Late Merchant

J. H. Sample, 77, who died at his home here early yesterday morning, was in the vanguard of pioneers who settled the Oklahoma territory, and later pioneered in Wyoming. He moved to this section during the changing conditions produced by the World War and late in life became a partner with his brother, W. W. Sample in a successful chain of filling stations started at the beginning of the depression.

J. H. Sample Rites This Afternoon

J. H. (Spot) Sample, 77, prominent merchant of this section, died at his home in Matador early yesterday morning. Mr. Sample had been in failing health during the past two years and had been confined to his bed for several months. Funeral services will be held at the Baptist church at 2 p. m. and final rites will be conducted by the Matador Masonic lodge with interment in the Matador East Mound cemetery.

Besides his widow, Mrs. J. H. Sample of Matador, he is survived by one brother, W. W. Sample of Pecos, and four sisters, Mrs. Jerome Gillespie of Stamford, Mrs. E. W. Sherrill, Mrs. C. B. Hutchison and Mrs. Cora Brown, all of Temple.

He later moved to Shawnee, Oklahoma and entered business for himself in the firm of Sample-Holley Co., haberdashers.

In 1909 he sold his business interests and moved to Riverton, Wyoming, where he resided two years, then returned to Temple to become engaged in the dry goods business for six years.

West Texas In 1918

FOOT INJURED

L. L. Russell sustained a painful foot injury Monday when he fell from the roof of a new home being constructed by Johnnie Vaughn south of Matador.

Mr. Russell received immediate medical attention after examination disclosed severe sprains and bruises. He is able to be about the streets thru the aid of crutches.

Pioneer Claimed By Death

Funeral services were held Saturday in the Baptist Church here for C. P. Waybourn, 73, Motley county pioneer, who died at his home Friday evening following an attack which had confined him to his bed for over a week. He had been in failing health for the past year.

Rev. J. R. Balch, pastor of the Baptist Church at Seymour, conducted the services and was assisted by Rev. R. L. Jameson of Whiteflat, pioneer preacher of the county. Interment was made in Matador East Mound cemetery. Pall-bearers were: Alvin Stearns, John Hamilton, Bert Johnson, Luther Cox, Marvin English and R. A. Day. At the age of 14 he went to the Oklahoma territory, and in 1900 he was married to Miss Mattie Gerald. They moved to Motley county, and have since made this their home. To this union were born two sons, Gilbert (Buck) of Houston, and Gerald, of Matador, both of whom survive.

In addition to his widow and sons, he is also survived by one foster son, Wilson Gunn of Sherman, two grandchildren, Geraldine and Barbara Jo Waybourn, a foster grandson, Waybourn Gunn, and two sisters, Mrs. Boone Gray of Nocona and Mrs. L. C. Link of Strawn.

President Roosevelt Is Still People's Choice

County Votes Democratic Over 9 To 1

The world's greatest nation broke many precedents Tuesday when it polled the largest number of votes in history and elected a president for the 3rd term. President Franklin D. Roosevelt received a vast majority of the electoral votes, but his lead in the popular vote was in the neighborhood of 5 per cent. He gained four of the states with great electoral votes by a margin of less than 2 per cent. His Republican opponent, Wendell Willkie conceded defeat yesterday. It was estimated that 60,000,000 votes were polled.

County Democratic

Motley county polled more than 9 to 1 on the Democratic side in what is believed to be the heaviest general election vote ever cast in its history. A total of 1,041 votes were cast with 938 Democratic and 103 Republican. They were by boxes: N. Matador 165D and 29R; S. Matador 208D and 20R; Fairview 34D and 3R; Whiteflat 168D and 3R; Flomot 101D and 9R; Folley 29D and 4R; Northfield 54D and 1R; Roaring Springs 137D and 31R; Darden Canyon 31D and 3R. Union Corner voted 11, all Democratic.

County Defeats McDonald

While the state re-elected State Commissioner of Agriculture J. E. McDonald for his 6th term, despite a threat by write-ins, the county wrote in the name of Bill Corry to defeat him almost 2 to 1. McDonald received 352 and Corry 660.

State amendments received the following vote: (1) 83 for and 31 against; (2) 123 for and 99 against; (3) 98 for and 86 against; (4) 169 for and 62 against.

Draftees Get New Numbers

If you are one of the 665 Motley county residents who registered in the October 16 selective military service program and feel that you know your registrator number, it might be well to check this issue of the Tribune, according to the local draft board. The number opposite each name in this issue is the official number and position and all other numbers are to be forgotten, the board declares.

Quotas will be made on the percentage basis from this list, beginning with Number 1. The Tribune reaches the mail 24-hours late in order to provide readers with these official numbers, since the entire list of names had been set into type incorrectly and were discarded after this new and correct list was made available at noon Wednesday.

Questionnaires In Mail

Questionnaires will be placed in the mail at the rate of 50 per day, starting today, until all registered men have been supplied, according to Frank Pohl, local board clerk.

The 'Master List' of names was received by the board Tuesday and the work of checking names and numbers started early Wednesday.

Matadors Schedule Big Game

After a week of rest the Matador Matadors are tuned for the most outstanding game of the season Friday night when they meet the Floydada Whirlwinds on the Matador Arena.

It is estimated that perhaps one of the largest crowds ever to witness a football game in Matador will be present, since the contest is the most important conference to date this season. The Matadors lead the district with a narrow margin of only one half game each on Floydada and Paducah.

Paducah and Spur are slated to try for honors at Spur on Armistice night, November 11. Spur is still very much in the conference race with a strong eleven that has lost only one game—that to the Matadors.

Scouts and Fans Expected

Both scouts and fans from other towns are expected to view the game Friday night, since the power of both the Matadors and the Whirlwinds is still an unknown quantity. Lineups of the two teams appear elsewhere in this issue of the Tribune.

The Matador B team was defeated on the local field last week by the Silverton Owls by a score of 19 to 0. A small crowd witnessed the event.

Prominent Ginner Has Heart Attack

Elgin Dobkins of Glenn, Texas, prominent ginner of this section, suffered a severe heart attack late Friday and was conveyed to a Lubbock sanitarium Saturday, where he is said to be in a very serious condition. He is the owner of the Dobkins Gin at Glenn, and the Red Ball Gin at Roaring Springs.

Local Girl To Vie At Big Rodeo

Sponsored by the Matador Lions Club, Mary Ellen Barton, 16, a senior of Matador High School, will represent Motley county at the Fort Worth All American Rodeo and Horse Show, November 15-24. The capable young cowgirl will vie for the honor of All-American Girl of the Southwest, and if selected, will receive a round-trip airplane flight to Hollywood, expenses paid and tours thru the major studios.

Miss Barton has received major honors in the Matador Spur and Floydada rodeos during the past season and is recognized as one of the most outstanding cowgirls of this section of the cattle country. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Barton of Flomot, and declined an invitation to represent the city of Turkey in order that she might represent Motley county. Funds for her expenses were voted unanimously at the Lions Club director's meeting held in the Magnolia Cafe Monday morning.

Will Rogers Day
Friday, November 15, has been designated as Will Rogers day and members of the great philosopher's family will be in attendance along with governors, motion picture stars and countless celebrities.

A stupendous parade on the opening day will be as colorful as it is typical western, since no motor vehicles will be allowed in the procession.

Cold Snap Hits Area

The season's first cold weather struck this section of the Panhandle Monday night causing the mercury to dive close to the freezing point, altho no frost damage has been reported.

Local stove and fuel dealers experienced a rush while merchants reported an increased interest in heavier clothing. Most of the places of business kept fires going yesterday as the crisp north wind continued.

Mrs. J. T. Pearson and daughter of Quitaque, were Matador visitors Tuesday.

TRIBUNE IN NEW TYPE

Readers will probably notice a new appearance about the Tribune this week. It is the result of a new type face-lifting operation following the discarding of most of the type faces used in the headlines for several years. The new type face is known as Stymlie, being a member of the Stymlie family which is one of the most modern type faces in use today.

AT MOTHER'S BEDSIDE

Mrs. V. D. McCaleb and son of Fort Worth was here from Thursday until Saturday at the bedside of her mother, Mrs. Ora Patterson, who is seriously ill at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Russell.

ARMISTICE DAY

LET US OBSERVE THIS DAY FOREVER MORE - AS THE END OF AMERICAN WARS

Thank God For Peace!

Men die. They die of old age and of accidents and of sickness and disease. They die of hunger and privation and cold. Some die in war.

Today, more than ever, we are reminded of the futility of war. That those who died in that other war shall not have lost their lives in vain, let their memory serve as a perpetual warning against ever again subjecting our boys and our nation to the horror that is war. And let their memory make us conscious of Peace.

Thank God for Peace. It is the most treasured heritage we have. Thank God for an America that preserves Peace and that values it as priceless. On this Armistice Day let us all pledge ourselves sincerely and completely to do all we can to keep Peace with ourselves and with our neighbors. Thank God for Peace!

WE KEEP FAITH WITH THOSE WHO PAID WITH THEIR LIVES FOR PEACE

WE, The Undersigned business firms and individuals of Matador, pay tribute to those who have defended our liberty in the past and those who defend it in the future!

Sauerkraut Is Good Canning Food

By Allie Mae Tipps

The time has come to talk of sauerkraut and kings," said the story of Alice in Wonderland. But right now, it's more practical to talk of cabbage and kraut. For there is a crop of late cabbage this year that means a good share of the sauerkraut is now being used for sauerkraut. It will be used for sauerkraut commercially, and sold in bulk or in cans of various size. But farm families make sauerkraut for home use during the winter. In fact, there are many who claim that sauerkraut is better than home-made sauerkraut with fresh pork. There are homemakers who make sauerkraut year after year without really understanding what happens to the cabbage. The United States Department of Agriculture explained that the cabbage, which is mixed with the sauerkraut, draws out the sugar which contains sugar. Then bacteria ferment the sugar and produce lactic acid; and the kraut has its distinctive flavor and taste.

Sauerkraut is not made really, there is a chance that types of bacteria will also cause the kraut to spoil. Sauerkraut making is a process of keeping one kind of bacteria and preventing other kinds from developing.

It was once the custom to keep sauerkraut in a crock or barrel in the cellar. But the modern craze is to use glass jars that hold enough kraut for a single dish, explains Harry E. Gorse-line, bacteriologist in the Bureau of Agricultural Chemistry and Engineering. If you have the sauerkraut in glass jars, there is no need to waste the top layer that turns soft and brown in an open crock or barrel.

Jars with glass lids, that clamp down, are preferred. The salt in sauerkraut will corrode metal lids.

If there is a cool storage place and the sauerkraut is to be used during the winter, you can make the kraut right in the jars. Mix the shredded cabbage with the salt—4 ounces of salt to 10 pounds of cabbage—and pack it into the jars. Place the rubbers and lids on the jars, but do not seat tightly. Have an enamel pan under the jars to catch the juice that bubbles out. Let the kraut stand for two or three days until there is good gas formation. Then pour the juice back, and seal the jars. Allow the kraut to ripen for a month or six weeks, and then it is ready to serve.

When sauerkraut is to be kept until summer, it's best to make it in a crock or barrel and later put it in jars. Let the kraut ferment for about 10 days and it will be ready for canning. Have the sauerkraut thoroughly hot, and then fork it into the jars. Put the rubbers and lids on the jars, but do not seal. Place the jars in a bath of boiling water and continue heating for about 5 minutes, until the water returns to boiling. Then seal the jars and continue heating them in the water bath 10 minutes for quart jars, and 15 minutes for two-quart jars.

There's a modern trend in cooking sauerkraut, too. Many cooks prefer to cook kraut like other vegetables—only for a short time. Panning is a convenient and quick method. Simply place the kraut in a frying pan with some hot fat, cover, and cook for about 5 minutes. Add celery seed or caraway seed to make a really savory dish.

Another method is to cook the sauerkraut in a covered pan with a very tart apple chopped and mixed with the kraut. Tuck some frankfurters into the sauerkraut and cook until the "wienies" are piping hot all through.

In many localities there are other traditional ways to serve sauerkraut. Some like it especially well with turkey, goose, and other poultry. Other cooks put the sauerkraut in a baking dish with a layer of spareribs over the top, and heat in a moderate oven—turning the spareribs to get them cooked through and brown on both sides. Others serve sauerkraut with loin or shoulder of pork. Another idea is to scallop the sauerkraut with macaroni and cooked sausages or bits of ham.

The story of sauerkraut is not complete without mention of its food values. Kraut is a fairly good source of minerals, especially calcium; and it usually contains some vitamin C. Short cooking or panning is the best way to retain this vitamin C. The sauerkraut juice, which commercial canners put up separately, also contains a good share of the minerals.

Such shades can be secured in parchment or washable plastic in white, ivory and beige. They are quite inexpensive. Some even come in sets which include clean new candle husks and inner diffusing bowls to sift out glare as do the larger bowls in the floor lamps. These candleless are particularly nice for wall brackets.

Lighted urns were also added to the Welsh dresser in the room illustrated here. They are particularly handy for soft room-light when wax candles are the only other light used.

In some dining rooms the ceiling fixture is the type in which bare bulbs hang downward. This style can be readily modernized with silvered-bowl bulbs and metal shades to give indirect lighting.

Sometimes, however, a dining room has simply a single socket in the ceiling or a drop cord over the table. Then the answer is a new streamlined adaptor fixture which can be screwed in like a bulb. Some of these use a silvered-bowl bulb for indirect lighting. Among others are parchment shades and an inner diffusing shield and 150-watt inside frosted bulb.

The lighting designers and engineers have worked out any number of inexpensive ways in which dining rooms and dinettes can be blessed with the new modern lighting. I have described only a few but doubtless they suggest interesting possibilities to the homemaker.

Good Lighting Adds Much To Dining Room Pleasure

Despite Her Small Budget, Light Conditioning Is on the Menu.

By Jean Prentice

MAKING A ROOM PRETTY on a small budget is relatively easy, particularly if the lighting is given a thought or two.

In a recent survey of one thousand homes, lighting engineers found that many dining room lighting fixtures are not used to best advantage. But, fortunately, there are new inexpensive ways to modernize these fixtures.

For example, it took but a jiffy to improve the fixture and light condition the room illustrated here.

Before the changes were made the colors in the room appeared dull. They were distorted by the lighting from bare amber-colored bulbs in the candelabra over the table. The bulbs were also too small in size to contribute lighting cheer.

Then the turquoise and coral tints in the wall paper and deep greenish blue of the rug were lifted into lovely rich jewel tones with new lighting. The inexpensive but well-designed maple furniture took on new honey-tints.

The change was a simple one, a step that can be taken in many homes where there are candelabra fixtures or candle wall brackets. Regular 40-watt inside frosted bulbs were substituted to provide enough light for easier seeing and clearer colors. On the bulbs were clipped new shades, shown above, to soften the light, prevent glare and direct some illumination downward on the table.

They will be judged in a district meet later.

Winners in the local try-outs, who went to Childress, were the following: Elwanda Martin Jean Mize, Aileen Bloodworth, James Edward Russell, a post-graduate student, and Gordon Russell, all competing in voice, and Morris Stephens, who performed with a harmonica.

Decision of the judges will not be disclosed before three weeks, it was stated.

Rodeo Is Scheduled

Norman Martin and W. E. Burleson, Flomot's rodeo promoters, announced this week that the Downtown Flomot Daredevils will hold their second rodeo of 1940 next Sunday afternoon beginning at 2 o'clock.

The sponsors state that this will be a strictly amateur show and all entrance fees will go back to contestants in roping events. Match roping will be held as a feature event. The contests will be open to all amateurs of this section of the state, and invitations have been sent to Lester Durham, south plains "hot-shot" and Nig Reid, Silverton's champion roper.

Annual M. E. Conference Meets Nov. 15

The Northwest Texas Annual Conference of the Methodist Church will be held in Pampa, Texas, and will convene Friday, November 15, according to an announcement by Rev. W. B. Vaughn, pastor of the local church. The meeting will be called at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon and adjourn the following Tuesday or Wednesday.

This Conference is composed of nine districts and 220 pastoral charges. Rev. Vaughn stated. Besides the District Superintendents and the pastors, there will be one layman from each charge. Judge G. E. Hamilton will represent the Matador church.

"We have a good report to turn in of this year's work," Rev. Vaughn stated, "and since next Sunday will be the last Sunday of this Conference year, we urge that all members be present both for Sunday school and the preaching at 11 o'clock. There will be a special Armistice program at the evening hour."

Students In Radio Try-Outs

A group of Matador school children, accompanied by Vernon Doss, elementary superintendent, and Miss Mabel Jameson, music teacher, drove to Childress Wednesday where they were given auditions in a district try-out for talent.

The movement is sponsored by the State Department of Education for the purpose of selecting radio talent among school children, to be presented at the Texas School of the Air program.

Fourteen contestants in the primary group, vied for honors in a local try-out, with Earlene Fuller, a third grade pupil, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. N. Fuller, receiving first place; Leatrice Simpson, also a third grade pupil, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Simpson, second place; and Dorothy Rattan, small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. A. Rattan, who is in her first year at school, winning third place.

If It's Heavily Advertised It HAS to be GOOD

OUR BRAND of democracy was won for us, and is being held for us, by men who chose their own careers, owned big farms, built big factories, and did what selling was necessary to keep those farms and factories busy.

One of the biggest aids in mass selling is mass advertising. In the long run, it "polices" itself. Advertising of poor products always fails. Only a first rate product, fairly priced, can stand the dazzling glare of national advertising. When you think of the heavily advertised soups, soaps, breakfast foods, mechanical refrigerators, automobiles, silverware, radios—you are thinking of the aristocrats among commercial articles.

1940 Football Favorites Are Selected Early

Votes for the Football Queen will be counted today at 3:00, and the representative having the most votes (which are 1c each), will automatically win the race, and will be given a full page picture in La Arena, the M. H. S. annual.

The four class representatives, who were selected the latter part of last week, are: Senior—Frances Carpenter; Junior—Helen Stanfield; Sophomore—Oneta Whitaker; and Freshman—Mary Price. May the best man (or is it girl?) win!

Mary Ellen Barton, Senior, was chosen as Football Sweetheart last Monday by the football boys in a meeting in Coach Martin's classroom. She, also, will have a full page picture in the annual. Congrats, Dude!

Students Asked Not To Write In Their Text-Books

Students who write in text-books are constantly being reprimanded for this habit.

This practice may have its good points, too. Who does not like to get an algebra book with the solution to a difficult problem written obscurely in the corner of a page here and there? And what student of English does not like to find the answer of those difficult questions written neatly above them?

Yes, just as "there is a little bit of good in the worst of us, and a little bit of bad in the best of us," the text-book-marker has his merits. Yet he should remember that the book does not belong to him, and should treat it as "borrowed property."

Spooks Help Make Hallowe'en Party Very Successful

Rachel Carpenter and Betty Green were hostesses for a party Wednesday night, October 30, and most of the guests were dressed as spooks of some description.

The guests were: Ruth and Don Paul Keith, Junior and Norman Pitts, Bennie and Margie Marshall, McElton Skaggs, Billy Tunnell, James Fish, Algie Durbin, June Barton, Reatha Robertson, Paula Patton, Elwanda Martin, Catherine Daffern, Faustena Fulfer, Oneta Whitaker, Mack Jacobs, Tom Ed Jameson, and the two hostesses.

Refreshments of sandwiches, cookies, and punch were served, and tasted delicious after the games. We think that this was the most successful party of the year, and we hope to have many more as enjoyable.

Only Six Students Get Distinguished List Grade Rates

ATTENDANCE RECORDS FOR FIRST SIX WEEKS' PERIOD

Either the subjects or the teachers must be getting harder for the students of the Matador Public Schools, for only six High School and three Grade School pupils made the distinguished list this, the first six weeks' term. ### Sports Sidelights

Last Friday morning Mr. Tunnell gave the two periods from 10:00 to 12:00 to the football squad for a workout. Mr. Tunnell said this action was considered necessary because of the few practices left before the big game Friday night with Floyddada and also because the coaches would not be present that afternoon.

In the clash with the Silverton Owls Thursday night, Lowell Barkley lost one of his front teeth and Friday morning in the workout Johnny Allsup got two or three front teeth chipped. Algie Durbin certainly got a tough break when his shoulder was wrenched in the first few minutes of play in the Hallowe'en game. He is one of our strongest reserve backs, but will probably be out of the rest of the games this season. Perhaps you have noticed that he now wears "specks", but that won't keep him from going to town in football next year.

The Whirlwinds are said to be particularly strong in defense this year, and the Matadors will probably find this to be the fightin'est game they have played this season—and with only four more workouts, they're really going to have to "pour in on" to be ready for this crucial game.

I wonder just how many of the first string boys train rigidly? Don't be surprised if we find out. And—print names.

On November 3, 1933, the Matadors played the Whirlwinds to a 6-0 victory at Floyddada. This game is well-remembered by the many fans because of the terrible weather. A train was chartered for the Matador fans, who were met by their hosts and taken to the field.

The backfield was W. E. Burleson, quarterback; J. S. Burnam and Robert Pritchett, halfbacks; and Rudolph Pyron, fullback. Substitutes in that game were Charlie Brown, Jess Spencer, and Will Clements.

I hear that some of you have been missing kind Mr. Ghost the past week or two. Well, we got a letter from him (he's been staying with his bones out in the grave-yard, preparing for a cold winter), and he promises to make the dead-line next week with the very "late-st."

HUNTERS RETURN

Huntsmen D. E. Pitts, R. P. Moore, Henry Ford and A. J. Daffern returned home Tuesday night from High Rolls, New Mexico, each having brought home a deer.

Did a certain Miss Somebody run into J. D. Payne accidentally the other night at the Carnival, or was it on purpose? We wonder! For further information, see above mentioned Miss Robertson.

Sonny Russell and Edna J. Holliday enjoyed their afternoon ride, just as was predicted. Hazel Ruth seems to have most of our best-looking boys hog-tied. Wonder why so many people call 179J so frequently?

What was that Nona Belle was telling some of her friends last Friday? Have her boy-friends quarreled? 'Tis funny how Flora always manages to get a certain seat on the bus every time, sure now 'tis! And I know some kids that don't live toward Whiteflat that are jealous. Not mentioning names of course.

Our compliments go this week to Helen Hill, for always standing up for her friends, and for being the sweetest dark angel in dear old M. H. S.; to Horace Jameson for being so handsome, but not acting like he knows it; and to Warren D. Hardin for being the most polite boy in school.

Next week we have some "hot" news for you—and is it going to be good! Just watch this column!

NEW BOOKS

Matador City Library

One of the new books recently added to the shelves of Matador City Library, is "Sun and Sage" by Rudolph Mellard, written in verse.

Writers from Eastern cities have come into the Southwest and written books on cowboy life; cowboys and excowboys have stepped into the writer's province and produced books about Western ranches—but in Sun and Sage's author there is a rancher who is also a writer of distinct ability, one who knows his material as well as how to present it so vividly that his readers may see and understand the country and life he loves.

In the twelve narrative poems which make up Sun and Sage the daily activities of ranch life—the work, play, hardships and pleasures of present-day ranching in the Big Bend of Texas, are mingled with the atmosphere of the old west, of those old pioneers whose heritage of courage and integrity are honored possessions of their descendants today.

Throughout the book there is a sense of bigness, of majestic distance and towering mountains that dwarf man's petty quarrels and disproportionate ego. Here is life in its essential qualities of purpose, kindness, tolerance, humor. Carrying the same escape-from-routine value of a western novel, Sun and Sage adds the distinguishing marks of reality given in clear-cut pictures.

The Author

Rudolph Mellard's home is the Spur Ranch, near Marfa, in the Big Bend section of western Texas. He was reared and educated in that section, and is a graduate of Sul Ross State Teachers College at Alpine, Texas. His is a natural love for cattle and horses and the out-of-doors, for he is of the third generation of cowmen, his grand-fathers having been pioneers in the development of the cattle industry in the West.

He is at home in all natural surroundings. He stops shoeing a horse "to lean on a cloud and watch the sunset." Sunrises he knows by long association. Lightning has knocked his horse from under him; hot suns have browned his skin and momentarily blinded his eyes with sweat and glare; winds have nearly frozen him. "Lying in wait for hours to leap out and seize him unawares"; rain and snow and sleet he has "met in heaps", and has "come away on equal terms." Droughts have made his cattle suffer and sudden showers and seasoning rains have watered his hills and made his grass green. All forces he knows and accepts, unperurbed.

Writing is natural to him, too. Assuredly he knows his subject well.

The Artist

Adding much to the attractiveness of the book are the sketches by Frank Anthony Stannus, a young artist of San Antonio, Texas, whose action pictures of western scenes have won him great commendation. The book is published by Naylor Publishing Company of San Antonio, Texas.

HOW GREEN WAS MY VALLEY

By Richard Llewellyn

A magnificent novel of Wales, full of the tragedy and comedy of life itself.

"How Green Was My Valley" is the story of a large family, the Morgans, whose livelihood depended on mining in the days of about fifty years ago when South Wales still prospered and coal dust had not blackened the greenness of the valley.

It is the story told by Huw, one of the youngest of the children, of his family, their friends and their neighbors. It pictures his gentle tyrant of a father, one of the most upright and honored of all the men in the Valley, his shrewd and impulsive mother, his merry brothers and sisters, a high light of Huw's early childhood is the marriage of his eldest brother to the beautiful and tender Bronwen, whom Huw is destined to love all his life.

In a mood of nostalgia Huw, now a man in his sixties, remembers these lost golden days of his youth. A great slag heap has crept down menacingly upon his childhood home, and Huw is about to leave the Valley forever.

Everything is here: comedy, tragedy, love, excitement, fighting, heroism, and sacrifice. There is a crisp, salty Welsh humor which seasons the tale and makes it proof against sentimentality. The characters will live long in the readers memory; and the story is written with a beauty and simplicity which are beyond praise.

Pied Pinions

BY MR. S. M.

Two places are destined to have me as a visitor again sometime in the dim future, if my secret desires are permitted to materialize; one, the Grand Canyon in Arizona—the other, Catalina Island just off the coast of Los Angeles.

The Avalon of the song, "I Left My Love In Avalon", situated on the landward side of the island, is 25 miles south of Los Angeles harbor, an enjoyable two hour steamer ride. Catalina is 22 miles long, and from one quarter to seven and a half miles wide. It is extremely mountainous.

One day is not enough to derive full enjoyment from the trip. Catalina has everything—mountains, the ocean, all kinds of sports, riding, golf and tennis, hiking, dancing, swimming, fishing, hunting or roughing it; in addition to numerous drives to points of interest—to the seal colony, a skyline drive, to the bird park, the summit drive; not to mention the different boat rides—the speed boats, the trip to the submarine gardens on the glass bottom boats or the flying fish cruise at night when thousands of flying fish dart about, attracted by the beam of a powerful searchlight on the boat.

And for folks who hadn't really planned to stay over, the Hotel St. Catherine offers a deluxe service. They will furnish, without charge, a complete kit, (night clothes and toilet articles) for your convenience!

The records tell us that nearly three and three quarter centuries have passed since the first white man set foot on Santa Catalina. In 1542 Senor Juan Rodriguez Cabrillo sailed into the placid waters of what is now Avalon Bay, raised the Spanish flag and named the island San Salvador, after one of his ships; and again in 1602 an expedition headed by one Sebastian Vizcaino, anchored at Avalon and rechristened the island to the present name of Santa Catalina.

Cabrillo found the harbor a prosperous Indian village, the natives a much superior race than the Indians of the main land. They wore woven garments and some fashioned from the skins of Sea Lions, which abounded along the picturesque shores. Their chief occupation was fishing. For this purpose, crudely built canoe-like boats were used, capable of accommodating about twenty men. These people had flocks and herds, and also were very artful, making pretty ornaments from the abalone and other shells.

The Island became the property of Mexico and was granted by her to Governor Pip Pico and since then has passed thru many hands, until in recent years, it became the property of the Banning Company, who added many luxuries, to enhance the unrivaled natural beauties.

In 1919 it was purchased by the late William Wrigley Jr., Chicago capitalist, who spared neither time nor expense in making Catalina one of the most beautiful and delightful playgrounds in the world. The palatial Wrigley residence is located on Mt. Ada, overlooking Avalon Bay, and is one of the show places on the island. Here each spring the Chicago Cubs professional baseball club, come to train.

Famous orchestras are here the year-around to play at the Casino theatre, and many are broadcast over national hook-ups. During the past year Kay Kyser, Benny Goodman, Dick Jurgens and Bob Crosby with their orchestras, were among the performers.

Yes, Catalina has everything for your enjoyment; and offers you so many things to see and do that you can spend a day or a lifetime there, and enjoy every minute of it.

Only one day is not enough.

Scarlet Fever Makes Gains During Month

AUSTIN, Texas. Prevalence of scarlet fever in Texas during October has increased 93.9 per cent over September's total cases, according to reports reaching the Texas State Department of Health.

Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, points out that this is a characteristic seasonal rise in prevalence, as the number of scarlet fever cases increases simultaneously with the opening school and remains more or less constant during the month and recedes in marked fashion during the summer vacation.

"Scarlet fever continues to menace to children," Dr. Cox says. "Many cases are slight, but may infect others who will come seriously ill. Even the cases may be dangerous, as disease complications may be severe."

"Children between the age five and ten years are most susceptible to scarlet fever—more virulent and deaths occur in this age group than any other. Therefore, younger the child is, the more dangerous are the complications and the greater the likelihood the disease will run a severe course."

The incubation period (between exposure to the germ and manifestation of the symptoms) may be from two to seven days, usually from two to four. The first symptoms are headache, sore throat, vomiting and a sudden high fever. Twenty-four to forty-eight hours after the original symptoms, rash begins to appear and in more days increases in brightness until it becomes a vivid scarlet and covers the entire body. Symptoms which may indicate scarlet fever demand immediate attention and quarantine to prevent the spread of the disease.

Appearance of scarlet fever in home should be followed immediately by a rigid quarantine at least three weeks.

Local Residents Attend Convention

Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Russell attended the Eighteenth District American Legion convention at Borger Sunday.

Principal speakers at the day legion convention were W. Gilks, Dallas, national American Legion chaplain; Edward Reigate state commander; Charles Mor Artesia, N. M., state commander for New Mexico.

An invitation for the convention to be held in Matador for spring meeting to be in May, accepted, after the Dalhart leg had asked to be excused because of the dust storms in that section during the spring season.

I GIVE YOU TEXAS ROYCE

Most vivid memory brought away from Laredo on a visit last summer during the American Legion state convention was the sight of a gray-haired veteran, seated at a piano in a hotel lobby, his eyes sightless but a smile on his features as he played "Ramonona" and lifted his voice in a ralloching song with the words of a parody, "Kimono." That example of cheer and courage, in the face of a night that will not disappear until life ends, should make any man—blessed with eyesight, hearing and sturdy legs and arms—ashamed at having allowed petty troubles to dismay or anger him.

Reference to the recent election of a former schoolmate, Clifford Davis of Tennessee, to Congress brought to mind the fact that another schoolmate of mine has served in that august body. Webber Wilson and I went to school together in Coldwater, Miss., though he was a senior and I was only in the seventh grade; but we became comrades as we waited down at the depot in the late afternoons for "Ole Miss" (the I. C. train) to arrive with the evening News-Scimitar from Memphis and he quoted the poems of Poe and of Tennyson. All of us knew that Webber was going to be a statesman or a great lawyer, or both. Once, a mock trial was held and he was the prosecutor. He made such a ringing speech that some of the students took the rope from the school bell and threatened to "lynch" the defendant. After Webber had been elected prosecuting attorney in the county to which he moved after graduating from the University of Mississippi, he came back to his old home town. He had not yet taken the oath of office, so when some of his ex-schoolmates were charged in city court with "shooting craps," he volunteered to defend them. The first trial resulted in a hung jury, so did the second and so did the third. Webber made practically an entirely new speech each time to capacity houses. Then it was found that there was not an eligible juror left in the little town and so the boys were turned loose. And then the three sets of jurors "fessed up"; each one would have brought in a verdict of "Not guilty" but they wanted to hear Webber make another speech! He was elected to Congress at 30; once he preceded Calvin Coolidge on a program and the President referred to "my eloquent young friend from Mississippi." Wilson ran for the United States Senate but fell a few thousand votes short; served as chief justice of the Virgin Islands supreme court and now is on the Federal Board of Pardons and Paroles.

When the village miser died, somebody asked, "How much did he leave?" My Grandpa said, "He left it all."

School furniture and theatre seats made in Texas are shipped to Mexico, Puerto Rico and almost to all parts of the United States. Only recently, the American Desk Manufacturing Co., Inc. (located in Temple) provided the chairs for a new theatre in Salt Lake City. Of the five big trucks owned by the concern, one is on the Temple-Chicago run continuously, some 20,000 desks a year going to the latter city. The only plant of the kind west of the Mississippi River or South of Chicago, the Temple concern is locally owned and is actively directed by two native sons of Bell County—A. P. Brashear, manager from the beginning, and C. V. Griggs, assistant manager. These two men and two others comprised the entire personnel when the factory was started just 12 years ago. At the height of the season now, 200 workers are employed, besides the office and sales force. A market for many Texas products is provided—Texas hardwoods, Texas cotton and Texas paints. This observer found a trip thru the big factory a revelation. Wood is curved into all sorts of shapes by means of water and steam pressure. Solid sheets of steel are cut in strips and fabricated into chairs, desks and tables by skilled workers using powerful machines and, by means of a paint gun, the pieces are colored with amazing speed. Just another proof of the industrial possibilities of this State.

This and that: A Fort Worth coffee shop menu lists a "Farm Hand Special" consisting of "seven eggs, ham steak, fried potatoes (heaps), loaf of bread, toasted, and coffee till you say stop." One Texas hotel—if you leave a call—will ring you at the designated time and then, five minutes later, call you again to make sure you've gotten up. Imagine having no more confidence in the guests than that! They had the effrontery to do me that way, doggone 'em. Yes, I had gone back to sleep.
