Matadors To Make Bid For 3rd Straight District Championship In Conference Final

Business in Matador tomorrow will be incidental. The brakes are set and business is expected to begin closing at 3 o'clock. One of the largest contingents of fans to leave this community is expected to stay the Matador Matadors to Wheeler today afternoon for the final conference game of the season and the all important bid for District Championship.

RAIL DUST

By DOUGLAS MEADOR

I am startled from my meditation through realization that many people known me since before I started to anything. Even shocking is the knowledge that all they have to do for their pains is the last thing of some acquaintance.

Some of dirty sweat lined all cowboy's lean face. The shirt was torn and soiled and wrinkles around the betraying the scantiness wardrobe and that he had in the shirt many nights. It was too large and hung from the waistline of trousers seemed to have no front or back. Some of the caked, wrinkled shirt was stuffed into the pockets of his flabby pants. Most of the hair of his boots were gone, the leather was chapped and broken part of a cotton sock was protruding through a hole. Other men laughed and talked as he entered the general store. The small rider walked with a pocket of his flabby pants. The tarnished ring with the done was in a tray in the duty showcase. Beside it was a cheap watch, pocket knives and a silver case held other including tin blabs, some lamp wicks, a few pieces of thread. The cowboy in the grip of the ring. It was a pair of new boots. He walked with the Matador's shy daughter and her horse. He kissed her near the half dugout, then stepped in the stirrup of the horse and rode away to the music she was playing in his heart. He felt the cold iron of the stirrup through the worn soles of his boots.

Business may be like the that stirs the dry grass. It is secret and its departure is unannounced.

There is never a homecoming from the university of experience. The first the rich who have known the joy of giving, the poor who have been denied.

Opportunity is like an egg. It is dropped its composure and integrates.

Within the orbit of a lifetime are subject to the influence of many individuals, yet in most instances character is shaped by the thinking when alone.

The Wheeler Mustangs have not lost a conference game this season but they tied Silvertown Matador's District standing is 1000%, Wheeler 900%. The Matadors will play the decisive game away from home and before a Wheeler homecoming crowd. If the Matadors bring home the District Championship it will be the third straight year to receive the coveted honor.

Between 3 and 4 p. m. most business places will close their doors to give employers and employees an opportunity to drive 130 odd miles to Wheeler. Wheeler is 104 miles due north of Paducah on Highway 87 with a reasonable degree of safety. Game time is 7:30.

TAKES PANTHERS 67-13

The Matadors showed their eagerness for another district title Friday night here on Burleson Field when they defeated the Quitaque Panthers 67-13, scoring four times in the second quarter, twice in the second, twice in the third and twice more in the fourth.

The scoring started when Pat Green circled left end for 41 yards. A pass play from Dayton Graham to Shelby Jackson was good for 42 yards and another touchdown. Charles Renfro made the third tally when he moved up for eight yards. Dayton Graham broke through right tackle and lateraled to Pat Green who raced 45 yards for the final touchdown in the first quarter.

With an ample sprinkling of reserves, the Matadors went into the second quarter with Arvin Ellithorp (leading scorer on the South Plains area) soon getting loose around left end for six yards and a touch down. Carrying the ball on the final part of the 40-yard pass play from Quarterback Graham, Bobby Cross scored for the first time in his high school career. A team composed completely of reserves with the exception of Captain City Jameson, lost to the Panthers on 90-yard kickoff run back in the last play of the first half.

Carrying the ball 62 yards in three tries, Charles Renfro turned the first score of the second half. The Matadors were unable to score again until Ellithorp rammed his way through the middle of the Panther defense to tally on a 40-yard run.

THANKSGIVING DATE UNCERTAIN

No matter what the stars say, this just isn't Texas year. Take the election for instance — no, let's leave that because the air has become less offensive. You can take the Daniel-Shivers thing but carry it in a shovel. Then consider the "goofed-up" special election deal that we waded through this week. Just before you relax, remember Thanksgiving. We have two. You may have your choice, either November 22 or November 29.

The date is uncertain in Matador. Only mild concern has been expressed here but over in Childress the Chamber of Commerce has been working for two weeks trying to arrive at a "satisfactory date." They have given up, according to a news item, and advised the merchants and business firms to observe either or both. The schools are also confused since they are conflicting with the holiday designated by most colleges. The Texas Highway Department will observe both days as will many firms, according to reports.

So far as the Tribune is aware no movement has been started here to try to decide on a certain date. The Union Church services will be held at the First Baptist Church, at 7:30, with Rev. Woodrow Williams, pastor of the Methodist Church as speaker.

Roaring Springs Students To Be On Radio Program

Students of the Roaring Springs Public School will be on the air again. The High School choir, composed of fourteen members will sing over KFLD, Floydada, at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning, Nov. 20th.

The Elementary choir will be on the air at 3:15 p. m. Wednesday, Nov. 21, from the same station, 900 on your radio dial. Both choirs are under the direction of Mrs. L. D. Wilkerson, County music teacher.

HERE FROM HOUSTON

Don Paul Keith of Houston will leave Friday to return to his home after a visit here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. P. Keith, who joined him Saturday in Lubbock at the home of the latter's daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Latimer. They then continued to Alamo, N. M., where they visited the Keith's other son, Bourland, during the remainder of the week-end.

VISITS BROTHER

Mrs. George Miller of Decatur was guest of her brother, J. L. Woodruff, last week, when she came here as guest speaker for El Progresso Study Club.

Mrs. Frank Manning of Frederick, Okla., was a week-end visitor here in the home of her son and family, Rev. and Mrs. Ray Manning, and also with her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George Cullin.

Post Office Pen Is New "Luxury"

If you appreciate luxury, if you like to go first class, if you want to live it up, use the new post office ball point pen. The Republicans saw the need for reform, even during the 20 years they were out of power.

Sand Obliterates Cemetery Graves

Graves in Matador's East Mound cemetery are being buried by blowing sands. Continued drought and severe west winds of two weeks ago have created a condition which is a challenge to the community according to Bert Chambliss, cemetery caretaker.

Mr. Chambliss said yesterday that he did not believe the proposed high rock fence on the west would correct the situation. He suggested that a hedge might restrain the winds that are drifting sand across graves. Some graves are being obliterated despite Mr. Chambliss' efforts to keep the sand under control.

Drifts of sand have collected against headstones in driveways against shrubbery in almost all of the old, higher section of the cemetery. In some instances on the extreme west side, the soil has been whipped away from headstones.

Mr. Chambliss believes that water alone will solve the problem. He said that a sprinkler system would control the sand during severe storms. He said that the sand has never before been the problem that it is now.

A meeting of the East Mound Cemetery Association has been called for 4 p. m. this afternoon in the Commissioners Court room. Purpose of the meeting, as announced on postal cards mailed to members, is the immediate problem of retaining Mr. Chambliss' services. M. S. Patton is president of the organization and Mrs. Freeman Thacker is secretary-treasurer.

It is probable the condition created by the sand in the cemetery will be discussed.

Dr. Manning selected as his text, John 14. "I have used it more than any other chapter in the Bible," he said, "and at almost every occasion where a preacher can serve, I feel that it is an extremely fitting tonight."

He cited in particular, the 27th verse: "Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you, my peace is like the world, giveth, give I not as the world giveth, give I unto you. Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid."

"There is no peace in the world today," Rev. Manning said, "because we have tried to force it — it is not a world condition — it is in the hearts of men — a gift from God."

"Without Christ in our desire for peace, we are as the blind — all our struggles will be in vain until we accept His teachings."

The Diary of Mary White

October 12, 1956, Friday
I have heard of people being between two emotions. I suffered today. It was complete severance. Therertha, Roger, children I have been allowed to forget the Marelda all day long. The girl was born to an eight-year-old girl. This is second child. The first belonged to her step-father and the one claimed by no one. Its surroundings are the epitome of poverty. My stomach revolted that it wear the name of someone that belonged so close to my heart. It led me down to see her after school again. She had such a picture snuggled in her arms that my revulsion dimmed. I found myself wishing to do for that tiny bit of humanity some of the things I do for my Marelda. The girl that is one of the shades of WHY of my child's going there is someone else. He gave me to help.

Anyway, it is Friday, my visitors are gone, and a full sled of mail came, so my disposition did an about face. The picture

I became aware of what was going on outside of my window — laughter, peal after peal so merry and clear. The village children are playing some innovation of their own. They have no toys, no playground equipment and it is dark and very cold. Many of them do not have adequate clothing. They are not clean and it would be safe to say that for many of them it has been more than the ordinary six hours since they tasted food.

Really! How very little it takes to be happy. Oh, that I had never taught myself to want such a volume of things and conditioned myself to believe that I could not be happy lest I possessed them!

The happiest, most triumphant life ever lived on this earth was the thirty-three years spent by a Man who neither owned nor desired to own anything save the integrity of his own soul.

The glimpse of a truth and the light it sheds is an exhilarating draught and my studies are forgotten. The laughter has stimulated me to re-examine my values and for a while I drift in memory through the years to the thought conditioning circumstances of my life. I see myself so much a prisoner of my own misconceptions and of my 'low-the-crowd' habits.

I distinctly remember my dignified, gray-haired college prof of Shakespearean drama. Just as distinctly she etched into my mind divisions of comedy and tragedy with equal semester dosages—the first for comedies and the second for tragedies. If a sleeping potion is given to a lovely lady and as a result poison drinks and daggers claim the lives of several, including that lovely lady, that is indeed tragic.

Not so in Eskimoland. All day the comic book had been passed eagerly and giggle followed giggle. I was busy trying to get through my schedule so I let it go. At four-thirty, although all were dismissed, two girls lingered with that comic. Since they were not required to be quiet after school the laughter rang. It was so prolonged that I got curious and investigated which comic was so funny. It was one of those so-called classic comedies entitled "Romeo and Juliet." Tragedy? No, comedy—hilarious comedy.

Again, poor William! I think that after this he will agree with twentieth century critics that he could not possibly be the author of tragedies that produce so much laughter.

October 26, 1956, Friday
The headlines in the Elim Daily were there such might easily read "Garza Nostalgia Victim in Serious Condition."

This being the elected time for changing bed linens, I unfolded a sheet and flipped it across my bed. It happened to be wrong side up. The tag, having braved all the hot water, soap, and chlorox to which it had been subjected, still plainly said "Garza".

Now I have never had but two Garza sheets in all my house-keeping days. They were given to me by the Young Adult Training Union of the First Baptist Church, Matador, Texas. They were presented at a farewell party in the Fred Clower home just before we left to take up residence in Washington. As though that blow were not enough when I turned to put away the night clothes I was struck again. That pale green nylon nightgown (yes, I wear it in Alaska) was given to me by the same group almost a year earlier at a party in the Bill McCaghren home. This followed the groups presentation of "Grandpa Hangs the Holly" as free community entertainment at Christmas time.

How did so many superb people find their way into one little group? See why the serious condition today?

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

There'll Always Be An "Expert"

Drove out to see how they're getting along with the new super-highway that's going to pass through town.

While I was there a fussy little guy—a spectator, like me—came up to the foreman on the job and started making all sorts of suggestions: "Shouldn't it go a little farther left there?... Why don't you bank the curves more?... Those ditches are awful close"... and so, on and on.

The foreman took it as long as he could, then asked politely, "How does she look for length?"

From where I sit, free advice is called "free" because it's usually not worth much. That little fellow was typical of the kind of "expert" who can't resist getting in digs—about how you work, what you wear, why you happen to prefer a class of beer with your supper. People like that don't mean to be troublemakers... but the road to real intolerance is paved with their good intentions.

Guest Speaker Describes India In Colorful Talk At Meeting Of Club

Mrs. George Miller of Decatur was guest speaker at regular meeting of El Progreso Study Club, Thursday in the home of Mrs. W. W. Clements. Mrs. Harry Willett was leader of the program on travel.

Mrs. Miller, who made a tour of 22 countries in Europe the past summer, selected India as the subject of her talk, and showed colored slides illustrating points of interest.

"Of all the countries I visited, I found India the most fascinating," Mrs. Miller declared. "It is a country of contrast of contradictions of color and of sound. One of the earliest centers of learning, it is nevertheless a country of abject poverty. I would say that at least 90% of the population do not even own a pair of shoes."

At the conclusion of her talk, Mrs. Miller answered questions asked by the audience. The attitude of foreign countries toward the United States was a matter of interest to the group.

"I regret to report that we are looked on with much disfavor by most countries," Mrs. Miller asserted. "— even those to whom we send help. Principally, they resent our attitude."

Mrs. Miller, former Home Economist and also former teacher at North Texas State Teachers College, Denton, was introduced to the group by Mrs. Glenn Woodruff. She was presented with a gift of appreciation by Mrs. Willett.

In a business session, with Mrs. Woodruff presiding, the club voted to contribute $5.00 to Youth Conservation and $3.00 to Girls' Town. Mrs. Marvin Vaughn was welcomed as a new member. It was announced that the club would recess for Thanksgiving, and that the December meeting would be held at the First Baptist Church, for a Christmas program. Members were reminded to bring a gift to the meeting, suitable to be sent to patients in the State Hospital at Wichita Falls.

Present, other than those mentioned were, Mmes. L. B. Campbell, Forrest Campbell, G. E. Hamilton, H. H. Hines, W. D. Lipscomb, Leonora Luckett, A. W. Ford, D. E. Pitts, Sr., Ralph Stapleton, A. C. Traweek, Jr., C. P. Waybourn, J. R. Whitworth, Harry Willett and Ben Meador; Miss Mary Keith and Miss Sue Glenn.

Old Country Store Merchandise Sold

Have you bought a pair of high button shoes or a derby hat lately? Many people in the vicinity of Roaring Springs have made such purchases.

Recently the stock of one of the county's oldest merchandise establishments was sold at public auction. It was the general store owned by the late R. E. Lasater at Dumont. The store was established about 1900.

Buyer of the stock was Leslie Kingery and his partner was his mother, Mrs. Eva Kingery, who did not know of the purchase until later. She was highly skeptical of the venture and considered that they would be "stuck" with an enormous amount of "junk".

It was a good buy. Word spread rapidly. The merchandise never reached shelves again. Customers flocked to the Kingery Feed Store in Roaring Springs and bought the merchandise as rapidly as it could be unloaded from truck. Sales during the first day more than repaid the original purchase price.

The stock included many items strange to the modern generation. Patent medicines sold half a century ago, were purchased quickly. Corsets, button shoes, long underwear, collar pads for work horses, bridle bits, button and pointed toe shoes for men and women; derby hats — they went like hot cakes. Silk stockings, bolts of materials and a thousand other items were in the strange stock. Only a few items remain, including a box of rubber overshoes for men, women and children, some livestock medicines and a few other items.

Much of the merchandise was of modern vintage, including the bolts of piece goods, fine bath towels, etc., all of which were sold at bargain prices.

Dec. Deadline Set For Vet Insurance

(Special to Tribune)
Veterans separated from active service since September 4, 1956, will NOT have 120 days in which to apply for 5-year term nonconvertible GI insurance; they will have ONLY until December 31, 1956.

Robert W. Sisson, manager of the Veterans Administration regional office at Lubbock, Texas, said the new application deadline was set by the recently enacted Servicemen's and Veterans' Survivor Benefits Act (Public Law 851, 84th Congress).

Before this law was enacted, Mr. Sisson said, eligible veterans had 120 days from separation in which to apply for the post service five-year term nonconvertible policy.

COMMONPLACE ARTICLES INSPIRE UNUSUAL HOLIDAY DECORATIONS

By FREDGA GAGE
Of The Woman's Staff
Lubbock Avalanche

With down-to-earth humor and a touch of whimsy, Mrs. Dan Warren of Waco has given lectures on the art of making Christmas decorations from commonplace articles. Her latest offering was a "pink and copper" theme, which she described as "a combination of the two colors in a delicate, feminine touch. A wreath with angel wings made of tin cans, and in many ways and painted, and a low arrangement featured pink leaves and pink balls."

It tickles Mrs. Warren "pink" when she can find some very commonplace article and transform it into a thing of striking beauty. Take for instance, a trivet, which she painted, added several rubber chair tips, and dark candles and berries; presto, it became a centerpiece to grace any dining table on any occasion.

For Church Decor
Shags of pecans and evergreen also make for excellent room decorations at Yuletide. Her suggestion was to use it for church decorations. She also noted that a wreath of red felt outlined with sequins would add a cheerful note to the evergreen shag, especially when decking a church hall.

Also of practical use — and at no expense in this country, is her snowman of tumbleweed and chickenwire — all painted white with rubber paint. Mr. Snowman has accompanied Mrs. Warren for about 12 years now — and is none the worse for wear. His felt hat, buttons and belt are still as black as ever, and even the fence post arms fail to show the need for paint.

Mrs. Warren's pride and joy is her Della Robbia, a ring of artificial fruits, shellacked and covered with florist's glisten. Probably her most expensive, she values the single article at about $45. It is used for a formal arrangement with tapers in golden holders and added notes of Christmas in the form of colorful balls and bells.

Wreaths of various sizes and substances are numerous among the demonstrator's collection — as are assortments of candles. And they are suitable for houses of all types and in any room.

From Light Fixture
The one arrangement preferred by most viewers from the Lubbock area was made from an old, old light fixture. Turned bottom side up, the fixture had been painted gold by the originator and filled, where there should have been light bulbs, with all sorts of "Christmassy" red balls, bells, leaves and stems. Set on a round cloth of red and gold, this assortment of warm color made a person feel like Christmas.

And all of the gayly-colored groupings were made by Mrs. Warren for a certain place in her home. In fact, that's what started it all. She had so much enjoyment in making her own home lovely at holiday time that she wanted to share it with women the whole state through. And she proceeded to do so.

Mrs. John Lawrence spent the week-end in Odessa, visiting her daughter and family. Mr. and Mrs. Billy Koon, Mrs. Koon was ill for several days last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Norman and daughter, Kay, spent the week-end in Lubbock visiting relatives, and with their other daughter, Janey Sue, who is attending Texas Tech.

Grade School News

EIGHTH GRADE—"Why can't we have more English assignments like this?" This was a common expression around the eighth grade room this week.

Our assignment was to give an explanation of how to do something. Many of the students explained how to make cakes, cookies and candies. To the delight of the class, (and the files) samples were provided to show that recipes were successful.

Numerous arguments followed as to whom the title of being best cook should go. The boys voted for Guy Campbell, oatmeal cookies and Thomas Young, chocolate fudge, but the girls' votes were divided between Jane Scaff, Carol Thrasher, Linda Matney, Carol Campbell, Ida Fair, Nelda Wilson, Janie Waybourn and Norma Cooper.

Maybe this will explain to the lunchroom ladies why the eighth grade students were not hungry on Tuesday and Wednesday.

Incidentally, if you should want to know the outcome of future elections, just check with the eighth grade. The class voted for president and the results were: 58% for Ike and 42% for Stevenson. At midnight the nation's voting results were 57.8% for Ike and 41.2% for Stevenson. Nuff said, don't you think?

THE THIRD GRADE finished their study of prehistoric animals last week by modeling some of them in clay. They were surprised to find that some of the models did look like the pictures of dinosaurs.

To begin a new series of work stories have been read about animals that act like people. It was discovered that they, like people also have moods. They are grumpy, friendly, lazy, and funny, depending upon their mood.

The class has also been making color wheels while studying primary and secondary colors and all of them are very pretty.

FOURTH GRADE: Pioneers has been the subject of study for the fourth grade this week. They have built a miniature Fort Apache. Those working on this project were: Tim Dee Sturdivant, Charles Ezzell, Gary Campbell and Tommie Green.

The students voted on outstanding citizens of the month, who took office as follows: Charles Ezzell, president; Linda Havins, 1st vice-president; Tim Dee Sturdivant, 2nd vice-president, and Gary Campbell, secretary.

Texas Land Values Show One Per Cent Increase With Demands For More Land

WASHINGTON—The dollar value of farm and ranch land in Texas increased 1 per cent in the year ended July 1. This compared with a 3 per cent increase for the nation.

Agriculture Department figures showed the value of Texas farms and ranches July 1 was $9,205,000,000. The U. S. total was $102,500,000,000.

A strong demand exists from farm operators over the country for more land, said the department. The 1956 national average value per acre was set at $88.65. The average acre value of Texas farm and ranch land in mid-1956 was $63.13, compared with $62.63 a year earlier. The value was $54.80 in 1951, $63.03 in 1952, then $60.73 in 1953 and $60.34 in 1954.

Values in the High Plains areas of Texas and Oklahoma were up 2 per cent.

"The wheat harvest in area brought pleasant surprise to many growers," the department said.

"Increasing acreage under irrigation, industrial expansion and other nonfarm influences also helped to hold values up."

For Texas as a whole, the 1956 value was $92,423,000,000, compared to $31,174 in mid-1954—was 496 acres. The average size of the farm in Texas in 1956 was $21,469, and $13,980 in 1950. The average size in 1956 was 242 acres, and in 1950 was 215 acres.

Buildings on the average as farm had a value of $3,250 in mid-1956, as compared with $1,001 for the nation.

drove Coach Clifford Bradshaw's charges to the one-yard line where Bill Mayfield plunged the remaining distance for the tally. Gerald Pipkin made the next score (also his first in high school) with a 10-yard jaunt through right tackle. Final score came when Ellithorp intercepted a Panther pass and returned it for 12 yards and a touchdown. Pat Green was the high scorer of the game. Besides his touchdown, he kicked seven consecutive extra points.

HISTORIC RANCH

They have been spending week-ends at their new ranch home as opportunity permitted. The new home built by John F. Lewis about four years ago took the place of a rambling ranch house on adjacent ground which was built by Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Lewis and in which a large family of boys and girls was reared. The ranch is 20 miles north and east of Floydada on the road to Whiteflat. Portions of it lie on the plains, and portions "under the hill". The ranch residence is below the caprock.

Highlights and Sidelights FROM YOUR State CAPITOL

Texas Press Association By VERN SANFORD

AUSTIN—General election results, nationally, have added new suspense to the already intense issue of who will succeed Texas Gov.-Elect Price Daniel as U. S. Senator.

At stake is whether Democrats or Republicans will control the U. S. Senate when Congress convenes on January 3.

Democrats now have a precarious 49 to 47-member advantage. But it would be 48 to 48 if a Republican replaced Democratic Senator Daniel.

GOP Vice Pres. Richard Nixon can vote in case of a tie. Therefore this one vote, which Texas could bestow upon him . . . in a round-about way . . . could determine the balance of power.

Most important of all, it could decide which party could organize the Senate and appoint the all-important committee chairman.

This possibility puts Gov. Allan Shivers in the national spotlight again. And Senator Daniel, Texas' conflicting election laws have clouded the issue as to whether Governor Shivers legally can call a special election before Jan. 15. That's when Daniel takes office as governor.

Shivers contends that inasmuch as Daniel did not resign, effective immediately, there is no vacancy until Jan. 15. Daniel argues that Shivers has the power to call an election. Both point to different provisions of the poorly drawn election code.

Unless Congress is in session, a governor cannot make an appointment to fill a vacancy. Therefore, should Senator Daniel resign effective today, Shivers could not name a successor until Jan. 3 . . . opening day of the new Congress.

Shivers feels that Daniel should resign outright, thus paving the way for an immediate election. The governor is required to call an election within 90 days from the effective date of the resignation, and not before 30 days have elapsed. This means that the governor could call for an election in December — or he could designate a January or February date.

Whatever course Daniel pursues, Shivers undoubtedly will have a chance to appoint a temporary replacement. First, because Shivers is not likely to call for a December election. Second, if Daniel submits a new resignation before Jan. 3, effective immediately, Shivers automatically can name a successor on Jan. 3. And third, if Daniel sticks to the Jan. 15 date, Shivers will have from 12:01 a. m. on the 15th until Daniel is inaugurated at 12 noon, to name a successor.

Drought Authority Given
Gov. Shivers has been authorized to designate Texas farmers eligible for reduced railroad rates.

Secy of Agr. Ezra Benson asked the governors of seven drought-stricken states to indicate persons qualifying for this aid.

Railroads have offered free return transportation for cattle shipped from dry areas to western grazing areas. Designated persons also can receive a 50 per cent reduction in rates on hay shipped from western states to drought regions.

Farm Income Up
Improved methods have kept Texas' overall farm income up, despite drought setbacks.

Cash income for January through September totaled $1,108,000,000, an increase of $13,000,000 from last year, reports the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research. Average for the dry years of 1951-55 was six per cent above 1947-49.

Irrigation, conservation and improved crop varieties are credited for the increase. Some areas the bureau noted, have not had a major crop in five years. Off-set these are such areas as the Panhandle-South Plains region where "spectacular results" have been achieved with irrigation.

Shivers Buys Home
When Governor Shivers becomes Mr. Shivers next January his family will move from one historic Austin mansion to another.

He has purchased Woodlawn, 103-year-old resident bought by Gov. Elisha M. Pease when Pease retired from office. Seller was R. Niles Graham, grandson of Governor Pease.

Known locally as "The Pease Mansion", the 17-room antebellum home still contains century-old furnishings. Its new owners plan only such remodeling necessary to accommodate their family.

Construction Spiraling
An all-time record for 1956 with a healthy boom carrying over into '57 is foreseen for the Texas construction industry.

Awards through October totaled $1,049,179,948. This was only slightly less than the total for the whole 12 months of 1953, the highest previous year.

October awards of more than $84,000,000 did not include a Texas Highway Department contract letting. This means the November figure, with two months of road contracts, likely will be large.

Bond Election Upheld
State Supreme Court has upheld and clarified a new law for unlimited issuance of bonds by school districts.

Validity of some $75,000,000 in school bonds was affected by a test case from Hamilton county.

Voting in bond elections is limited by the Constitution to property-tax payers. An act for school bond elections passed by the last legislature further restricted voting to those who had rendered property on the county tax roll.

High court ruling removed this restriction, but upheld constitutionality of the rest of the law.

Short Snorts
November 29 has been proclaimed as Texas' Thanksgiving Day by Governor Shivers. This is in accordance with legislative action setting the last Thursday in November as the state's official holiday. Federally, Nov. 22 will be observed.

Construction of a $30,000,000 federal dam and reservoir at San Angelo has been approved conditionally by the State Water Board. Law requires recommendation by the governor also before the project can be undertaken by the Department of Interior . . . U. S. Dept. of Agriculture has upped its estimate of Texas 1956 cotton crop to 3,600,000 bales, a 140,000-bale increase over last month's prediction.
