—The Editor
DALLAS, Aug. 5.—D. M. Jones, President, through Geo. B. Latham, Secretary of the Texas Taxpayers Association, announced today that an active campaign will be put on through the state organization in more than 200 counties in Texas, against the Old Age Pension Amendment. In discussing the amendments, Mr.

Latham stated:
"Another flood of amendments will greet the Texas taxpayers when they go to the polls on August 24th. Taken as a whole, this bunch of amendments is probably the worst ever submitted to the voters of this state.
Even in cases where the object of the amendment is meritorious, it is so drawn that friends of the purpose which the amendment seeks to accomplish will probably vote along with the enemies against the amendment because they feel that it is too indefinite to write into the Constitution.

Facts On One Amendment
"There is only one of the amendments to be voted on—and that is the repeal amendment—where the people will have adequate time to secure all the facts.
Of course, we have been discussing question of prohibition since 1887, and the people will go to the polls on August 24th and vote for or against this just as they have in the past; and the results probably will be close. But the remainder of these amendments all present new questions and the average voter who has to make a living is not going to have time between now and August 24th to study out all of the complicated problems involved, and he will likely, in the case of other amendments, scratch them all. The fact is that the prohibition question is a matter of such far-reaching importance that no other matter should have been submitted at the time.

$40,000,000 A Year Tax Burden
"One of the most dangerous of the group of amendments to be submitted is the one which will appear first on the ballot—the old age pension. In the form in which this amendment is drawn, the legislature could, if it saw fit, pay a pension to every man and woman in Texas—white or black—who has been a citizen of the state for five years, had managed to stay out of the penitentary and was not in a state institution. Now, if the voters adopt this amendment and then if the legislature should grant a pension to all who would be eligible under the provisions of this amendment, the cost would be more than forty million dollars a year to the taxpayers of this state. This is twice as much money as the legislature appropriated for the state government during the current year. It is easy to see what this would do to the average taxpayer in the state.

Not Properly Drawn
"Now if this amendment had been properly drawn so as to limit the payment of pensions to people 65 years of age who had no means of support and whose families were not able to support them, in this case there might be some merit to it, and the state might be able to work out some plan to finance it. But to undertake to start a state pension system where every session of the legislature could add thousands and possibly hundreds of thousands to the pension roll would result in putting the payment of pensions on a basis of politics rather than on a basis of need. An advocate of an equitable system of old age pensions should be just as much opposed to this as the opponents of the whole pension plan, because nothing would be gained by setting up a pension system which would bankrupt the state and lead to taxes which would confiscate property.

The School Book Amendment
"There is another amendment which, if it had been properly drawn, might have the approval of the people, but as submitted, it presents a most dangerous situation. I refer to the amendment which seeks to allow the state government to furnish textbooks to children within the scholastic age, who are attending religious and denominational schools. Of course, there is an objection to taking any of the taxpayers' money and paying it to sectarian schools. Many people say that if you start paying for the textbooks used in these schools you will finally destroy the fundamental idea in the Constitution of the complete separation of church and state. But there are some good arguments on every side of the question, and the people of the state might have given this amendment favorable consideration except for the fact that it apparently a joker was slipped into the amendment in the process of passage, the result of which is that if this amendment is adopted it will completely change the whole system of distributing public school funds in this state.

Danger To School System
"If you read the Constitution as it is now, you will see that the Constitution provides that all of the available school fund shall be apportioned to the counties on the basis of the number of children in those counties who are eligible to go to school. In other words, the forefathers did not intend that the public school fund should become a political football. Now if you will read this amendment, you will find that if it is adopted, in the future, each session of the legislature will determine by law how this public school shall be apportioned. In other words, the county will no longer share in the school fund in proportion to the school children that it has to educate, but rather in proportion to the appointment of the money every year. It is not hard to realize what would happen to the public school system if the whole financial support of the system should be thrown into the arena of practical politics every two years.

Employment, Not Relief Is Goal Of
New WPA Plan

District Director Jones Emphasizes Fact That WPA Is Not Another Relief Agency

LUBBOCK, August 5.—More than 5,000 workable persons now on relief will be given jobs under the W. P. A. program in the fifteen counties comprising District 17 of the Works Progress Administration in Texas on a proportionate basis out of a fund of fifty million dollars allocated for the State of Texas by the Federal Government, J. O. Jones, Director of District 17 announced.
The money has been appropriated for worthwhile projects in this district. "It means employment, not relief," Mr. Jones said.

Not Relief Agency
"This is not another relief agency," Mr. Jones emphasized. "W.
P. A. has been established to replace emergency relief and provide a way to take employable off the relief rolls and put them to useful work, either on work projects or in private industry in the shortest time possible and at the same time bring about improvements which might otherwise advance slowly.

Questions concerning the procedure for obtaining W. P. A. grants continue to pour into the headquarters here, and many applications for jobs have been received by the office. Heads of the department have been selected and other people will be called into the service of this office as work expands.

Applications Not Complex
"Project applicants will not find the procedure complex", Mr. Jones said. "After local officials decide what improvements to undertake plans and specifications should be drawn up by engineering officials. These are to be entered upon special forms to be obtained in this office." "If approved here the application would be forwarded to the state office in San Antonio, thence to Washington.

To Pay $252. Year In County
"Money will be allocated by the Washington office for only the amount necessary to complete the project and pay checks will be distributed twice monthly through the Lubbock office. Pay will be upon the basis of a maximum 130 working hour month and a yearly salary of $252.00 per man for common labor in Motley County.

A large number of items are eligible for W. P. A. grants. They include Farm to Market road and street construction; new construction of and repairs on public buildings; housing projects (slum clearance); soil and water conservation; recreation facilities other than building; public owned and operated utility plant construction and repairs; rural electrification; building of transportation facilities; professional, technical and clerical projects; and a variety of miscellaneous items.

Those Eligible For Employment Persons eligible for employment on projects authorized under the Emergency Relief Appropriation Act of 1935, are those registered by the United States Employment Service, who have been certified by the Emergency Relief Administration as having received emergency relief from public funds during May 1935 or who were accepted for relief subsequent to May 1935.

CHANGES URGED IN BANKING ACT

Business Men and Bankers Agree in Objecting to Political Control Over Banks.

AMENDMENTS SUGGESTED

Political Domination of Federal Reserve Board Declared to Be Undesirable for Depositors as Well as Their Banks.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Business men and bankers alike who have appeared before committees of Congress to present views regarding the Banking Act of 1935 have found common cause for criticism in those provisions which they agree would create the means for undesirable political control over the Federal Reserve System and thereby over individual banks throughout the United States.

This view was stressed in criticisms by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, and the question of partisan control over banking was the central theme of a statement presented by R. S. Hecht, President of the American Bankers Association, who appeared before the Senate Sub-Committee on Banking and Currency hearings here. Mr. Hecht declared that his organization is actuated by a desire to be helpful to Congress "in enacting effective and workable banking legislation in the interest of all our people."

"If it is finally decided that it is necessary to carry this legislation through at this session, we are strongly of the opinion that special care should be taken to keep our credit control and banking mechanism free from any sort of political considerations.

"In making this statement I do not wish to appear to question the propriety of the Government's exerting a certain amount of control over banking operations so far as they affect the nation's currency and general monetary policy. Nor do we object to broad powers of supervision over the operation of our banking institutions because of the social responsibilities which they carry. But when it comes to such matters as the granting of credit and the making of investments by our banks, these are questions of business policy that surely should not be under the sole control of a board so constituted as to be dependent upon partisan or political considerations under any administration.

The Basis of Sound Credit

"The real conditions that create the necessity for the expansion or contraction of credit arise from the needs of agriculture, industry and trade themselves, wholly independent of the administrative policies of the party which happens to be in power. We feel that the financial requirements of the nation's business constitute a continuing economic process that is not related to political changes. The fundamental principles of sound credit do not vary with variations in public thought, and all experienced leaders that the quality of credit is sound only so long as it is based upon the requirements of sound business. It is not sound when any other considerations or motives enter into its composition.

"The Banking Act would centralize in the Federal Reserve Board at Washington means aimed to control the supply of money in the country, which term includes the sum total of currency in circulation and demand deposits in the banks which become current through checks. The powers which it is proposed to give the Board are intended to enable it to influence the quantity of this deposit money through open market operations, the discount rate and reserve requirements.

The Need for Independence

"That is the reason why we are so strongly in favor of making the Federal Reserve Board a body of such independence and prestige that it would be definitely removed from all political thought, influence and domination. Its members should be free to study and to act in accordance with the needs and conditions of agriculture, industry and trade. The policies of the board should have no reference to the politics or the changes in politics of the national administration.

"In our studies of the bank bill, we have been strongly impressed with the fact that it would set up a situation under which the Federal Reserve Board and its policies might be subject to control from the political administration of the country. In saying this I do not charge that it is the intention of the present administration to bring about any undue control over the nation's banking mechanism. The point is that if the bill passed as now proposed, opportunity for control would be there for the use of the present or whatever future administration might be in power.

"Our criticisms of the bill are not aimed, therefore, at the motive of the present administration, but they are wholly impersonal and non-political and are aimed entirely at the basic principles involved."

Desirable Changes Proposed

Careful study by his organization, Mr. Hecht said, had resulted in a number of suggestions for constructive revisions in the bill which he submitted to Congress. On the other hand, he declared that many of the changes proposed by the act in existing laws "are of a constructive nature and should have the support of bankers, if the method of appointment and tenure of office of the members of the Federal Reserve Board, in whose hands it is planned to concentrate greater power than ever before, could be so altered as to insure, as far as possible, the absolute independence of the Board from partisan or political considerations." He added:

Supreme Court of Banking

"Since the passage of the Federal Reserve Act over 20 years ago, opinion in Congress and among bankers has been striving towards the ideal of making the Federal Reserve Board a body of such independence and prestige that it might be described as the Supreme Court of Finance and Banking. We believe there is greater need now than ever before for realizing this ideal."

Mr. Hecht emphasized that it is "the genuine desire of the banking fraternity to be helpful and constructive in making suggestions in connection with this pending legislation. The changes we are urging are we believe essential to the continued independence of the Federal Reserve System."

"We have made it clear that we do not object to a measure of public control in the national interest for proper coordination of our manifold credit operations," he said, "and we do not believe the sponsors of the legislation desire any political domination over these activities through our Federal Reserve System. "Under such circumstances we feel that our recommendations should be favorably acted upon because they would enable the reconstructed Federal Reserve Board to function freely as a nonpolitical body actuated only by the dictates of sound financial and economic policies conceived in the interest of all of our people."

"The adoption of our suggestions would both place operation of the Federal Reserve System wholly and distinctly apart from the fluctuations and vicissitudes of political conditions and free from undue influence by banking opinion only, which a solution would thus have a stabilizing and confidence inspiring effect on the entire business situation."

Banks Rapidly Reduce Debt

Although the sum of $1,500,000,000 has been advanced to banks and trust companies by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation since it began operations in February, 1932, down to April 26, 1935, these institutions have repaid no less than $1,340,000,000, or more than 72%. This rate of repayment is reported as being considerably in excess of that made by any other type of borrower.

Loans were authorized by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to 7,394 banks and trust companies in an aggregate amount of $2,250,000,000, but of this sum $345,000,000 was withdrawn or cancelled and $140,000,000 has not yet been taken out by the borrowers.

Simplification of Bank Checks

New York.—In a bulletin issued by the Bank Management Commission of the American Bankers Association, plans are described for carrying on the simplification of bank checks, notes, drafts and similar instruments in respect to size and uniformity of arrangement of subject matter.

Detailed recommendations for this end were formulated by the association about two years ago, the bulletin says, and promulgated by the United States Department of Commerce among banks, business houses using large numbers of checks, commercial stations and lithographers. As a result about 85 per cent adherence to the recommendations was brought about. The present bulletin, which describes the standard specifications in full, is issued to maintain this high level of adherence to the recommendations.

HOLLYWOOD By Marshall Fiske

Publisher's note: This column is written especially for the Matador Tribune, and represents accurate information from the world's film capital. Comments of any nature will be appreciated by the author whose address is 1122 N. Edgemont Ave., Hollywood, California.

The director looked over the quota of old actors that they had sent him. "What a bunch of crabs—apples and old stiffs" he sneered as he saw them.

Naturally it cut some of these old thespians to the quick to hear this very uncomplimentary epithet hurled at them. Well, of course, it was true many of them were stiff—but not stiffs—stiff after devoting the most of their lives to the most precarious of all professions. Undernourished too, often known what it was "to skip" meals. But "Old stiffs and crabs" that hurt. The rapier of thoughtless wit had pierced to the very core of their tired old hearts. "Man's inhumanity to man makes countless thousands mourn."

In a large city where many different nationalities are represented, there are many who long to see their native land again, to have their ears attuned to their native language.

Many here in Los Angeles and Hollywood, go to foreign-made movies—French, German, Swedish, Greek, etc., not so much for what the film story has to offer by way of entertainment, but to catch glimpses of their native land—to assuage the pangs of nostalgia.

There are several theatres here that show only these foreign made films. For the benefit of those not understanding the language in question, English titles are superimposed on the film. The other day I witnessed a Greek picture, called "Shepherdess Sweetheart", the picture was very old—made in the days of the silent films, with the sound dubbed in later on—the thing was badly photographed, the actors in the main had on atrocious makeups, yet there were many Greeks in the audience that day who enjoyed this picture immensely.

The audience drew its chief delight from the fact it was witnessing glimpses of their beloved homeland, of seeing once more the characters dressed in their fantastically picturesque costumes, of hearing once more the Greek language spoken on Greek soil. It all opened the floodgates of memory and many saw the picture through a moist film that covered their eyes.

There are stars in the heavens that have been very faint and then suddenly blaze forth and become stars of the first magnitude. There are likewise stars in Hollywood, once brilliant, that later on become very faint, then something occurs and presto they flame forth in glorious brilliancy never before attained by them. Victor MacLaughlin was such a star, once brilliant then came the years when his luster on the screen diminished very noticeably. Then came the picture known as "The Informer" and MacLaughlin burst forth a star of the very first magnitude. His acting—its not really acting at all—it's being—this picture will thrill you to the very core of your being. MacLaughlin stands a very good chance of capturing the Gold Medal for the best performance of this year. You cannot afford to miss this picture when it reaches your local theatre.

In the filming of "Mutiny on the Boundary" a transformed barge was brought into requisition for filming some of the sea scenes. This was done off the coast of Southern California near one of the Channel Islands. At twilight, after the day's work was done, it was being towed to shore, and a huge ground swell ensued—the barge floundered and sank with more than fifty people on board. All were saved except the assistant cameraman who tried to save the camera equipment. How many people have lost their lives trying to save their hats, but its human nature, we do many things without thinking, just from force of habit.

inside your motor! That's why you need Germ Processed Oil for safe lubrication—it maintains high film strength under extreme heat!

WITH heats of 225° to 425° in your motor, you must have oil that maintains high film strength under extreme temperatures to get safe lubrication. Otherwise, the lubricating film ruptures and the bearings and cylinders suffer damaging wear. Plain mineral oils have little film strength and oils over-refined by new cleansing processes have even less. As motor heat goes up, these oils rapidly lose film strength.

It's an absolute certainty that you'll get better motor protection with Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil. Timken machine tests prove that it has 2 to 4 times greater film strength than any plain mineral oil and that heat above 225° does not lessen this advantage.

More proof—supervised road tests were made in identical cars fitted with the new alloy metal bearings used in many 1935 cars. The bearings lubricated with a high-quality plain mineral oil showed 45% more wear than those lubricated with Conoco Germ Processed, the first alloyed oil.

You'll be certain your motor is safely lubricated even at high temperatures if you say "O. K.—Drain" and fill with Germ Processed, the oil with the "Hidden Quart" that never drains away!

Say "OK-Drain" - FILL WITH CONOCO GERM PROCESSED MOTOR OIL

In hot weather, your crankcase "runs a temperature" over 225°.

When you drive at 50 miles an hour, your wrist pin bearings heat up to 350°.

Your connecting rod bearings, at a speed of 50 miles an hour, reach a heat of 250°.

The heat of your cylinder walls ranges from 350° to 425° in Summer weather.

ORDER OF ELECTION

KNOW YE, that I, W. R. Cammack, County Judge in and for Motley County, Texas, do hereby order a special election to be held throughout the county of Motley, ON SATURDAY, THE 24th, DAY OF AUGUST, A. D., 1935 for the purpose of voting for the adoption or rejection of seven proposed amendments to the State Constitution of the State of Texas as submitted by the 44th Legislature in regular session assembled. The proposals to be voted on in the customary manner provided for by the constitution and laws of this State at this special constitutional amendment election shall be as follows:

(1) Amendment giving the Legislature the power to provide a system of Old-Age Assistance not to exceed Fifteen Dollars ($15) per month per person and to accept from the Government of the United States financial aid for old-age assistance.

(2) Amendment of Article 1, Section 15, of the State Constitution by adding to said Section a provision to the effect that the Legislature may provide for the temporary commitment of mentally ill persons not charged with criminal offense by the County Court without the necessity of a jury trial.

(3) Amendment to the State Constitution repealing Statewide Prohibition, prohibiting the local saloon and providing for Local Option.

(4) Amendment to Section 1, Article XVII, of the Constitution of Texas, providing that Amendments to the Constitution may be proposed at Special Sessions of the Legislature under certain conditions.

(5) Amendment to the State Constitution authorizing the Courts to place defendants on probation.

(6) Amendment to the Constitution of the State abolishing the Fee System of compensating all District Officers and all County Officers in Counties having a population of 20,000 or more; and authorizing the Commissioners' Court to determine whether County Officers and Precinct Officers in counties containing less than 20,000 population may be compensated on a fee or on a Salary basis.

(7) Amendment to the Constitution of the State of Texas permitting the furnishing of Free Text Books to every child of Scholastic Age attending any school within this State.

SEES INFLATION A SLOW PROCESS

A Real Danger for the Future, Col. Ayres Tells Banking Groups.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J.—Present prospects do not indicate that inflation severe enough to cause further dollar devaluation will come soon in this country, but as an ultimate development it seems to be a very real danger, Leonard P. Ayres, Vice President Cleveland Trust Company, said here tonight in an address before the Graduate School of Banking. He believed this statement to be true "unless the government enters frankly upon a policy of issuing fiat money with which to meet its expenses." At present that does not seem to be in sight, he said.

The Graduate School is operated jointly by the American Institute of Banking Section of the American Bankers Association and Rutgers University to offer advanced studies for bank officers.

"We have so enormously increased the capacity of our banking system for credit expansion that it is difficult to see how we could have a vigorous business revival without having it develop into a credit inflation," Colonel Ayres declared.

Inflation a Slow Process
If inflation does come it will be a slow process, he said, pointing out that in Germany, France, Belgium and Italy it took about five years to develop from the time when the governments entered upon policies of financing large peace-time deficits by bank credit up to the time when the public generally began to spend money rapidly because of fear that it would still further depreciate.

"If we are to go through such a period here it would seem likely that it might last rather longer than the corresponding periods did abroad," he said. "Its beginning would date from the spring of 1933 when we left the old gold basis for our money and entered upon the policy of financing large governmental deficits by the sale of Federal securities mainly to banks rather than to private investors."

"The method that we are following is the one that proved disastrous in Europe for in all those countries including Germany, the increasing issues of money that caused the inflations were not mere printing press issues of fiat currency, but were secured by government bonds and notes discounted at the banks."

Among the clearest lessons taught by the European experience, Colonel Ayres asserted, is that there are "no good hedges against inflation." He added:

Did Not Lighten Debt Burden
"One of the strange facts about these inflations is that while they destroyed the values of most existing debts, they did not succeed in lightening the debt burdens of either the people as a whole, or of the corporations.

"Inflation destroys the value of bonds and mortgages and so confiscates the property of these holders of obligations and hands it over to the shareholders and the equity owners. However, it introduces so many new economic difficulties that these share and equity holders are at once forced to incur new indebtedness so that when stabilization comes the problems of debt are about as troublesome as they were before, or even more so."

The five requisites of inflation were listed by Colonel Ayres as first, a period of unbalanced active business; second, a rising stock market; third, real credit expansion; fourth, greater outflow of gold "than we can tolerate which would force us to cut our currency entirely free from gold"; and fifth, continued large budget deficits in government operation.

TWO QUESTIONS ANSWERED
Why is it that one farmer raises 100 bushels of corn to the acre, and the other one, on the other side of the fence, raises 25 bushels to the acre? Why is it that one farmer produces 100 pounds of pork on five bushels of corn, and another uses 25 bushels? Not until power machinery, scientific principles of soil fertilization and reclamation, rotation of crops, diversification of crops and economical feeding are applied to the farm, will the farmers' problem be solved, says an authority.

Significant economic developments to be expected in the next decade are listed by a prominent business writer as follows: (1) Higher standard of living. (2) Continued advances in technical processes of production. (3) Factory built houses, better and cheaper than hand made houses. (4) Somewhat cheaper money. (5) Faster travel. (6) News printed by radio. (7) Mechanical cotton picker, revolutionizing the South. (8) Cheaper electric power. (9) Better distribution of goods; more chain stores. (10) Another depression five or six years hence, preceded by an inflationary boom.

BANKING READY

NEW YORK—There is abundant evidence that banks are in an unusually favorable position to finance a period of industrial growth, says the June issue of "Banking" published by the American Bankers Association.
