MAIL DUST

By
GLAS MEADOR

Character is a commodity which is purchased on installment extending the life of a lifetime.

Character was too slow to make a name for the last horse to enjoy the distinction of being a nylon rope.

Group, men are ridiculous and subject to any passing influence, never expect to see any sign of them wearing a hat that look like inverted hub.

Republican is a citizen who is so practical and effective in curing dandruff.

of discontent are seldom in a field which is adequately cultivated in the production of worthy service.

is a fire which consumes bundles of life collecting eternity's vast horizon.

ance of lilacs rises with shadows at dawn to freshen memories of other springs; blossoms in my mother's scarred hands, a light like burning in long-closed

5 Youths Beat, Rob Local Auto Dealer

Enroute home from Ft. Worth late Sunday night, Glenn Woodruff, manager of the Matador Auto Company, local Ford and Mercury agency, was severely beaten and robbed after he had stopped to give a lift to two youthful hitch-hikers on the road to Mineral Wells.

Woodruff said the youths looked like teenagers. They told him they wanted to ride down the road about five miles, and he paid little attention to them. When they told him they wanted out, he stopped, and one of the riders hit him across the face, breaking his glasses. The other one hit him on the side of the head. About that time the back doors of his car were opened and three more youths piled inside. They beat him about the head and face until he was partially unconscious, then robbed him of his billfold containing about $45 and removed his wrist watch.

The five hoodlums went through his suitcase, removing an electric razor and other articles, apparently looking for a gun. They debated about taking his suitcase and golf clubs, but decided to leave them. Early in the action the ignition keys to his car were removed and tossed into the bar ditch.

After being left bruised and bleeding, Woodruff was able to find the ignition keys and resume his journey. He said he saw the tail lights of a car leave the scene where the three companions had been waiting.

Revival Services Include Ambulance Escort To Church

Unusual revival services are in progress at the First Baptist Church.

In addition to inspirational messages by the pastor-evangelist, Rev. Ray Manning, and excellent singing by Rev. W. G. (Bill) Burton of Gruver, unique transportation is being furnished as a feature of the "services" offered.

For the benefit of reluctant arisers, Early Bird Bill Seale is making the rounds in his new ambulance to convey various laggards to the morning services at 7:15. Morning attendance yesterday had reached 104.

Sermon subjects which Rev. Manning is using offer stimulating study of the Scriptures. Monday morning he spoke on "Straight Licks With Crooked Sticks", and at the evening hour on "Spiritual Prisons".

"First and Second Fiddles" and "What People Do With Their Sins", were Tuesday's subjects, and for Wednesday, he used, "Big Lions in Little Cages" and "Repentance, Repenters and Retribution". Today, his subjects are, "Merits of a Waste-basket" and "The Mercy Seat". Sermons for the remaining services of the revival will be as follows:

Friday: "The Ministry of Suffering" and "The Days of God"; Saturday: "Talking Trees" and (continued on back page)

Teenagers Organize Local Youth Center

Interest High As 50 Charter Members Elect Officers And Formulate Plans

TEENAGERS, boys and girls 13 through 19, will soon have a pleasant, congenial place to meet in Matador. They will have their own private club, or youth center where they can play games, listen to music, read or merely visit with others — always under the supervision of at least 2 adults.

The youth center or canteen was organized last week at the home of Dr. and Mrs. J. S. Stanley when 50 members named their officers, set up their by-laws and rigid rules and agreed that membership dues would be $1.50 per year. Already many contributions have been announced to provide memberships for teenagers otherwise unable to belong.

Clay Jameson was named president, A. B. Simpson, vice-president, Barbara Waybourn, secretary, Kay Norman, treasurer, Garland Cartwright, sergeant-at-arms and Pat Groves, reporter. Joanne Darsey was named chairman of the maintenance committee, with Mrs. Robert Darsey as adult advisor to the committee.

Suggested name for the canteen is El Cantina. It will be supervised at all times by adults (parents of the members) who will serve in pairs. Open dates will be Fridays and Saturdays through the summer (until September 1).

In Day Building

Location will be the west side of the Day building on US Highway 70. At present the building is being put in shape for the canteen. Teenagers are at present soliciting furniture and equipment, including ping-pong tables, tennis tables, card tables, chairs, divans, etc. Any discarded furniture that can be repaired and put into use will be appreciated. Magazines and books are also needed.

Movement to organize the youth center has been under way for several months, led by (continued on back page)

Gas Firm Here Sold

A business transaction became effective last week in which Jim Haney and Ray Sims purchased the Matador Butane Company from Albert Rattan.

Ray Sims, who will manage the business said the transaction included only the butane-propane business and did not include the appliance items. The name of the firm has been changed to H&S Butane Company. At present telephone orders are taken over phones 302 or 101-J.

Mr. Rattan, who has been associated with and managed the gas appliance firm for over ten years, said he did not have any immediate plans for the future. "In and out" of the old location for a brief period, they will not operate from that point. Either of the above telephone numbers will accept orders.

Mr. Rattan, in this issue of the Tribune, extends appreciation to his friends and former customers and solicits the continuation of their patronage to his successors. The new owners also solicit a continuation of the former firm's patronage.

CAR INSPECTION DEADLINE CLOSE

Highway Safety Council of Texas again warns Texas motorists that they face the "longest waiting lines in four years" if they postpone inspection of their automobiles nearer the April 15 deadline.

State law requires every motor vehicle in Texas—passenger car, truck, and bus—to pass an annual check-up on mechanical safety. It is unlawful to operate a vehicle which has not been inspected after the deadline.

Highway Safety Council Executive Director G. C. Morris said today:

"For the past two years, 1954 and 1955, the bulk of private passenger cars have been inspected well ahead of the deadline and there have been no bothersome delays or snarls at the last-minute. This year, however, inspections are far behind schedule and auto owners who wait beyond March will probably have to back the longest waiting lines in four years to comply with the law."

Morris estimated that more than 150,000 automobiles a week would have to be inspected during the next five weeks to complete check-ups before the April deadline.

The Diary of Mary White

January 5, 1956, Thursday

When I went in to shake Roger and Thera out of the bed this morning I discovered that Roger had a sore throat and fever. I gave him a penicillin shot and for the first time ever when taking a shot, he cried. That deflated my ego considerably for I was about to hang up my shingle and go into business.

Quite a day in school. Aspirins for the headaches, bandages for the cuts, sulfathiazole for the beginnings of a boil. Three absent with stomach flu and one had same all over desk and had to be sent home. Outside storm windows iced over so couldn't open them. After the sick stomach deal I sent boys with chisels to get rid of that coat of ice so we could have some ventilation. In competition with all the other smells my Christmas perfume didn't have a chance.

Saw a little by-play between a 7th grade girl and a 7th grade boy today that I didn't like. It was innocent enough in itself but the kind of play that leads to things not so innocent. Guess the incident of last week was still on my mind; anyway, I blew that legendary fuse and gave them a lecture on sex that wasn't so round-about. (Remember my 7th graders range in age from fourteen to eighteen.) I was accorded one amen. From the others I got only blank looks and I doubt that it did any one any good except me. I felt the satisfaction all selfish egos feel when Big I tells little you what's what!

They are not yet too far removed from the generations who loaned wives to visitors and practiced much of which we do not approve. Years back a girl had to prove she was able to conceive and bear children before she could even be considered wife material. That was proving she was "alive" is the way they expressed it in English. Such is still not considered essentially bad by the older generation.

I feel a great deal of sympathy for this group in the classroom now. They are caught in the transition from native customs to the white man's ways and teachings. They are neither true native or true white; confusing, you must admit.

January 6, 1956, Friday

Low overcast, wet and snowy. Not a chance for a mail plane today. School as usual this morning. We had clean up day this afternoon. Walls, bookshelves, blackboards, facings — everything got a face lifting. We were finished by three o'clock so we played games for an hour then went our separate ways. I tried desperately to make myself stay on the job and accomplish about three hours of much needed work, and I succeeded in accomplishing about an hour of it; then the call of the new reading material got so strong that I capitulated.

The wind came up suddenly about 9:00 p. m. and everything rumbled and groaned until we thought for a minute one of the Alaskan volcanoes must be shaking the earth. It blew for about two hours then ceased. Not a bit like West Texas where it can race merrily along for days without stopping to rest.

January 7, 1956, Saturday

Have doctored sore throats until today mine is getting sore out of sympathy; or from an overheated bedroom. Nevertheless, I shoveled dirty dishes, dirty clothes, and dirty children all through the soap and water routine today. By noon had them all rinsed and drying.

The scenery outside would claim anyone's second look. The warm wind last night broke our ice field out in the bay and we have a stream of unfrozen water. The edge of that stream is dotted with men, rifle in hand, waiting for a seal head to show. At long last the tom cod fish are running. The good news has already made the rounds of the village and by now most every family has a painful of fresh fish—a welcome treat indeed. To add to the quality of this peaceful scene the sun lent its brightest rays. As it dropped onto the horizon (about 1:45) the slant of its rays was right for reflection from snow and ice and the whole picture was ablaze with the color of fire. God was neither selfish nor preferential when He meted out the beauty of His earth. Though there are not many eyes to behold it, this little, isolated spot got a full measure.

January 8, 1956, Sunday

That slightly sympathizing throat I had yesterday is howling its sympathy today. Could hardly swallow my breakfast. Another lovely day with nothing to hinder a plane except that the pilot has other loves.

January 9, 1956, Monday

On my sore throat! It was so sore that when I raised my head, pain shot every direction. R. W. cooked breakfast, the kids hung a sign NO SCHOOL TODAY on the schoolroom door and I stayed abed. Took pills and drank liquids every three hours and stayed on the bed all day. Would like to have read some but was afraid it would make cold settle in my eyes. Gee, it was a long day. Will be glad to get back to school tomorrow.

January 10, 1956, Tuesday

Sniffs and coughs prevailed over instructions today and I sniffed and coughed right along with them. Mail today just four days late but most welcome. The film was "The Glenn Miller Story". Did not really want to show it tonight as did not feel like sitting up, but the children have been to bury had I not agreed, and I would have been to bury had I not seen it so we kept the hanky handy and coughing on every down beat we enjoyed the picture. Couldn't sleep after I went to bed. Sinuses would not let me breathe. (to be continued)

That's all right for if he's late enough, maybe I'll have two letters from you folks instead of one.

Harry came by twice today. Seems that it is his week to build fires at the church. His remark was, "Well, I go get wood to warm my little flock."

Next trip his retort, given with a grin, was, "Well, I go see if the synagogue ready for my brethren."

As to how he really feels I wouldn't hazard a guess. He is one of those personalities who always hide behind a witty remark. Every time he reads a tale about Texas he comes bringing it to us. He gets a bang out of jokes about Texas in contrast with Alaska.

It is only six p. m. but I am taking my nose drops, cough syrup, and aspirins and going to bed. R. W. is laughing up his sleeve. He thinks he is going to give me a penicillin shot. He recommends himself by saying he has given many a cow a shot. I'll just roll up his sleeve and let that laugh out. I have some sulfa tablets I can take.

Your Electric Service is even a bigger bargain than it looks

For pennies a day, electricity lights your home, cooks your food, washes your dishes, and serves you in dozens of other ways. It's the biggest bargain in your family budget!

And it's even bigger than it looks.

Out of every $4.00 you pay on your electric service bill, about $1.00 goes for local, state and Federal taxes. Yet, in spite of this, you are getting about twice as much electricity for every dollar as you did 25 years ago.

Actually, the average cost of a kilowatt hour of electric service for homes served by WTU is 20% less than it was just 10 years ago. Part of the reason for this lower price is your greater use of electric service. But more important, is the work of the men and women of your electric service company who constantly are working to find more and more ways to reduce the cost of producing electric power and of delivering it to you.

Highlights and Sidelights FROM YOUR CAPITOL

WERN SANFORD Press Association

Battle lines are fast being drawn for the national convention of the Democratic Council proposed that Lyndon Johnson be the Texas delegate to the national convention.

George W. Sandlin, chairman of the Democratic State Executive Committee, had proposed Gov. Allan Shivers as chairman. Shivers charged that Byron Skelton, chairman of the DAC, had thought up the favorite son and chairman idea... and that Rayburn "is just his mouth-piece."

Shivers denounced Rayburn's proposal as a "cynical and calculated effort to divide the conservative democrats of Texas... an attempt to maneuver the senator into the DAC-PAC camp."

Then he challenged Johnson to denounce Liberal-Loyalist backing and take a stand for states' rights.

Johnson's answer was that he would head only a middle-of-the-road delegation. Not one "from either fringe"—either ultra-conservative or ultra-liberal.

"No one knows better than Allan Shivers that I am not a creature of the ADA, DAC, PAC, NAACP, CIO or any other group he may have named," snapped Johnson. "Nor am I an errand boy of reactionary big business or the Republican party."

Verbal blasts between Washington and Austin continued. Shivers accused Rayburn of "trying to run Texas from Washington." Rayburn termed Shivers "an angry, confused, frustrated man... on a sinking ship." Adding "I belong to no faction but the Democratic party."

Shivers replied that had he gotten in the boat with Rayburn and Adlia Stevenson in 1952, "we would have lost both the boat and the 'tidelands.'" He charged Rayburn with "being a Democrat first and an American second."

Shivers has declared he will not pledge himself to support "any nominee," and will hold himself free to vote for the man he considers best for President, regardless of party. "and I hope it is a Democrat."

Fencing between Johnson and Shivers was in milder tones, with Shivers concluding that he had no desire to battle with "my old friend, Lyndon Johnson." Without withdrawing his demand for Johnson to state his position on the issues, Shivers said "I would not stand in the way of Texas honoring him as chairman of the delegation or as favorite son."

Johnson has not said whether he would permit his name to be presented as a favorite son candidate, or whether he would take the chairmanship. He has said, however, that he hopes to be a delegate.

All of which means a showdown fight for control of the Democratic State Convention in Dallas, set for May 22. Liberals have promised a contest there and if they lose they will attempt to bar the conservatives from the national convention. Rayburn will be temporary chairman of the national convention.

Interposition Approved

Complying with Governor Shivers' request, the Democratic State Executive committee has ordered on the July ballot a referendum on "interposition." This seeks a voters' mandate for the Texas Legislature to petition Congress for a constitutional amendment re-establishing and protecting states' rights.

It is an attack on U. S. Supreme Court decisions, such as the Tidelands, school segregation federal control over natural gas, etc. which Texas conservatives have branded as an unauthorized invasion of states' rights.

Ineligible For Office?

C. T. Johnson, who testified five times under oath that he had spent "no more and no less" than $125 in traveling the length and breadth of Texas while campaigning for Lt. Governor in 1954, now admits spending $1200 more than he reported.

This exposure from charges by Russell W. Bryant, Italy publisher, that Johnson could not have traveled an admitted 12,000 to 15,000 miles for $125 (or approximately 1¢ a mile).

"There isn't a standard make automobile that doesn't cost nearly 2¢ a mile for gas alone," said Bryant. "And Johnson testified under oath that the $125 included not only gas, oil, tires, batteries, etc., but also such other necessary travel expenses as lodging and meals."

In admitting the $1200 additional expenditure Johnson stated that he did not report any expenses under $10. State laws require the reporting of all expenditures, and the names and addresses of persons with whom more than $10 is spent.

Falsification of a campaign expense report prohibits such candidate's name from appearing on the ballot at any succeeding election.

Yarborough After Grassroots Votes

A down-to-earth intensified campaign for governor now is under way by Austin Attorney Ralph W. Yarborough.

His first official move was a cross-roads plea for contributions and support "from the common people who believe in the Democratic form of Government."

Short Snorts: Atty. Gen. John Ben Shepperd has called for the establishment of a Texas commission to define the boundaries in which the federal, state, county and city governments should operate.

Also advocated is a code of ethics for public officials—those at the local as well as the state level. Injunction suits have been filed in Gainesville by the State Bar of Texas, to restrain four non-attorneys from engaging in alleged unauthorized practice of law.

Newsman Ed Kilman of the Houston Post is the newest member of the State Parks Board. Supreme Court Justice W. St. John Garwood, a long-time personal friend of Kilman's administered the oath of office in a ceremony in the Governor's office Tuesday. Applications from veterans for the purchase of land are being received by the Veterans' Land Board at the rate of 500 per month.
