TRAIL DUST

By DOUGLAS MEADOR

Moonlight above endless prairies of white buttercups, like perfumed snow drifted against long cattle trails, scatters cool flag-stones on the wide terrace of dreams where the weary feet of travelers may rejoice. Yet some beauty can be too great or sudden that it destroys the citadel of the heart as a meteorite of love often breaks the vases of the soul if worn too frail by loneliness. Perhaps this silent pallor, caught by the weir of night, is the transient spirit of a forgotten yesterday, crushed beneath the broken levee of time; the world moves past an island planned in paradise and left in its channel but the spell remains as a whispered promise beside the rose tree.

The surly castigations with which I renounce the abominable behavior of my dog are lost on canine ears, but I shelter a thought that my neighbors may be impressed and rescind any opinions reflecting upon the lack of ruggedness in my nature.

Everyone knows the answers to most of the questions which have escaped my understanding and perhaps someone will yet explain the purpose of the small vane on old-style wooden wind-mills. It always seemed that the inventor probably had in mind two chances at knocking me off the platform during the process of applying oil to squeaky gears. However, he is certain to be restless in his grave because the newer showings in wind-engines have only one vane and require oiling once a year which allows better than average chance of selecting a still day.

The small boy whose thin legs always bulged below the edge of his short tight pants, used to loiter beside the wrought-iron fence on his way home from school. The fence with its arrow-point posts was a frontier between two worlds and the pampered rose bushes near the tulip bed were sentries guarding the cool, green lawn and the red-slatted swing in the shade of a mulberry tree. The black-haired girl in the white dress, who wore a pink bow on her hair, sat quietly in one of the wide seats and never looked away from her book, except to take a bon-bon from the box by her side. The boy would sink his bare feet deep into the hot dust and fasten his eyes on the path as he journeyed home to his own yard. Two strands of barbed-wire above the sagging hog netting that hung to the cedar posts; a barren yard with dried grass roots to scratch bare feet, a flowering-mesquite bush with its shameless odor, a wilted sunflower and two castor-bean stalks.

The lawn swing is gone these many years but an iron fence remains much the same, except the fates have extended its length to divide wider horizons.

Cowboys used to believe that lightning would not strike a Hackberry tree, but those who wore out saddles on trails ahead also believed that the home-seekers would leave the prairies. Both were to find useless awnings for their fears in failing to weigh the might of purpose.

Spray from the tide of years churning cloudy shores, drifts as greasy fog over the low walls of an old garden to the scattered ashes and few sizzling coals of an altar fire. Domestication has planted vegetables where the violets grew and adversity, like a flowering gourd vine, has covered the once grassy carpet. The cankered moss of fear has stained a white fountain where lilies often clung to silver shavings splintered from the moon. The lemon tree once the nesting-place of orioles, is leafless and sawed-off to support a clothes-line. The original values remain but youth no longer holds the scales.

State School Field Man Of Firemen Here

Cites Importance Of Trained Department To Curb Losses

"Fire-fighting is a profession", Frank Williams, representative of the Texas A&M College Firemen's School, told the Matador Lions Club, in a brilliant address at the luncheon Tuesday. "I have nothing to sell", Mr. Williams said, "but it is my job to visit as many of the 600 Texas towns which send firemen to A&M for training, as possible, and urge cooperation of the cities with the state's training job."

"Not one of you business men held up a hand when I asked you the key fire rate of your city, yet almost everyone knows your city tax rate. The fire rate is just as important and represents a tax imposed by the fire insurance companies when your fire departments fail to avail men of the training offered by A&M. It is possible to earn as much as 25 percent good fire-record credit on your insurance, or be assessed as much as 15 percent penalty by a poor record, or a difference of 40 percent. If your city taxes were to be raised or lowered 40 percent you would be immediately interested."

Small Cost To City

"The cost to a city to send firemen to the training school is slightly over $10 plus transportation per year and there is no other protection which you can buy to save your homes, property and insurance premiums. The training course is in no way a convention and firemen really go to school and learn by actual practice the most modern methods of fighting fires. I strongly urge you to realize the important place your fire department holds and that you offer every cooperation possible to further their training."

Mr. Williams said that he had not attended such a large meeting of Lions since he visited with the Houston club and highly commended the local club.

DISTRICT MEET CONOCO AGENTS AT CHILDRESS

Conoco agents and dealers from the surrounding territory met in the Elk's Hall at Childress Tuesday night to view and discuss pictures on their new advertising campaign. The advertising program is declared to be one of the most novel ever created and designed to foster a new relationship between Conoco dealers and their customers.

P. R. Erdwurm, assistant district manager of Fort Worth, was in charge of the meeting. The program was arranged by W. R. Doty, district superintendent and Dick Erwin, merchandiser.

Agents and dealers attending were C. B. Haynes, Robert Baird, J. S. Haynes, C. L. Eredge, A. E. Howard and W. L. Newman, all of Chillicothe; J. F. Powell, Gail Pearson, J. B. Harrison, Joe Green, Vick Johnson, Guy Smith and J. T. Henderson, all of Padugah; R. C. Lewis, Ben Lewis, Raymond York, Doc Ziegler, Bill Simpson, Edd Hutton, Glenn Clifton, C. L. Duncan, Claud Aycock and Sam Hankin, all of Shamrock; Bob Robertson, Lloyd Fulkerson, W. F. McCaghen and Vernon Latimer, all of Matador; J. S. Cooper, of Crowell; George Cullin, Memphis; Ben Alford, Winifred Lewis, Judge Holton, Leon Blonstein, O. D. Holton and J. C. Rodgers all of Wellington; H. H. Hall and Allen Edwards both of Hedley, and Mart Coyne, Vaughn Buster, Leslie Waite, Ned and Ted Pilchtr and W. E. Hargrove all of Childress.

Newspapermen present were Albert Cooper and Percy Bones, both of Shamrock; Douglas Meador of Matador; Deck Wells of Wellington and Neil C. Vanzant and Morris Higley of Childress.

Sports Chain Links Two Americas

Pan American Games Set For Dallas June 30 to July 3

Dignity of the Olympic tradition is borne out in the official emblem of the Pan American Games, in which athletes of two continents will compete at the international fair in Dallas, Texas, opening June 12.

The design, approved by a smiling Texanite, depicts a modern Mercury, god of speed, skill and strength, testing the "friendship links" of the two Americas in his powerful grasp above the globe of the Western Hemisphere.

Athletes of Mexico, Central and South America will compete with United States entrants in the Olympic events of track and field, soccer and boxing scheduled for June 30, July 1, 2 and 3.

Texas Battle Is Topic For Lion Address

Record Crowd Hears Lion Terrell In Stirring Talk

Starting with roll-call answered by the name of the state of their birth, 41 Lions and seven visitors participated in a San Jacinto Day program at the regular meeting of the civic club held at the Baptist church Tuesday. Over 75 percent of the club members named Texas as their birth-state.

After an enjoyable luncheon served by the Baptist ladies, the guests, including Marjoria Moore, Houston, Schweitzer, Jr., Keith Patton, Frances Stearns, Dorothy Jean Harp and Betty Price, honor students of the Matador schools and Frank Williams of College Station, were introduced. The program was then turned to program sponsor, John Hamilton, who gave a brief prologue on the importance of the battle of San Jacinto upon Texas and world history, then introducing Lion Terrell with the feature address.

Brief, Important Battle

"The battle proper of San Jacinto lasted only about 18 minutes", Lion Terrell declared, "but was one of the most important ever waged. It was the turning point in Texas history when Sam Houston's ragged, poorly-equipped soldiers charged directly into the camp of Santa Anna's 700 selected calvarymen and within a few minutes changed the history of the world. Remember The Alamo! Remember Goliath! was echoing in the ears of the surprised Mexicans before they had time for organization and the same words continue to echo down the long corridors of majestic history. The eyes of the world which had rested on a brilliant leader and his pitiful but courageous army, witnessed courage which will remain as a criterion to freedom-loving people forever."

Frank Williams of the Texas A&M College Firemen's School followed Lion Terrell's address with an interesting talk upon the importance of cooperation of property owners and local fire departments.

New Members City Council Take Offices

Jacobs And Willett Take Oaths During Meeting Thursday

Harry Willett and Fay Jacobs were sworn in for new two-year terms as members of the Matador City Council Thursday night during a meeting following the election of Mr. Jacobs to office after the special election Wednesday. G. M. Birchfield, was re-elected with the two new members. The three will serve until April 1939.

The meeting called Thursday night to install new members embraced only a small amount of other business, it was declared. A brief survey of the delinquent tax condition was made and it is believed the new members will favor a continuation of the city's plan to make collections.

Problems Outlined

The new members were introduced to the problems which they will face as councilmen, including the finance and interest problems which have been the cause of much concern. A plan to have a financial statement of receipts and disbursements published was considered but not definite action declared. The new councilmen were invited to ask any questions regarding the city's operation which they might like to have answered and a brief outline of several phases was discussed.

New Football Team To Meet School Today

Mettle Of '37 Squad To Get Test; Big Struggle Seen

The Matador Matadors of 1937 will meet the pick of the balance of high school football players in a scrimmage game on the campus in front of the school building at 3:30 this afternoon, according to coach Terrell. Two "sports writers" from the contending factions offer detailed accounts of the possibilities offered in the struggle. They are as follows:

By Joe B. Meador

One of the first games of spring football will be held Thursday at the Matador Arena. Matador's next year team versus Matador's Seniors and the rest of High School.

The line-up of Coach H. C. Gray's team is as follows: Vinson, Spray, Chambliss, L. Campbell, Ray, Rattan, Harcrow, Lawrence, Bryan, Groves, Gilmer, F. Lawrence, J. Campbell, Latimer and also assistant coach, Major Meador. Talk of Honorable Major Meador I believe that our team will have one of the greatest walk overs since "My Team" beat T. C. U. 14-0 in 1901.

Our coach, Hard Cussing Gray, said that thru his excellent training, his team, without one workout, could walk over next year's team without difficulty.

With my help I can have H. C. Gray's team running wild. Our team will be known as the "Spooks". Don't miss the great chance of seeing Hard Cussing Gray and Major Meador's team go for a walk over Thursday at 3:30 p. m.

DATES SET TO SIGN '37 WORK SHEET LISTED

Five Districts For County Expected Complete May 1

Work Sheets for the 1937 Agricultural Conservation Program will be signed next week, Frank A. Buckley, county agent announces. Work Sheets will be taken at the county agent's office every day and in precinct centers from 8:30 a. m. to 5:00 p. m. on the dates and at the places shown below:

Roaring Springs, Bank Building, Monday, April 26. Whiteflat, Gin Office, Tuesday, April 27. Flomot, Barber Shop, Wednesday, April 28. Northfield, Church, Thursday, April 29. Matador Courtroom, Friday, April 30.

It is expected that all Work Sheets will be signed by Saturday, May 1, which has been set as the final sign-up day in this county.

In connection with the announcement of sign-up days, Mr. Buckley also announced some special provisions, for the Wind Erosion Area which have just been released from the State Office. These provisions make it possible for farms in Motley County which are subject to wind erosion to earn an extra payment of seventy five cents per acre on land not diverted for payment from the cotton base or general base. Contour listing and the planting of sorghums or

OLD MATADOR SCHOOL HOUSE BEING RAZED

Matador's skyline is undergoing a change as wreckers level the old red brick school building east of the business section. The structure was built in 1911 and was used until the spring of 1930 when the present grammar school building was completed.

The building was discarded for high school purposes in 1925 when the present high school was built but was used several years as a grammar school.

Unconfirmed reports declare the building has been purchased by a Lubbock business man who plans to haul the material there to be used in constructing an apartment building. The three story brick was purchased by L. B. Archer several years ago and has remained in his possession since that time.

Reports declare the Lubbock man paid $675 for the building, the location to remain in Mr. Archer's possession.

Northfield Man Buried Tuesday

J. W. Boyd of Northfield died Monday afternoon at the age of 63. Funeral services were conducted Tuesday afternoon at the McMinn Funeral Home by Rev. N. R. McDonald of Fort Worth. Burial was in the Childress cemetery by McMinn.

He is survived by the widow and a son, R. L. Boyd, of Tell.

Pallbearers were: A. M. Martin, Sam Moore, Tom Moore, Walker Hatley, W. E. Thomas and J. B. Hoover. Flower bearers were: Mrs. W. T. Moore, Mrs. W. E. Thomas, Mrs. J. N. Thomas, Mrs. J. B. Hoover, Mrs. M. A. Tate and Mrs. H. B. McCoy.

CHILDRESS FRIENDS HERE FOR FUNERAL

Among friends from Childress, who attended the funeral services of Claud Jeffers held here Thursday, were John Allmond, John R. Scott, Henry Hankins, Dr. J. W. Snyder, Dr. R. J. Merritt and Guy Norris Sr., also Miss Ora Givens, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Givens and Mesdames John Jones, T. J. Jefferies and Dora Diggs.

VISIT IN CHILDRESS

Mr. and Mrs. James Neblett and son James Russell, together with Miss Ruth Moore and Mesdames B. F. and W. W. Moore, drove to Childress Sunday where they were guests in the home of Miss Ora Givens.

As a surprise to Mrs. B. F. Moore the occasion was planned in honor of her 76th birthday on the 21st of April and open house was held during the day for a number of friends who called.

WILLIE HUTTO SUMMONED BY DEATH SUNDAY

Flu Attack Is Fatal After Young Lady Thought Better

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at the First Methodist Church for Miss Willie Hutto, 32, who died Sunday evening about 8:30, following a brief illness of only ten days duration. Miss Hutto, who was the victim of a siege of intestinal flu following an attack of acute indigestion and other complications, was believed on the road to recovery during the week, and while she had several lapses, seemed to rally with greater strength after each relapse.

A profusion of beautiful wreaths borne by Mesdames Carl Tardy, Pat Sheridan, Beatrix Watson, Lloyd Dirickson, Raymond Cudd, Robert Collier, Mary Jones, W. W. McDowell, Lorene Cox and Misses Adele Burleson and Kathryn Sheats, followed the body to the church where Rev. J. E. Eldridge of Floydada, a former pastor of the local Methodist Church and close friend of the bereaved family, assisted by Rev. D. D. Denison, present pastor of the congregation, said the last rites. Music for the service included choral singing a quartet composed of Mesdames Thelma Dirickson, Geo. Springer, D. D. Denison and Jim Ford and a duet by Messrs. J. R. Whitworth and T. B. Edmondson.

THIRD FLOMOT GIN STARTED

The third cotton gin at Flomot expected to be ready for operation this season, is under construction according to information received here last week. Due to a fire in 1935 the community had only one gin last year but plans to rebuild the destroyed plant were started some time ago. Spears and Son, Matador ginners, are dismantling their plant at Four Corners and moving it to Flomot and the work is well under way. It is understood that the other gin being constructed will be under the management of H. S. Gilbert, manager of the present plant.

With three gins at Flomot, Motley county farmers will have ten plants within the county offering gin services. They are: Matador, three; Flomot, three; Whiteflat, two and Roaring Springs, two.

Galaxy Of Renowned Names Gathered For Ft. Worth Frontier

FORT WORTH, April 12.—Out on the 137 magic acres with the $3,500,000 of structures that comprise the Fort Worth Frontier Fiesta, plans are moving forward rapidly under the direction of Billy Rose, acclaimed as the World's greatest showman, for an amazing array of amusement headlined by a new and even greater Casa Manana Revue than the one presented here by Rose last Summer.

A galaxy of glittering names equalling the roster of 1936 when Paul Whiteman's Orchestra, Everett Marshall, Sally Rand and Ann Pennington were luminaries—will be offered, Rose states.

Among them will be Harriet Hootor, World's greatest Ballerina, who shone in the Ziegfeld Follies, was a star in the super-film, "The Great Ziegfeld", and has just completed a motion picture with Fred Astaire. Miss Hootor is acknowledged to be the most wonderful dancer since Pavlova's day.

Film Actors
Announcement also was made by Rose that the Cabin Kids, who have proved smash hits in film comedies, have been booked. These entertainers are four pickaninnies who dance and sing.

Paul Whiteman and his orchestra are to be back this year and so is Everett Marshall, the Metropolitan Opera Star whose magnificent voice last year rendered "The Night Is Young" and "Another Mile".

A contest with 100 Cities participating is under way to select a successor to Miss Faye Cotton of Borger, as Texas Sweetheart No. 1. After a feature role in Casa Manana throughout last Summer, Miss Cotton has embarked on a screen career with Universal Pictures. Casa Manana Revue of 1937 will be presented—as was last year's on the World's largest revolving stage in the huge open-air cafe-theatre, seating 4,200 persons, but scenery, costuming and the production itself will be entirely new.

Saturday Is Last Day For Dairy Show

PLAINVIEW, April 19.—Looking back over a decade of continuous progress, the Panhandle Plains Dairy Association presents its 10th annual Dairy Show here April 21-24 with a gesture of sentiment.

The aristocracy of the dairy herds will still reign as the prime attraction of this year's show, but the officials have not forgotten the efforts of those men who pioneered the movement for herd improvement and originated the Dairy Show as a means of improving the quality of dairy products and dairy animals in this territory.

The 10th annual dairy show bears the added designation of "Homecoming" and honor will be paid those far sighted individuals whose faith in the future of dairying for this section prompted the organization of a permanent dairy association ten years ago.

Special invitations to attend this week's show have been sent out to surviving members of that enterprising group of thirty-five who met December 16, 1927 at Tulia and formed the Texas Panhandle Plains Dairy Show Association. Its purpose was "to promote the development of dairying in the Panhandle Plains section by encouraging the breeding of superior dairy animals and holding annually a dairy show."

It was not an easy job that these men mapped out upon that occasion. Many observers were sceptical and a few were outspoken in their belief that the venture would prove a grand flop.

Each year has brought new departments, added attractions and different exhibitors to the show, but most of the "old guard" have remained true to their favored brain child and continue to lend their energy and experience to keep alive that original purpose of "promoting the development of dairying in the Panhandle-Plains section."

And so it is fitting that these pioneers should be honored at this 10th annual show. Plainview is gaily decorated to receive its visitors and more interest has been noted than in several years. Everything indicates that a splendid show will be presented for these far sighted dairy enthusiasts and for all who attend.

Gain, Feel Better During Hot Months Specialist Urges

ABILENE, April 19.—A "hearty breakfast" every day was given by Miss Mary Carter, Hardin-Simmons food specialist, as one of the greatest aids to promotion of better health and weight gains.

Too few people realize how much better they would feel if they added several pounds—"up to or slightly above the normal," she adds.

"Children—and even adults—burn up much more energy in the spring and summer than during fall and winter months. The result is loss of weight and 'pep' unless diets are changed to supply the increased demand of body fuel."

The Hardin-Simmons home economist includes in suggested diets for gaining weight plenty of milk, eggs and meat, raw vegetables such as lettuce, cabbage, celery and tomatoes and generous servings of rest. The latter, she says, is a very important factor in better utilization of what food we do eat.

BEER HELD BY COURT ORDER IS RELEASED

Sheriff L. A. Carlisle released 25 cases of beer to I. A. Brock, Paducah beer dealer, Tuesday, after it had been in possession of the county since last year. The beer was held by a court order when Jack Bearden, driver of a beer truck operated by the Paducah dealer, struck the automobile of Mrs. C. P. Waybourn on Highway 28, last year.

Charges declared to embrace claims of transporting beer into dry territory were filed against the dealer and the case tried here later received a verdict for conviction. However, the case was carried to the Criminal Court of Appeals where it received a reversal with the result that the merchandise held by the county was ordered released.

1937 Ford V-8

● If you think that "all low-price cars cost about the same" — forget it! They don't.

Ford makes a car — a 60-horsepower economy Ford V-8 — that sells from 30 to 60 dollars under the prices asked for any other car of comparable size. The lowest Ford prices in years!

Check delivered prices in your town and see for yourself.

● Of course, first cost doesn't prove "low cost" — you must consider operating cost also.

The "60" has definitely established itself as the most economical car in Ford history. Ford cars have been famous for economy for 34 years, so that means something!

Owners who have driven it thousands of miles report that the Ford "60" averages between 22 and 27 miles on a gallon of gasoline.

You can prove those figures — on the open road — in a car provided by the nearest Ford dealer.

● When you've finished your personal check-up, ask yourself: "Do I want to save money the day I buy my car and every mile I drive it?"

"Do I want a safe, roomy, comfortable car of advanced design — created from the finest materials to the highest precision standards?"

There's only one answer, of course — the 1937 Ford V-8.

Ford V-8 $529 at Dealership Factory. Prices include transportation charges, taxes and Federal loan into.

This price is for the 60-horsepower Coupe equipped with front and rear bumpers, spare tire, horn, windshield wiper, one floor, glove compartment, and ash tray.

$25 A MONTH, after small down-payment, buys any Ford V-8 Car, from any Ford dealer, anywhere in the U. S. — through Authorized Ford Finance Plans of Universal Credit Co.

Iowa, Illinois Threatening Impositions On Texas Gas, Vegetable Oil

AUSTIN, April 19 (Special)—Legislative proposals by other states which are characterized as "reprisal moves" are cited today in a report of the All-South Development Council as promising checks on the tendency current here in Texas to "pass along" taxes to out-of-state consumers.

The threat of growing reprisal sentiment must be recognized, the Council states, not alone as likely to increase the cost of living within Texas but as advertising nationally Texas tax trends which would dissuade industry from locating here.

Iowa's legislature is proposing a tax of five cents a pound on shortening made from Texas cottonseed and peanut oil, and the Illinois law-makers have a bill to tax Texas natural gas five cents per 1,000 cubic feet. Illinois also has a proposed levy on cottonseed oil products.

Another manifestation of the tendency toward interstate economic bickering, the Council report noted, was a Texas House bill which would tax all beer imported into the state. This was killed in committee, after a vigorous protest from Gov. Phil LaFollette of Wisconsin, but there still is a liquor control measure which seeks to compel all out-of-state brewers to set up brewing plants in Texas or be prohibited from selling in this state.

Among those who have recognized the danger lurking in unwise tax policies, the Council reports, is Representative A. T. McKinney of Huntsville who was recently quoted as saying "The other states may decide to make us pay premiums on the autos, radios, stoves and refrigerators we buy from them, unless Texas ceases its activities in putting burdensome levies on the things we have to sell them."

It is pointed out by conservative law-makers, the report says, that Texas customarily justifies each new move to increase its levies on oil, gas, sulphur, carbon black and other commodities with the philosophy that the cost can be "passed along" to people of other states, anyway.

"Yet the current trend may mean that these costs cannot be passed along without incurring not only resentment, expressed by states in the form of tax reprisals, but also extreme wariness by industrialists who might otherwise be thoroughly 'sold' on Texas as an important locale in their decentralization or expansion plan," the report of the Council states.

Huge Hunks of Ice Carved Spectacular Glacier Park Sights

It's a fancy job of carving—the cutting, scraping and grinding done thousands of years ago by rivers of ice from 2,000 to 3,000 feet thick in the region now known as Glacier National Park.

A famous world explorer's impressions of the spectacular sights created by these huge hunks of ice will be described in the Continental Oil Company broadcast, "Exploring America with Conoco and Carvel's Wells," which may be heard at 6:30 Saturday night over radio station WFAA, Dallas.

"Glacier National Park is a place where you can see the last remnants of the great sheet of ice that once covered the northern part of the world," says Wells, referring to the park's ninety glaciers. "There is nothing in the Alps of Europe or the Andes of South America that surpasses or, in the opinion of some world travelers, even equals the scenery of this remarkable region."

Scenic spots to be discussed by Wells are Glacier Park Village, Going-to-the-Sun Highway, Two Medicine Lake, Red Eagle Valley, and Triple Divide Pass—the lofty peak from which water runs in three directions into the Atlantic, Pacific and Arctic oceans.

Slip Covers

There's always a place for slip-covers in the home, winter or summer. And you can make them yourself—you can obtain directions which will explain things to the last stitch. The fabrics obtainable are worth pages of enthusiastic words. Gay flowery chintz, colorful striped cotton, leaf designs on heavy linen, Chinese designs on glazed chintz, plain checked material in ordinary cotton, quilted chintz, rough tailored chenille, rich patterned damask, dusky monkseal shades. A fabric for every need.

Wouldn't your kitchen chairs appreciate a small padded cushion tied from above underneath and around each leg? With the bright shining paint of the chairs themselves, and the gay cushions to complement it, you've added another bright spot to the kitchen ensemble. The old studio couch will become a piece of furniture to be really proud of once it has that new covering—plain colored woolen with contrasting seam trim. The porch furniture is "made"—as to comfort and beauty—with gay cushions. All the old wicker chair, you now have in the attic, needs is a fresh, colorful coat of paint and waterproof cushions to make it a grand piece of garden furniture, and if you use enamel you are all set, because that's waterproof, too.

Traceful Directoire chairs would be delightful with slip covered quilted chintz seats; the big comfortable wing chair would look grand with its old worn dress covered with soft dusky rose linen; the beautiful old cherry-wood chairs in the guest bedroom, will be stunning with ivory quilted satin seats, and the big club sofa in the livingroom something to rave about in smart white, green and brown leaf linen.

But one could go on and on like that, and it all simply proves that a change of scenery is balm for the soul, and a little touch here and a little touch there can make a home more homelike and livable than ever before.

hibits pertaining to the state of Georgia—its fruits, grains, minerals, etc. Huge peaches—for Georgia is justly famous—are seen preserved in alcohol—filled glass containers.

But of the hundreds of exhibits on display here, the one that stands out in my mind at present is a huge cotton stalk. It is claimed that this is the largest one in the world. It stands six feet in height and contains 715 open bolls of cotton.

The High Museum of Art . . .
An Art Gallery now occupies the former home of the High's (of Departmental Store fame). It is not a very large one but contains some fine examples of artistic skill. Besides the permanent collection one also sees a transient one. At the time of my visit it happened to be a collection of Zorn's Etchings mostly of Swedish high life.

Near the entrance I noticed an oil portrait of Mrs. High, the wife of the donor of this art gallery. She was dressed in a blue satin gown with pink adornments. One man on beholding it and who knew the living prototype, exclaimed: "I bet they had to hogtie her before they got that dress on her. She never cared for those fancy doo-dads—always wore the simplest and plainest of tailored clothes. And now look at her—it don't look like her at all—it don't look natural." "But" said I, "I bet she likes it nevertheless, especially if it makes her look younger, slimmer and better looking and if the lines have been removed." Such artists will always have plenty to do, but help the poor artist who paints them as they really look—they'll starve to death.

'Pittsburgh' of the South . . .
The stretch between Atlanta, Ga. and Birmingham, Ala. reminded me of a huge bridge which rested on two large supports "The 'New York' of the South" and "The 'Pittsburgh' of the South".

The bridge itself was a southern structure but its supports were both decidedly northern in character. These two cities of all those I visited on my southern sojourn were to me less interesting because of that very fact—they were too northern in character—did not contain the essential charm of the true southern city with its quaint, dreamy, lackadaisical air.

By far the most unique and interesting thing I saw while in Birmingham, Ala., was "Vestavia" the fantastic home of a former mayor of Birmingham who is now actively engaged in banking circles. This home is modeled on the lines of the Temple of Vesta which I saw while in Rome. It is a circular structure with an encircling colonnade about it. It stands on the summit of Shades Mountain with a glorious far-flung panorama all about it. The rooms are circular: the living room is on the ground floor, bed room on the upper, while dining-room, kitchen, maid's room are below, partly submerged beneath the ground. This house is now occupied by a wealthy bachelor in his sixties and his spinster sister, together with the servants.

At times the host gives a Roman party and all the guests are requested to attend wearing Roman habiliments, toga, sandals, helmets etc. The owner of "Vestavia" calls his servants by Roman names, "Lucullus," by the way, is appropriately bestowed upon his chef, while even the dogs labor under a Roman cognomen. When he calls "Nero" or "Augustus", two dogs come running up, wagging their tails in joyous anticipation of a tasty tid-bit. Nor does the nomenclature end here, even the dog's houses are given names "The dog, "Nero" for example curls up at night in "Villa Nero", while in "Villa Augustus", another dog has his nocturnal habitat. Some intelligent people believe in re-incarnation, to them all this classic idiosyncrasy displayed by the owner is easily explained. He of course was a distinguished Roman in a former incarnation. Or perhaps, the owner loved all things Roman and having ample means to gratify his artistic whim, he did so with "Vestavia" as the result.

The fame of this unusual domicile has even crossed the Atlantic Mussolini has heard of it and the implied compliment has pleased him immensely.

The grounds of this home are adorned by flower beds, grottos, statues. The principal statue is the one of "Vesta" who is seated on a rock with two reversed urns under her arms from which water is poured. I saw several peafowls sporting themselves. Two of them were perched high above on the tall gate-posts of the entrance. Just across the way from "Vestavia" I saw another, much smaller temple—a copy of the Temple of Cybele at Tivoli, Italy. It is a memorial temple and stands on a jutting rocky formation overlooking the valley. From here a magnificent view is unfurled of the valley far below. When I saw it (in October) it was especially beautiful on account of its rich autumnal colorings of crimson, russet and gold.

Reluctantly I withdrew from these temples and descended Shades Mountain on ever winding roads. Through the trees I caught occasional glimpses of the valley view below. At the entrance of my Hotel—the Tutweiler—I dismissed my cab and as I entered the lobby I could still see in my mind's eye, two Roman temples high up on the summit of a mountain—two temples not of this country nor of this time—I had beheld a vision out of the past.

There is so much of the common humdrum in the world that anything refreshingly different is welcomed with zest and interest. And so it was with "Vestavia" and its sister temple "Cybele" on Shades Mountain near Birmingham, Alabama.

HERE'S YOUR VACATION FROM "OIL PROBLEMS"

CHANGE TO OIL-PLATING

Oil-Plating cannot take a vacation; not for a single instant. It gives you happier, cheaper use of your car—new or old—by providing the only form of lubrication that cannot leave its job. For Oil-Plating is like a sturdy slippy skin of Conoco Germ Processed oil, that seems to graft itself to your engine's entire insides.

From the patented Germ Process comes this "power of attraction," that makes oil and metal affiliate, to form Oil-Plating. Then pistons, for instance, are shielded by this skin-tight layer of slippy Oil-Plating which will not separate. And right next to that comes the greatly strengthened Germ Processed oil-film, of the regular movable type. And this film touches only another layer of durable Oil-Plating that is firmly fastened on the cylinder walls.

Here's oil-film of uncommon strength sliding against Oil-Plating . . . How can metal ever touch metal? Even through hours of parking, Oil-Plating cannot drain down from a single working surface, and hence your engine cannot start up without any oiling. That's beating wear as never before. The less wear the less Conoco Germ Processed oil you'll be using.

Times Do Change! British Lion Is Bluffed

The British battle cruiser Hood is a fine figure of a warship—40,000 tons of apocalyptic science, fast and tough and hard-hitting, capable at one blast of blowing half a dozen ordinary warships clear out of the water. But as far as the trouble in Spain is concerned, the Hood is just a bit window dressing. This was made clear when the British cabinet, after going through all the motions traditional to Britons when their sea-going rights are endangered, quietly backed down once again and allowed that British merchantmen had best keep out of the war-torn port of Bilbao after all.

The incident is worth looking at, as one more bit of proof that England, instead of ruling the waves, is waiving the rule these days.

Spanish rebel warships have been blockading Bilbao. Under the international non-intervention agreement—signed by Britain and other powers—shipments of arms and ammunitions are prohibited, but shipments of foodstuffs are permissible. And five British merchant ships loaded with food have been waiting to get into Bilbao.

General Franco, rebel commander-in-chief, announced a point-blank that if any of these ships made for the port of Bilbao they would be sunk. And it was then that Britain summoned the mighty Hood up from Gibraltar and talked loudly of enforcing British rights on the seas.

It is important to realize just what these rights were. Under the non-intervention agreement, British merchantmen have a perfect right to enter Bilbao with foodstuffs. Furthermore, the British government has not yet granted the Spaniards the rights of belligerents. Under international law, she would be entitled to treat as pirates any insurgent warships interfering with lawful British commerce.

Now if your memory goes back to the spacious days before the war, you can see that this was a situation made to order for the growing of the British lion. In those days a rebel leader would think twice or three times before laying hands on a British ship. Retribution would be swift, sure, and deadly. And when the Hood came steaming up from Gibraltar under forced draft, it looked as if the old days had returned.

But they haven't. For the cabinet admitted, finally, in the house of commons, that it will not force the issue. If British ships try to enter Bilbao they will do so at their own risks. The Hood is just there for looks. The rebel blockade is being accepted at its face value.

The British lion has become a cautious old beast in late years. The day when "lesser breeds without the law" ran to cover at his first growl has gone. Such men as Hitler and Mussolini have made an epoch-making discovery, impossible to imagine in the old days. The lion can be bluffed.—Wichita Record News.

The All-South Development Council reports this was 49.5 per cent more than the next exporting state, Louisiana; more than twice as much as West Virginia, and five times as much as Pennsylvania, Kansas or Kentucky, next in rank.

The present home and school, with 824 students, represents a long advance from the beginning which the Rev. R. C. Buckner made in 1879 with a three-room rented cottage at what is now the northeast corner of Junius and Haskell. Continued efforts of the founder and his successors and generous gifts from many thousands of Texans have enabled the institution to expand rapidly in size and usefulness.

Despite the modern trend toward having orphaned babies and children adopted in family homes, there is still a need for institutional homes for those who have neither real nor foster parents. The care of orphans has been one of the most basic forms of philanthropy since ancient times, and this need continues to require a neighborly sharing of help from those able to give it. J. B. Lucas did a splendid thing in the kindly use to which he dedicated a generous bequest.—Dallas News.

Peace Officers To Meet In Oklahoma

A meeting of the North Texas and Southern Oklahoma Peace Officers Association will be held in Hollis May 11 and 12, according to invitations received by deputy sheriff H. H. Courtney this week. Mayor Harry Hicks of Hollis has assured the association that all the doors and gates of the city will be open to the peace officers. A splendid program arranged from a wide scope of special talent has been planned. Deputy Sheriff Courtney said that either he or Sheriff L. A. Carlisle would probably attend the meeting.

Willie Hutto . . .

Pall-bearers were Messrs. H. H. Courtney, Bennie Cox, Pat Sheridan, Carl Tardy and Bert Edmondson.

Born In Louisiana Willie Dell Hutto was born in Loganport, La., August 13, 1904 and passed away April 18, 1937 at the age of 32 years, 8 months and 5 days. She came with her parents, to Matador at an early age and had made her home here for about thirty years.

She was a graduate of the Matador High School with the class of 1924, after which she attended Hills Business College, Oklahoma City, Oklahoma completing her course and graduating in 1925. Upon her return to Matador, she engaged in the abstract business, and in addition to this work had for the past seven years acted as Tax Assessor and Collector for Matador Independent School District. She became a member of the Methodist Church in 1913. In addition to her sorrowing relatives, she is deeply mourned by many close associates in both business and social circles.

Surviving are her mother, three sisters and two brothers, being, Mrs. R. H. Hutton, Mrs. H. Price and J. O. Hutto all of Amarillo; Mesdames Jim Edmondson and Fred Fulfer, both of Matador and Connie Hutto of Perry, Oklahoma, all of whom were at her bedside during her brief illness. Several nieces and nephews also survive.

Attend Funeral In the audience, in addition to numbers of local friends of the family, were friends and acquaintances from near-by towns and communities. Out-of-town relatives who were present included Mrs. E. L. Price, Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Price, Mrs. H. Z. Yarbrough and Mrs. Jimmie Cheshire all of Amarillo; Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Pritchett, Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Dixon and Mrs. Robert Pritchett all of Whiteflat.

Among out-of-town friends who attended the services were Miss Gladys Francy, Amarillo, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Newton, Dougherty, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Galk and Malcolm Morris, Whiteflat, and Dr. C. Howard, Paducah.

Work Sheets . . . (Continued From Page One) sudan to be left on the land are the chief practices advised to earn the extra payment. Another late interpretation of interest to Motley County has been announced recently. Although peas interplanted cannot be used as diverted acreage, double forty or forty-two inch rows alternating with double fallow rows of the same width will count one half soil conserving and can be used as diverted acreage even if heads are harvested provided all the stalks are left on the land. The whole acreage will count as soil-conserving and can be used for diverted acreage if none of the crop is harvested or pastured. Rows 38 or 39 inches in width will not qualify under this ruling.

Groves, 168; L. H. Bryan, 170; F. E. D. Lawrence, 175. Reserves: F. Barton, F. Lawrence, Fulfer, Morris, Latimer, Vinson.

By Fred G. Simpson, Jr. Perhaps the strongest football squad ever produced by Matador High School will trample their former team mates in the dust on the grid-iron today.

Coach Terrell who has been training the local squad for nearly two weeks, confidently said in interview, "the expectations of the seniors are ridiculous. Why, they will lose more than they will make."

Coach, professor Gray, that quack doctor from east Texas, thinks his team will win by two touchdowns. Amusing as it might seem he is the only one who believes in such a fantastic dream.

Coach Terrell is backed in his statement by a pack of the toughest huskies in West Texas. It is the personal opinion of your reporter that the Seniors would increase their chance of winning a great deal by getting rid of their most disturbing assistant coach and reporter.

Your reporter predicts a sweeping victory over the will-o-the-wisps however, come out and see the game.

MARRIAGE VOWS ARE SAID HERE

Miss Inez Harris daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Harris of Roby became the bride of L. R. Smith, of Matador in a ceremony performed Wednesday evening, April 14, by Rev. C. D. Pipkin.

Mr. Smith, manager of the local Eddie Jay's Bakery, is an enterprising young business man. He has made many friends since coming to Matador last November to helm the baker concern, and is an active member of the Matador Lions Club.

The young couple will continue to make this their home.

El Progresso Club Gives Book Review

The members of the El Progresso Study Club met April 15, being Thursday of last week, in special session for a book review given by Mrs. B. F. Tunnell at the High School study hall, which was well attended by members of other local clubs and interested patrons. The book, "Honey In The Horn" by H. L. Davis, 1936 Pulitzer prize novel is also winner of the seventh annual Harper Prize Novel contest.

The quotation for the program was, "Who in creation acts his own conceptions."—Browning.—Reporter.

ED BISHOP MADE DIRECTOR WEST TEXAS ORGANIZATION

Ed Bishop, present manager of the Dalhart Texan and a former resident of Floydada, has been elected as a director of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, according to press notices. Mr. Bishop, former secretary of the Floydada, Plainview and Dalhart Chamber of Commerce, is the son of Mrs. Jennie Bishop, of Floydada.—Floyd County Hesperian.

NUPTIALS READ TO COUPLE SUN.

Miss Zola Mae Clifton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Clifton who reside in the Tee Pee Flat community, and James Renfro of Matador were united in marriage Sunday afternoon, April 18, at the home of the bride's parents, with Rev. H. M. Weldon, pastor of the local Baptist Church officiating.

The groom, a son of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Renfro, has lived in this community practically all his life. Having attended the Matador schools and grown to manhood here, he has a host of friends who join in extending congratulations and best wishes. The bride is equally popular in her home community and in Roaring Springs, where she attended school and graduated in 1935.

The young couple will make their home here, where Mr. Renfro has employment with the FFF Chevrolet Company.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank each and every one who were so kind to us during the illness and death of our husband, father and brother. Also for the lovely flowers which meant so much in this dark hour. May God bless each of you. Mrs. Claud Jeffers and Sons, Dee Jeffers.
