He and his parents, Robin and Beverly Darsey of Matador, will fly to Orlando, Fla., on May 8. There Darsey will participate at the Disney Institute in an interactive sympo-sium to share inspirational stories, and at the end of the three-day event, he will join other Millennium Dream-ers in receiving special recognition ers in receiving special recognition for their outstanding contributions and inspiration to the world.

Ken Goldstein, senior vice presi-dent and general manager of Disney Online, explained, "We're proud to help honor The Millennium Dream-ers - those kids who have gone the distance to help positively impact their home communities. This pro-gram is an outstanding initiative to find and honor the 2,000 kids whose dreams are shaping the future." Dumont Darsey's interest in com-puters has paid off for his community with a Website that he designed for the Chamber of Commerce. Now it has paid off for the Motley County eighth grader with a May trip to Disney World Resort, courtesy of McDonald's and Walt Disney Com-pany dreams are shaping the future."

Involvement in the business world of creating Websites is not the only way Darsey is immersed in commu-nity service. Though he appears quiet and somewhat shy, he is a teacher of sorts, helping frazzled and confused adults make sense of the Darsey, 14, will be recognized among 2,000 children from ages 8 to 15, selected world-wide, who were chosen by a panel of judges from grams for the computer.

At his school he has not only helped with the school Website, but also arranged computer music for different school events. By download-ing music from CD's off the Internet, he can isolate certain sounds which then might be utilized in the one-act play, a talent show, or cheerleader presentations.

As a talented singer and pianist who has been playing since first grade, he has shared his gifts with the Baptist and Methodist church groups in Matador and Roaring Springs through recitals and special arrangements for weddings, church services, and holidays. In addition, he has entertained or assisted the Lions Club, the Masonic Lodge, the El Club, the Masonic Lodge, the El Progresso Club and the nursing home at Crosbyton.

His future goals at this time are vague, but he knows the future will involve computers in some way, per-haps as a professional Website designer or as a medical researcher. Darsey hails from small town Matador and attends Motley County ISD, a school of less than 230 total students. However, as MCISD com-puter teacher Shelly Cox empha-sizes, "Dumont has been chosen to be recognized among a very select group of 2,000, world-wide, and that includes only 1,000 students drawn from all over the U.S."

That alone is an achievement of which Dumont Darsey's community can be proud!

Some Thoughts About the Bible

By Carroll Sites, Evangelist, Higden Church of Christ

From Paul to Timothy: "Be diligent to present yourself approved to God, a worker who does not need to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth." — 2 Tim. 2:15. It is obvious that the "word of truth" spoken of here is God's word. For us it is the Bible. Consider these thoughts concerning the Bible:

"The Bible is the least-read best-selling book in the world. We buy Bibles but do not study them — we praise the Bible but do not read it. There are ten men who will fight for the Bible to one who will read it."

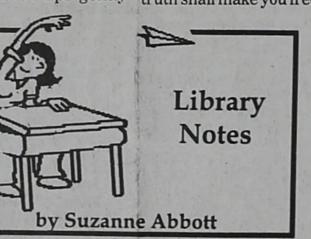

"What matters is not how many times you have been through the Bible, but how many times and how thoroughly the Bible has been through you. Men write and make many books, but there is one book that will make a person into what he ought to be — and that is the Bible."

orange juice is refreshing to some, but to those of us who grew up with castor-oil cure, the TASTE of orange juice is repulsive. It seemed to have been the best chaser to make the infamous oil go down.

To HEAR Glen Miller's "String of Pearls" or "Stardust" may take us back to happy days of first love, bobby socks, school dances in the gym or it might remind us of the loss of a loved one in World War II.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor,

The current school prayer controversy demonstrates once again the prevailing illogic. That such prayer must be defended on "free speech" principles is truly sad. Could our courts get sensible for a change?

Many sources indicate that about ninety-seven percent of us believe that God exists. Our Founders clearly did: "they are endowed by their Cre-ator." That the Framers intended to prohibit establishment of a State-favored "church" is clear. That they did not intend to prohibit State-recognition of God is also clear. Witness the wording of the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution's "free exercise" clause. That this would be a Christian (actually Protestant) nation was simply assumed. It already was. The intent was to satisfy the worriers and insure freedom of (not from) religion. A secular State, in the sense of being God-neutral (as contrasted with "church" or religion), was never intended. It wasn't rationally conceivable.

Given the prevailing state of things, many persons considering adoption of the First Amendment's anti-establishment and free exercise clauses, concerning religion, did not even think they were necessary. Little did they know that some twohundred years later, their words would be twisted by the U.S. Supreme Court to support atheism and justify prohibition of the recognition of God and the free exercise of religion in the "State" arena - what the First Amendment expressly prohibits Congress from doing.

There is a category difference between the Being that is God and any religion. Ignoring or failing to recognize this difference has pro-found consequences and has led to absurd judicial results. No-favortism toward a particular "church" was intended and possible. State-neutrality on God was not intended and is impossible. It may therefore be said that the "separation" of Church and State is one thing, but that the separation of State from God is quite an-

Dear Carla,

I am researching my husband's family history - the early Preston ancestors in (very possibly) Virginia, in Kentucky, Illinois and Texas. I'm certain that the Preston's originally came from England to America. I just don't have the sources for research, or know exactly how to go about getting that information. The earliest record I've been able to find on my husband's branch of the Preston family is in Clay Co., Kentucky. I have learned that his great-great-grandfather was James William Preston, b. ca 1816, his great-great-grandmother was Susannah ?, b. ca. 1818, where they were born, married or died is unknown. Their four oldest children were born in Clay Co., KY, according to an 1860 U.S. census record in Johnson Co., TX, Comanche Peak P.O. Their children, in birth order, as follows:

William Robert, b. Aug. 7, 1839, date from Civil War pension application; Joseph R., b. ca 1842; Martha E., b. ca. 1844; James K., b. Apr. 25, 1846, date from Civil War pension applica-tion. This family migrated to Illinois ca. 1847-1849, where four more children were born as follows: Rebecca A., b. ca. 1849; Rhoda E., b. ca. 1851; Mary Jane, b. ca. 1854; A.S.J. (initials only on 1860 census record from Johnson Co., TX), b. ca. 1858. The family then migrated to Texas, ca. 1858-1859.

My husband's great-great-grandfather was William Robert who married Olivia Gibson, date not known; to this union were born three children, as follows: Laura Belle, who married Eri McNabb Posey; William Oscar, who married Jessie Estella Holt (my husband's branch of the family); Josephine Olive, who mar-ried Oliver Floyd. (After the death of Olivia, date unknown, Wm. Robert married Josephine Wagley, no children were born to this union).

Wm. Robert served in the Texas Confederate States Army, in General Green's 7th Regt., Co. K. Cavalry (1861-1865). James K. served in the returning to the Paris, Texas, Lamar Texas Confederate States Army in Seven children were born to this union. Nancy Elen died in 1926 and James K. died in 1945. Both are buried in the Clear Lake Cemetery, Culleoka, Collin Co., Texas.

The above genealogy information has been shared for this purpose, primarily. I am wanting to much get beyond the brick wall I've run into in Clay Co., KY, and find out much more about James William Preston's family and earlier ancestors of this branch of the Preston family. I can recall that my father-inlaw, Eugene Wilmot (Jack) Preston, second son of Wm. Oscar Preston, telling me about Aunt Betty Meador who lived in the Matador, Texas area. I've heard other family members speak of Aunt Betty Preston Meador, too.

This is what I want to find out could Martha E. or Rhoda E., daughters of James William and Susannah Preston, have been named Elizabeth and called Betty?

I'm hoping that the family history I've shared with the readers of the Motley County Tribune might trigger a memory of someone in this famly, and you will be willing to share that information with me, so I can, in turn, share it with my husband's family. Just a lead I could follow-up on would be so helpful. If anyone has done any research on this family or knows of someone who has done any research, will you let me know how I could get in touch with them, please?

There is a Betty Meador buried in Clear Lake Cemetery, Collin Co., TX and I'm nearly certain she was a sister of Wm. Robert and James K.

I will be glad to share family history information for Wm. Robert and James K. (Jim) Preston's branches of the Preston family tree with anyone who would be interested.

The Spring Reunion of Lubbock Scottish Rite Bodies was held in honor of James "Chip" Smith, March 25, in the Scottish Rite Temple in Lubbock. Each reunion is named for a deceased Scottish Rite Mason. Mr. Smith was a Knight Commander Court of Honor.

Scottish Rite Reunion

Venerable Master, Doug Maxey, called the meeting to order at 12:45 p.m. J.M. "Jimmy" Willson, 33rd Past Grand Master, gave a most appropriate prayer. Furman Vinson, 33rd and past Grand Master and personal representative of the Supreme Council gave an impressive eulogy in memory and honor of Chip. He had become closely associated with Chip in that he instructed him in all his Masonic work. Vinson stated that Chip and his wife Ellen were deeply involved in the prison Christian Ministry, and Monte Wike, Matador Methodist Minister, met with Chip every morning for prayer in the prayer room at the Church.

Mr. Smith was an active Mason serving as Master of Matador Lodge #824, District Deputy of the 95th Masonic District and many other services. He worked faithfully on the Walk to Emmaus sessions, as a church lay speaker, and on many other church related activities. In closing Mr. Vinson read CROSSING THE BAR by Alfred Tennyson.

In reading the book, among the many biographies of families and early day ranches, I found three Roaring Springs settlers - Myrtle Overstreet Craig Henry, Melvin "Wild Horse" Warren, and Francis Gunter.

Melvin's grandfather Henderson (Uncle Stump) Warren and his wife Elizabeth Wils Maddox Warren were both born in 1858; he in Goliad County, and she in Robertson County, TX. About 1918 Henderson's brother Benjamin Joseph Cap' Warren and his wife Lola Belle Dunn Warren moved to Swearingen with three children, Melvin, Stella Mae, and Charlie. 'Cap' worked at several jobs before becoming the chuck wagon cook for the Waggoner Ranch. Five more children came: Clyde, Thelma, Lela Faye, Wilma Nowadays, my mending basket sits in D., and Betty, who died when she was about six months old and was buried in the Swearingen Cemetery across the road in November, 1926.

The 1951 issue of Saturday Evening Post magazine contained a story about 'Cap' Warren and his career on the Waggoner Ranch. He died in Seymour in 1951, and Lola died there in 1972. Melvin is ranch foreman for the Weise family of Calvert, Texas. His wife, Hazel, died in good spring season. We have had 100 visitors from February 12 through March 17. Twenty-two of these visiwere locals. Thirty-eight members of the Jackson and Landrum families visited on Feb. 12, by special appointment with volunteers Jo Scott and June Moss. Thanks to Jo and June.

We had a group of twelve from Plainview and Abernathy come by for a tour. A couple from Lockett were especially interested in the Indian artifacts.

Billie Koon brought her sister, niece and her granddaughter from New Mexico. Linda and Bill Hussey of Kerrville came by while in town visiting. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Higgins, who once owned a bakery in Matador. We have Joan and Jewel Law their photos on display in the 'Bakery Room.'

Pat and Lynn Minton of Granbury came by to look and visit. Pat is the daughter of Juanita Cooper and the late Alfred Cooper of Whiteflat. Pat is also one of my classmates. Mary Renfro brought her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Pitz from Yorktown, Va. He was last in Matador about 45 years ago.

We are especially glad to have the Charles Goodnight wicker chair and couch that Carolyn Ewing and family gave for everyone to see and enjoy.

The Museum has already had a record cover or anything with his name on it, we would sure like to display it.

J.W. Tipton and Bobby Fletcher have hung several heavy items and pictures that needed a good display place. Thanks, guys! They are working in the 'Veterans' room. Also J.W. has been sorting newspaper clippings of the different wars and military photos and information about veterans to be displayed in the 'flip page display'. Annual Wildflower Issue Released (Austin) -- While this season's wildflower outlook may be in doubt because of the prolonged drought, Texas wildflowers are in abundance between the pages of Texas Highways' April issue.

By far its most popular issue, the April magazine features a 16-page floral extravaganza filled with color-ful images of bluebonnets and poppies in Fredericksburg, basket flowers in Dickens County, and pricklypear blossoms in Kerr County.

To complement the photographs, the feature includes writings by Texas' early pioneers describing the bountiful fields and prairies they encountered. The editor's "Up Front" column spotlights this year's predictions from botanists and a landscape expert.

Readers wanting more on flowers will enjoy "Bewitching Chandor Gardens," an article about a 1930's garden in Weatherford inspired by England and the Orient.

35 (0) Managing Cover Crops in No-Till

A burndown herbicide remains the best method for weed control when preparing cotton, soybean, rice, corn and peanut no-till fields.

Beginning with a clean field makes for easier planting and enables the crop to get a head start on weeds. A preplant burndown application helps eliminate weeds and grasses, which allows area growers to work their no-till fields in the most costeffective manner. Producers also can piggyback various jobs such as preemergence herbicide or liquid fertilizer applications along with the burndown.

A number of burndown herbicides exist, but make certain to choose a product that:

- · controls a broad spectrum of weeds and grasses
- works quickly
- · is rainfast in only minutes.

GRAMOXONE* EXTRA is a nonselective, contact herbicide that desiccates weeds in just a day or two. Some other nonselective herbicides, like glyphosate, take up to a week or more to work. And, Gramoxone Extra is rainfast in only 30 minutes. A herbicide that is rainfast in a matter of minutes can mean lasting weed control, eliminating the need to reapply chemical. Gramoxone Extra works on a wide range of grasses and broadleaf weeds. Additionally, the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) recently reduced the handling restrictions for Gramoxone Extra, so field posting is not required when it's used. And, the product now comes in a white recyclable container with a clear measuring window for easier mixing. When you need speed with

Agricultural Extension Service, along with the Stonewall County Soil and Water Conservation District and the Stonewall County Farm Bureau Office is sponsoring a Quail Appreciation Day to be held on Tuesday, April 18, 2000. The program will start with reg-istration at 8:00 a.m. at the Stonewall County Community Center. Morning presentations will be given by Dr. Dale Rollins-Extension Wildlife Specialist in San Angelo, and Ken Cearley-Extension Wildlife Associate in San Angelo. These topics will in-clude: Appreciating Quail, Getting to Know Your Quail, Quail 101, Assess-ing Quail Habitat, Research Updates, and Bobwhite Brigade.

After a catered lunch by Hickman's Restaurant, participants will travel to Doris Branch's Ranch, just north of Aspermont for several field site demonstrations. Those include Brush Management and Quail by J.F. Cadenhead, Extension Range and Brush Control Specialist in Vernon, Softball Habitat Evaluation (Rollins), Half-cutting Mesquite, Assessing Nesting Cover, Predators and Quail, Reading the Range (plant identification for quail), and Feeders and Species visitation.

Participants in the program will receive 3 CEU's (Continuing Education Units) towards renewal of their Pesticide Applicator's Licenses. The cost of the program is $10.00 if you pre-register to the Stonewall County Extension Office before April 14, 2000. The address is P.O. Box 369, Aspermont, TX 79502. A meal and refreshments will be provided. A $20.00 fee will be charged for anyone at the door who has not pre-registered. Checks need to be made out to the Stonewall County Extension program Council.

Nutrition is vital to deer antler growth

by Marisue Potts

Game management expert Dr. Larry Varner of Sdguin shared his research with 32 Motley County residents on April 3 at the Senior Citizens' Center in Matador. Sponsored by Higginbotham Bartlett and Purina mize production and potential income from wildlife.

the chance to see and enjoy the ani- to deer. mals. Deer hunting has become a major source of revenue, and in some parts of Texas, far surpasses a cattle grazing lease. In Texas where th eBoone and Crokcett scores for antler confromation exceed 130, deer leases can go up to $12 an acre. With that in mind, Varner suggested the way to increase income on leases owuld be to increase antler size on our local Desert Mule Deer, rather than to try to improve the genetics by introducing other species of deer.

"Antlers are the fastest growing tissue in the animal kingdom,' Varner said. For about 120 days, sometimes beginning in June, deer can add an inch a day to their rack. Antler mass, the beam and point circumference, the number of points, the growth rate and density, all depend upon nutrition. When the rainfall goes up and creates an abundance of weeds, the ideal deer food, antler growth also increases.

Cows can adapt to drought conditions and often eat less desirable plants to survive. Deer, however, can not adapt and will die if their food preference is not available. The game management expert pointed out four ways to improve the habitat for hunting income: (1) population manage-ment, cutting both the number of wildlife and livestock; (2) range management, leaving cover and diversity of plants; (3) food plots, planting wheat, oats, beans, legumes, or clover; and (4) supplemental feeding. Corn, long the choice of hunters for timed feeders, is merely "Twinkies" for deer, Varner said. Because cornis low in protein, calcium, and phosphorus, it provides empty calories and fat, but little nutritive value for the body and no potential for antler growth. Phosphorus is especially critical to building a rack. Sorghum or maize is another crop that fattens deer and grows a big fame, at the chagrin and expense of farmers, but, he said that grain has little influence on antler growth.

'Grow food plots, if possible, and Mills, the informative program was fence cattle out," Varner said. Grow designed to help landowners maxi- not just winter wheat and oats, but also Spring and summer food plots. Pinto beans make a nutritious but Varner emphasized that many people will pay not only for the op-portunity to hunt wildlife, but also for > Spike deer are rainfall and nutrition related and should not be harvested in drought years. They have the potential to grow into trophy deer if given the proper nutrition.

> Varner's research indicates that deer feed mainly during the night time hours of 11 p.m. to 2 a.. He suggests supplemental feeding, free choice, during that time. A deer chow can provide the necessary balance to maintain the proper nutrition to grow large body mass and antler growth. By feeding 1 to 1 1/2 pounds per ani-mal per day in an enclosure for each section, he believes that local Desert Mule Deer can reach trophy rach dimensions. With the rising prices of deer leases and individual hunts, he believes it is an investment that will

ADDING MICROBES TO TRANSPLANT MIX HELPS INCREASE CROP YIELDS

Tomato and pepper farmers have a new weapon against soilborne pathogens. Transplant mix with added microbes is being developed by USDA scientists in Florida and Texas. The transplant mix, called BioYield 213, is amended with two naturally occurring soil microorganisms. The mix provides the microorganisms with the environment they need to grow on the roots of seedlings. The microbes then stimulate vigorous growth and improve the health of the seedling by triggering to the plant's natural resistance mechanisms. This research is part of an ongoing effort to provide farmers with alternatives to the use of methyl bromide, an ozone-depleting soil fu-migant. Benefits continue to be observed in seedlings in the field. Farmers can anticipate 5 to 20 percent yield increases in tomatoes, bell peppers, and even strawberries. The mix will be made commercially available to producers in the fall after grower trials are concluded.
