

TRAIL DUST

By DOUGLAS MEADOR

Herd of thirsty years have drunk from the little waterhole of childhood memory and the clattering hoofs of dreams are silenced. Raw wind whipped the dust about the team's fetlocks and my father's hands were drawn and blue. Each jolt of the wagon seemed to open new warmth on them as the mother rubbed my hands and breathed red sun shuddered and sank. The winding wagon ruts crossed a dry creek, then followed a narrow valley up the opposite side. At this point we could see the train and right-of-way in graceful curve. Black smoke studded with sparks blight gleamed from the engine and three coaches. The smoke rose and drifted toward distant blue ridges. At times it caught a few rays of sunlight, like a high cloud at twilight, then it was a black smudge on the horizon. My mother watched the smoke and held me tightly until I was warm; the sound of the wagon made me sleepy.

Two Test Rigs Seeking More Irrigation Water

Irrigation water, like oil, is where you find it and farmers in the Foothill country below the Cap Rock rim are becoming more irrigation conscious, according to S. J. Braselton, Roaring Springs implement dealer.

Two rotary drilling rigs are in the area this week putting down more test wells.

Braselton, who has urged the expansion of irrigation possibilities for the past five years, has "brought-in" 50 producers in the Alton, Turkey and Quitaque areas. Newest irrigation wells in the Gasoline community south of Quitaque where about 750 acres have gone under water during the past year.

FARM BUREAU SEES FARM DISASTER IN 1955 ALLOTMENTS

Severe and drastic hardships are in store for Texas farmers and ranchers because of many inequalities of the USDA diverted-acre ruling, as applied to 1955 allotments, according to Walter Hammond, president of the Texas Farm Bureau.

Mr. Hammond has been attempting to change the regulations before they become operative and threaten the entire farm program. Mr. Hammond is proposing that the bureau's acreage retirement plan be substituted, which would allow all farmers the same acreage reductions, percentage-wise.

The Farm Bureau is also attempting to secure permission for grain sorghums with 14% moisture content to be stored for loan, the same as is permitted for wheat.

A meeting on the two problems is scheduled Saturday in Lubbock, beginning at 10 AM in the Lubbock Hotel. Interested Motley county Bureau members and others concerned with agriculture problems are invited to attend. A group will leave the courthouse here at 8 AM to attend the meeting, according to Frank Price, secretary-treasurer of the Motley County Farm Bureau.

LADIES MANAGE LIONS MEETING

Any resemblance to seriousness during the Lions-PTA meeting held Thursday night on the high school campus, was not intentional. Within a few minutes after the meeting began, Boss Lion Whitworth turned the meeting over to Lionesses.

Lion Tamer Meason introduced new and re-elected members of the Matador schools faculty. By way of introduction Lion Rep. Elbert Reeves addressed the group of Lions and Ladies, and invited guests.

Lion J. E. Edwards showed an interesting film of the Lions Crippled Children's Camp at Kerrville. Following the picture, the group was served an abundance of ice-cold watermelon. Highlights and Sidelights FROM Your State CAPITOL

By VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association

AUSTIN, Texas—With the state Democratic convention out of the way, Texans interested in government and politics now turn their attention to the next regular session of the Legislature coming up in January.

As the lawmakers convene, their principal problem is likely to be raising new taxes, in the amount of $10 million to $15 million per year.

Governor Shivers has advocated spending $5 million more annually for mental and tubercular hospitals.

He also has recommended more spending to continue improvements in the state prison system.

And he favors a state water conservation program.

Money will also be called for to enlarge the highway patrol and to continue paying teacher salaries at the current rate.

Press Conference
In his first press conference since the run-off primary, the governor said that his re-election constituted a re-statement of Texas Independence.

To please Texas, the South and Southwest, the national Democratic Party must get back to the middle of the road, Shivers said.

Specifically, he recommended replacement of Stephen Mitchell, national Democratic committee chairman, with a "good, strong, middle of the road man."

It's Not Over
Not ended by the recent gubernatorial election is the long fight between the conservative and the liberal-loyalist Democrats of Texas.

Already preparations are being made for another struggle in 1956, when, as in 1952, the rival candidates in Texas may clash over issues in the presidential campaign.

In Austin as well as in many another city, the conservative forces are setting up a permanent organization to work between elections.

Letters will go out to workers at the precinct level, thanking them for their efforts.

Files will be kept for use as reference when the campaigning begins next time.

Labor organizations are also active in the interest of elections two years hence.

Sent out by the UAW-CIO headquarters to all local union leaders in the state was a letter saying "We must, of necessity, prepare ourselves to be able to present our candidate and the issues to each and every voter next time."

Expressed in the letter was regret that Ralph Yarborough, opposing Shivers for the chief executive's job, was defeated.

Campaign Strategy Planned
For many years, the continuous work done by the CIO has been recognized.

Union people work at politics the year round, whereas Texas conservatives have been, in the past, inclined to relax from the political wars between elections.

A significant development is the indication that the conservatives now plan to alter their strategy and try to insure another victory next time by keeping right on the job from now through the 1956 primaries.

Tribune, Matador, Matley County, Texas, Thursday, September 16, 1954

IT'S A FAIR PRIZE—A few of the several thousand prize ribbons which will be given at this year's Panhandle South Plains Fair in Lubbock make a colorful background for Sandra Casstevens, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Casstevens of Brownfield. Approximately 4,500 ribbons and banners will be given during the regional fair from September 27—Oct. 2. Fair officials pointed out that the attractive young blond is not one of the special awards.

One national columnist, commenting on the Texas election, remarked that the conservatives of this state have finally realized "that a political party cannot be captured by frontal assault. It must be captured by patient, quiet work at the precinct level."

Expenses Reported
Finally reported by both candidates were their expenses for the campaign.

Governor Shivers revealed a total cost of $285,121, with $242,087 in donations and no debts or loans outstanding.

Judge Yarborough reported that his campaign expenditures were $79,722, with $245,394 in gifts and $35,258 in debts outstanding.

Donors to Yarborough's campaign put in amounts ranging up to $10.00, while no individual contributor to Shivers' race gave more than $500, according to the reports.

Agency Reorganized

Re-organization in the Texas Education Agency's high officialdom came about as the result of the resignation of L. P. Sturgeon, associate commissioner of education, who will become public relations director for the Texas State Teachers Association.

Moving up in the agency will be Warren Hitt, who becomes deputy commissioner of education; Bascom Hayes, who will be assistant commissioner for instruction; and M. A. Browning, who becomes assistant commissioner for vocational education.

Dr. J. W. Edgar, commissioner of education, recommended the changes.

Also selected was a new superintendent for the Austin School for the Deaf: John F. Grace, who had been principal of Gallaudet School for the Deaf in St. Louis.

Grace succeeds Roy M. Steele, who moved to Colorado.

State Revenue Increased

In the fiscal year ended August 31, the State government took up $790,556,058, or nearly $55 million more than the total for the previous 12 months.

Biggest items in the state's budget are schools (about $255 million, up $26 million); welfare (about $158 million, up $20 million); and highways (about $162 million, up $5 million).

Accounting for much of the boost in revenue were increases in taxes on oil, natural gas, motor fuel, and franchises. There was an $18 million increase in federal aid for public welfare. Added to endowment funds was $28 million from mineral bonuses and royalties.

New products create 45,000 G-E jobs in the last nine years

And hundreds of new ideas are now being developed to keep employment high and help America live better

Tower of time cards shows jobs created by new G-E products. In a single pile, they'd reach 5 stories high.

One out of every five people working at General Electric owes his job to products G. E. didn't make before 1945.

Will coming years bring as much progress?

Actually, we believe there will be more. Many exciting possibilities are predictable as we learn how to make full use of atomic energy. Another important new development will be electronic machinery which will make work easier, production swifter—and create more jobs. New uses for gas turbines promise improved air, rail and ship transportation, and better power plants for industry. Research will make home appliances even more helpful.

All these fields—and many others—are so promising that we expect to produce more in the next ten years than in the bolls needed to make a pound. Final figure will give the approximate yield per acre in pounds of lint.

Tiny job maker. The G-E transistor, not much bigger than a pencil eraser, does the work of a full-size vacuum tube. It makes possible a wide variety of new electronic devices which will make your life more pleasant in the future and give employment to thousands of people.

Pallmeyer said another count will be made later to determine the number of small bolls and squares (previously counted) that indicate mature fruit, thereby making the test more accurate.

Editor's Note: This report is from Mr. Pallmeyer's figures, printed as a service to readers, and not intended to recommend or denounce any particular brand of cottonseed.

Interesting observation is that if the figures are accurate and all of Motley county had been planted in Deltapine 15 (280 pounds average of lint cotton per acre) the yield this year despite drought conditions would have been in excess of half a bale per acre.
