Dickens County Pioneer Succumbs

Burial services for Mrs. Ester Catherine Stokes, 77-year-old Alton resident who died in her home Tuesday, were held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock in Afton Baptist church. She had been a resident of Dickens county since 1911.

Mrs. Stokes had been a patient recently in Stanley Clinic here. She is survived by her husband, A. P. Stokes, retired Baptist minister, eight sons, James M. Littlefield, Henry C. Gatesville, Tipton A., Dallas, Wymon W., Bonham, Robert F., Weatherford, Walter C., Arthur L., and John A., all of Afton; two daughters, Mrs. Anna May Link of Houston and Mrs. Rachel V. Putman of Kaufman, 14 grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren.

Interment was made in Afton cemetery under direction of McDonald Funeral Home of Matador.

Careful Use Of Pre-Cooked Meals Urged By Dr. Cox

Old style, palate tickling, succulent smoked hams like you used to prepare for special Sunday dinners are giving way to the tenderized and ready-to-eat varieties.

Increased danger of spoilage comes with the change, State Health Officer Geo. W. Cox says.

Used to be you could salt down a ham, then home-smoke it slow and easy. When done, you could hang it on the back porch easily accessible for a quick slice.

Those days are fast waning, for city bound folks. Ask your butcher for a smoked ham nowadays, and you get two choices: "tenderized", or "ready-to-eat." They look the same, and have some of the old sweetness. But there the similarity ends, Dr. Cox says.

Since less preservative salt is used in the smoking process, today's ham products have to be placed under immediate refrigeration, the same as any other meat.

"Tenderized" hams are smoked at a temperature of approximately 129 degrees. Dr. Cox says that means they have to be cooked before eating in order to kill any trichina larvae that may be present.

"Trichina larvae, which cause trichinosis, are killed at a temperature of 137 degrees F," the health officer cautioned. "That's internal temperature."

He warned that "ready-to-eat" ham products are smoked at approximately 160 degrees, and cured with less salt than regular smoked hams. They'll spoil easily unless kept under refrigeration until eaten.

Here are the health officer's recommendations regarding these meat products.

1. They cannot be stored in temperatures above 50 degrees. Neither can prepared dishes or sandwiches made from the products.
2. Strict sanitation should be observed in handling them.
3. They should be handled in refrigerated equipment from packing plant to consumer.
4. Cook-before-eating must not be confused with ready-to-eat meat products. Always ask the retailer about the meat to make sure of the cooking procedure.

Out front with the finest yet priced with the lowest

These days you can't tell from the price tag how much quality a car holds. Ford, for example, is still priced with the lowest... yet in other respects it's in the fine car class. Take its styling, for example; for two years in a row Ford has been the recognized fashion leader.

Like America's finest cars Ford offers you a V-8 engine. No other low-priced car does. Nor does any other car at any price offer you a choice of V-8 or Six engines. And remember, Ford's V-8 costs hundreds less than most sixes—Ford's Six costs even less.

Freedom Bell To Ring On UN Day

—To proclaim a new era of freedom all over the world, the United States will ring a bell on United Nations Day, October 24.

At 11:01 A. M. Central Standard Time, the giant World Freedom Bell, symbol of the Crusade for a free world at peace, will be rung in the shadow of the City Hall in the presence of thousands with the Freedom Bell's first sound broadcast over international radio and will be carried on NBC, CBS and ABC national chains in the United States.

General Weathered urged every Texan who has access to a bell or whistle on October 24 to join in the freedom ceremony.

The purpose of the Crusade is to smother the communist lies that the United States wants to rule the world. Signatures received in the Crusade will become a permanent part of this freedom shrine, the General said.

wondering about

Advertising ?

HERE IS ONE
TO CONSIDER

advertising value

The true value of advertising lies not in the actual prosaic offering of merchandise for sale, but in subtler manner - the keeping before the public eye the name of your company and the name of products.

The average consumer of the articles you sell, when he has no immediate need of those articles, does not buy. But the constant association of yourself and those articles in persistent advertising will in time produce results.

CHEESE FONDUE IN TOMATO SHELLS

It's tomato time! Juicy, ripe red beauties decorate the vines and invite merrily to make up treats galore. Try Tomatoes Fondue—tomatoes stuffed with delectable enriched yeast bread crumbs, egg and cheese.

TOMATOES FONDUE

4 large firm tomatoes
Soft enriched yeast bread crumbs
1 egg
1/2 cup grated sharp cheese
Salt and pepper
1/4 cup dry bread crumbs
4 teaspoons margarine or butter

Cut a slice from the stem end of tomatoes. Remove seeds and part of the pulp with a teaspoon. Measure and put into mixing bowl. Turn scooped out tomatoes upside down and let drain. Add to tomato mixture an equal amount of soft bread crumbs. Separate egg, beat white until stiff, yolk until thick. Add egg yolk and cheese to tomato-bread crumb mixture. Mix together thoroughly. Salt and pepper to taste. Fold in beaten egg white. Fill tomatoes with mixture. Sprinkle with dry bread crumbs and top each tomato with a teaspoon of margarine or butter. Bake in a buttered shallow pan in a moderate oven, 350°-375° F., about 20 to 30 minutes.

To Make Soft Bread Crumbs:
Crumble slices of fresh bread with fingers, or place two slices together at a time and cube with a sharp knife. Crumbs may be left on or removed, as desired. But never throw crusts away, they're perfect for dry bread crumbs.

To Make Dry Bread Crumbs:
Grind dry bread through a food chopper, using a fine blade, or run toasted bread through a food mill, or crush with a rolling pin. Or use packaged dry bread crumbs.

Brotherton declared, "and from the church, the schools, teachers, picture shows, and many other things with which they are associated".

Rev. Brotherton stressed the importance of a pleasant home life, where love abounds; where ideals and standards are high. "Children are born imitators", Rev. Brotherton declared, "and we don't realize the value of this."

The home, churches, schools and the community must work together to set the standards of purity, modesty, honesty, nobility, refinement, virtue and uprightness, he pointed out.

Following the program, a short business session was conducted by Mrs. C. M. Barton, Jr., vice-president, in the absence of Mrs. Harold Campbell, president.

Plans were completed for sending the delegates to the state convention in Mineral Wells.

The association voted to have charge of the food concessions at the school carnival, October 31.

Mrs. Barton urged that everyone take advantage of the free TB x-ray tests scheduled for October 26, 27 and 28.

Approximately forty-five members, friends and patrons were present and games of dominoes, forty-two and canasta were played after the business meeting. Refreshments of coffee, hot cocoa and doughnuts were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Homer T. Jinkins, Mrs. Welton Bailey, Mrs. J. P. Neighbors and Mrs. Tom Edwards.

The eighth grade had the largest number of parents present.
