Senator Robert Duncan discusses 78th Legislature

Funding for higher education among top goals

Lubbock -- Sen. Robert Duncan, R-Lubbock, said last week the legislative goals for West Texas in this statewide.

tight budget year should be to maintain funding for higher education, plan for water needs, and reform the state's system of judicial selection.

"Higher education is a critical investment in our future," Duncan said. "The good news is enrollment is up, the bad news is we have to pay for it."

Instead of asking for additional funds, higher education leaders should focus on protecting the resources they now enjoy. An expected budget shortfall will make ever dollar precious, Duncan said.

Evaluating future water needs is also important, both regionally and "We must look years ahead to determine what water resources will be necessary to balance the needs of rural areas with those of urban areas," Duncan said.

But to ensure the effectiveness of laws protecting water, investing in education or governing any number of important state issues, Texas must have a fair judiciary.

"A system of merit selection and retention elections would take the money out of this process," he said. "Until we fix this, tort reform issues will never be resolved."

"IF THE SHOE FITS?"

So, which shoe fits you?

There are few things more uncomfortable than trying to wear a pair of shoes that simply do not fit. On the other hand, there is nothing more frustrating than finding shoes in the style you've been looking for, but unable to find your size. Sometimes we try to squeeze into "shoes" that are the wrong size or the wrong style. So, what type of "shoe" really fits you -- spiritually speaking?

Are you a person who wears LOAFERS? Do you want to get by with doing as little as possible? Consider the rebuke given to the one talent man of Matthew 25:26.

Perhaps the SLIPPER is your shoe of choice. This fits the person who slips - in and out of services. He hopes he can slip by in life and then slip into Heaven.

Some people seem to enjoy wearing FLIP-FLOPS. This is a person who is faithful for a time and then falls away. It reminds me of the lukewarm person in Revelation 3:15.

Then there are those who enjoy wearing HIGH HEELS. This is the person who is haughty, proud and arrogant. The Bible sternly warns us against wearing such shoes as these. (Rom. 12-3; Psa. 101-

Those who prefer OVERSHOES are the ones who only use Christianity and the church in times of distress, then lays them aside when things get better. This is similar to the person who wears only SUN-DAY SHOES, and is a Christian on Sundays only.

The man who wears HOUSE SHOES wants things nice and com-

Oh, that everyone would find a pair of WORK SHOES to wear in service to the king. These are really the only shoes a Christian needs.

Neighborhood News

by Rita Groves

Old age carries with it many privileges, one of which is being able to stay at home. "You really should get out more," is easier said than done. Work has taken more space in my life than retirement. I started school with my older brother when I was five, because he should have someone with him. There were "bullies" and rattlesnakes, over eighty years ago, from which I should help furnish protection. The teacher in the little country school kept me in after school the first day because I couldn't read. Later there were miles to ride horseback to get to school. My father wanted to keep a small farm going; he thought it was a better place to keep children out of trouble. But he could buy more groceries with money he earned as a carpenter. The last existing ridgepole he set, is still straight.

The wonderful outdoor life may have contributed to the old age I enjoy. If my father caught his children sitting down on the job in the house, an instant older to "get up and let that couch air" came forth. One of my siblings with a sense of humor immediately dubbed the sofa the "cow chair." The twelve years before graduating from high school preceded the five rs used for getting a "higher" education. I worked for my room and board, earned a teacher's certificate, then there were no teaching jobs. Thinking to be able to settle down to being my own boss for awhile I persuaded Algie to marry me. I neglected to inquire about the orders that came with the acquisition of a cute four-year-old step-son. Then I added two more sons - not ready made, and that was a fam-

But I had earned 170 hours of higher education - the last time I counted. During teaching for twenty years, I looked-forward each spring to the end of school, and the nightmares I dealt with for fear I should need to spank one of the pupils I loved. I spread my talents over all the schools from Dickens, only 3 miles from where I was born, to Flomot which ended my career when the school was annexed by Matador. I had spent most of my summer vacations going to school to acquire some new certification demanded by the abandoning of the country schools.

Sometime after I reached age sixtyfive, I began to play a little golf and travel in a mobile home before I was called by a grandchild "to come see" in California.

This I had to see, and it took two and a half years, maybe the best years of my life. With no intermission, there were now four people that I felt responsible for other than myself. I taught twenty years, and loved the kids so well, that I had nightmares for fear I might have to spank one. I did all kinds of work except, I never learned to drive a tractor. I worried about the boys taking a car to college with them; now my only daughter-in-law is an expert co-pilot for a son. "Jeopardy" is my favorite TV show. You see the logic, I suppose.

I'm tough; I stay at home, enjoy keeping an orderly old house, watch a few favorite news programs, and keep in expensive touch with my less fortunate and younger relatives. I felt better while grieving at home. I wept for Grant Carlson, Charlie Keith, Kenny Abbott, Suzanne and Ken, and others. When I saw a phone number in the newspaper for Marge Edwards, I immediately picked up the phone and talked with her, and learned that our courtly Jake was having problems. Hang in there, Jake,

The holidays were great. I answered almost a hundred cards and letters. Pat, Kathy, and Cortney came for three days. Pat went to Floydada one day to check over and try out Gerald Pipkin's new plane. When they returned, Gerald looked like he might rather have had a fourwheeler. In which war did Gerald pilot planes? Granddaughter Cortney had just returned from her "semester abroad' where she tramped through France, taking pictures of the fantastic artwork in the beautiful old buildings, churches, and homes there - even the Coliseum and will go back to Willamette University, the oldest University west of the Mississippi, for her Junior Year where they call their caps "Rook Lids". She brought me a miniature Eiffel Tower. Her mother is driving her back for her Junior Year on Sunday.

We pray that all the people who are sick will walk carefully, and ask the Lord to walk with you, and He will!

ACREAGE REPORTING The 2002 Farm Bill placed the requirement to file crop acreage reports and all cropland in order to receive payments. Not only is it required to timely file acreage reports, but they must be accurate. The tolerance for a crop is the larger of 1.0 acre or 5% up or down. Farms have been spot-checked under this rule for 2002 and will continue through 2007. Farms that are randomly or required spot-check selections must be within the allowable tolerance for the

If the difference between the reported and determined acreage for a crop exceeds the allowable tolerance, (larger of 1.0 acre or 5%), the County Committee must determine if the producer made a good-faith effort. If good faith cannot be determined the producer will be ineligible for DCP, Loans, LDP's and NAP (this could affect other farms because of the unit structure).

County Committee to generally assume "good-faith."

This is a major change from the "Freedom to Farm" Bill that we just completed and it is very important that your crop reports are "accurate" and filed timely so a late-file fee will not have to be charged. The FSA Office offers producer's measurement service for a reasonable charge.

Any crop should be certified 15 days prior to grazing.

All Fall Seeded Small Grains should be reported by May 15. All Spring/Summer-seeded crops should be reported by July 15.

NEW RULES CALCULATING 2003 SKIP-ROW ACREAGE

Beginning with 2003 and future years if there is a skip between crops that creates idle land wider than 40 inches the area in excess of 40 inches will be considered out and computed as idle land. If the crop is planted in a skip row pattern or without a pat-tern of skipped rows, the entire acreage of the field may be considered devoted to the crop when the distance between rows of 40 inches or held in Spur on January 22 and 23, 2003. The workshop is sponsored by the Four Winds RC&D, Wes-Tex RC&D, and Big Country RC&D. The two day workshop will carry participants through general grant writing basics all the way to writing, editing and submitting applications for grant funds.

The two day training program will be instructed by Al Cogburn, a 29 year veteran in public education. Mr. Cogburn has hands on experience in managing block grants for amounts ranging from $250,000 to $1,000,000. Since 1990 he has written forty-three successful competitive federal, state, and foundation applications totaling more than seventeen million dollars. Mr. Cogburn is currently under contract with fifteen school districts and charter schools for special programs planning, implementation, and evaluation which includes grant writing. Al is also currently working with two Texas Counties on special programs and project planning, implementation, manage-

Numerous grant writing workshops have been offered in the area over the past several years. However, no grant writing workshops have been offered locally and none have tus.

A grant writing workshop will be been instructed by individuals with this much proven history of success. This is a rare opportunity and was made possible only through the combined efforts of three separate Resource Conservation and Development areas.

The workshop will be held at the South Plains Electric Cooperative just west of Spur on Farm Road 836. The two day program will begin each day at 9:00 a.m. and finish at 4:00 p.m. Pre-registration is $100.00, after January 15 it is $115.00. The registration fee covers only the course content. Each participant will be on his or her own for meals and lodging. The workshop is limited to the first 25 registered applicants. Lodging is available at the Spur Inn Bed & Breakfast in Spur at 806-271-3940, or the Double H Motel in Dickens at 806-
