ONE DOESN'T HAVE to go away from his home town to experience life. Experience is inescapable. However, one's attitude toward that experience is determined solely by his frame of mind.

For example, many teenagers look for something "exciting to do" and miss the thrill of sitting in the sand and thinking or reading poetry. Others feel that they have to go somewhere and ignore the companionship of visiting with friends at the local drive-in.

HOWEVER, WHEN ONE goes away to college and is engulfed by the rush of people, cars and activities, surrounded by buildings and governed by clocks, the times he remembers are those unplanned happy hours spent alone or with friends.

Once a student is out of high school and away at college, his attitude changes, partly because of his environment and partly because of his age. The attitude of others toward him also changes. He is in a circle between the young thoughtless high school days and the older responsible world of adults. No longer is he on the same plane with his teachers, parents or the people in the community. His concern, also, is dominated by new issues, and the little things that were once important become merely "little things." And it all happens so fast.

ONE'S HOME BECOMES dearer but ironically less his own. Although try as he might to reconstruct former feelings of belonging rather than being an extended guest, such feelings simply can not be recovered. Time cannot be reversed and the student wanders continually, "Where have those years gone?"

For the college student, coming home in the summer is like safely reaching harbor after an extended voyage on a rough sea. One docks, receives repairs, takes on the power of his parents' experience and is reconditioned for his next trip into the storms of life. He is no longer young enough to remain in the sheltered harbor inlet as in high school, but for the sake of pride and his own curiosity must venture again and again to the university of his own resources until at last he graduates and is able to control his ship and establish his own harbor.

REV. JOHN FITZGERREL speaks to Methodists at Ballard Creek memorial service.

Methodists Meet At Ballard Creek

The original site where the First Methodist Church was organized 75 years ago on Ballard Creek had changed little when the present congregation met there for evening worship services Sunday night at 7 p.m. The group met northeast of Matador at the Ballard Creek site on land now belonging to Ed Lee.

Leaves tinted with autumn rusted gently overhead as approximately 75 people gathered beneath the huge cottonwoods for a service commemorating the church organization. A Kingfisher's trill offset by the hoot of an owl mingled with the choral offering of the worshippers. Providing a backdrop for the service were the sun's setting rays and a decrepit wagon leaning against a tree.

The old cottonwood tree under which the pioneering Christians organized their church has fallen, leaving its gnarled presence as a memorial to that handful of organizers. "The fallen tree is symbolic of our fallen founders," Rev. John Fitzgerald said.

The early organizers had no building, no money, but they had love for the Lord and for one another," Rev. Fitzgerald declared in his memorial sermon. He emphasized the importance of clinging to the old traditions of religion. "The Bible cannot be up-dated," he stated. "What could we leave out? Shall we delete the cross? Shall we omit the resurrection? He questioned. "If we do, we have no hope of eternal life," he answered.

Preceding the sermon, J. R. Whitworth led the assembled group in singing hymns and several members spoke briefly on what the Methodist Church meant to them. Reading the history of Matador's oldest church, Tom Hamilton stated that the present church building was completed in 1926 and the educational annex was erected in 1964.

A large number of the worshippers Sunday night were descendants of charter members of the Methodist Church. All posterity of the founders were recognized prior to the service. Rev. W. B. Vaughn, long time pastor of the church, gave the invocation and benediction was by Mrs. Marvin Brotherton, whose late husband also pastored this church.

"We owe our thanks to those who preceded us and made it possible for us to be where we are today," Representative Bill Healy stated in his memorial address to old settlers and their descendants Thursday morning at the Motley-Dickens Counties Old Settlers pavilion.

Rep. Healy emphasized the fact that 87% of the one billion dollars required to run the state each year goes for health, education, and welfare or to care for the elderly and prepare the younger generation. It was the state representative's second time to give the memorial address at Old Settlers Reunion.

County Judge Forrest Campbell welcomed a record crowd and introduced Representative Healy. Preceding the invocation, Elbert Reeves gave the invocation. Association President Sam Ross announced a schedule of events for the afternoon meeting and benediction was by Rev. Ruth Cooper of Lubbock, former pastor of the Whitehat Methodist Church.

Parade Winners
At the conclusion of one of the largest parades in Old Settlers history, the Matador Drum and Bugle Corps was awarded a first place ribbon as the best band and Judy Fields accepted a ribbon for the Paducah Riding Club, which was selected outstanding riding club. Award for the best float went to the Plains Cotton Oil Mill. Others recognized were Melvin Dirrickson as the most typical old-time cowboy; Mrs. Bundy Campbell, most typical old-time cowgirl; Charles Gwinn, most

Rites Held For A. M. Brownfield

Memorial services for A. M. (Dick) Brownfield, 90, widely known rancher and son of the late M. V. Brownfield, for whom the town of Brownfield was named, were held at 6 p.m. Friday, August 25, in the First Baptist Church in Brownfield.

Brownfield died at 1:15 a.m. Thursday in Brownfield General Hospital, after suffering from a heart ailment. In recent years, he had remained active and was director of ranching interests in Terry and Nolan counties in Texas and in Kansas. He resided at the family home in Brownfield.

He is survived by four daughters, Mrs. L. M. Wiggend, Mrs. I. M. This issue of the Matador Tribune was published with the help of a new staff member, Grady Lackey, Mr. Lackey, who is doing work on a doctorate at Texas Tech and teaching freshman English there, is a former Tribune employee and teacher in the Roaring Springs school system. He also edited the Texas Spur in Spur for nine years.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Meador, publishers of the Tribune, left last Thursday for Seattle, Washington, where they are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hamilton. Hamilton and Meador were partners in the newspaper business here in the 1930's. The Meadors drove to Albuquerque, N.M. to visit friends and flew to Seattle.

Mrs. I. F. Fish, 93, is a patient in the Electra hospital, where she is reported in fair condition. Mrs. Fish was taken there two weeks ago and her companion, Mrs. Cora Hall remains with her.

Mrs. Fish's son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. J. Farris Fish returned this week after a month's stay in Colorado Springs, Colo., where Mrs. Fish received medical treatment. They also visited their son and family, Dr. and Mrs. James R. Fish and Mrs. Fish's sister and husband, Dr. and Mrs. Sam Dunn.

Cheerleaders Set For Successful, Spirited Season

Matador cheerleaders, Marsha Hale, Brenda Wason and Kathy Lawrence are set to spur the 1967 Matador Matadors to a successful season. The trio attended the cheerleading clinic at Texas Tech, Lubbock, July 23-28 and brought home second place honors.

This year the clinic attracted the largest number of area cheerleaders since its beginning in 1964. The girls learned new yells, pom pom routines and studied tumbling. Competition was held each night during the week. Matador cheerleaders won honorable mention in early competition and later in the week took a third place. Judging was on form and spirit.

Head cheerleader, Marsha Hale will be a freshman this fall and her subordinates are Kathy Lawrence, a senior and Brenda Wason, a sophomore. They were elected by the student body in April and this is the first time any of the three has served as a high school cheerleader, although all three have had previous cheerleading experience.

Town To Observe Labor Day Holiday

Several public offices and private businesses and the schools will observe Labor Day, September 4, by remaining closed, it was announced this week.

In addition to the post office, First State Bank and West Texas Utilities, others that will observe the holiday include Bob Stanley Pharmacy, Billy's Grocery, Spot Cash Grocery, Matador Variety and Salem's Dry Goods. The cafes and service stations will remain open for business.

Supt. Charles Johnson has announced that the Matador schools will not have classes on Sept. 4 in observance of the holiday. Roaring Springs schools will also be closed, according to Supt. Glenn Sanders.

Legion To Install Officers Monday

Matador Legion Post 337 and the local American Legion Auxiliary will install new officers on Monday night, September 4, at 8 p.m., according to post commander, Furman Vinson.

The meeting will be the regular monthly meeting preceded by a covered dish supper and the community is invited to attend. Commander Vinson will act as installing officer for both the Legion and Auxiliary officers. Ed Lee, past chaplain of the post, will be installed as new Post Commander.

All eligible members are reminded to remit dues to Post finance officer, J. R. Whitworth.

Opening Of School Marked By Changes

The Matador schools have undergone a metamorphosis this summer. The curriculum has changed. Several new teachers have been added and enrollment is up.

Total enrollment in the Matador schools this year is 321, up from 318 last year. High School Principal Wayland Moore reports 103 students, an increase of three over last year's figure. Grade school enrollment is identical to that of last school term with 218 reporting for classes on Monday. With 33 students, the seventh grade is the largest in school.

New Teachers
Four new teachers have been added to the veteran faculty in the Matador schools. Pete Davis, who will substitute for John Loftin as sixth grade home room teacher, will teach science and assist with the physical education program in elementary school. It is expected that Mr. Davis will be a greater part in this capacity for a greater part of the first semester while Mr. Loftin is recuperating from eye surgery. Mrs. Grace McDowell is seventh grade home room teacher and will teach language arts in the departmentalized sixth, seventh and eighth grades.

Mr. and Mrs. David Verner have been added to the high school faculty. Mrs. Verner is teaching commercial subjects—shorthand, three classes of typing and bookkeeping, and Mr. Verner is head football coach and social studies teacher.

Curriculum Changes
The Curriculum in both high school and grade school reflects some changes. The English program throughout the school has been innovated to follow the Nebraska Plan, a new method of teaching English for which Matador is a pilot school. High school is offering shorthand for the first time in recent years this fall and typing has been added to the list of required subjects for freshmen. In addition math at high school level includes algebra, plane geometry and related math but no trigonometry is being offered.

One of the features of this school year is a closer integration between high school and grade school personnel. Mrs. J. E. Edwards, who formerly taught eighth grade, is instructor for algebra, plane geometry and seventh and eighth grade math. Related math is being taught by Mrs. Dean Turner, who also teaches reading in grade school. As in the past, Mrs. Ronald Davenport is teaching music in both high school and grade school. When John Loftin resumes his teaching duties, he too will have high school assignments.

New Parking Lot
High school students and faculty will have a new parking lot this year. Site of the new parking area is across the street east from the high school building. Work is being done by city employees and is expected to be finished next week.

Completing the faculty are Mrs. Vance Gilbreath, first grade; Mrs. Buck Marshall, second grade; Mrs. Richard Newman, third grade; Mrs. Charlie Keith, fourth grade; Mrs. Elbert Reeves, fifth grade; A. L. Fair, eighth grade home room teacher and social studies instructor for the departmentalized grades; and Mrs. John Hamilton, reading.

High school teachers and assignments include Mrs. Reece Timmons, English and girls physical education; Supt. Charles Johnson, social studies and assistant coach; Bill Moss, vocational agriculture; Mrs. A. L. Fair, home making; and Mrs. Algie Groves, librarian. Mr. Verner will be in charge of both girls and boys health classes.

Miss Sturdivant Finds Grecians Curious, Prefers South America

Pina Sue Sturdivant of Thessaloniki, Greece, returned to the plains of Texas for a visit with her family, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Sturdivant and Tim on August 14, after spending the summer in Europe.

Miss Sturdivant, who has taught in Bogota, Colombia and San Tomé, Venezuela, accepted a two-year teaching stint as English instructor in the Pinewood schools in Thessaloniki, last summer. She is a graduate of Matador High School, holds a Bachelor of Arts degree from West Texas State University, Canyon and a Master of Arts in English from the University of Texas at Austin.

When school was out on June 9 in Greece, Miss Sturdivant left for a tour of Europe before attending a National Defense Education Act Institute in Alpbach, Austria. The six-week institute was presented by Stanford University for overseas teachers. While on the continent she visited Vienna, Salzburg, Innsbruck and Alpbach, Austria; Brenner Pass; Verona and Milan, Italy; Zurich and the Castle of Chillon in Switzerland; Stuttgart, Munich, Eagle's Nest, Frankfurt and Heidelberg, Germany; London, England; and Glasgow, Scotland. Although she liked many of the sites she saw in Europe, her general reaction to the continent was that there were too many people.

Grecians Are Inquisitive

"The people of Greece are the most inquisitive people I have ever met," Miss Sturdivant commented. "When we walked down the street old women would come up and pat our heads, rub our cheeks and examine the material in our clothes. Little children, also, would touch our legs and shoes," she continued. Grecians are light skinned just as Americans and are very similar in appearance. The home where Miss Sturdivant and other teachers lived was across the street from another apartment house. "Again their inquisitiveness appeared. Everyone sat outside and stared at our home and all around the area with binoculars and telescopes."

During the year Miss Sturdivant, an insatiable adventurer, took advantage of her location in the cradle of civilization to make short trips to points of historic interest in the area. She followed her Thanksgiving hunt to Istanbul, Turkey, with a

Christmas trip to Egypt, Jerusalem, Jordan, Damascus, Syria, Cyprus and Lebanon. "Egypt offered the most to see but the attitude of the people clouded the trip," she said. "We've ridden an interesting variety of planes of all sorts of makes and models," she wrote. "We started from Athens on SAS, the Swedish airlines, rode MISRAH, the local United Arab Republic line in Egypt, rode the Jordanian airline MEA (Middle East Airways) to Jerusalem and are now on Cyprus Airways to Nicosia, Cyprus."

One of the places the group visited during the Christmas tour was Baalbeck, "the most complete remnant of Roman ruins, including a temple to Jupiter, one to Bacchus and one to Venus," Miss Sturdivant writes. "Baalbeck dates back to the Phoenician and Egyptian period and before the original temple at the site was one to Baal. Then the Greeks came; followed by the Romans, who built the temples on the foundations of other temples; next the Ottoman Empire came and turned the temples into a fortress against the Crusaders. Then the Mohammedans returned. Very impressive, one of the most marvelous ruins we've seen. Comparable only to the Egyptian ruins at Luxor."

The ruins at Luxor were Miss Sturdivant's favorite. She found the temple of Karnak "by far the most impressive." The path to the gateway of the temple is lined with huge stone carvings, the body of a lion, the head of a ram, and a little image of Pharaoh under the head and between the paws, according to Miss Sturdivant. The group also visited the Temple of Luxor, Valley of the Kings, and old Thebes.

The travelers continued to Damascus where in Miss Sturdivant's opinion "the scenery, some of the widest mountain terrain imaginable, was the best part." There they visited a mosque which was the church of St. John the Baptist and the supposed tomb of St. John. The group flew to Beirut, Lebanon and visited Biblos, one of the four most ancient cities in the world which has been continuously inhabited.

Visits Lazarus' Tomb

New Year's day found the travelers in Bethany at the tomb of Lazarus and the home of Mary and Martha. Miss Sturdivant says, "here we passed fields being plowed with the ancient one-pronged plow pulling by burros, oxen, mules, horses and camels. We saw one tractor on the plains of Jerico. She continues, "Jerico is an oasis in the desert and the site of the oldest found Homo Sapiens (according to the guide). From the excavation on the hill we looked across the valley at the mountains where Jesus underwent his 40 day fast and temptation." They also visited the prison caves where Jesus, the thieves and Barabas were incarcerated.

One of the interesting sites in Egypt was the mummies. Miss Sturdivant said, "some were white, some were black. Most who had any hair had black hair, but Rameses II had blond. Whether time had anything to do with the difference or the pigmentation was true, I don't know. All the skulls were more elongated than modern man's. A very striking structural difference." The group boarded a Russian made plane at Aswan and flew over the Sahara Desert which is "not sand dunes but mountains and gorges with dry river beds and totally dry and barren... not a speck of life or a plant of any kind. It looked at points like telescope pictures of the moon." Contrary to a popular belief, the Sahara, Aswan and Cairo were all extremely cold in December.

Sees Russian Influence

Egypt reflects heavily the Russian influence, Miss Sturdivant noticed. All around the Aswan Dam there were signs proclaiming good will and friendship between Russia's government and that of Russia's Kosygin. "Egyptians are out to get everything they can," she believes. When one crosses into the country he must exchange his currency and all that he does not spend in Egypt cannot be re-exchanged. It must be spent or thrown away. "Moreover, only certain establishments are authorized to exchange currency so the tourist often wishes to buy something but finds he does-

"Section 33. The Accounting Officers of this State shall neither draw nor pay a warrant upon the Treasury in favor of any person for salary or compensation as agent, officer or appointee, who holds at the same time any other office or position of honor, trust, or profit, under this State, except as prescribed in this Constitution. Provided, that this restriction as to the drawing and paying of warrants upon the Treasury shall not apply to officers of the National Guard or Air National Guard of Texas, the National Guard Reserve, the Air National Guard Reserve, the Air Force Reserve, the Officers Reserve Corps of the United States, nor to enlisted men of the National Guard, the Air National Guard, the National Guard Reserve, the Air National Guard Reserve, the Air Force Reserve, and the Organized Reserve of the United States, nor to retired officers of the United States Army, Air Force, Navy, and Marine Corps, and retired warrant officers and retired enlisted men of the United States Army, Air Force, Navy, and Marine Corps. It is further provided, until September 1, 1969, and thereafter only if authorized by the Legislature by general law under such restrictions and limitations as the Legislature may prescribe, that a non-elective State officer or employee may hold other non-elective offices or positions of honor, trust, or profit under this State or the United States, if the other offices or positions are of benefit to the State of Texas or are required by State or Federal law, and there is no conflict with the original office or position for which he receives salary or compensation. No member of the Legislature of this State may hold any other office or position of profit under this state, or the United States."

Sec. 2. The foregoing constitutional amendment shall be submitted to a vote of the qualified electors of this state at an election to be held on November 11, 1967, at which election all ballots shall have printed thereon the following:

"FOR the constitutional amendment allowing non-elective state officers and employees to serve in other non-elective offices or positions under this state or the United States until September 1, 1969, and thereafter only if authorized by the Legislature, if the offices or positions are of benefit to Texas or are required by state or federal law, and there is no conflict of interest with the original office or position, prohibiting elected officers under this state or the United States from holding any other office or position under this state, and adding members of the Air National Guard, Air Force Reserve, and retired members of the Air Force to the list of persons exempted."

Mrs. Reece Timmons Receives MA Degree

Mrs. Reece Timmons received a Masters Degree in English at West Texas State University, Canyon on August 24. The summer convocation exercises were held at 8 p.m. in the WTSU gymnasium. Also receiving degrees in the ceremony were Coach John Loftin and former resident Mrs. Douglas Nelson.

Williams, head of the Coordinating Board for Texas College, who warned, "We have reached the place where the college graduate has no choice about accepting leadership. If he fails, he fails not only his nation, his state, his university but himself."

Mrs. Timmons, who has taught English in Matador High School for the past eight years, also received her bachelor of arts degree from West Texas State University. Loftin, who recently moved here with his wife and baby to accept a position as assistant football coach and sixth grade home room teacher, received a bachelor of science degree. Mrs. Nelson of Hemet, California, the former Donna Williams, was a 1961 graduate of Matador High School. She was awarded a master's in Business Administration.

WTTS Holds Meeting To Plan Campaign

Mrs. R. M. Stanley attended a meeting of the West Texas Tuberculosis Society in the Arnett Room of Citizens National Bank, Lubbock, Saturday, where plans were outlined for a Christmas Seal campaign.

Mrs. Stanley, who took her husband's place at the meeting, said the society plans a Bangle Campaign in each of the 23 counties in the area to promote the sale of Christmas seals.

Motley County needs a volunteer to fill the post of chairman and a co-chairman for the Christmas seal campaign and a Bangle chairman for each town in the county. Plans are to have a Bangle Day on the streets early in December and Bangle Days in the schools the following week.

The TB association exists to combat emphysema and other respiratory diseases as well as tuberculosis.
