Banquet Makes New Record

Governor Impressed By Welcome He Receives From The "Cattle Country"

GOVERNOR STEVENSON speaks our language. That was the unanimous opinion of the hundreds who met and heard Governor Coke R. Stevenson at the seventh annual Father-Son banquet Thursday night and others who heard him address the Matador school assembly Friday morning. Speaking from the dynamic depths of his sincerity, the tall statesman who stands at the head of Texas' leadership, won the hearts and confidence of young and old during his brief overnight stay here.

But the people of Matador and the county were no more impressed with Governor Stevenson, than was he with his newly-made friends. A few moments before his departure Friday morning, the governor, declared, "I have never known such hospitality as has been tendered here. I like the county—the people and the spirit they possess. I have had a wonderful time." Governor Stevenson's bodyguard, Sgt. Jones of the State Highway Police was urging the chief executive to hurry that he would not be late for his appointment to speak at the Floydada high school at 11.

All previous attendance records were broken at the Father-Son banquet. Many were unable to buy tickets because the supply of boys had been exhausted long before the Governor's arrival and no more room was available in the Baptist church basement. Chairs were placed as closely as possible and many ate their chuck-wagon fare in adjacent rooms.

Names Texas' Greatest Asset

After his introduction to the Matador school assembly by Scout James Garth, Governor Stevenson, declared, "I believe our boys and girls are Texas' greatest asset when we consider the resources of this state." The Governor urged his young and eager listeners to learn everything possible in the way of education. He cited past writers who had predicted that progress had exhausted its resources, while in the next 50 years the country had made greater progress than any similar period of history. "Therefore," he said, "I hesitate to make any prediction for the future.... I have the highest hopes for the future of our citizenship."

Despite the inclement weather (high wind and temperature of 20 degrees) which prevailed Thursday night, all fortunate enough to hold tickets attended the banquet. The cold weather Friday morning did not lessen the crowd of adults which used most of the available extra seating facilities at the high school auditorium. A large number of Matador Lion Club members and various community leaders were seated on the stage from which Governor Stevenson spoke.

Daily Paper Reporters Here

Visit of Governor Stevenson here was reported by Charles A. Guy, editor of the Lubbock Avalanche and C. A. Ratliff, staff writer and photographer. The Tribune is indebted to the obliging "city neighbor" for the accompanying news photographs and for Mr. Ratliff's news story, which appeared in Friday's Avalanche, as follows:

"Building his talk on the theme that history is woven around the lives of men, Gov. Coke R. Stevenson was principal speaker tonight at Matador's seventh annual father and son banquet which was attended by approximately 350 fathers and sons. The affair is sponsored each year by the local Lion club.

"Old-time pit barbecue with 'son-of-a-gun,' pinto beans and 'the trimmings' made up the banquet fare.

"The Governor said the months of January and February furnish opportunities to remember the great men of this nation and to study their lives for the inspiration needed in these times. He paid special tribute to the late Lt. Paul Eubank, Navy flier, killed in action in the South Pacific, (See BANQUET SETS back page)

MATADOR HONORS GOVERNOR: Gov. Coke R. Stevenson, himself a rancher in Southwest Texas, was perfectly at home in the "best cow country in the world" last Thursday night when he was principal speaker at the Matador Lions club's Seventh Annual Father-and-Son banquet. The Avalanche-Journal photos above show, top: Governor Stevenson shaking hands with Bobby Harp, Boy Scout toastmaster, (Note official Scout handshake). Behind Bobby is part of the outline of his father, A. A. Harp; facing camera between them is Elmer Stearns, Matador banker and Lions president, and partly visible between Stearns and the Governor is Skeet Jameson; To the right of the Governor is G. E. Hamilton, pioneer Matador attorney and toastmaster for the fathers, and Douglas Meador, editor of the Matador Tribune, at the lower right is Kenneth Dunning. In the middle picture, Henry Pipkin, center, another Matador pioneer who is a master of barbecue, wise-cracks to District Judge Alton B. Chapman, of Floydada, right, while at left is M. J. For more than 30 minutes after the banquet, the governor autographed well over 100 programs for boys and adults, alike.

Tunnell On Red Cross War Fund

B. F. Tunnell, superintendent of the Matador Independent Schools was named as chairman of the Motley county war fund campaign to raise the quota of $2,700, at a meeting of the local Red Cross chapter officials held in the First State Bank lobby, Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Waunita M. Hutcheson, general field representative, St. Louis, attended the meeting and expressed confidence that Motley county would secure its quota. She said she had represented Texas at the St. Louis mid-winter conference and had secured special consideration for the state and "helped them think in terms of Texas," she declared.

"I am not telling you how to conduct your drive," Mrs. Hutcheson said, "for this county has always raised its quota and I know you are in a better position to know the most successful methods to use. I am only here to help you if I can."

To Have Complete Coverage

She stressed the need of complete coverage on Red Cross solicitation, declaring many people would contribute to the fund who never have an opportunity. The nationwide drive opens March 1st and continues through March 31. Motley county's quota was $1,650 for 1943 but total amount raised was $2,300. The national quota is 200 million dollars.

County chairman, R. E. Campbell declared that he felt Mr. Tunnell to be one of the most capable leaders in the county for the drive. Mr. Tunnell has conducted two previous fund drives when they were known as "roll call" campaigns. Mr. Tunnell said he would need many volunteer workers and that he would name those selected in the various communities in the near future.

T. E. Long Is Missing In Action

Ensign T. E. Long Jr., 26, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Long of Roaring Springs, is missing in action according to a Navy Department message delivered to the young flyer's parents late Tuesday. Believed to be somewhere in the Gilbert Islands area, the Navy bomber pilot received his wings at Corpus Christi about a year ago after receiving basic training at Grand Prairie Naval Air Station. He is a graduate of the Roaring Springs high school class of '35 and attended Texas Technological college for two years.

The Navy dispatch declared Ensign Long was missing in action during his line of duty, through an air accident. No other details were available.

Expert Says Quail At Predators' Mercy

MYSTERIOUS question of what happened to the quail during the past season was satisfactorily answered for members of the Matador Lions Club and visitors, at the regular meeting held in the Methodist church basement, Tuesday, by A. S. Jackson, wild game biologist of Paducah, Ky.

Lion members were of a single opinion after Mr. Jackson's discussion; he knew more about quail than any man ever to speak here, and in Mr. Jackson's unusual manner, proved exceedingly interesting.

"With the hunting season over, many of you still want to know what happened to the quail," Mr. Jackson, began, "and I am going to tell you the results of my observation on the 8-section game area where I have been working before his guests arrived here. (See EXPERT SAYS back page)

Overseas Soldier Declares Tribune Typical American

Several men wearing Uncle Sam's uniform who have never been in Motley county are reading the Tribune. One is Pvt. Robert Gillies, whose home is in Arkansas, an overseas friend of Sgt. Joe B. Meador. The two soldiers were companions for a long period but separated several months ago. Joe Berry asked that his friend be kept on the Tribune mailing list and the request was granted, since Pvt. Gillies had expressed his enjoyment in reading the home paper from a community which he had never visited.

Several weeks ago the Tribune received the following excerpt in a letter from Pvt. Gillies: "Mr. Meador: I want to thank you for sending me the Matador Tribune every week. Even though I have no personal interest in the news, I nevertheless enjoy it because everything about it is so typically American. It is great to know that there is one country in the world where disease, murder, starvation and fear are not the daily diet. Reading about it once a week just adds more sauce to the pudding. One surely couldn't find a more Americanized community than Matador."

The Tribune is grateful for the following unsolicited contributions received since last week to support its policy of sending the home newspaper to men in the armed service: H. H. Schweitzer $1, A. D. Beauchamp $1, Elmer Smallwood $1, W. N. Pipkin $2, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Burleson $2.50, Harry Willett $2.

People Grow Through Their Mistakes Mrs. Stinnett Tells Banquet Guests

In an address centered about character building and the proper relationship which should exist between mothers and daughters, Mrs. H. G. Stinnett Jr. of Plainview, president of 14th District Congress of Parent-Teacher associations, spoke to over 250 mothers and daughters of this and adjoining communities, at the sixth annual Mother-Daughter banquet held Friday night in the basement of the Baptist church. The affair is sponsored by the Matador Parent-Teacher organization.

"Mothers are just girls grown up," Mrs. Stinnett assured the group for the special benefit of her youthful listeners. "Things have changed since we mothers were girls. Parents have changed a lot, because times have demanded it. Mothers and daughters are more companionable now than in the past; mothers can be real mothers and daughters can be real daughters. Today, I think of parents as being worthy of respect, appreciation and fear. I think it is rather nice to know as we grow up, that we had a mother whom we feared—a little. When mother says 'no' and gives a good reason, daughter, let your answer be 'yes' to that 'no', for mothers are afraid for, rather than of, their children."

Three Kinds of Daughters

For the particular attention of mothers present, Mrs. Stinnett pointed out that "There are three kinds of daughters: My daughter, your daughter and our neighbor's daughter. They are all alike, in that they each experience joy, sorrow and disappointments; yet each is different. The difference between my daughter and your daughter and our neighbor's daughter is the difference between you and me and our neighbor, and the difference in our homes. Mistakes are how people grow; it is a good thing for a mother to look in a mirror frequently and see how many of her faults show through, then to correct them so that her daughter may say, 'I never knew my mother to do a mean thing.'"

Mrs. Tilson Toastmistress

The attractive, vivacious speaker of the evening was introduced by Mrs. Tom Tilson, president of Matador Parent-Teacher Association, who was toastmistress.

Entertainment was furnished by the third grade, who sang several songs under the direction of Miss Lela Carpenter. A talk, "When Fifteen and Fifty Disagree" was given by Mrs. Curtis Graham. January 12. Lt. Eubank formerly taught in the Matador schools and later was elected as representative to the state legislature from the Matador district.

"I knew him there (Austin)," said the governor. "I saw him under circumstances which sometimes spoil men. Paul Eubank met every test. He has the respect of every member of the legislature, and served as a credit to the people of this community." When the call to arms came, Eubank answered, Gov. Stevenson added.

"Speaking of today's young men and armed service, the governor declared, they go today as gladly and courageously as our forefathers in other days—as they did with Sam Houston, as they did with Lee, Jackson, and other great men of the Civil war."

"The chief executive asserted utmost confidence that democracy exists today in the lives of men as it did in the lives of those great men."

Boy Scout Presides "Bobby Harp, Boy Scout, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Harp, was master-of-ceremonies for the boys J. R. Whitworth led songs and the invocation was given by Rev. G. E. Turrentine, pastor of the First Methodist church here.

"Young Harp introduced Lt. John Hamilton, former district attorney, now serving in the Navy in Florida, who eulogized Lt. Eubank, founder of the father and son banquets.

"The Governor was introduced by G. E. Hamilton, pioneer Matador attorney, toastmaster for the fathers. Music was furnished by Harry Morris, Gene Reinhardt and Harrison Johnson.

"The barbecue was prepared by Lion Henry Pipkin, Matador pioneer and served by members of the Lions club.

"Gov. Stevenson was to spend the night at the Matador ranch headquarters as the special guest of M. J. Reilly, manager of the ranch, and Mrs. Reilly. He will speak at 9:30 o'clock Friday morning to local high school students, then will go to Floydada where he will speak to high school students at 11 a. m., and the Rotary club at noon. From Floydada he will return to the capital by way of Ft. Worth."

Among the guest present was Lt. Jack Robinson, Jr., of Congaree, South Carolina, one of the first Scout toastmasters to preside at a father-son banquet here several years ago. His father, Jack Robinson Sr. of Paducah, accompanied him here.

for more than a year. The tract is located on the Wichita river, southwest of Paducah on the Swenson ranch. I have a tent located in the center of the ground and I have recorded the quail history there. In December 1942 we trapped, counted and banded 3,200 quail on the eight sections. On December 25, 1943 we could find only 160 birds, although none had been hunted by man. Coyotes, hawks, skunks, snakes and the weather were the factors which reduced the quail population.

Hawks Take Big Toll

"Hawks and coyotes raided our eight sections because cotton-rats and cotton-tail rabbits became scarce. Within a weeks time we found evidence where 1,652 quail had been destroyed per section. The range was littered with feathers. During the nesting season we killed one coyote which had 25 quail eggs and 12 chick quails in its stomach. We observed 34 quail nests and 30 of these nests were robbed by coyotes, skunks and snakes. This was in the summer of 1942 and because of favorable climatic conditions, the quail nested, which accounted in a large measure for the unusually large quail crop during the 1942-43 season. Last year the weather was most unfavorable to quail propagation because of extreme heat. Soil temperatures were often 93 degrees at 9 a. m. and rose to over 100 degrees by noon. Sometimes the nights were only slightly cooler than the days.

Meat Eaters Remain

"Climatic conditions were such during the past season that the rats and rabbits were forced to migrate or were destroyed, leaving the coyotes, hawks, skunks and other meat eaters. They moved in on the quail, destroying them and moved on when there was nothing left for them to eat. A pair of quail under proper conditions, may produce 14 offspring within a single season. Quail do not require surface water, receiving sufficient moisture from dew and the juices of insects which they eat. Quail do not migrate any great distances. Hunters returning our quail bands, attached to the legs of trapped birds, probe that ten miles is an unusual distance, resulting only when coyotes are in a state of flux from hunters or predators."

Mr. Jackson said that heavy grazing of quail cover is not always a factor in loss of birds. He explained that this particular region is subject to extremes in climate which usually are reflected in the quail crop. Mr. Jackson said the so-called "balance of nature" was a beautiful theory but that he doubted the proofs of its effectiveness. He said one severe storm, rain or a few weeks drought could upset the theory. "Many farmers and landowners think a great deal of their quail, especially those around their homes," Mr. Jackson, concluded, "and they would not let anyone shoot into them, still they will have cats about the place which catch three or four daily. House cats are grave predators."

Visitors Are Introduced

Visitors at the Tuesday meeting included Mr. Jackson, J. Douglas Smyth of Amarillo, Elbert Reeves, grade school honor student, and Coach Gatewood and his victorious basketball team and Seabee Jim Smith, home on leave.

Mr. and Mrs. Claud Pipkin of Monahans, are visiting relatives here this week.

Roaring Springs Grocery Will Open Saturday

A new grocery store will open for business in Roaring Springs Saturday morning. Located in the Sommers building next door to Freeman Drug store, the Roaring Springs Grocery, under management of R. L. Smith, will offer a new stock of staple and fancy groceries to the public.

Workers were busy Wednesday building shelving and preparing the new enterprise for the large stock of groceries being unloaded. "I have tried to select quality brands of merchandise which will appeal to my customers," Mr. Smith declared. "Being entirely home-owned, we have no other desire than to provide our friends with the very best foods which the market affords and at moderate prices. I hope the people of Roaring Springs and vicinity will feel that this is their store because it is through their encouragement that I decided to go into business for myself in my home community. All items will be of the best quality, plainly marked, in accordance with current price ceilings."

Mr. Smith has been in the merchandising business for several years, formerly of Floydada, later operating the community store at Four-Corners and manager of Spot Cash Grocery at Roaring Springs for the past ten months.

DETAILS RELEASED ON TRAGIC DEATH OF PAUL EUBANK

Lt. Paul Eubank went to a watery grave locked inside the cockpit of his plane after it had veered off the deck of the carrier and dropped into the sea, on January 11. Details of the tragedy which cost Motley county one of its most outstanding young men, were released in a letter to Lt. Eubank's father in Dallas, from Martin T. Hatcher, Lieutenant Commander, U. S. Navy. The letter is as follows:

"12 January 1944, Dear Mr. Eubank: It is my sad duty to confirm what you have already heard from the Navy Department, concerning the death of your son, Paul, in a plane crash.

"Paul was coming in for a landing aboard the carrier. His approach was not at the required height and he was given the signal to come around again and make another approach. He took the signal and proceeded up the deck. As it appeared to witnesses, his plane seemed to have run into an air current which caused it to veer to the right and into the topmast of the ship. This caused his plane to go into a spin and crash into the water. The plane struck in such a position that it was not possible for Paul to release himself from the cockpit; and by the time the rescue ship reached the location of the plane, the plane had disappeared.

"Paul had been with this squadron for but a short time but during that interval he made himself extremely popular with all the officers and men of this squadron. We all thought very highly of him and will miss him greatly.

"We have been notified that Paul was cited for the Air Medal and as soon as the medal is received by this Command we shall forward it to you.

"Please permit me to extend to you my sincere sympathy, and that of the officers and men of this squadron, in your great loss. If I can be of any assistance in this trying time, please do not hesitate to call upon me."

Miss Bernice Ruth Patton spent the week-end at Plainview, where she was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Hodges, former Matador residents.

Mrs. Koon addressed the state Lions club convention in Texas and has appeared before several Texas Lions clubs. She is making her home in Aberdeen. Lieut. Koon now is stationed in California."
