TRAIL DUST

From the plane window a mountain of white clouds rises in to the sky above the snowy shag carpet of overcast. In a few hours it will have vanished into the vortex of weather. On the earth below is another mountain rising above the green fields and wearing a bonnet of trees. It, too, will vanish in a few hundred million years, because there is no time or schedule except in the mind of man.

In a modern world convenience is accepted without thought of the time, money and planning expanded to provide it. One of the most outstanding in the United States is the gigantic petroleum industry which provides a filling station near the point the fuel register on your motor vehicle reaches a warning position. Millions of vehicles are moving in all directions and fuel for each journey has been provided. Previous to the journey the petroleum companies procured the crude oil, refined it into gasoline or other propellents, built a convenient station and stored the product until it is needed. It has, of course, been profitable, but it has also added billions to the national economy, giving employment to many millions, giving this nation the finest road system in the world, and keeps the wheels turning on your car.

Recently on the Plains I saw a distant home suspended in a large lake. It was a mirage, observed by the Indians and later the pioneers. Men rode or drove their wagons toward them in a desperate search for water in instances of history. Many of us still pursue mirages, perhaps less visual, but at least with equal frustration.

Life is like a fortune cookie, which is easily crushed, leaving us holding a meaningless and absurd message.

The sea is not moved by urgency and the tides of a hundred million years will continue to splash on many shores. The sea is older than man and it is stronger and more enduring; eternal with a gentle persistence.

Her neighbor, Mrs. Arwayne Bishop was on her back lawn and saw the accident and rushed Mrs. Keltz to the hospital. She has returned home and reports her foot as healing satisfactorily.

IT LOOKS DIFFERENT NOW — This is the way the City Park looked in the late afternoon of Monday, June 11, following as much as 3½ inches of rainfall. Park benches are in the center, and to the left is the VFW Building. Dry weather for the past week and temperatures of 90 and 100 plus degrees have erased all traces of the "little flood." —Tribune Photo

Venue Moved for Trial of Timmons

THE trial of Eddie D. "Petey" Timmons charged with murder with malice in the February 13 death of James Legg, of Afton, has been moved from Motley to Floyd County.

The Tribune was advised Monday by District Attorney George Miller of Floydada that the change in venue had become official.

It was asked June 19 by District Judge L. D. Battliff of Spur. There was no objection from either the state or the defense when Judge Battliff said that he felt it would be impossible to secure a jury in Motley County because of the sparse population of the county and the wide-spread publicity of the shooting.

CORPUS CHRISTI — Members of the Texas Press Association were told Friday that the State's entire highway program is in jeopardy.

Charles Simons, a member of the Texas Highway Commission, discussed problems confronting the State Highway Department in its responsibility to construct and maintain a highway system to serve all the people of Texas.

Simons warned that the highway program is threatened by proposed environmental controls, raids on the Federal Highway Trust Fund, government reorganization, Federal revenue sharing and bureaucratic red tape.

Simons spoke at the annual summer meeting of the TPA in Corpus Christi (Emerald Beach Holiday Inn).

"We propose that the Federal government finish the Interstate system as pledged, then release to the states responsibility for collection of the special highway user taxes invoked in 1956 to establish the Highway Trust Fund."

Prior to 1956 the states collected most of the highway user tax revenues. Since then the federal government has collected specially imposed taxes on gasoline and other motor-related products to match state funds for Interstate and Primary system highway construction.

"Congress established the Highway Trust Fund with a solemn pledge that it would be used ex-

Roaring Springs to Keep Elementary For Three Years

AN AGREEMENT has been reached between the trustees of the Motley County School Board, trustees of the Motley County Independent School district, and J. M. (Buzz) Thacker of Roaring Springs.

The agreement makes it possible for Roaring Springs to maintain an elementary school of the first six grades for three years, under certain terms and conditions.

(a) So long as the average daily attendance in the elementary school, is not less than 26 students; and

(b) So long as the average daily attendance in three of the six grades is not less than 3 students.

If the above terms and conditions are not met "said elementary school may be discontinued."

In the agreed judgement: "It is therefore accordingly ordered, adjudged and decreed that the injunction relief prayed for by the plaintiff be, and the same is hereby denied in its entirety, and the annexation orders of the defendant County School Board are hereby ordered to be in full force and effect. It is further ordered by the court that the defendant trustees of the Motley County Independent School District, be and they are hereby ordered to maintain an elementary school consisting of the first through sixth grade in the school facility at Roaring Springs, Texas for a period of three years."

Matador will provide 12 grades, Flomot one through six and Roaring Springs one through six. Parents have until July 15 to file for transfer of students within the district, grades one through six. Applications are to be filed with Supt. Johnson. The tentative start date for the 1972-73 term is August 21.

The agreement between the two districts apparently has relieved the tension which started with the announcement that the County School Board had combined the three districts into one county district.

Superintendent Johnson said yesterday that the agreement

Sales Tax Passes

Approved 172 for To 30 Against

RESIDENTS of Matador went to the polls Tuesday and approved the 1% sales tax more than five to one. A total of 202 votes were cast, with 172 voting for and 30 voting against. Voters had rejected the tax in April 1969 when most towns in Texas had approved it.

The city council met in a special session Tuesday night in an effort to place the measure in effect as soon as possible. It was believed that if all necessary documents could reach the State Comptroller's office by the first of July, that the tax could go into effect the first of October. It was earlier believed that it would be the first of January before the measure could become effective.

Recently the Tribune received information that the city of Dickens would vote on the tax, Tuesday. The information was an error since it has recently been learned that Dickens voted Saturday (June 24). Still unconfirmed, the vote was declared 92 for and 7 against.

Matador to Close For 4th Holiday

MATADOR will observe Tuesday, July 4th, as a legal holiday with places of business closing. The First State Bank, the post office, the courthouse and government offices, and other places of business will be closed, according to a partial survey made Wednesday.

The 4th of July and Christmas Day are two holidays on which there is no question as to whether businesses will be closed in observance.

In order to prevent inconvenience to customers, readers are reminded that places of business will be closed Tuesday.

Legion, Auxiliary To Meet 2nd Mon.

Fleming Post American Legion and Legion Auxiliary will meet the second Monday next month, or July 10, instead of on the regular meeting day (first Monday), according to Post Commander Billy Wason.

Several conflicts made the change necessary for the July meeting only.

The program will be reports by delegates to Boys State and Girls State.

makes it possible for the students in the county district to begin receiving benefits from the consolidation, now instead of two years hence. The agreement was the result of two meetings here. One was held Wednesday night, June 21, and the second meeting was held Monday night, June 26.

Trustees of the Motley County Independent School District, are Billy Wason, president, Ronnie Christian, Lewis Bostick, Bundy Hal Campbell (all of Matador), N. L. Cook, Northfield; Tom Ross, Flomot and Carlie Long, Roaring Springs.

Mrs. M. F. Bolton Has Leg Amputated

Mrs. M. F. Bolton, 90, underwent amputation of her right leg, above the knee, Sunday in Central Plains General Hospital, Plainview.

She had been in the Heritage Home there after having undergone stomach surgery in the hospital May 11. She was transferred back to the hospital Saturday morning, when gangrene was detected, resulting in the amputation. She is reported in good shape, "considering her 90 years."

Two of her daughters, Mrs. Viola McBride of Anson and Mrs. C. C. (Margie) Smauley of Matador have remained with her since the first surgery, and joining them Saturday night to be there during surgery, were two other daughters, Mrs. Kathlene Smith of Matador and Mrs. Loree Kingery and a friend, George Heck, of Abilene. Joining the family Sunday morning was a longtime friend, Mrs. Ruby Burt of Roaring Springs, a nephew and wife of Mrs. Bolton, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Milam of Lubbock, and a grandson, Tom Smauley of Plainview. Arriving in the afternoon were another daughter and her son, Mrs. Salena Barnes and W. A. of Kopperl, Tex., and another nephew and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Dozier of Lubbock.

Texas Highway Program Declared in Peril

clusively for the construction of the Interstate system and other primary highways," Simons said. "Now schemes to divert Trust Fund revenues to build rail mass transit systems in Eastern Seaboard and Midwest cities have been bounding around Washington like a basketball."

Simons explained that the Texas Highway Commission fully supports mass transit systems and pointed out that Texas has built one of the best networks of rubber-tired mass transit in the United States, which he described as most economical, most flexible and most practicable for all but about 10 cities in the U.S.

"Texans have paid for their own mass transit system with their own highway use taxes," Simons said. "We on the Commission believe riders on other mass transit systems in other states should pay for their own systems from the fare box or self-imposed general tax revenues. It is as simple as that."

Another cause for concern to the Highway Commission outlined by Simons is the Administration proposal for governmental reorganization. In this proposal is a plan to merge elements of the Department of Transportation (DOT) with the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO), elements of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW), in a Department of Community Affairs.

"Highways are not a community affair. They are a state concern," Simons said. "This is a ridiculous grouping of non-related government organizations. It should be recognized for exactly what it is: a move to dominate the highway program and to divert highway user tax revenues to wild-eyed welfare and other socialistic schemes."

Simons blamed withholding of distribution from the Highway Trust Fund for hampering highway construction.

"More than $5 billion a year flows to the fund," Simons said. "This is a prime attraction to bureaucrats and political opportunists who see it as the greatest potential slush fund for financing pork barrel projects in the entire history of the country."

Manipulated balances of the Highway Trust Fund have resulted in the delayed completion of the Interstate System. Originally planned for completion in 1972, the system is now only about three-fourths complete.

Simons expressed doubt that the system will be completed until the 1980's.

"We are enmeshed in a bureaucratic stranglehold of red tape and directives that have stretched the time necessary to get a highway project ready for contract from 34 months to 78 months," Simons said. "Congress is at long last looking at this very threatening problem. Rep. Jim Wright (Dem.-Tex.) is chairman of a House subcommittee whose members recently were appalled to learn of bureaucratic interpretation and red tape imposed on congressionally approved legislation."

Simons pointed out that Congress now is considering legislation known as the "Transportation Revenue Sharing Plan." It provides that special taxes invoked on motor vehicle users would be returned to local governments.

Under the proposed legislation Texas would receive a much smaller share of federal user taxes, and far less than Texas vehicle owners pay into the Highway Trust Fund. In effect the Highway Department would be reduced to an agency dealing only with rural roads on drastically reduced finances while the cities' portion of the "shared" funds would be "sliced to thin that you could read a newspaper through it," Simons said.
