Museum Receives Family History

by Marisue Potts

On the plain or "flat" once covered by waving needle grass, which became the settlement of Whiteflat, one of the first commercial buildings was a grain and feed store. Tacked onto the side was a "lean-to" which served as a doctor's office. The crude store fronts were built for Leonard Hines by Will and Elmer Davis, brothers who had earlier married Hines sisters, Florence and Jeffie.

According to a pictorial family history recently received by the Motley County Museum from Colonel Roy W. Amick, the John Wesley Hines family left Hill County around 1906 in a covered wagon to relocate in Motley County.

The first winter was spent in a dugout and a tent on land leased to winter their herd of cattle in the rugged cackrock recesses of Hall Creek, west of the Flomot community.

Riding for the brand of the Flying V, as many before and since, Hines worked for the Matadors for a time and then purchased land east of the growing settlement of Whiteflat, where he built the family home, a small board and batten affair so familiar to the rolling plains country. A few sparse trees, watered no doubt from dishwater, and strands of "bob" wire surrounded the hopeful homestead.

Romance blossomed in Whiteflat when the Amick family, three sons and their widowed mother Ludia Amick Bramble, ambled upon the scene a year or so later. Entering into the social life of the small community, Earl courted and married Clyda Hines while Robert took Letha Hines as his bride.

This and many more details, as well as historic photos are shared by Amick in his attractive booklet, which may be examined at the museum. The Motley County Arts & Crafts Club is currently opening the doors on Wednesday afternoons from 1 to 5, and welcomes visitors. Special appointments for viewing the museum in the afternoon may be made through Glenn Woodruff, phone: 347-2431.

To answer a question that many people ask, YES, donations for the Motley County Honor Roll Memorial Plaque are still being taken. For $100 a family name or individual may be added to the third plaque, which will be engraved upon receiving ninety-two names.

We appreciate all the support and interest we have received, as well as your patience and indulgence, since all work is done on a volunteer basis by unpaid amateur help.

WHAT ARE AMERICAN CHILDREN EATING??...

Although two recent studies showed that there is room for improvement in the diets of American children, drastic changes are not necessary to achieve diets lower in total fat.

The National Health and Nutrition Examination Study II (NHANES II) collected food intake data from 7,462 children ages 1 to 17 years. The consumption of total fat averaged 35 to 38 percent of total caloric intake. Between 37 and 55 percent of American children consumed more than the recommended amount of total fat. Saturated fat made up a large proportion of this fat intake: 14 percent of calories across all age groups in black children and 13 percent of calories across all age groups in white children. Carbohydrate intake was lower than recommended levels. Protein intake was adequate (11 to 18 percent calories). However, between 20 and 24 percent of adolescent females had intakes below the recommended amount for protein.

Cholesterol intake per 1,000 calories was highest among children between the ages of 12 and 23 months. Cholesterol intake per 1,000 calories decreased with age and, except in black youngsters between the ages of 2 and 10 years, average out to be between 141 to 147 mg/1,000 calories.

The second more recent study examined the diets of children from the Woodlands, Texas. Dietary intakes of 138 children in the 5th to 12th grades were studied. On average, both girls and boys ate 35 percent of their calories in the form of fat. Thirteen percent of total calories ingested were in the form of saturated fat. The percent of carbohydrate ingested was about 50 percent of total calories, slightly less than the 55 percent recommended. Protein intakes were within recommended ranges (mean value was about 14 percent of calories). Cholesterol intake was lower in girls than in boys: 245 vs. 317 mg per day, reflecting a similar pattern in adults.

The intake of total dietary fat seemed to be the most important indicator of a healthy diet. Those who consumed higher levels of fat also consumed more saturated fat and cholesterol. If the diet contained less than 30 percent of calories from fat, it was much more likely to have less than 10 percent of calories from polyunsaturated fat, and less than 300 mg. cholesterol per day. Distribution of fatty acids was similar at all levels of total fat. Intake, with about 1/3 of total fat as saturated fat.

These two studies show that the typical high fat diet eaten by American children can be improved by focusing on reducing fats. This can be achieved by limiting rich desserts, high fat spreads and snack foods and by increasing fruits, vegetables, and whole grains, and by encouraging the consumption of low-fat meats and dairy products.

Favorite Breakfast Combination

Waffles or pancakes with a glass of 2 percent fat milk is the favorite breakfast combination for children and teens under 18, says a survey conducted by MRCA Information Services. Oatmeal is the breakfast item most often cooked in the microwave.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service are for people of all ages regardless of socio-economic level, race, color, sex, religion, handicap, or national origin.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY: Feminists just want the human race to be a tie.

Columbus Longed To Hear The Song Of A Nightingale During Voyage

Matador Garden Club met October 19 in the home of Mrs. Alvin Stearns and heard an interesting Columbus Day Observance program given by Mrs. Edgar Lee. An article in Bird Watcher's Digest on the subject provided Mrs. Lee with material and facts that were new, as it revealed that Columbus, in his journals, duly noted the birds he saw and heard, all the while listening for the song of a nightingale.

President Mrs. W.N. Pipkin presided and welcomed Mrs. Ted Elliott on her return to the club following recuperation at home from knee surgery, and earlier hip surgery. Minutes of the previous meeting and treasurer's report were read by the secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Douglas Meador. Mrs. Pipkin also announced that the Central Zone, Texas Garden Clubs of District 1 was scheduled to be held November 6, in Levelland.

Following the business session, Mrs. Pipkin introduced the program with a roll call naming "My favorite bird," and presented Mrs. Lee for her enlightening talk on the subject, "Birding aboard the Santa Maria", and finding "Magnificent groves when landing."

"He had left Spain on August 3 and the last glimpse of the last island was on Sept. 9, and until Sept. 16 there was only sea and sky," Mrs. Lee narrated. "He saw seaweed that day, the leaves so green he thought they were fresh picked from nearby land. And that night, making entry in his journal, he summed up the day with a single euphoric sentence: 'Nothing lacking but to hear nightingales.'" On the 17th, 35 days after the departure of the expedition, floating weeds were frequently seen, and upon one mass of weed was found a live crayfish, a sure sign of the proximity of land. Yet while still at sea with no land in sight, on Sept. 29, he wrote again of his longing to hear nightingales.

"He did know seabirds and also knew tropical birds. He began to see land birds too and named a surprising number of them in his journal. On Oct. 12, that famous day of first landing, he would have a special welcome for the parrots, both wild ones in the trees and tame ones the Indians kept in cages."

"It was two o'clock in the morning that the land was first seen when the caravels were not two hours' sail away from it. With the first rays of the sun they saw a little island six miles windward of them. It was one of the Bahama group; Columbus named it San Salvador. He and his followers were never tired of admiring the beauty of its magnificent groves, its running streams and verdant meadows. The fauna of the island offered little variety, but parrots (parrots) of radiant plumage abounded among the trees but they appeared to be the only species upon the island."

Columbus finally did hear the nightingale - or thought he did - first on Oct. 19 on the fourth island in the Bahama cluster; again on Nov. 5 on Cuba; and again on Dec. 7 on the island he named Espanola, Little Spain, now Haiti. Each time he was so delighted he could hardly bring himself to leave, and the pleasure stayed with him unmarred by knowledge that nightingales are not native to the New World, according to the narrative which also revealed that the Bahama mockingbird and other species were mistaken for nightingales.

"This quincennial year of 1992 is just the right time to remember that the man who planned and led one of the most remarkable voyages the world has ever known, made watching birds and listening to their songs part of that voyage's history," summed up that phase of the journey, as contained in an article by Virginia C. Holmgren, author, in Bird Watcher's Digest, and from Berle's reference book on Exploration, Travel and Invention, and The Progress of Discovery, which provided much insight on Columbus.

Thought for the day was by Maurin M. Ballou about Columbus' landing in Cuba: "They were delighted by fruits of which they knew not the names...growing in such rank luxuriance as to seem miraculous."

A report from the Lone Star Gardener by Mrs. Pipkin, regarding Bird Sanctuaries and Whooping Cranes that winter at the Aransas Wildlife Refuge in Texas, concluded the program.

Refreshments of pineapple pie, vanilla cookies, nuts, coffee and tea were served by Mrs. Stearns (Bertha) to these members, Bailey Elliott, Winifred Darsey, Sue Seigler, Winifred Lee, Opal Pipkin and Lila Meador.

During the meeting on Friday, October 30, Mr. Charlie Johnson spoke. Using a basketball as a symbol of our lives, he impressed upon us that no matter how much wear and tear and how flat we go, that our lives can be pumped back up. Thank you Mr. Johnson for a lesson we can use throughout our lives.

FROM PLAINS COTTON GROWERS, INC.

Average farm prices for cotton fell for the third month in a row according to Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers (PCG). The drop reinforces the opinion that the 1992 Deficiency Payment will be considerably higher than the preliminary estimate of 15 cents per pound.

PCG officials note that the maximum deficiency payment possible for 1992 is 20.55 cents, the difference between the current 52.35 cent loan rate and the Up-land cotton target price of 72.9 cents.

USDA officials recently announced that producers who applied for the 40 percent advance deficiency payment would receive an additional 10-percent of the projected 15 cent final deficiency payment. This brought the total advance payment to 7.5 cents.

Assuming the weighted average price remains below the current loan rate the final payment most producers on the High Plains can expect is 13.05 cents after the 7.5 cent advance deficiency payment is subtracted. USDA has announced that 1993 advance deficiency payments will also total 50 percent of the estimated final deficiency payment.

Cumulative marketings continue to outpace last year and prices remain significantly lower than 1991. August showed a considerable drop in monthly marketings coming in at 278,000 bales, 422,000 bales less than were marketed during the same month in 1991.

Through August preliminary figures indicate marketings for the 1992 crop year have totaled 7.144 million bales, 1.69 million bales higher than the 5.454 million bales marketed during the same period in 1991.

The average price received on the 278,000 bales marketed during August was 53.8 cents, 13.1 cents lower than the average price received in August last year. The weighted average price received in August last year. The weighted average price for cotton through August is 51.37 cents, 21.53 cents lower than the 72.9 cent target price.

Deficiency payments are calculated as the lesser of the difference between the target price of 72.9 cents and either Commodity Credit Corporation Loan rate or the average price received by farmers weighed by total marketings for the preceding calendar year.

The preliminary volume of marketings and prices in cents per pound as reported by the National Agricultural Statistics Service through August appear below.

Preliminary Marketings and Prices Received Through August 1992

Social Security Tips

by Mary Jane Shanes

SSI IS FOR CHILDREN, TOO!

When you think of a person getting disability benefits from the government, what image comes to mind? You probably think of a person who has lost the ability to work as a result of a medical condition or injury. Although that is a possibility, it hardly paints a complete picture. For example, there are about 6 million people with a variety of physical and mental impairments who receive disability benefits from Social Security. About 3 million of them are getting Supplemental Security Income (SSI) benefits and more than 450,000 of current SSI beneficiaries are children with disabilities.

SSI, which is administered by Social Security, makes monthly payments to people with low incomes and limited assets who are 65 or older, or to people who have a disability, including children. Of course, most children don't have income and assets of their own, but we consider those of the parents for children under age 18 when deciding if they are eligible for SSI. The SSI payment rates vary on a number of factors and can get quite complicated, so I suggest anyone with limited income and resources who has a child with a serious disability should contact our office.

A child is considered "disabled" for SSI purposes if he or she has an impairment that limits his or her ability to function and perform daily activities similar to those that healthy children in the same age range usually do. Disability claims can take several months to process. But there are special rules that allow us to make immediate payments to parents of children with severe disabilities.

There is also a possibility that children who were turned down for SSI in the past may now be eligible. If your child was turned down for SSI disability benefits between January 1980 and February 1990, or if your child's benefits were stopped for medical reasons, check with our office about having the claim reviewed again using the new rules.

You can apply for SSI for your child by contacting our office at 293-9599. You can expedite the claims process if you have the child's Social Security number and birth certificate available when you apply. You also will need to provide records that show your income and assets. In addition, bring along the names, addresses, and telephone numbers of all doctors, hospitals, clinics, and other specialists your child has visited.

If you'd like general information about SSI benefits for children, call our toll-free number 1-800-772-1213 business days, between 7 a.m. and 7 p.m. and ask for a copy of the pamphlet, Social Security and SSI Benefits for Children With Disabilities.

HEALTH NEWS

NOW IS THE TIME FOR FLU SHOTS

Influenza better known as the flu, is a viral infection of the respiratory system which can be serious or even life-threatening.

Each year flu causes about 20,000 deaths in the United States. The majority of people who die are 65 or older.

For the best protection against influenza, Lowell Johnson, M.D., a family practitioner on Methodist Hospital's medical staff, advises people to get a flu shot between mid-October and mid-November. "A vaccination at this time means your immunity peaks during flu season, which runs from late December to early March," said Dr. Johnson.

Those at increased risk for flu and its complications include persons 65 or older, residents of nursing homes and other chronic-care facilities, adults and children with chronic heart or lung disorders and adults and children treated the preceding year for diabetes, kidney problems, blood disorders or immune problems. Other high-risk individuals are children between 6 months and 18 years old who regularly take aspirin for another condition and who are therefore at risk of developing Reyes Syndrome after a bout with the flu.

Flu shots contain egg-grown non-infectious (inactivated) flu viruses that activate the immune system but don't cause infection. Those who are allergic to eggs should not receive a flu shot. Anyone who has ever had hives, swelling of the tongue or difficulty breathing after eating eggs falls into this category.

Despite some rumors, medical experts agree that flu shots are safe. The most common side effect is soreness at the site of injection. Fever, malaise and muscle aches may also occur in some people for a few days after a flu shot.

For more information about flu shots contact your physician. If you are in need of a physician, contact Methodist Hospital's Physician Referral Service at (806) 793-4171.

Senior Citizens Report

by Bill Dunning

The Matador Senior Citizens met on Tuesday, October 27 for their regular luncheon day with 29 people attending. Rev. Roy Eason gave the blessing for the meal.

Happy Birthday was sung to Nellie Lipham. Artie Wason was absent due to her sister, Gertrude Libarger, here visiting, and they had gone to Plainview to visit with Don and June Wason, so we didn't get to sing Happy Birthday to Artie.

President, Cora Hall, had cups full of goodies in memory of Halloween, and birthday cake for Nellie and Artie. Would you people that use our Senior Citizens building please clean up after you use it. Tressie is to clean up after we Senior Citizens, but not the other people and very few of we Senior Citizens are able to do that kind of work. Nora Belle talked to the head of the Green Thumb Association. They said Tressie was only to clean up for the Senior Citizens meetings, and none of the others. The front door of the building had been left Monday night.

Barbara and Carla we were glad for you to be back with us again.

We missed all you regular members that usually come and failed to be there. We need all that can come be with us each 2nd and 4th Tuesday and each Friday at 2 p.m. for 88 and 42.

THREE GOOD REASONS TO GO THROUGH CD WITHDRAWAL
 1. RATES 2. RATES 3. RATES
 How do you feel about locking in an interest rate when rates are at a 26 year low? In fact, when you consider inflation and taxes, the real return on your CD can be negative. With Delta tax-deferred annuities, if the rate Delta earns on your money goes up, the rate you earn goes up. Guaranteed.
