Matador City Council Meeting Report

The City Council of Matador's main order of business was concern over abandoned houses, buildings and vacant lots that are a health hazard or nuisance. The Council had several letters of complaint about the growing junk yards and abandoned houses.

Tom Hamilton, Lawyer for the City, explained the procedure to establish an ordinance committee. The committee will investigate and prepare legal evidence to the Council, of property to be cleaned up.

Letters of violation will then be written to property owners with time allotted to comply or then the City can take care of the problem and charge the property owner. If the property owners don't pay for the clean up the City can then take a lien against the property.

Hamilton also advised the City to stake city street and alley right-of-way to keep streets and alleys clear. They can advise citizens to remove vehicles or other property from the right-of-way. If the property isn't removed the city can remove it as confiscated property.

Other items the Council acted on are as follows:

* Jesse Turner, Representative for WTU, asked the Council to consider passing a resolution opposing a bill to be presented to the legislature in Austin by the Public Utility Commission called 'retail wheeling'. This is a bill only to benefit large business and would hurt the rural business. Council elected to pass the resolution.

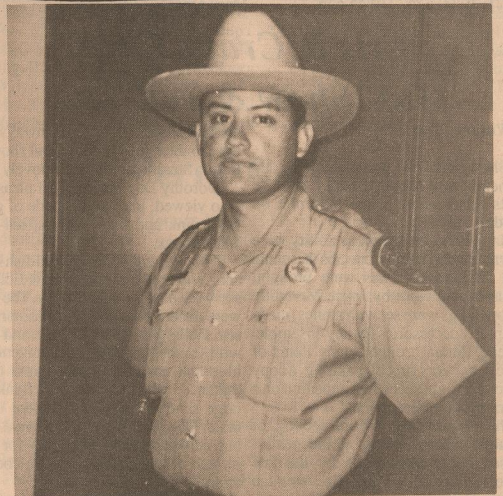

* Boyce Hart asked for the city waterline to be extended to the south side of Hackberry St. to give 5 houses more water pressure including his. This passed. The City accepted Lots 9 and 10, Block 74 from Charles Anderson.

* Mayor Lancaster presented the request to pass the budget. Council accepted.

* Council considered appointing Records Management Officer as required by the State. This was tabled until further study.

* A public hearing was held to hear Kay Howard of Gary Traylor Associates, announcing the completion and closing procedure of the Sewer Plant project, except for the possible building of another evaporation pond, because of the rain everything is full to running over.

Howard also informed the Council that new grants applications need to be filed by September. Meeting adjourned.

Ruben Trevino, 27, Texas Department of Public Safety Trooper has been assigned to Motley County and began his duties on June 16. He graduated from Roosevelt High School before attending DPS school. He graduated and was assigned to Wellington in August of 1990. He has two daughters, Roxanne, 3, and Marina, 6 months. They live in Lubbock with their mother. Ruben stated that he likes living in small towns and is looking forward to being in Motley County.

School Board Completes Coaching Staff Line-up

The Motley County School Board met July 8 to take care of usual business and to complete the faculty by hiring Robert Gwinn as Girls Basketball Coach and as part of the coaching staff.

Superintendent Blanch explained a letter received from Ann Richards, the Office of the Governor. Blanch explained that the State mandates that the CED tax will be raised at least 10¢ this year. This has to be done or the school will not receive State funds.

In short the local tax payers will be supplying the funds to the State and still be raising tax from the local taxpayers to support the local school system.

The Board elected to advertise for bids on Milk, Bread, LPG, Gas and Diesel, Fleet Insurance, Property/General Liability Insurance, and Student Insurance. Blanch informed the Board of the School Board Convention and Training in September in Houston. He also informed the Board of Curriculum of changes in TEA. Meeting adjourned.

Local Students Attend Farm Bureau Citizenship Seminar

Lacey Parks and Daniel Alexander attended the Farm Bureau Citizenship Seminar held in Waco. Lacey is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Parks of Roaring Springs, and Daniel is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Alexander of Matador. Both students will be Motley County Seniors for the 1992-93 school year.

Attending the Texas Farm Bureau's 30th Annual Citizenship Seminar in Waco June 15-19 were Lacey Parks and Daniel Alexander.

Sponsored by the Motley County Farm Bureau, they were among approximately 400 high school junior and senior students from 156 counties across the state.

Purpose of the seminar is to provide the students with a better understanding of their American heritage and the capitalistic free enterprise system, according to Coy Franks, Motley County Farm Bureau president.

Speakers at this year's seminar and their subjects were as follows:

Jack Jackson of Fort Worth, president of Jackson Associates, "The Price of Free Enterprise"; Robert McBurney of Baylor University, "Free Enterprise"; Howard Phillips of Washington, D.C., of the conservative Caucus, "Constitutional Government"; Basilio Bachor, a Polish immigrant, "Living the American Dream"; Michael Broome of Charlotte, N.C., a motivational speaker, "You and America - Two Great Champions"; and Vernie Glasson, IFB executive director, "Farm Bureau - Your Host".

Also, a group of 20 Russian students from Ukhta, who are part of an orphanage's folk song and dance ensemble, spent one day intermingling with the students and participating in the various seminars. The dance troupe ended their visit with a performance for the students.

Barbara's Bylines

This Bylines is still about New York, but about animals! There are two ponds that supply water to the village of Richfield Springs so no fishing or swimming is allowed but there are two beautiful white swans swimming around, only I noticed as we drove they were always in the same area of the lake, well turns out they aren't real. They place them in the lake each spring.

On another small pond someone, last fall, had placed a decoy goose. Well two geese came to the pond and one disappeared during the winter but the one goose left has taken up with the decoy and sits by it each day as if to keep it company.

Across the street from Edna's home is an open area where each morning and evening the woodchucks come out and hunt for food and play, they were fun to watch. On two sides of Edna's home is lined with a woods so there are a lot of birds. The crows and grackles are plentiful. Each morning it wasn't raining I put out the old bread to watch the birds come eat. A couple of days a mother starling brought 2 babies to eat the bread, she would go and pick it up and take it back to them to eat. They were only a couple of steps behind her, but waited for her to feed them! There was even a cottontail rabbit (bigger than ours) that hopped through the yard several times. Lots of red birds and just before dark the bats dart around eating bugs.

The worst animal or really insect is the 'fire ant'. My experience with them was when I returned to Azle to get the pickup continued on page 4

Museum Supporters Submit Ideas and Positive Thoughts

by Marisue Potts

One of the fun things about being a volunteer worker for the Museum is reading the letters we receive from folks, often far away who, amidst the hustle and bustle of their busy urban lives, care this everyday place of ours. We tend to look at the down side of things while they remember only the good things of their youth.

Rita and Algine Groves keep the pony express from Quannah busy with their support, ideas, and positive thoughts for the museum. Like others, they well remember the civic-minded courtesies of Dr. Stanley, Henry Pipkin, and Randall Whitworth, who kept in touch with their sons as they progressed through college.

Now, from Houston their son, Mike, known in the business world as R.V.M. Groves, writes that he is "finally getting around to doing some 'honors' for the Motley County Museum." Besides wishing to honor his parents and his brothers with a name plate on the Memorial/Family Name Plaque, Mike crosses family lines in a very touching tribute.

"And if", he continues, "Mary Ellen 'Dude' Barton and Viola Stinson haven't been honored yet, they need to be. They are horsewomen extraordinary, and of course, Stinson was a nurse one time when I was in Stanley Hospital, so many years ago."

Along with a request for a place on the plaque for her parents, J.T. and Ella Haynes Hulsey, Erma Bradshaw contributed a family history. Remembering Ballard's one room school, she writes, "I have memories of drinking water from a bucket out of a dipper, taking our lunches to school in a syrup bucket, and heat coming from a large coal burning round bellied heater. We walked to school in all kinds of weather."

When their mother died from a "bad flu" in 1920, J.T. kept the family together by hiring a black man and his wife, Arthur and Lillie, to come and live on the place. Arthur helped with the outside work while

by Winifred Darsey

"Show and Tell" was a hallmark day for members of Motley County Arts and Crafts Association, when they met on Monday, July 13.

Many items of ingenious ability were shown. Jewelry made from tabs that came from all kinds of cans were brought, displayed and worn by Joyce Meredith. The openings were set with stones, made very pretty accessories for any ensemble.

Pearl Rattan brought many items of interest, her very first oil painting, a copy of a lovely night scene that appeared on a school pencil tablet cover.

The viewer had a brief feeling of nostalgia when looking at the neatly-dressed bottle-dolls made by the late school teacher, Miss Verlin Reeves. Also a bottle of smaller size dressed in Mexican sombrero and serape. Ole, it was mucho cuto! It was made by Pearl.

A sampler afghan, made by Bonnie Edmondson, captured the eye when viewing her work. Many other items were shown made to perfection.

Joy Archer overwhelmed the viewer with her many articles of creativity, wooden spoons, paint stir-sticks, ceramics, most outstanding, a loaf of bread, made from the dough used for ornaments, regular size to be shown in the antique kitchen, on permanent display at Matador Auto, along with bacon and eggs made from dough. Take time to see these new items.

Lorene Lancaster had a display of lovely crocheted items, baskets of miniature dimensions, filled with mints, angel ornament, many other charmers for all seasons.

dressed in shades of blue, always a delight to the eye, was made and shown by Bertha Stearns, among other lovely items.

Dorothy Day brought and pleased all who viewed, her wreath made of grapevine, pink and blue flowers, sea-shells and ribbons.

The club enjoyed a covered dish luncheon. Winifred Lee and Bonnie Edmondson were hostesses for the day. The tables were decorated with blue streamers with sea shells, placemats of blue and white with sea shells printed, an arrangement of blue and rose flowers in straw basket enhanced with sea shells and flanked by large sand dollars, centered the dining table. The tea table had the same decor but a blue fishnet was used for cloth instead of placemats, it gave a cool and restful aura to the occasion.

A business meeting was held at 1 p.m. with Joy Archer presiding in place of president or vice-president.

The nominating committee recommended all officers retain the same office for the coming year.

Members present were Joy Archer, Lorene Lancaster, Pearl Rattan, Bertha Stearns, Pauline Hand, Joyce Meredith, Cassie Francis, Bonnie Edmondson, Leola McKelvey, Winifred Lee, Dorothy Day, Winifred Darsey, and guests, Mrs. Gary Lancaster and Wendy, Mrs. Fred Grant, Joseph and Michael, and little master Robert John Francis, three month old son of Rob and Cassie Francis, who won the show.

The club invites all who will, to view our new items on display at Matador Auto. Chances on the painting are being sold for raffle at the Fall Bazaar.

Winifred Lee will teach a class for August, on wood block painting.

Amy's Anecdotes

by Amy Bearden

Have you ever had to wait very long to get your hair cut? Well I have!

The other day Brandt and I were in Plainview and we decided to go and get our hair cut. We went to that place called Fast Cutters. Well, we waited forty-five minutes. Forty-five minutes!!!! I have never waited that long for a haircut. We didn't wait any longer either. We walked out and left!! I think they need to change their name.

We came on home after that. I thought it was ridiculous to wait that long and pay and outrageous fee for something not so good. We both went to Carolyn Moose in Roaring Springs. She did a great job and didn't charge as much.

About two weeks before my wedding I went to Lubbock to have my hair cut by one of those so called "professionals" and to tell you the truth I could've cut my hair fifty times better if I had done it myself. He also charged me twenty-one dollars. Now that's what I call ridiculous. I've learned my lesson. I am never 'going out of town' to get my hair cut. I think I'll stick with the Motley County Hairstylists. They charge less and do a better job. Plus you don't have to wait that long to get a cut!! Get your hair cut by someone you

DRUNK DRIVING A CRITICAL TEEN HIGHWAY SAFETY PROBLEM

More than half of the nation's junior and senior high school students drink alcoholic beverages, and some "binge" drink to relieve stress or boredom according to the U.S. Surgeon General.

More than 40 percent of teens who admit drinking said they drink when upset; 31 percent drink alone; and 25 percent drink to "get high".

Teen drinking is not legal. Despite age 21 laws, young people are still able to obtain alcohol easily. A recent survey showed that in 97 out of 100 stores, youth under the legal drinking age were able to purchase alcohol. Enforcement of minimum age laws is necessary. Even though teens who persist can secure alcohol, minimum drinking age laws have reduced traffic fatalities involving drivers in the affected age groups by 13 percent and have saved an estimated 7,782 lives since 1982, according to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

A nationwide survey by The Gallup Organization shows that Americans consider drunk driving to be the primary safety problem on the nation's highways. The survey reveals deep concern about teenagers who drink and drive. The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration 1991 statistics revealed that more than 43 percent of all 16 to 20 year old deaths resulted from motor vehicle crashes; about half of the fatalities were in alcohol-related crashes.

Teens who drive after drinking are taking risks and costing lives needlessly.

The public is beginning to understand that driving under the influence of either alcohol or drugs is a preventable problem that deserves attention and action. Citizens can help by demanding severe penalties for drunk drivers, supporting sobriety checkpoints, supporting enforcement of minimum age laws, supporting punishment for fake IDs and providing education on the effects of alcohol and drugs on the body.

For most drivers, the fear of injuring or killing others and oneself is the strongest deterrent against driving drunk. Drivers, particularly young ones, fear the loss of their licenses more than other sanctions. The Administrative License Revocation law is currently in effect in 29 states.

Other laws make it an offense for a person under 21 to possess, transport or consume alcohol or other drugs. They provide for significant penalties for offenses such as driver's license suspension and vehicle impoundment. Thirty states currently have "use and lose" laws.

Support of these laws and public policies can reduce the incidence of underage drinking and the resulting deaths and injuries.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service are for people of all ages regardless of socio-economic level, race, color, sex, religion, handicap, or national origin.

DETECTING INFATUATION
I came across some material at a seminar the other day that I thought you might benefit from. I have written about this type of thing before, but this has a different slant that might help if you are in an infatuation-type relationship.

Infatuation is a strong attraction between two people. It can lead to strong physical reactions and preoccupation. It is not the same as love. Being infatuated occurs with someone you don't really know. You can't deal with reality and be infatuated at the same time. When one comes in, the other fades.

Infatuation brings about such a strong physical reaction that many confuse it with love. The reaction or feeling tends to verify in the person's mind that this must really be serious due to the feelings they are experiencing. It's like, "How can something that feels so right be wrong?" There is usually a mixture of pleasure and pain. You feel on top of the world and then suddenly you are depressed. It is hard for the infatuated person to see the reality of things. They have the tendency to distort or bend reality. Infatuation is not a good state of mind to be in when making serious decisions. Our thinking is clouded. The infatuation will end, but the consequences of those decisions may not.

We usually have an ideal type of person in our mind. When we become infatuated, we are usually tapping into that ideal type fantasy. We experience a "glow," and it's hard to examine those feelings because of the fear of having to give up the ideal.

What usually happens is that something causes us to come crashing down and reality hits us hard. It's easier if we can gradually examine our feelings - the shock isn't so bad. If you find yourself in

Thanks to each one of you for your many acts of kindness, your concern and your prayers during my recent illness. A special thanks to the Dickens EMS. If it had not been for their rapid response, teamwork, medical knowledge, dedication and professionalism, Gerry would have been writing this note.

Nothing is worth more than this day.

We also would like to give QUAIL PIPE of Roaring Springs special recognition for their large contribution as a sponsor. Their sponsorship of twenty-seven individuals was greatly appreciated. I would like to thank the officers, especially during this rainy season, for their help with rearrangements of schedules, last minute challenges, and just being there when needed. Thank you, Barbara Wallace, for picking up the vice president's duties when Renee left. Thank you Renee Meyer, for your help both before and after your move. Thank you Reneigh Burns, for coordinating and operating the concession stand. Thanks to all of you who helped Reneigh with the food preparation.

Because of the rain, a lot of time was spent most every day on field preparation. I would like to thank James Gillespie, Jim Cooper, Hal Martin, Ed Logan, and Rodney Williams for their efforts so we might finish the season on time. This organization is based on volunteers. Each and everyone that has contributed time and effort deserves an individual thank you. We, the officers, wish to thank you again for your help. All of our efforts are for the young people of this county, so that they might learn and enjoy. Parents, please remember than when we ask for volunteers, we ask so that everyone takes their turn to provide for the young people.

and come home. I have learned not to wear sandals where the ants are so just before I was leaving Azle, I decided to put my sandals on and when I pulled them out from under the seat there were the 'fire ants' on the floor mat. I thought, "OK, just shake out the floor mat," well they were everywhere, mostly crawling out around the bolts holding the seat in and under the rubber mat in the bed. Now what? I didn't want to bring them home, so I went into a convenience store and asked for some bug spray. The lady told me to get flea and tick spray. So finally I found the spray and sprayed everything I could get to. So I didn't get bit on the way home or bring any ants to Matador!

THE INTRUDER

By Jeannette M. Armstrong

Just as dawn was breaking, I was awakened to the chorus of eight excited hounds, barking out of control. It sounded like something was about to be killed. I jumped out of bed, threw on my clothes, and ran out the door to see what all the commotion was about.

The morning sky was red and the air was warm, unusually so, a summer storm is on the way for sure today.

All the dogs were lined up in a row at the fence, barking their heads off and all tails were waving back and forth in violent unison. I looked in the direction the dogs were facing and I saw it. That stupid rabbit again. It's not that I dislike rabbits but this one in particular is really getting on my nerves. This is only the fourth day this week that I've awoken at 5:30 a.m. to the sound of barking dogs. You wouldn't think one of God's little creatures could cause so much trouble. It's like a protest demonstration. She knows the dogs are penned up, so she sits on the lawn, not twelve feet away from them and just torments them. The trouble is, it torments me and the neighbors as well. They haven't said anything yet, most of them are early risers, but I'm sure they would rather enjoy the calm and quiet and the chirping of the birds, that early in the morning.

It's not causing trouble only in the morning, it's every time she decides to pass through the yard. I think she's getting her main meal from the dog food that get's spilled or thrown out when it's lost it's freshness. I know the blue jays love it. I guess I'll have to stop throwing it on the brush pile out back. I figure something should have the benefit of all that protein, besides the rats. I just hate to waste food the way it costs today.

I know a lot of people would shoot the rabbit and have it over with. I would like to catch it and move it somewhere else, but I know another one would replace it. It has a hole under the neighbor's discarded car. She has quite the set-up. She's out of the weather, safe from other intruders, and has restaurant service as well. I guess I have to say I have a little respect for the thing. She owns a home, is protected, gets fed, and doesn't even have to work or pay taxes. That's pretty good for the 1990's. Maybe I'll move in with her. It's too bad the government isn't aware of this set-up, or they would have her hide for sure.

The Discovery

When I said I had a little respect for the rabbit, I never realized how much, until my discovery this evening.

As I was giving the dogs their nightly feeding, three of them were standing against the back fence and barking like something was there. I thought maybe the rabbit was hiding in the bushes again.

I walked around the brush pile and saw absolutely nothing at all. Then, something moved in the leaves. I looked again closely, and I could hardly believe my eyes. There was a whole fur-lined nest of baby rabbits!

Last year, much to my dismay, my cats brought home all the baby rabbits she had from a nest in a near-by field. This year, she really got smart. It's incredible, but she placed her nest so close to the dog pen that the cats are afraid to go that near the fence and she knows the dogs can't get her children because of the fence. So, her enemies, the dogs, end up babysitting her children from her other enemies, the cats. This day-care service is also free. Never again will I call her a stupid rabbit. There must be a lesson to be learned here. If only people were so clever.

back to Fairview. "My daddy was a thoughtful man. He bought me a pair of coveralls to wear over my dress to help my stay looking clean. When I arrived at school I took them off, hung them up in the shed where I put my horse, and then wore them home again after school."

In later years J.T. married Carol King and they ran the Texan Cafe and Rooming House. After a stint in New Mexico they returned to The Hamburger King Cafe, which they built and managed with some help.

And so, like a mosaic, the bits and pieces of people's lives and details of everyday happenings create a nostalgic glimpse of yesteryear when the pace was slower and life seemed simpler.

Our God Is Alive

We, as Christians, can look around us and begin a celebration of praise and thanksgiving which can and should last a life-time. Every day can be a day of new beginnings and new challenges as we realize our day is another act in God's wonderful plan for our lives.

OUR GOD IS ALIVE!!!!

Our God is indescribable, yet His power can be seen in His extraordinary work, Romans 1:20. God is unimaginable, but His greatness is seen in nature's symphony of praise. The only thing that can stop our personal celebration of praise and thanksgiving is our personal refusal to open our eyes and minds to God's messages of creation, (Psalm 19:1-4), and Revelation.

The creation of this world is God's backdrop for the wonderful drama of our Redemption in Christ Jesus. God's people are not created for destruction, (1 Thes. 5:9), but everyone that has been transformed through the Gospel, has a purpose in God's economy.
