Parents of youngsters may be assured that the pool will be kept sanitary and free from health hazards.

ONE WAY OF UNLOADING a truck of cottonseed is shown in the above picture, made here Sunday morning. The big truck was stopped on U. S. Highway 70 near the new Church of Christ. The driver, Billy West, had gone to make a telephone call. A leak in the air brakes is believed to have allowed the truck to start rolling. Moving backward down the incline toward Ballard creek, it barely missed several motorists before plunging off the embankment and overturning on the north side of the road. It was in the above position when the driver returned. Slight damage was believed to have resulted. Unusual position of the truck engine and cab at the scene of the accident. The 26,000 pounds of dumped cottonseed were enroute from Plainview to Munday.—Engraving courtesy Plainview Herald, photo by Douglas Meador.

"World On Brink Of Imminent Tragedy," Declares Monroe

A TALL STRANGER who arrived here Tuesday afternoon, departed early yesterday with more than 100 new and enthusiastic friends. The stranger was D. D. Monroe of Clayton, New Mexico, internationally famous speaker and his new friends are members of the Matador Lions Club and their ladies.

Monroe's address was the feature event of the Ladies Night program held in the Methodist church basement. Assembly was in the church auditorium. Piano music was by Lion Sweetheart Miss Rachel Patton and singing was led by secretary Randall Whitworth. Invocation was by Rev. Lion Clifford Potts.

A splendid fried-chicken dinner was served from the basement kitchen by VFW Auxiliary members. The downstairs program was opened by vice-president Forrest Campbell serving in the absence of Boss Lion Bert Ezzell. The speaker was introduced by Lion C. W. Giesecke.

"These meetings are adventures in friendship," Mr. Monroe declared, "and when I return home from speaking trips to gather with my family and study the maps of places where I have spoken, I see faces instead of the name of towns. Last Christmas I received more than 3,500 greeting cards from every state in the union and many foreign countries... it is inspiring to meet with groups like this because it means friends and we must not discount friendship. It is a precious commodity and the whole world is hungry for friends; more than it is for bread. We are reaching for the stars when some of the world's greatest treasures are at our feet; friendship."

Genial nature of the slightly-graying Clayton abstract man whose speaking talents are in wide demand, was frequently reflected in his humorous stories which laced his entire address. He frequently quoted poetry with his excellent prose. Without following any definite theme in his address, his thought-provoking words left substantial material for thought.

"The position of the world today is one of imminent tragedy," he declared "and it is reflected in the lives, the words and thoughts of the people I meet throughout the nation. We are living in a period of hysteria.

"We are living in an age of exciting history. Most of us have witnessed the perfection and use of great inventions which of course include planes, automobiles, radios, television, atomic energy and etc. Every person within the sound of my voice who is 43 years of age or older has witnessed one-fourth of the total history of the United States. We have seen many changes. We have seen the people leave the farms and move to the cities and we have witnessed both man and wife working while their children frequently roam the streets because family incomes are not sufficient to employ servants. The securities of our country today are greater than ever before....

"The world has four definite needs, which I will head with, thinking I find in the nation a universal absence of conviction in the things which have made this nation great. We are suffering from a malady of fear and unrest. Or perhaps we are suffering from mind erosion and the top soil of spirit needs greater faith in democracy.

"The world is in need of friendship and brotherhood. We live under a form of government which says 'believe it or not' while the communist is told, 'believe it or else'. The world is hungry for friends.

"Third we need honesty in our dealings with our fellowman and fourth we need a restoration of spiritual and moral ideals; we do not need new ideals but a restoration of old ideals. We have been seeking material gains at the expense of moral values... a travesty of the world today is that we are making history without being aware of it...."

Benediction was by Lion Rev. W. B. Vaughn.

FW&DC Says It is Losing On Test Runs

The Fort Worth & Denver City Railway Company reported Saturday it is losing money on experimental overnight passenger service between Fort Worth and Lubbock.
 During April, said General Passenger Agent Robert L. Hoyt total revenue from the special operation amounted to $7,378.92 against total expenses of $15,588.89.
 The railroad is operating the overnight trains on a 90-day trial that began March 5 as an alternative to discontinuance of two trains through the South Plains.
 FW&DC had sought to discontinue trains 101 and 102 which run daily, except Sunday, through Childress, Turkey, Quitaque, Lockney, South Plains, Sterley, Barwise, Petersburg, Dimmitt and Lubbock.
 Disturbed at the prospect of losing rail service, South Plains citizens prevailed upon the F. W. & D. C. to inaugurate the experimental overnight Pullman and coach-rate service to Lubbock with limousine service to other towns.
 During April, the first full month of operation, Hoyt said, wages cost $3,788.57, supplies cost $3,494.48, running repairs cost $3,643.27 and terminal, trackage, Pullman dining car and miscellaneous expenses cost $4,662.57 for the total of $15,588.89—about twice as much as the company received from passenger, mail, express and dining car receipts.
 "The revenue credited to this operation during April is all that accrued west of Childress to the South Plains Line as well as all main line revenue east of Childress that can be credited to this service," Hoyt said. "The operating costs represent only direct, out-of-pocket expenses that would not have been incurred if we had not operated the present Childress-Lubbock train."
 "During the month of April the westward train from Childress to Lubbock handled a total of 254 passengers, an average of $3.45 per day, compared with an average of 7-plus per day in March. The eastward train handled an average of 10-plus passengers per trip during April, compared with 9-plus per trip in March."
 Mrs. Willis Cooper left Monday for Lubbock, where she has enrolled at Texas Tech, for summer courses.

"Speed Kills—Take It Easy" Vacation Travelers Warned By Safety Council

The primary objective of any vacation motor trip is getting to your destination. Nothing will help you get there any better than the National Safety Council's slogan for vacation travelers:

"Speed kills—Take it easy." If you're planning a trip by car here are a few safety hints suggested by the Fort Worth Safety Council:

1. Start a little earlier in the morning and don't try to cover too great a distance in a day.
 2. Don't drive constantly and at the same speed, for that tends to make the driver drowsy at the wheel. Stop occasionally to stretch your legs.
 3. Use the same gear to go downhill as you did in going up. Remember you can shift gears to assist in your braking in mountainous regions.
 4. Read road signs carefully. They are your best safeguards on strange roads.
 5. Scenery can be taken in small doses from a moving car, but if you want to fill up on the view in deep gulps park your car on the side of the road.
 6. If children are left alone to ride in the back seat make certain the doors are locked.
- Surveys of auto clips show that most highway accidents are caused by drivers who did not have the right of way, and motorists who were speeding.
- Driving on the wrong side of the road, cutting in and failure to signal are other major accident factors.
- One of the best ways to kill yourself and your family, not to mention the occupants of other cars, is to pass on a hill or curve.
- If you drive at night be sure to dim your headlights when you see the approaching lights of another car. Watch out for pedes-trains, especially at night, and be on the alert for livestock roaming on the highways.

Notwithstanding the price of beef, hitting a cow can be as expensive—and deadly—as hitting a truck.

This is Your Paper Those 'Changed' News Items

By William R. Nelson

"WHENEVER I bring in a news item, why do you always change it all around?" That question is one of the most frequently asked in every home town newspaper office in the country. Sometimes it is asked in considerable exasperation.

The answer is, of course, that news stories are easier to read, better understood, take less space, when they are written to conform to a somewhat flexible pattern. That style, developed over the years, is fairly uniform in all newspapers because it was designed to evaluate the facts for their news value and tell them quickly and clearly.

A well written news story presents its outstanding information in the opening paragraph, or lead. What follows after that is amplification, additional details.

There are excellent reasons why news story style is best, among them: (1) The reader can quickly read the lead, and quit there if the story fails to interest him or her. (2) It permits cutting or reducing the length of a story, to get it into a particular place in the paper, by eliminating from the bottom. As these bottom paragraphs contain less important details, their removal will not seriously reduce the information the story is conveying.

The editor tries to pack his paper with as much news as he can get, written in clear, readable style, and arranged to give the paper a varied and attractive appearance. Yet he cannot prepare the entire content of an issue in an hour or a day.

Because writing, editing, setting type, putting the type in the page forms, and printing, addressing and delivering take time, they must start early enough to conclude at a specified time each issue. If news stories are not written so they can be made to fit the space assigned to them, much time will be lost and the paper will contain fewer stories and be less interesting.

The editor is a specialist whose stock-in-trade is an understanding of what interests people. He welcomes news and does his best to present it in accurate, readable, interesting form.

Next time you bring in a news item, and it is "changed all around", remember that it was rewritten into news style to help you make it of interest to the greatest possible number of readers of the paper.

Three New Varieties Of Grain Sorghum Developed In Texas

COLLEGE STATION, June 1—Three new grain sorghum varieties—each selected to meet a definite need—have been developed by plant breeders of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

Director D. D. Lewis announced that the three new types have been released to certified seed breeders for increase.

The Station will have additional seed at the end of this season for distribution through county agents for demonstration plantings in 1951, Lewis said.

Characteristics Given

The characteristics of the new varieties, as explained by R. E. Karper, agronomist in charge of grain sorghum investigations, and J. R. Quinby, superintendent of the Chillicothe station, are as follows:

Combine Kafir-60—Like Kafir the stalks are juicy and stand up well in the field. The heavy head is borne on a long stem and stands well above the stalk.

The variety is awnless and seed are white with black specks, testing 60 pounds to the bushel.

Blooms In 60 Days
It blooms in 60 days from June 1 planting at Lubbock or about a week earlier than Texas Black-hul Kafir or Plainsman.

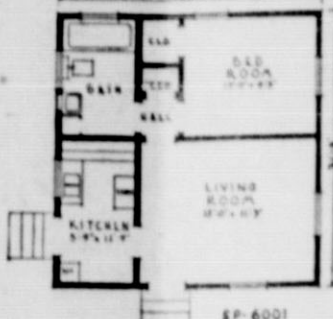

Combine Kafir-60 was developed by crossing a double dwarf Kafir selection with Texas Black-hul, followed by selection and backcrossing to the Kafir parent several times until a pure type of double dwarf adapted to com-

Low Cost "House of the Month"

The answer to maximum convenience and livability at rock-bottom cost. Every door and window in this small cottage is located to provide the greatest economy of space so that furniture can be easily arranged without crowding "traffic lanes" through the house. bine harvesting was obtained. Redbine-60 and Redbine-66—These new red-seeded varieties are similar except in their maturity. Redbine-60 blooms in 60 days, a little earlier than Martin; and Redbine-66 in 66 days, a few days earlier than Plainsman.

Have Long Stem

Both have dry head-stems and rachis, can be combined before frost if desired, and have a long stem so that there are fewer leaves and less stalk to load down the shaker when combining.

Both varieties have a brighter reddish-yellow seed color than Martin and have a longer stem, are taller and have better thrashability than Plainsman.

Redbine-60 has awns, tests 57 pounds to the bushel and is a little surer of production because of its earliness. Redbine-66 is awnless tests 60 pounds to the bushel and will yield higher under favorable conditions because of its longer growing season.

These two varieties were chosen after several years of test from numerous selections from the progeny of a cross between Martin and a sib of Caprock.

Seed Distributed

Four ounces of each of the new varieties were distributed to 35 Texas certified seed growers. Some of the growers have pooled their seed and planted it in Hidalgo county. This crop will be harvested in early June and the seed shipped to the Lubbock area for planting there for fall harvest.

One such pool of 70 ounces of each variety is expected to yield 20 bushels of certified seed from plants that are bagged to insure self-pollination.

This 20 bushels would seed 300 acres or more, if the crop averages only a little over 30 bushels an acre on the South Plains, the increase in one year would be a half million pounds, or enough to plant 100,000 acres in 1951.

Other certified seed growers will further increase the foundation seed of the new varieties in plantings on their own farms this year, Lewis said.

REDS RAISE ROOF OVER TOUCH OF TEXAS IN BERLIN

BERLIN, May 27—Chicago and Texas take an awful beating from the Communist propagandists here.

Chicagoans may have forgotten Al Capone and the prohibition gangster era. But the Russians here haven't. Nor are they going to let the Germans within their hearing forget.

And though Texans may not know it, they're still in the "Wild West." Let a GI get into a knife or shooting scrape here and he's identified—in the Russian-controlled press—as a Texan, though he may come from Jersey City or St. Joseph.

The Soviet Army's newspaper, Taegliche Rundschau, which sets the pace for a dozen Russian-controlled papers here, usually refers to the US sector of Berlin as the "gangster sector" or the "Chicago sector."

A favorite headline and editorial theme is: "Berlin Must Not Become Chicago."

This means, in Communist language, that the "terror" which prevails in Allied-occupied Berlin must never penetrate into the "democratic" sector of the city—which is the Russian sector.

And when the Communists are not assailing the "American gangsters from Chicago" they are lapping the "cowboys from Texas."

More "states in the United States have names which originated from Indian words than from any other language."

"Texas in West Berlin" is a standard headline for an account of a barroom brawl.

The Russians don't even like the idea of a German cigaret being named "Texas—the cigaret which tells you something."

Matter of fact, Texans also might consider it a libel if they smoked one.

On his return from Odessa Wednesday, Thurman Fulkerson was accompanied by Mrs. Nolan Fulkerson and children, Gerald and Nola Lee, who are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Tipton, and by a nephew, Hubert Fulkerson, who is visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Fulkerson.

Thomas A. Edison was dismissed from a job as a young man for sleeping while on duty.

Herbert Hoover is the only man of Swiss descent to be president of the United States.
