggest that you bring this subject to the attention of owners of sightly industrial plants with the view of having them include the name of the town in their business signs. I also suggest that you give consideration to the importance of having a sign painted on both sides of the railroad within plain sight of all trains, giving the name of your town, its population, and a snappy sentence about opportunities in your section for homeseekers. I am sure you would get good returns from the kind of advertising I have described.—West Texas Today.

FASHIONS

By Lillian Meriwether

A fashionable afternoon has its beginning at luncheon and its end at dinner time. The season is on, and the hours between are pleasant, concerts, and matinees, teas and social calls, bridge and the popular Mah Jong parties.

In the afternoon costume one can express all one's individuality and charm. Gowns are simple, but of rich texture. They are tubular, surplice, flounced, circular or draped; in crepes, satins and velvets; sometimes with a softening touch of fur, sometimes with a unique note of trimming, as a jeweled buckle.

VELVET GOWNS

The really smart wardrobe contains at least one gown of velvet for afternoon or dinner wear, or which can be worn informally in the evening. Velvet is queen of fabrics this season. It is the hall-mark of distinction, and adds to a woman's beauty with its supple, silken sheen. Its decorations are tinsel lace and finsel cloth; it may be beaded in eccentric Chinese designs of corals or pearls, or jeweled with rhinestones. It may be combined with taffeta or fashioned with Persian tunics. It may be of the Mandarin or coolie styles, with brightly figured embroidery. Some velvet gowns are sleeveless, others have the long, tight sleeves so smart this season.

There are brocades especially designed to glorify youth; velvet brocade on chiffon, or printed brocaded velvet for the afternoon affair; the dance frock in colorful metal brocade, the dinner gown in delightful pastel tinted brocades. Luncheon or tea-time frocks can be of satin or crepe with glittering embroideries or wierd Persian motifs.

MISSES' AFTERNOON FROCKS

Dainty shirring, one of the smartest notes for fall, and chic side panels grace a soft afternoon frock of crepe satin. Again, a quaint basque model of satin with a skirt of scalloped tiers, long sleeves, a demure lace collar and saucy buttons of cut glass is irresistible.

FOR THE EVENING

A taffeta and lace bouffante frock trimmed with dashing and piquant bows, was a model seen on a young miss at a dance. Worn over a frock slip of shimmering silver cloth, was a gown of chiffon combined with flying fox fur and bead embroideries, seen at this same dance.

There is always a vogue for the black and white treatment. One Fifth Avenue house displays black velvet and black satin gowns trimmed with ermine fur. The white of ermine on black velvet has a regal effect. There was seen on display at another house an exquisite dinner and evening frock of black French silk crepe, hand bead embroidery in white crystal motifs. Silver Cloth on black velvet is another black and white combination.

For evening the gown of white or light tinted velvet is quite apt to scintillate with paillettes or beads in opalescent shades. For dinner wear a gown of purple or a deep shade of orchid would be smart and attractive. A delightful color for a formal dinner gown is green velvet with silver trimming, wouldn't that light up well under yellow lights?

The woman of fashion well knows that the all-black hat offers an enchanting frame for a lovely face, so she includes one in her hat box. A stunning combination in a Fifth Avenue specialty shop was a felt and hatter's plush in a large drooping shape trimmed with wide black satin ribbon loops off the side brim. One edge of the bow was trimmed with a very narrow kolinsky band.

Hatter's plush and felt are a well-liked combination since the formal walking hat—as distinguished from the sports type—is returning to vogue. Hatter's plush by virtue of its higher price and its longer nap is supreme in the higher circles.

Dinner and dance hats must be light in weight and what better than maline and lace? They are short in back so as not to interfere with the fur collar and show delicate lacy brims for effective transparency and are decorated with the coyest of lacy veils.

For evening, the hat of metal lace and metal thread-embroidered nets and hats of beaded cloths are in favor.

Ten "Danger Signs" for Investors.

Please remember that I do not believe in stinginess. I believe in John Wesley's rule, "Make all you can, save all you can, give all you can." I am not warning against spending, but only against ill-considered spending—the sort of spending that can't stand the acid test of thoughtful consideration.

The United States Government has recently issued a little pamphlet, "How Other People Get Ahead," which gives in striking form the difference between the Tightwad, the Spendthrift, and the Thrifty man. We have used this table once or twice before in The Progressive Farmer, but it is worth reprinting as showing how three men divide their incomes:

Tightwad—Living expenses 37 per cent; Education 1 per cent; Giving, 1 per cent; Recreation, 1 per cent; Saves, 60 per cent.

Spendthrift—Living expenses, 58 per cent; Education, 1 per cent; Giving, 1 per cent; Recreation, 40 per cent; Saves 0.

Thrifty man—Living expenses, 50 per cent; Education, 10 per cent; Giving, 10 per cent; Recreation, 10 per cent; Saves, 20 per cent.

In this same pamphlet by the United States Government is one little chapter on "How to Avoid Bad Investments" which is so good that I wish in conclusion to give ten "Danger Signs" which this chapter offers to every investor:

"1. Mining stock. The best looking mine in the world may prove a 'white elephant.' Mining is a very expensive undertaking and the risks are unusually great. There is a saying that 'a mine is a hole where fools dump their money.'

"2. Oil stock. Drilling for oil is costly. The hazards are great. Oil investments are speculative and in a class with mining investments.

"3. After every important discovery or invention there comes a host of schemes—'airplanes,' 'radio,' 'wireless.' The promoters of these may have only the best of intentions, but frequently their enthusiasm is about all they have to sell. Look before you leap.

"4. An investment in real estate in some distant place is sometimes as dangerous as mining stock. People have been known to buy swamps advertised as 'sea-shore frontage.' Know what you are buying before you invest.

"5. 'Land development' schemes frequently do not pan out. At best it is a long time before any money comes in from sales. Investment in new companies that are going to 'sell by mail' should be generally avoided.

"6. Patent rights and processes. It is rarely the patentee who makes the money.

"7. 'New manufacturing methods' should always be closely checked and investigated.

"8. An investment requiring a quick decision is often a fake. If there isn't sufficient time to 'sleep over it,' something is probably wrong.

"9. 'Special inducements' in cash discounts or stock bonuses urging you to be one of the first to invest are suspicious symptoms.

"10. 'Tips' alleged to land you 'on the ground floor' are rarely to be taken. Those who are 'on the ground floor' will monopolize the opportunity." — Clarence Poe, in The Progressive Farmer.

Europe Topping Into a New Blood — Sims

Washington, Nov. 19.—If fast ebbing that the earthquake rattling the old world to its foundation will stop before civilization presented with another bath and still another new map of the world.

Talk of the Franco-British being in the balance is really a mark. The entente was really ruptured when France went to Ruhr, and it has widened since. The outstanding fact of the thing which should make world shiver in its boots, is France and England not only never farther apart than they now, but are openly and dangerously hostile.

England and France differ lately, diametrically and finally on European policy. In fact, France wants a weak Germany which cannot invade her again. England wants a new Germany a big bank account and big fighting power. The one is necessary, the other is necessary.

England, too, can dispense with a small percentage of reparations. It stood to get from Germany. It can never recover and pay her unless she gets all that is due her in full. The dispute is much sheer bull-headedness, a matter of life and death for and the difference between justice and penury for England.

Out of the smoke of battle, balance of power in Europe is going to loom. With England, Germany, Austria, and Italy potentially aligned against Belgium, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Rumania and Serbia.

Sooner or later there will be a crash unless some powerful attacking force takes a hand. It happens, there can be no moving before spring. Armies move in the mud. But one blackest winters Europe has in years lies ahead. Food is fighting, and much suffering is certain.

Afterward, there is no telling what will come.—Fort Worth Press

Some of our folks used to think that the Chamber of Commerce was wasting time and money in holding good roads meetings, paying memberships in good roads associations and sending delegates to the various meetings held. Time has shown that the time, money and trouble was all a profitable investment, for as a result of this work our county will be relieved of the task of maintaining more than seventy miles of highway on January 1st. This work on the part of a few results in a benefit to our entire citizenship. The securing of the Experiment Station, the tourist park, sending exhibits to Fairs and otherwise advertising our farming lands are other samples of unselfish work of the Chamber of Commerce. Your membership in this association is desired for the coming year. The dues are from two dollars per year to any amount you care to pay—but most of all your goodwill and cooperation is desired.

ROBS CALOMEL OF NAUSEA AND DANGER

Medicinal Virtues Retained and Improved — Dangerous and Sickening Qualities Removed. Perfected Tablets Called "Calotabs."

The latest triumph of modern science is a "de-nauseated" calomel tablet known to the drug trade as "Calotabs." Calomel, the most generally useful of all medicines thus enters upon a wider field of popularity—purified and refined from those objectionable qualities which have heretofore limited its use.

In biliousness, constipation, headaches and indigestion, and in a great variety of liver, stomach and kidney troubles calomel was the most successful remedy, but its use was often neglected on account of its sickening qualities. Now it is the easiest and most pleasant of medicines to take. One Calotab at bedtime with a swallow of water—that's all. No taste, no griping, no nausea, no salts. A good night's sleep and the next morning you are feeling fine, with a clean liver, a purified system and a big appetite. Eat what you please. No danger.

Calotabs are sold only in original, sealed packages, price thirty-five cents for the large, family package; ten cents for the small, trial size. Your druggist is authorized to refund the price as a guarantee that you will be thoroughly delighted with Calotabs.—(Advertisement 41-13t)

The Selfish Critic of the Church

A Detroit man resigned as a member of a church recently because, as he said, he was "tired of politics in the pulpit," of "criticism of the best government on earth," and of various forms of "propaganda" dealing with prohibition and elections. The resigned member indicated that what he wanted in the church was "solid religion."

There is expressed in this case an attitude that is widely typical. Those who leave the church, stay away from it and refuse to have any part in its work usually are ready with explanations as to their position. Often the explanations are no more than excuses and slender excuses at that. Usually the trouble is some defect in the church; never, apparently, is there any defect in the critic of the church.

It is evident that each individual can hardly get just what he wants in the church. Solid religion in the case of the Detroit citizen, for example, might be one thing to one individual and something quite different to another. To many thinking people solid religion certainly would have to take account of the world we live in, its great efforts at reform, such as prohibition, the outcome of elections and the conduct of the government. The minister or the church that plays hands-off in these vital matters is not going in for solid religion. "Genuine," "solid" or "real" religion to some appears to mean that type of faith and worship that interferes least with the actual conduct of everyday life.

Criticism of the church as an excuse for indifference, or selfish desire to find individual likes satisfied, is of little value in any direction. The legitimate critic of the church, and there is need of him, is the man who is inside the church and trying to make it perform the best possible service to humanity. That kind of critic likely will be ready to subordinate some of his own desires and ideas about the church to the opinion of the welfare of others.—Kansas City Star.

When It Comes to Dying

A celebrated New York physician, accustomed to ministering to the wealthy sick, was asked for an opinion regarding a man high up in the business world. And this, in substance, was his answer:

"I deal with life and death. I know nothing of finance. But I have observed that men come into the world pretty much alike, and they die on the same footing."

He might have added: When it comes to living, men are pretty much alike also. But it is only when death knocks that full acknowledgment of this is made.

After all, the primitive needs and pleasures of the human animal are simple and few in number. Food, clothing, warmth and shelter: Beyond these there is little that money can buy that will add materially to anyone's welfare.

When it comes to dying, the plutocrat becomes one of the bourgeoisie. It is not an exaltation over accumulated dollars that he enjoys. If he feels a parting satisfaction, it is with the contribution he has made to his fellow men rather than with the totals in his bank book. The honest producer of anything—be it food, fiber, machinery or literature—is pretty likely to be a great deal richer in mind and soul, when the end comes, than he who has spent his life in taking rather than in giving. —Farm and Ranch.

The fellow who is as poor as a church mouse is fortunate. His scandals never get into the daily press.

Good Year for Tree Planting

Several winters have passed since conditions were more favorable for the planting of trees than now. Those who take advantage of a season when the soil has been thoroughly soaked to a great depth will have orchards and shade trees in such a thriving condition that they will withstand hardships to come with droughts and hot winds. Those who fail to plant may not have as favorable a season again for several years.

Most persons are becoming more appreciative of trees than ever before. Roadside plantings increase the value of adjoining land. Homes with a few thrifty shade trees command better prices and contribute to the comfort and pleasure of the occupants. Fruit trees are a source of pleasure and revenue. Every home should have shade trees. Every home owner or farmer should have a small orchard or at least a few fruit trees, if space permits. Every public highway that has been properly surveyed and permanently established should have trees planted along its borders.

Planting trees should be a pleasant task because the one who puts out a tree is performing a service to posterity.

There is a growing demand for nursery stock in the Southwest. For that reason, it is suggested that opportunities to sell fruit, nut and shade trees of inferior quality and trees not true to the type represented, will be multiplied. Therefore, those who buy should make sure that their purchases are made from reliable nurseries and persons, and not from fly-by-night salesmen who are never to be seen in the same territory again. Nurserymen who have a well-established business are less likely to sell trees that are not true to type and as represented. It is better to pay a little more and be sure that you receive what you asked for, than it is to pay a small price and after three or four years of care, learn that you have been swindled. —Farm and Ranch.
