TRAIL DUST

By DOUGLAS MEADOR

Rivers of silver dust flowed through the sky's black swan and a red autumn moon tucked at its mooring on the horizon. The night was chill and breathless, heavy with the scent of sage and prairie grass. Washing his face at the spring, the cowboy placed the tip of his boot in the stirrup and swung himself into his saddle, springing away up the deep cattle trail toward the ridge. Night air brought a sting to the water on his face, but he welcomed it; the temporary pain seemed to soothe a flame of fever licking at his soul. He could see lights of the great house from the divide and hear the bells of ranch milk cows grazing in the valley. He unsaddled his horse, hanging his saddle and traps in the shed, and went to the rough and unfriendly room in the bunk house. Without lighting the smoked oil lamp, he walked across his smelly, unmade bed and from the window, watched the headquarters house. Somewhere close to one of light-colored windows was the slender girl with honey-colored hair and tan skin as fair as white sky at dawn. Once he had placed her small foot in his rough, wind-burned hand and helped her into the saddle, he had touched her bronzed cheek and her touch was like the petal of a flower. The day she had waved to him, a fragile girl born to wealth and luxury had waved to a penniless cowboy whom poverty had kept as a pin cushion. Tomorrow she would be gone. Another cowboy had been assigned to drive the ranch back bearing the summer visitors to the railroad town. One by one the cowboy watched the lights go out in the headquarters house. The girl seemed far away as the stars and he would not see her again except in a thousand memories for he would be riding to the range again long before dawn. Here in his vestibule of loneliness he watched the last light extinguished and shut his eyes in melancholy surrender.

Progress has sneaked into my little world and stolen some of the most affable souvenirs which I could bear away from the crumbling walls of a lost generation. Electric clocks and watches are scarce time units doubling its pace and years must have passed since I have witnessed a man hold his hand above his eyes and look at the sun to determine the hour.

Gossip is frequently our own cloak of weakness on another's shoulders.

Anchored in isolated coves near the estuary of life's river are little ships with frayed and battered sails. At frequent intervals the fragile ropes part and they drift out upon the sunset sea, silently, like pieces of drift-wood rocked in the waves of never-stilled waters.

Lack of enterprise has been expensive to the Indian. Had he set up stands and sold buffalo burgers to migrating homeseekers it is probable the proceeds would have been sufficient to have bought appeasement from the white man.

Pecavil I have turned my head to look into pastures other than those fenced by the Democratic party. It is still the prerogative of a citizen to change his mind which is an extremely fortunate condition considering the political wilderness and wind-whips through which most of us are traveling. Currently I am following the lantern held by a clean young man whose words and thoughts are as sharp and unsharpened as winter winds on the high plains. He is wearing the toga of the Republican party but he thinks American. I refer to Congressman Ben Guill. I do not offer my decision as a political criterion, or advice. A leopard or a Democrat does not change his spots but I am tired of being chained to the same looking. At present I am a Democrat gone underground.

Congressman Guill Cheered by Farmers

Department Of Labor Puts Finger On Cotton Growers At Start of Harvest

HISTORY WAS WRITTEN LAVISHLY FOR A SHORT TIME MONDAY AFTERNOON IN MOTLEY COUNTY'S NEW "CATTLE COUNTRY TAJ MAHAL" COURTHOUSE. CONGRESSMAN BEN GUILL OF PAMPA, FIRST REPUBLICAN EVER ELECTED FROM THE 18th CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT, AND FIRST CONGRESSMAN EVER TO ENTER THE NEW COUNTY EDIFICE, WAS SEATED AMONG FARMERS, BUSINESSMEN AND GINNERS IN THE DISTRICT COURT ROOM.

Harry B. Nunn, field office supervisor of the U. S. Department of Labor, wage and hour division, was explaining the child labor law as it now affects agricultural workers and the farmers who employ them. The farmers, troubled by the prospect of a labor shortage at the beginning of the cotton harvesting season, were not happy. Congressman Guill was not happy. On his feet for a few moments, he declared: "You need someone to fight your battles. This is the beginning. You need to get the government back in your own hands. Right now powerful forces are working in Washington to chop farm support prices. I am personally against subsidies, but with agriculture one of the nations chief producers of wealth, I will fight to keep support prices on farm products as long as they are on anything else. You farmers face more of this kind of a thing, especially from the labor groups. You need more Farm Bureau members and someone in Washington to give you representation."

The farmers, businessmen, ranchers and giners cheered the Republican. While Mr. Nunn explained the Child-Labor law as it affected agriculture, Congressman Guill talked long-distance with Washington in effort to find some method by which emergency relief might be obtained. His efforts were futile, at least immediately.

To Enforce The Law

Mr. Nunn explained to the cotton-raisers that they can not employ anyone in their fields under the age of 16 while school is in session. Home of the under-16-agers is defined as the place they sleep the night after working. They may work before school, after school, on holidays and are free to work if the school is dismissed in the district where they are employed. The labor law was changed last October and became effective January 25, 1950. The farmer can employ his own children under 16 without violating the law but he can not employ the children of others without being subject to penalties as high as $10,000 fine.

Pastor Tells Lions 'Time to be Afraid'

We live in a time to be afraid, Rev. Edwin "Red" White, pastor of the Children Methodist church, told the Matador Lions club members in the first October meeting, held Tuesday in the basement of the Matador Methodist church. Rev. White, who made the principal address of the meeting, was introduced by program sponsor, Lion Rev. Marvin Brotherton.

"It is dark and I am afraid," Rev. White said. "I am not afraid of the 6 million communists in the world. They don't have a chance. It is the approximate 800-million confused and bewildered people of the world who do not know where to go—whom to follow."

"We have no fear of the communists if we hold the hand of God... almost 2,000 years ago we were told to build a brotherhood on justice, fair play and sincerity... that advice, the advice of Christ, was never more valuable."

Famous Fairytale To Be Presented By Real Dwarfs

Seldom does a community as small as Matador have the opportunity of sponsoring an entertainment comprised of a professional cast direct from New York, and it is with a great deal of pride that Matador Parent-Teacher Association announces the forthcoming production, "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs", featuring real dwarfs, and a stellar cast of operatic performers.

The attraction will be presented at Matador High School auditorium, Friday night, October 13 at 8:00 o'clock, and admission will be $1.20 for adults and 60 cents for children, according to Mrs. Harold Campbell, P.T. A. president.

Brooks Callaway Has Eye Removed

Brooks Callaway, World War II veteran and longtime resident of Matador last week had his left eye removed by a Dallas eye specialist. He had a series of examinations and was assured that a tumor was located inside the optic. When his eye was removed the fears of the doctors were confirmed. He is able to be on the streets and says he is not suffering pain from the operation.

Records Expected To Topple

Mid-Century State Fair Will Unveil Attractions Saturday

DALLAS, Oct. 1—Ready to open its gates in Dallas Saturday, Oct. 7, unveiling its long-heralded Mid-Century Exposition, the 1950 State Fair of Texas appears destined to produce the biggest splash in its 65-year history and topple all its own previous world's records for state fair attendance.

More than 2,225,000 visitors are expected to throng the 187-acre, $35,000,000 showgrounds during the fair's 16-day run, October 7-22.

The strong appeal of this edition, officials point out, is due to the most exciting lineup of special events, entertainment and educational attractions ever offered by a state fair, and to the Mid-Century staging, which offers "a nostalgic salute to the first half-century and a fascinating preview of the second."

"South Pacific" To Show

Heading the field of entertainment is "South Pacific," the musical hit of the mid-century, with Janet Blair and Richard Eastham, playing 24 performances in the Auditorium.

Sharing the spotlight, glimmerwise, is the world premiere of the 1951 version of Ice Cycles.

Topped by Sally Rand and her all-new musical revue, Midway shows will include Moon Mulligan, top hillbilly recording artist and composer of "Jole Blon", and 11 other western stars in the State Fair Hillbilly Jam-boree.

Diane Ross and her sardonic-stealing monkey, with Tirza in her wine bath, will appear in "Peep Show." Betty Lou Williams, 14-year-old "four legged girl", is lead-off attraction in an unparalleled circus of oddities.

The fabulous "Sky wheels", 90 foot-high double ferris wheel, has been set up at the entrance to the Midway. At the Diamond Garter, new Midway refreshment center seating 1,600, "The Drunkard's Daughter", hilarious preachment against sin and gin, has been in rehearsal for days.

Editorial

The Hesperian has been somewhat perturbed, in spite of the fact that many who know about money, but whether Floydada and Floyd county have been and are paying too much for the money they borrow in these parlous times.

We note with surprise that Dallas county has sold a new six million dollar issue at an interest rate of 1.58 per cent.

Floyd county has never sold a two and one-half per cent, we recall it, and Floydada never under three plus. The Dallas bid was one of the lowest ever submitted on a southwest issue. Dallas is and has been added to the list for many years Floyd county has never come heavy on debt. It has $300 million in great thousands of acres sold at $9 per acre, and no charge for irrigation wells and $3 and $30 homes and the like that go tax-free. What do bond buyers consider? Why couldn't Floyd county have some of that cheap money? What kind of collateral does a bond house want?—Floyd County Hesperian

Good Ginning Is Not Enough!

EVERY COTTON FARMER has a right to expect good ginning but good ginning alone is not enough. He pays for a service which can be produced by any group of experienced ginners operating efficient equipment. But the cotton producer has a right to expect his ginner to help him market his product to the best advantage, so that when the end of the season arrives he will have earned the largest possible profit.

He has a right to expect his ginner to provide service which will save him as much time as possible through the busy harvest season. He must depend on his ginner to provide the best cottonseed for the next season . . . that he may improve the quality of his cotton.

He must also look to his ginner to provide the best possible market for the seed which he has to sell. Even more important, he must look to his ginner as a partner, a neighbor and trusted friend to whom he can turn for any favor.

Our ginning plant is known as a model of modern equipment. This season we have installed new equipment almost throughout and we are prepared to render the best possible service. Our years of experience have convinced our customers that we are truly their business partners. We are grateful for the loyalty of our customers and we strive to justify their loyalty with better ginning and the intangible services of which lasting friendships are built.

Campus Chatter

Well folks the kids of M. H. S. are at it again!

English class is getting more exciting everyday (at least that's what Randall thinks standing in the corner).

Jody had a nice time last Saturday night so I was told, he was with an ex-senior girl. Wonder what West Texas State will say about that.

The noise in the study hall makes Coach want to pull his hair (if he had any).

The way Doc pleads with Coach on certain terms, you can tell he has been pleading with Roaring Springs about something. I'll have to ask Roaring Springs about that.

 ment came from—it was passed before I was elected—but I will bet $4 to a bottle of bluing that it came from the labor pressure boys."

Wins The Bluing
 As soon as Gull returned to Pampa he rang up Washington and asked for the facts. It turned out the amendment had been presented by former Congressman John Lasinski, chairman of the House Committee on Labor and a staunch supporter of the C.I.O. Attorneys for the House Committee on Labor assured Gull that both the C.I.O. and the A.F.L. had supported the amendment vigorously.

"I don't want it to seem that I am in favor of child labor," Gull said. "I'm not, but this amendment makes no allowance for special cases, and in the cotton country of the Texas Panhandle, it discriminates against the itinerant families who depend upon the harvest for their livelihood and the cotton farmers who depend upon the workers for their crop."

Meeting of the labor man and Congressman Gull was not an accident. It had been prearranged, altho neither of the two men knew the other would be present.

County Judge C. W. Giesecke, Jr., was chairman of the meeting and introduced Mr. Nunn and Congressman Gull. He also introduced Mickey Ledrick of Pampa, Gull's campaign manager. The District court room was crowded to capacity and several stood in west entrance.

 The Exclusive
Self-D-Froster

Every night at midnight—the Norge Self-D-Froster defrosts your refrigerator automatically. Just think of it . . . no more fuss and muss of manual defrosting . . . no button or dial controls. No melting of ice cubes . . . no exposure of food to outside air.

This handsome electric clock, mounted on the refrigerator door, turns the mechanism off at midnight, switches it on after the coating of frost has melted.

Defrost water is carried away into the non-spill Hande-froster container, conveniently located and easily removable for emptying at your convenience.

Defrost water never collects in the Coldpack . . . so there's no need to remove your meats. Sealed Giant Side Freezer keeps ice cubes frozen.
