Lanolin Plus Does Wonders For Skin

The Answer Lady

QUESTION: Is it all right to dye the eyebrows immediately after plucking? Mrs. G. R. ANSWER: No, indeed, Mrs. G. R.! Open pores are a portal of entry for the dye to penetrate below the skin and poison the tissues. Wait at least a week after plucking. QUESTION: My lips are chapped and cracked all the time. Can this be due to the kind of lipstick I use? Elsie M. ANSWER: Yes. Try using an oily lipstick. QUESTION: When should powder be applied for make-up? ANSWER: In make-up after a thorough cleansing, apply powder first and last...the first application is protective...the last, artistic!

Beauty Secret For Hands Discovered

One of the most remarkable beauty secrets ever discovered happened years ago on the plains of Australia during sheep-shearing season. The hands of the men were dry, calloused and bruised. But almost immediately an amazing phenomenon occurred. Bruises were healed...their hands were soft, supple and smooth. What happened?

Lanolin, the closest actual duplication to esters and cholesterol, nature's own skin oils, is found in the fats and oils of the sheep's wool. As the men sheared the sheep, lanolin was absorbed deep into the layers of the skin. Lanolin made their hands BEAUTIFUL!

Today, Lanolin Plus, containing the right amount of lanolin and combined with other ingredients for absolute effectiveness, is the only formula to hold an exclusive United States patent.

LANOLIN PLUS HAND LOTION is richly enhanced with this precious substance lanolin. It's a velvety lotion that gives immediate effects, both protective and remedial. It doesn't leave the skin sticky and greasy, but restores a soothing softness and suppleness to dry, crackly skin.

You'll like the delicate, refreshing scent, as well as the tiny miniature ivory pump that ejects the few drops necessary for an application. A generous four-ounce bottle costs only $1, plus federal tax at all cosmetic counters. Keep a bottle handy at all times—and you will keep your hands BEAUTIFUL!

Wrinkles Worrying You?

Don't let them! You can actually help remove, or greatly reduce premature wrinkles in a very simple manner.

First what causes this kind of wrinkles? Nothing more than hard, dry skin. To prove it, crush a piece of silk then shake it out. It has no wrinkles. Now, crush a piece of note paper. It's permanently wrinkled...because it's hard and dry.

Ordinary cleansing creams probably are the cause of dry skin. Although they cleanse, they remove the skin's surface lubricants—esters and cholesterol, and leave the pores clogged with mineral oils and waxes. These are closely related to gasoline, and not only fail to lubricate, but actually may further dry out the skin.

All you have to do is soften the skin and premature wrinkles begin to give way. All you have to use is LANOLIN PLUS LIQUID. Use it as a cleanser; then tissue it off. Rub in a little more, especially on the premature wrinkle lines, and leave it on overnight. After the first night, your skin will be no longer dry. Use regularly and your wrinkles should be greatly reduced or no longer visible.

Impossible? Not at all! LANOLIN PLUS LIQUID, patented by the U. S. government contains a fabulous amount of lanolin and esters and cholesterol, the closest duplication of nature's own skin lubricants. These elements actually penetrate, replacing those removed by the cleansing process. You'll say it's "liquid magic," and it really is! Want to be wrinkle-worry free? Use LANOLIN PLUS LIQUID every day. It is available at all cosmetic counters and the price, $1 plus tax, is as astonishing as the almost magic results it gives!

Dramatize And Highlight The Unsuspected Beauty Of Your Hair

To give yourself the correct shampoo, make certain that the hair is gently massaged with the fingertips throughout the shampooing process. It's not only pleasant and relaxing, but it stimulates the sebaceous glands of the scalp and makes them more active. Rinsing must be done with great care, slowly and effectively. Most emphatically, thoroughly! The desirable method is the use of a professional spray.

Now! What kind of shampoo lotion? It mustn't contain harsh ingredients that tend to dry out the hair. It mustn't leave the hair with a sticky, dull film. It must leave it soft, shiny, manageable!

For some time, we have known that lanolin contains the substitutes for nature's own oils to help nourish and lubricate the skin and scalp. The best shampoo to choose is one that contains a generous supply of rich lanolized suds. Such a product is LANOLIN PLUS HARD WATER SHAMPOO. Here is a shampoo that lathers in the hardest water. It's gentle on the hair, and its rich, lanolized suds whisk away completely all dirt and grime so that the hair is left soft and silken, with beautiful glistening highlights. Just as the shampoo cleanses, its oil pampers the hair.

It's economical, too, because it's fast-acting, with just one or two applications needed per washing. Only $1 at all cosmetic counters.

New Lanolin Plus Cleansing Cream Endows Dry Skin With Vital Oils

Ever hear this comment: "I can't use soap and water on my complexion because it's so dry?" What mildy often fails to realize is that the cream she is using for cleansing may actually be drying out her skin.

Lanolin Plus Cleansing Cream For Dry Skin offers in cream form a cleansing agent delightful in texture due to its quick melting and deep penetrating oils.

Why does Lanolin benefit your skin? Because Lanolin, a product obtained from the wool of lambs, is most similar to the natural oils of our human skin.

As we grow older the normal lubrication and elimination of the skin tends to diminish. Due to the lack of natural moisture and lubrication the skin becomes dry, coarse, dull and old.

Lanolin Plus Cleansing Cream For Dry Skin gives you the needed supplementary oils to combat these conditions in your skin. LANOLIN PLUS CLEANSING CREAM FOR DRY SKIN $1 plus federal tax. At all cosmetic counters.

Lanolin Plus Liquid replenishes natural skin oils with softening, lubricating substances. Try it today; treat your face to a facial pick-up!

Works Quickly, Effectively, Inexpensively To Restore That Youthful Look!

Chemists discovered that the supply of body substances which give softness and pliability to the skin diminishes with age. Therefore, they based the formula for Lanolin Plus on these important facts, combining highly-refined lanolin PLUS other beauty-benefiting ingredients.

Lanolin Plus Liquid contains a concentrated supply of esters and cholesterol, the two elements found normally in young skin but which diminish with advancing age. It's the lack of these essential oils which cause "crow's feet," wrinkles and harsh, dry skin. Lanolin Plus Liquid immediately sends a rich supply of softening, lubricating substances into the thirsty undersurface of your skin to help combat this aging, drying process. Lanolin Plus Liquid keeps your complexion soft and supple...no matter what your age. Try it for a facial treat...a perfect pick-up for dry, tired, weather-worn skin! Here's a quick, simple way to soften your skin, make it glow with new vitality and beauty.

1. Hold a hot washcloth to your face and neck for about a minute to open pores and allow tired muscles to relax.

2. Briskly massage warmed Lanolin Plus (warm bottle under hot water tap) into face and neck until skin begins to tingle.

3. After a few minutes, wipe away impurities brought to pore openings by soothing Lanolin Plus Liquid.

Lanolin Plus Liquid is simple as ABC to use! Gently massage a few drops into your skin before retiring. It works while you sleep, leaving no greasy film on your pillow!

Continued use makes dryness disappear, premature wrinkles due to excessive dryness or climatic conditions diminish or fade away completely! You'll love its economy, too! Only a few drops are necessary due to its deep-down action.

Since this lanolin-rich liquid lubricates and softens the skin, it has other beneficial uses: If the heels, or insteps or toes are calloused or rough, a relaxing foot bath, followed by a Lanolin Plus Liquid massage does wonders for softening and soothing the dried out areas. It's excellent also for sun-tanning and after swimming, during, out of season sunny climate vacations.

How long has it been since you have analyzed objectively what your complexion is really like? It's up to you whether your skin becomes prematurely wrinkled, or is soft and supple, with a glowing, youthful radiance.

There is no season of the year, when it isn't necessary to conduct your own personal "complexion campaign." Climate conditions—harsh, wintry winds or hot, penetrating sunrays...do rob the skin of its natural oils, leaving it hard and dry. Ordinary facial cleansers rob the skin of its natural oils. You must compensate for lost natural lubricants if your skin is to become softened and smooth in appearance; if you are to avoid dry skin and aging wrinkle lines.

Only Lanolin Plus Liquid replenishes these natural skin oils so vitally needed to nourish and protect and lubricate the skin. Remember...it's up to you! How you care for your skin today means the difference between a beautiful, youthful complexion, or a hard, dry, unattractive one tomorrow! You can purchase this splendid product at all leading drug and department store cosmetic counters. Its nominal cost is only $1, plus federal tax. Ask for LANOLIN PLUS LIQUID!

Is Your Hair In Perfect Condition?

You may spend hours in a beauty salon or at home concerning yourself with stylings, rinses, bleaches and "touch-ups." Oh, your hair may look pretty after all this care, but what's it really like the condition of its health? Have harsh chemicals, sunlight and hair driers sapped its inner strength and beauty? These things can happen, you know. And they happen at a great cost of time and money to you.

External hair care is important and wise for the final appearance of the well-groomed woman. There is no question about it. Yet, in accomplishing this external beauty, is the same amount of time and care given to its internal condition. You can tell this way: Look for split ends, hair strands that have a dull, dry look, a coiffure that remains unmanageable. If these things are apparent in your situation, your hair lacks the proper lubricants. Nature's own oil, esters and cholesterol, are in need of a helpmate. Lanolin, so closely duplicating these natural oils, provides the solution.

The newest hair conditioner available today—Lanolin Plus for your hair—just as its name implies, is steeped with this rich supplement.

It can be used in several ways. It should be rubbed gently into the scalp and massaged into hair strands the night before a shampoo. In this way, it is an excellent aid for reviving dull, damaged hair. If dryness is not severe, brush a few drops through the hair after each shampoo, working a small amount into the ends of the hair. In making the hair soft and flexible once more, it helps prevent split, broken ends and brings back a healthy, lustrous sheen. It helps keep unruly locks attractively in place. A few droppers brushed on daily keeps shimmering highlights in the hair always.

You'll find, too, that the men at your house will like this new, lanolin-rich lotion for the hair. It does not leave smudge on hat bands, pillows or upholstery, but imparts a smooth, well-cared-for look.

You can purchase Lanolin Plus for the Hair for only $1, plus federal tax, at any cosmetic counter. It's the sure way to keep your hair in perfect condition!

If you retire feeling tense and unrelaxed, your appearance when you arise is the same. Relaxation of facial muscles begins before you go to bed...

After The Bath

This little girl enjoys soothing baby lotion patted on her skin with a sterile cotton ball.

Baby's Good Grooming Should Start Early

By VIVIAN BROWN

Associated Press Newsfeatures Writer

Every baby is a potential beauty contest winner. In mother's eyes, that is.

Some mothers dream that their little girls will be great movie stars. Mothers of boy babies see them as handsome college sophomores racing down the field for the winning touchdown. It does a mother's heart good to dream the best for her young one.

Her personal ambitions for her tots, however, must be realized more in deeds than in thoughts. For it is through the love, affection, tenderness and training of her offspring that they develop into the paragons she visualizes.

Good grooming is basic routine for a young baby. The little one's bath should start out by being a refreshing fun-time that is pleasant and delightful to the youngster. Delicate skin needs to be tended gently. Hands must be gentle in handling the bath-slippery body of a little baby. Soft wash cloths and towels and a tray of bath essentials also contribute to a happy relaxed bath time.

Most mothers learn proper baby bath technique from their doctors and by observing hospital nurses. To make baby's bath a pleasant occasion, instead of a chore, however, mother should assemble all bath necessities within easy reach.

After the bath, having used a good baby soap, mother should apply a few drops of baby lotion in all the creases and folds of baby's delicate skin. If the lotion is a creamy oil-and-water emulsion it should lubricate and soften baby's skin. Apply it with a cotton ball with a gentle touch rather than using a harsh towel which might irritate the little tot.

Whenever the diaper is changed, baby should receive the same careful and considerate treatment that mother offers during the bath period. The diaper period is harder on baby than it is on mother, apparently, so why not cater to the tot's whims? A gentle reassuring conversation is essential to his happiness at that point.

Daily exercise may follow each bath period, with mother exercising baby with a few simple arm and leg movements. Chatter and laughter will make baby enjoy the rhythm and fun and look forward to it all the time Mom is bathing him. This should make the dunking period a looked-forward-to occasion for Baby and Mom.

Treatment Helps Make Hair Curl

Every mother is sure her baby daughter is going to grow up to have beautiful, curly hair. But, unfortunately for mama's sake, baby daughter's hair often turns out to be straight.

As a result, many an innocent child has endured the torture of having her hair curled around a hot stove poker. Mother might have been pleased with the compliments the neighbors paid but daughter's scalp was often red and bruised from occasional slips of the hot iron.

In recent years the sugar-and-water technique—thought to be a hair stiffener—has been popular. Wave lotion has also been used to train ringlets.

One satisfactory hair treatment is said to give baby soft, fluffy curls in no time. It does not contain waving lotion.

The treatment is supposed to begin when the hair is one-inch long. After baby's bath, her hair should be dried thoroughly and the treatment applied with a cotton pad in an upward circular motion.

The action is continued with a baby hair brush and the hair is dried. This daily treatment is said to help keep baby's hair curly.

A child whose hair doesn't seem to respond to normal treatment may need a special method. A baby with a head of fuzz may develop a healthy head of hair if her scalp is brushed vigorously once or twice a day.

Um-m-m-m Good! ... Hungry babies feed themselves.

Junior Knows That Hands Were Made Before Spoons

By CECILY BROWNSTONE

Associated Press Women's Editor

Is Junior learning to feed himself? If he is, you can be sure that he knows hands were made before spoons!

Restrain yourself when he picks up food with his fingers and stuffs it into his mouth. But if he's really playing with his food—squeezing it, shoving it around or daubing it on his face or chair—it means he's had enough.

Mother can help Junior along if she sees that he has a comfortable and sturdy high chair or low table chair. He'll also need a big washable bib. Another tip for Mother, is to offer Junior his mug of milk at regular intervals, rather than to leave it in the action zone.

It's a good idea for Mother to let Junior try to feed himself during the first part of his meal, when he is hungriest and most energetic. Then when he's partly satisfied that his new independence has lost some of its allure, she can quietly take over and feed him the rest of his meal.

When Mr. Toddler is switching to Junior (chopped) foods, his mother can smooth the change by mixing some of his finely strained foods with the different-textured chopped meats, fruits and vegetables. The bite-size pieces in these Junior foods are of uniform size and encourage chewing. When teething time comes around, small fry like the new non-crumbling teething biscuits that come individually wrapped.

It's a happy day when Junior and Mother can share the same foods at lunch. Mother can use baby foods all sorts of ways so that she must prepare only one meal. Here, for instance, is a suggestion for a mother-toddler salad.

MOTHER-TODDLER SALAD

Ingredients: 1 package lemon-flavored gelatin, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 cup very hot tomato juice, 1 cup cold tomato juice, 1/2 cup junior mixed vegetables.

Method: Dissolve gelatin and salt in very hot tomato juice. Stir in cold tomato juice; chill until slightly thickened. Fold in junior vegetables. Turn into individual molds. Chill until firm. Unmold. For toddlers, serve plain. For adults, serve on crisp lettuce with well-seasoned French dressing. Makes 5 servings.

150 Expected To Register For Foodhandlers' School

Registration of at least 150 is expected for the annual Foodhandlers' School, to be conducted here May 4-8.

C. B. Breedlove, Austin, State Health Department instructor, will conduct the course which is sponsored jointly by the State Health Department and the local City-County Health Unit.

Classes will be held in Municipal Auditorium twice daily — at 10 a. m. and 2:30 p. m.

Lige Fox, sanitarian for the local health unit, is in charge of arrangements for the annual school.

All foodhandling personnel, whether they work in cafes, groceries, or other food-dispensing establishments, are required to attend the school if they have not previously enrolled for the training. Homemakers and other interested persons are urged to attend, said Fox.

The sanitarian also reminded that all temporary foodhandlers licenses, those granted recently to persons who have not attended the school, will expire on May 4 and that renewal will depend on successful completion of the training. There will be no charge for the instruction.

Managers and owners of all Big Spring businesses dispensing food to the public are being informed by mail of dates for the school. Requirements for the licensing of foodhandlers also are outlined in the notices.

In the letter, Fox points out that poor service may cause disease, in addition to turning customers away from a businessman's door. Benefits of safe foodhandling practices also are listed.

Teach Child Of World He Lives In, Doctor Says

A child may be as afraid of an alarm clock the first time he hears it go off as you are when you think you hear a burglar prowling around the house. Dr. Gelolo McHugh of Duke University reminds parents.

Dr. McHugh is a child behavior specialist. "How much your child leans on you for protection will depend on the way you teach him about the world he lives in," Dr. McHugh says.

"Warn him of any approaching new and sudden experience and tell him what it will be like if you can. For instance, when you and your small child are waiting for a train, show him what to expect and that you are not afraid by imitating noises the train will make when it rushes by the station platform."

Dr. McHugh says that many adults have forgotten much about their early childhood. They don't realize that a child's lack of experience places him in many strange situations that frighten him as much as strange adult situations would frighten his parents. "If you get a selfish enjoyment from having your child completely dependent on you, he will naturally come to believe that the world is not safe unless you are near," he continues.

Dr. McHugh is convinced that the best philosophy of child rearing is one that keeps mothers and fathers aware that life must be faced sooner or later. They must be alert to every chance to help a child learn to meet life as it is while he is still under their wise and understanding guidance.

"The degree of wisdom and understanding parents themselves have will naturally determine how well they can pass on a wisdom and understanding of the world to their children," he says. Your every day attitudes largely shape your child's emotional and social responses. For example, you have to be consistently on the side of what is fair and right if you are going to help his social growth, the child behavior expert believes. Junior won't respect other people's rights unless you respect his. He won't care about other people's "turns to talk" unless you give him his chance to be heard.

Foster Family Living Offers Children Tender Loving Care

One of the most effective prescriptions for growing babies is "T.L.C."

T.L.C., as you may know, means tender loving care, given continuously by both parents. There is no medical or social substitute for "mothering."

"Everything we know about the way children grow and develop tells us that, particularly in their early years, they need constant attention, affection and guidance to make them feel secure and happy in their daily lives," said Dr. Martha M. Elliot, Chief of the Children's Bureau.

"And we certainly know, now, this kind of affection cannot be given to children who, for one reason or another, are separated from their own parents, especially when they are put into institutions where sustained mothering by the same person is almost impossible to provide."

"The Children's Council of the Welfare Federation of Cleveland, Ohio, recently reiterated this position. In a policy statement, the Council declared: 'It is generally conceded that the institution should not be used for children under five years of age, with a very few exceptions such as children with physical ailments needing constant hospital care, children with mental troubles requiring special custodial care, and children with extreme emotional disturbances requiring specialized treatment.'"

"The Council report went on to say: 'There are legitimate uses of institutions and group residences, but the rearing of young normal children in them is not one of them... The best substitute for an infant's own mother is a carefully selected foster mother who cares for the child as a good mother would in a normal family setting."

"The Council's statement has been widely circulated among welfare and child-caring agencies in Cleveland as well as to the public through newspapers, radio and other informational means.

"The very urgent need of children for love and affection clearly demonstrates the importance which foster family care is assuming throughout the country in planning for those children who have to be separated from their own homes."

"We have at least 175,000 dependent children throughout the nation being cared for in foster homes supervised by social agencies. More than half as many are being cared for in institutions for dependent children."

"Experience and research show us that children of pre-school age, away from their homes and given adequate physical care but little mothering may be retarded in their natural development and that some may express their lack of security through serious behavior problems, severe psychiatric disorders and inadequate development of intelligence."

"Since this much is known about human development, it is wasteful not to provide the warm foster family care which would prevent these disturbing changes."

"Child-caring agencies all over the country are certainly entitled to the community support when they seek to increase their supply of foster family homes."

Modern Women Scoff At Old Wives' Tales

By DAVID TAYLOR MARKE

Associated Press Newsfeatures Writer

If you are going to have a baby, don't swathe yourself in "old wives' tales" and superstitions about the possible harmful effects your actions might have on it. Just lead a healthy, normal physical and emotional life.

So says a pediatric nurse, Beulah France, in her new book, "How To Have A Happy Baby."

One of the first things your pediatrician will tell you, she says, is that heredity is decided at the very moment of conception. Whatever tendencies or characteristics your baby will inherit from either side of the family will be decreed unalterably at that moment.

Also, while fate seals the sex of the child at this time, too, it is the father's contribution to set the sex. That is why no man who knows his scientific facts will ever say: "My wife can't give me sons."

A common misconception held by many prospective parents is that the baby is actually a part of his mother's body at this time. On the contrary, says Nurse France:

"You are providing a safe, cosy place for him to grow in, but he is definitely a distinct entity. You are his hostess. He is your guest. While he lives and grows within you, you provide him with highly satisfactory surroundings... For you are furnishing the prenatal environment which is preparing him to live an independent life."

Since so much depends upon the prenatal care of your child, she says, what should you do to safeguard him?

First, consult a competent physician. Doing exactly as he says is the basis upon which you must build your motherhood.

Second, see your dentist. Have each tooth examined carefully. X-rayed, if he says so. The tiniest cavities must be filled. Spongy gums call for special treatment.

Pregnancy, contrary to an "old wives' tale," never need injure your teeth. Nor will it, if you do your duty by them.

Has anyone mentioned "marking" your baby? The old superstition was that if you were frightened, somehow, you'd find your baby born with strawberry or other marks. Science has shown this is not possible.

Have you been told not to look in the mirror? Another "old wives' tale."

Were you advised not to weigh yourself? Well, step on the scales often! Keep track of any gain. You should not add more than 14 or 20 pounds to your figure throughout the entire pregnancy period.

And don't think for a moment that all expectant mothers suffer from nausea. Not now, says. More than one-third of them never lose a meal. Modern science has taught them how to eat; and how to control their emotions.

Hospital Presents A Special Program For Baby's Parents

When a baby comes prematurely, his parents frequently don't know quite what to expect.

The baby's mother, deprived of having the newborn infant with her, because he must stay in an incubator, naturally will have a lot of questions about him.

Both parents, because of the baby's early coming, may not have had quite the time they may need to prepare themselves for parenthood.

Because they realized that the parents of premature infants, and the "premie" himself, are very special people, the Grace-New Haven Community Hospital in New Haven, Connecticut, has a special program to help parents become comfortable with their new baby.

The program starts as soon as the baby is born. Although the mother can't see her baby at first, his father can watch him in his incubator and be assured that he is getting good care.

The pediatrician comes each day to tell the mother how her baby is getting on, and to answer her questions about what he looks like. The father can see into the room where the baby is under care, and the nurse and doctor are glad to discuss his baby's progress with him.

But at the Connecticut hospital, it was felt that still another measure might be taken for mothers and fathers whose baby is born ahead of time.

During the relatively brief time that the mother is in the hospital, she may not think of all the questions which will occur to her after she goes home and waits for the time her baby may join her.

So group discussions are held for these parents. During each one, a doctor, a nurse and a medical social worker are on hand to answer questions, to describe what is known about prematurity, and to allay any fears the parents may have that their baby will not develop normally.

Parents who attend these groups also draw great reassurance from the other parents in the group who, through their own personal experiences, can report on how they have been getting along with their baby, who may be further along in his development.

Some of the questions which parents usually raise have to do with the possible danger of over-protecting the baby. They want to know why the baby was premature—whether anything they did caused its prematurity; they want to know a great deal about how long the baby will stay in the hospital, how rapidly he will grow, whether he will be normal.

As a part of this preparation for parents to be comfortable in caring for their baby the hospital

Baby's Crying Will Develop Into Speech

Baby's crying may not seem like much more than a lot of noise, but trained observers can recognize in it general patterns of pitch, intonation and color which will develop into speech.

These patterns begin to develop as early as the second week after birth. The baby's ability to spit and utter new notes becomes identifiable in the melodic pattern of his cry.

Speech is learned rather than inherited and a baby's learning starts almost immediately after birth.

That is why it's so important for parents to make the baby be at ease with words. They will find watching and helping the baby to talk in this way is one of the most fascinating experiences of life.

In the third week the baby's cry settles to a rhythmic character with detectable accents. These are the most essential elements of emotional speech and are of the utmost importance to the child's later life.

Parents should choose their words carefully and not indulge in overemphasis. They should talk in a completely free and uncomplicated manner. The importance of simplicity and ease has been proven repeatedly to be vital in normal development.

also arranges for a public health nurse to visit the home after the baby is strong enough to be taken there.

Those who have worked with the plan at the Grace-New Haven Hospital believe that one dividend of the discussions has been better care of premature infants, because the talks often lead to a more secure feeling on the part of parents.

Martin Chamber Banquet Slated Tuesday Night

STANTON, (SC)— Program has been completed for the annual Martin County Chamber of Commerce banquet to be held in the Stanton High School Gym Tuesday evening. Louis Throgmorton, Dallas insurance executive, will be the guest speaker.

Guests will be seated at 7:30 p. m., according to Mrs. Hila Weathers, Chamber of Commerce manager, with President S. W. Wheeler, presiding.

There will be group singing of "America" after which the invocation will be delivered by A. Ellmore Johnson, minister of the Church of Christ.

County Judge James McMorries will serve as master of ceremonies. Dinner will be served by the students of the home economics class under the direction of Mrs. Frances Graham. Dinner music will be played on the organ by Dick Smith and Clarence Eckert will present novelty numbers.

Mrs. Weathers will introduce the guests, following which Wheeler will deliver his retiring president's message. Outgoing officers and directors will be recognized and the new officers and directors introduced.

Cecil Bridges will present various awards given by the Chamber annually.

Mrs. Bob Halslip and James Biggs will give vocal numbers with Mrs. James Jones as accompanist.

The guest speaker will be introduced by Ralph Caton, and following Throgmorton's address the new president, who will not be elected by the directors until Tuesday morning, will be installed.

Mrs. Weathers says tickets are being sold faster than was anticipated. More than 200 persons are expected to attend. All the Chambers of Commerce in the area will be well represented, she said.

Two Local Students Get McMurry Honor

There's A More Equitable Way To Adjust Teachers' Salaries

The House of Representatives of the Texas Legislature has joined the Senate in advancing a measure to provide a $600 annual increase in school teachers' salaries, and there seems to be little doubt that the bill will be sent on to the Governor before long.

There remains only the small item of finding some $70,000,000 in additional revenues which this measure would cost the state in the next two years. Some new tax seems to be the only result.

The Legislature has yielded to strong pressure on this bill, and a great many conscientious citizens of Texas wonder if it follows the right course. The matter of some inequity in salary for teachers is hardly open to question, but the "omnibus" method certainly can be questioned. One basis for questioning it is that it seems to add no premium to long and meritorious service, since the veteran teacher who has devoted a full career in training children would be rewarded no more than the young college graduate who has just taken out a schoolroom job.

Another basis for questioning it is that merit seems to get no attention. One man who has had years in dealing closely with school operations puts it this way:

"You could raise some teachers $2,000 a year and they would be underpaid. Some of them are overpaid on what they get now."

In other words, is the teaching profession still to be handled on a sort of assembly-line basis, or should it be treated as a profession, where competent and inspired practitioners are rewarded in line with their efforts and results? Is teaching a job or a profession?

It would seem that, by and large, the school boards of Texas have reached a degree of understanding that they could be left some judgment in establishing salaries according to worth. Could not the Legislature establish a minimum-maximum scale—granting increases in line with conditions and the state's ability to pay—and permit adjustments according to professional standards?

Could not more emphasis be placed upon increment for competent and faithful service than for mere entrance and transitory attachment to the profession?

This admittedly would be difficult, but the whole problem is difficult. It takes more study than the pressure methods have permitted to date.

Lodge Wasting No Opportunities To Build Stable United Nations

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. — For those with faith in the United Nations idea, what has been happening in recent weeks is the sign of a new day. The agreement on a new secretary-general, the 60-to-0 vote in the General Assembly on the Korean issue, the new cordiality between East and West—all this is evidence that the worst troubles are in the past, with better times to come.

While this may be straining too hard for a silver lining, at least there is the hope that the present moment marks the end of the beginning. From here on out, if such a modest hope is justified, the United Nations can build on a sound foundation. It will fall into proper perspective with a clear realization of what it can and cannot do. In the birth phase over-eager friends pushed too hard in the direction of world salvation. In the past two or three years fanatical enemies have attributed all the ills of the universe to the infant organization.

The middle-road position is the one being staked out by the new head of the American delegation, Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., former senator from Massachusetts. With the rank of ambassador and an official embassy in the towers of the Waldorf-Astoria, Lodge is working hard to retrieve the reputation of the U. N. in American opinion and to carve out a useful place for it somewhere between the dream of the world salvationists and the dead end to which the old League of Nations finally came before World War II.

Lodge had a lot to do with the agreement on a secretary-general to replace Trygve Lie. He decided that it should be possible to win acceptance for a Swede, since Sweden was not a member of NATO. His first choice was Erik Boheman, Swedish ambassador to the United States and one of the ablest diplomats. When Boheman felt his obligations to his own country would not permit him to accept, Lodge was influential in the selection of Dag Hammarskjöld of Sweden, now installed as head of the Secretariat.

If the Russians had not accepted Hammarskjöld, Lodge was ready to take the choice before the General Assembly where the veto does not apply. He knew it would carry in the Assembly by a large majority. And this knowledge had a lot to do with the Soviet decision to go along.

One of Lodge's first acts as head of the American delegation was to reach an understanding with Attorney General Herbert Brownell. This covered the orderly investigation before a federal grand jury of charges of Communist infiltration among the American employes in the Secretariat. In December, shortly before Lodge took over, charges had been persistently leaked out of the grand jury and sensational headlines had hailed the exploits of Red hunters. That has been stopped since Brownell assigned a responsible prosecutor who is working closely with Lodge.

One reason why such an investigation became necessary was the haste with which the U. N. was put together in its beginning phase. The foreign offices of member countries were each asked to send their quota of employes to serve on the Secretariat. The temptation was too great. More often than not they sent problem individuals whom they wanted to unload. This has been one of the U. N.'s continuing handicaps.

There are, of course, many able and devoted men and women serving the world organization. Russia has always sent capable persons to fill the Soviet quota on the Secretariat. But it is significant, too, that the Russian quota has never been filled, indicating that Moscow doubts the usefulness of the U. N. as a basis for espionage. As Lodge explains to all congressional delegations, the U. N. never deals in classified material.

At about the time the levers on the Communist machine were shifted to signal peace rather than war or the threat of war, the Daily Worker here in New York printed a savage attack on Lodge. In a long list of sins charged against him, it was said that his family had engaged in the early clipper-ship days in the slave trade. This fable, which is untrue, by the Communists' weird logic helped to establish Lodge's bias against peoples of color.

A day or two later the Russian delegate, Andrei Vishinsky, challenged Lodge in the Assembly, telling him that the United States did not "have" Asia any longer. The American was quick to respond. He said that we did not want Asia in the sense Vishinsky implied. We wanted the peoples of Asia to be free to choose their own governments, which was more than Soviet Russia wanted. Lodge is wasting no opportunities in his effort to build a stable U. N.

Further, though the Reds kept hollering during the exchange about how "beaten and tattered" their reparations were, such outcries fooled nobody and the Reds knew it.

If only U. S. and Red observers witnessed the exchange, Red propaganda here might have proven effective to a degree. But with representatives from a wide number of nations on hand, including Red Cross people, Red charges fell flat. Moreover, these observers could see how Americans had been treated before U. S. officers could "snake-up" charges.

Since the aim of Red propaganda is to split the Allies, something else had to be done. Apparently, this something else, is an attempt to show Red generosity by "locating" more sick and wounded for release.

Sick And Wounded Prisoners Swapped; Pact Nations Asked To Keep Build-Up

By FRED GREENE
Some 605 Allied prisoners of war are on their way home this week and Communist leaders in Korea promised to release more sick and wounded captives. In exchange, 5,000 Red repatriates are back behind the "Bamboo Curtain."

The exchange went smoothly, but revelations about Communist handling of many Allied prisoners was not very nice.

Tortures, death marches and improper treatment were reported by many returning soldiers. One South Korean told how Communist captors climaxed their torture by hacking off all of his fingers—some with a saw.

In nearly every instance, United Nations repatriates reported other Allied sick and wounded remained in North Korean prison camps. These stories jibed with the surprise Allied reaction when Red officers initially reported they held only 605 disabled prisoners.

As a result, whatever propaganda value the enemy may have hoped to secure through the exchange went out of the window. In order to recover lost prestige they had to release all American and Allied prisoners of war in the sick and wounded category.

This would, the Reds may be figuring, mollify the American people to some extent and perhaps lure them into some form of false security.

Furthermore, though the Reds kept hollering during the exchange about how "beaten and tattered" their reparations were, such outcries fooled nobody and the Reds knew it.

If only U. S. and Red observers witnessed the exchange, Red propaganda here might have proven effective to a degree. But with representatives from a wide number of nations on hand, including Red Cross people, Red charges fell flat. Moreover, these observers could see how Americans had been treated before U. S. officers could "snake-up" charges.

Since the aim of Red propaganda is to split the Allies, something else had to be done. Apparently, this something else, is an attempt to show Red generosity by "locating" more sick and wounded for release.

While not all Southern senators favor state control of the Tidelands area, many of them are for the bill and, for a change, find themselves on the receiving end of an obvious filibuster.

It used to be that northern legislators would tear out their hair when Southern gentlemen "filibus-tered" to death any civil rights measures. Now, the state Tidelands backers are feeling the gusty winds of Senate oratory and many of them now realize what filibusters really mean.

In any event, the die-hard opponents of state control are fighting a rear-guard losing action. But they have effectively bottled up the Administration's program inside the Senate. Sen. Taft, as a result, has said he may keep the Senate in session around-the-clock starting Monday.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur, apparently missing the glow of the Spotlight, hogged back into it this week by asserting that the U. S. should threaten to strike Red China as a means of forcing Russia to settle the Korean War "and all other pending global issues on equitable terms."

MacArthur, in a nutshell, is again foisting his already oft-repeated program upon the Administration. The apparent difference this time is that he has left out the blasts at Harry Truman for firing him.

However, former Secretary of the Army Frank Pace is the target this time. Mac admits an ammunition shortage, but tries to pin it on someone else, keeping up with the merry-go-round of accusations started when the Senate committee probing the ammo shortage began its deliberations.

MacArthur forgets, too, in his suggestion to threaten the Reds, that NATO, the Korean fight, and other defense preparations are, in themselves threats.

Furthermore, we now have a general, famed for his offensives, as President, so why not let him do the directing?

NEWS IN THE SPOTLIGHT:
The United Nations voted this week to conduct an impartial investigation of Communist germ warfare charges against the United States. The vote was 51-5 against the Soviet bloc against the probe. Surprisingly, they are against allowing the UN to see for itself what they allege the U.S. is doing. This is obviously because, they do not want to allow impartial probes behind Red lines. If they did, there would be no evidence linking this country with germ warfare.

Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich.) said reported foreign aid funds cuts improve prospects for a balanced budget and hastened tax cuts.

A probe of Red atrocities in Korea almost got underway in the Senate this week, but a promise by State and Defense Department officials to speed up collection of evidence put this investigation off for the time being.

Glasscock Farmers Set Tuesday Meet

GARDEN CITY — Pink bollworm control will be discussed at a meeting of cotton farmers in the St. Lawrence community of southern Glasscock County at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday.

County Agent Oliver Werst will be in charge. B. B. Badger, Big Spring, in charge of the Big Spring office for the bureau of entomology and plant quarantine, will lead the discussion.

Werst will discuss control of other cotton insects and give the latest information on insecticides, and touch briefly upon the cotton outlook for 1953-54. Movies and slides on the life cycles and damage done to cotton by various insects will be projected.

The meeting will be held at the St. Lawrence store and all farmers in the area are invited to attend.

My favorite Bible verse is I John 3:14. "We know that we have passed from death unto life, because we love the brethren." Here is the test of our salvation. It is a test of a lifetime. It is also a daily test. It is a test that one can set up as a motto at the beginning of his Christian experience. It is the test by which he may judge his salvation as he comes down to the evening of life.

Love is the essence of Christian experience. Love casteth out fear. Love never faileth. "But now abideth faith, hope, and love, these three; and the greatest of these is love."

If one is in doubt about his salvation he can test it by this text. If he does not love the brethren he can be sure of his need of redemption.

The love defined here transcends geographical boundaries, race, caste, social strata. It has no barriers.

A Discussion About Babies By One Nearer Their Age Bracket

The opinions contained in this and other articles in this column are solely those of the writers who sign them. They are not to be interpreted as necessarily reflecting the opinions of The Herald-Editor's Note.

Since this is National Baby Week, something ought to be said about babies. After all, nearly everybody was a baby once, and a lot of us still are.

I didn't feel that I could qualify for a discussion of any intelligence on babies, but I kept casting around until I could find somebody who could—and would—write about babies. This author is a very young friend of mine, below the teen-age level, who, in rather acute in his observations, he preferred to remain anonymous, for fear some of his pals would think he was a sissy, writing stuff to be put into print, but I pass along his composition:

"Babies are always littler than other people, especially when they are first born. They are also noisier and messier."

"Babies do not come from under a cabbage leaf, although some grown people think they do. And storks don't bring them any more. At least my Father said the only thing left in West Texas that could bring a baby would be a sand hill crane."

"Babies really come from those tent things they have at the hospital. I was in a hospital once and saw those tent things, and down the hall I saw a bunch of babies."

"Those tent things have some knobs and handles on them, and I guess the way you turn the handle is the way you get boy babies or girlbabies. Some families seem to get mixed up on the knobs. Or maybe it is the doctors that get mixed up, but my Father said he never heard of a doctor getting mixed up on the bit."

My Father says if you want for tax deductions, a baby positively would not be worth the expense, and sometimes he doubted if they were anyway. I don't know why he was looking at me when he said this. All I was doing was asking him a few questions for this composition on babies.

"That's another thing about babies. They don't know very much. About the only place they can get to learn anything, when they begin to get older, is to ask grown people. And the answers they get from grown people makes me wonder how a baby ever learns anything.

"Babies cause a kitchen to be awfully messed up. Their formula is in the ice box where there ought to be some ice cream, and their bottles are all over the cabinet where cookies ought to be. And their dummies are everywhere. If I lose my model plane and have to start looking for it, there is a good chance I will find it under a pile of dummies. My mother says this might be my fault, but I don't think it is. I left the model plane on the back porch first."

"I do not know why babies cry so much. I have tried pinching ours to get it, to hush, but that didn't seem to do any good. I have also heard my Father say 'Ye gods, won't that kid ever shut up!' But I don't think that did any good either. Mostly my Mother gives the baby a bottle, and this hushes it up. Babies sure do get to eat a lot."

"Grown people say that babies get cuter when they get a little older. But it seems to me they get to be more trouble, too. At least my Mother says our baby is getting big enough for me to look after, but this is not much fun. Kids ought not to have to look after babies. My Mother says I shouldn't touch it, and shouldn't do this, and shouldn't do that. I do not know how anybody can take care of a baby without doing something to it, at least once in awhile."

"Babies are no good, even when they get a little older, about helping fly model planes, and they are scared of dogs and things like that. It would be better if babies could be by themselves until they got big enough to play with older boys. They would be more fun then."

"My Father says they will grow up fast enough, not to worry, that they are growing faster than he can get clothes and shoes, now. But it seems kind of slow to me. Babies are better when they get to be children. But children don't always have it so easy, either! I started to ask my Father what about this, but he didn't seem to want to answer any more."

Humphrey Pits Faith In U. S. Against Another Depression

Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey's talk to the nation's publishers at the Associated Press luncheon was a command performance. He had put off hundreds of requests from banking organizations, manufacturing groups, civic associations. His stock answer was "not until fall — not until the Treasury's program is well under way." But this time Humphrey got his orders.

President Eisenhower also had an invitation to speak to the publishers. But he had scheduled a major address to the American Society of Newspaper Editors in Washington. He asked Humphrey to "take on" the publishers, while he, himself, "look on" the editors. The President wants to get his Cabinet officers out in the open. He wants people to meet and know the members of the new Washington team.

Once aboard the Waldorf-Astoria stratum, Humphrey wasted no time on stories or anecdotes. After a quick "Mr. Chairman and honored guests," he declared: "There is no reason to fear peace. We are not headed for depression."

Here was a strong man with a strong message. King Canute could not have ordered back the waves more sternly than Humphrey denounced economic adversity. And you got the feeling—as he spoke—that the waves of adversity wouldn't rock back Humphrey.

His talk was full of homespun positives: "Peace is what we are working and striving to attain... It was in peace that we grew strong and rich and accumulated the homes, plants, farms, mines, and transportation that saw us through two wars. It was wars that brought us debt and taxes and inflation."

"Why then, should anyone fear peace? The reason as I understand it is that some people fear for our economic position if... spending for defense is reduced. They fear a free economy devoted to the pursuits of peace. Such thinking is entirely unjustified. There will be readjustments, of course... But depression, No. We cannot preserve our way of life through another long, deep depression and we must never permit it to occur."

Humphrey then set forth the Eisenhower program. We must "bring our federal expenditures under control and at the earliest possible time balance them with our income... It is not too late if we are tough enough... Fear and indecision never make for efficiency. Haste makes waste. More defense for less money is perfectly practical and a possible accomplishment... Talk of a truce in Korea, or even an actual truce, will not have an early important influence on the rate of military spending."

"The reduction of taxes is one of the best guarantees we have against the fear of depression... If we return to the citizens as rapidly as possible the savings we make in government expenses, the people will have the money to spend for themselves in their own way what the government has been spending — or waiting for them... The scale of living for all the people will increase, the demand for production will continue, jobs will be plentiful, and everyone will be better off."

This was a stirring declaration of faith — in man, in free enterprise, in the greatness of America.

The speech sounded better than it read, Humphrey cast a spell over his audience. The reader's mind, though, was freer to ask questions: What if a recession did come? What would the government do to mitigate it?

The declaration that we "cannot preserve our way of life through another depression," was all the more reason to have plans. Humphrey has made one study and is making more on the susceptibility of the country to a post-defense depression. But he gave the impression of a man intent on stopping inflation and saving the dollar, without fully taking into account what he would do if he saved the dollar too well.

To preserve itself, free enterprise must know the limits of free enterprise. When business men don't invest — don't expand — and when unemployment results, then the government, the representative of all free enterprisers, must do what the individual free enterprisers, in their own self-interest, can't afford to do. The government must spend — on public works. That was the 1930-33 lesson—learned too late. Humphrey is as aware of it today as the most ardent New Dealer. But it would be helpful if he made New Dealers conscious of that awareness by saying it — out loud.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y. — Eighteen-year-old Mrs. John F. Cook gives her altar-bound friends a preview of their wedding by dressing up her miniature 7-inch dolls to duplicate the costumes of the wedding party.

The planning is complete down to flower girls, ring bearer and preacher. She sews the dresses of scraps of cloth and lace in the color to be used by the bridal party. Bits of tulle, caught by pieces of colored pipe cleaner, form the headdresses and veils. Her hobby is usually a feature at pre-nuptial showers.

Sunday Talk: Primordial Water

A reader has paid me a visit to talk about the Ice Ages. After learning where to locate me (something hard to do, since I travel a great deal) Mr. D. E. Hooker drove 25 miles to my present home, and we spent an hour going over the subject. With him Mr. Hooker brought a letter which he had composed to present his viewpoint. Here, in shortened form, is the substance of the letter:

"During each glacial period, ice enveloped the polar regions and extended several thousand miles toward the equator. There were millions of cubic miles of ice.

"The moisture which made the ice must have existed in the upper reaches of the air. Terrific heat would be needed to raise enough moisture from the ocean to supply the water for an ice sheet, and such heat would have destroyed life on earth."

"We know, however, that there was life before each glacial period, and this should make it clear that the water vapor was primordial. The water vapor must have been suspended above the earth for millions of years. When some of it fell as snow, it made the glaciers. Farther south it must have fallen as rain, making floods such as Noah's... A volume would be needed to expound the subject and answer the many questions which arise."

I agreed with part of what Mr. Hooker had to say, but suggested that the rise of each glacial sheet probably took several thousand years.

We have a constant rain-and-snow system on this earth. Millions of tons of water vapor rise from the ocean each day. Later this vapor falls as rain or snow.

If more snow falls in winter than melts the next summer, at a given place, and if this goes on for centuries, a glacier will rise at last.

With the snow packing down into ice, and with an average gain of only six inches of ice each winter, the mound of ice would rise to a height of about half a mile in 5,000 years.

Precision Bombing Record Run Up By Webb Instructor

A 100 per cent bomb and machinegun coverage—all direct hits—has brought a recommendation for the Distinguished Flying Cross to 1st Lt. Robert E. Railey, a jet pilot instructor at Webb AFB.

The lieutenant, who flew F-80 Shooting Stars in Korea, along with the other three ships in his flight, blasted troop concentrations and in doing so had every shell fired hit the mark. On another occasion Lt. Railey and his flight accounted for all the Communist bunkers confirmed by the Fifth Air Force for that day.

The dead-eye fighter pilots not only positively knocked out 12 bunkers but were credited with 20 KIAs (killed in action) on enemy troops. This sort of strafing and bombing is the type of work that F-80s have been excelling in.

Lt. Railey flew from one to three missions each day. He finished his required 100 sorties in 99 days, which is really flying a lot of hours in a short time. "We'd generally have an hour or so between missions. You'd take a rest and then head down to the flight line for combat briefing," said the lieutenant.

On strafing and bombing missions the flights would each be assigned 40-mile areas for the return run to the home-base. They were supposed to shoot anything up that moved in their sector—which would naturally be enemy terrain. As a result, their fuel consumption was a tremendous (they burn up to 15 gallons a minute) "I landed once when my gauge showed that I had a minus 30 gallons of fuel," said Railey laughing.

Lt. Railey cited the tremendous team work between the Air Force pilots. "I never once got shot at by MIGs, and the main reason was the top cover protection by F-86 Sabertails. Those guys are good," he added.

However, the man flying next to him wasn't so lucky. They were just beginning a mission and weren't more than 50 miles behind enemy lines. It was a completely cloudy day. "All of a sudden some radar-controlled anti-aircraft zeroed us in. The man flying 100 yards from me got 35 holes in his wing from a heavy artillery shell burst. It all turned out okay though—he just wheeled around and headed back for the base," Lt. Railey said.

The lieutenant is married to the former Vava A. Helbig of Oakland, Maryland. They have a 21-month-old daughter, Kathy Lynn. The Raileys are living at 1601-B Lexington Ave. in Big Spring.

Lt. Railey is currently assigned to Section II as a jet instructor. He received his commission through Officer Candidate School before joining the Aviation Cadet Program. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Railey of Oakland, Maryland.

ABC Club Meet Is Slated Here

The 1954 district convention of the American Business Club will be held in Big Spring. It was announced by Jack Johnson, local president of the organization, at a luncheon held at the Settles Hotel Friday.

Date for the next convention have not been set. This year's district convention took place in Amarillo last week end.

Reports on this year's meeting were made by J. B. Apple, Roy Reeder, V. A. Whittington and Bill Younger, all of whom attended from here.

All voiced the opinion that the Amarillo convention was one of the best ever held by any convention city.

Reeder went into detail about what was done by Amarillo members to make the conclave an unqualified success.

Each member of the club will pay $1 monthly henceforth toward a convention fund, it was decided.

Johnson said the club had grossed $133.87 from sales of concessions at the recent roping held here. Amount of expenses was not immediately determined.

Roy Phillips was introduced as a new member and given an ABC pin.

Charges U. S. Lying

LONDON, April 25 (AP)—Moscow Radio charged today that the American press has spread tales of Communist atrocities in Korea either to complicate the present prisoner exchange or cover up U. S. massacres of Red prisoners.

Newspaper Ads Set A Record Volume In '52

NEW YORK.—National advertising volume in newspapers established a new all-time high of $526,000,000 in 1952. It was announced today by Stuart M. Chambers of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, chairman of the board of directors of the Bureau of Advertising, American Newspaper Publishers Association.

Chambers disclosed the official 1952 figure at the ANPA convention in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, where he delivered the keynote address at the Bureau's annual meeting, attended by 150 newspaper publishers from all parts of the country.

Pointing out that the figure covers only measurable national newspaper advertising, he noted that it does not include the many millions of dollars invested by national advertisers in cooperative space, which is paid for in part by distributors of dealers. Total newspaper advertising in 1952, he emphasized, has been estimated at $2,309,000,000, including national, co-op, retail and classified advertising.

The national figure for 1952, Chambers declared, "makes last year the seventh consecutive one in which newspapers have reached an all-time high in national advertising revenue. And it's the second straight year in which we've topped the half-billion mark. In 1951 the national total was $513,000,000. In 1950, $499,000,000. Our total advertising revenue, too, has moved along to new heights, exceeding the two billion level for the second year in a row.

The new highmark in national advertising, Chambers pointed out, more than doubles the $260,000,000 figure of 1949, which stood as a record for many years. It comes near doubling as well, the $270,000,000 scored in postwar 1946, which was hailed by the Bureau in its 1947 annual report as a great newspaper victory, but at the same time as merely "the first fruits of a harvest that stands ripe for still more productive reaping." (1946 was the first full year of the Bureau's sales expansion program.)

Pontiac

A GENERAL MOTORS MASTERPIECE

A Very Proud Car—At A Very Modest Price!

According to Webster, one of the important meanings of the word proud is this: "Worthy of admiration; deserving praise."

Obviously, that definition fits the 1953 Pontiac like a glove. Pontiac's distinctive Silver-Streak beauty is certainly worthy of admiration—and gets plenty of it everywhere. Pontiac's big-car roominess, its luxurious Body by Fisher, its smooth, easy-going ride—certainly these, too, are deserving of the praise they get. And when you sit behind the wheel and feel the effortless surge from Pontiac's famous power plant you'll know that you're driving a mighty proud performer.

As a matter of fact, the only modest thing about a Pontiac is its price—for this wonderful car which gives you the engineering quality and the best features of the costliest cars is priced just above the very lowest!

And when you're figuring price, be sure to remember Pontiac's remarkable re-sale value—the sure test of long-lasting quality. Why not come in and see how easily you, too, can become the proud owner of a new Pontiac?

HIGHLIGHTS OF PONTIAC QUALITY AND VALUE!

- Long 123-inch Wheelbase
- Exclusive Dual-Range Power Train* for Superb Performance
- Beautiful, Roomy, Luxurious Bodies by Fisher
- General Motors Lowest Priced Eight Powerful High-Compression Engine

Technicolor Western

Religious Emphasis

Jay Novello is shown above questioning his children in a scene from "The Miracle of Our Lady of Fatima," which plays at the Ritz Theatre Tuesday and Wednesday. The movie concerns an event in Fatima, Portugal, in 1917, which was hailed as a miracle. The three children above report that they have seen a vision in a field.

Off-Beat Mystery

Marie Windsor is cornered by two syndicate hoodlums in this scene from "The Narrow Margin," which plays at the State Theatre Tuesday and Wednesday. Also starred in the production are Charles McGraw and Jacqueline White. It concerns a girl who has to flee her home. She is followed and trapped on a train by two men who have been paid to kill her.

Diplomatic Take-Off

Ethel Merman and Donald O'Connor are shown above in a scene from "Call Me Madam," which shows at the Ritz today and Monday. The movie, in Technicolor, concerns mixed-up diplomatic relations between the United States and a make-believe European country. Miss Merman, the ambassador, and O'Connor, her publicity man, are partially responsible. Also helping to complicate matters are George Sanders and Vera-Ellen. It is a musical comedy.

Groucho Marx, Bill Bendix, Marie Wilson Star In Film

Groucho Marx, Marie Wilson and William Bendix combine their talents for the movie, "A Girl In Every Port," which is scheduled at the State Theatre today and Monday.

The comedy blends horse racing with two over-ripe Navy gobs and a blond car-hop to come out with a complete mix-up.

Trouble starts when Bendix purchases a race horse who turns out to have weak ankles. Groucho, the brains of the brains-and-brain combination, tries to pawn the animal off on someone else.

The two men reason it should be easy since they have sold motorless motors and parts of the Pacific Ocean. However, it seems that people are leery of buying the horse.

When they just about give up hope, they find that Miss Wilson, a car-hop, owns a twin to their nag. The twin does not have weak ankles.

They decide to enter Miss Wilson's horse in a big race under their horse's name. However, both horses are entered and somehow Marx and Bendix each ride one of them. The horses tie, are disqualified, and both lose their money. Their shipmates also lose their money on bets, and a chase ensues in which Marx and Bendix barely stay ahead of the sailors—and Miss Wilson.

Leatherneck Story To Play At Lyric

"Retreat, Hell!" which concerns the December 1950 withdrawal of the 1st Marine Division from North Korea, will play at the Lyric Theatre Tuesday and Wednesday.

It stars Frank Lovejoy, Richard Carlson and Anita Louise. Lovejoy and Carlson have parts as Leathernecks, and Anita Louise is seen as the wife waiting the return of her husband from Korea.

Gilbert Roland Stars In Film On Miracles

"Miracle of Our Lady of Fatima," produced in Warner Color, will be shown at the Ritz Theatre Tuesday and Wednesday. Starring Gilbert Roland and Susan Whitney, the movie gives an account of an event occurring in Fatima, Portugal, some 35 years ago. The event was hailed by thousands as a miracle. Roland plays an atheist who changes his belief as the result of visions seen by three children. Miss Whitney plays one of the children. The story opens when Miss Whitney and her two companions are in a field near Fatima. They see a vision and are told to be in the same spot five more times on the same day each month. In the visions they are told that World War I, then raging, will soon be over. They are also told there will be a World War II. The apparition predicts that Miss Whitney will live and the other two will die. Publicity of the visions spread, and when the last vision is due, thousands are on hand. They all see the sun descend rapidly toward the earth and then stop and return. This they termed the "revolving sun" phenomenon and a sign of a miracle. Roland lifts his voice with the others in a hymn of thanks and praise for the hailed miracle. Miss Whitney becomes a nun, and her two companions later die.

Hangman's Knot Playing Today

Southern troops fighting for survival even after the Civil War is the theme of "Hangman's Knot," scheduled today and Monday at the Lyric. The Technicolor production stars Randolph Scott, Donna Reed, Claude Jarman Jr. and Frank Faylen. Action opens on a Rebel ambush of Yankee troops escorting a gold shipment. After the Northern troops are killed and the gold taken, the Confederates find that the war has been over for a week. They realize no one will believe they did not know the war was over, and then try to flee the country. They are chased by "officers" who are strictly interested in the gold. Action centers on a stand made by the Rebel troop in a stagecoach station. The "vigilantes" surround them and succeed in killing the Rebels one by one. Miss Reed, a nurse, is in the cabin. Greed gets the best of those after the gold and they start killing each other. Only five are left alive at the end of the movie.

Ethel Merman Stars In 'Call Me Madam'

Irving Berlin's musical comedy hit, "Call Me Madam," which chucked up a two-year run on Broadway, will be shown in movie form at the Ritz today and Monday. Ethel Merman, who was the stage star, has the lead part. Co-stars include Donald O'Connor, Vera-Ellen, and George Sanders. The movie concerns slightly mixed-up diplomatic relations between a small European country and the United States. Miss Merman, O'Connor, Vera-Ellen and Sanders cause the mix up. Loaded with laughs, the picture is a musical all the way. Eleven of Irving Berlin's gayest tunes are played.

'The Lone Hand' Slated For Ritz

"The Lone Hand," story of a mysterious father and his young son, will show at the Ritz Theatre Thursday through Saturday. Joel McCrea, Barbara Hale, Alex Nicol and Jimmy Hunt are the featured players. McCrea and his son (Hunt) are shown in the opening scene going west to make a living on a rundown ranch. There McCrea meets Miss Hale and marries her. But his son sees McCrea robbing a stage coach one night and loses confidence in him. A Pinkerton detective is found dead on their ranch, and Miss Hale even becomes suspicious. Then the vigilantes start chasing McCrea, and everyone deserts him. A trick twist at the end of the movie restores his wife's and son's confidence in him, however.

5 Fly-Overs, Parade, Ball Game Planned For Armed Forces Day

Plans for a huge Armed Forces Day program here, Saturday, May 16, are being formulated by the Webb Air Force Base, local National Guard, armed forces reserve components and veterans organizations. All local civic organizations are being contacted and urged to back the observance to the utmost. A softball game between the Webb Dusters and a Big Spring team will open the events. The game will be played under lights at WAFB Friday night, May 15.

Saturday will see a gigantic parade through downtown Big Spring at 9 a. m. The parade, led by the 509th Air Force Band, will include Aviation cadets from Webb, units of the National Guard and possibly the American Legion, Naval Reserve and floats of local merchants.

The Air Base will be opened to the public at 10 a. m. An exhibition of flight performance and a helicopter demonstration are slated for 11 o'clock.

Numerous ground displays will be on hand, including: a Navy Grumman "Bear Cat" fighter, a Navy AD-1 Douglas torpedo bomber. Both will arrive from the Naval Air Station at Corpus Christi. In addition there will be a T-28 navigational trainer from Harlingen AFB and an H-3 helicopter from San Marcos. A B-26 "Invader" bomber will be flown in from Vance AFB, Okla.

Five separate flyovers by B-25 "Mitchell" bombers, T-33 jet trainers, B-29 heavy bombers and T-28 trainers will highlight the displays.

Other displays on the base will include National Guard battle equipment, parachutes, fire fighting equipment, cut-away T-28's and control equipment. All Air Force equipment will be tagged with the cost of the equipment and vital statistics.

The 509th Air Force Band will hold a continuous concert, except for lunch hour, from 11 a. m. until 3:30 p. m. The band is also slated to play in concert for the public in the amphitheatre at City Park Sunday, May 17 from 3 until 4:30 p. m.

As in previous years, main activities of Armed Forces Day will function mainly at state and local levels, with particular emphasis on developing community programs which will promote public awareness of relationship between the armed forces and all other elements of American life.

Pasture Leasing In Kansas Down A Bit

By FRANKLIN REYNOLDS

The leasing of Bluestem pastures in Kansas has been less active this year than during the past two years, according to reports from Topeka, with only 84 per cent being leased up until April 1.

This compares with 97 per cent leased at the same time last year and 96 per cent leased as of April 1, 1951. Under the rule of the 10-year average (1942-51) an average of 85 per cent has been leased by April 1.

In some areas, according to information available, leasing is being delayed awaiting rains to replenish stock water supplies, and some owners are planning on light pasturing this year to permit recovery from the heavy grazing last year. Cattle had already started arriving three weeks ago, with the heavy movement underway now. Even though leasing is behind a year ago, the pastures will be well filled because more cattle were wintered in the area than during previous years due to the drought elsewhere.

Prospects for grass are moderately good. Topsoil moisture is sufficient to start grass. Subsoil moisture has been deficient in much of the area. Many streams have been low with tank supplies inadequate for stock needs in some pastures. Rainfall was light during the winter but above normal in March. In the closing days of March amounts up to two inches were received in some localities, which partially relieved subsoil moisture deficiencies and replenished water in many tanks. In the southern part of the Flint Hills country grasses got an early start due to warm weather about the middle of March. Cooler weather slowed further development. Pastures were grazed very closely last fall and very little old grass remained, with the result that very little burning was done this spring. The condition of pasture feed on April 1 was reported at 77 per cent, the lowest for the area since 1940, and comparing with 96 per cent last year and the 10-year average of 94 per cent.

Lease prices are sharply lower than last year's record prices but higher than in the earlier years. In most cases prices this year have been lower by from $4 to $6 per head. Most of the leases for aged steers were from $17 to $22 with the average $19.90.

Leases for cows were most from $20 to $27 with an average of $22.70. The combined average price for aged steers and cows this season was $12.25 compared with $27.75 last year, $19.41 for the 1951 season and $13 for the 1950 season.

Leases for young cattle ranged from $12 to $18 and average $15.50 this year compared with $19.70 last season and $13.90 for the 1951 season. Acreage guarantees are slightly higher than last year and mostly range from four to six acres for steers and cows and three or four acres for young cattle for the season. Pasture leased on a per acre basis averaged $3.90 per acre this year compared with $4.80 last year.

Farm Hands Are Sought By TEC

The "wanted men" list was topped this week with requests for farm hands, according to Leon M. Kinney, manager of the Big Spring office of the Texas Employment Commission.

Kinney says that with some farmers already planting cotton and others planning on starting their planting tomorrow morning, the list of applications for farm hands is piling up.

"Most farmers want experienced men, that is men with general farm labor experience," Kinney explains. "Some of these requests include men with tractor experience."

Kinney also says there are some openings yet for Latin-American families to live on farms.

During the week, he reported, 353 office visits were listed, and 31 new applications for employment were received. Forty-nine persons were referred to jobs during the week and of these 29 were placed in employment.

Forty persons filed claims for unemployment compensation during the week.
