You have been worrying about the destiny of the world and an entire revolt of spiritual and moral belief and practice may be mistaken. "A little learning leads to atheism, while more learning leads to God," is as applicable now as in the past. More people are thinking than accepting the thoughts of the men that ever before. Strides are being made by them ever before and perhaps as it may seem, science, not long ago was accused of being a destroyer of faith in God, is leading the world with its tubes and powerful glasses, to the teaching of the Bible, more, offering proof of it's own science is reaching a point in its growth where but one action will suffice for the mystery of creation and that

The Literary Digest straw poll, as accurate in this instance as in the past, which it will likely do, a great burden will be lifted from the tax-payers by some simple plan in deciding who will govern our country. At this country used to need have been a five cent cigar now. Notice the display of tobacco and you will see that no one, but almost all manufacturers have heard of the country and made a five cent cigar.

It is highly probable that the value and the hard-to-get of the nickel has had a lot to do with it. I might supplant original statement and say that this country now needs good cigars for a nickel.

Dicken's Son Retires

Sir Henry F. Dickens, only surviving son of Charles Dickens, after serving 15 years as judge in Old Bailey, a national court in London, announced his retirement at 64.

From Lubbock Avalanche)
Floydada, Oct. 25.—Testimony in the murder trial of Mrs. Ruth Kane of Graham ended dramatically this afternoon when the defense closed its case without placing a witness on the stand.

At 5:15 the state rested its case against Mrs. Kane, on trial for the slaying of J. A. Cunningham, 74 year-old Motley county ranchman. A few minutes later the packed courtroom was stirred by the unusual strategy of the defense attorneys.

Arguments Open Today

Judge Kenneth Bain of 110th district court will charge the jury Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock, and arguments of attorneys will begin at once. The case probably will be in the hands of twelve jurors late Wednesday afternoon.

Cunningham's will, executed 10 days before he was killed, was presented by the state. The will named Mrs. Kane, his housekeeper, and left Mrs. Nettie Weatherholt of Los Angeles, Calif., his daughter, only $10. Mrs. Kane was named sole executrix, to serve without bond. It decreed there should be no probate, and that only an inventory and appraisal should be taken. The will was voided in the event Mrs. Kane ceased to serve as his housekeeper.

Had Interest in Ranch
Part of the rancher's estate is a one-half interest in a 1600-acre tract. The will, drawn April 15, was witnessed by G. E. Hamilton, one of the defendant's attorneys, and Miss Connie Ross Browning, a stenographer.

Judge Bain will charge the jury on the laws regarding principals, alibis, circumstantial evidence, murder with malice, and murder without malice and rights of a parent to defend a child against attack.

Case Circumstantial
The state's entire case was circumstantial. Carroll Evans, a tenant on the Cunningham ranch testified Mrs. Kane and her 15-year-old daughter asked him to crank their car after the slaying. Mrs. Kane, Evans said, told him the daughter "had killed a man while I was out of the house."

Mrs. Kane's first statement to officers was that the daughter killed Cunningham; later she confessed to the slaying, declaring she struck the aged man in defending the girl.

Others on the Stand
Other witnesses were Sterling Price, Motley county sheriff; Dr. A. C. Traweck, who examined Cunningham's wounds; Mrs. Carroll Evans; E. N. Jones, Paducah cattle-buyer; Marvin Pottern, officer of the Matador First National Bank, and Mrs. B. L. Robertson, a niece of Cunningham. Defense attorneys, headed by C. C. McDonald of Wichita Falls, closely examined the witnesses.

Cunningham was killed at his Motley county ranch home. He was struck several times on the head with an ax. Mrs. Kane surrendered the same day.

SOME FUNNY THINGS IN POLITICS

Henry Ford says he will support President Hoover in the general election for President. Mr. Ford stated that he supported President Wilson and that it is not a matter of a candidate being a Democrat or a Republican, but the man whom he feels will meet the needs of the times. Mr. Ford represents big interests in this country, and has been considered a Republican politically.

Senator LaFollette, of Wisconsin, says he will support Governor Roosevelt for President in the general election. He is a progressive Republican and states that Governor Roosevelt is the only Presidential candidate that will carry over the principles of the progressive thinking people. The Senator states the second great Republican leader came out in favor of Governor Roosevelt. The other is Senator George W. Norris, of Nebraska, who is a Progressive Republican, also.

President Hoover made his model address at Detroit Saturday evening. He spent much time telling why the Republican plans of the past three years have not brought relief, and gave as the chief reason that the Democrats got control of the House of Representatives last December. It is very probable His Excellency will find the Democrats in control of the rest of that business beginning March 4, next.

Ex-Governor Jim Ferguson made an address in an Antislavery other evening in which he admonished the Democrats to remember their party pledge and support the party from constable to president (including "Ma"). It is strange how the Governor's attitude on this subject changes under date of September 23, 1931. "You are an American citizen-free and independent, go to the polls and vote as you please regardless of whether or not you went into the Democratic party." But the Governor was in the American Party that year. Also, in 1922 he switched back into the Democratic party in order to run for United States Senator. However, he was defeated and would not support the nominee, Earle B. Mayfield, but went over and supported George E. B. Peddy the Independent candidate who was endorsed by the Republican party. But Ex-Governor Jim reserves the right to change his opinion whether or not he allows the voters of Texas the same privilege.

There is some difference in the sentiment of Ex-Governor Jim Ferguson and Mr. Roosevelt, the Democratic nominee for President in regard to party pledges. In an address last week Governor Roosevelt made this statement, "We should never put party above country, and even though we are extreme party men, if we are honest and patriotic, we necessarily want to have our party command the respect of honest people. . . . If our party is wrong, we perform a duty to our country when we criticize it. This sham slogan of party regularity is one of the greatest evils confronting our government."

STATE TO FIGHT GAS BOOTLEGGING

Determined to wipe out gasoline tax evasion in Texas, heads of several state departments have launched a concerted campaign, in which all of the state's enforcement authorities will participate, designed to make it impossible for the gasoline bootleggers longer to continue in business. Announcement of the drive followed a conference between state officials and a committee from the board of directors of the Texas Oil & Gas Conservation Association, representative of the whole oil industry, at which members of the committee stressed the urgent need for immediate, decisive action against organized bootleggers who are robbing the state and providing unfair competition for law-abiding marketers.

The necessity for concerted action against the gasoline tax evader, along with renewed activity against the illegal crude producer, was discussed at a recent meeting of the conservation group's directors. At that time one refiner pointed out that gasoline bootlegging, a vicious factor in the present gasoline marketing structure, goes hand in hand with outlaw crude takings. These two forms of law violation, he asserted, are equally dangerous at this time, not only undermining the oil industry but costing the state some millions of dollars annually in taxes.

Upon the state controller's department rests the responsibility for collecting the gasoline tax, but this department has been seriously handicapped through lack of man power, having only a handful of employees whose duty it is to check the state's scores of refineries, thousands of retail outlets and dozens of interstate highways in an effort to stem the flow of illegally marketed gasoline. Legitimate marketers naturally can not compete with a product sold at five cents under the established market and which, in addition, is in many cases refined from illegally produced crude, the latter representing a double loss to the state and additional unfavorable factor with which the industry has to contend. There can be but one solution to the situation, and that is complete elimination of it in the manner which the state now contemplates.

At the present time many hundreds of thousands of gallons of gasoline are being marketed daily in Texas without the payment to the state of the four-cent or to the federal government of the one-cent levy per gallon. Legitimate marketers naturally can not compete with a product sold at five cents under the established market and which, in addition, is in many cases refined from illegally produced crude, the latter representing a double loss to the state and additional unfavorable factor with which the industry has to contend. There can be but one solution to the situation, and that is complete elimination of it in the manner which the state now contemplates.

STUDENT CONTEST ON TUBERCULOSIS ESSAYS

Austin—Through the generosity of a member of its Board of Directors, the Texas Tuberculosis Association announces an essay writing contest for school children.

Two groups of prizes will be given for the best essays on tuberculosis. Prizes of fifteen, ten and five dollars will be awarded to winners of first, second and third place, respectively, in the sixth, seventh and eighth grades, and prizes in like amounts will go to winners in the ninth, tenth, eleventh and twelfth grades.

The subject of the essays will be "What Should a (mañs) Grade pupil Know About Tuberculosis?" The contest is open to all pupils from the sixth grade through high school in public, private and parochial schools of the state, except those living in the five largest cities. Local associations affiliated with the state association direct the tuberculosis work in those cities.

Judges for each county in the state will be appointed by the county superintendent of schools, or by the county council of parent-teachers associations and the best essays from each of the two grades groups in the county will be sent to the Texas Tuberculosis Association for final judging. Value of information in the essay will count 75% and English and style of writing for 25%. The contest will close March 1st, 1933.

Contestants may obtain information on the subject of tuberculosis from the Texas Tuberculosis Association at 700 Brasos St., Austin, or the Tuberculosis Sanatorium, Sanatorium, Texas.

The Spread of Power Is the Spread of Industry

What does it mean when electric power is disseminated widely over the countryside to small towns and hamlets? Such is the task that has been accomplished by the building of far-flung power lines in the past few years. What is its effect?

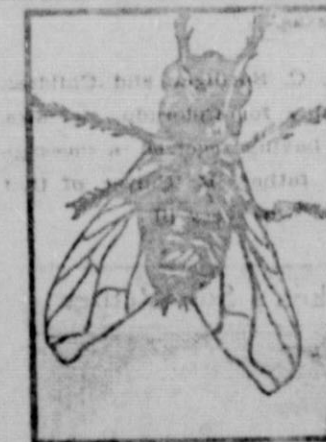

It means that industry can operate as efficiently in small communities as in the large cities. It means a better distribution of industrial activity, with an improvement of working conditions and a reduction in manufacturing costs.

Industry is following the power line to the small community . . . and here in West Texas, the "Land of Opportunity," the West Texas Utilities Company is leading industries to the 125 progressive cities and towns dependably served from its 2,500-mile transmission line network.

Do you know that your unimagined use of Electric Service is better than a surprise? . . . and adds only a small amount to your total bill.

W. O. W. MEMORIAL HOSPITAL SERVES LUNCHEON WITH PRODUCTS RAISED ON ITS OWN TEXAS FARM

Judge E. D. Henry Complimented by President Fraser for Fine Work.

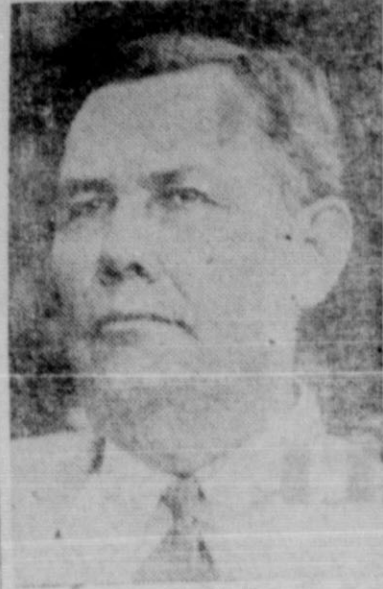

The nationally known Woodmen of the World Memorial Hospital at San Antonio has one of the finest farms in the state and is doing much to bring about a greater interest in farming and dairying according to President Fraser.

Judge E. D. Henry, prominent San Antonio citizen, is agricultural director of the hospital farm. He is also a member of the Agricultural Committee of the Chamber of Commerce.

Each month the agricultural committee discusses some phase of farming, and recently dairying was stressed. Those interested in dairying in Southwest Texas were invited to a meeting and luncheon at the W. O. W. Hospital. They visited the hospital and farm and the new, beautiful William Alexander Fraser chapel and bird sanctuary.

The luncheon consisted of stewed and fried rabbit, roast beef, tomatoes, potatoes, sweet peppers, beans, cottage cheese, bread, ice cream and milk, all products from the farm.

In a letter to Judge Henry, President Fraser complimented him and called attention to the fact that Woodmen of the World has a large insurance fund which is paid benefits during that year of more than $10,000,000.

Judge E. D. Henry

doing to promote its industry. He also paid tribute to the fine work of Dr. J. F. Koerth, medical director of the hospital, for the splendid results achieved in the treatment of tubercular patients.

Woodmen of the World has a fine record throughout the country. In its statement of June 1, 1932, it declares its assets to be $107,516,196.65, an increase of more than five million dollars over the previous year. Woodmen of the World wrote more than $41,000,000 insurance in 1931 and paid benefits during that year of more than $10,000,000.

Raises Bumper Sweet Potato Crop Here

F. L. Ferguson, bookkeeper at The Red Ball Gin perhaps holds the record on producing sweet potatoes in this section. Mr. Ferguson has harvested 175 bushels of exceptional quality potatoes on only one half acre of land this year.

Mr. Ferguson says that sweet potatoes are a crop which is almost certain to meet the expectations of the grower. The sandy soil around Roaring Springs is particularly adapted to the growth of sweet potatoes.

Texas Wool Industry

By W. E. TALBOT

Editor's Note—This is the second of a series of articles dealing with the possibilities of the wool industry in Texas. Colwell Taylor, marketing director of the Southern Industrial Development Bureau, is an acknowledged authority on the subject of industrialization in Texas.

Chicago, 1932, Southern Industrial Development Co. The question naturally arises: Why hasn't Texas developed the wool and mohair industry as it should?

There are a number of reasons which have led to our present lagging and underdevelopment. Most of them involve competition by those who wish to control this product for their own advantage.

We have been told by those of the East that the water of Texas is not suited to the proper washing of wool, that chemical treatment would involve an excessive cost. Yet, experiments have shown that the water of Texas is just as favorable and that the cost of treating is very small. In other words, to be brutally frank, we have been paying 15¢ a pound to have our wool washed in the East, and it has been shown that it can be properly washed in Texas for 2½¢ a pound. For instance, by James McDowell of New Braunfels.

New York business, if you can, how many times it is for us each year to ship to New England around 10,000,000 pounds of wool in its raw state. The freight on dirt and water is the heaviest part of the cost. When the wool is shipped to the East, there is a loss of 45 percent of all wool shipped to that end, and there is a loss of 10 percent on a commodity that is a washing waste and excessive cost.

Then consider the fact, also, that if this wool were washed here in Texas, we would retain this dirt and grease, which would give us the ingredients for soap and a cheap fertilizer that contains a high percentage of phosphorus and is badly needed for depleted soils in some sections of Texas. Then, also, by shipping this wool to be handled in the East the price of our product is placed in the hands of outsiders. As a matter of fact, our wool prices today are placed by Boston and London on the Liverpool market, with many of our wool export shipments. Wool is not a staple crop. There is only raised in the United States about half the amount needed for our consumption under normal conditions.

We have never had a proper adjustment of freight rates and help we should have had, simply because we have not asked for it nor made any effort to develop this industry. The railroads of Texas today would be benefited more by the distribution of the finished product originating in Texas. If we keep wool to other points for treatment, to give you an idea of the gigantic loss suffered by the Texas people, the $12,000,000 that we received last year had a value of $187,000,000 in New England when it went to the mills to be made into cloth, and before they had even started the manufacture of the finished product, according to James McDowell of New Braunfels.
