Removal Of Sunday Train Hampers Mail

The removal of Sunday passenger and mail service over the Quanah, Acme, & Pacific Railway, which went into effect last Sunday, left Paducah, Matador and Roaring Springs without mail delivery for the first time within the 14 years the train has been operated. Daily papers from Ft. Worth and Wichita Falls were delivered here by bus, but first class mail was held over until Monday.

The railroad did not make any statement regarding the sudden change in schedule. Immediate plans have been started by the post office department out of Ft. Worth to provide Sunday service for the affected towns within two or three weeks.

A bus carrying first-class mail (no packages) will leave Vernon at 7 a. m. on Sunday, arriving at Matador at 9:40 and continue west to Plainview where a railroad mail connection will be made at 11:10. Postmaster E. F. Springer declared that Matador would have the same service as before except in outgoing mail, which must be in the office by 9 a. m. since there will be no bus in the afternoon.

TRAIL DUST

By DOUGLAS MEADOWS

Modesty bequeaths my frank admission that several tete-a-tetes with opportunity might have developed into a lasting friendship. Had it not been necessary that I should have too much endeavor at the disposal of my acquaintance. Success might be able to increase its volume if a deferred payment could be offered which would be self-liquidating.

Down lay beyond the small shelter church like a black and grey blanket hanging in the sky, while silence cushioned each separate sound during the ethereal hour. A bar of golden light, flung through a breach in the mountains, fell against the white cross. Presently the door, like the gate to a dry flume, opened, and three women with shawls about their heads walked into the morning. They were spoken outside the door as they moved slowly away from the humble homes scattered in the narrow valley. Only the lovers, holding hands as they walked through the dusty path, looked up; people and gold light had woven a shawl for the mountain peaks.

Last in the flood of centuries, the Chisos mountains rise out of the desert like an island in the sea; a fragment of paradise too bright with beauty to molest. Great rocks shaped by night shadows are the added weight of stars shed to the sky, while the fountain of a Texas moon pours silver into the enchanted matrix.

Each day is born to the music of waiving winds with fleecy clouds in their arms and the hushed sighs of weeping juniper trees in their souls. Grassy and red carpets of flowers are hidden behind the majestic ramarts that defend their treasures against the desert; cool springs under the fevered sun as it sways between the walls. Perhaps the city mesa on El Capitan has known the gentle tread of angels, leading to inspect eternity's forever possession; the Chisos.

Truth is frequently used as a finger-bowl for hands that will be thoroughly cleansed.

Some simple transport wanders through the decaying forest of childhood memories when the fragrance of bruised mint leaves is lost. It is like a fragile vase which time has neglected in wandering the ruins of tranquil days; sunlight on the dew-drops, the mint bed and my mother's hair with soil on her gentle hands.

Civilization is weeping for men who spike her skirts with bayonets to the barren hills of oblivion, while plunging, screaming soldiers spill blood in the path of tomorrow's sun. There is no glory where death has been.

The man who has known actual hunger and thirst must pray devoutly to his heart when there is a plentitude of food and water; a deep brand is never removed.

Ambition is like the clay that is made into a brick. It first must be pressed and baked before the force of its strength may be estimated.

Flourishing beneath each blow of the great hammer, the earth is like a slave at the lashing of the mighty thorn of iron, and concrete had been driven into the swollen surface. Men and women swore as they toiled to complete the bridge where a deep channel would cross.

Despite the deep scarred stone, walls of steel and earth, the sea set about its patient rites of eradication that some distant day shall find every trace removed, like the wind sweeps away cloud-mists from the peak of an ancient mountain.

Unworried, except by the intonations of their dreams, old cowboys ride away from strange camps of modern life, through the unfenced horizons of a dusty, in warped saddle-bags they bear the original plans of the bridge, the paid expense account of courage and some obscure designs of friendship.

Where seldom receives more cooperation than at the time of a neglected duty.

FLOMOT MAN IN CAR ACCIDENT

Ralph Stapleton, whose home is between Matador and Flomot had a car wreck near Iowa Park Monday. Mr. Stapleton was on his way to Fort Worth to transact business when the accident occurred. Although the car was badly damaged, no one was injured, it was reported.

Program Is Planned For Boy Scouts

George A. Holland, Field Scout Executive, from Lubbock spent the day in Matador. He met with the Lions Club troop tomorrow and Scoutmasters Garth and Howard Traweck, to discuss the fall program for the local scouts and to guide them in work-out details.

It was decided at the meeting to have the goal for the program for the first six weeks, the Camporee to be held at Lubbock.

The scouts will prepare 'camp' for the fall. Mr. Holland explained, as wash stands, clothes racks, food racks, coolers, cooking things and other things which will be used at the camp. They will take these things to the camp site in competition with the other troops of the Council.

The scouts will also be guests of the Tech at the Tech-Arizona football game to be held that evening. It is estimated that 750 scouts will attend the camporee football game, Mr. Holland said.

It is preliminary to the camporee, he decided to hold a scouting demonstration, demonstration and a contest of honor in the Matador on October 3.

SAFETY COUNCIL MEET HERE FRI.

Members of the Texas Safety Council spent several hours in the city Friday in the interest of safety. While here, they visited with citizens and heads of the organizations.

"We must think and talk safety in our every walk of life if we are to reduce the alarming number of deaths each year," stated J. D. Tappe, active in the traffic department. "We must expect to reduce 2,000 lives in the state this year, according to statistics, but the number can be reduced."

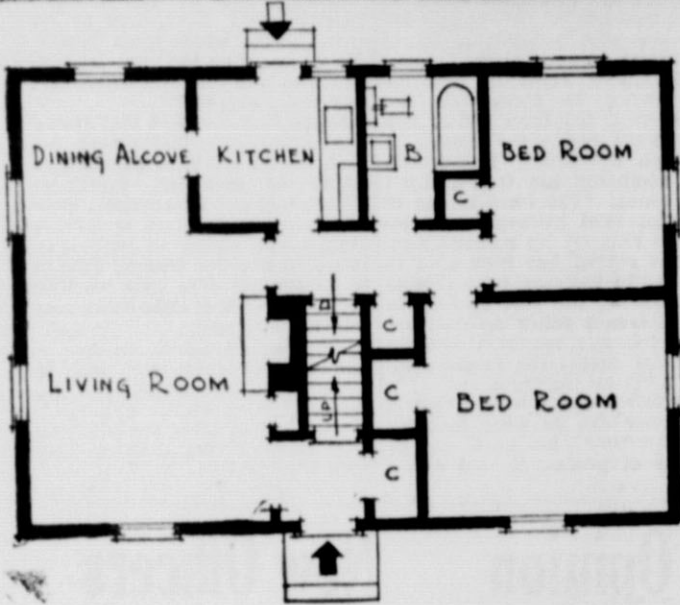

It is hoped that a state juvenile council can be perfected in the near future to reduce the deaths of children.

The association, organized in 1933 by Pierce Brooks, Dallas businessman, has been active in bringing to the attention of the public the need for safety. Its objectives are setting up a uniform traffic code, stringent drivers' license law, strict enforcement of existing laws, and the teaching of safety in the public schools.

TWO PIONEERS OF CHILDRESS SUCCUMB SUN. Early-Day Sheriff Of Motley County Dies In Amarillo

Funeral services for Benjamin F. Harper, 81, merchant and cattleman of Childress in pioneer days and long-time peace officer of the Panhandle, were conducted Monday at Amarillo. He died Sunday in Amarillo.

Harper came to West Texas at an early age and worked on ranches in West Texas and New Mexico until 1894 when he became deputy sheriff of Motley County. He later served as sheriff.

In 1897, he came to Childress and entered the livery stable business and also engaged in cattle buying. He became inspector of the Texas Cattle Raisers association.

tion in 1900, served as police sergeant in Amarillo for several years, then was U. S. marshal of the northern district of Texas from 1922 until he retired in 1931.

His widow, two sons and three daughters survive.

Also Former Resident

Final rites were conducted Monday morning for James W. Mitchell, 60-year-old Childress pioneer who died Sunday night at his home here.

The services were at the family residence with Rev. Frank Travis, Presbyterian pastor, in charge. Burial in the Childress cemetery was under the direction of the McMinn Funeral home.

Pallbearers were Floyd, Robert, F. B. Frank and Britt Mitchell and Graham Smith.

Mitchell had resided in Childress for 51 years and served ten years as mayor of the city. During his administrations, many progressive civic programs were started.

Survivors are the widow and a son, James, of Childress; his father, S. W. Mitchell of Childress; two sisters, Mrs. Jack G. Smith and Mrs. Efton Wilks of Childress; and four brothers, Charlie and Fred of Childress, Sam W. of Amarillo and Henry of Fort Worth.

exchange. This is in the European style. In small places a single room may be had for half that price with three meals included also.

A peculiarity of some of these provincial hotels is the small black-board seen in the lobby. Here one's name is written in with chalk, opposite the room he occupies. Other data concerning the guest is written opposite the name also. Mine had the figures "5.30". This meant I had left word at the desk to be called at that hour the following morning.

In some of these hotels Spanish alone is spoken; so one not conversant with "la lengua castellana" has no particularly easy time of it. I resorted to various

A Provincial Hotel

A word must be said about provincial hotels that one encounters in the smaller cities and towns of Mexico. Rates vary greatly, as it is to be expected. In Mexico City a room and bath in a first-class hotel—a single—can be had from ten to fourteen pesos a day, depending on the rate of pantomines to make my wants known augmented by the merest smattering of Spanish that I could conjure up. I wanted to take a bath, but two things were conspicuous by their absence—hot water and bath towels. At the desk I made known my wants "Quiero baño—agua caliente" so far I was able to make known to them I desired to take a bath and wanted hot water.

But what 'bath-towls' were in Spanish I had not the slightest idea. Then in a lucid moment, I had an inspiration. I jerked out my handkerchief and began to 'wipe' myself with it—my legs, arms, and body. A light of understanding illuminated the clerk's face—"Ah, Si, Si, Senior"—he understood. And my bath towels were forthcoming.

Then I wanted to leave word one night to be called at 5:30 the next morning. I pointed to the black board and began "cinco horas" he understood that for five o'clock, but how to say 'one-half'—that had me stumped. I would have left it go at that but I wanted that extra half-hour to sleep, five-thirty was bad enough. I remembered having seen some Mexicans 'making signs' with their fingers, so I held up my five fingers, closed them then with the index finger of my right hand I passed them half-way across my other index finger.

Again dawned the light and the clerk went over to the black-board and chalked up "5:30." If I wanted anything I saw, I simply used my index finger—what has one an index finger for, if not to use? So in this manner I expressed my wants without the clumsy vehicle of language.

The time is here when Mexico must build larger hotels in which the help are either bi, or tri-lingual for the convenience of the travelling public, as is the case in European hotels.

Rooms in some of these provincial hotels are sometimes very large—like the concourse of the Grand Central in New York City. To leave one's bed, to open or close a window, is really an "excursion." And some of the bathrooms resemble a cross between the Sistine Chapel and a bowling alley. In one place I saw 'oils' decorating the wall above the bath tub, and it distracted me from my bodily ablutions as I gazed up at this 'bath-room art'.

But one must grin (or shall I say laugh) and bear it—in retrospect it becomes a hilarious experience, and kills the deadly monotony of routine.

- TALL TALES
- Cowboys of yesteryear used to look forward to peaceful hours spent around the camp-fires each night, for it was during these interludes that those famous yarns were told.
- These stories, repeated time and again, (and perhaps added to each time) soon became legends. One story, told by Mrs. D. C. Keith, that used to send the Matador cowboys into gales of laughter runs something like this:
- A family living on the plains was chased by a large bear into a hole in the ground.
- "What did you do?" asked the cowboy later when listening to the story of the thrilling experience.
- "We climbed into a tree when the bear wasn't looking," answered the man.
- "A tree," cried the astonished cowboy. "How did you find a tree on the PLAINS?"
- "Hell, son," the man retorted, "there HAD to be a tree there!"

More than 25 bands have already been entered in the clinic-festival. There will also be march parades and other features of the band festival.

"The Queen of Queens" Coronation and Pageant will be held as a special feature of Press Day and Chamber of Commerce Managers Day at the 1939 State Fair of Texas. These two celebrations will be held on Opening Day at the State Fair, October 7th.

The Thirty-third annual All Breed Dog Show will be held by the Texas Kennel Club at the State Fair of Texas on Wednesday and Thursday, October 11 and 12, it has been announced here by M. C. Jenkins, President of the Texas Kennel Club.

Etiquette Tactful Guests

Having accepted an invitation, one assumes certain obligations. The first is punctuality. One should arrive five or ten minutes before the hour set. It is equally bad to arrive too early or too late.
It is the duty of every guest to enter into the spirit of the occasion and do his best to make the party a success. If one is feeling "out of sorts," it is far better to telephone regrets, rather than cast a shadow over the whole gathering by one's spirit of gloom.

And favorable public opinion supports the opinion of the able physicians who test the value of Doan's under exacting laboratory conditions. These physicians approve every word of advertising you read, the objective of which is only to recommend Doan's Pills as a good diuretic treatment for functional kidney disorder and for relief of the pain and worry it causes. If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove waste that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole body suffers when kidneys fail, and diuretic medication would be more often employed. Burning, scanty or too frequent urination may be warning of disturbed kidney function. You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous, all pained out. Use Doan's Pills. a girl of eight years, and her entire life had been devoted to the church which she so much loved. For a number of years she taught in the Church school and was always faithful and loyal to the task. In paying tribute to her passing, both Rev. Vaughn and Rev. Denison, dwell on the consecration of her life as a christian mother, and neighbor, with the following remarks:

"In her home she was an ideal mother and companion. No sacrifice was too great for her to make for the family and their needs. As a neighbor she was loved and appreciated by all. Last December she was stricken ill and since that time until her death, was confined to her home, and most of the time to her bed. In her illness and suffering she has been an example of patience. At all times and under all circumstances she was cheerful and had a kind word for every one.

"She desired to get well that she might longer bless her family and the world, but she was ready at any moment to go from this life to be in the presence of her Lord and Christ. Only a week before her going, she engaged in singing some of the old songs of the church.

"Added to the list of bereaved relatives are a great host of friends. Truly a good woman has gone. A true companion, a loving mother, a loyal friend and a devoted christian has gone to her deserved reward, but her spirit and influence will remain with us to help and bless thru the years to come."

service if necessary. Among other matters discussed was that hospitalization for the veterans will now be available at all times. Hospitals used in this district are located at Muskogee, Oklahoma and Albuquerque, New Mexico. It was announced that a government hospital would be opened at Amarillo, Texas in 1940, perhaps as early as April, which will assist greatly in hospitalization of veterans from this section.

Refreshments were served the group before it adjourned.

Lubbock Fair Near Complete For Opening

In another ten days or so, the 26th annual Panhandle South Plains Fair will be in full swing. Announcement was made this week by Fair officials of the signing of the contract with Ace Lillard and his Death Defiers to present one of the most sensational and thrilling exhibitions ever staged in the southwest. This auto thrill show will be held Friday and Saturday afternoon in front of the grandstand.

Flirting with the Grim Reaper every minute of the two hour show, these dare devils will put their cars thru routines foreign to this section of the State. Crashing a brick wall, leaping the leap of death, tail spins, ski jumps, mid air crash at an 80 mile an hour impact, and many, many other breath-taking stunts, will furnish spectators a thrill a second.

Final touches are being put on exhibit buildings as painters finish their work. Trees have been trimmed and the grass cut, all making ready for what promises to be the best Fair in the history of the Association. The new drinking fountains, as pictured, are now ready for the Fair patrons, young and old, to use.

Wednesday and Thursday will be children's days, so officials announced. Each county and city school superintendent has been notified of their particular day.

Exhibitors are showing a marked interest in the exposition this year. Already more than 20 counties have made reservations for county exhibits and a large number for community exhibits. Individuals have already made reservations for livestock and agricultural exhibits.

Clear Weather, Dry Roads Scene of Most Accidents

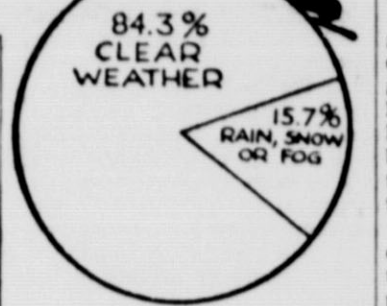

Old Man Weather is blamed for a great many things, but how responsible is he for automobile accidents?

The answer is given in the booklet "Lest We Regret," ninth annual safety booklet published by the Travelers Insurance Company in the interests of safe driving.

Last year there were about seven and a half times as many accidents in clear weather as there were during fog, rain, or snow. Out of a total of 29,300 fatal accidents in 1938, only 500 occurred in snowy weather, only 820 happened in fog and only 3,280 in rain. The remainder, 24,700 or nearly 85% of the total, occurred in clear weather.

Even more interesting is the analysis of actual road conditions prevailing in accidents, which reveals that 77% of all fatal accidents happened on dry roads. When roads are wet or slippery and driving seems to be dangerous, drivers apparently slow down and increase their alertness. On wet roads only 5,100 fatal accidents occurred, on icy roads only 1,080, and on snowy roads only 560.

The figures indicate that clear weather and dry roads encourage speeding, and speed is known to be the largest single factor in the annual slaughter on our highways.

REVELATION.

Editors Note: The contribution was written by H. P. Lovelace, Pastor of ssembly of God Church, Matador.

At about four o'clock morning, Sister Alene Heffelfinger and I, were praying, confessing our sins and faults and as we prayed, I was pray for Christians and friends, and also the office in Matador; business friends and also for the leaders of the nation that we all may quiet and peaceful life of Godliness and honesty. (2:2)

I feel that we as pastors, gelists, teachers and leaders of our towns and nations, have a great responsibility upon us to lead the people of God to think of Moses and Jesus. Surely we are living closing days of time. Let us take this in the spirit in which it was written. God bless Amen.
