Mrs. Claude Groves was hostess to the Henrietta Shuck Circle in regular meeting Monday afternoon. A lesson from the book, "Winning the Border", was given by Mrs. Vernon Doss.

Refreshments were served to Mesdames Elbert Reeves, Earl Laughlin, Jack Edwards, Vernon

Doss, Fred Clowers, Elbert Sier, W. M. Joslin, J. L. Woodruff, Buford Hobbs, W. N. Pipkin the hostess.

The group will meet with Laughlin on the fifth Monday the month.

From the unpublished autobiography of a reporter:

Henry Helms, leader of Cisco bank robbers (he shot officer to death) was on trial his life in Eastland and I sitting right behind him. Suddenly he whirled in his chair and cold gray eyes gazed into mine. Perhaps he had expected to find that a friend had made his way there, ready to hand him a tool with which he could shoot way out of the courtroom; or maybe he hoped to find the chair occupied by an officer who had been caught off-guard, his pistol seized. Anyway, turned back around after a second.

And speaking of "chilled", you ever eat a chilled Pecos taloupe at Pecos? If not, it's worth the trip (provided you don't have to drive over 300 miles each way).

This year, the Red Cross

NEW BOOKS

Matador City Library

"THE RAINS CAME"

One of the most popular of new books to be found on the shelves of the Matador City Library, is "The Rains Came", a novel of India by Louis Bromfield, according to Miss Mary Kieth, librarian.

Edna Ferber, who is a brilliant author herself, says of this latest work of Bromfield, "A magnificent and noble piece of work, by far the best he has done. I should not wonder if it is the best anyone has done in the past twenty years."

"The Rains Came" is a story of a group of people in the State of Ranchipur, their nerve in a state of unendurable tension, waiting in the terrible heat for the rains to come. There is the cynical and disillusioned Tom Ransome, who, sick of European complications, has chosen to drink his life away in Ranchipur; Fern Simon, pretty, immature daughter of the resident missionaries; the Smileys, whose sacrifices are both great and quiet; Miss MacDaid, who has given her life to establishing the hospitals in Ranchipur. Then there is the Maharajah, a good and simple man; the fierce and proud old Maharani, a strange mixture of European sophistication and primitive savagery, a brilliant young Brahmin surgeon; a ruthless and self-made peer; and Lady Esketh, his intelligent and promiscuous wife.

Then the rains came, and with them came disaster—earthquake and flood, which kill nine thousand people and cut the state off for ten days from the rest of the world.

The story of how the catastrophe changed their lives is told with all the color, skill and power for which Mr. Bromfield is noted. And beyond all that is the magnificently portrayed background of India, with all its splendor and savagery, its rottenness and beauty, its terror and complications.

"After seeing this remarkable novel on the screen at the local theatre this week," Miss Kieth stated, "I feel that patrons of the library will be more than anxious to read the story, if they have not already done so. We are glad that we are able to place 'The Rains Came' at the disposal of our membership."

RALLY WILL BE HELD AT SPUR

Roll Call was answered by "Vacation Echoes," or a brief account by the members of their various vacations.

The program included: Ensemble singing, "The Eyes of Texas are Upon You"; a report from the program committee; talk, "Federation Activities", by Miss Keith, and "Parliamentary Reminders" by Mrs. U. L. Willie.

A Frank Discussion of A Problem That May Be Worrying You...

You can't afford to risk your sight, your youthful appearance, or your means of livelihood simply because you doubt the seriousness of faulty eyesight. By continuous strain, the muscles about the eyes are worn until wrinkles are deeply etched. Faulty eyesight can exist for many years, growing steadily worse, before it is detected, unless the advice of a competent optometrist is sought.

Friendlyness, as we all have often heard, costs nothing, yet it can sometimes mean far more to the other fellow than you might imagine.

Some time ago, this observer recognized an acquaintance on the other side of the street and raised a hand in greeting. He walked across and said, "You aren't ashamed to admit that you know me, then?" In reply to my perplexed question, he told of being sued because of a business disagreement. A man of sensitive and imaginative nature, he felt that the world was against him—a feeling that would have been deepened and darkened if I had spoken perfunctorily or in my own problems or the sun shining in my eyes had caused me not to see him.

He went on up the street with a smile lighting up his face. Incidentally, when the matter came to trial, the whole case was found to have been based on a grudge and he won.

Don't be stingy with cheery greetings and handshakes.

It is amazing that our quest for old jokes took so long to unearth this one:

Smith—They've quit sending mail to Washington.
Jones—Why?
Smith—He's dead.

Equally ancient is this: Why does a farmer wear red suspenders?
To hold his pants up.

The end of the world was predicted for the oil industry by some not exactly unbiased prophets during the 1938 campaign if the people insisted on taking control of the State Railroad Commission out of the hands of Colonel Ernest O. Thompson. But the voters went ahead and exercised their own judgement and elected Jerry Sadler, anyhow. The doleful prophets, slow to become reconciled to the will of the majority, kept up their dismal forecasts for a while; but strange to relate, the oil industry has gone right on—if anything, just a little more stable than before. Commissioner Sadler has had to put in a good deal of his time in court where some companies have attacked proration orders issued during the Thompson regime and some of those orders have been lambasted by the courts; nevertheless, Sadler, working with Chairman Lon A. Smith, has labored successfully not only for the welfare of the oil men themselves but to protect the great stake which the mass of the people, who have neither the time nor money to go to Austin, have in this vast industry.

And we imagine that the readers of the Jayton Chronicle caught the subtle hint when the Jayton columnist wrote: "There is a little matter that the editor asked us to mention. It is that some of our subscribers have seemingly forgotten entirely. Some of them have made us many promises but have not kept 'em. To us it is a very important matter—it is necessary in our business. We are very modest and don't like to speak about such remittances."

MUCH INTEREST IN NEW CARS

Local automobile dealers declare that unusual interest has been shown in the new 1940 automobiles now on display. Altho the volume of sales will probably be reduced because of crop conditions in this section, dealers believe the number of people interested in new cars is greater than for a number of years. D. E. Pitts, associated with the Matador Auto Company, Ford agency, said that unusual interest was shown in the 1940 Fords from the moment the display room was opened. R. E. Campbell, manager of the Campbell Chevrolet Company here reports unusual interest in the new Chevrolet which went on display Saturday.

Institute Of Student Opinion IF WE HAD THE CHANCE--

The question this week was: If this school were turned over to you, how would you run it?

Nona Belle Wells stated that she would see that the lessons were easy so that every student could make A's without having to study.

Mary Ellen Barton said that she would turn school out permanently.

We quote Johnnie Griffin: "I wouldn't assign so many hard lessons, and I'd let the students chew gum. I would let them have a holiday once in a while."

Christine Stafford said that she wouldn't make anyone take exams and would give them all real good grades and a lot of holidays.

Wanda Nelson stated that she likes school the way it is. Nelda Jim Lane is of the same opinion.

Dorothy Hendricks wouldn't give very hard tests and would give the students lots of demerits.

Marion Clements would like to give the teachers examinations and make them sit in the student's paces four days out of the week.

Oneita Whitaker would run it the "right" way.

Leroy Nelson would turn school out every day at Twelve o'clock, have a picnic every other day, and have a banquet once a week.

Lela Carpenter wouldn't give demerits or any examinations. She would let the pupils chew chewing-gum and eat candy, have a lot of holidays, and burn the textbooks.

Pat Willard thought that the school needs free chewing gum furnished to the students, easier lessons, and a dance in the gym every two weeks.

Por la Escuela

The floor of the upper hall has been painted. At first the color was repelling to the students, but after a time, they became accustomed to it.

We had a very distinguished visitor with us the 12th. A snake! Snake, as we call him, visited in the study hall and in business arithmetic class.

The juniors made eighteen dollars on their food sale and rummage sale. More food could have been sold if it had been available. The class now has twenty-four dollars in the bank.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD TRICK PICTURES

Simple "mask box" makes it easy to take pictures with trick "frames." Above, "keyhole" picture. Right, box showing placing of camera and cut-out mask.

Upper right, various cut-outs: keyhole, gothic window, field glasses, stairway window, giant cactus silhouette, porthole and rocky cave mouth.

SNAPSHOTS with trick "frames" are easy to take, and fun to show. You can get pictures apparently made through keyholes or field glasses—and many other novel effects.

Obtain an ordinary cardboard box. It should be about twelve inches one way, and eight inches or more the other two dimensions. Exact size doesn't matter. Cut a hole in the middle of one end, a bit larger than your camera lens. Cut a large opening in the opposite end, and over this place a large "keyhole" cut out of cardboard (see drawing above). It is a good idea to paint the inside of the box black, to guard against stray reflections.

Now, place the box on a firm support, such as a table. Sight through the small rear opening, and adjust box until it frames the scene you want to picture. Line up the camera with the rear opening, as shown—and take the picture. Use a small lens opening, making a "time" exposure if the light requires it.

For other effects, just use a different cut-out, such as those shown above. Make cut-outs with simple outlines. When you use a mask box twelve inches long, a cut-out opening about six inches high or wide is usually satisfactory. After your first roll of pictures, you can tell if larger or smaller masks are preferable.

Since the cut-out masks are close to the lens, they will be somewhat out-of-focus and "fuzzy." This helps conceal the faking, and adds to the effect.

WHO'S WHO

Mack Jacobs is a brunette who likes the English teacher's daughter. His ambition is to be an airplane pilot.

Tom Ed Jameson is a brownette who likes to read. His ambition is to be an artist.

Ruth Evelyn Keith is a brownette who likes to study. Her dream prince lives in Merkel.

Estel Mize is a blonde who dislikes school. He takes part in all athletics, and his ambition is to be a good football coach.

Alton Marshall is a disappointed blonde who likes all the girls. His ambition is to be a mechanic.

The Poet's Corner

We want you to read and think about the following short poem. It is the thought of the week.

If you your lips would save from slips,
 Five things you must heed with care;
 Of whom you speak, to whom you speak,
 And how, and when, and where.

Our other item is a poem written by that brilliant president of the sophomore class, J. W. "Chubby" Durbin.

MEN OF TOMORROW

We study now as we grow,
 We know no pain nor sorrow;
 We are the school-boys of today—
 We are the business men, tomorrow.

Our government must be controlled,
 It must loan money as well as borrow;
 Our fathers are the rulers today,
 We are the rulers tomorrow.

We lose great men in tragic wars,
 Wars filled with death and horror.
 We are the fought for of today;
 We are the soldiers tomorrow.

Let us prevent these horrible wars!
 Let us stop this death and sorrow!
 Let us learn of government today,
 And rightly rule the world, tomorrow!

I GIVE YOU TEXAS

For "color", it would be difficult to surpass a one-time oil boom town holding a reunion. Glimpsed in the crowds at the recent Breckenridge homecoming were Lea Walker of Ranger (brother of the late Breck Walker, chief figure in the development of

SCHOOL SPIRIT

No school is complete without the proper spirit displayed. Cooperation between students and teachers cannot be possible without it.

When thinking of school spirit, we often think first of participating in school affairs. We should do our part in activities sponsored by our class or the school as a whole. We should act free heartedly and without regret.

Everyone is not a good athlete, but still we can boost the teams without being a member. This will mean so much to the players, if no one took interest in such affairs, our school would be lifeless and dull for all.

Pride in school equipment proves spirit. The books and desks are for our use; we should be grateful enough to return them in the same condition as when received.

From our behavior in school, the teachers and students form an opinion of us. Between classes, and all other times, we should conduct ourselves in a way to cause this to create a favorable impression.

Nothing is gained by running down the hall, throwing books, or pushing a fellow student—so why do it? Let us show our respect for both teachers and students. There is much to be gained and nothing to be lost.

This And That!

That new dimpled gal is rather fond of a "short" brunette, Norman Harp. She said that she was going to "set her cap for him." (There just ain't no privacy, folks.)

Such unusual "goings on!" Marie and Jr. Barkley are the newest discoveries in the field of romantic caperings. I hope nobody minds cause I think they are too, too cute together.

These bonds! Jr. Pitts and Bennie Wayne Marshall were seen together at the show the other night. Make up your "minds", kids. (poor W. A.)

June, you're losing out! Your little candy pal asked Catherine Daffern for a date. However, Sonny Russell seems to be keeping you company! (You Guess who is fickle. We're undecided.)

John Allsup was seen with suspicious red stains on his mouth Sunday. Could it have been lipstick? Lela blushes at the mention of it, but, of course, we don't know!

Rudolph Carpenter wishes he had a camera everytime he double dates. We won't tell why.

Quinn Martin was in a good humor a week ago Thursday and Friday. 'Tis rumored that Darsey gal is the cause. Seems that he is not behind the eight-ball after all.

Two senior gals are quite angry at J. D. Payne. After asking both for a date to the dance, he stood 'em up—the rat!

The way Myrnavae goes around in a dream these days can mean only one thing—Bennie Keltz. Ah, love's young dream.

Now, Look At The Birdie!

Mr. Hensington of Wolfe City, Texas, will be at the high school Friday, October 27, to take individual pictures of every student. One picture for the annual will be given free, and students are asked to buy as many more as they can.

Before the game with Spur last Friday, some of the students took kodak pictures of the band and pep squad. Several were taken on the grand stand and two of the pep squad in formation on the field. These pictures will be used for the annual. All other good pictures will be welcomed by the annual staff. Don't forget, students, the more pictures we have, the bigger and better our annual will be. Please cooperate!

until the native grass can mature seed and reseed the land. The maximum that can be earned by deferred grazing in any area shall be 75 percent, as compared with 60 percent last year, but supplementary practices as recommended by the county committee must be carried out. The percentage of the allowance which can be earned by this practice depends on the county committee of each county, since the need of supplementary practices varies according to the area.

To encourage improvement of small ranchers, the 1940 program provides for a minimum range-building allowance equivalent to 10 cents an acre up to 640 acres. In the past the range-building allowance has been computed on the size of the ranching unit and its grazing capacity with the result small ranches with low grazing capacity received small allowance they were hardly worth working for. In an effort to simplify administration, provision has been made that the Range Program and the Agricultural Conservation Program may be combined in any state or area if the state committee desires to do so.

Mr. Emmons advised that although only 24 applications for Range Building payments have been filed in Motley County, a great many practices are being carried out by the enthusiastic participants. 605,394 acres of rangeland are covered by these 24 applications, twenty five tank dams have been constructed, 32,719 acres of rangeland has been deferred from grazing for reseeded; mesquite eradication has been carried out extensively, some spreader dams and fire guards have been erected. It is expected that many more ranches will be included under the Range Program next year due to the provision that has been made for the improvement of small ranches.

wreckage. Through a miracle, none of the three occupants were injured more than minor bruises and scratches. Every window in the Close automobile was bent under the impact and but for safety glass, serious injuries might have resulted. Mr. Close said. Mr. Smith, who was accompanied by his wife and son, is declared to have admitted the wreck as a fault of his driving, which caused him to approach the hill and curve too fast to make the turn.
