 to what owners say about the Silent Gas Refrigerator

Says Mrs. George S. Allison, Brady, Texas: "For seven and one-half years we have had a very large size Servel Electrolux. Words can't describe its convenience on a ranch, for milk, for storing a lamb or half a calf, or as much as twenty pounds of butter, eliminating unnecessary trips to town. We have saved more than enough food to pay for ours."
 "I have often kept vegetables garden-fresh more than two weeks," says Mrs. Joe Faircloth, Ranger, Texas. "Servel Electrolux cold is dependable!"
 "How our Servel Electrolux makes ice!" says Mrs. Jesse Croft, Swenson, Texas. "All last summer I furnished a quilting club of sixteen ladies with plenty of ice—regularly!"
 "I make ice cream almost every day," says Mrs. R. L. Milstead, Homlin, Texas. "It's so easy—and costs practically nothing in our Servel Electrolux."

Frank King Is Author Of New Book

LONGHORN TRAIL DRIVERS, Frank M. King, privately printed, de luxe edition, $5.00

This the first edition of Frank King's new book is limited to 400 copies and is just off the press.

Mr. King is a native Texan having been born in Ellis county almost seventy-seven years ago. A photograph of him as now is used for the frontpiece.

A map of all the recognized trails from 1866 to 1895 is shown on a double page spread. This is Col. Jack Potter's trail map prepared for him by A. C. Loveless of Clayton, New Mexico. It shows all of Texas where the trails all began, all of Kansas and Oklahoma, and most of New Mexico and Colorado, the trails passing up thru Nebraska and Wyoming.

The inside covers at the front show a double page sketch of a herd on the trail, this is by Harold Bugbee of Clarendon. The placement of riders, cattle, cook wagon and remuda are all correct, so the cowmen say.

Mr. King explains his motive for writing the book as a desire to preserve the accurate history of these men who rode the trails in the pioneer years and the accounts herein given are as told to him by the men themselves, by a relative, from research among histories, old documents and letters.

The author lived thru that period and did some trail work himself so the writing is also remembering for him.

There's a chapter about the cow and we learn all about the different types and when they came to America, date back to 1521. Similar history of the horse telling when and by whom these animals were brought to North America and going back to the sixth century for some of the details of horse history.

Jesse Chisholm for whom one of the old cattle trails was named and for whom a room in the museum at Bandera owned by J. Marvin Hunter, editor of the Frontier Times there, was dedicated two years ago as "Jesse Chisholm Hall," is given an entire chapter. The author states he is proud of his Cherokee blood—a quarter—and his relationship to Jesse Chisholm. So was the late beloved Will Rogers.

THE BOY who "HAS NO FUTURE"

He is an American boy.

There are fifteen million like him in America; as young, as eager, as promising.

Yet some people feel sorry for these boys. They tell us American frontiers are gone. They say there is no future for youth in this country.

Do you believe such statements? We people of your electric company don't believe them, and we'll tell you why:

Fifty years ago the electric industry had barely begun its existence. There were no automobile, radio and aviation industries. Coming right up to date, here are a few of the things we didn't have as recently as 1930:

Streamline trains. Transoceanic air service. New plastics and resins. Synthetic rubber. Synthetic vitamins. Sulfanilamide and sulfapyridine, drugs that are revolutionizing medicine.

There are always new frontiers and new futures in America. In good times and bad, Americans work to make the good things of life better and cheaper. The employees of your electric company are typical: their efforts have helped make it possible for this company to give far better service than it could give twelve or fifteen years ago, and to charge about half what was charged then.

The men of your electric company were once American boys. They believed in their own futures and the future of their country. They worked to make the future better for themselves and their fellow citizens. They hope today's young Americans will not listen to pessimism, because they know that every American has a future if he sincerely believes he has.

Careful Use Of Fireworks Is Advised

AUSTIN—Looking ahead to the approaching observance of the Fourth of July, Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, warns against the irresponsible use of fireworks and other explosives.

Dr. Cox pointed out that celebration of the Fourth of July has associated with it inevitable increase in hazards to life and limb. Auto accidents increase in added traffic congestion; an undue number of drownings occur, chiefly affecting non-swimmers in places lacking adequate safety supervision; and a great many injuries and not a few deaths are directly attributable to fireworks. The past several years have seen the introduction of municipal ordinances in certain cities designed to prevent the indiscriminate and intemperate use of fireworks, particularly the more dangerous types, and this has to some degree reduced the hazard associated with their general use.

Miller Gives Platform For U.S. Congress

E. T. "Dusty" Miller, prominent Amarillo attorney, the leading candidate in the race for Congress from the 18th District of Texas, said Monday in reference to his campaign, that he wished to bring to the people the following formal announcement.

"Twenty-four years have passed since I have prevailed upon the people to elect me to a public office, during which time I have carried on an extensive practice of law in the many courts of the Panhandle. Cases of various natures have been presented by me in practically every court in the Congressional District, many of them having been carried thru the higher courts. I believe that having represented well, over a period of 30 years, a long list of clients, both for and against the state, that I can equally as well represent the people of the Panhandle in Washington. It is also my firm belief that it is extremely important at this time, that the next Congressman be a man of ability, courage, sincerity, and possess the will to fight for the rights of everyone as well as for a few.

"I am not the candidate of or under obligation to any bloc, clique, or clan nor have any special interests contributed to my campaign. When I go to Congress it will be with clean hands, without strings or other impediments, and with the certain knowledge that I have conducted a clean but forceful campaign and I trust that I will not have incurred the ill will of any one be they friend or foe. I am not what one would call a wealthy man and for that reason will not conduct a campaigned resplendent with financial backing. I say that as a matter of record, and it is my desire that every one who votes for me may feel that he has had a vital part in sending to Washington, the best representation that can be had. I do not have just one campaign manager but every one who is interested in my winning this race is invited to act in that capacity.

"I believe in a defense program that will close the doors of the United States to aliens for such length of time as is deemed necessary to protect our every interest, and insure to America that democracy for which our forefathers so valiantly fought and died.

"We should have a strict censorship of all mails entering and leaving the United States. It is my opinion that Congress should resolve itself into a committee of one to investigate un-American activities, or at least give the Dies Committee unlimited powers to continue its work. The next step toward national defense should be the building of the largest air armada in the world, backed up with a land and sea force second to none. Keep them at home, but have them ready for any eventuality.

"The present farm program has been very beneficial to the people of the Panhandle and but for its existence, many hundreds of farmers would have been forced to surrender the right to own and operate land in this country. I favor its continuance notwithstanding the fact that there have been some mistakes made in connection with its operation, and these inequalities can be worked out. In connection with these inequalities high interest rates have been a contending factor and I have publicly stated that I favor a lower rate than has ever been possible for farm owners. Getting people back on the farms, diversification of their activities and the conservation of soil and water is of prime importance to the welfare of any nation.

"The people of Texas voted to pay the aged $15.00 per month which was to be matched by the Federal Government. They have not received even a substantial part of this and the inequalities of the various pension laws over the United States have induced me to advocate a uniform pension law. This law being controlled by the Federal Government, would guarantee any one over 65 years of age the right to receive direct from Washington, thru the post office, a check each month for $30.00. In other words the old age pension has been made a political football and should be taken out of state politics."

"Dusty" was born December 27, 1885, in Johnson County and at the age of four was moved with his family to Armstrong County where his father became the first postmaster and merchant in Claude. He received his college education at old Polytechnic College in Fort Worth, Texas University, and Washington and Lee University in Virginia, at which later institution he received his law degree in June 1907. That same summer he married Miss Agnes Brummet of Claude, moved to Amarillo immediately and began the active practice of law. Marvin Jones was his first law partner, this partnership continuing until they both announced for office in 1916. They were both successful, Mr. Jones becoming Congressman and Mr. Miller became District Attorney, this office being held by him for two terms, after which he voluntarily entered the private practice of law. Since that time "Dusty" has been actively engaged in the practice of law. Over a period of five years he has owned and operated a couple of farms in Randall County, and has become more than well acquainted with the many problems confronting the farmers of today.
