THE POCKETBOOK KNOWLEDGE BY TOPPS

There are twice as many motor vehicles in the U.S. as in all the rest of the world. 1939 taxes on the electric industry were 94% greater than in 1935, though net income was lower. Ammonia was named after the Egyptian god Amun, whose temple was destroyed by a volcanic eruption. More than one out of five jobs in this country are provided by manufacturing industry.

A Program for Ranches

By RAY DAVIDSON. The allied with farming is... when Uncle Sam himself in the farming... he found it expedient to... ranching also. The Sam's ranching adventure... for slightly different... than his other agricultural... In ranching, he has stuck... strictly to the idea of soil... conservation. The range program, the gov-... est pays the rancher for... certain improvements to... lands, these improvements be-... of such a nature to conserve... water or otherwise improve... land. The result of the range program has... been to lessen production, in-... creasing production by mak-... ing ranges more productive. Suppose Rancher Bill Jones... decides to join up with Uncle... Sam on the range program. Under-... stand, he can do this or... without any coercion from... the government. There are no pen-... sions direct or indirect... paid to ranchers who do not... cooperate. Suppose Bill Jones signs up... for the program. A county range... inspector comes to his land and... looks it over. He figures how many... acres it will support, and... the forward work and pay is... set on this animal unit basis, ... not on acreage. Bill has a large number of... acres he can do then to earn gov-... ernment range payments. He can... graze on a part of his land, ... take the cattle off for a... short period of time to allow the... soil to get a new and firmer... grip. He can contour the range, ... away cacti, mesquites and... brush, build tanks, et cetera. These various soil conserving... methods earn payments—so much... per 100-feet of contour ridge, so... much per acre cleared of mes-... quites or cedar, so much per acre... cleared from grazing, so much... per acre reseeded with new grass. Bill does these land-improving... jobs, or his choice of them to... his place, and receives payment... from the government up to a cer-... tain maximum on each animal... unit. His work is regularly in-... spected by the range inspector, ... of course. When these things are done, ... checks are mailed to Bill. His ... checks are never large enough ... to quite repay him for the ex-... penses he has been to earning ... them, but he is glad to work ... for the program. In fact, nearly ... all ranchers in West Texas are ... working with the program as ... a good way to get their places ... improved at little cost. Let the range program make no ... control on production and market- ... ing of cattle, hogs, sheep, or goats. The effect has been the adding ... of hundreds of water tanks, miles ... of contour ridges, clearing of hun- ... dreds of acres of brush in West ... Texas. The area now can produce ... more livestock than in many ... years. The range program is thus quite ... different from other features of ... Uncle Sam's venture in farming. ... that it should be mentioned here in ... passing. —Abilene Reporter-News

VIGNETTES BY MARSHALL FISKE. There are moments of life that one ne'er can forget. Shards of a dream of this passing illusion. Vignettes that swim into view—then slowly dissolve...

Abroad, these waiting rooms are suddenly transformed into rest-aurants. The only place in con- sequence, to wait is to occupy a seat at a table. As soon as you are seated the ubiquitous waiter hovers about you to receive your order (and tip). This tipping business is the greatest nuisance while traveling in Europe. Many of these servitors get not a cent of wages from their employers, in fact, they even have to pay to get their jobs, so in consequence, they are most avid for these tips. If you do not tip them, and ever come to their table again, I shudder to think what will happen to your food before he brings it to you—things so disgusting that they cannot be seen in print. On leaving Venice early one morning, as I was about to pass out of the lobby to enter the awaiting gondola before the steps, I had to pass thru two solid rows of these servitors. Now before leaving, I had tipped everyone who had been of the slightest as- sistance to me—but all these others lined up I had never seen before. With head held high—looking straight before me—I entered my gondola. But I had my fingers crossed to "ward off" all their evil thoughts that these people were directing my way when they saw no tips were forth- coming. Tipping in America is a neces- sary evil, perhaps, but in Europe it reaches an unheard-of, absurd climax. O TEMPORA! O MORES! I visited St. Peter's church while in Rome a number of times but what struck me forcibly, what I now recall the most vividly, was the long queue that began at the statue of St. Peter and ran thru the great fauce out into the circu- lar courtyard (held between the giant calipers of the embracing arc of stone pillars) where splash- ing the great fountains flanking an ancient Egyptian obelisk. It was Sunday morning and many of the people in that wait- ing line were visitors from the out-lying towns and villages, who had come to Rome to have the great honor of kissing the bronze toe of St. Peter. The statue, itself too of the saint seated. The represents the saint in differ- ent ways. The better-dressed did the more intelligent-looking, did not kiss the toe with their lips at all; but simply placed the tips of their fingers to their lips, then in turn touched them to the toe. Others again would kiss the toe and cross themselves several times while making numerous genu- flexions in the mean time. Then the children: the ones who were too small to reach the foot of the statue, were held aloof by their parents, then they bestowed a slobbering kiss on the foot. Others would, on instructions from their parents, wipe off the toe with their handkerchiefs or sleeves, before proceeding with the kissing. The friction of countless lips, sleeves and the like, in the long course of time, even the hard durable bronze could not withstand. Now all that one actually sees is the foot worn smooth, the toes bare- ly indicated by the tiny lines that separate them. In another church this promiscuous osculation had been copied; they had begun to kiss the bronze foot of a certain statue. The result was that this foot was soon protected with a brass boot to protect its being worn smooth. It was the actions of this long queue of peasants kissing St. Peter's toe that lingers in my mind when other features con- nected with the great church slip into the background. NIAGARA FALLS— It was early one rainy morn- ing when I caught my first glimpse of the world-famous Niagara Falls. I had raised the shades in my pullman section; it was just a little after day-break. The train gradually slowed up as we were passing along side of a river; shortly, thereafter, the train came to a stand-still. In the distance, I saw great watery masses plunging over the rocky ledges; ledges both straight and curved into the shape of a huge horse- shoe. Below, the waters were all seething in violent commotion in their great cauldron of rocks, which a grey mist was arising, smoke-like, nature never stopping in her inexorable work of erosion. This had been going on for thousands of years, before the banks of the Nile were cultivated, be- fore the dawn of civilization ap- peared in Asia. Patiently, relent- lessly, the waters had eaten their path thru the great gorge we saw below us. At what is now called Lewiston, the Falls had started, then ever onward they receded thru their rocky channels. Long before the advent of the white man, the Indians had set eye on this great spectacle of Nature's, whose gods were here ever at work hewing this adamantine path- way thru the ages. Finally the children's children of these In- dians gazed on it and so on. At last the Pale Face appeared on the scene. He, too, was overwhelmed by the stupendous spectacle beside which he seemed so utterly in- significant, so weak, so terribly impotent. And thus it went on thru the centuries—the falling waters ever receding upstream. On first beholding the Falls it was this vast antiquity that im- pressed me; subsequent visits, yielding more intimate views, re- vealed their overwhelming majes- tic power and beauty. It was, however, that first impression of the Falls which I beheld from the Pullman windows, that rainy morning long ago, that is unfor- gettable, so deeply has it in- grained itself into my conscious- ness. One time in riding along the Gorge Route, I turned to my seat companion who was also making the trip alone, and said to him, by way of making conver- sation, "and to think that at one time these Falls were seven miles away where Lewiston now stands". With that the stranger turned on me a look of astonishment mixed with pitying condescension, coolly remarking: "Some one has been kidding you, Buddy, I reckon you don't live in these here parts— Well, sir, I came here on my wed- ding trip eight years ago and them Falls are now in the same place they were then. I never saw them at Lewiston". As soon as I learned that his mind was of the 8-year variety, I made it a point not to engage in any further conversation with him. After all, perhaps he dated the beginning of all time with the ad- vent of his honeymoon eight years ago. Life really begins for some with that auspicious occasion while I, on the other hand, push- ed it back to a period antedating even his honeymoon. In conse- quence, we could never reach a common ground of understanding in this matter of time. So for the remainder of the trip around the Gorge, I just sat there think-

READ WHAT YOUR FRIENDS AND NEIGHBORS SAY ABOUT BUTANE GAS!

To Whom It May Concern—: About a year ago we bought from the Matador Hardware & Furniture Company, a butane plant, a Ward floor furnace and space heaters. We used this means of heat- ing our home last winter and found it to be cheaper, cleaner, more comfortable, and more convenient than any equip- ment or fuel we have ever used. We can recommend this type of heating to anyone in- terested in a better heating system. Mrs. U. L. Willie Matador, Texas

To Whom It May Concern—: About a year ago we bought from the Matador Hdwe. & Furn. Co. a Flash-O Gas Butane plant, a Roper gas range and Space heaters. We are convinced that this is the cheapest fuel and results in the best cooking and heat- ing equipment that we have ever used or know anything about. We can recommend to any- one interested in butane equipment, this plant and Roper range, which we think the best the market affords. Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Rushing Matador, Texas

To Whom It May Concern—: Sometime ago I bought from the Matador Hdwe. & Furn. Co. a gas range and a gas Electrolux refrigerator, with which we are more than pleased. Our cooking and refrigera- tion expenses with butane at 12 cents per gallon, are as cheap as cooking with oil, and of course much cleaner, quieter and more convenient. Our refrigeration with the Electrolux is entirely satis- factory. Vernon Latimer Matador, Texas

To Whom It May Concern—: I bought from the Matador Hardware & Furniture Co., some time ago, a Roper range cook stove and Electrolux refrigerator, both of which operated with butane gas, and give complete satisfaction. The cost of operating these appliances is very reasonable, and I will recommend butane gas and these appliances to any one. L. A. Washington Flomot, Texas rooms. We also use this gas for refrigeration on a Servel Electrolux which was purchased earlier from the Matador Hardware Company. We can truthfully say that we are well pleased with the operation of all the appliances and the cooking, heating, lighting and refrigeration are much better than anything we have ever used. The cost of operation is much cheaper than we ex- pected, and we feel safe in saying it will run at least 50% cheaper than any other fuel to be used in this section. And of course the convenience is much better on all applian- ces. Mr. and Mrs. John Lisenby Flomot, Texas

Pied 'Pinions

BY MR. S. M.

Hardly had Mr. M overcome his chagrin in the knowledge of my having been reared in Missouri before coming to Texas, when he was brutally appraised by an uncle who knew my family, that I was born in Arkansas. This was entirely too much for a gloriously-born Texan, and all but dissolved our courtship. His state of mortification subsided only in the hopes that the ashes of that skeleton might remain unmolested. There are times when I take great pleasure in exhibiting the urn.

It is gratifying to have a certain conviction verified concerning the game of forty-two and the fact that it originated in Texas.

For a long time prior to our move to Texas, my aunt and cousins would write us about their little community parties out here in the west, where they played forty-two. Never having heard of it before, we just came to the conclusion that it was peculiar to that locality. We were convinced after coming to Texas and witnessing the game, that this was true, and now the final proof is given in John Gould's column in the Wichita Daily Times, as follows:

"Texas has given a good many things to the nation and the world, but I didn't know until recently that the game forty-two was a Texas product. It was invented in 1887, by W. A. Thomas of Dallas, a federal revenue officer. He was just a lad then and his folks wouldn't let him play cards, so he up and invented a domino game to which the principles of some card games are applied. Today forty-two has countless devotees, but it is largely a southwestern pastime, being virtually unknown in the North and East. The domino game itself has many more patrons in Texas and the South than in other parts, and the public domino parlor is peculiarly a Texas-Oklahoma institution, I am told. Perhaps the fact that Texas has strict laws against card-playing in public has helped to popularize dominoes hereabouts."

Mr. Gould might also enlighten us on the fascinating game of "snap," which is closely associated in our minds with forty-two, due to the fact that we were introduced to it on the same occasion.

FEWER TURKEYS FORECAST

COLLEGE STATION — More turkeys are going into the turkey pens, but smaller flocks are being raised and a 2 per cent decrease in the number of turkeys is indicated for 1940 as compared with 1939, according to a preliminary study made by the USDA Agricultural Marketing Service.

Generally, the South Central Western states, including Texas, show decreases of about 5 per cent; the South Atlantic states show an increase of 12 per cent; and the North Atlantic and North Central states show increases ranging from 5 to 10 per cent. It all adds up to a 2 per cent decrease in the turkey production.

An extensive survey of turkey production will be made in September in order to determine the number of turkeys in sight for market. The survey thereafter Texas turkey producers will get the first indication of the market they may expect.

AMERICA is busily engaged in building a defense of her freedom.

This freedom of ours—freedom of action, freedom of thought, freedom from fear and oppression, freedom of enterprise—is the most precious thing in the world to protect.

Electric service will play a big part in this great program of strengthening our defenses. Your electric company is ready NOW to do its full share in any task this community may be called upon to perform.

We're ready because for years we have planned far in advance in order to meet your ever-increasing demands for electrical service.

Because of this we have built power capacity in advance of any demands in the community.

To assure constant power under all conditions our several sources of electricity are linked together so that the switch at your finger-tip controls power from many sources. If one should fail, it is but a split second until a new source of power is at your bidding.

The highly skilled and trained staff of people who have built up your electric service, and who are serving you from day to day, are eager for any new task.

It is through these people, and this marvelous system of interconnected power plants and distribution lines they have built, that we are ready to do our part.

Meanwhile, we have not forgotten that our job in the future, as in the past, is to improve our service and its usefulness to you, and bring more of the good things of life to more people at less cost.

U. S. HAS WORLDS' MOST DIFFICULT DEFENSE PROBLEM

Own Borders To Police And Responsibility For Territory From Alaska To Cape Horn

"We have not only our own borders to police, but the territory from Alaska to Cape Horn are our responsibility," said Jack Leon Echols, internationally famous pilot, during an address at the Floyd county court house Monday night.

"Our defense problem is the ward thrust of the head, the piercing glance. 'Power', that's the word for Sinclair. Here is a man who is accustomed to accomplishing anything that he sets out to do; a man who brushes aside obstacles or smashes thru them, as need be. And when in ringing voice, he said, 'I'm here to answer any d--- question', every oil man at the hearing applauded.

Yet the tycoon has his lighter side. When a news photographer (slower than the others) had failed to flare his light bulb for a shot of Sinclair taking the oath, the oil man remained standing with upraised hand; then, there was a twinkle in the depths of those dark eyes and, lowering his right hand, he raised his left hand and turned with impassive face to the cameraman. There was a roar of laughter.

It was difficult to imagine this man of destiny needing sleep, having bodily aches and finding it necessary to eat just as ordinary mortals do; and one wondered if he ever finds time, or has the inclination, to stroll through twilight woods and listen to the liquid notes of a mocking-bird or gaze at an evening star at the foot of a slim, crescent moon and make a wish. But, after all, what is there for a man with a thousand million dollars to wish for?

Not only among the oldest jokes but about the worst of the crop: This is a wonder watch; you look at it and wonder what time it is.

Loan me a cigarette; now let me have a match—I'll furnish the habit.

These are Gopher matches, you try to strike one and then you "go fer" another.

If it was raining soup, I'd be caught out with a fork.

You say you don't drink, smoke or cuss—then what in h--- are you living for?

Have you ever seen a billion dollars walking? Well, I have! (paraphrasing the sentimental song of a few seasons ago about a walking and talking dream). This billion dollars, of course, talked—because we all know that money talks.

The billion dollars in breeches was Harry Sinclair, probably the most important individual in the domain of oil in all the world and certainly the most picturesque personality in petroleum.

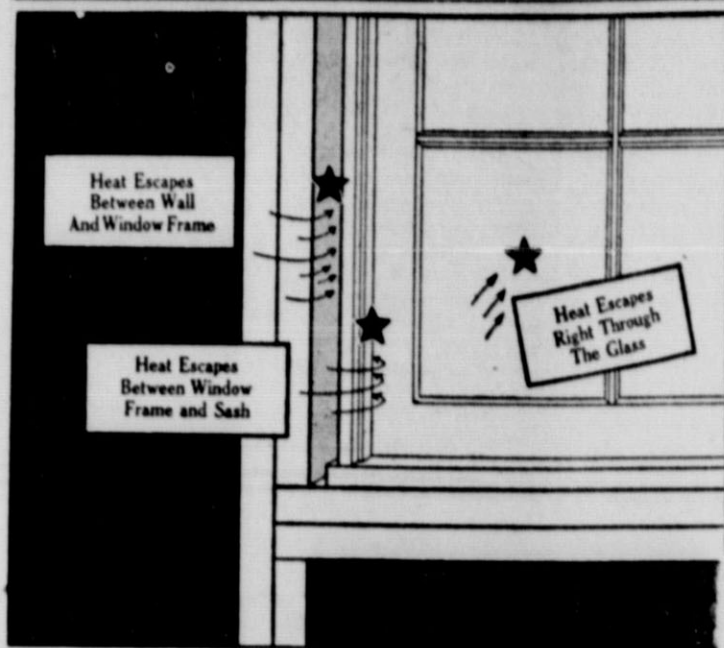

It was down at Austin a few days ago before the State Railroad Commission that the famous oil operator appeared. Looking at him one couldn't help thinking of the thousands of wells which he owns, the thousands of miles of pipe-lines, the great batteries of huge steel storage tanks, the cars thundering along the tracks, the tankers plying the seas, the host of men in his employ, the trucks, the refineries, the filling stations and the hundreds of thousands of acres of yet-to-be developed oil lands that he controls—all this in the hollow of his hand as surely as Zeus clutched the thunderbolts on high Olympus.

Yes, easily a billion dollars—because Sinclair gushers are shish-ing their greasy, golden stream into earthen storage in the steaming jungles of South America and Sinclair drills are clanking on islands within sight of Buddhist shrines with their tinkly temple bells, as well as in all the major fields of Texas, Oklahoma, California and the rest of the United States.

And that career began (according to legend) when Sinclair, a young druggist, was out hunting and, in crawling thru a fence, his gun went off, wounding him in the foot, and, with the money that the insurance company paid, he was off to a newly-discovered oil field in Indian territory.

A man of average height, heavy-set, bald except for a fringe Harry Sinclair has strong features. There is firmness in the chin, the set of the lips, the for-

WALLS IN HOME ONLY PART OF INSULATION PROBLEM

Many a home is being built today that is only half insulated. Yet the man who is spending his money to build the house doesn't know a thing about it. These people, when they build, won't hesitate to spend $150 to $200 to make their walls weather-tight. They will buy the best insulation, the best moisture barrier, and use the best construction methods, but they overlook completely the fact that the walls of their homes have from ten to thirty great big holes in them that are filled only with windows.

These holes must be filled with good windows—windows that do more than harmonize with the architecture of the home.

For a window is not only an architectural feature. It is also a mechanics feature. Windows are just as permanent a part of the wall as insulation. Just as it is wise to spend those extra dollars for insulation—so it is wise to spend a few extra dollars to see that a window frame makes a permanent weather-tight joint with the wall, that window sash are precision fitted to the frame, that an efficient job of weatherstripping is done, the storm sash or double glazing is provided, and that the operating equipment used will give a lifetime of trouble-free operation.

CCC BOYS ARE WELL TRAINED IN ARMY WORK

CCC boys, ignorant of combat, can perform vital battle work, according to a survey made by Harold Martin of the Atlanta Constitution.

"If war comes, the men of the CCC will be specialists in a dozen fields, masters of noncombatant technique as vital to the carrying on of conflict as firing a rifle or machine-gun," Mr. Martin declared.

"The boys know how to live together in barracks, under discipline that is as rigid as that of an army camp even if punishment is less severe. Thousands of men know minutely the workings of engines, and how to tear them down and rebuild them in a hurry. A tank is only an armed and armored tractor, and the CCC mechanic who knows the workings of a caterpillar would find the motive machinery of a tank no puzzle.

Are Expert Drivers

"Many of them are expert drivers of heavy tractors and transport trucks. Many of them are expert welders. There is no difference in patching the steel flanks of a tractor torn by a landslide and patching a steel flank of a tank torn by a shell.

"Many CCC boys are expert telephone men, woodworkers, and they have a good knowledge of the use of the surveyors' instruments and the techniques of throwing a temporary span across a stream. There is no difference in their talents in these lines and the talents of the German 'pioneers' who kept the mechanized troops of Hitler moving even though bridges were down in their path.

Know First Aid

"They know first aid, and there are even parachute experts among them. They are expert photographers, cooks, and carpenters.

They have been soldiers all along, whether they knew it or not. They are soldiers now-trained in everything but the techniques of slaughter."

Army Holding Big Drive For More Recruits

As all signs point to congress enacting a law raising the base pay of army recruits from $21 to $30 a month interest is increasing among young men as to what the army has to offer them, it was said this week by Sergeant Andrew J. Williams, Childress recruiting officer.

In connection with the drive for recruits Sergeant Williams issued the following statement this week:

"The army is putting on a big drive for young men between the ages of 18 and 35 of good character, good health and who have no criminal record. If under 21 they must have the consent of their parents or legal guardian.

"I know there are many boys in this section who would join the army if they had someone to talk to them and explain the advantages the army has to offer a young man. I can't visit every young man in this section, but I am glad to talk to all young men who call at my office in the district attorney's office at the Childress county courthouse.

"There are literally thousands of boys in this nation roaming the country over without jobs or prospects. The army has a job for these young men, but they must meet our standards. They must be willing to learn, and we prefer young men who wish to learn some trade that will support them when their term of enlistment is over, such as automobile and radio mechanics, cooks, bakers and many other trades.

The army maintains many schools the ambitious recruits may attend, and when their term of enlistment is over they will find they have learned things that will make jobs much easier to find. I know most boys growing up now find it difficult to secure a good job because they are not prepared to fill them. The army will prepare them to fill good jobs.

"The nation is facing a high rate, and the trend is toward. I should say the general business and economic outlook is most encouraging."

The Poorest Place to Tell a Lie!

IT has been said by some of our radical reformers that advertising misleads the public.

Such accusations fall under their own weight.

The poorest place in the world to attempt a lie is in the advertising columns of American newspapers and magazines, and in American radio programs.

In the first place, our publishers and broadcasting companies wouldn't carry dishonest advertising. They outlawed it long ago.

In the second place, such efforts to mislead would be conducted in full view of the public and of the officials empowered to apply fraud laws.

In the third place, dishonest advertising is as inefficient as fifty football. It does not pay.

Informed people have lost interest in the advertising-baiting books and speeches of the radical self-appointed reformers since one after another of them has figured prominently before the House Special Committee on un-American Activities.

EUGENE WORLEY LEAVES MONDAY FOR VACATION

Eugene Worley, who piled up a surprising lead of approximately 7,500 votes over Deskins Wells of Wellington to win the Democratic nomination for Congress in the 18th district, left Monday for an undisclosed destination to recuperate from an infected foot and to get a few days' rest before making a swing over the 28-county district to thank voters for their support in Saturday's runoff primary.

"The credit is due my friends, not myself," he declared. "It took the united efforts of hundreds and hundreds of loyal supporters all over the district to put me over and I want them to know I shall always remember their kindness. I wish to compliment my opponent and his supporters on the clean, high-type campaign they conducted and say to them that I hold nothing but the kindest feeling for them all."

The congressional nominee thanked persons who have called and written saying he would answer all correspondence immediately on his return from a short rest. The long strenuous days of the run-off campaign left him in need of rest and on the advice of physicians he decided to take a few days off before making his "thank you" tour of the large district. Worley plans to make a speaking itinerary which will carry him into each county early in September.

Ford Movies Are Released

Four new movie features ranging from a symphonic fantasy in technicolor to a picture tour of the 1940 World's Fair have just been released by the Ford Motor Company.

These productions are available, without charge, for showings before school and church groups, service clubs, and various civic organizations and private clubs requesting them.

"Symphony In F," one of the first "stop action" movies made in technicolor, sets a new pace in screen technique and screen entertainment. With Linton Wells, famed CBS news analyst as narrator, the 15-minute feature traces in an extra-ordinary manner the far-reaching influence of the motor car industry thruout the world in gathering raw materials for the automobile.

Doll-like figures which animate the Ford Cycle of Production exhibit at the New York Fair step into the same characterizations for "Symphony In F." The farmer, chemist, lumberjack, miner, cotton picker, rubber man and transportation worker all dramatize—in song and action—their parts in pouring raw materials from all points of the compass into the Rouge plant, world's greatest industrial unit.

The movie swings from fantasy to actual pictures in color of various manufacturing processes at the Rouge, with comments by Wells on scenes in the steel mills, glass plant, plastics division, motor assembly building, tire plant, fabrics division and on the final assembly line.

Building of the 28,000,000th Ford car in fantasy concludes the "Symphony." Various automobile parts take on life-like appearance as they parade to the assembly line. The films are distributed thru Ford dealers and Ford Motor Company branches. Showing can be arranged upon request to dealers.

First Measurement Of County Farms Completed By Crews

The first measurement of farms in Motley County for compliance with the 1940 Agricultural Conservation Program has been completed, according to Lowell Sharbutt, Secretary of the Motley County A. C. A. Eleven plane-able crews have been employed in this county under the direction of Ernest McWilliams. Additional roeheads of farms which have disposed of cotton acreages to bring the farm within the cotton acreage allotment will be completed soon. Approximately fifty percent of the farms in this county were overplanted on cotton.

The cost of measuring land in Motley County has been reduced in 1940 as compared with 1939. This should be of interest to farmers as an amount is deducted from each payment for expenses within the county. The cost in cents per acre in 1939 was 3.6 as compared with 2.8 cents in 1940.

Candidate In 1952

"It's Cheerio with George Theriot for Governor of Texas in 1952." is the campaign slogan of the above candidate for governor in 1952. The 26-year-old San Antonio magazine salesman has been in every town in Texas four times except 17 towns in the northern Panhandle and the Big Bend country. He spent two days here last week. When 30 years old he predicts that he will know more people in Texas personally than any other person.

Farmers Are Urged To Aid U. S. Defense

Farmers, just like all other citizens of the country, must be in a position to shoulder their part of the national defense load, according to Walter D. Coulson, county supervisor for the Farm Security Administration. And those farmers, he added, who have security of tenure, who can produce an ample supply of food and yet protect the soil and conserve the moisture will be better able to help in times of emergency.

Mr. Coulson believes it is time for landlords to be thinking of the tenants who will farm their places next year. He cited a number of reasons why a tenant, if he has been satisfactory, should be held at this time he may continue on the farm another year or longer.

"If the landlord and the tenant make a contract now for next year, it will profit both parties," Mr. Coulson said. "They can plan cover crops, improvements in buildings, and perhaps acquire needed machinery and livestock."

Progress Is Reported

Mr. Coulson reports definite progress in landlord-tenant relations in Motley County. He said a check of the 29 tenant families in this county on the FSA program shows that 15 of them have leases of from two to five years and that 4 families have written leases with renewal clauses.

"The Farm Security Administration," Mr. Coulson said, "has been working for improved landlord-tenant relations. We have tried to cooperate with landlords in finding good tenants and we have been working with tenants to secure long-time leases in order that the farms of this country can be operated at a profit and conserved rather than mined." Mr. Coulson cited a well-known fact that tenants who move each year usually are compelled to mine the soil in order to make the most

Wells Thanks County Voters

Deskins Wells expressed his thanks to the people of Motley County for their help in the congressional race, in the following statement:

"I wish to take this means of thanking my friends who stood by me so loyally during the congressional campaign. Due to the fact that I have spent all the money I had saved and still have bills to pay, it will be impossible for me to even write you a personal letter at the present time. I take this means of thanking you, and I want each and every one of you to know that even in defeat, it warms my heart to think of your consideration and your steadfast friendship. To those who voted for me whom I had never met personally, I also extend my thanks for your confidence in me and your confidence in those who do know me. I will always be grateful to you."
