Excursion To Monterrey

Ralph Cathey, Member Of Spanish Class, Gives Account Of Recent Trip

Ralph Cathey, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Cathey, was one of the Spanish students who spent most of the past week in Monterrey, Mexico, on the trip that Miss Catherine Young sponsored. Ralph has written the following account of the highlights of that experience at the request of The Herald:

Wednesday morning, May 27, at 6:30, our bus pulled out of Big Spring to travel through rain before arriving in San Angelo.

Our first sight-seeing tour of a city was in San Antonio, where we first went to Brackenridge park. I was one of many who took pictures of the lions, tigers, monkeys, birds and other caged forms of wild life, including a bison and a young bison.

We went to the Japanese tea gardens, the sunken gardens and looked down on the amphitheatre. From there we drove through beautiful residential districts to the San Fernando cathedral, and to the Alamo.

Leaving San Antonio we arrived at the U. S. border shortly before 12 o'clock. Traveling all night through Mexico we arrived at our destination at 5 a. m. Thursday. There we stopped at Regina courts—eight minutes from downtown Monterrey.

We rested until 10:30 a. m. when we started on our first shopping tour, via the Bank of Nueva Leon, then to the market place to encounter spectacles entirely unfamiliar to our eyes. Here were the lower class of Monterrey's working people that served the public. We had good chance to make use of our Spanish because these people were unable to speak English.

Later in the morning we went to the curio shops where we heard clerks speaking English and still had a chance to practice our Spanish. Our time was taken by wandering through the large market where almost all goods offered for sale could be found.

At noon we ate lunch at the Hotel Colonial and from this feast went back to the Regina courts since all business concerns were closed until 2:30 for the siesta; this was the law. After our shopping we were eager to take advantage of the siesta. Later in the afternoon we ate on the roof of the Central cafe in the midst of a park, or plaza.

Friday we set out on our second shopping tour, better acquainted with what we should do. We returned to the choicer curio shops and thus bought our bargains. When noon came all of us had an appetite and welcomed the siesta. When it was over we set out on a sight-seeing tour of Monterrey. First we went east of the city to the top of a mountain that had at its base beautiful homes—one of the most beautiful residential districts of the city. Here was the Bishop's palace that was 20 years in the building. This historical monument to the past had housed many things. It was at first a fort. A tunnel led from it 42 blocks down town to all the important buildings. The entrance to the tunnel in the palace was closed up for fear of rebellion and because of lack of circulation of air in the passage.

This monumental edifice in addition to being a fort has also been used as a hospital, a granary, and numerous other things. At present it is a night club with a dance floor in front of it.

We visited a cathedral where they were preparing for a funeral and passed by another equally beautiful wherein they were preparing for a wedding.

We also visited the building where congress used to meet. Here were the most beautiful and largest mirrors I have ever seen. They were imported from Italy. All of the furniture and furnishings were hand-carved by the Indians. The deep rich red curtains had been imported from Spain. Such a history that this room and its furnishings had. We passed next into another room which was almost as gorgeous, similarly furnished. On the ceiling were three huge canvas paintings of women and children corresponding to pictures of people during Christ's time. They were indescribably beautiful and had been painted by a fourteen-year-old girl. The artist is now in her forties and living in Mexico City.

Never before, or anywhere in America, do I believe one could see such historically interesting sights as can be seen in Monterrey. When one leaves these buildings he finds plazas everywhere, some thickly dotted with trees, others with palms. After our tour of Monterrey which was almost beyond power of description we walked in the promenade around a plaza and rode in a one-horse buggy, which was in itself a thrill never enjoyed by many of us before.

Time drew near for us to part from Monterrey and leave her behind, with all of her mountains. One, which is well known as Saddle Mountain, would attract any one's attention by its unusual shape. If one could only return to Monterrey to spend a vacation of three months, one could not enjoy the trip any more than the Big Spring high school Spanish class enjoyed its trip of half a week.

THIRTY - EIGHT GOLFERS ENTER INVITATION MEET

Cosden Oilers Oppose Odessa Broncos Here Tomorrow Afternoon

MRS. HICKS POSTS 43 AT 9 HOLES

Thirty-eight entries had been received at noon today for the first invitation golf tournament sponsored by the women's golf association. A number of golfers from Lubbock and San Angelo are expected to arrive for qualifying early in the afternoon.

Qualifiers were slow getting away, and at noon only seven had passed the front nine. Mrs. Theron Hicks, country club champion, was leading the field with a 43 at nine holes. She had one bad hole, taking a nine on No. four.

Mrs. Theron Hicks or Mrs. G. I. Phillips might slip through to the championship finals. Both are good golfers. Mrs. Phillips has been out of practice for several weeks but should be pretty well on her game by now. Everybody had a grand time at the party last night.

Elroy Menzing is here covering the tournament for the Fort Worth Star-Telegram. Amos Melton, popular Star-Telegram golf writer, is a proud father—a girl. Shirley Robbins, who lost in the West Texas Association Golf tournament last week to Jimmy Walkup, said he would rather lose his first match to a really good golfer like Walkup than win from set-ups. Lee Hubby lost to a tubby youngster who, according to Obie Bristow, was only 13 years

Germany's Net Hopes Jolted By Von Cramm

Finalist At Wimbledon Last Year Falters In Early Matches

BERLIN, June 3. (AP)—High hopes of planting the Nazi flag on top of the tennis hillock this year have received a dash of cold water. Gottfried von Cramm, the best of Germany's tennis playing barons and Wimbledon finalist last year, hasn't yet hit the stride that made Nazi enthusiasts believe that the big Davis cup would come to Germany this year.

His refined, salon style has been there in matches played so far this year but results have been somewhat disappointing to his followers. Unknown players have forced him to the limit and the Spaniard Enrique Maier made him lower his colors in the Davis cup elimination round in Barcelona, 6-1, 6-3, 6-2. A Czechoslovak newcomer to the annual Berlin championships at the Red-White club named Stingl grabbed a set from the master 6-3 and von Cramm's teammate Henner Henkel pushed him to five sets in the Red-White final.

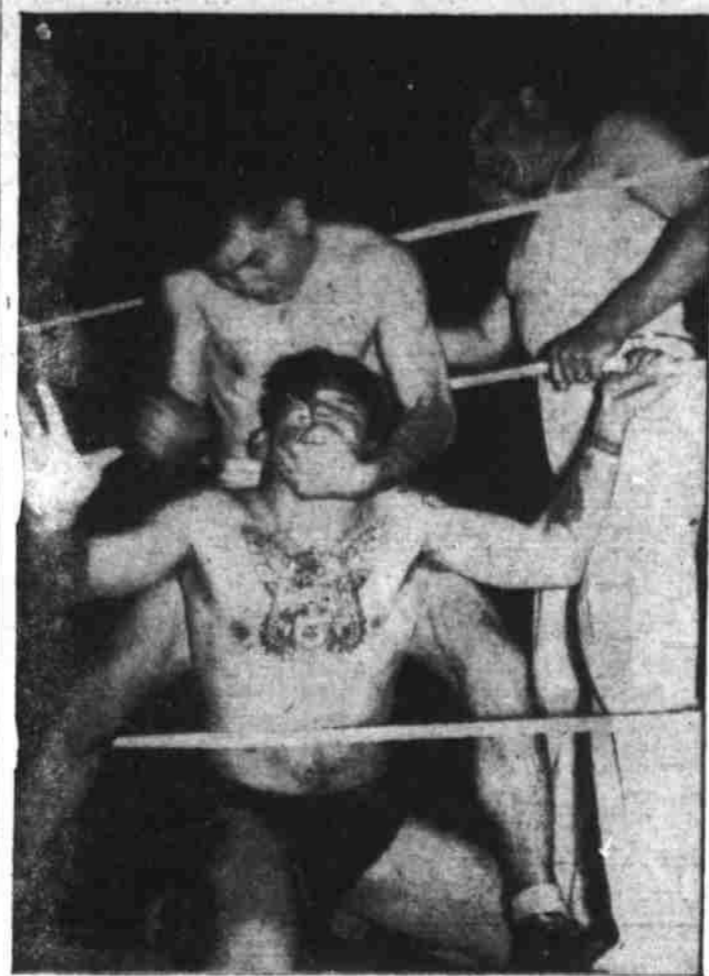

ing a nine on No. four. Mrs. G. I. Phillips, Mrs. Travis Read, Mrs. Harry Stalcup and Mrs. Rhea J. Vernon of Abilene were all running rip and tuck. With the exception of Mrs. Stalcup who had a 45, they all had 47's at the end of the front nine.

San Angelo will send two strong entries in Mrs. W. K. Powell and Mrs. Will O'Connell. In the scotch foursome matches yesterday afternoon, Eddie Morgan and Mrs. Travis Read had low gross of 75, and Shirley Robbins and Mrs. C. E. Worrell of Clovis, N. M., had a 69 for low net.

A long-driving contest is scheduled this afternoon at 4 o'clock and a chicken barbecue at 6. Calcutta Pool and the auctioning of players will be conducted at 8 o'clock and will be in charge of Obie Bristow and Dr. M. H. Bennett.

Match play starts in the morning at 9 a. m.

Snaps Of Action At The Grunt And Groan Arena

Cat Manager Is Dismissed

Heads Of Ft. Worth Club To Meet Thursday; Other Changes Expected

Rumblings of discontent with the miserable showing of the Fort Worth Cats, Texas league fall-enders, have flared into open action. Roy Westbrook, chairman of the board of directors of the club, announced he will call a meeting of the board Thursday.

Westbrook, in Galveston, refused to say what action he contemplated at the meeting, but a drastic shakeup in the team that started the season with high hopes is forecast.

Skipper Harry McCurdy has been let out. "I have no alibis," he said today. "We just don't seem to be able to click in the pinches. Injuries have hurt us terribly all season."

It is true that the Cats have been a hard luck ball club. Injury after injury have followed each other until the club, never after the first few days of the season, has been able to muster a full crew.

But there is more to the Cats' failure to produce than just injuries. Dissension has been rife on the team—from top to bottom. No one in particular is to blame—the Cats are just a rudderless, leaderless crew that continues losing, and whose spirit has been sapped by the loss.

The early season pepper has died. When the team first started its losing streak that dropped it like a plummet to the bottom of the league, the players tried even harder to do something about it. Then gradually that do-or-die spirit changed into one of indifferent nonchalance—and that's what it is now. The Cats have ceased to believe in themselves as a team.

Regardless of who is to blame, changes had to be made when a team becomes as hopelessly indifferent as the Cats are now, heads have to be lopped off—even if some of those heads belong to innocent bystanders.

rate, von Cramm says he is a bit tired of tennis. Before the season got well under way, the Germans had it doped out this way: Clear sailing through the European zone, rough weather through the winner of the American zone but nevertheless safe arrival at port. Then trouble with the cup holder, England, but a good chance to wrest the trophy from Fred Perry's grasp.

While von Cramm has been disappointing and the doubles combination of Cramm and Kaj Lund took a sound beating at the hands of the New Zealanders, Malfroy and Stedman, in the Red-White tourney, Henkel has been on the upgrade. His form so far has stamped him as a more able partner for Cramm than he was last year. He is more certain of himself and has already reached mid-season form.

The season has also turned up a youngster for future call in Karl Dohal who has been using his racket to good advantage in and around Frankfurt-on-Main. He came up to Berlin for the Red-White affair and went down only by a hair when he faced the veteran Italian, Giorgio de Stefani.

WIGGINS TO PITCH FOR LOCALS

Allen Wiggins will attempt to win the "rubber game" when the Big Spring Oilers entertain the Odessa Broncos on the East Third diamond tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The Cosdenites have split even with the Permian Basin team in two starts this season, winning the first, 4-3, in twelve innings and losing the second, 8-6.

Wiggins has made his appearance in four games and has come through with an average of .667.

The Oiler flinger will have to clamp down on Bailey White, hard-hitting first sacker and cleanup man, if he hopes to stop the scoring charges of the Broncos. Estes and Scroggin are also handy with the wood.

Either Ford or Bryant will oppose Wiggins on the hill. Lorane comes here Sunday to meet the Oilers and an effort is being made to arrange a game with the San Angelo Shepherds on July 4.

tune of $74,000 and made $50,000 on an exhibition tour. His first battle with Jack Sharkey in 1930 netted him $174,000 and the heavy-weight title. An additional $37,000—his cut on the picture contract—put him up in the money.

The following year he journeyed to Cleveland and defended his title against Young Stribling. After disposing of the good looking Southern lad Der Maxie carried $106,000 back with him. Another exhibition tour was in order and for this not too unpleasant bit of exercising Schmeling fattened his pocket-book another $100,000 or so.

In 1932 he was paid $215,000, $174,000 for his end and $41,000 for the pictures for his bout with Jack Sharkey. He lost the crown in that second meeting, but the champion's end of the purse helped a lot to soothe his injured feelings.

His fight with Mickey Walker netted him $54,000 and paved the way for his bout with Max Baer in 1933. The battle of the Maxes in Yankee stadium was another financial success for Herr Schmeling even though it was somewhat lacking in other respects for him. The thumping he took from Baer earned him $74,000. For the trimming Steve Hamas handed him in Philadelphia Max collected $14,500. The exhibitions he gave earlier that year brought in something like $20,000.

In his four fights on the other side, two with Paulino and one each against Walter Neusel and Steve Hamas, Schmeling collected $160,000. He got $65,000 for his Paulino engagements, $60,000 with Neusel and $35,000 after knocking out Hamas.

If Schmeling can upset the dope and punch out a victory over the highly-favored Joe Louis in their coming fracas, automatically earning a titular match with Champion Jimmy Braddock, another half million or more will await him.

Schmeling is a conservative young man and has invested his earnings wisely. He owns a beautiful home in Germany and is married to the leading picture star of that country—Anny Ondra. All in all, Max is pretty well fixed for a young fellow who will be celebrating his thirty-first birthday in the fall.

NEW YORK, June 3. (AP)—Eight years ago Max Schmeling began his American invasion under the management of Joe Jacobs. He made his debut against Joe Monte and collected $1,000 for knocking the big fellow kicking. Since then the Black Jhan has collected over $1,200,000 in purses. With the $300,000 which is likely to be his end of that Joe Louis million dollar gate Schmeling's earnings will go over the $1,500,000 mark. Not half bad when you stop and consider that most of this sum was collected in the lean years of the depression.

Schmeling ranks fourth in the million dollar pugilistic class, topped by Jack Dempsey, Gene Tunney and Jack Sharkey. Dempsey is credited with earnings of $5,000,000, Tunney with more than two million, and the Bostonian with more than a million and a half. American sports fans have provided the German with a veritable gold mine from the very start. They paid him $15,000 for beating Johnny Risko. The Joe Sekyza victory added $6,800 to his bank account. Max tossed a few punches at the brittle chin of one Pietro Corri and collected another $2,000 for the short workout.

In 1929 he mauled Paulino to the NOTICE TO SUBSCRIBERS: Subscribers desiring their addresses changed will please state in their communication both the old and new addresses. Office 210 East Third St. Telephone 728 and 729.

Subscription Rates: One Year $5.00, Six Months $3.00, Three Months $1.75, One Month $0.50. NATIONAL REPRESENTATIVE: Texas Daily Press League, Mercantile Bank Bldg., Dallas, Texas.

A NEW INDUSTRIAL SERVICE: What should be welcome news to most Big Spring citizens is that of plans of a group to develop a meat processing plant here.

The development already has a good start, thanks to Samuel Greer, who invested several thousand dollars in construction of feeding pens, barn, slaughtering and storage units.

The industry could furnish a local supply of meat products which otherwise have to be imported. Moreover, it could furnish an outlet for producers who have difficulty in finding an available market elsewhere.

"SELLING" TEXAS: The story of Texas and her 100 years of progress has been and will be told many times and in varying style before this Centennial year has passed.

Not to be overlooked is the impressive fashion in which the press of Texas is presenting the growth of the Lone Star state, outlining its potentialities and telling of its future opportunities.

Man About Manhattan

NEW YORK—"I realize that summer finds New York not at its best," writes a Mr. Hawkins of Texas, "but I am coming anyway and I wonder if you would be good enough to suggest several ways and means of killing time?"

Well, that's a tough one just now, Mr. Hawkins, but we'll try. New York is on the back-lash, so to speak, but there ought to be a few items worth considering.

First of all, select a hotel that is centrally located... that'll save at least half of your time. In this town the traffic is so congested you can walk as fast as you can ride, and if you aren't in the center of town it takes you hours to get anywhere.

Then I'd make an effort to watch one of the big boats come in—one of the really big liners that zoom in from the Thames or the Mediterranean. You can't get a pass to go down the bay on the customs cutter unless you've got friends in Washington or unless an editor of one of the New York newspapers is your uncle, and that's a pity.

However, a docking is a good thing from any angle—even from a pier. There's a breathless wait as she glides up the Hudson like some huge swan, and then that frenzy of activity breaks loose... tugs snorting and raking the waterfront with cries and grunts... seamen bawling and cursing... and the final gangplank rush.

Any of a dozen star-lit roof gardens offers excellent music, if you've got the "swing" mania. There are, too, the sidewalk cafes such as Paris has made famous. The Village features a brace of clubs, but things are pretty dead down there after midnight.

It might not be a bad idea to wander over to the American Museum of Natural History (that isn't so deadly as it sounds). There's always a far-flung exhibition of birds and animals which now are practically extinct.

Finally, this warning: purchase no "Paris" postcards which are surreptitiously offered after dark on most street corners.

The Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DEWE PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

This is the first of a series of articles on the Roosevelt family. The next, on Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, will follow a week from today.

WASHINGTON—The relationship between the president and his mother has been one of unusual closeness and understanding—so close, in fact, that today Mrs. Roosevelt, Senior, still treats the president of the United States very much as if he were the small boy in knee breeches whose life she once ruled in the old-fashioned parental manner.

Sara Delano Roosevelt has one son. And on that son she lavished not only all a mother's normal love, but after her husband died (when Franklin was in his late teens), the devotion she once had given him as well.

It is said by relatives of the family that in his youth Franklin did not buy a necktie without consulting his mother. He even brought his budding lady friends around for maternal supervision.

Most of these she rejected as ruthlessly as a stage director passing on a chorus, until finally Eleanor Roosevelt—young, attractive, slender, a distant cousin—came along. Sara Delano Roosevelt permitted Eleanor to enter the family.

But once Eleanor was in it, Mrs. Roosevelt, Sr., proceeded to dominate her daughter-in-law as completely as she had always dominated her son.

Eleanor Roosevelt had little to say about anything. If one of the children were sick, her mother-in-law called in the doctor. She and her son took the situation in hand completely. Eleanor was a virtual outsider.

It was not until the president's illness that his wife really supplanted his mother as the dominant woman in his life.

Since then the mother and son have not been as close as they once were. Franklin, engrossed in politics, became one of the busiest men in the nation. But Mrs. Roosevelt, Sr., probably never will quite appreciate this, still thinks of the president as the small boy whose mouth she used to wipe at the dinner table.

Rather a willful old lady, Mrs. Roosevelt still asserts her authority—sometimes in a way which decidedly nettles her son. When nettled he has been known to go out of his way to exasperate his mother.

Rebellious Offspring: Once, at a family Sunday night dinner at which were present Mrs. Roosevelt, Sr., Sam Rosenman (former member of the brain trust, now New York's supreme court judge) and others, the president's mother said:

"Now... I want Sam to sit on your right." "But mother," replied the president in a voice of feigned politeness, "I don't want Sam to sit on my right."

"I don't want him to sit on my right," said the president. "All right," announced his mother, "then Sam will sit on my right."

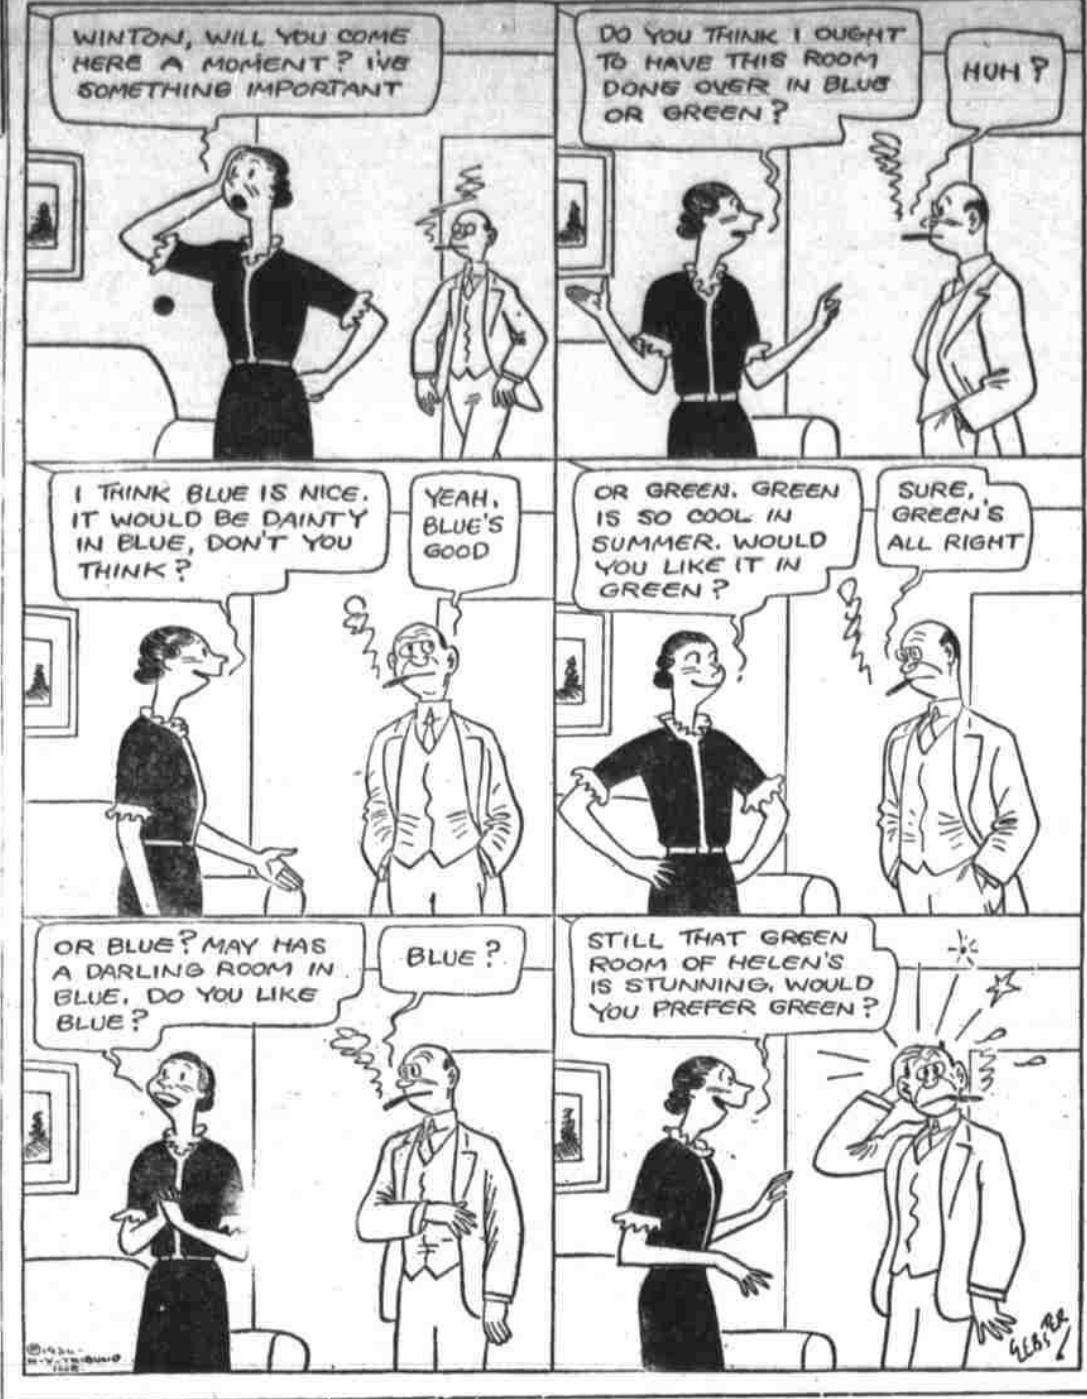

This started the president off. Mischievously he went out of his way to shock his mother. The conversation drifted to a reception given for the president in Los Angeles, featured by a beautiful array of floats. One float particularly struck his attention. It was dedicated to American womanhood, and consisted of scantily draped beauties.

"And on the very top," concluded the president, with one gleeful eye on his mother, "was the most beautiful young girl you ever saw. Not a stitch on, and shaped like this..." And with his hands he made imaginary curves in the air.

Mrs. Roosevelt, Sr., almost fell under the table. Then the president unmercifully switched to the question of drink. His mother, while not a strict prohibitionist, is strong for temperance.

Liquor, her son claimed, has produced some of the greatest statesmen the country has known. He particularly cited Gen. Ulysses S. Grant and Daniel Webster as the hardest-drinking statesmen in the country's history.

Earth To See Fiery Saturn Tip Its Rings

Side View Will Delight Astronomers For Few Nights In June

MT. WILSON, Cal., June 3 (UP). To the delight of astronomers throughout the world, the planet Saturn will tip its famous rings sideways to the earth for a few nights at the turn of the month.

The rings, of which there are three, are believed to be composed of small meteor-like fragments whirling around the planet so fast they appear as a solid sheet—much as a spinning automobile wheel resembles a disc.

Vast Gaps Between Rings: Saturn itself is 74,100 miles in diameter. Between the planet's surface and the nearest ring is a 7,000-mile gap—nearly enough to wedge the earth in. The first ring, faint and gauzy, is about 11,500 miles wide, and the bright outer two are 16,000 and 10,000 miles wide.

On the night of June 30, the earth passes through the plane of Saturn's system. For a few nights before and after, the rings will be seen edge-like looking squarely at the face of the tire on a moving auto wheel.

Thickness Not Known: They hope to learn the rings' thickness. Estimates vary from 10 to 100 miles. If a 10,000-mile-to-the-inch model were built, the rings would be 17 inches in diameter and somewhere between the thickness of tissue and book paper, according to astronomers.

Speed at which Saturn rotates is another matter astronomers will investigate during the few nights that the rings will not obscure their vision. Whirling so fast that its poles are flattened like an apple's, the planet rotates in less than half the 24-hour period of the vastly smaller earth. Most accurate checks so far indicate Saturn rotates once every 10 hours and 14.4 minutes.

The opportunity to study the planet with the rings aside comes only twice every 29 and one-half years.

SCHOOLS FIRST AMONG PROJECTS BUILT BY PWA

WASHINGTON, June 3 (UP)—Harold L. Ickes' Public Works Administration used $175,734,891 additional money to build 1,000,000 schools for the nation's public school facilities, PWA statistics showed today.

Second largest PWA activity was spending $83,306,390 for 512 hospital projects, including buildings that will care for 40,000 additional patients.

Chapter 13
A CHANGE OF MIND
Rupert was shaving when Dirk came upstairs.

"Isabel's been here," said Dirk. "Isabel and Natalie Page. They came to see the bride."

"So it's out," said Rupert. "Thoroughly, Nora told the Robinsons' cook and the Robinsons' chauffeur, and the Burtons' chauffeur, and the Burtons' chauffeur."

"Damn that woman's tongue," Dirk said after a silence.

"Elinor says it won't last."

"So Elinor's been here."

"No, Isabel told me. The Burton chauffeur took the news to Isabel's house-girl, and Isabel went over to tell Elinor. The story is that you and your bride have known each other for some time, that you were loyal to Elinor until she set you free. There are also tales of the bride's youth and beauty—and a lady born. If ever there was one! Can't you hear Nora telling it? . . .

"Isabel and Natalie came over for further details, and to view the subject of these panegyrics. I produced neither and they seemed snubbed. Isabel said, 'Oh, well, it probably won't last Elinor says it won't, and she ought to know.'"

Rupert was silent. He had meant to tell Dirk how pathetically he had settled with the girl, but he said nothing. After a moment Dirk went out. Rupert heard his car in the driveway. He continued shaving, had his bath, dressed himself with care.

Presently he went into the short passage that separated him from the bedroom, and knocked on the door. There was no response. He tried the knob, wondering if she had gone out.

The door was locked. For the first time within his memory, the bolt was drawn.

He went into the hall and knocked more formally. Her voice asked who was there.

"Rupert," he said, after some reflection, and she opened the door.

She had been brushing her hair. It fell dark and soft around her face. A blue kimono was drawn about her, and the shelf below the long mirror was strewn with an array of brushes and combs, of powder and rouge-boxes, all spilled from a shabby overnight bag, that still stood open.

Rupert had entered, closing the door. She had drawn away, and stood waiting. There was no revulsion in her eyes, however. He was glad of that.

"Where you going out?" he asked. "Later," she said. "I'll be back by four."

"I've been thinking about our conversation," he remarked. "If you really desire to stay, I've no objection."

"Even after the annulment?"

"There will be no annulment," he replied. "If you wish to stay."

She sat down, weak, it seemed, with relief. He thought, as Dirk had thought before him, how small she looked beside the immense in return I wish your loyalty and a certain respect for appearances. The servants would not understand a locked door. I want no gossip about such things."

"But I want to stay," said Hope.

She was silent, and he added, "You may unbolt it now."

After a moment she crossed the room and bent her energies upon the bolt. It seemed more unyielding than when she had pushed it into place. He made no movement to help her. Presently it snapped back into the groove.

He opened the hall-door and went out.

Later he returned, knocking on the door she had unbolted. He brought the check and the name of a reliable bank. He had also written down the name of a certain exclusive shop he had heard Elinor mention.

"I want you to have clothes," he said. "Things suited to your position. I wish you to have them at once."

She thanked him, reading the check. In the shabby black suit and the red beret with the frayed feather, she had lost her bambino look. Her clothes proclaimed her, plainly enough, the honest daughter of honest dwellers in a rural town.

"You'll attend to this tomorrow?" he asked.

She promised, and he went out as she folded the bit of paper into her bright red purse.

$3,000 IN PRIZES TO BE OFFERED IN RODEO AT MIDLAND

MIDLAND, June 3.—Professional ropers, riders and bulldoggers will compete with cowhands who make a living doing western stunts in their every-day life on the range June 26-28, when the "world championship Centennial rodeo" is held at the Midland fair arena with day and night performances.

More than $3,000 in cash prizes, as well as other valuable prizes, will be distributed to winning contestants. Opening with a two-mile parade Friday morning, June 26, the western show will be staged on Friday afternoon and night, Saturday afternoon and night and Sunday afternoon.

Cowgirl sponsors will represent towns throughout West Texas and New Mexico, competing for a handsome saddle and other prizes.

The widest stock obtainable is now being received at the Midland fair pens, for riding, roping and bulldogging events. Contests include calf roping, wild horse roping, steer riding, bronc riding, bulldogging, bareback bronc riding and wild horse race. Rodeo committees are Roy Parks, Leonard Pro-

JAPS TIGHTEN NAVAL SECURITY BEFORE MASSING FLEETS FOR 3-MONTHS' WAR MANEUVERS

TOKYO, June 3. (UP)—The Japanese navy will conduct its summer maneuvers in complete secrecy just as did the United States in the recently completed war games in the Pacific off the Panama Canal.

In announcing the maneuvers, the navy did not mention the location nor give the slightest indication as to the nature of the problem. The navy's announcement said:

"The special grand naval maneuvers will be held this autumn under the personal supervision of the emperor. An outline of the plan follows:

"The maneuvers will be held on seas in the neighborhood of Japan for about three months from the early part of August to the latter part of October participated in by the First and Second squadrons and the specially organized 4th squadron, the Yokosuka, Kure, Sasebo naval stations, and the Maluru and Chinkai naval ports. The total participating vessels will number about 150.

"Weapons to Be Tested

"Under conditions resembling actual war these various naval forces will engage in practice tactics and test weapons on some vessels with the object of promoting the strength of the imperial navy which stands as the first line of national defense.

"The special naval review will be held off Osaka and Kobe on Oct. 29 at the end of the maneuvers."

In line with greater secrecy in the military and naval establishments, the government has asked parliament to pass a "National General Mobilization Secrets Bill."

In reviewing the bill which contains 12 articles the newspaper Kokumin says:

"The bill provides heavier punishment for those disclosing military secrets. Heretofore punishments provided for this sort of crime have been regarded as too light. Another point worth consideration is the extension in scope of 'military secrets.' "In modern war 'all the power a country is capable of producing' becomes an object of attention. No longer does a situation prevail in which the fighting power of '100,000 troops at the front' is the sole factor in the war. It is all the resources and equipment that helps the fighting that is a big factor in winning a war.

"Under such circumstances not only the direct military equipments and establishments in naval ports, military arsenals, arms, etc., but also all the resources, power resources, factories and other peace-time establishments which are to be included among the 'military secrets' under the forthcoming law. The ban heretofore placed on photographing the prohibited areas would not be confined to the fortified zones but would be extended to hydro-electric power stations, water reservoir equipment, factories and also larger buildings in cities which would become the objects of air raids in war.

"When the bill is enacted into law, cameramen will be required to exercise caution in photographing even beautiful scenery."

Virtually everything the empire possesses thus may be considered as war material in the time of conflict. Office buildings might be used as factories, temples as work shops or canneries. Power stations and transportation lines would be vital.

FEDERAL HIGHWAY MEASURE APPROVED

WASHINGTON, June 3 (UP)—Congressional action was completed yesterday on the Cartwright $400,000,000 highway bill, calling for a two-year highway construction program. The bill, approved in final form by the house, now goes to the White House.

The measure carries an authorized two-year appropriation of $250,000,000 for state aid highways, $50,000,000 for farm to market roads on a state matching basis, $100,000,000 for grade crossing eliminations, $20,000,000 for national park roads, and $28,000,000 for forest trails.

Mansion Area Is Sacrificed For Okla. Oil

Forest Of Derricks Rises Around State Capital And Residences

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 3. (UP)—The booming days of Oklahoma City's first oil boom have returned. A forest of derricks rises in the state capital, governor's mansion and scores of fine homes. The rush for "black gold" started when the Mansion pool, two miles north of the old field, was opened up with sensational production. It was "mudhog versus mansion" in some sections of the new Capitol-Mansion pool.

Derricks, roaring steam boilers, heavy pipelines, machinery of every description is being jammed between houses, in back yards, near highways and streets. Yards, once covered with a carpet of green grass, are being gouged and plowed, and scraped up into huge "slush pits."

Military Zone Created

Oklahoma's oil man governor, E. W. Marland, alarmed as the wells were jammed up against state property, declared a military zone over state lands, and started five wells.

The city has drilling zones, and city officials would not permit a vote to include the state lands in the zone. The city council and governor were in a virtual "state of war" for weeks, until on May 12, an election was held, and the zones extended over state lands. Marland's action profited the state $372,000 by a bonus on leases granted to oil companies. Then he turned over the already-started wells, and now the state is awaiting production and one-fourth royalty from all oil produced.

Parts of the University of Oklahoma medical school, hospital and crippled children's hospital lands are soon to be leased for drilling.

Production Is High

Wells drilled in near the governor's mansion have produced as high as 27,000 barrels a day.

Several months ago, an election was held extending the oil zones north of the state lands, but not

Soviet Will Refuse Job Insurance To Imbibers Who Suffer Hangover

MOSCOW, June 3. (UP)—Social insurance benefits will be denied to Soviet workers whose illness results from fighting while drunk, according to plans submitted by the council of trade unions to the council of people's commissars for approval.

Those persons becoming ill because of heavy drinking will be refused relief for a short period of their illness, or until the hangover wears off, according to the unions' proposal.

The program was revised when the trade unions found that "traumatism of daily life," or injuries sustained by an individual in the ordinary conduct of his affairs, swallowed between 17 and 18 per cent of social insurance relief funds, amounting in such cases to more than 200,000,000 rubles annually. A considerable part of this large sum was found to have been paid for injuries sustained as the result of drinking and rowdy conduct.

I. Veinberg, secretary of the trade union council, reporting on the proposed changes, said:

"The revised system must help obtain better security for workers, especially of Stakhanovites, and create maximum privileges for them. The system provides for the creation of more favorable conditions for motherhood. According to existing regulations the relief paid to expectant mothers is calculated on the basis of wages paid her two months before childbirth.

"Until now, when determining the amount of relief paid in case of temporary disability, only one fact has been taken into account, the number of years the worker has been employed. The nature of the illness, the length and severity of the illness, have been disregarded."

A new principle will be introduced, that of paying larger relief in case of lengthy and serious illness. If for instance, an illness lasts more than two weeks, the Eastern fields reported increased completions and more operations with the close of April. Rigs up were set at 812 as compared to 783 for March.

Wells drilling were at 2,785—a gain of three.

Well Completions At A Record High

OIL CITY, Pa., June 3. (UP)—A sharp increase in completions for fields east of the Rockies during April, attaining the highest mark since May of 1935, was reported today by the Oil City Derrick.

Representing 1,432 oil producers, 147 gas wells, and 411 dry holes, the April completion figures were announced at 1,990 as compared to 1,672 for March. Completion total for April of last year were 1,680.

April average daily production reached 827,582 barrels, the average being a gain of 98,000 barrels over the daily figure for new wells

More Adventures Of The Lone Wolf Featured At Queen

That fascinating rogue of fiction, the Lone Wolf, whose romantic knavery was depicted in a series of novels by Louis Joseph Vance, revolve in the screen in a picture aptly called "The Lone Wolf Returns," which is featured at the Queen Wednesday and Thursday.

Melvyn Douglas is the Lone Wolf in this newest adaptation, inheriting the role from Bert Lytell, who gained fame in the characterizations several years ago. Gail Patrick is seen in the leading feminine role as Marica Stewart, wealthy heiress and jewel collector. Because she falls in love with Marica, the Lone Wolf forsakes his career of crime. Mysteriously, all jewels that have been stolen during the past months are returned to their owners.

But when two of the Lone Wolf's former compatriots resolve to steal the Stewart gems and threaten to involve him if he refuses to aid them, the story reaches a dramatic climax in which the Lone Wolf finds himself playing the strange role of law protector.

TREASURY ISSUE IS QUICKLY SUBSCRIBED

WASHINGTON, June 3 (UP)—Another record in peace-time government financing passed into history today as the treasury closed its books on the cash subscription portion of a note and bond issue totaling more than $2,000,000,000.

The new cash subscription issue was wholly subscribed the first day.

JUNEAU, Wis. (UP)—A Bible published in 1825 was found in a hollow space beneath a cornice board on the roof of William Housler's farm home near here by William Maas, a carpenter repairing the building.

payments will be increased after the two-week period. If more than two months, the factory committee may increase it still more. If the worker has a large family or needs special care, the relief may surpass his average wages by from 15 to 25 per cent. Stakhanovites will receive additional privileges.

Veinberg then warned that a decisive campaign would be conducted against malingering, idlers and drinkers.

Thrilling Aerial Scenes Presented In Lyric Picture

Fast action dominates the story of "Border Flight," an adventure film of the government's fight against smugglers which is billed for Wednesday and Thursday at the Lyric theater. It is based on a new phase of the government's war on crime.

The story is built around the battle of the west coast unit of the U. S. coast guard air corps to put down the activities of fur smugglers. Two ace fliers of the small corps find themselves rivals for the attentions of the same girl. Stunt flying of one of them, happy-go-lucky Grant Withers, brings his expulsion from the service and anger leads him to become a pilot for the smugglers.

The peace-time warfare of the air corps with the outlaw band, which has been slipping furs into the country by a boat-to-planes route, provides opportunity for some thrilling aerial shots.

Frances Farmer is the only feminine member of the cast. Other players in addition to Withers are John Howard, Roscoe Karns, Robert Cummings and Samuel S. Hinds.

Andree Bulot Gives Park Birthday Party

Andree Bulot, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Bulot celebrated her eleventh birthday with a park party Wednesday afternoon, inviting a group of close friends to share the afternoon.

After playing games at the park the children returned to the Bulot home to eat the pretty birthday cake topped with candles and eat it with ice cream. There Andree opened her packages.

The guests were: Julia Mae Corcoran, Wynell Calloway, Jacqueline Faw, June Coleman and Rosalee Baich.

Mrs. E. L. Garrett helped Mrs. Bulot with the entertaining.

Rev. C. A. Biekley conducted the funeral Tuesday afternoon for an old friend of his youth, W. W. Hamilton of Merkel who would have been 92 years of age had he lived until next December. The funeral services were held at the home of a son, W. W. Hamilton, Snyder.

Mrs. J. E. Hix, Denver, Colo., is visiting with her brother, Burke Summers, and plans to depart for home Thursday. She will be accompanied back by his son, Burke, Jr.

IN CENTENNIAL PLAY TONIGHT

'Siege Of Alamo' To Be Presented By Sadler Tonight

Not all the Centennial productions are at the exposition centers, during this year of Texas' 100th birthday celebrations. At least one is on the road. It is a special Centennial presentation included this year in the repertoire of Harley Sadler's show troupe, "The Siege of the Alamo."

Sadler, popular showman who is in Big Spring, concludes his three-day stand here tonight with presentation, from the municipal auditorium of "The Siege of the Alamo." This feature is in the form of a four-act play, depicting the struggle of the early Texas pioneers against the domination of the Mexican dictator, Santa Anna. The drama is climaxed with the fall of the Alamo.

In the cast are to be seen Travis, Bonham, Bowie, Crockett, and other immortal characters of Texas history who live again in the play. Sadler himself appears as the red-headed hunter from Arkansas, a comic character who nevertheless is one of the heroes of the Alamo. Forty people appear in the battle scene which climaxes the play.

Presenting two of the famous characters of early Texas history, heroes of the Alamo, as they appear in a special Centennial production "The Siege of the Alamo," to be presented at the municipal auditorium tonight by the Harley Sadler company. Left is Paul Thaido in the role of Davy Crockett; and right is Bud Nairn as Jim Bowie.

FIGHT DEVELOPING OVER NEW JERSEY POLICE CHIEF'S JOB

TRENTON, N. J., June 2 (UP)—Gov. Harold G. Hoffman's enemies threatened a fight reviving the whole Lindbergh kidnapping case today to prevent him from ousting Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, chief of state police since 1921.

The governor sent to the senate for confirmation last night his appointment of Col. Mark C. Kimberlin, penitentiary warden and his political and personal friend, to succeed Schwarzkopf.

Schwarzkopf's supporters rallied for a senate fight around a bill, already passed by the assembly, which would continue any state police superintendent in office indefinitely unless a successor nominated by the governor was confirmed by the senate.

Mrs. J. C. Sewell and little son, Robert, have returned home at Wink after visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. Y. Moore. She was accompanied back by her husband and J. D. Nickson, Wink, who came here to visit with his parents.

Lady Took Cardui During Middle Life

Women who are entering middle life will be interested in the experience of Mrs. L. C. McDonald, of Paragould, Ark., who writes:

"I cannot say anything but good about Cardui. I think it is a grand medicine. I took Cardui during change of life. I was so weak, so nervous. I could hardly go. I just dragged around. I had fainting spells and would just give out. My back and head hurt. I knew I had to take something to give me strength. I read of Cardui. I took about seven bottles. It gave me relief and strength. I am now 60 years past, and can do a pretty good day's work in the house and garden."

Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

LABOR OFFICIAL'S REGION EXTENDED

EL PASO, June 2 (UP)—Dr. Edwin A. Elliott, regional director of the national labor relations board, today was notified that his district had been extended to include all of Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma.

Formerly it included New Mexico, Oklahoma and all of Texas except 20 Gulf coast counties, which were in the New Orleans district. Headquarters will remain in Fort Worth. Karl Mueller will continue as regional counsel.

In the belief that the trial of the El Paso Electric Co.'s injunction against the NLRB will end today, Dr. Elliott and Mueller arranged to leave tonight for Fort Worth.

1st Methodist Vacation School Registers 160

The largest registration in the history of vacation schools conducted by the First Methodist church was recorded Tuesday when the number enrolled reached 160, said Rev. C. A. Biekley.

The classes are held every morning and will continue throughout the first two weeks of this month.

CHECKS WPA PROJECTS

Edmund Notestine, assistant district WPA director, was in the district Wednesday checking on various projects now pointing toward completion.
