

VOTERS AWAIT SIGNAL

TRAIL DUST

By DOUGLAS MEADOR

Something in the old man's eyes... face reminded me of a sun-bleached salamander I had once seen in a caked waterhole during Oklahoma drought but he was only a barber in town. In fact the emporium was the only place of business on a vast stretch of prairie desert that lay between...

When this stoic world fails to recognize a man's success as the shadow of his wife's confidence and inspiration, thus to place laurels at a barren shaft.

Many on the perron of life grow weary of the climb and lean against the banister of envious wishing.

Satisfaction makes a comfortable shroud for ambition when it no longer revolts at idleness.

Progress has changed the great plains since the old man faced burning summer winds over long, dusty trails in the dust of rest-herds. His brown skin has leached until the deep, purple veins are revealed after years of protection behind the plate glass of automobiles. But there is a depth in his faded eyes that betrays a desire for the hot sun in his face again, a skidish constant beneath him and only the stars overhead at night. The lines of age are sharp and strong.

My mother never ridiculed hopeful plans which I often salvaged from the smoldering fire of ambition. Her faith followed each entry until it lay prone and still in the vale of failure.

Leaving at 6:13 Wednesday morning the contestants rode close together for the first five miles when Mr. Timmons rode ahead for a two mile gain which he kept until reaching Memphis, 2 hours and 25 minutes later. The riders changed horses at Red river.

Breaking the precedent of this year's political campaign, candidates entertained a large and enthusiastic crowd on the courthouse square Saturday night with various degrees of oratory. Grand Jury Returns 11 Indictments

The July term of the Grand Jury adjourned early yesterday afternoon after returning 11 felony indictments, according to the following report submitted to District Judge Alton B. Chapman:

"We, the Grand Jury of Motley County, Texas, for the July Term, 1940, wish to report that we have been in session for 2 1/2 days and have returned 11 felony indictments, and having completed our work desire to adjourn for the term.

"It has come to the attention of the Grand Jury that a certain element in Motley County is being repeatedly convicted of misdemeanor crimes and laying out their fines in jail, at considerable expense to the county, and without any deterring effect on subsequent crimes by the same persons.

"This Grand Jury, therefore, by a unanimous vote strongly urges and recommends that the Commissioners' Court of Motley County enter an order requiring all persons convicted and fined in misdemeanor cases in this County who fail to pay fine to work the same out on the roads and public property of the county, but on types of work that would otherwise not be done, so as not to deprive honest citizens of jobs that are already contemplated.

Respectfully submitted, L. A. Stearns, Foreman."

HERE FROM NEW MEXICO

Mr. Orr is a former resident of Motley county.

FIRST PARITY CHECKS ARRIVE

The first shipment of 1940 parity checks arrived for Motley county cotton growers Monday when the County Agent's office delivered $4,825 to 48 farmers, according to Lowell Sharbutt, secretary of the local Agricultural Conservation Association. Mr. Sharbutt declared that 660 work sheets will be sent from this county and that cotton raisers will receive in the neighborhood of $95,000 from parity payments.

Motley county was 8th in the state to receive a first shipment of checks this year. The parity payment consists of 1.55 cents on each pound of a farm's normal yield of cotton allotment.

Mr. Sharbutt said that about 85% of the work of measuring Motley county farms had been completed in the 1940 compliance work. The measuring was started June 1. He said that much delay had been caused in completing parity applications since over one half of the cotton growers had over-planted, making it necessary to correct the acreage and make changes in the forms.

Campaign Is Concluded As Primary Nears

Interest Grows In Probable Outcome Saturday Voting

With last minute appeals today and tomorrow, candidates reach that station in the current campaign where nothing is left to do except await the action of voters. Most county candidates announce that they have completed their campaigns while candidates for district, state and the hotly contested Congress place, will, in some instances, continue with literature and radio until Friday night.

Three races appear to hold outstanding interest here, including the county sheriff's race, the Congress handicap and the Governor's race, also many are keenly interested in Saturday's verdict in other races.

Primary To Cut Ticket

All of the county contests with the exception of the county treasurer's will be concluded in the primary, as well as that of the State Senator where only two candidates appear on the ticket. The largest number of names are listed on the ballot for the place of Railroad Commissioner, with a total of 18. The Congressional race is 2nd with 12 names and the Governor's race is 3rd with 7 names. Six candidates are in the race for Chief Justice of the Supreme Court.

Walker Seeks State Office

In the three-man race for state representative from the 121st district is E. E. "Red" Walker of Memphis, a "plain business man." Walker was born in Georgia and moved to Texas as a boy. He moved to Hall county and farmed west of Memphis for a number of years, then went to Memphis and has been engaged in the insurance business since. "As a man of mature judgment I am acquainted with the problems of the average man," Walker said. "I will be in no position to represent special interests as a professional man would be, and, if elected, I will devote my energies to the interest of the common man." Counties in the district are Childress, Hall, Motley and Cottle. Six railroads borrowed $1,816,000 from the permanent school fund before the Civil War, and these were the only securities owned by the fund which were not "wiped" out by the war. Every cent of the money was paid back after the war, with the exception of $242,000 which was remitted to one line by the Reconstruction Governor Davis.

Freedom Cannot Be Reckoned In Terms of Dollars"-Wells

candidate For Congress Urges Preparedness

The "Wells for Congress" campaign strength continuing in this week extended the speaking tour which took him from the south Panhandle to the north, and at the time he continued the personal contacts through men and women in every part of the Panhandle have come to him. Confidence marked Wells' entry into the final stage of his campaign as he spoke July 20, at Spearman, Stratford and Perryton. Wells pointed out the problems facing the nation and the people. "The people of this country need a representative who knows their needs, who has the ability to work for them, and will do it with fairness, efficiency, and sincerity. The people need a man of character and ability and one in whom they can have confidence. I have often said and I repeat that this country is not ready to resist by force outside aggression. No alien should be allowed to set foot on our American continents. The forces which are already at work to destroy us from within and without are not preparedness. It is better to pay a high price for preparedness than it is to see the health of our nation taken away. There is no price too high to pay to keep our people from being serfs. Taxes are better than slavery. Freedom cannot be reckoned in terms of dollars." Smiling broadly, Deck Wells continued his intense person to person campaign. Both in his address and in conversation with Dumas people, he reaffirmed his loyalty to the elderly people whose days of strenuous work has passed—to the youth seeking an outlet for its tremendous energies—to the farmer—the laborer—and to the thousands and thousands of men and women who make up the Panhandle that Deck Wells has loved so intently for his entire life.

Fair Queen To Receive Test In Hollywood

The Queen of Queens who will be selected at the Coronation Ceremony and Pageant which will be held on opening day of the 1940 State Fair of Texas, Saturday, October 5, will be given a trip to Hollywood and a screen test, it was announced here by the Pageant Committee, of which R. J. O'Donnell is chairman and Alphonso Ragland, jr., is vice chairman. Every queen selected in Texas during the year will be invited to participate in the Queens' Pageant. A competent jury of artists will select one of the visiting queens as the Queen of Queens. More than fifty visiting queens were present at the coronation ceremonies in 1939. Miss Ruth Evelyn Foote of Abilene was crowned Queen of Queens at the 1939 celebration and was given an M-G-M screen test. While in Hollywood, Miss Foote was entertained by Clark Gable, Edward Arnold, Miss June Pringle and countless others. The theme of the Queens' Pageant at the State Fair will be patriotic. It will also be allegorical, according to Hal C. Worth, widely known pageant director and designer. More than 2,500 school children, dancing pupils, R. O. T. C. students and others will take part in the Queens' Pageant. All Texas Newspapermen and Chambers of Commerce managers and secretaries will be invited to the Queens' Pageant this year, as opening day will also see the observation of Press Day and Texas Commercial Secretaries Day.

Three new buildings—for music, petroleum and chemical engineering—will soon be erected on the University of Texas campus.

Bailey Sheppard Plan Would Put Motor Fuel Reserves Underground For National Defense

Huge underground tank farms would protect America's reserve supply of motor fuels from bombardment or sabotage, according to the plan of Bailey Sheppard of Longview, candidate for railroad commissioner. The artist's sketch shows the Sheppard plan for bomb-proof storage with a peaceful country-side camouflaging a great underground storehouse. The lower picture shows one of the vast subterranean tank farms protected by anti-aircraft cannon.

We have "Mother-in-law-Day" and "Be Kind to Wild Flowers Week"—so maybe something will yet be done for that most friendless of all creatures, the candidate's press agent.

Editors (and the general public for that matter) picture the publicity man as an individual who tours leisurely over the country, smoking twenty-five cent cigars and eating thick steaks. As a matter of fact, he rises at 6 a. m. because ten towns and 225 miles are ahead of him; he grabs a hamburger and a bottle of soda pop on the fly at noon like the Twentieth Century Express taking on water and fuel without stopping; he evaporates in the dust and heat of a July afternoon, and sits up till midnight tapping out stories, interviews and speeches, while the candidate (they share the same room) is so weary that he snores in time with the clicking keys of the typewriter.

And the next day is the same, and so on thru the week. "But there's Sunday," someone remarks,—ah, yes, Sunday the day of rest! On Sunday, you dash a couple of hundred miles into headquarters for a conference with the campaign leaders on the next week's strategy.

The white horses eat more than the black horses because there are more white horses—and Texas is the hardest state in which to be a political press agent because there is more Texas than any other state. Think of trying to make an impact on a commonwealth with 254 counties, extending a thousand miles east and west and eleven hundred miles north and south. The only consolation is that it's just as big for the fellow who's press-agenting the rival candidate.

The average man goes to a convention and makes whoopee for two days, then returns home and catches up on his sleep—but life is a continual round of conventions for the candidate and the press agent because, at these gatherings, citizens from all parts of the state can be seen—and heard, for happy delegates yelp in corridors outside your room till 3:30 a. m. and then the hotel help starts cleaning up at 4:15 a. m.

But you daren't complain about the food or the noise or even comment on the weather because you might cost your candidate a vote.

You and he are campaigning in El Paso, when you get a phone call from headquarters that the enemy is spreading insidious propaganda in Texarkana—and you envy Sheridan who had to ride only fourteen miles to get to the Battle of Winchester!

Or maybe you hop off from San Antonio at the first streak of dawn and by nightfall you have campaigned to the southmost tip of Texas, 330 miles from the starting point. There is no way to return except over the same route you came down and you feel like a householder who is painting a floor and suddenly discovers that he has painted himself into a corner.

The press agent has to find time to read the papers so he can see what the opposition is saying and doing—which is usually plenty; and he has to send a nightly report back to headquarters besides writing a local story for the papers in each town visited and preparing general releases, with maybe a fifteen minute radio speech to ghost-write.

Then you have to watch over your candidate—tell him when he needs a hair-cut and remind him to throw away that polka-dot tie. When your back is turned, your candidate will order a dozen fried oysters in the middle of May at Odessa, which is practically a seaport, being only 400 miles from the Gulf of Mexico. Or your protegee may have a habit of wandering into old book stores and curio shops when he should be out back-slapping.

And you've got to keep him pepped up—which is some job, when there were only eleven persons at the opening speech of the campaign.

The candidate's troubles are yours; you react to his difficulties like a well Siamese twin does to the ailment of his brother. You come back over the road where you'd tacked up posters a week before, and the opposition has torn them down. You wonder if there'll be enough money for gasoline and stamps till the end of the race. Maybe you have the sound truck all set up in a town and the constable makes you move.

There comes to mind one little city where a Fourth of July celebration wound up with the reopening of a feud and four men were shot to death—which was one less than the Americans lost in the Battle of Bunker Hill—but when candidate and press agent hit that community, an officer stepped forward and said:

"I see you have sound equipment on the car; we have an ordinance against the use of loud speakers, and we are sticklers for law and order here."

And if you let your gaze stray away for a moment, somebody who is working for the other candidate jerks the lines that give the loud speaker its juice. It's a great life.

Lewis Fields Civic Leader In Home Town

When Lewis P. Fields, candidate for congress, came to Amarillo twenty years ago, a job of any kind was his immediate quest. The son of Dr. and Mrs. C. L. Fields, long-time residents of Groom, he had been reared on farms and ranches in Hemphill, Donley and Carson counties, attended the public schools and old Goodnight College. He was fresh from active fighting service with the A. E. F. in France.

Fields found his job—his 200 pounds were useful in the warehouse of Nobles Bros. Wholesale Grocery Co.—and in four short months his efficiency had moved him up to shipping clerk. He graduated from groceries into General Insurance with the Ordway-Saunders Co., with which he has been associated for 16 years.

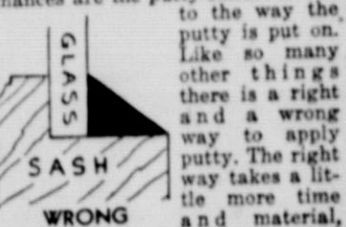

As insurance man, it has been necessary for Fields to become acquainted with methods, and problems of many varied industries. As a by-product of mingling with business officials, he speedily found himself called upon to plan and perform civic duties in behalf of many community betterment movements. In that field, he has been a leader for many years in his home city. Services as National Executive Committeeman and now member National Defense Committee of the American Legion has given him further extensive experiences in this field.

Years ago, his abilities and enthusiasm won him an intimate contact with the Hon. Marvin Jones, Grover Hill and other agricultural leaders. He has worked with both the planning and carrying out of the agricultural and range programs and is thoroughly familiar with them as well as with business problems.

It is the opinion of those who know him well, that Fields' personal life, his wide knowledge of business and agricultural problems, his intense interest in social betterment, plus his proven practicability, make him a candidate who will truly represent the interests of the citizenry of this district.

PUTTY FAILURE OFTEN DUE TO POOR APPLICATION

When you see the putty cracking away from your windows in big chunks, don't be too quick about blaming it on the putty. The chances are the putty failure is due to the way it is put on.

Like so many other things there is a right and a wrong way to apply putty. The right way takes a little more time and material, which is the reason you do not find it on windows that are made to sell at a price.

In one sketch, we show you the ordinary way that putty is applied to windows. This method is quick and cheap, but it is temporary because swelling of wood from the inside causes putty to crack off.

In the sketch to the proper way to apply putty. It is known as a "bed" and it is a layer of putty on all sides of the glass, actually is a "bed" of putty. Wood glass do not come in contact with each other. Notice also the putty groove which shows the putty so easy for all the rest of us. But after regarding his set of false teeth, I no longer marvel at it. In fact, I now consider it a miracle that he was able to talk at all with that curious contraption in his mouth.

So I then and there became disillusioned—my idol had not only feet of clay but false teeth, too.

Perhaps we might emulate the Orientals and build a huge shrine over them. In China, Ceylon, Siam and Java one sees temples erected, or perhaps his collar-bone, one of his molars, or even a small pinch of his ashes—so why let this golden opportunity slip by and not erect a temple to Washington when we have his entire set of artificial teeth to build on. At least the matter bears investigation.

Canadian, Texline, Stratford, Shamrock, Texas, and Cross Roads N. M., have definitely promised entries in the first annual XIT Cowgirl Sponsor contest that will be a high spot of the XIT Reunion in Dalhart Aug. 5-6. Lubbock, Midland and Dumas have tentatively arranged for entries, said Charlie Coombes, general XIT chairman.

Cross Roads will send Miss Fern Sawyer; Canadian will send its already nationally-known Sydna Yokley; Shamrock will send 12-year-old Sally Small who has been riding several years and in sponsor contests has already won a second prize at Memphis and a third at Clarendon. Other entries have not been named. First prize is a saddle and second is a specially-made saddle third is a pair of shop-made boots.

Mrs. Hallie Mortenson, who born in Old Tascosa, and mother, Mrs. M. M. Haynes, of Ganado, Ariz., will be special old-time guests at Fifth Annual XIT Reunion, Dalhart Aug. 5-6.

Goodrich Is Making Final Campaign Trip

Final trip over most of the week. Lewis M. Goodrich, Wheeler county, candidate for Congress, is seeing more personally and this busy campaign has caused him to be the fastest gaining man.

Goodrich over the radio, Goodrich reached thousands of people with his friendly, sincere words. He has seen and talked to thousands at their homes, in stores, in offices, in the field and on the parts of the district.

Goodrich is talking about Lewis and how it is possible to see as many people as he can. And Goodrich has leaped to the front of the ranks in making strides within the past three weeks.

There is nothing sensational about Lewis Goodrich's campaign. He knows a hard-working man when they see him and they will put him in the running, commented a friend.

Goodrich talks in towns over the district and over the radio. Goodrich has stressed soil conservation, farming, adjustment of landlord and tenant, making it possible for tenants to buy farms, payment of freight rates, and a national defense to combat the respect of aggressor nations and preserve our great Democracy.

A habit of long standing to obtusely solve problems the hardest way when usually there is a simple solution, brings to mind a favorite story from an old text book.

A fine piano had been purchased for the daughter of the family, but when it was delivered it was left facing the wall.

The matter of reaching the key board was finally settled by moving the piano before an open window, with the daughter sitting on the porch for daily scales practice.

When the family gathered about the hearth on winter evenings, daughter simply donned her coat, seated herself at the piano as usual, and proceeded with the evening's entertainment, as usual.

If the tempo of one's life should govern the decade in which he lives, then I should have been my mother's sister rather than her daughter. Geared too slow for this racing era, and handicapped by dilatory characteristics, I am forever trying to flag down time's space ships.

CAMPBELL CHEVROLET CO. COMPLETE MOTOR AND BODY REPAIR SERVICE

2 TYPICAL EXPERIENCES WITH THE FREE MILE-DIAL

CAREFUL SHOPPER type tells you:

"I'm driving the car all day while my husband's at work, so I really buy most of the family gasoline out of my own budget. If I can get even 2 or 3 miles more to a gallon I want to know it. That's why I went to a Conoco station for my Mile-Dial—not just because it's free, but because it really lets you know your true mileage, exactly as a woman wants to really know about anything she pays for. I like buying tested things—the same as any up-to-date consumer—and this certified Mile-Dial is like giving us consumers our own easy way of testing Conoco Bronz-z-z for mileage.

"DIDN'T CARE" type of driver says:

"I didn't much care what gasoline I bought as I went along. But this Mile-Dial being free, and really daring you to keep your own close tabs on Conoco Bronz-z-z gasoline, I went for it. And now I know why they've got the gimp to let the Mile-Dial tell all. For you can see by my Mile-Dial right on the dash that I've gone 633 miles on 37 gallons of Conoco Bronz-z-z.

CAREFUL SHOPPER type tells you:

"Anyway, it's almost like a game, dialing your correct mileage on the Mile-Dial—awfully clever. My husband says so, too. By the way, my driving is just as economical as his, the way it proves out on our Mile-Dial. Isn't that interesting? And we're keeping on dialing to make sure of our average in all different driving. Right now, after 61 gallons of Bronz-z-z in all, we're a good 200 miles ahead of what we used to expect from that much gasoline."

"Now if you'll watch this smart Mile-Dial work—next to automatic—you'll see it giving the answer: ... above 17 miles to the gallon of Bronz-z-z in this big eight, around town here. But I'm leaving for about a 700-mile trip—mostly open country. So don't be surprised if I even get better mileage. And don't say that's a brag, because you can't help believing the Mile-Dial. Besides setting the economy of Conoco Bronz-z-z it's sort of swell fun dialing your honest mileage. The Conoco boys must know what their gasoline's got, to give you a Mile-Dial free. I'll bet you would like one yourself and they're free as air, around a Conoco station. You ought to go quick and get yours."

SINCERE... HONEST... AMBITIOUS

TRUTH has a strange quality; it will not be destroyed. It may suffer abuse, neglect, and irreverence but its strength is not impaired. Once created, truth is immortal, a force that accepts no compromise.

In his campaign for the office of Sheriff, Tax Assessor and Collector of Motley County, H. H. (Cy) Courtney has employed the only strategy he knows; that of truth. The truth of his record as a peace officer for four years and two months in this county is known to every voter.

Fearless, sincere and capable, he achieved a record during the time he was deputy sheriff, that is second to none. There is no doubt as to his ability to fill the office. It is a proven fact and a matter of record.

It is natural that Mr. Courtney should have ambitions to achieve the office of sheriff following his experience in the subordinate office. It is typical of his character to wait until his candidacy would not infringe on the accepted political custom of two terms in office.

Cy Courtney deserves the vote and support of Motley county's citizenry. He was born in a two-room shack at Northfield and has attained his present station in life the hard way. He is a native son who has proven his merit in every instance, and asks with direct sincerity for the opportunity which he has earned.

We, as a group of his friends and neighbors who have known him most of his life, and entirely without his knowledge, make this appeal to the voters of Motley County:

Dusty Miller Sees Nation At Crisis

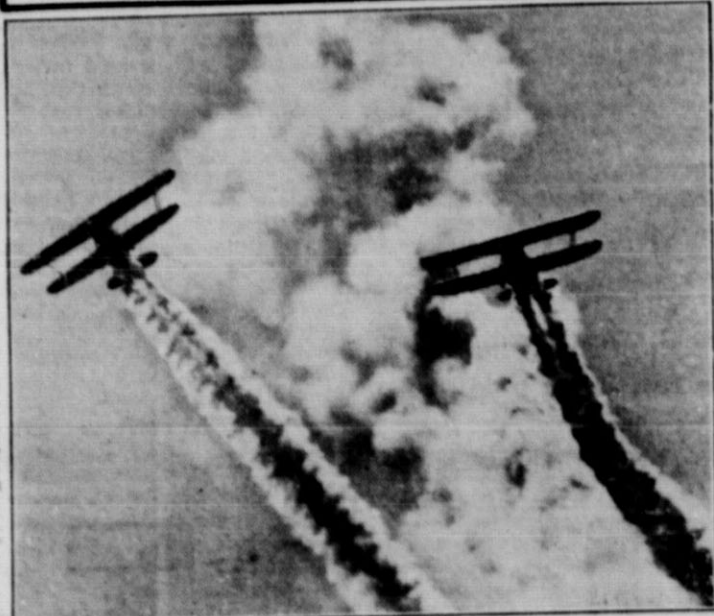

E. T. "Dusty" Miller, congressional candidate from the 18th Congressional district, continued his campaign of meeting and talking to the people of the Panhandle during the past week and will climax his efforts with a big personal rally at Elwood Park in Amarillo Friday night from 8:15 to 9:15, the speech to be broadcast over a special radio hookup which includes radio stations KFDA of Amarillo and KPND of Pampa.

Reiterating his earlier remarks that experience and capability, plus trustworthiness are the things which should be considered in casting a ballot for a man seeking to serve the people in a public office, Mr. Miller said in part: "With our great nation in its present state of grave crisis, it is the privilege and duty of every American citizen to vote for a man who will stand for and fight for the preservation of our American Democracy."

"I believe every voter should conscientiously study and investigate every candidate in the race before making their decision on this important congressional post. When all consideration has been given to the twelve men seeking the post, it is then up to the voter to select the man he believes best qualified to do the job. It is my belief that, after this consideration, the people of the Panhandle will be casting their ballots for E. T. 'Dusty' Miller."

Mr. Miller was the first to advance the idea of a uniform pension law throughout the nation, one of the many planks of his platform which have since been adopted by the majority of his opponents. His plan calls for payment of a set sum of money to every person of 60 or 65 years of age in the United States, the beneficiaries to get their checks from the postoffice once every month. It is his belief that the expen-

The SNAPSHOT GUILD FILTERS FOR BETTER PICTURES

In taking this shot, a filter was used to reproduce the sky tone so that the white smoke would stand out. Try filters—they'll improve your pictures, and add interest.

COLOR filters—simple little devices that slip on over your camera lens—can add a lot to the quality and value of your snapshots. If you've never used filters, now is a good time to start. All the experts use them, and they mark a big forward step in your own personal photography.

Slip a medium yellow K-2 filter on your lens, load the camera with any good "chrome" or "pan" film, and you get pictures with more natural tone values. Or, in technical phrase, more accurate rendering of relative brightnesses as seen by the eye. Which, briefly, means that your picture of any outdoor subject will come closer to showing things as you saw them when you snapped the shutter.

Slip a deep yellow G filter on your lens, and you'll get clearer, better pictures of distant scenes that would look hazy in an "unfiltered" shot. You'll also get skies that look deeper than normal in tone—very effective in some pictorial shots.

For spectacular effects, very dark skies, and exaggerated contrast, load the camera with "pan" film or infra-red film, and slip a red "A" filter on the lens. Don't use the red filter with other types of film than panchromatic or infra-red; it's for these only.

From the effects described, you can see that filters open up an interesting new range of picture possibilities. The K-2 is the best all-round filter, so start with that, adding the G and A when you are ready to branch out into dramatic "effect" shots.

Every filter, of course, cuts out part of the light to which a film is sensitive, so exposure must be increased accordingly. Each filter's "exposure factor" is constant for each film, and exposure adjustment is not hard to calculate, but the easiest method is to use a pocket filter guide of the dial type. These cost but a few cents, and readily indicate the exact lens opening needed in a particular situation.

If you would improve your photography—make use of filters. The results will surprise you—in fact, you'll probably want to know, "Why didn't somebody tell me about this before?"

He was elected clerk of the district court of Childress county in 1934, completed his study of law to receive his license in 1936 while serving as court clerk. After serving two terms as district clerk, he was elected county judge of Childress county in 1938.

"Having served as county judge Stansell Clement is acquainted with the needs and problems of the citizenship of the 121st district; having had such experience he feels that he would be able to serve his apprenticeship in the legislature more quickly than someone inexperienced as a public official.

"Stansell Clement is ambitious and desires to advance himself by rendering worthwhile service to his fellow-man. If elected representative of 121st district, he pledges cooperation with his fellow representatives, members of senate and the governor of Texas as long as it is to the best interest of the people of 121st district.

"Stansell Clement favors: 1. An adequate program of social welfare for Texas, including old age assistance; aid for needy blind; aid for dependent and neglected children and teacher retirement. 2. An adequate increase in truck load limit. 3. The conservation of our national resources including human beings.

"If our country is to prosper, we must make it possible for unemployed farmers to return to the farm, by making it possible for them to purchase 'family sized' farms at low rate of interest on long terms; loans to be made for the local purchase price of the land; to be re-paid on crop payment plan.

The American Indian, contrary to common belief, was no "perfect specimen." From skeletal collections, University of Texas anthropologists report numerous traces of teeth decay, tuberculosis of the bone, arthritis and syphilis among Indian remains.

MODERN TREND TO MORE WINDOWS PUTS STRESS ON QUALITY

A radial bay of casement windows so popular today.

An angle bay popular for breakfast rooms.

A multiple bank of double hung windows, often used at the end of the living room.

Windows and More Windows Is Trend in New Homes Today

No matter how you look at windows you're going to see more and more of them in new homes. Light, airy rooms mean just one thing—more windows—and that is definitely the trend in home construction today.

And the more windows you have in your new home, the more you've got to watch quality construction in the windows you buy. Windows can add much to the enjoyment of your new home if they're good windows, and if they're poor ones, they'll add plenty of headaches.

Window "Pains" Gone

Rattling, sticking, leaking windows are a thing of the past with the complete factory fitted window units as manufactured today. Maybe that is why architects and contractors the country over are favoring more windows because, at last, the "pain" has been taken out of them.

New Features

Such features as inside double glazing, screens that are removed from the inside, condensation controls, and hinges that allow both sides of the glass to be washed from the inside are part of modern casement windows today. Similar improvements have been made in the popular double hung windows. Double action weatherstrip, endless pulleys, and flat weights that narrow modern lines are a few outstanding innovations.

A total of 32,153,360 acres of State owned lands was given to railroads for building lines in Texas. About 84 percent of these lands were located in West Texas. The railroads built 3,627 miles of road for this amount of land.

Texas is one of the principal honey-producing States of the nation, having a total of 234,053 beehives on 24,105 farms, which produced a total of 4,726,363 pounds of honey, which brought $600,000.

Fifty-nine universities, foundations and government agencies were represented at the University of Texas' recent conference on war problems of the western hemisphere.

Warning Made Of Danger In Summer Food

AUSTIN, Texas. "Sporadic outbreaks of food poisoning over the state in the past few weeks demonstrate the need for special care in handling and refrigerating any food that must be prepared some time in advance of serving," states Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

"Prevention of food poisoning requires clean food handled as little as possible and consumed while it is fresh. Food prepared hours before serving, and allowed to stand at warm temperatures becomes good culture media for bacteria. Cooked products of a perishable nature are readily subject to decomposition, and must be kept well refrigerated. "Most food poisoning is caused by infection by certain types of bacteria which grow rapidly under favorable conditions, such as high temperature and high humidity. The infection may come from dirty hands, utensils, flies, rodents, contaminated water, infected food materials, and in some cases, from certain types of bacteria which spread rapidly and are not necessarily associated with filthy conditions.

"Picnic food is particularly susceptible to transmitting food poisoning to the members of the picnic party. Be sure you have fresh, clean food, free from stagnant odors, slime, etc. Require all who prepare the food for use to wash their hands thoroughly before handling it. Avoid excessive hand contacts with the food. See that special care is exercised in wrapping foods and in protecting them from contamination.

"If food is prepared far in advance of its use, cook it thoroughly, and keep it refrigerated or otherwise protected at a temperature under 50 degrees F., until you are ready to use it. Avoid serving foods that are readily infected, such as the more perishable salads and cream-filled pastries. Any foods that are not to be served immediately should be kept on ice. Milk, ice cream, and dairy products in general should be from approved sources. "Digestive upsets cannot always

These Farmers of Hockley County take this method of showing their support of MARSHALL FORMBY, whose record for HONESTY and EFFICIENCY in public office—as one of Texas' outstanding county judges—and whose reputation for HONESTY and FAIR-DEALING are well known.

When MARSHALL FORMBY, Dickens County Judge, goes to Austin as this district's Senator he'll be on nobody's outside payroll. A farmer, not a lawyer, he'll not be seeking law business in exchange for protection of special interests in Texas.

He'll be the Senator for the people of his district and not for the vested interests.

Your vote for MARSHALL FORMBY will be a vote for good government and for all these reasons we solicit your vote and support of MARSHALL FORMBY on July 27!
