TRAIL DUST

By DOUGLAS MEADOR

When heat oozed out of the swollen, feverish earth in the purple twilight of evening and other cowboys talked and laughed during that brief interlude between supper and sleep under the cool, soft stars, he would sit apart on his bed-roll, smoking cigarettes in silence. Despite the fact that he was lame, there was an air of nobility about him—the delicate manner in which his slender fingers held the cigarette and the way he turned his head when he looked across the prairie where the broken fragments of the sun were falling into the oblivion of shadows. When birds, still held by the shackles of spurs, were empty beside the pallets of tired men, he would continue to stare searchingly toward the fierce beauty of the sky as if he expected a strong gate to open in the parapet of his exile, permitting his passage across its frontier. He quit the chuck-wagon one afternoon after the yellow grass had been drenched by a thunder shower and gold spilled through holes in the blue clouds from the high fountain of the sun, riding slowly and deliberately over the sage-carpeted hills until mesquite trees came together like a curtain behind which he had stepped. With no more ceremony than a drop of water falling into the sea he went back into the world from which he had come.

A friendly harbour to drifting men, the cow out-fits have provided refuge for legions of strangers during the years, asking few questions beyond the qualifications of a hand.

Youth's purple shells, crushed in the mill of years and scattered along life's path do not always become smooth because of frequent passing down the avenue of memory. I have been hungry and wandering in a strange city to recall a siege of extravagance a few months previous when I had paid over sixteen dollars each for two crepe-de-Chine shirts-French cuffs and gay stripes of rust brown and blue. Having ample time in which to compute my calculations, I found that the cost for each time I wore one of the shirts must have been in the neighborhood of one dollar and fifty cents. Stranger, perhaps, was the absence of regret when I weighed the pleasure derived from having the wind blow the soft material against my home-made undershirt. It was apart from my life as a pilgrimage to the payoda of luxury.

Moving in caravans of poverty along the highway, these unfortunates who follow the vanishing cotton crop to the higher plateaus farther west, evoke a hurt in the heart. Ragged tires on gasping old cars piled high with valueless plunder as one might match from the back room of a burning house. Little children without shoes and a mother holding her baby tightly to her breast, trying to fold warmth about the small arms with a piece of dingy blanket.

It is easier to see the unhappy tableau when the sun is shining, but when the cold fog drifts before the north wind and specks of snow cling to the window, penitence follows to the fireside at evening. Each groan of the wind, in its passage through the deep canals of the night, trails into an echo which might be a child crying because of cold and hunger.

Because of an understanding usually existing between brothers, I am forced to deny the truth of a statement my brother once made in which he declared that I knew a considerable amount if I could only think of it. When everyone laughed at the time, I supposed it was because the phrase was so preposterous.

Unfriendly twilight of a black December evening spread beyond the lone figure of a weary negro trudging the incline of a hill on the remote highway. The small roll of a brown and worn cotton-sack was tied across his back and the remnants of his shoe soles were flapping as he walked. He was an

MATADOR TO MEET McLEAN FOR BI-DISTRICT TITLE

MATADOR GOES OVER THE TOP IN RED CROSS QUOTA DRIVE

Workers Are Guests Of Local Lions Club Tuesday

City Has Not Failed Large Attendance At Interesting Meet

Matador, for the fifth consecutive year, went over the top in the annual Red Cross membership drive, as the committee completed work Tuesday. The four workers who canvassed the business and residential section of the city in the successful campaign, were honored guests of the Matador Lions Club at its regular meeting held in the basement of the Methodist Church Tuesday noon. Those associated with the drive, present at the meeting, were: Mrs. B. F. Tunnell, Mrs. A. A. Harp, Mrs. Bob Echols and Mrs. Elmer Stearns. Matador's quota for this year was set at 167 members. 173 memberships had been secured up to the time of the luncheon.

Interesting Program

Some 43 members and guests were present at the meeting, including honor students of the Matador grammar school, J. K. Crews of Plainview, former Matador banker, H. H. Campbell, cattleman, L. W. Chapman, special agent, Frank A. Buckley. After the enjoyable chicken dinner served by the Methodist ladies, J. H. (Spot) Sample, made an interesting address in connection with his vacation to Washington, D. C. and other points east and south, during the summer.

Interest To Football

The meeting soon resolved interest to the coming football game to be played between Matador and the McLean Tigers at Paducah tomorrow, which is under sponsorship of the Matador Lions Club. Reports of committees sent out from Matador early Tuesday indicated that Matador would receive full cooperation and support of neighboring towns in the bi-district conflict which is expected to attract one of the largest crowds ever assembled to see a football game in this section. Perhaps no more genuine spirit of hospitality has ever been evidenced between neighboring towns, than that which has been manifested by Paducah, where the game will be played Friday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock. The Paducah Lions club, the Paducah Fire department, band and business men in general have tendered every possible aid to make the game a success.

Meet Paducah Lions

The principal part of the Matador Lions Club membership attended a luncheon of the Paducah Lions Club yesterday. The caravan was assembled in front of the First State Bank and timed to arrive at the neighboring town in ample time. Floydada, Spur, Roaring Springs, Turkey and other neighboring cities where committees had visited Tuesday, showed exceptional hospitality and pledged absolute support to Matador in attendance and offered any other aid possible.

Businesses May Close

Boss Lion, B. F. Tunnell appointed a committee consisting of Lions T. B. Edmondson, Elmer Stearns and Henry Pipkin, to make an effort to secure the promise of every business in Matador to close while the game at Paducah is in progress. It was pointed out that the attendance would be greatly increased if every place of business here would close.

old man with a drift of silver hair under the edge of a tattered hat and his shoulders were stooped as if the unhappiness of his race were upon them. He looked so tired and hopeless as the car passed.

Hours later when the chill of night seeped into the marrow of your bones, we met him on our return. Walking those few painful miles with no companions but hungry and cold. Many more hopeless miles lay ahead of him and the destination would be the city of a fairer, more fortunate race, sleeping—heart fire grown cold and cares of the world soothed by the hand of Morpheus.

BEER'S DEATH SEEN AS COURT MAKES RULING

Supreme Bench Declares Wet Precincts In Dry Counties To Be Illegal

The dust of prohibition threatens to roll back into the Panhandle of Texas through a Supreme Court made last Wednesday, declaring that wet precincts will not be permitted in dry counties. Many wet Texas cities now selling 3.2 beer will be affected by the ruling.

Two Cases Tried

One of the cases arose from Childress County and the other from Walker county. In the first, the city of Childress voted to permit the sale of 3.2 beer after it was outlawed into county-wide elections. County Judge L. L. King refused J. T. Walling a license and he sought a mandamus to compel its issuance. Judge German held the city election void.

Frank Kmerick was refused a license to sell beer in Justice Precinct No. 4 in Walker county after an election in which the county voted dry but the precinct voted wet. The Galveston court of civil appeals held in favor of Kmerick but the Supreme court upheld the county judge.

Mystery Abides In Finding Of Large Bare-Foot Tracks

J. T. Spears, local ginman and manager of the Spears Gin located in the north section of Matador is at a loss to understand the large bare-foot tracks he found approaching his gin from the street early Sunday morning. Those who arose early enough on the Sabbath morning will recall that a frost as heavy as a light snow spread like a blanket over the landscape and that there was a sharp edge to the north wind.

"The tracks approached from the north," Mr. Spears declared, "and were large enough to require a pair of shoes above the ordinary size. We were able to trail the footprints almost to the end of Main street and also the return to almost the same point. While we found impressions of the bare foot near the gin pile, we were not able to find any trace of coal missing. However, the tracks returning seemed to be deeper and more distinct than those made while the person was walking south, which might have indicated that some kind of a burden was being carried."

MATADORS WIN DIST. 4B HONORS

Fans of Entire District Expected To Witness Close Contest

One of the greatest records ever compiled by a Matador High School football team was made last Thursday when the purple and gold clad warriors of coach Harvey Stanford defeated the Paducah Dragons 25-6 and became the undefeated and untied champions of District 4-B.

Starting the season with one of the smallest squads in the district, Coach Stanford piloted the Matadors through one of the toughest conference schedules ever carded for a Matador team, winning seven and scoring 263 points to 32 for conference foes. On a full season's play the Matadors have won 5 games, lost 1 and tied 1, the only loss being a 32-0 setback by the class A Electrica Tigers. Season's total, 320 points to 64 for opponents.

Meet McLean At Paducah

Friday afternoon at the Matadors will start the Region 1 play-off with the McLean Tigers, champions of district 3. Officials of the two schools met Sunday night at Childress and being unable to agree on either Matador or McLean as site of the game, McLean officials accepted Matador's handsome offer to play the game at Paducah.

Paducah officials and civic clubs began work immediately to welcome a large crowd and to make the game a success. The Paducah High School Band and Pep Squad will be on hand to pep it up for the contestants.

McLean Record

The McLean Tigers, whom the Matadors meet Friday, have also rolled up an impressive record, claiming victories over some of the strongest teams in the Panhandle. The McLean record for the 1935 season is 8 victories and a tie with Shamrock, whom they defeated 6-0 for the district 3 title last Friday.

The Tigers' offensive attack is led by Stratton, husky fullback who is ably assisted by a hard-charging and blocking line. Fans of this area rate the two teams as about equal strength and are assured of seeing one of the hardest fought and most thrilling Class B games of the season, at Dragon Field in Paducah at 3:00 o'clock Friday. Admission to the game will be, Adults, 75 cents; School children 25 cents.

OLD AGE ASSISTANCE ACT

H. B. No. 26 as passed by the Second Called Session of the 44th Legislature is the first effort that has been made in Texas to take advantage of the recent enacted Federal Security Act. It must be borne in mind that it will be many months before funds are available either from the Federal or State government to make the full payment to the aged people of the assistance contemplated by this Act. Necessary means to raise money for this purpose were defeated in the closing hours of both Called Sessions, by the failure of the House and the Senate to agree on the proper source of these taxes.

The Old Age Assistance Act provided that payment shall start to those eligible under its provisions by July 1, 1936, if funds are available by that time. However, the machinery for the administration of the Act has already been started.
The Act contemplates assistance for persons over 65 years of age, provided:

1. That they are citizens of the United States.
2. That they have resided in Texas for 5 of the past 9 years, and for at least 1 year immediately preceding their application.
3. That they are not an inmate of any public or any private institution.
4. That they have not made voluntary transfer of property for the purpose of qualifying for aid.

5. That they have an annual income, if single, of not more than $360; if married, of not more than $720.

6. That they own property, if single, worth not more than $5000; if married, not more than $7500.
7. If they do not have cash, or bonds, if single, of over $500 value;
if married, of not more than $1000.
Aid would be denied any habitual drunkard, any habitual criminal, and to those who have husband or wife able to furnish adequate support.

The Act will be administered on the part of the State by a Commission of three (3) people appointed by the Governor and the Commission will set up necessary local agencies in various counties and districts of the State; which local agencies will receive all applications for assistance.

The Act does not contemplate that every who is eligible shall receive any certain amount of money each month, but it designated to supplement the income of those eligible to the extent that they will, as nearly as possible, be supported in their accustomed manner.

The Act is lengthy and involved, and is naturally a series of compromises. It is said to be the most liberal of any of the pension laws ever passed in any of the other States.

By the time the local agencies are appointed, full details of the procedure for qualifying for aid will be available.

"ATTENTION TO RAILROADS"

It hardly seems possible that there should be a necessity for speakers to oppose government ownership of the railroads. Government ownership and operation of anything that comes in competition with private enterprise is contrary to the American system of government, and as long as that system is the accepted system for governing the United States, government ownership should never be a serious issue.

The lack of success, both financially and operatively speaking, that the government experienced when it took over the management of the railroads during the World War, has precluded the question's serious consideration within the memory of the people who were familiar with those facts. There are always those who want change for change's sake, without weighing the lessons taught by experience.

Senator Wheeler, chairman of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee, has sponsored a bill to provide for government ownership, control and operation. This bill is sponsored by organized minorities, and would be favored by some groups in the hope that the government would be responsible for the indebtedness of the railroads.

The address of Mr. T. M. Hayes, Assistant General Manager of the Wabash Railroad, before the Houston Traffic Club and the Young Men's Division of the Chamber of Commerce, calls attention to these points. In the course of his speech, he quoted the Honorable Sam Rayburn as saying: "We cannot afford to put transportation into politics.
I oppose government ownership, and I tremble at the thought of adding 1,000,000 people to the civil rolls of the government."

"We had a taste of government ownership during the war period

It cost the taxpayers $1,200,000.00 to indulge in the experiment."

Traditionally, the Post has been opposed to government ownership.
The traditional reasoning for opposing government ownership was and is that such procedure on the part of the government would in time result in complete or near complete socialization of America.
The traditional reason remains a forceful one, and a sound one.
There is now another reason why
The Post opposes government ownership, and that is that the United States has a place to spend all of the money or credit it can lay its hands on without playing taking Aladdin's lamp away from him to wish ourselves into proper government ownership of the railroads.

If the government-ownership theorists believe that consolidations and mergers should take place, as unquestionably should occur, they might recall that such consolidations looking to economy might take place under private ownership, if the government were willing.—Houston Post.

DRIVER'S LICENSE BILL

The Driver's License Act provides that after April 1st, 1936, every person operating a motor vehicle on the highways of Texas shall be required to secure a license for this privilege. No charge will be made for these licenses, which will be issued by the Tax Collector in counties of less than 75,000 population at the time when license plates for the vehicles are secured.
In the larger counties, the Department of Public Safety will issue the license. No person under the age of fourteen years will be issued a license except under very unusual circumstances, and no license shall be granted to habitual drunkards or to persons who have been prohibited by Court orders from driving on the highways of this State. No physical examination is necessary to secure a license but it is required that persons who can reasonably be judged to be physically unable to operate a car, or persons unable to read the English language, will be refused a license.

Certain provisions are made for honoring driver's licenses issued to residents of other States. It is expected that the driver will have this license in his possession at all times. The license will be effective for three years from the date of issuance.

Provisions are made by which Peace officers shall keep suitable records of all accidents on the highways, which must be reported in detail to the Department of Public Safety at Austin.

A license must be revoked or suspended upon conviction of the holder of any of the following offenses:

- FIRST: Negligent homicide resulting from the operation of a motor vehicle.
- SECOND: Driving a motor vehicle under the influence of intoxicating liquor or narcotic drug.
- THIRD: Any offense punishable as a felony under the motor vehicle laws of this State.
- FOURTH: Upon three convictions of the commonly accepted and understood "rules of the road", as defined by the statutes, committed within a period of twelve (12) consecutive months.
- FIFTH: A conviction of a driver of a motor vehicle involved in an accident or collision, upon a charge of failure to stop, render aid, and disclose his identity at the scene of said accident or collision.
- SIXTH: Conviction upon two separate charges of aggravated assault upon a person by means of a motor vehicle, as provided by law.

(b) The revocation or suspension above provided shall in the first instance be for a period of six months. In event any license shall be revoked or suspended under the provision of this Section for a second time, said second revocation or suspension shall be for a period of one additional year.

(c) The revocation or suspension of any license shall be automatically extended upon license being convicted of operating a motor vehicle while the license of such person is suspended or revoked; such extended period or revocation or suspension to be for a like period as the original revocation or suspension.

Severe penalties are prescribed for driving an automobile while the license has been revoked or suspended.

As in the case of many other controversial measures, this bill was the result of a compromise between those who wanted a very strict Driver's License Law and those who wanted no regulation at all. It is freely predicted that this Law will be amended in the future and be made more strict as to the examination prior to the granting of a Driver's License.

THE LIQUOR CONTROL ACT

There is probably more divergence of opinion concerning the regulation of liquor in Texas than in any other State. Practically all shades of opinion concerning liquor are represented in Texas, and, therefore, it is a practical impossibility to enact a law that would meet with anything like unanimous approval. Furthermore, the Constitutional Amendment which was adopted was not very clearly drawn and the language used therein was not clear in its meaning, thus giving rise to endless argument as to what the people meant by their vote for repeal last August.

The law, which the Legislature passed, prohibits the drinking of spirituous alcoholic liquor in the place where sold. It permits the drinking of beer and wine up to 14 per cent alcoholic content in the place or places where sold.
The sale of whiskey, gin, brandy, etc., can only be made in licensed packaged stores and the packages cannot be opened in the store where sold. All counties and parts of counties that were dry in 1919, when state-wide prohibition became effective remain dry until the people of such counties or parts of counties vote favorably upon the sale of one of the various types of liquor. A county-wide election may be called by the Commissioners' Court upon its own motion or upon a petition of 10 per cent of the qualified voters therein. An election in a city or justices' precinct can only be called by petition. The election must be held in not more than ten and not less than twenty days. The law provides for a special vote on the sale of, (1) beer of not more than 14 per cent; (2) wine and beer of not more than 14 per cent; (3) sale of all liquors of whatever alcoholic content; (4) the prohibition of the sale of all liquors. Doubtless quite a few counties will vote to legalize beer, or beer and wine, that will not legalize the sale of all liquors.

The tax on whiskey or other spirituous liquor is eighty cents per gallon. The license fee for packaged stores is $500.00 in the larger places and scales downward to considerably less than one-half of that amount in the smaller places. The license for wholesalers is $250.00 per year.
The license for the sale of medicinal liquor is $50.00 per year, and very strict regulations are thrown around the sale of medicinal liquor.
It is expected that the State will receive about Four Million Dollars in revenue from this bill. In pre-prohibition days the largest amount of revenue from liquor received by the State in any one year was less than One Million Dollars.

The beer law was amended and re-enacted by this bill, the license fee being lowered substantially while other features of the beer law were strengthened. This bill certainly does not suit the extreme on either side of the liquor question. It is perhaps more suitable to the drys than the wets, but it is generally believed to be a practical working basis for the regulation of the liquor traffic which can be amended in the future as experience dictates.

GENERAL NEWS
 The whole student body enjoyed the Thanksgiving holidays. The holidays just gave them a taste of how it feels to loaf again, and makes them more anxious for the Christmas holidays.

The high school had a call assembly last Wednesday, seventh period, before Thanksgiving. The purpose of the assembly was to give everyone the spirit for the Thanksgiving game with Paducah. Mr. Tunnell gave an interesting talk made up chiefly of statistics about Matador and Paducah teams. The pep squad gave several yells, and Coach gave a pep talk.

The game Thursday was well attended. There were many ex-students of Matador High School at the game. Somehow people who have attended M. H. S. have kept the spirit. The school feels proud of this fact.

The six weeks' exams are over and everyone heaves a sigh of relief. They were certainly rushed to get the exams over in three days.

SENIOR NEWS
 The Seniors made the turkey disappear Thanksgiving just before the game. And say, wasn't that a good game?

We're still wondering how Margaret knows all the answers to questions concerning Turkey.

JUNIOR NEWS
 The junior class is very sorry to lose one of their classmates, Edith Brown. She is moving to Iowa Park.

The class is giving the assembly program Friday, December 6th, everyone is invited to attend. Since the Thanksgiving holidays are over, we have begun looking forward to the Christmas holidays.

SOPHOMORE NEWS
 The exams and Thanksgiving are over, and the sophomores are starting off the new term. We are very glad to have Virginia Vinson back with us again.

PEP SQUAD NEWS
 The new suits did not come for the Paducah game, but they should be here for the McLean game. Be sure to see them! The pep squad certainly appreciates the response that the Matador fans give to the drills given at the games. The pep squad will go to Paducah for the game with McLean.

SPORTS
 The Matadors reversed their style of play shown in the Spur game; when they trounced the Paducah Dragons 25 to 6 here on Thanksgiving Day. The Matadors changed from a defensive game, exhibited against Spur, to an offensive game to beat Paducah; and claimed Matadors first District Championship.

The boys all seem to be in perfect condition as they prepare this week to meet the McLean Tigers, District 3 Champions, at Paducah Friday, December 6th. Here is the Matadors' motto:

GOOD ENGLISH PROGRAM

The Junior Sorosis Club met Monday night, December 5 at the home of Miss Martha Dell Scaff for a program on correct usage of English in everyday talk. Two excellent papers on the subject were presented: "Words Commonly Mispronounced" by Miss Emma Lesta McKee, and "The Value of Good English" by Miss Geraldine Tudor. Every member responded to the roll call with a word new to her vocabulary.

The president, Mrs. Bill Netherlin, held a business session. The next meeting will be a social at the home of Miss Ruth Moore; therefore, a large percentage of the membership is expected to be present.

T. C. U. Men Spend Less Than Girls Shown By Survey

FORT WORTH, Nov. 25.—Eight hundred and forty-seven students in Texas Christian University spend a total of $580,695 in a year, according to a survey just completed by the Department of Journalism of the school.

The expenditures—for clothing, amusements, school expenses, and every other item for which money might be used—vary all the way from $250 to $1350. The men average $565 total expenditure for the year; the girls, $836. Most of the difference between the sexes is accounted for in the greater amount the girls spend for clothing.

Although the number of men in T. C. U. is 75 less than the number of girls, the latter spend nearly six times as much for dresses as the boys do for suits.

Interesting items disclosed by the survey include an average monthly expenditure by each boy of 95c for picture shows, 12c for candy, 10c for school supplies, $1.10 for food between meals, 89c for barber shop service, 6c for taxicabs.

Included in the average monthly expenditures of the girls are such items as, soda fountain, 49c; candy, 15c; beauty parlors, $2.82; picture shows, 39c; school supplies, 28c.

The average amount earned, for boys was found to be $269.79; for the girls, $67.76.

GOVERNMENT BANK UNSUITED TO U.S.

Would Serve Politics Rather Than Business Needs, Says R. S. Hecht, Citing Previous Experiences.

QUOTES PRESIDENT JACKSON

Extent and Diversity of This Country Presents Different Situation From Europe and Makes Regional Banking Necessary.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—A refutation of arguments in favor of a government-owned central bank system for the United States is presented in a statement by R. S. Hecht, President of the American Bankers Association, on the basis of exhaustive studies of European central banks. He also points out the disastrous consequences of previous central bank experiments in America. "Our present regional Federal Reserve System under private ownership is infinitely better for this country than would be a government-owned and controlled central bank," Mr. Hecht says. "If history teaches us anything, it is that it is almost certain that a central bank so owned would be run to meet the varying exigencies of the government in power rather than to serve the commercial needs of the country."

Central banking has been tried twice in the United States, but was finally abolished because the credit control which the central banks exercised became objectionable and unpopular, he goes on to say.

What Andrew Jackson Said "The continued existence of the Second Bank finally became a bitter political issue and President Jackson succeeded in abolishing it," Mr. Hecht says. "Permit me to quote from his farewell address: 'The immense capital and pecuniary privileges bestowed upon it enabled it to exercise despotic sway over the other banks in every part of the country. From its superior strength it could seriously injure, if not destroy, the business of any of them which might incur its resentment. . . . If you had not conquered, the government would have passed from the hands of the many to the hands of the few; and this organized money power, from its secret and exclusive control, would have dictated the choice of your highest officers. . . . The forms of your government might, for a time, have remained, but its living spirit would have departed from it.'"

When the Wilson Administration considered banking reform it carefully kept away from vesting central banking powers in a single institution and instead introduced the regional idea by creating twelve reserve banks located in different economic and geographical sections of the country. Mr. Hecht says, a plan that has worked exceedingly well because the separate banks are under the guidance of men chosen on account of their intimate acquaintance with the problems and needs of their respective territories. He adds: "The great size and diversity of America tends to make a central bank undesirable. The central banks of Europe such as the Banks of England, France and Germany, cover areas not as large as some of our states. A central bank in the United States on the other hand would be called upon to administer the financial policies of an area larger than all of Europe, in which there are quite a number of central banks."

Subservient to Popular Demands "Moreover, history has proven that any banking system entirely owned and dominated by the government usually demonstrates much greater ability in aiding expansion of credit than in putting on the brakes at the right time to prevent undue inflation by restraining and contracting credit. This is easy to understand because in times of depression everyone is urging the government to make money and credit easy and to encourage expansion. "On the other hand, it always has been and always will be a difficult task for any government to call a halt in time of apparent prosperity because in the very nature of things the government would be very sensitive to public criticism and would hesitate to take any action which would tend to curtail business activity. It is such undue susceptibility to popular demands which makes government banking inherently weak. "Our studies show that of all the central banks at present existing there are only four whose stock is owned by the government."

The American Bankers Association, Mr. Hecht says, is convinced that a central bank would not be in the interest of the public or the banks. Its position, he concludes, is "well understood by the President and the leaders in his Administration, for we have been absolutely frank with them in all of our discussions and have missed no opportunity for emphasizing that in our opinion no banking system will, in the long run, be sound if it is dominated entirely by the ever-changing political administrations. We should do all we can to keep our banking mechanism as far removed from partisan politics as possible."

Thousands Get Employment In Centennial Jobs

DALLAS, Texas, Nov. 25.—Forty thousand dollars a day is going into payrolls and material at the huge grounds of the Texas Centennial Exposition here.

This huge expenditure will be increased as the drive to complete the mammoth buildings of the Exposition reaches its full swing in December.

Where 1,100 men are working now, there will be 5,000 by January 1, according to William A. Webb, the Exposition manager. Soaring bank statements already reflect the pressure of this additional employment. These figures are far above those of 1934. Banking experts expect them to go still higher as the tourist swing starts with the opening of the Exposition June 6. They also expect the boom to spread to the state as the influx of out-of-state visitors to the Centennial continues on to the historic shrines and places of interest which have made Texas a lure since, and before, its historic, successful fight for freedom in 1836.

Construction of six buildings, involving when completed an expenditure of close to $3,000,000, has started on the Exposition grounds. By June 6 the Southwest's successor to the Century of Progress an up-to-date, improved version of that great exhibition at Chicago must be completed, and at a cost of $10,000,000.

Real estate men estimate this $10,000,000 expenditure will be fully justified, with the grouped projects having a tangible value of more than $20,000,000 when finally finished.

A home-town newspaper always stands for the good things in any community. No worth-while movement succeeds without the newspaper's support. A worth-while newspaper can accomplish much good and usually does, but seldom does an individual appreciate it. If newspapers charged for the space they devote to boosting a community the publishers could soon retire. Yet the publisher profits more from community progress than does the average citizen. —News-Plain Dealer, Sparta, Ill.

version lacks the chromatic beauty that its predecessor possessed. The photography one sees in this picture, barring the fact it is not in colors, is for sheer beauty—a rare artistic gem.

The other day I was on a set where a large number of people appeared in fancy dress, and as I knew the majority of them, it was most interesting to see the different styles of clothes had on them.

Some of this motley throng lent themselves very well to the characters they portrayed—their faces and figures were admirably adapted for their respective characterizations. But there were some whose faces were plainly intended for prosaic business—the butcher, the baker and the candle-stick maker—these looked laughable in their blonde curls, plumed hats, frills and in red plumed pants.

Then there was a little (?) Lord Fauntleroy. By the wildest stretch of one's imagination one could never conceive the effeminate aristocrat in him. He looked like a 'mug' like an under-world type prize-fighter with cauliflower ears that showed under his cute little sailor hat fastened under his chin with an elastic band.

some culinary problems. Said the Turkish lady to the Bull fighter—"Now the way I fix red cabbage I always put in some vinegar". Etc. Etc. Whilst the fighter of bulls replied "My wife ain't much of a cook, I do most all the cooking myself—and if I do say it myself, I know how to fix up things—My wife is just crazy the way I fix applestrudle. First I take my apples and after they are washed, I peel them, etc. etc."

LETTERS REVEAL MORSE OFFERED TEXAS HIS MAGNETIC TELEGRAPH

AUSTIN, Nov. 28.—To the list of notable blunders of history can be added:

The refusal, 96 years ago, of skeptical fathers of the Texas republic to accept as a gift from Samuel F. B. Morse, his new-fangled magnetic telegraph.

In the papers of Mirabeau B. Lamar, first president of the struggling republic, is a memorandum from Memucan Hunt, Texas minister to Washington, referring to correspondence and conversations with Morse concerning the invention.

Under date of April 27, 1839, Hunt reported to Lamar that Morse "tendered perpetual use of the electro magnetic telegraph to the republic."

The offer was accompanied by a drawing of the invention which Morse requested "be placed for the present in the secret archives of the nation."

Text of the offer and the drawing are missing and may have been destroyed in a fire that swept Texas' capitol after the Civil War. There is no record it was even acknowledged.

But Morse did not forget and in 1860, after his invention had swept the world, he withdrew the tender in a letter to Gov. Sam Houston.

The letter, dated Poughkeepsie August 1, 1860, read:

"May it please your excellency: In the year 1838 I made an offer of the gift of my invention of the electric magnetic telegraph to Texas, Texas then being an independent republic. Although the offer was made more than 20 years ago, Texas, neither while an independent state nor since it has become one of the United States, has ever directly or impliedly accepted the offer."

"I am induced therefore to believe that in its condition as a gift it was of no value to the state, but on the contrary has rather been an embarrassment. In connection however with my other patents it has become, for the public interest, as well as my own, that I should be able to make complete transfer to the whole invention in the United States."

"I therefore now respectfully withdraw the offer then made in 1838, the better to be in a position to benefit, Texas, as well as other states in the union."

State officials now develop headaches thinking about countless millions of dollars in royalties the state passed up by not accepting the gift and controlling it through its development.

WILL ROGERS

Anderson M. Baten

Will Rogers made me feel that I was not doing my best. When I heard him over the radio, I seemed to be aware of all my weaknesses.

His domestic life, which is the only life after all, proved that it is possible for a man to receive world-wide fame, honor and glory, and at the same time be himself, and true to his family.

He has proven that virtue and character can go hand-in-hand with fame.

He was the advance guard of the Twentieth Century.

He was put here to teach the world that there is nothing to pomp, display, outward show, veneer, enameled and deceptive appearance.

He has proven that truth is common sense.

Centuries of tradition, genealogy, custom, fashion, rule, habit and precedent fell before this cowboy, because he was himself.

The ultra-conservative classes, the so-called polite societies, dropped their fustian manners, shams, and little childish idiosyncrasies full of foolishness and senselessness, when the humorist, with, reparteeist, punster, joker, comedian and philosopher met them.

He told the world that, "We are just common ordinary human beings, striving for good."

He was the prodigious horizon of the masses.

He was a millionaire, but lived the life of an average man.

He treated his brother brotherly.

He was the Chamber of Commerce of America.

He was the Apostle of the world spreading good will.

In him was that something that is in all of us which tries to express itself, but in him was accomplished.

He met kings standing on their dignity, but when he left them they stood stripped of fictitious mannerisms.

The scholar in Rogers' presence realized that Rogers had that something not found in books, of which he was minus.

The infidel, agnostic, and skeptic met this brother of brothers. When he left them they were doubting their theories.

Customs, manners, etiquette, ultra-fashionable ideals stood spell-bound in the presence of this man who was always himself.

Rogers' philosophy was being WILL ROGERS.

This giant wielded the battle-axe of Common Sense. This battle axe cut to pieces egotism, arrogance, selfishness, self-flattery, self-praise, self-conceit, vanity, cheap, vulgar extravagance and over-estimation.

Day before yesterday Rogers was not known—yesterday he was brother to the world—today he is immortal.

He died moving on.

His death affected the world as if a member of each family had passed away.

He left a void in every heart which cannot be filled.

Beauty Treatment Is Incomplete Without Care of Eyes

By Jean Prentice

THE fact that proper lighting enables us to see better should be ample reason for having it. But there's a further reason than that; proper illumination actually helps us to look better. Those eye wrinkles that come from continued squinting and eyestrain don't have much chance to form when the light is glassless and abundant.

The question is, however, how to obtain this kind of light conveniently and economically? Well, let's take a typical case; that of the attractive lady in the picture.

The numbers and lines on the illustration have been placed there to help you visualize the relationship between lamps, the position of the eye work and the amount of light as it would be shown by a light meter. By actual measurement it has been proved that when a good-sized table is used for a lamp beside a fairly large comfortable chair, there will be approximately 32 inches between the lamp and the eye work.

Utilize Light Effectively

When sitting in the average chair, the book or eye work is held about 30 inches from the floor. Under such conditions it is found that 150-watts, or two 75-watt bulbs are needed in the table lamp to obtain on the task the desired amount of light for average eye work — approximately 25 foot-candles. (The foot candle, you know, is the unit of measurement of illumination intensity.) One bulb may of course be turned off when eye work gives way to conversation, and still hold the charm of this grouping.

The lamp shade, you'll notice, has a white lining, a very desirable virtue if we want to utilize the light most effectively. It is tall enough to throw a generous circle of light so that our lady doesn't have to hug close to the lamp in an unnatural and uncomfortable position. Thus, we have a fortunate combination of three important elements in home lighting:

Soft, shaded light of adequate intensity enables one to see better and look better. Wrinkles show up less and are less likely to form.

1. Enough light to see by.
2. Shaded light, which softens and lends attractive tone.
3. General light, plus extra local light for close eye-work.

True beauty demands proper care of the eyes. The right kind of light, properly shaded, and sufficient in quantity, will help to minimize eyestrain, reduce fatigue, and prevent the formation of those tell-tale wrinkles resulting from eye-abuse that do so much to spoil facial attractiveness.
