"VOICE OF THE FOOTHILLS"

Business grows beyond dreams for Roaring Springs woman

When Annette Hollinsworth of Roaring Springs started her business in a corner of the now closed City Grocery in Roaring Springs, she had no idea that five years later she would have over 400 consignees. New To You, now located in downtown Matador is a quality consignment shop, which provides residents of the area with the opportunity to purchase good, slightly worn clothing and other items.

"I wanted to live in Motley County and I needed something to do. I had worked in a store similar to this in Plainview, and knew I liked the type of business, so I thought why not in Motley County," said Mrs. Hollinsworth.

The family moved to Roaring Springs in 1996 after living in Plainview for several years. Mr. Hollinsworth drives a truck for Wal-Mart. The family had visited Motley County often, making frequent trips to the Roaring Springs ranch. When the opportunity came up to purchase a piece of land not far from the ranch, the couple grabbed the opportunity. "Larry (Mr. Hollinsworth) said it would be good to have the land to build a house on someday to retire," said Mrs. Hollinsworth. "I knew I loved this area and I wanted to live here."

The desire to relocate to Motley County was so strong, that soon after their land purchase, Mrs.

Hollinsworth and daughter, Kayla, a 6th grader at Motley County ISD, set up housekeeping in the family's motor home. "Larry is on the road a lot, and Kayla and I made it just fine in the motor home," said Mrs. Hollinsworth. "We lived in the trailer for six months while our house was being built." Mrs. Hollinsworth was raised in a small town near Nashville, Tennessee, and Mr. Hollinsworth was raised in Lubbock. She said, "I knew I wanted to get back to small town living, and Roaring Springs was just right."

It was only six months after moving to Roaring Springs that Mrs. Hollinsworth established her business. She started out with six racks purchased from a store in Lubbock that was going out of business, to display the clothing. In her first year she had eighty consignees. "This business is easy," commented Mrs. Hollinsworth. "I don't have to buy first. I sell what sells, and give back what doesn't."

After her first year in business, Mrs. Hollinsworth relocated the store to Matador, renting a building next door to the Library. She purchased the old Stanley drug store building in 1999 and moved across the street to the part of the building which formerly housed a flower shop. "The day we moved, Larry danced across the street with a manikin. He has been a big help to me in establishing the store and keeping everything going," Annette said. "He (Mr. Hollinsworth) said he would do anything to keep me from shopping at Wal-Mart all the time."

New to you has a policy of only quality items. "I only accept clean, still wearable items, in good shape." She doesn't accept anything in bad condition. "I don't care how old the item is, or from what vintage era, it must be in good condition," said Mrs. Hollinsworth. "We have some dresses dated from the 50's and 60's. They are real vintage pieces in very good condition."

The store also offers accessory items, jewelry, purses, Western decorative items, and a new line of clothing recently added to the store. Mrs. Hollinsworth also sells Avon. She is an active member of the Our Lady of Guadalupe Catholic Church where she teaches a Bible class. She is a member of the Motley County Chamber of Commerce, the Texas Highway 70 Association, Motley County PTO, and the Eternas Study Club. In addition to everything else, she is very involved with 11-year-old daughter, Kayla's school activities.

"This business has grown into more than I could have imagined in my wildest dreams. I'm thankful to my customers, and the citizens of Motley County for their support," said Mrs. Hollinsworth.

Motley City Council meets HOME applications submitted

Members of the Motley City Council met for their regular meeting on June 6.

Mayor Williams informed the council that seal coating of some city streets will probably start in July. He also informed the council that six individuals submitted application for the HOME program, a home improvement program. Officials of the program in Austin, will review the applications and report back to the City Council.

The Motley County Chamber of Commerce and the City of Matador have reached a lease agreement concerning the renovated facilities above City Hall. All proceeds will be handled by the Chamber of Commerce and profits will be spent solely on Economic Development efforts, benefiting all of Matador and Motley County.

City Water Manager, Steve Barton was on vacation, so no water/sewer report was given.

All Council members were present, with the exception of Bert Darsey.

Safety Belt Campaign gets Texans to buckle up in record numbers

"Click It or Ticket" results exceed goal

Austin -- Texans seem to be getting the "Click It or Ticket" message.

For the first time since Texas' safety belt law went on the books in 1985, seat belt use in the state's urban areas has topped 85 percent, the Texas Department of Transportation announced today.

The traffic survey results showing that more Texans are buckling up came less than a month after TxDOT, the Texas Department of Public Safety, and the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration launched the state's largest ever public education campaign and seat belt enforcement crackdown.

For a two-week period, from May 20 to June 2, an unprecedented barrage of TV and radio commercials, billboards and movie theater slides warned Texans to buckle up or face hefty fines. Thousands of extra law enforcement officers patrolled Texas streets and highways to locate and ticket seat belt violators.

"Our effort paid off, and we're delighted that so many more Texans got the message to buckle up," said Sue Bryant, TxDOT traffic safety director. "In cities with heavy 'Click It or Ticket' advertising and stepped up law enforcement, we saw significant increases in the number of drivers and passengers using their safety belts."

Roaring Springs Community volunteers have finalized plans for the 2nd Annual July 4th Celebration. The event will be held on Thursday, July 4, with activities beginning at 7:00 a.m. with breakfast at the Community Volunteers building.

Dedication of the recently completed Veterans Memorial will be held at 8:30 a.m. State Representative David Counts will be the featured speaker.

The 2nd annual Lawmower Parade will begin in downtown Roaring Springs at 10:00 a.m. This unique parade features riding lawnmowers, golf carts, motorcycles, and other small wheeled vehicles. Prizes are given for various divisions.

Games and visiting can be enjoyed at the community building after lunch, which is on-you-own. The Hitchin' Post will be open with their delicious fried chicken buffet.

Horseshoes, Volleyball, Washer Pitching and Dominoes are just some of the games planned for the afternoon. A special event for the kids will be held this year. A Stick Horse Race, for children 7 years of age and under, is sure to be a most exciting event. Kids are urged to get their horses ready for the big day. Stick horse kits are available for only $1.50 at Graham's Supply in Roaring Springs or Matador Floral in Matador. Kids don't have to purchase a kit to participate. They may use their own stick horse, broom handle, or just a stick.

Activities will continue with a patriotic sing along at 3:00 p.m. A barbecue supper will be served at 6:00 p.m. Cost of the supper will be $5.00 for adults and $3.00 for children. At 7:30 p.m. homemade ice cream will be served.

The day will end with a beautiful fireworks display, which will begin about 9:30 or when it gets dark. The ice cream supper and fireworks display are courtesy of Roaring Springs friends.

Service uniforms and other war memorabilia will be on display throughout the day at the Center.

To be a part of the parade or for more information call Alex Crowder at 348-7336 or Corky Marshall at 348-7000.

Area Health Education Center of the Plains opens

Lubbock -- Texas Speaker of the House Pete Laney joined Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center officials and representatives from the Hale County Hospital Authority on June 13th to open the Area Health Education Center of the Plains, located at Houston School, 2417 Yonkers St., Plainview.

The center is the first of its kind to address the critical shortage of health care providers in the western half of Texas. The center will focus on generating more interest in health care careers among school-age children, providing rural clinical training for students in the health professions, offering continuing education for existing health care professionals and promoting health care careers to workers in other occupations.

The western half of Texas is facing a shortage of health care providers including physicians, nurses, pharmacists and X-ray technicians.

Patti Patterson, M.D., vice president of rural and community health at Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center said 19 counties in West Texas do not have a single physician, while 27 counties have less than three. She said the situation will soon worsen with many of the existing health care workers approaching retirement age.

"We all see communities which lose their health care system, and then businesses leave town because their employees don't have access to local health care. We hope these education centers will encourage people to pursue a career in health care and the pipeline of health professionals will increase. Health care and economic development in rural communities go hand-in-hand," Patterson said.

The center will serve a 21-county region including Bailey, Briscoe,

Castro, Childress, Cochran, Crosby,

Dickens, Floyd, Garza, Hale, Hall,

Hockley, King, Lamb, Lynn, Lubbock,

Motley, Parmer, Swisher, Terry and

Yoakum counties. Texas Tech hopes to open similar centers across the remaining counties in West Texas in the future.

Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center Office of Rural and Community Health provides funds appropriated by the Texas Legislature for rural health improvement.

The annual budget is $300,000. Additional community partners are the Hale County Hospital Authority, Hale County Industrial Foundation,

Plainview Independent School District and Covenant Hospital -

Plainview.

The following is an e-mail story that my cousin sent. It's a good reminder of how often we do forget the real wonders in our lives.

A group of Geography students studied the Seven Wonders of the World. At the end of that section, the students were asked to list what they think were considered to be the present Seven Wonders of the World. Though there was some disagreement, the following got the most votes:

- 1. Egypt's Great Pyramids
- 2. Taj Mahal
- 3. Grand Canyon
- 4. Panama Canal
- 5. Empire State Building
- 6. St. Peter's Basilica
- 7. Great Wall of China

While gathering the votes, the teacher noted that one student, a quiet girl, hadn't turned in her paper yet. So she asked the girl if she was having trouble with her list. The quiet girl replied, "Yes, a little. I couldn't quite make up my mind because there were so many."

The teacher said, "Well, tell us what you have, and maybe we can help." The girl hesitated, then read, "I think the Seven Wonders of the World are:

- * 1. to touch
- * 2. to taste
- * 3. to see
- * 4. to hear
- She hesitated a little, and then
- * 5. to feel
- * 6. to laugh
- * 7. and to love

The room was full of silence. It is far too easy for us to look at the exploits of man and refer to them as "wonders" while we overlook all God has done for us, regarding them as merely "ordinary". May you be reminded of those things which are truly wondrous!

Arts & Crafts club members make decorative pillows

Motley County Arts and Crafts club had a fabulous lesson on making decorative pillows at their June meeting at the Senior Citizens' Center, June 3.

Shirley Smith and Joyce Meredith were instructors for the day, teaching the members the art of making decorative pillows from samples of various types of fabric.

Mrs. Smith, owner of "Calico Treasure" and a professional interior decorator brought samples from her shop for the lesson. There were many lovely samples to choose from. The pillows were very beautifully made from this lovely material, donated to the club by Mrs. Smith.

Vee Gordon, Club Secretary, presided at the 10 a.m. business meeting. The date has been set for the Fall Bazaar, November 13. Place this date on your calendar. The members planned programs for the ensuing year.

Lorene Lancaster will teach a class on oil painting for July. She brought the sketches to be used and they will be a delight to paint.

Members present were Lois Campbell, Dorothy Day, Grace Garrison, Vee Gordon, Dorothy Knight, Billie Koon, Lorene Lancaster, Joyce Meredith, Betty Henry, Kathryn Russell, Pat Smith, Shirley Smith, Nova Dell Turner and Winifred Darsey.

The club dined at noon with the Senior Citizens. The menu was delectable with Spicy Meat Loaf, Au Gratin Potatoes, Carrots, Zucchini, Salad, Wheat Rolls, and Cake.

The Motley County Library extended an invitation to the club to join the Friends of the Library Association in a preview of books on Arts and Crafts, and a sack lunch party at noon on Tuesday, June 18. The meeting will begin at 10 a.m. Members of both organization are urged to attend.

Mrs. Ruby McGuire served refreshments, consisting of homemade cookies, juice, and dried fruit. Mrs. Pam Thacker, Taelor Norrell and Annie and Ashlee Green helped with all activities. The children participating were Garrett Jenschke, Jacob Woolsey, Alexis Moore, Meagan Ford, Lexi Osborn, Christian Brooks, Jordan Moore, Parker Meredith, Tanner Norrell, Hannah Alexander, Reagan Elliott, Shelby Elliott, Talor Karmazyn, Katie Barton, Seth Baxter, Matthew Mount, and Logan Ferguson.

You have heard it. We all came from monkeys. We all came from some lower form of life. In fact, according to the theory, trace it down and we all came from one single microscopic cell. Who can believe it? Not me! I lifted the following from the East Main Messenger in Murfreesboro, TN. It's interesting:

A national laboratory has made an analysis of what goes on in the body of an average-size adult over a 24-hour period. Here's what you and parts of your body accomplish during those 24 hours:

- Your heart, if you treat it well (since no pump is perfect) beats 103,689 times.
- Your blood makes 1,450 complete circuits through thousands of miles of capillaries.
- There is no ventilating plant as efficient as your nose, lungs, and skin. You breathe 23,040 times.
- You inhale and exhale 438 cubic feet of air.
- Your voice and ears are better than any radio or television set.
- You speak 4,800 words, and hear even more.
- Your nervous system is unequalled by any telegraph system.
- Your spinal cord is superior to the most complete switchboard in giving instantaneous warnings and reactions.
- You move 750 muscles.
- You exercise 7-million brain cells, more or less.
- Your eyes: no camera can touch them for efficiency.
- You eat 3.35 pounds of food.

Summer is here again and it is the time for fun in the sun but remember with that fun also comes the heat and dangerous rays of the sun. It is especially important during this time of year to protect yourself from skin cancer.

Here are a couple of facts about skin cancer from the American Cancer Society.

Skin cancer is the most common type of cancer and more than 1 million new cases of skin cancer will be diagnosed in the United States this year. In addition, one person dies from a form of skin cancer every hour.

As you can see by these facts it is very important to follow through in skin cancer prevention and here are a few key factors that can help you block out skin cancer.

* Reapply sun screen every 2 hours when outdoors, even on cloudy days.

* Wear protective, tightly woven clothing, such as a long sleeved shirt and pants.

* Wear a wide-brimmed hat and sunglasses when outdoors.

* Stay in the shade whenever possible.

* No shadow-seek the shade! If your shadow is shorter than you are, you are likely to sunburn.

* Try to stay out of the sun between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. when the sun's rays are the strongest.

* Avoid reflective surfaces, which can reflect up to 85% of the sun's damaging rays.

The lazy, fun days of Summer are here again but remember to follow these key prevention steps and you can have a healthier, happy Summer!

KILLING A BUSINESS IN 10 EASY STEPS

1. Don't Advertise! Just pretend everybody knows what you have to offer.

2. Don't Advertise! Tell yourself you just don't have the time to spend thinking about promoting your business.

3. Don't Advertise! Just assume everybody knows what you sell.

4. Don't Advertise! Convince yourself that you've been in business so long customers will automatically come to you.

5. Don't Advertise! Forget that there are new potential customers, who would do business with you if they were reminded and urged to do so.

6. Don't Advertise! Forget that you have competition trying to attract your customers away from you.

7. Don't Advertise! Tell yourself that it costs too much to advertise and that you don't get enough out of it.

8. Don't Advertise! Overlook the fact that advertising is an investment in selling - not an expense.

9. Don't Advertise! Be sure not to provide an adequate advertising budget for your business.

10. Don't Advertise! Forget that you have to keep reminding your established customers that you appreciate their business.

Part 3

Many people look upon the destruction of the buffalo herds as the work of men who were ruthless wanton wastrels. Whatever the opinion may be, it is quite certain that the big game hunter with his fifty-one hundred and ten rifle that reached out to incredible distances with certain death, did as much and possibly more to tame the Red Men of the Plains than all the soldiers ever sent against them.

The hunter's work was done for gain and without any thought of advancing civilization. True at heart, he was a bold Nimrod who loved the wide open spaces with their dangers and excitement. But fundamentally the money to be made from the sale of buffalo hides and meat was the propelling motive that held him to the job regardless of dangers, hardships, exposures and privations he well knew confronted him on every hand.

Opinions seem to vary about the buffalo and their habits. Charlie Goodnight, who was supposed to be an authority on buffalo, I believe, claimed there were two separate and distinct herds on the North American Continent, a northern and a southern herd, the same animal with like attributes that shifted northward and southward according to their desires and the seasons. They possibly mixed to a degree, but were separate and distinct in the main. If correct, one would infer that the southern limit of migration for the northern herd would be about the northern limit of the southern herd. It is just a bit difficult to visualize why this was.

William D. Street of Decatur County, Kansas, a trooper belonging to the Kansas State Militia Frontier Forces, reported to the Kansas Historical Society that in the spring of 1860, while on a scout for marauding Indians in the northern part of Kansas on the Solomon River, they came in contact with a mighty herd of buffalo and though they were in open country, the limits and bounds of the herd could not be outlined with the help of field glasses. Countless thousands of the shaggy brown creatures made the plains black with their numbers and were slowly moving to the northwest.

In the story, "Buffalo Days," as told by J. Wright Mooar (hunter par excellence) and written by J. Winford Hunt and published in the Hollands magazine, Mr. Mooar tells of his first buffalo hunting; it began around Dodge City, Kansas in the early seventies. He speaks of a very large herd of prime animals (that is, no old ones nor yet any young ones) that originated somewhere to the south of Dodge City and moved north clear beyond the southern border of Canada, where most of them perished in the snows the following winter. An exceptionally strange migra-

Local youth attend team-rope school

Chance Bingham and Colton Russell attended the 13th Annual Roping School held May 30-June 2, at South Plains College in Levelland. The school is conducted by the Texas Cooperative Extension Service, Hockley County. Ag. Agents Chris Edens and Kathryn Woodard coordinated the events and help the boys all week with the help of several Hockley County 4-H Adult Volunteers.

Teaching camp members were Mike Macy, Sid Morris, Jay Waller, Chuck Senter, Cade Shepard, Jim Ellerd and South Plains College Vice-President, Kelvin Sharp. These men worked from the ground up with the 24 young men and women who participated in the school this year. The instructors started with basic ground work, conducted tack and horsemanship discussions, and arena work, which led to the roping competition held on Sunday, following Cowboy Church lead by Kelly Macy (formerly Kelly Frost) and Sid Morris.

At the church services the youth were given a Cowboy Bible in memory of Lane Frost, given by his parents, Elsie and Clyde Frost. They were also treated to the music of 184 Christ and each given a CD of their music.

Attending Sunday to be with Chance and Colton were their parents and family, Alan and Kay Bingham, J.D. and D'anna and Shane's Russell, Brad, Mindy, Megan, and Garrett Jameson.

For the Roping Competition the youth were split into two groups - advanced and beginners. Colton Russell roped with the advanced group and received 4th place header. Chance roped with the beginner ropers and ended up with 5th place header.

Both boys came home with several prizes awarded during the camp for use with their horse or roping such as bucket, fly mask, roping gloves, and hoof picks. When the dust had settled and horses, equipment and gear packed up the boys were treated to lunch by their families before returning home.

Chance Bingham and Colton Russell are mounted on their horses at the Team-Roping school they recently attended at Levelland.

Dear Carla,

I just wanted to ask you to please urge drivers to use extreme caution at the "Y" (intersection of hwy. 70 & County Road 684) near Roaring Springs. There have been several "close calls" when drivers traveling from the south enter the "do not enter" section of the highway to enter the road to Roaring Springs. It is impossible for drivers on that road to see someone who enters that section of the road. The "do not enter" section is a veer-off "yield" section for drivers to enter highway 70, southbound.

My wife and son travel that road everyday coming home, and have encountered several "close calls". Please use caution and obey the road signs. Entering that section of the highway is illegal!

Thank you for making drivers aware of this.

Sincerely,
Yancy Meredith

Top students shine at Texas Tech University

Lubbock -- Texas Tech University students are moving out of the books and into prominent lists.

Students earning a 4.0 grade point average, while enrolled in 12 or more qualifying semester hours, made the President's list. Students carrying 12 or more qualifying hours, with a grade point average of 3.5 to 3.9, earned their place on the Dean's list.

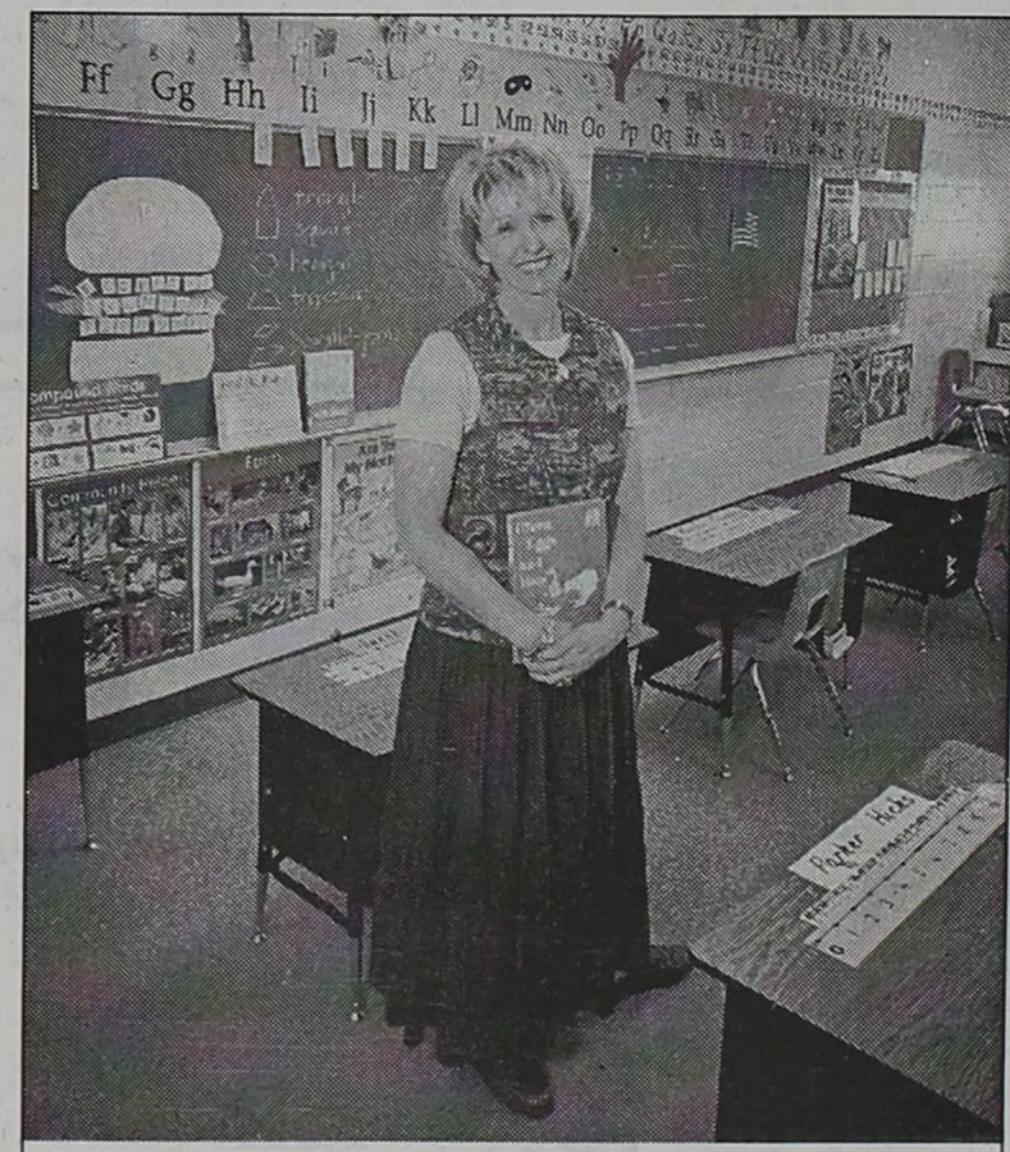

Three students from Matador were named to the Dean's List. Leigha Burns, a freshman with a major in Advertising, Kristi Williams, a sophomore with a major in Political Science, and Kandi Keltz, a junior with a major in Exercise and Sports Sciences. Leigha is the daughter of Steve and Reneigh Burns, former Matador residents; Kristi is the daughter of Rodney and Glenda Williams of Matador; and Kandi is the daughter of Kelly and Pennie Keltz of Roaring Springs.

Not all motorists heeded the "Click It or Ticket" message. State troopers, police officers and sheriff's deputies issued more than 61,000 citations for seat belt violations during the special enforcement period. Officers also recovered 45 stolen vehicles, arrested 988 drunk drivers and apprehended 1,110 fugitives.

"Click It or Ticket" campaign supporters included the Texas Department of Health, the Texas Municipal Police Association, the Texas Police Chief's Association, the Sheriff's Association of Texas, hundreds of local law enforcement agencies and scores of community organizations.

OVERHEARD

One day, when I was 16 years old, I decided I needed a haircut. First I wanted to shampoo my hair.

I'd heard that if you rinsed your hair in vinegar water, it would take out all the soap. I thought if a little vinegar was good, a little more would be better.

After drying my hair, I put on my black Stetson. I was so proud of that hat, because I had paid $6.00 for it.

At the barber shop, I took off my hat and tossed it onto the hat rack and climbed in the chair.

After cutting my hair, the barber said, "Son, if I were you, I'd throw that hat away. It is souring your head."

You have already been told what Abe Lincoln said in 1838. "At what point then, is the approach of danger to be expected? Let reverence for the laws be breathed by every American Mother ... let it be taught in schools, preached from the pulpit, proclaimed in legislative halls, and enforced in Courts of Justice." Here's a jewel from Motley County Public Library, explaining The Public good. "So many surveys seem to be engines for discovering the blindingly obvious." For eg: those who do not use public libraries do not favor increasing taxes for libraries. Other surveys have shown the reluctance of some childless citizens to pay taxes for schools ... and substantial numbers of people seem to have forgotten other things such as efficient mass transportation, and a healthy environment. Some of us seem to have lost the notion that there is a general "public good," and that we should all pay according to our means. What we see is not just fundamental difference of public opinion, ... but a frightening shortsightedness ... because we need them for our Common Culture.

FARM AND RANCH NEWS

Farm Service Agency News

by Debbie Shaw, CED

USDA OFFERS ADDITIONAL CONSERVATION FUNDS TO TEXAS FARMERS AND RANCHERS

On June 14, John Fuston, State Executive Director for the Farm Service Agency (FSA) announced a second sign-up period for conservation funding under the Environmental Quality Incentives Program (EQIP) that will run through June 28, 2002. The 2002 Farm Bill signed into law on May 13, further extends USDA's allocation of monies targeted for conservation practice application on private lands.

"Interested producers are encouraged to act quickly if they wish to make application during this 'second chance' opportunity for federal financial and technical assistance provided through EQIP," said Fuston.

EQIP was established under the 1996 Farm Bill to address significant agricultural natural resource concerns through the application of select practices that were determined to be beneficial to the overall protection of the tract of land being treated. Participants entered into long-term contracts and agreed to treat all conservation issues identified by using a "whole farm" approach to planning.

According to Fuston, "EQIP now has a more flexible approach. Producers can treat specific resource concerns without locking their entire farm into a long-term contract. This gives them options to address new or unforeseen conservation problems as they arise."

EQIP remains a voluntary, competitive program. The new Farm Bill outlines significant changes in program provisions pertaining to length of contract and payment limitations. The Bill eliminates Geographic Priority Areas (BPAs) and the "bid-down" option that enabled producers to make their applications more competitive by shouldering a higher percentage of the total cost of practice implementation. For Texas, cost-share is set at 75 percent.

To date, Texas FSA has allocated $60.2 million in cost-share assistance and incentive payments. Proactive producers statewide used these funds to treat the most environmentally sensitive farm and ranchland, voluntarily reducing soil erosion, improving water quality and quantity, preserving wildlife habitat and insuring the sustainability of Texas agriculture," stated Fuston.

For more information regarding the EQIP application process, conservation practices and eligibility requirements, please contact your local USDA Service Center. Information can also be found on FSA's website: <http://www.fsa.usda.gov>.

Now it's a farm law: Conservation title holds potential benefits

With the signing of the Farm Bill Security and Rural Investment Act of 2002 by President George W. Bush recently, the next phase of the efforts to restructure federal Farm Programs begins in earnest.

Although the national press and many observers of Washington legislative activity have been quite vocal in their opposition to the Bill, a dawning reality among many growers is that the Bill has some truly unique and beneficial components.

The spotlight and pressure now turn to USDA as that agency moves full-speed into the process of implementing the new law. Considerable work remains to be done to provide growers with all the necessary information they will need to make decisions on updating bases, yield or both.

Much has been made of the support provided through the Commodity Title of the Bill with good reason. Somewhat overlooked so far, however, are the potential benefits that lurk in the Conservation Title as well.

A good deal of additional funding and some long sought changes to the administration procedures of several current programs and the addition of a couple of all new programs hold tremendous potential benefits for producers.

Another interesting new program is the Conservation Security Program. Introduced by Senator Tom Harkin, the CSP has the potential to provide significant financial incentive for farmers and ranchers to implement conservation practices on their own operations.

PCG officials have noted that it will be increasingly important to participate in the development process for the CSP.

Insuring that the Texas High Plains and other semi-arid growing regions in Texas and elsewhere have the same ability to meet and exceed the requirements necessary to fully participate in the CSP at the higher participation levels is key.

Ongoing communication between growers and their representatives USDA officials developing the rules for the program will be the number one vehicle for having currently recognized conservation and tillage practices used on the Texas High Plains included in acceptable or recommended practices.

Potentially the CSP could provide payments to growers/landowners on individual farms at one of three levels. The three program tiers and the maximum yearly payment amounts available under each are: Tier One-$25,000; Tier Two-$35,000 and Tier Three-$45,000.

It is assumed that final payment rates would be dependant on the actual combination of practices employed on the farm and the length of contract agreed to when enrolling in the program.

COTTON NEWS

FROM PLAINS COTTON GROWERS, INC.

FINAL PLANTING DATES AND HAIL ARE HOT TOPICS ACROSS WEST TEXAS

The High Plains typical mix of "haves and have-nots" are once again trying to figure out just where the 2002 crop stands as the area approaches the end of its traditional planting period June 10.

June 10 marks the Federal Crop Insurance Corp. final planting date for cotton in most of the region's Southern counties. Northern counties have final cotton planting dates of May 31 or June 5.

The "have-nots" are mostly non-irrigated producers in the southern-most counties of the High Plains. It should be noted, however, that there are still some non-irrigated acres north of Lubbock in the same boat as their brethren to the south.

As a group, they are wondering if they will have a chance to tap into relatively good sub-soil moisture that could help establish a crop. So far the lack of timely "planting" rains to occur over a large part of the region during April and May continues to be a serious problem.

With weather forecasts not predicting an increased chance of rainfall over the near term, most of West Texas' non-irrigated crop is on the verge of being denied another chance at establishing a crop and utilizing the tantalizing close sub-soil moisture that lies underneath powdery dry seedbeds.

With no alternative but to take a chance on catching an isolated rain event adequate to germinate and sprout their seed, dryland cotton producers across the region have been busting beds and planting into dry dirt in an effort to give themselves the chance at a 2002 cotton crop and to meet requirements of Federal Crop Insurance policies that require seed to be in the ground by the final planting date for their county.

On the other side of the spectrum are the "haves" who have been on the receiving end of recently sparked thunderstorms that rumbled across the central section of the region in the past two weeks. These "haves" in some instances may not be much better off than the "have-nots" since the storms brought a pretty fair amount of hail, wind and flooding along with them.

Damage reports have been slow in coming, however. The first storm, which came shortly on the heels of the Memorial Day weekend may not have been quite as problematic as first thought due to a quick return of warm weather and no wind immediately afterward.

Also, a pretty large part of acreage that was lost was probably replanted to take advantage of the moisture and the fact that the calendar was still somewhat favorable to cotton.

This week's storm, however, may be another story with damaged cotton less likely to get replanted due to the passage of the final planting date for crop insurance and the fact that producers probably will opt to switch to a shorter season crop like grain sorghum.

Estimates of crop damage from a variety of sources, including Texas Cooperative Extension and the Texas Boll Weevil Eradication Foundation, indicate somewhere between 100,000 and 125,000 acres of cotton were lost in the two storms.

Additional losses due to disease or other causes are not available at this time. Also, the potential loss of a significant number of dryland cotton acres still looms large for the region.

UPDATE: CROP INSURANCE RULES FOR APPRAISALS

The bottom line for producers whose crops are emerged and growing is that the rules have not changed in regard to Federal Crop Insurance and the timing of appraisals after the crop has sustained damage.

For EMERGED crops the normal rules apply in regard to asking for and receiving an adjustment. Producers can begin receiving adjustments 7 days after crop damage occurs.

However, a good bit of confusion has been created due to a new Crop Insurance rule covering how NON-EMERGED crops are treated this year. This new rule adds a 15-day waiting period after the late planting period, which runs for 15 days after the final planting date.

Producers who plant into dry soil and do not receive enough moisture to achieve a stand by the end of the late planting period have to wait an additional 15-days before adjustments can be made.

In a nutshell, a producer whose dry planted crop has not achieved a stand by the end of the late planting period (15-days after the final planting date) WILL NOT be able to receive an adjustment at that time. For 2002 they will have to wait an additional 15-days before any adjustment will be made.

Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. and the National Cotton Council are in the process of seeking the repeal of the additional waiting period.
