...are chained within the horizon
...surrounding a third-rate hotel or
...the veranda of a rooming house.
...haunting wistfulness follows
...the passerby like the pitiful eyes
...of a shivering dog pleading for a ...friendly word. But a liner does
...not touch driftwood until it is
...broken-up and bits of its exquisite
...carving is washed upon some
...distant shore.

Perhaps their reveries are

...thin and brittle; their dreams
...haunted by the mockery of high
...waters reflecting in tiny pools left
...by the tide.

...a blazing meteor which lashed the

...One hot, soggy night in Tampa

...limited experience in a country
...frequented by gallinippers. The ...larger ones, wedged in the screens,

...inside to bring a taste but they
...were too busy. Finally, I tied the ...sheets to the bed-posts and medi-

...From birth to obituary it has re-

Childress' wife declared while filing complaint against her husband, that he was wanted in a northern penitentiary, but investigation by the sheriff's department proved that the man had been released after completing his term.

Advise Trees Broken With Ice Be Pruned

All shade trees broken by the recent ice should be pruned immediately according to advice issued by Frank A. Buckley, county agent. In most broken trees the sap had already begun to rise, but the cold spell has slowed its progress and pruning should be done before the warm sunny days cause it to flow more profusely. Pruning should be completed by all means before the summer growth gets under way, and the sooner it is done, the less it will weaken the tree, Buckley stated.

Elements On Rampage For Winter Spell

Winter roared out of its retreat early Thursday following rain and snow which had fallen intermittently for several days and covered the Panhandle with a heavy coating of ice. Telephone and telegraph service as well as highway traffic was interrupted and trees throughout this territory were broken and in some instances destroyed by the excess weight frozen to branches. Almost every home in Matador suffered some damage to shade trees by the heavy sleet. Trees at the Methodist church and Traweck Hospital were greatly damaged.

Excellent Moisture

While the rains, sleet and a two inch snow which fell Sunday night, raised the total rainfall during the past week to 1.81 inches and increased the prospects for the coming year, cattle in some instances suffered from the severe weather. However, ranchers declared that the moisture will be of great aid to pasture lands and farmers are looking forward to an early spring.

YOUR MILEAGE MERCHANT ADVISES...
Try to have the two cars slightly "staggered"—not exactly in line with each other. This often helps if bumper lock, especially when the car with its bumper below can reach a drain or similar depression. Another way is for the car with its bumper on top to get up on a curb or "hump." All of that is "just in case."
Now ask the poor fellow who wants your help to get into HIGH. Tell him to keep his clutch pedal down, letting it come back gradually only after you get his car under way.
Do your pushing with your LOW gear. That's easiest on your car...for half a block. Then if the other fellow's car hasn't started, have him get into neutral and push him up to a nearby Mileage Merchant for Special Winter Blend Conoco Bronze like yours. That can't help but get him started... (the Mileage Merchant will know what to do if the battery has entirely given up the ghost). And then the rightest way to dodge further battery trouble, dangerous oil dilution—and embarrassment—is to make a point of getting sure-starting Conoco Bronze all winter! Continental Oil Co.

NEW HIGHWAY SURVEY MAPS AID PROGRESS

AUSTIN, Tex., Feb. 23.—Abandonment of the old "hunch and guess" system of planning highway transportation needs in favor of rational planning based on facts marks a major step forward in the highway construction field, according to an article by Charles E. Simons, editor in the February issue of Texas Parade.

and experts has been at work approximately two years gathering information from many sources and now are piecing together their voluminous data so that the highway planners of tomorrow will be able to draft a construction program that will be economical and meet road transportation needs.

"The work is a joint project between the Texas Highway Department and the Federal Bureau of Public Roads and was started in April 1936. It is under the direction of G. G. Edwards. The principal task of making a highway inventory was undertaken after engineers came to the conclusion that in many instances they were working blindly and haphazardly in their efforts to plan and construct a first class highway system. Too many times in this highly technical and practical field, engineers realized too late the error of certain practices, saw where they had built inadequately or had overbuilt. They recognized that the current system of highways had developed without regard for a wide variety of the highway transportation field and, like Topsy, 'had just grown up.'"

"The Highway Planning Survey is making maps of every county of Texas showing all existing cardinal and secondary roads. Along each route every farm, school, church, community center, industry was charted and shown on the basic map. It included the rivers that must be bridged, rural mail and school bus routes, the routes followed by railroads and airlines and the traffic over each highway. In short, the maps, when finished, will show the highway planners of tomorrow the need for roads through a certain area. They will have a picture of the existing transportation facilities. They will be able to determine on the basis of facts whether public convenience and necessity demands a road through a specified area and, from the information gathered, to decide the type of construction most feasible.

"Although the Texas survey still is far from complete and has not reached the stage where accurate conclusions may be drawn, the information gathered already has found a multiplicity of uses. A central Texas dairyman applied for a copy of one of the basic transportation maps to assist him in layout of milk routes. An engineering firm retained to plan a rural electrification program through several counties reported to the Planning Survey's basic maps to determine where the lines should be located. Many Chambers of Commerce have requested copies of maps for their territories, the Railroad Commission is using them extensively in connection with applications for truck permits; during the extensive maneuvers undertaken last summer by the Eighth Corps Area, Planning Survey maps found wide use; the Texas Adjutant General's Department has requested eight complete files of the maps for use in recruiting and mobilization. As the maps are complete and the information correlated, the maps will find other extensive military uses.

"When the survey is completed, Texas engineers will have a complete and comprehensive picture of this state's transportation system; the Federal Bureau of Public Roads will have a broad picture of the Nation's road layout. The state has profited in many ways already from the survey, but the full fruits will be realized when engineers have sifted through the maze of information and begin to apply the facts to planning the highway of tomorrow.

Baptist W. M. U. Circles Meet

The Sunshine Circle of the Baptist W. M. U. met Monday afternoon with Mrs. W. E. Reeves, with the chairman, in charge of the business session. Mrs. G. S. Craven read the 18th chapter of Acts for Scripture Reading, with Mrs. Scott Bolton leading the discussion in the lesson on "The New Why and How." A new member Mrs. C. R. Payne, was extended a welcome.

Those present were, Mesdames A. D. Burlison, G. S. Craven, Harry Carter, R. E. Campbell, C. R. Payne, Scott Bolton, W. E. Reeves, and Miss Verlin Reeves.

SANTA FE GOES TO STREAMLINE IN BIG TRAINS

The largest fleet of lightweight, streamline trains in the world was inaugurated by the Santa Fe Railroad on Washington's birthday anniversary, with departures from Chicago and Los Angeles of new Super Chiefs and El Capitan, the latter ultra-modern all-day streamliners.

These trains will maintain the fast running time of 39 and 44 hours established by the first Super Chief. El Capitan operated on a schedule similar to the Super Chief, and likewise operated on a bi-weekly schedule. Hereafter the Super Chief made one round trip a week.

The new trains depart from Chicago Tuesdays and Saturdays and from Los Angeles, Tuesdays and Fridays.

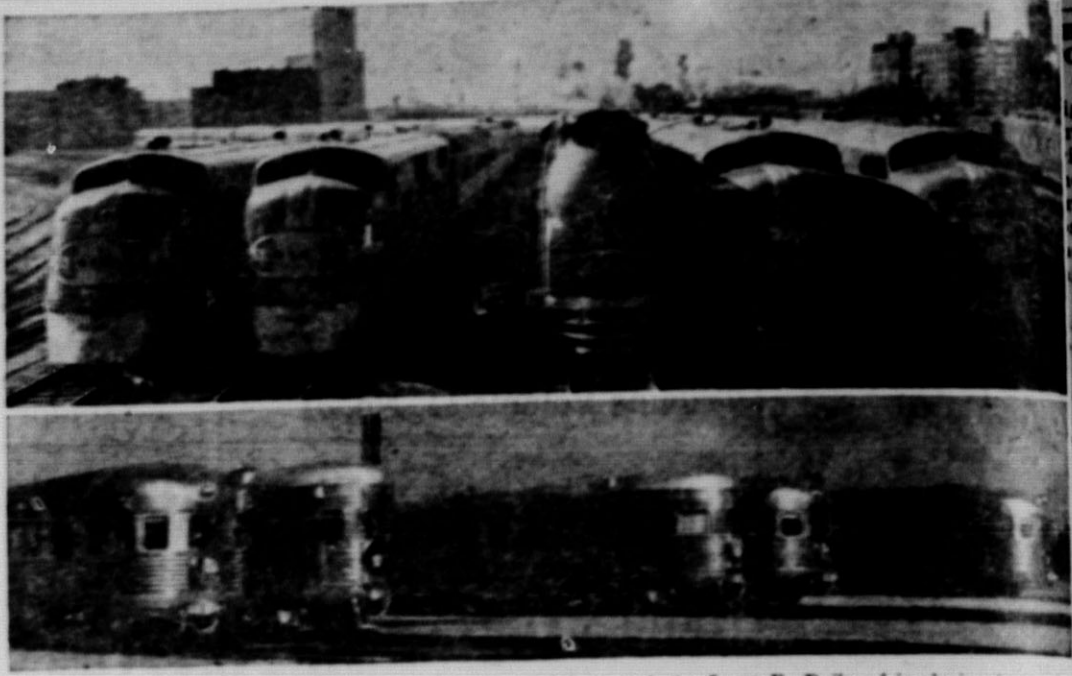

President Samuel T. Bledsoe announced that the addition of twelve new streamliners affords the Santa Fe a total of thirteen such trains, seven of them diesel drawn and a total of 151 lightweight steel cars.

Prior to service entry the Super Chief and El Capitan were on exhibition in several cities and attracted wide-spread attention and comment because of proposed service and novel but practical and comfortable appointments of the trains.

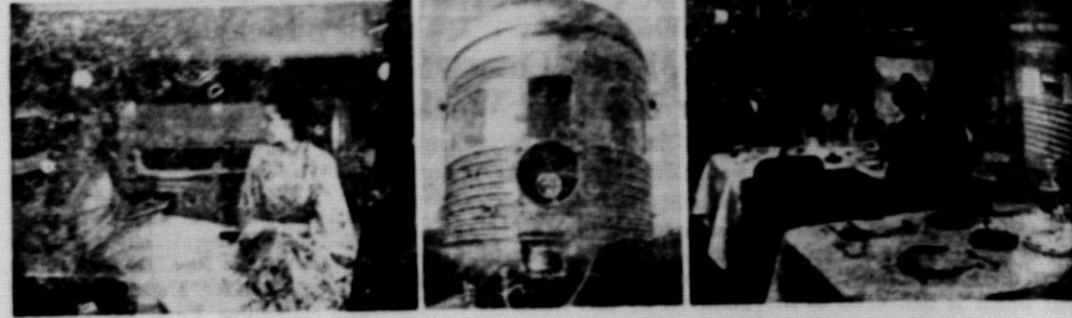

Addition of El Capitan is an innovation in long-distance travel as it is the only all-coach streamline train in the world covering a distance of 2226 miles in the fast time of 39 and three-quarters hours.

The regular daily Chief likewise appeared in streamline dress but will be drawn by powerful and speedy steam locomotives, which carry out streamline design.

New Streamliners for Western Travel

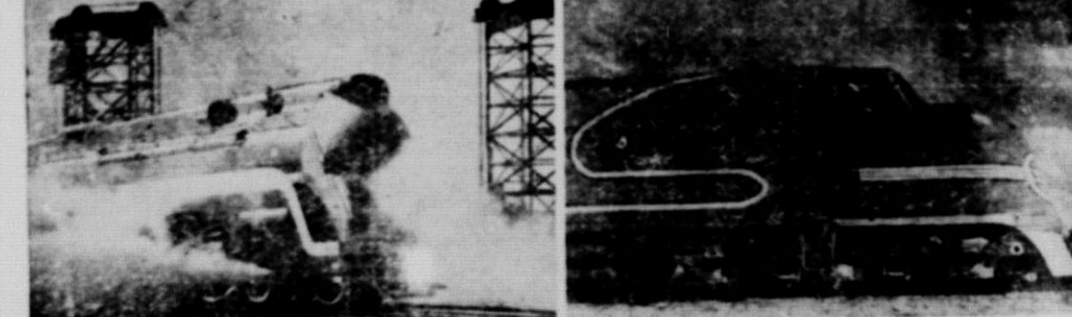

Five of the 13 racing new trains, streamlined in stainless steel, the Santa Fe Railroad is placing in service for California and Southwestern travel. The Super Chief, El Capitan, Chicagoan, Kansas Cityan, and San Diegan, flag bearers of this new fleet of trains, will be drawn by Diesel-electric locomotives; the famous Chief by giant Pacific type steam locomotives.

The cocktail-lounge, diner and observation car of the Super Chief are paneled in rare woods and decorated in the Navajo Indian motif.

The new El Capitan, 39 1/2 hour flyer between Chicago and Los Angeles, is unique because it is the only transcontinental train in America reserved exclusively for chair car passengers. It is equipped with deeply cushioned reclining chairs, broad windows, large dressing rooms and a lunch-counter diner.

kept for weeks and was used for cooling wines, fruits and fish that formed part of the Roman feasts. In the 16th century, a Venetian, Sanct Sanctorious, concocted a mixture of one-third salt and two-thirds snow by which he produced a temperature cold enough to freeze water.

It is said that Lord Frances bacon contracted the pneumonia of which he died while stuffing a fowl with snow to study the effects of such treatment. His last question was "Does the fowl still keep?" Thus developed the science of food preservation in its cruder stages.

"Nature herself took a hand," Mr. Pitts says, "by supplying cooler temperatures in springs, wells and cellars. These were used for a great many years and even today in some cases. However, the temperature is rarely below the 50-degree danger line which now is known to be necessary for safe food preservation."

The use of natural ice, he recalled, preceded development of the mechanical ice plant and electric refrigeration.

"The old-fashioned ice box went a long way toward making people more conscious of the need for food preservation," he opines. "It performed a real service in the past."

In 1880 a Chicago packing plant installed the first mechanical refrigeration equipment used by that industry, revolutionizing the whole system of feeding the people of this nation.

Electric refrigeration for the household followed.

"Do you remember how the old family bus of a decade or so ago looks today?" Mr. Pitts asks. "It cost three or four times as much to operate the old models as it does the streamlined machine nowadays. Well, the same is true of the old model refrigerators. But the new electric ones! Shucks, man! They give the women-folks year-round temperatures of 40 or 50 degrees for what it costs to smoke three cigarettes a day."

The 135-year-old bell which hangs in the Town House at Milford, N. H., was cast in 1802 by Paule Revere, and has sounded a death knell for every president but George Washington.

the subject to remain still so long. When a time exposure is made the camera must be rested on a table or other firm stand.

The subject in a mirror picture should not stand too far from the mirror, because that will make the reflection too far away and too small. Also, it may bring the subject so close to the camera that he is out of focus. With a fixed-focus camera which is not meant for use closer than six feet, the subject's back should be six feet from the lens when the picture is made.

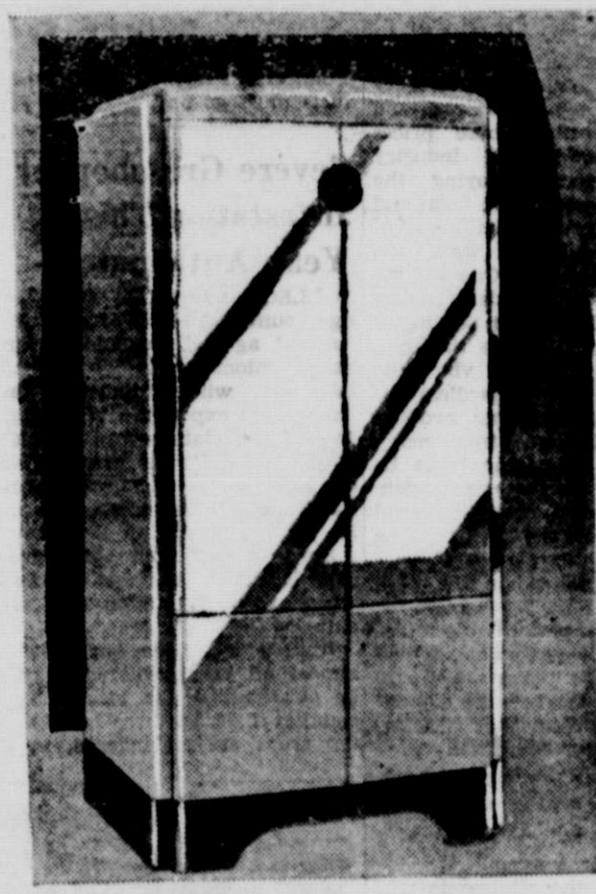

When using a focusing camera, remember that the reflection lies beyond the surface of the mirror. For instance, if the subject is three feet in front of the mirror, the reflection is three feet on the other side of the mirror. Hence, with the camera six feet from the mirror, the worker would focus at nine feet. Or, to get everything sharp, he could focus for six feet and use a very small lens opening which gives more "depth of focus."

If one has access to a dressing-table with a triple mirror, he can make four pictures in one—a back view of the subject, a full-face view, and two profiles. The two profiles are obtained by adjusting the side wings of the mirror to the proper reflecting angle.

Utilities Company, the first refrigeration was accomplished by filling shallow earthen dishes with water and covering them with sugar cane. This crude apparatus was then placed on a roof, where, exposed to the air currents or fanned by slaves, some of the water was evaporated during the night and with it went some of the heat. Loss of the heat left the remaining water considerably cooler. The chilled water was then placed around bottles of wine to cool them. Clever, eh?

FAMOUS SANBORN'S—

Sanborn's in Mexico City is internationally famous.

Its greatest claim to fame lies, not in its cuisine—although that is good, if not distinguished—but, in serving as a rendezvous for English-speaking people, who cannot converse in Spanish, or who prefer American food to unaccustomed Mexican cookery. Incidentally, some very smart Mexicans come here to eat, especially, on Sunday mornings after church.

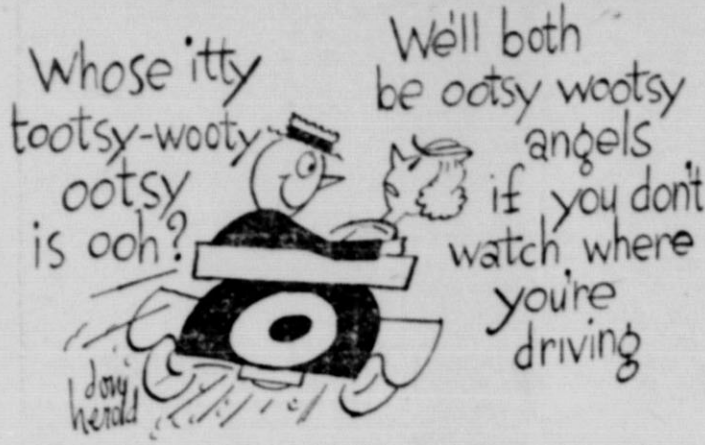

Sanborn's purveys other things beside food: Mexican novelties, art antiques, drugs and wearing apparel, but the restaurant part of it is its very heart and soul.

HOUSE OF TILES

Much history is associated with the House of Tiles which houses the present Sanborn's. It was originally built in the latter part of the 16th century, but has subsequently been altered and en-

Broken Glass and Dented Fenders

Here are some tid-bit items in regard to automobile accidents which I have picked up here and there.

The Soviet Government recently executed a hit-and-run driver by the firing squad method.

Well, why not? Murder is murder whether you commit it with a six-shooter revolver or a six-cylinder motor car.

Not long ago, in a Midwestern traffic court, a driver who had been involved in an automobile accident was brought before a judge. It developed that he had been drinking, that he had a glass eye and that his car had little or no braking power.

And I suppose he had one arm around a girl.

Warning horns are forbidden in Berlin; consequently drivers must keep a sharp lookout; the pedestrian death rate has been considerably reduced.

The horn-driver is still a menace in America.

A coupe going 60 miles an hour can turn over a 10-ton truck. The steering wheel probably goes through your chest. Well, to try it?

More than 100,000 accidents a year are directly charged to drivers asleep.

About 60 per cent of the "autocides" occur at night according to The Travelers Insurance Company, when there is only 25 per cent of the traffic on the roads.

When it's dark, crawl, brother, crawl!

A MEXICAN TAJ MAHAL—

Hardly has one stepped out of the door at Sanborn's, when a very striking object greets one's sight. It is a huge, marble edifice surmounted by three beautiful domes in hues of gold and reddish orange. The building was started 38 years ago and was intended to house only Grand Opera. It was only completed in the last few years at a cost of many millions of pesos. The musical and dramatic offerings one sees at this place now is below the plane of Grand Opera. The auditorium is quite small—purposely so—so that perfect acoustics might be obtained. The rest of this huge building is now devoted to painting.

I visited this building twice; once, during the day, for the Art Exhibit, the next time, to attend a play given in Spanish by the well-known Mexican actress Theresa Montoya.

SINKING SLOWLY—

At first this building was known as the National Theatre, but at present, it is known as the Palace of Fine Arts. It was designed by the noted Italian architect, Boari, and one of the finest structures of its kind in the world. However, it seems to be more suitable in an Italian environment than here in Mexico City. The body of the building is of concrete with a shell of marble encrusting it. Its great weight has caused it to sink more than four feet in the subsoil. Tons of cement have been added to the foundations but still it is slowly sinking in spite of it all. Huge groups of marble and bronze statuary that were formerly intended for the top of the edifice, were removed and placed on the ground in front of the building to lessen its weight.

As one enters the building a medley of chromatic hues obtrudes on the sight—reds, blues, greens, blacks, etc. The interior is of various colored marbles, onyx, alabaster, bronzes and many fine cabinet woods including the beautiful reddish-brown Mexican mahogany. The interior of the great domes, which are such a fine feature on the exterior, are of bright, turquoise blue. Although I saw all this, yet my mind was on something I did not see but about which I had read a great deal—the famous Tiffany Glass Curtain.

THE GREAT GLASS CURTAIN—

In every theatre one sees a curtain of some kind. It may be cheap, gaudy chromo advertisements plastered all along the sides, or it may be a handsome affair painted on canvas or asbestos, but here in Mexico City I saw the king of all theatre curtains made of glass. It weighs over a ton and especially installed machinery from Germany raises and lowers it. It was designed by the Mexican artist who calls himself "Dr. Atl" (a pseudonym) and it was executed by Tiffany's of New York at a cost approximating $500,000. It represents a huge window with large panes, through which one sees a magnificent Mexican landscape—the two famous volcanoes Popocatepetl and the Sleeping Woman (Iztaccihuatl). In the foreground one sees cacti, and flowering shrubs. Nor is this all. The lighting of this scene changes gradually merging the landscape under different aspects—starry night, dawn, high noon, late afternoon and twilight. These different effects are magnificent. As a theatre curtain this one has no equal, let alone a rival, it stands in a class all by itself.

SIDELIGHTS (By MARVIN JONES)

The new farm bill will be of much benefit to the great Southwest. That a farm program is desirable is manifest to every thinking person. Anyone with even a short memory can recall the days of five cent cotton and twenty cent wheat, ten cent corn and three cent cattle. These prices wrecked business and industry everywhere by destroying the purchasing power of the farm and ranch, thus causing millions of blameless people to walk the streets in idleness. One of the features that is especially desirable for the South and Southwest is the one which makes the payments to the farmers who conserve their soil regardless of whether there is actual production. Representatives from many sections wanted payments to be made only on actual production. Of course, such a program would have reduced the payments in drought years to almost nothing just at the time when they are most needed.
Fortunately we were able to retain in the bill as finally adopted a provision that payments should be earned by the acreage planted and the soil treatment, regardless of whether the land actually produced a crop during the year. This provision will mean millions in added benefits to the Panhandle and Southwestern area.
In addition, the allotments will be on the basis of needed acres rather than on the production.
Another feature that means much to our section is the provision for a range program. This has been so adjusted that it can apply to the non-crop lands and pasture lands on the small farms.
ROSE BUSHES—Beautify your home. "Say it with roses, but give her the bushes." World's famous 2-year-old field-grown, finest quality guaranteed, $1.85 for dozen postpaid. Another matter of prime importance is the provision for an effort to secure a better freight rate structure for farm products. There has been entirely too much discrimination against agricultural products in the freight rate schedules that have been approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission. Heretofore there has been no one whose business it was to see that these discriminations were removed and that proper adjustments were made so that a larger percentage of the ultimate price paid by the consumer would go to the producer.
Our section of the country has been peculiarly fortunate in that we have been able to secure in the farm bill a provision which takes care of droughts and crop failures and that we have also been able to secure provisions that protect in every practicable way the live stock producer as well as the farmer.

The question of the success of the measure will depend largely on the cooperation of the farmers and live stock producers in whose interest the legislation has been passed. They can do much to help make it a success and of course no measure can succeed without their support.
Amendments may be necessary from time to time but the movement for a square deal for the producers of farm and ranch products must go on.

Severe Grasshopper Infestation This Year Anticipated

COLLEGE STATION, Feb. 21.—Egg counts made by county agricultural agents and Federal and State entomologists during the fall and winter indicate that Texas may expect a severe grasshopper infestation in the late spring and early summer of 1938, according to R. R. Reppert, entomologist of the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service.
Surveys conducted by Reppert have led him to anticipate a much more severe infestation than was suffered in 1937.
In 9 counties, he expects that almost all susceptible crops will be attacked by the insects, in 7 counties half to three-fourths of the crops are endangered, in 17 counties the anticipated infestation will be from 30 to 50 percent, and in 48 counties the insects are expected to affect from 4 to 30 percent of the crop.

In addition, Reppert expects infestations of varying degrees in 23 counties in which complete surveys were not attempted. Major outbreaks are indicated in the upper Panhandle and in north central Texas, with probable damage in the middle valleys of the Brazos and Trinity rivers.
The control measure hinges upon putting out poisoned bait as the grasshoppers emerge, and before they have had time to spread and multiply, Reppert pointed out. The 1937 control returned more than 1400 dollars for each dollar saved crops valued at 6 million dollars.

It is estimated that probable need for 1400 bait in the 1938 control or approximately 1400 amount used in 1937, already been made for distribution, mixing, and application of this material.
Mrs. Theresa Grigg Paul calmly telephoned she saw a man's face from under her bed, arrest of Walter Rogers. Wanted for numerous Right through the seasons—on every farming operation, plowing, planting, cultivating, haying, harvesting, ing, feed grinding—you'll save time, labor, effort, with a John Deere Model A or B General Purpose Tractor. These are General Purpose Tractors in fact as well as name—adjustable rear wheels, 56 to 84 inches . . . individual wheel brakes for short turns . . . hydraulic power lift row, compact design for perfect vision in cultivating—roomy platform to enable you to stand as well as sit—speeds forward . . . straight-line draft in plowing—has been overlooked.

And, like all John Deere Tractors, they have the inner engine design that enables you to burn the fuels successfully at a big saving in dollars and cents.
