Thoroughly Cooked Pork Protection Against Trichina

AUSTIN—Because of the present emergency thousands of American families will be added this autumn to the many who are accustomed to the home-preparation and storage of meats for their own use. This is the opinion of Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer who has issued a timely warning against carelessness that might cause illness.

Trichinosis, Dr. Cox explained, is caused by a microscopic organism called the trichina or muscle worm. This parasite develops in the human body whenever infested pork is eaten, if it has not been sufficiently cooked.

Since it has been estimated that approximately five per cent of all swine are infested with trichinae, it is being emphasized that the invariable rule before consuming any pork or pork product is to see that it is cooked until all natural color is gone and no evidence of blood can be detected.

Dr. Cox declared that since no treatment is known, prevention is very important. The worms cannot be seen by the unaided eye, so inspection of pork cannot be depended upon to protect from this type of infection. The only sure safeguard is to be certain that all pork and prok products are thoroughly cooked, whether processed at home or purchased.

Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Davis and their daughter, Inez, of Lubbock, were here Friday visiting Mr. and Mrs. Martin Smith and other relatives.

THE STORY OF BREAD may well be called The Story of Civilization

Bread, the most venerable of prepared foods, has helped man, and man in turn has bettered the quality of his staff of life.

YEAST is the life of bread... and the story of yeast is the story of scientific research, uniform quality, mammoth production, modern refrigeration... and daily delivery to bakers in every city, town and village throughout the land...

Anheuser-Busch is one of America's biggest sources of baker's yeast. Year after year, we have striven with research and resources to better the methods and facilities for brewing Budweiser. To do this, a laboratory specializing in fermentation and nutrition was necessary.

Endless research in making the world's leading beer has led to other products

VITAMINS, B COMPLEX—For manufacturers of pharmaceutical and food products. Our plant is one of the world's largest sources.

VITAMIN D—Anheuser-Busch produces enough of the basic material for Vitamin D to supply the entire American market.

CORN SYRUP—many millions of pounds annually for America's candy industry.

SYRUPS—for food, table and confectionery uses and special syrups for medicinal purposes.

STARCH—for food, textile, paper and other industries—millions of pounds annually.

VITAMINS FOR LIVESTOCK—We are America's biggest supplier of yeast vitamins used to fortify animal feeds.

REFRIGERATING EQUIPMENT—for retailers of frozen foods and ice cream the country over. This division is now working all-out on glider wing and fuselage assemblies for our Armed Forces.

Spur Man, Now A Canadian Flier, Ready To See Some Action, He Says On Visit Here

Home on leave after receiving his wings recently in the Royal Canadian Air force, Thomas Britain Forbis of Spur is raring to see some action and will report to Halifax, Canada, Nov. 6.

A sergeant pilot bombardier in the RCAF, Forbis has been in service about 15 months. Why did he join the RCAF? "Well, they had a war going on and it looked as if things were about to catch on fire over here and I thought I had better get in there and help put it out." The United States had not entered the war when he joined the Canadian force in the summer of 1941.

Former Tech Student

Forbis, a former student of Texas Technological college, is visiting in Lubbock today and Tuesday as the guest of Dr. Albert Barnett. He is the son of Mrs. Fannie Green Forbis of Spur. This morning he visited President Clifford B. Jones and other friends on the college campus.

Concerning the all-out war effort of the Canadians, the 29-year-old Texan is enthusiastic. "When you taxi up to the line and get out, women swarm all over the plane," he said. Women are serving as mechanics and electricians and in numerous other war jobs.

Canadians All At Work
"You don't see any healthy men in Canada who aren't in uniform, unless they are in some vital war job," he said.

There is little profiteering in Canada, he said. For instance, despite food shortages, the same class of meal served before the war is still available at no increased cost.

Residents of the United States have not become war conscious to the extent the Canadians have, he said.

He spoke with pride of the part Texans are filling in the war. Everywhere, Texans are found. Filling quotas in Texas was no difficult task from the first. In Canada, there are numerous Texans in the RCAF. "Texans have practically taken over the oilfields in Canada," he said. They hold numerous key positions in the oil industry.

When in training it was not uncommon for Forbis to run into men with the Texas drawl.

Injury Delays Training

Forbis was graduated from Texas Tech in 1937. He received his wings Oct. 20 at Regina, Saskatchewan, Can. Due to an injury suffered in a hockey game, he spent two months in a hospital and was delayed in completing training.

"I haven't done anything yet," he said. He is ready to go, however.—Lubbock Avalanche.

Hoover were Childless visitors Saturday.

Misses Katy Lou Thomas and Velma Collins of Matador visited their parents here over the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Duncan and son Cecil visited here Sunday with relatives before continuing to Pampa where Mr. Duncan will be employed.

Texas University Offers Teachers Free Math Course

A recent letter to County Judge and Exofficio County Superintendent W. R. Cammack, from L. A. Woods, State Superintendent, Department of Education, informs him that the U. S. Office of education is attempting to render service in training mathematics and physics teachers through correspondence. The work is being conducted by the University of Texas.

"Although this instruction is not for college credit, the courses have been prepared by specialists who have been responsible for subject matter instruction of teachers of mathematics and physics. The course, therefore, should prove helpful to those who wish to contribute to the war effort by becoming more efficient teachers of mathematics and physics. . . . The University of Texas is giving these courses tuition-free. Write C. R. Gradberry, University of Texas, Austin."

"War Tires" Soon To Be Available

Under the new regulations which are part of the Government's rubber conservation program dealers may now increase their stocks of passenger car tires so as to be ready to make consumer sales when the new mileage rationing program becomes effective November 22, D. I. W. Birnie, chairman of the Motley County War Price and Rationing Board announced yesterday.

Dealers may acquire stocks of new tires made of reclaimed rubber as well as recapped and used tires for sale to motorists who receive rationing certificates from the local War Price and Rationing Board.

"Rationing of these tires is a part of the Government's plan to keep the nation's passenger cars rolling for essential mileage," Mr. Birnie said.

Abraham Lincoln grew up in an era of story-telling; it was an art, story-telling was, in an age when there was little of the theatre and very few books, declared Carl Sandburg, America's greatest living writer, who wrote the monumental life of Lincoln. (This columnist heard Sandburg lecture in Denton a while back.)

The laughter of Lincoln, said Sandburg, ranged from the lively stable variety at one end of ironies at the other—a bitter, twisted laughter.

After the second Battle of Bull Run, Lincoln was telling one joke after another. When someone in the group remonstrated, the President exclaimed, "My God, man! Don't you see if I didn't laugh, I'd have to cry!"

Sandburg gave the impression of one who knew Lincoln personally, intimately deeply—as indeed he does though, of course, the poet biographer never saw his hero. Homey phrases and human incidents enlivened the discourse, as when the speaker told of the Lincoln-Douglas debates and of Douglas' effort to confuse terms, which caused the gaunt rail-splitter to remark, "Judge Douglas would have you think that a horse chestnut is the same as a chestnut horse."

Then there was the time that a woman, weighing 118 pounds, visited the White House and Lincoln greeted Harriet Beecher Stowe, (author of "Uncle Tom's Cabin") with:

"So you're the little woman who started this great war" and during the conversation, the President remarked, in the language of his boyhood, "I like a wood fire; we always had one to home."

One of the best of Sandburg's Lincoln stories was the one about a citizen of Springfield who had known Abe there and who visited the White House. He asked his host, "How does it feel to be President?" Lincoln answered, "I'm like the man who was tarred and feathered, then ridden on a rail, and he said, 'If it wasn't for the honor, I'd just as soon walk.'"

Sandburg compared the burdens and responsibilities of the Presidency for Lincoln and for Franklin D. Roosevelt, adding that he had told the above story to Roosevelt and the President countered with one about the colored preacher and the colored deacon:

The preacher said, "De wicked am going to burn."

"Amen, brudder, amen," said the deacon.

"De wicked am gwine to burn in hell-fire."

"Amen, you is right."

"Yes, de wicked am gwine to burn in everlastin' fire."

"Oh, no, brudder," exclaimed the deacon, "not everlastin' fire—de human constitution can't stand everlastin' fire!"

"A New Dictionary of Quotations" has been compiled by H. L. Mencken, who has collected 33,000 witty and wise sayings. Having little use for platitudes and bunk, his collection is different. Just to give you the flavor of the volume, here are a few to be found on the subject of smoking.

A good cigar is as great a comfort to a man as a good cry is to a woman—E. G. Bulwer-Lytton.

Smoking—A custom loathsome to the eye, harmful to the brain, dangerous to the lungs and in the black stinking fume thereof, nearest resembling the horrible Stygian smoke of the pit that is bottomless—James I of England.

What smells so? Has somebody been burning a rag or is there a dead mule in the back yard? No, the man is smoking a five-cent cigar—Eugene Field.

Tobacco—A lone man's companion, a bachelor's friend, a hungry man's food, a sad man's cordial, a wakeful man's sleep and a chilly man's fire—Chas. Kingsley.

Running for State office, even if you don't win, has its pleasant side. For sentimental reasons, I was happy at leading for Lieutenant-Governor in Brown and Uvalde counties, where I had attended school; in Menard County where an unforgettable boyhood vacation was spent at old Fort McKavett; in Irion County, where I married; in McCulloch county which years ago helped me regain my health and in Tarrant county, my present home.

E. C. Lowe, editor-publisher of the Lometa Reporter, told his friends about the days that we worked together on a West Texas paper, and the vote in Lometa was 298 for House and 33 for the next man. The senior class of San Saba High School "adopted" me as their candidate. Billy, young son of Editor W. C. Fancher of Corrigan, marched up and down in front of the polling place all day, carrying a placard he had made, boosting one friend for 'constable' and House for Lieutenant Governor. Far up in the Panhandle, Dallam County honored me with a clear majority over all eight opponents put together—Jess Morris, old-time cowboy; Publisher Ed Bishop, Editor Albert Law and other friends had much to do with this. Clear majorities also were given by Kenedy County, where Denver Chestnut lives, and Tarrant County.

Many friends worked long and tirelessly. Other (whom I never had the pleasure of meeting) felt that they knew me because of a mutual friend or because of this "column" or the Sunday radio programs; and they wrote to their friends. A man does not forget these things.

Hilton R. Greer, literary editor of the Dallas News, has written some very fine poetry. Not long ago, he was in a grocery store, when an acquaintance asked facetiously, "What does a poet eat that he may sing?" Greer replied, "Canary bird seed."

But a friend of mine says canary bird seed is a fake. He planted some but not a single canary sprouted.

He's the same friend who bought a sack of moth balls and then returned to the store and wanted his money back. "I threw every one of those moth balls and never hit a single moth", he complained.

There is a very narrow margin between keeping your chin up and sticking your neck out.

Dr. Cox Advises Home Medical Aid

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 29—It has been reliably estimated that within a year approximately one-third of the total number of 180,000 physicians in the United States will have left their practice to serve with the Army, Navy, or Marine Corps. This deficiency in medical attention available to the general population will be even greater than it appears on the surface inasmuch as a large number of those remaining are not in active practice due to old age, teaching or public health activities, or full-time employment with industry. Plainly, this situation develops a problem for the physicians who will remain at home, the solution of which to some degree will be in the hands of the general public, according to Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

"There is no desire to imply that the family physician, now or later, must not be summoned except in dire need. In fact, there is a greater reason than ever before to seek his advice on living habits, to have him give a thorough periodic check-up, and to have him treat conditions promptly, which, if disregarded, are apt to cause more serious trouble later on. The only point being emphasized is that one should not attempt thoughtlessly to consume the doctor's valuable time and energy by insisting that he make a home call when an office visit or suggestions over the telephone might suffice.

"While in cities, lack of medical service has not as yet reached an acute stage, there are already rural sections feeling the pinch. It follows that everyone, both for his own and his country's sake should live sensibly to the end that maximum health may be attained, and avoidable home medical service be eliminated.

"In this connection, the following rules, among others, may be suggested: Eat nutritious foods. Obtain sufficient rest at night. Shun debilitating and exhausting habits. Keep the use of stimulants of all kinds within sensible bounds exercise daily. Detour worry as much as possible."

When a pretty girl tries to treat a bashful fellow white, he turns red.

Mattress Program Pays Big Dividend

COLLEGE STATION, Oct. 29—The government's cotton mattress demonstration program of 1940 is paying dividends in its 1942 Food for Freedom campaign.

When the mattress program was launched in the spring of 1940 community chairmen were asked to serve without pay, and in addition used their cars at their own expense to "get the program going." One of these volunteer leaders was Mrs. Hugh Vaughn of the Sand Grove community in Milam county.

In 1941, provision was made in the program to pay each local chairman a small sum for each mattress made under her supervision. Mrs. Vaughn continued to serve her community, and eventually she received $11.85 for her months of work.

"I put 15 cents with my $11.85 and bought two gilts," Mrs. Vaughn recently told Dorothy Porter, Milam County home demonstration agent. "They now have 13 pigs and my husband are easily worth $100. Mrs. Vaughn says the other mattress program

Businessmen — Let's talk about death! Let's not dodge the issue — let's face facts. A lot of good American fighting men may soon have to die for want of scrap!

IF YOU FAIL SOME BOY WILL DIE!

WERE talking facts, remember! Such as the fact that steel for every tank, ship, and gun must be made of 50% scrap. And the terrible fact that America's mills are starving for this scrap—without enough on hand for even 30 days more production!

Which puts it up to you!

Monday starts the big scrap metal drive. And you, as a businessman, have a double job to do. Clean out your home—and scour your place of business, factory, office or store . . . for every single bit of scrap.

And when you see the stockpile grow—for the mills to take when it's needed—be glad that you've done your part...that your work may have saved some boy from a needless death!

Lt. Jack Robinson Jr., who visited here recently with friends, and at Paducah with his parents, is now stationed at Key Field, Meridian, Miss. He writes:

I have only been here two days and everything seems O.K. so far. My duties have not been assigned to me yet, but I think they will be tomorrow. Key Field is a very nice field to live on. I have a single room and all of the other officers are very nice. The morale is swell.

Meridian seems to be a very nice little city. It has a population of about 35,000.

Give my best regards to all the good people of Matador and Motley County, and also to all the Motley county boys in the service, wherever they may be.

Sincerely, Lt. Jack Robinson, Jr. 48 Bomb Group, Key Field, Meridian, Mississippi

I would like to take this opportunity to thank you and all the people of Motley County that make it possible for me to receive the paper each week. I am sure I speak for every Motley county boy in the service.

I am transferred from one field to another so much that sometimes the paper is a couple of weeks old before I get it, but it is still news to me and I assure you I read every line.

The boys in my barracks are nearly as anxious to get the paper as I am. They always read your column, "Trail Dust" and think it is wonderful, and so do I.

Thank you again for everything. Civilians, you buy 'em and we'll fly 'em.

GAS RATIONING . . .

ten years prison sentence or $10,000 fine or both. When you leave the school house you will have your Basic Mileage Book "A", a sticker for your windshield and a booklet of instruction. Your ration book is good for 240 miles per month (@ 15 miles per gallon) 16 gallons per month, 4 gallons per week. If the old bus will get 20 or more miles per gallon you are the winner, but don't show up with too much mileage. Some inspector may read your speedometer and decide you have coasted down too many hills.

Drivers who feel that they are entitled to more gasoline, form in orderly line, please, will receive information for this privilege when they receive their "A" book. Everyone must start with an "A" book. The others, "B" and "C" books will not be issued at the school houses.

A Tribune reporter was influenced to believe at a Rationing Board "press meeting," Monday, that the county gas rationing panel is going to follow both the spirit and the letter of the law, regarding extra gasoline.

Those attending the special meeting called by Mr. McPhaul, Friday, included: S. A. Dickson, C. W. Giesecke, B. F. Tunnell, R. L. Jameson, E. P. Reeves, L. A. Stearns, Marvin Patton, J. B. Riddle, C. M. McDonald, Everett B. Wallace, R. O. Ross, G. V. Hensarling, C. A. Pitts, D. E. Pitts, L. C. Harp, W. I. Rushing, Vernon Daniels, J. L. Woodruff, M. J. Reilly, J. R. Emmons, W. E. Jacobs, C. A. Butler, W. E. Rector, A. D. Beauchamp, Mrs. Ina G. Price and Mrs. Gertrude Nelson.

First tire inspection must be made between December 1st and January 31, 1943. Automobiles on which gasoline rationing books in excess of "A" apply, must have speedometers, on which mileage can be checked. Don't drive over 35 miles per hour!

West Texas Gin
RELIABLE GINNERS
We wish to call to the attention of farmers in our territory, that the boll weevils may damage your cotton next year. At present we can secure a limited number of dusting machines.
The prices of these machines are $155. and $175.
If you wait until next spring to see what the weevil will do, you may not be able to get one of these machines.
Place your order now. It may be spring before we are able to make delivery. These machines can be used for worms, flea-hoppers and boll weevils.
Thanks for the nice business you have been giving us.
Yours truly,
West Texas Gin

NO USE, ADOLF
You Can't Shut Out That Hum!
Adolf: Dot humming—vot iss it?
Reddy: That, Adolf, is the hum of power by which you will meet your doom. Power in the air . . . power afoot, on tap to build more planes, more tanks, more guns, more ships. It's the hum of American men and machines at work—twenty-four hours a day!
Adolf: Ah, but I haff power, too!
Reddy: Listen, Adolf! America has more power than you and all your stooges and conquered countries put together. Free men and women are using that power, turning out weapons of war in thundering quantities, because they want to stay free.
Adolf: Yes, but I haff men and women working for me, too.
Reddy: Slaves, Adolf. They toil with bayonets at their back. They have no spirit for the work. They are slowed down by hunger. The machines they work are worn by years of war. Manpower can never do the work of electric power!
Adolf: Sure, but I got the jump on you! I command everything—
Reddy: That's where we differ, Adolf. Your system is based on state slavery and political control and operation of all natural resources, industry, religion and education. In West Texas . . . and in all America . . . we respect the rights of the individual and the institutions he has created. Over here, we believe in free enterprise under government regulation . . . a system under which men and women know they'll be rewarded for initiative, ambition and production.
It's a powerful incentive, Adolf, and it's helped make America power-full. Consider electricity, for example. It's helped give West Texas homes about twice or three times as much electric service for their money as they used to get ten or fifteen years ago.
American business management is behind that hum you hear, Adolf, and its success depends on giving more for less cost. It's a hum that will beat upon you until freedom is restored to the earth. It's the hum of fate, Adolf!
