estates and knowledge are being a country that once was a hope to be worth effort. The magic of irrigation is spreading across the sandy miles on the Texas-Mexico border and changing a desert into a lush land of crops, gardens and flowing streams.

rowing roosters have always unpleasant shadows across life. As a young man they awaken at dawn to work in the fields. They heard me still, trapping an old scar on my forehead.

Recently I learned that sweet will increase the growth of plants. It seems logical up to a point. If the plant does drink all the milk, that which remains will sour, and it will rot, and rotting is not pleasant to smell.

Partnership is interest accruing investments in association.

Lions See Slides On Fluorination

Graphic colored slides showing the effect of fluorine in drinking water were presented Tuesday and was the principal feature on the regular Lions Club program held in the Methodist church basement.

The slides were presented by Dr. Fred G. Harbaugh of the Department of Animal Husbandry, Texas Tech College. Principal topic of the slides and his discussion, was on the effect of fluorine on the teeth of cattle. Fluorine will destroy animal teeth in about ten years. Effects of fluorine on the teeth of people was also discussed.

Young Grandmother Sets Tribune Type

The world of art has "Grandma" Moses, and the Tribune has "Grandma" Webb this week at the linotype. "Grandma" Webb is Mrs. Frank Webb of Floyd County, Texas, and one of the youngest grandmothers in this area. She is 34 (if she objects to printing her age this line will not appear in type).

Mrs. Webb is the former Pauline Oden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Thompson of Matador, and a former resident of this community. She is an excellent linotype operator, having been employed by the Floyd County Hesperian for four years before resigning a few months ago because of ill health. Although she is recovered, she prefers to work "extra" rather than re-suming regular employment at the keyboard.

CHAPMAN WINNER

Unofficial returns of the Democratic primary gave Judge Alton B. Chapman 58,219 votes to 51,170 for his opponent, Herbert C. Martin. They were candidates for associate justice of the Court for Civil Appeals, Seventh Supreme Judicial District, Amarillo.

Speculation Begins on Replacement of Daniel mer colleagues on the House floor. He won in a field in Congress when about 10 Democrats entered a special election after Eugene Worley resigned to go on the federal bench.

House members do not have to resign to run for the Senate in a special election. Should Daniel win and resign his Senate seat promptly, as he has indicated he may do, Gov. Shivers could call a special election to coincide with the November general election.

PIONEERS of Motley county are shown in the above classic photograph from the collection of H. H. Campbell. The picture was made about 70 years ago and shows the Preston Drace dugout on Turtle Hole Creek, about 24 miles northeast of the present town of Matador. Reading left to right: Alec Smith (note gun on belt), Preston Drace, Will and Adam Drace, Mrs. Preston Drace, Walter A. Walton, an unidentified man, Ollie Drace and Joe Beckman, who was later to become sheriff of Motley county. This picture was first published in the Matador Tribune, pioneer issue of August 22, 1940.

Alfred Barton, Jr. was one of the winners in the Lubbock invitation golf tournament over the week-end. He received a fine trophy and $75 purchase credit at Hemphill-Wells.

Joe Berry Meador who vanished without trace August 19, has been found. He was met by his cousin, Douglas Meador, Friday in Carlsbad, New Mexico, and brought to the home of his sister, Mrs. and Mrs. Ted Woolery, in Loveland.

Entertainment Tops Old Settlers' Plans

Youth Escapes In Pickup Accident

Charles Renfro escaped injuries Sunday night when the pickup truck he was driving went out of control and crashed into the Ballard Creek bridge between the city limits and the Matador drive-in theatre.

The 1951 Chevrolet pickup, which was owned by J. E. (Doc) Taylor, was completely demolished. Mr. Taylor said the truck was fully covered by insurance. It is believed the accident may have been caused by a tire blowing out.

Renfro was alone, returning to town from the show, when the accident occurred. He received medical examination and was found to have escaped with no more injury than a few bruises and shock.

Revival services will begin Friday evening, August 10, at the Flomot Baptist Church and will continue through Sunday, August 19. Rev. L. V. Ratliff, Jr., pastor of the White Deer Baptist Church, will do the preaching.

Three-Day Reunion Attractions Varied

BOOT POLISH may be a difficult item to purchase in this area during the next two weeks while plans are being made for the annual Old Settlers Reunion at Roaring Springs Pioneer Park, August 23-24-25.

For the first time in its history the reunion will include a third day instead of the two days customary for the county's largest annual event. The meeting of a group of old settlers from Motley and Dickens counties at the Springs has grown until officials are faced with a shortage of space, despite the spacious Pioneer Park property adjoining the school grounds in the city of Roaring Springs.

President Elbert Reeves said early this week that an unusual program of entertainment has been planned for the first day, Thursday, August 23. He will make a complete week's Tribune of plans in next week's Tribune. No program is planned for the second and third day, except the dance music at the pavilion and the rodeo.

Outstanding Rodeo

The rodeo has grown to be the outstanding feature of Old Settlers and directors promise a better show this year. Rodeo fans from all sections of West Texas look forward to the annual event.

The Diary of Mary White

Got the last of that line and before long from my labors my children started begging to go to the show. The father behind them so who stand against so much

Headed into the river at the point so we played around in our bay, went west a way and visited Next Creek, then came home. No sooner had we entered the house and cast off our coats than a motor started and the children watched it go round the point. They watched for several minutes and it did not come back so they argued that the way was open now. Off we go again and by following the coast line we found an open way.

Heading into the river at the point the water gets shallow. Papa ran aground on a sand bar and broke a shaft pen. Hauled the motor in to replace the pen. I was supposed to keep the boat from drifting out to sea while he worked. Did you ever try to row a boat with one oar? Oh my! We all got dizzy and lost our sense of direction. Finally the pen was replaced the motor and the water but every way we tried to go there was a sand bar.

I kept saying, "Go over there. That is the way Harry goes."

"No, no, no. Any nunsbukk can see you don't go that way."

This went on in varied phrasings until the captain of the ship was threatening to turn back to Elim. We were rescued by Paul Nagaruk and Andrew Daniels, two natives, who saw us and realizing our plight came out to steer us in. They went the very direction I had been trying to go.

Spent the rest of the day packing for tomorrow's departure.

May 30, 1956, Wednesday

Up early in order to get dressed and practiced starting up to the runway. If I started out a few times before the plane arrived then I would have time to run back after each start and pick up something that I had forgotten. By ten o'clock I was ready and already had butter flies in my tummy just from the thought of flying. (I always get air sick.) The plane arrived about twelve forty-five and all the village was up to see me off.

Up over the snow-capped hills and tundra. Down at White Mountain to pick up three passengers. I met the ANS teacher there and discovered his home town was Walla Walla, Washington. He is returning to Walla Walla to teach. I thought "sensible man!" I resolved, secretly of course, to take a good long look at the ANS teachers once I got to Mt. Edgecumbe and see what kind of creatures they were to isolate themselves in the brush country with only natives and endless snow for such long periods of time.

Arrived in Nome about one thirty. Everything was closed except the bars and cafes and the Memorial Day celebration was well on its way. How get drunk and making an ass of yourself in general can show your memory of and respect for departed loved ones is beyond and made the exact circle I had described. Ah! SWEET revenge for being referred to as lower than the nunsbukk.

Harry was the Eskimo who took us to Moses Point the first time that we ever went. I remembered how he went because that first trip I was quite sure that he was crazy and was going in the wrong direction in order to take us into the wilds and scalp us. I know now that all his crazy directions were merely that he knew where the river channel lay.

My, but the visiting was like a feast. Mrs. Raines had recently spent about two months in the states and had slides of places she had been and many tales to tell. At twelve o'clock p.m. we thought of going home. It was light enough but we used the ice for an excuse to stay all night. Good thing we did for those two Eskimo men who came to our aid tried to get home, got blocked off and had to spend the night on the beach. But a bit chilly for that as yet. At one-thirty we mentioned bed and by two-thirty we were in it but still talking.

What was so much fun to talk about? The sum total of nothing. She had four boarders up from Anchorage on a construction job and it was just wonderful release to tease, gab and trade remarks with someone who spoke the English language and with a common background.

May 29, 1956, Tuesday

Waited all morning for the ice pack to move off shore. About one in the afternoon, it began heading out to sea so we headed for Elim. We headed right toward the ice pack and had the fun of seeing it retreat before our onslaught. I was determined to get home. Actually, I don't think it saw us. The tide was carrying it out and it outran us for by the time we got to our Elim beach it was a mere speck in the distance.

Spent the rest of the day packing for tomorrow's departure.

me, nevertheless, that is the thinking of some people. Bits of boisterous talk as I ate my first meal of the day let me know that it was Sadie-Hawkins Night. Not exactly like stateside. That is the night the bar flies get to choose rather than accept their partners for the night. Incidentally, up here they are known as Tundra Bunnies.

I purchased two magazines and retired to my room paying special attention to the lock. I didn't flatter myself that anyone was interested in me but there always comes that hour when some know neither in whom they are interested or where they might be. I am a sound sleeper so I did not hear the wind-up of the celebration.

PIED PINIONS

By Mrs. M.

The Glenn Wooduffs have it made — with Glenn bringing home the bacon and Marion furnishing the platter — a silver one yet! She received the tray at Hudosso recently as runner-up in the first flight of the Women's Golf Tournament.

We first learned about romaine lettuce in California, where it is synonymous with salad, which is synonymous with California. One just doesn't think about having friends in for a meal which doesn't include a generous serving of delectable greens with an out-of-this-world oil and garlic dressing.

Our preference leans toward the fresh tasting, elongated leaves of romaine, and we tried on numerous occasions to secure it in Amarillo and Lubbock, until finally we located small quantities. We were therefore pleased recently when Neil sneaked half a dozen heads from the produce truck, for Spot's Boss Melvin however, did not think much of the purchase and a wager was made as to whether or not it would sell.

Nell put forth her best efforts and tried to interest the customers in romaine, without much luck. Lucretia Campbell turned it down flat but later when her husband, R. E. Jr., wandered in the store, Nell promptly sold him on the idea that Lucretia would be very happy with a couple bunches of the new lettuce. Junior bore his prize home, very pleased with himself for doing something that Lucretia would approve of, and of course couldn't understand the meaning of her expositations directed toward one Nell Webb.

A lot of things could be worse than riding 48 hours in an air conditioned bus, but even so it is a trying ordeal to say the least. For instance, one must make a quick decision of whether to take advantage of the rest stop — or grab a cup of coffee and bite to eat.

You see many types of stations of course. Some nice, clean and modern. Unusual in the Shreveport, La., bus terminal was the object one sees first upon entering the spacious and clean waiting room. A stand in the center of the lobby holds a large, old-fashioned Bible, opened with the invitation to "Pause and read a passage from the Scriptures." A sign informs the public that the Bible had been placed there by the Caddo Baptist Association W.M.

In Monroe, La., during a brief, 15-minute rest period we placed a telephone call and within minutes were conversing with a cousin whom we hadn't seen in many years. Lack of time prevented her coming to the terminal, but her voice was as warm and musical as we had remembered it.

Engagement Of Miss Patti Pipkin And Vernard Alexander Announced at Tea

Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Pipkin are announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Patricia Ann, to Vernard Alexander, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Alexander, of Dallas.

Announcement of the forthcoming event was made Wednesday afternoon at a tea given by the bride-elect's mother. Assisting with hostesses were Misses Shackle of Big Spring and Mmes. R. E. Campbell, Jr., Robert Darsey and W. F. Jacobs, who poured, and by two cousins of the honoree, Misses Charlotte Campbell and Joanne Darsey, who greeted the guests. At the guest register were Miss Cora Ann Craven, Matador, and Mrs. Bateman Middlebrooks of Roaring Springs.

In the receiving line were Miss Pipkin, her mother, Mrs. W. N. Pipkin, and her grandmothers, Mrs. C. D. Pipkin, Matador, and Mrs. Bert Estes, Colorado Springs, Colo.

The bride-elect's chosen colors of turquoise and pink were used in decorations and table appointments. The refreshment table was covered with white nylon over pink satin and centered with an arrangement of pink gladioli and matching candles.

A cake, representing an open book contained the names of the couple, and the date set for their wedding, August 18, at 7 p.m. Accentuating the honoree's colors was a turquoise and pink marker across the cake. Mints in the same colors were also used.

The marriage will take place in the Methodist Church here, with Rev. W. B. Vaughn, former pastor, officiating.

Miss Pipkin taught in the homemaking department of Tom S. Lubbock High School, Lubbock, the past year and Mr. Alexander taught physical education and served as one of the coaches in the same school. They have accepted similar positions in the Morton school system for next year.

Gwendolyn Wilkinson Becomes Bride Of Loyd Randel in Lubbock Ceremony

St. John's Methodist Church parlor was scene of the marriage of Miss Gwendolyn Wilkinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Moudy of Lamona, and Loyd Randel at 7 p.m. Friday. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Randel of Big Spring.

The Rev. Dr. Hubert H. Bratcher of Pampa read a double-ring service before an archway of tropical foliage and white chrysanthemums flanked by candelabra. Traditional wedding music was offered by Mrs. S. H. Lee at the piano.

Given in marriage by her brother, Levi Wilkinson of Matador, the bride wore a white gown designed with a lace bodice over satin and a waist-length skirt of tulle accented by a shirred lace yoke. A Mandarin collar of lace framed the high neckline. The long sleeves terminated in points over the hands. Her veil of silk illusion was pointed to a plateau cap of lace embroidered with sequins and seed pearls. She carried an arrangement of stephanotis on a white ribbon.

Sisters Are Attendants

Miss Rita Wilkinson, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a ballerina-length gown of blue crystal over taffeta with matching beehive and mitts. Her flowers were blue chrysanthemums. Miss Connie Randel, of Big Spring, sister of the bridegroom, was junior bridesmaid. She wore a gown styled identical to that of the honor attendant.

Kent Randel of Odessa served as his brother's best man. Kenneth Dendy and Dean Pierce ushered.

At the reception held on the church patio, the bride's table was laid with a white damask cloth and held the four-tiered wedding cake. Assisting with hospitalities were Mmes. Levi Wilkinson of Matador, sister-in-law of the bride; W. H. Schmidt of Spur, sister of the bride; Harold Campbell of Lorenzo, Kenneth Dendy, Ethel K. Terrell and Miss Marie Lewis.

For traveling the bride chose a dress of charcoal cotton and dachon with white accessories and a corsage of blue and white stephanotis.

Mrs. Randel is a graduate of Matador High School and Texas Tech College, Lubbock, with a B.B.A. Degree in business education. She has been employed for the past year with Travelers Insurance Co. Her husband graduated from Dalhart High School and Texas Tech with a B.B.A. Degree in management. He is presently employed in engineering planning with Convial Aircraft in Fort Worth, where the couple will make their home.

WSCS Hears Resume Of Activities For Past Quaderennium

The Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist Church met in regular business session on August 7, in the church.

Mrs. H. H. Schweitzer, leader for the program on "Measuring Our Growth," gave a resume of the work accomplished by the society during the past quadrennium, beginning on May 1, 1952 and ending May 31, 1955. The group was encouraged to learn that during that time better than $2055, was sent to the District Treasurer for Missions. Over $1500, was spent in doing local work.

During the four years, numerous programs were given, promoting World Peace and combating the sale of alcoholic beverages. An active interest was shown concerning legislation which affected women and petitions were circulated and sent to our congressmen and the president on these bills.

A total of twenty studies was conducted in the society and Jurisdiction Recognition was received on all but one or two of these. An increased interest was shown in the number of women taking the studies and in attending district and sub-district meetings.

PRAYER CIRCLES INCREASE

The Spiritual Life Secretary's report showed good attendance in prayer circles and much good derived from special studies and books used by those groups.
