TRAIL DUST

By DOUGLAS MEADOR

A song always rises in my heart with the memory of a mellow evening long ago when three companions accompanied me to a train that would plunge into the darkness at exactly twelve o'clock. From the hours before we had drained every minute in visiting familiar haunts we gathered together; the corner drug store, the apartments of friends, the favorite cafe with its preferred fare. At the train there was song and laughter mixed with the odor of steam and oil, the restlessness of locomotives, and midnight came. Quickly they departed, the grip of their honest hands still clinging, their well-wishing voices fading as the lights outside my window began to move. For a time I lay in my dazed berth fully clothed and looked from my window as the night went by. The lights were seen, gone and the noise, save the groan of mighty engines, straining. Outside were shadowy mountains, dark canyons and moonlight with now and then a giant cactus against the sky as a carving on the portals of paradise. But in my heart was the booming of their voices, their laughter, and unmasked regret, while the reels within the soul were busy unwinding the fine silver rope that holds friendships through the miles and years. Perhaps the four of us shall not meet again and each of us must have known in that last rich hour that it would suffice until eternity.

Should I ever be commanded to stand with my back against a wall to face a firing squad, to die with the burning heat of rifles, I have always felt that I would make this request: that a band play "La Golondrina." When my soul had sopped up enough of the melody, they could take the bandages from my eyes—I would be ready. But possibly with that it would not be easy to die beautifully and courageously. I am certain that it would be equally as difficult to die with glamour as it is to live that way. At best it would be rather messy.

Nothing is more peaceful than the sound of cattle grazing at night. The steady, sullen movements of hoofs, heavy breathing and the breaking of brittle grass. The nocturne is completed by the screech of a windmill grinding leisurely in the distance as a phantom breeze pulls unwilling water from its cozy bed.

While my interests were not exactly religious, I used to enjoy hearing the evangelist, Aimee McPherson. It is only fair to admit that I fought my way with the clamorous thousands at the doors of Angelus Temple many Sunday evenings just to get as close as possible to a certain fair-haired Kansas girl who sang in the great choir of young women directly behind the Empress of Salvation. We would wig-wag little signals back and forth until the girl became interested in the choir leader and I turned my Sunday evenings into writing an essay on the futurity of life. But one part of those services have remained with me and that is the applause that would shake the artificial sky above the congregation when a point was gained from the pulpit. I still feel the old urge now and then when I agree with a preacher.

The younger generation of married men is certainly losing ground. A little observance will reveal that any time you see a woman chopping stove-wood it is almost certain she is not young enough to tint her finger-nails. If she belongs to the new school you will find a new ax in her hands, anyway. A little digging, too, about the cheapest ax you can buy is $1.25.

Motley County Over Quota In Red Cross Call

Worthy Cause Gets Full Support

Two Successful Years

Workers Are Guests of Lions Tues.

For the second successive year, Motley county went over the assigned Red Cross Roll Call quota in a drive recently completed, according to Roll Call Chairman, B. F. Tunnell, at the Matador Lions Club meeting held at the Methodist church basement Tuesday. Mr. Tunnell declared that the quota assigned for this county was 291 members with 224 purchasing memberships and one community in the county yet to make a report. Five ladies, Mrs. M. J. Kelly, Mrs. A. L. Fryar, Mrs. Clay Gilbert, Mrs. Miller and Miss Pearl Cammack, who worked the Matador district, were honor guests at the Lions meeting in recognition of their splendid work. Over half of the entire membership of the county was secured in Matador.

Mr. Tunnell, in an introduction of the honored guests, declared: "I have yet to bring any worth-while cause before the notice of the people of Matador without receiving absolute support. I have never known any community in which every citizen took the personal interest in every worthy cause as they do here."

The lion banquet, which was well prepared and served by the Methodist ladies, was well attended. Almost the entire membership of the club was present for the first meeting in the new year. The interesting program included a sing-song led by Lion Doss and special musical numbers by Lioness Rachel Patton, Mrs. Claud Groves and Miss Irene Knight. Lion Farris-Fish made an address on "Resolutions."

Former Lion, Knox Crews, of Plainview, was a guest at the meeting.

County Chapter For Old Age Pensions To Be Formed Here

A Motley County Chapter of the Texas Association for Old Age Pensions will be organized in Matador, Wednesday evening, January 9th at 7:30 o'clock, at the District Court Room in the courthouse, according to John R. Smith, West Texas chairman of the organization, who was in town Friday afternoon arranging for the meeting.

As pointed out by Smith, the Texas Association is interested in consolidating sentiment for this legislation in the state, and is not connected in any manner with any Federal plans that are being advanced at this time.

However, since high administration officials have said that any Federal legislation would be in cooperation with the state, and the belief of sponsors of this association that it is time the state put herself in a position to take advantage of any Federal plan that may be adopted, these county chapters are being set up all over the state, and are working for the submission of a constitutional amendment that will permit the state to set up machinery in conjunction with any Federal plan that may be passed.

At the meeting to be held here a permanent county chairman will be elected, and a permanent organization put in operation.

All persons sixty years of age or over are admitted to membership without charge of any kind. Everyone interested in seeing some form of assistance given to the aged people of this state are urged to be present.

ECONOMIST APPROVES WORK CENTER IDEA

COLLEGE STATION, Jan. 1.—The value of rural work center activities in which person now on relief rolls are enabled to manufacture simple articles needed in farm homes and exchange them for raw materials and foodstuffs was stressed by Dr. Mordecai Ezekiel, chief economic adviser to the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, Washington, D. C., who has been touring the Southwest talking to Extension and relief groups and visiting farm homes and relief agencies during December.

STUDY CLUB MEETS WED. AFTERNOON

Thirteen members of the Junior El Progreso Study Club met in the home of Mrs. R. E. Campbell, with Mrs. H. G. Stanford as hostess, Wednesday afternoon, January 2.

ness. They are in fact helping to raise standards of rural living and thereby creating a market for more finished manufactured goods," Dr. Ezekiel said.

Mrs. C. D. Davis of Roaring Springs underwent a tonsil operation in the Traweck hospital here Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Waybourne, Tuesday visitor in Matador.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Moore, former residents of Matador, but now of Grow, spent the holidays with friends and relatives here.

There has been an enormous increase of rural population during these bad years and that means an increased agricultural problem where the returned family goes into farming as an occupation.

Belief clients manufacturing simple household furniture, from lumber made at the work center, or leather articles from hides tanned there, or bedding from home grown cotton and wool, or adobe bricks or other building materials from local materials and exchanging the finished articles for food stuffs and raw materials for more articles are not to be regarded as competing with established business.

Dr. Ezekiel addressed A. & M. College faculty members at College Station on present plans and future problems in agricultural adjustment, relating them to domestic unemployment as well as to the world trade situation.

Response for the program—an operative star—proved very interesting as well as instructive. Officers for the ensuing two years, to assume the duties of their respective offices at the close of the last meeting in May were voted on, and elected as follows: president, Miss Lorene Fryar; first vice-president, Mrs. A. L. Jordan; second vice-president, Mrs. Floyd Bond; secretary-treasurer, Miss Mary Hamilton.

THE NEW FORD V-8 FOR 1935

NOW ON DISPLAY

A New Ford V-8 That Brings New Beauty, New Safety, and a New Kind of Riding Comfort Within Reach of Millions of People

The New Ford V-8 for 1935 is the biggest and roomiest Ford car ever built. It is a strikingly handsome car, with modern lines and new, luxurious appointments.

But most important of all it is especially designed to give you smooth, easy riding over all kinds of roads—a front-seat ride for back-seat riders.

This ease of riding is achieved by the use of three basic principles never before combined in a low-price car.

1. Correct distribution of car weight by moving engine and body forward eight and a half inches.

2. New location of seats by which the car seat is moved forward, toward the center of the car—away from the rear axle and away from the bumps.

3. New spring suspension which permits the use of longer, more flexible springs and increases the springbase to 10 inches.

The result is Center-Poise—which not only gives you a new riding comfort but adds to the stability of the car and its ease of handling. You can take curves with greater safety.

There are many new features in the Ford V-8 for 1935 which make the car still easier to drive. New brakes give more power for stopping quickly with far less foot pressure on the pedal.

ease of handling. You can take curves with greater safety.

There are many new features in the Ford V-8 for 1935 which make the car still easier to drive. New brakes give more power for stopping quickly with far less foot pressure on the pedal.

A new type of easy-pressure clutch employs centrifugal force to increase efficiency at higher speeds. New steering mechanism makes the car still easier to handle. New, wider, roomier seats.

The New Ford V-8 for 1935 retains the V-8 engine which has demonstrated its dependability and economy in the service of more than a million owners. There are refinements, but no change in

I got a goat for Christmas. Olin and I got out to ride him the other day but we couldn't. He pitched Olin the first time on the hard ground. Then I told Olin that I would ride him. Olin and I couldn't and I was determined to try it. I got on the goat and he pitched me in the stickers, and how they did stick! By that time Olin was ready to try it again. He got on and the goat pitched him in the stickers, too.

Olin got up saying, "If you want someone to ride that goat, do it yourself, I'm through!"

Dear Aurine:

The next time Johnnie comes to see you, please don't show her my kittens. The other day she came to see you she threw Kitty Lou up and pulled Tommie's tail almost out of joint. She slung poor little Blackey around till it made her sick and I had to put her to bed and give her some catnip tea.

So please, next time Johnnie comes to see you don't bring her near my kittens. If you do, I will scratch her eyes out.

Your loving cat, Snow Ball.
