TRAIL DUST

By DOUGLAS MEADOR

Realization is the ash after the flames of ambition have consumed the goal. The silver trumpet of hope becomes silent besides a furred standard that waved above courageous dreams. Achievement pays its warriors for conflict, in the yellow gold of satisfaction, and becomes bankrupt in victory. Wealth, power and position are but the decorations, as medals on the breast of an old soldier who would gladly exchange them for a new commission.

A single piece of clothing, a pair of patched and ragged overalls, allowed his little black body to be stretched by the conventions of a more exacting race. Society, after centuries, had managed to hang one precarious garment on his shoulders, but it could not check the flood of happiness that filled his small heart and eddied into two great brown eyes fastened on a lollipop. So very little—one penny—had saved the hurt of desire in his soul and granted possession to his hopes of a territory exceeding their original horizons.

The scales in the market of happiness vary according to the customers because a lollipop is enough for one while many bars of gold will not buy as much for another. Or perhaps, like potent wine, only a sip will fire the blood of a novice more than many quaffs to one who has frequented the cup.

Should destiny sanction that I be allowed to hear only one sound before the thundering drums of eternity, I should choose without hesitancy, the slow patter of rain. In it I would always hear flutes at evening; the mighty notes of a cathedral whose dome is the sky; a young mother singing to her child—a prayer.

There is no plaintive cry from the void of days and distance which rushes as a mad river between our lives, and that friend who gave me so much in the reach of my hand. He that did not make a copy for himself, but walked away empty handed. He hitched my single-tree behind stars and then deliberately tied his own wagon to the flying filly tail of certain fate. Rum guards the door of his desperate prison and each day builds the windows higher.

The heritage of romance belonging to the young is often looted by the calloused fingers of poverty and buried under the shifting sand dunes of necessity. The unmarked spot is lost forever when the faded map of hope and dreams is secreted by the miserly hand of circumstance. Sometimes the restless winds uncover a strange corroded chest in the barren path of age but too often it's contents can not be touched lest they crumble as thin old glass.

The infallible scissors of time clip the wings of youth and romance soars alone with frightened pinions into the shadowed sky of oblivion.

A fragile piece of bricabrae on the whatnot of memory is my mother standing in the kitchen door waving a white tea-towel as a wigwag message of noontime to be intercepted in the distant field. It seemed inevitable that I should always be starting out instead of returning to the end before I could unhitch my team and appease a perfect condition appetite. And in retrospect I can think of nothing that ever taxed the capacity of my alleged will power like rousing from a short nap to harness a team and hitch them up on a hot summer afternoon.

Beggars will cross the street to meet me after deciding I am not a competitor. Despite my best theatricalism to appear nonchalant and crusty, I am always stopped to be left after the parting

CROP PROSPECT LOOM WITH RAIN

Crop prospects in Motley county were greatly enhanced by rainfall which registered a total of 89 inch in Matador early Monday morning and Monday night. Although the vitally important show-ers were scattered over the county, their value to crops can hardly be estimated. Perhaps one of the greatest benefits derived was the lowering of the excessive temperature which had prevailed for several days. Much feed and some cotton in certain sections was suffering.

Rains Scattered
The rain which totaled a registration of 31 inch in Matador and beginning about four o'clock Monday morning, reached only a small area, according to reports. Flomot reported a good shower. The rain Monday night, totaling 68 inch in Matador, did not reach Roaring Springs south, while Spur in Dickens county, received a good rain. The fall was comparatively general east, reaching as far as Vernon.

BOB ALEXANDER APPOINTED FOR GYPSTER FIGHT

Childs County Representative To Acquaint Public With New Securities Act

AUSTIN, Aug. 9.—Secretary of State Gerald C. Mann has announced the appointment of Representative Bob Alexander of Childs, as chairman of an educational committee in Childs, Motley, Cottle and Hall Counties, to acquaint the public with the new Texas Securities Act passed by the 44th Legislature.

The new law was designed to protect, insofar as possible, the investing public from the deceptions of racketeers and gypsters in the Securities Field.

State License Required
Prior to the enactment of the new law conditions in Texas in the various Securities racketeers were described as deplorable. Secretary Mann asserted. Under the new law all dealers, salesmen and agents are required to be registered and licensed by the State. Permits may be revoked for fraud made in the sale of securities. Strict penal provisions were also written into the measure.

Representative Alexander was active in his support of the measure, and will be available for speaking engagements at the various civic and luncheon clubs of his district.

Immediately following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Graves left for their future home, which will be in Canyon. The Tribune extends congratulations.

New Texas Laws Are Now Effective

Rangers Now 'Intelligence Men' With Traditional Title And Attire

AUSTIN, Aug. 14.—More than 100 new Texas laws, foremost of which creates a state department of public safety, became effective Saturday, 90 days after adjournment of the 44th legislature.

The safety department, headed by a commission of three members, will combine Texas rangers and state highway police in a coordinated drive on crime. Commissioners are George W. Cottingham, Houston editor; Albert S. Johnson, Dallas lawyer, and Ernest Goens, Tyler lawyer.

The commissioners will select a state safety director and his assistant and establish headquarters for the department in Austin.

District Offices
District offices will be established later, and the new constabulary outfitted with the most modern anti-crime weapons. Radio, laboratories, up-to-date weapons, training schools, and an elaborate identification bureau will supplement the present methods.

Rangers will become "intelligence men," with the traditional title and western attire.

The board of pardons and paroles will move closer to their sphere of activity under a law authorizing a move from Austin to Huntsville for the board's headquarters. No move is planned immediately, however, since the office building at Huntsville is not yet completed.

"Jim Crow" Law
Bus passengers will notice an innovation. The "Jim Crow" law, to divide white and colored passengers, was made to cover bus travel also. Bus companies say the division will be similar to that now employed in trains and street cars. Tags will indicate colored passengers' seats in the rear of the vehicle.

Two new acts pertain to elections. One makes candidates for the legislature from large counties pay $50 ballot fee instead of the former $1. Another law requires all political advertisements to be signed.

Other laws provide for licensing of beauty parlors and funeral directors, keeping livestock off highways, requiring public school teachers to take an oath of allegiance, enlarging the number of nurses' training school, cancelling ad valorem taxes due prior to Dec. 31, 1919, and liberalizing bankrupt laws.

RECEIVE FREE BASKETS

Among the ten winners of the baskets of food given away last Saturday by Bob's Foodway on event of the store's formal opening, the following names were obtainable: Marvin English, Mrs. John Irwin, Elbert Fulfer, T. F. Payne, Mrs. Rosa Smith, P. C. Diggs, Mrs. G. D. Wolf, C. W. Whitaker and Mrs. Harry Carter.

Survey Shows Value Adjustment Program To County's Income

Over $125,000 More In Local Circulation Last Year

These cotton income figures do not include the value of unsold Bankhead certificates of which about nine million dollars' worth are held by Texas farmers.

Motley county cotton was valued on the farm at $624,442.00 in 1932. It increased sharply in 1933, the pre-war year, to $1,441,586.84, including benefit payments. These values are based upon yields and prices as furnished by the United States Department of Agriculture. The benefit payments include all those to April 30, 1935.

Commenting on Motley county cotton income for the last three years as revealed in these official figures, Mr. Buckley points out that crop insurance benefit payments for 1934-35 enabled farmers to survive a bad crop year. More than one hundred and twenty thousand dollars more was put into local circulation than would have been possible without a program. It is difficult to see how farmers could have maintained their farms and homes and remained customers of merchants last year without the program, he concludes.

ELECTED TUES.

Henry F. Pipkin, above, who was unanimously elected to the office of president of the Motley County Chamber of Commerce at a meeting held at the Texan Cafe, Tuesday.

Mr. Pipkin was elected to fill the vacancy resulting when former president Harry Willett moved from Matador to Brady, Texas several months ago.

Henry Pipkin To Place Helm Local Chamber Commerce

Civic Spirited Citizen Is Given Control Of Organization By Unanimous Vote Tuesday

Henry Pipkin, well known as one of Matador's most civic spirited citizens, was placed at the helm of the Motley County Chamber of Commerce by unanimous vote on the recommendation of Farris Fish chairman of the nominating committee, at the meeting of the organization held at the Texan Cafe Tuesday. Mr. Pipkin was elected to fill the place of president vacated by Harry Willett who moved from Matador to Brady, Texas several months ago.

Acting as chairman in the absence of a president, Mr. Pipkin seemed surprised at the report from the nominating committee and the immediate dispatch with which the voting was done. "I am honored," Mr. Pipkin said, "and I feel that there are others who are more capable of filling this office than I, but if it is your desire, I will do my very best to justify your confidence."

Small Attendance

One of the smallest attendances in the history of the club was present at the Tuesday meeting due to many members being out of town on vacation and business, and other active members unable to attend because of curtailment of help in the various business places while non-members are away on vacation.

Youth Victim Of Accidental Shot Big Spring Sun.

Relative Of Local Citizens Survives Auto Smash To Die By Accidental Shot From Gun

Aubrey Willie, 16, of Wichita Falls, was accidentally shot and killed at his uncle's ranch near Big Spring, Texas, Sunday afternoon. Young Willie had arrived at the ranch Saturday to recuperate from ill health following an automobile accident in Wichita Falls March 1 in which he was injured and Miss Frances Courtney was killed.

Willie was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl G. Willie, 1407 Monroe, Wichita Falls.

Hunting With Friend

The accident occurred while Willie and his friend, J. Lickey, 17, also of Wichita Falls, were hunting on a ranch 15 miles of Big Spring belonging to Willie's uncle, S. C. Fiske, the Associated Press reported.

Sunday the boys went hunting riding horseback with a small rifle strapped to Lickey's saddle. Lickey decided to rope a calf they found near a creek on the ranch. The boys were untying the gun from the saddle to give Lickey more freedom with his rope when the weapon was discharged.

Willie was killed almost instantly.

Recuperating on Ranch
Willie, a student in the Wichita Falls High school until last March when he suffered concussion of the brain in an automobile accident, had spent several weeks in the hospital and then gone to the West Texas ranch to regain his strength.

He would have been a senior in the high school here this fall. He was a member of the First Southern Presbyterian church.

Relatives Here
The deceased was a nephew of U. L. Willie of Matador, and A. B. McCaghren, who resides near Quitaque, both of whom attended the funeral, in addition to Mr. and Mrs. W. F. McCaghren, the former being a cousin.

TELL ME OF HEROES

Tell me tonight when I am down
And weary and undone,
Of some great man who struggled through
Such ill as this and won.
Tell me the story of a man
Whose courage was supreme,
Who went undaunted through defeat
Until he clasped his dream.
Tell me of some intrepid soul
Who would not let despair
Be master; tell me this and I,
Myself, again will dare
To hope and dream and try to win.
My faith will flame once more,
Rekindled at achievement's shine
From hero's treasure store.

"Alibi Ike"

Joe E. Brown is comin' to town in his biggest smash hit of the season, "Alibi Ike", a baseball thriller from beginning to end. Joe E. kinda steps out and steps into trouble but he has plenty of alibi and he uses them; whether the trouble be blondes or tough guys he alibis his way out and how! Does he win the "big game" or does he lose? Come and see for yourself this Friday and Saturday.

"Voodoo Vengeance", chapter six (instead of three) of Tarzan, the Fearless will be shown with "Alibi Ike" Friday and Saturday.

"Star of Midnight"

William Powell and Ginger Rogers together for the first time in RKO's "Star of Midnight", a baffling drama that will hold you spellbound while you burst with laughter and revel in romance, will be at the Rogue Sunday and Monday. What became of Mary Smith, masked stage favorite?

Frederic March, as Jean Valjean is too high-class, intelligent and good-looking a man to make the character ring true. Costelle, as a child, is not one's conception of an ill-nourished, mal-treated child she looks entirely too healthy and not scrawny enough to be at all convincing. The French priest, who was just a wonderful influence in the life of Jean Valjean seemed altogether too young. It remained, however, for Charles Laughton, as the impacable Nemesis of Valjean, Javert, to strike the right note and it is his work that leaves an unforgettable impression on your mind long after you have seen the picture. In all the field of literature, there is no more consistent character, than is Javert in Les Miserables.

Not to have read "Les Miserables" is to have left a large void in one's mental equipment. See it when it comes your way. It is very well worth your while, in spite of a few mis-castings and omissions. This is the fourth version I have seen of Hugo's masterpiece, two in French and two in English, and taken as a whole, it is by far the best.

Three things, at least, in the movies I have observed are never true to life—street scenes, theatre and boat scenes. In the street scenes, in the movies, the pedestrians never look into shop windows, never speak to one another. People pass by like in a dream—wholly oblivious to their surroundings. In the theatre scenes, men and women are always paired off—man and woman, man and woman. In real life one would see not only couples, but groups of men or women, singles, here and there a child and also a vacant seat at times. But in the movies the house is always sold out, no children are admitted, and every man has either a wife, or a sweetheart to take to the theatre. In boat scenes everyone on the steamer coming from Europe and docking at New York, knows everybody else. Everyone on deck and on the wharf are frantically waving—not so in reality. And the steamers that ply the Atlantic, in the movies are always loaded to the gunwales with flappers, without a bit of baggage, in reality people traveling first class are either middle-aged or elderly, the young people are in the great minority.

A business meeting followed in which the union of the societies was perfected. Mrs. H. K. Ford was elected general chairman, Mrs. L. F. Davis, general secretary and Miss Mary Jenkins, general treasurer. The last Tuesday in each month will be the general meeting time.

Delicious refreshments were served by the ladies of circle No. 1. There were twenty-two members present, Mrs. Stanley and Mrs. Clinton Hobbs coming in as new members of the Irene Eldridge circle.

The Irene Eldridge Circle met at the home of Mrs. J. R. Whitworth last Tuesday for a study of the minutes of the last annual conference and Council. Mrs. U. L. Willie, Vice-president, acted as chairman in the absence of the president, Mrs. F. O. Bond.

A delightful afternoon was spent by those present and delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses.

The next meeting will be held August 13, at the church for a Bible study lesson from "The Life and Letters of Paul."

HOLLYWOOD By Marshall Fiske

Publisher's note: This column is written especially for the Matador Tribune, and represents accurate information from the world's film capital. Comments of any nature will be appreciated by the author whose address is 1122 N. Edgemont Ave., Hollywood, California.

Miriam Hopkins should please the shade of Thackeray. She has made his immortal heroine, "Becky Sharp", come to life. And not only she, but all the rest of the characters in "Vanity Fair"—the novel without a hero—and its all shown in colors, too, an innovation, when it comes to a full length feature picture. I'm sure most of the Matador fans will like it.

"Les Miserables", that great French classic, will also come your way in time. The material contained within its covers is, of course, entirely too copious to be compressed into one evening's entertainment, and to do complete justice to the book. However in this picture, you will gain quite an adequate idea of the "high spots" in the story.

SIDELIGHTS by MARVIN JONES

The A. A. A. amendments as they passed the House of Representatives made provision for carrying on the agricultural adjustment program and for protecting the government against unnecessary suits.

These amendments passed the House more than a month ago. The Senate has adopted a number of changes and amendments, some of which should not be permitted to remain in the measure.

The Senate amendment permitting suits by processors to recover taxes paid, in the event processing taxes are held invalid by the Supreme Court, is too broad.

The processor has simply been the agent for the collection of these taxes, which have been written into the general price structure of the country.

If such suits are permitted, and recovery is had, the money should be placed in the custody of the Court as a trust fund.

The processor, at the most, should be allowed to recover no more than the tax which he has paid on stocks which he has on hand and unsold at the time the suit is instituted.

The wholesaler should be allowed to recover taxes paid on any stocks which he has on hand and unsold at such time.

The retailer and distributor should certainly be accorded the same privilege.

In fairness, the balance should go to the consumer who is the ultimate purchaser, but he probably could not be located.

No just man would deprive a citizen of his right to recover any taxes improperly paid by him. On the other hand, no reasonable man should ask to recover taxes which he has passed on.

It would be manifestly unfair to permit the processor to recover taxes on goods which he has already sold. At any rate, the processor should be requested to show conclusively that he neither took any part of it off the price paid to the farmer and that he did not pass any part of it on to the consumer.

We know that the processing tax was a definite factor in the price of all goods sold after such tax became effective. It remains a very definite factor in cost at this time, notwithstanding the fact that many manufacturers are withholding the tax in the hope that the Supreme Court may eventually declare it invalid.

It would create chaos to invite tens of thousands of suits to recover hundreds of millions of dollars when the processor was merely the agency through which these taxes were passed on to the general public. The government cannot allow this to become a racket by the processor for recovery of taxes which were really paid by the ultimate consumer.

Either the amendment should be eliminated entirely or modified so as to avoid the abuses which it invites.

The bill will now go to a joint conference group representing the House and the Senate, whose duty it will be to iron out the differences between the bill as it passed the House and as it passed the Senate.

I am very hopeful that we will be able to reach a proper agreement, as it is all-important that the farm program be continued.

Betty came running into the house and said: "Mother I want a nickel to give to a poor man."

Mother: "Where is he?"

Betty: "He's down on the corner selling ice cream cones."

Gertie: "Well, I found out where my hubby has been spending his evenings?"

Marie: "Blond or brunette?"

Gertie: "No, I simply stayed home last night, and there he was."

YOU DON'T HAVE TO "BREAK IN" THE FORD V-8

You can drive it 50 miles an hour the day you buy it

THE FORD V-8 is ready for normal driving when you buy it. There is no tedious period of breaking-in for 500 or 1000 miles. You can drive it up to 50 miles an hour the first day. And after the first hundred miles you can drive it as fast as you desire.

That means greater motoring enjoyment for every motorist. It is especially important to motorists who are thinking about a new car for a vacation trip—to physicians, salesmen and all those who use a car for business. Instead of dragging along at slow speeds for days, you can make good time from the start.

The reason for this is as important as the result. The Ford V-8 needs no breaking-in because of unusual accuracy in the manufacture of moving parts and the smoothness of bearing surfaces. Clearances are correct when you buy the car. It is not necessary to depend on a long wearing-in period to eliminate tightness and insure smooth running. Longer life, greater economy and better performance are bound to result from such precision methods. The Ford V-8 gives you fine-car construction, along with fine-car performance, comfort, safety and beauty.

A good cigarette, too needs Balance—

And that's why the tobaccos in Chesterfield are carefully balanced one against the other . . . not too much of one—not too little of another.

We take the right amounts of the right kinds of four types of tobacco—Bright, Burley, Maryland and Turkish.

It is this balancing of tobaccos that makes Chesterfields milder and makes them taste better.

Chesterfield... the cigarette that's Milder
Chesterfield... the cigarette that TASTES BETTER
